

Books.....	1
A Brief Life History of Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj.....	3
SRI SRIMAD BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI ASTAKAM.....	6
A Brief Life History of Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj....	8
BIRTH AND PARENTS.....	9
STUDY EDUCATION AND YOUTH.....	9
INTEREST IN AYURVEDA.....	10
DISAPPEARANCE OF HIS GURUDEV SRILA PRABHUPAD.....	10
DIKSHYA.....	11
1937–1942 IN CHARGE OF KOVVUR GAUDIYA MATH.....	11
1942–1948 MAHARAJ STAYED AT MAYAPUR.....	12
10TH ANNIVERSARY OF SRILA PRABHUPADA GREAT SUCCESS....	13
MAHARAJ KNOWN TO BE THE BHAGAVATACHARYA AT RAMANANDA GOUDIYA MATH AMONG MAYAPUR SANNYASIS.....	13
1948–1966 IN CHARGE OF GOUDIYA MATHS, KOVVUR, MADRAS...14	14
LEAVING GAUDIYA MATH AT KOVVUR.....	14
TOOK SANYASA IN 1966 FROM SRILA GIRI MAHARAJ.....	14
ESTABLISHED SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM IN KAKINADA IN 1966.....	15
FORMED THE PRESENT SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION.....	15
ADHERENCE TO THE PRINCIPLES.....	16
VAISHNAVA APARADHA IS NEVER TOLERATED.....	16
INTIMATE FRIENDSHIP WITH A.C. BHAKTI VEDANTA SWAMY.....	17
MAHARAJ LOVES KIRTAN AND LOUD CHANTING.....	18
KEEN INTEREST ON THE SONGS OF NAROTTAMA THAKUR.....	18
MERCY OF THE VAISHNAVAS IS ESSENTIAL.....	18
EYES WITH TEARS.....	18
MOST OF THE INTIMATE ASSOCIATES OF THE MAHARAJ LEFT THIS MATERIAL WORLD.....	19
EFFORTS IN ESTABLISHING A MATH IN BRINDAVAN.....	19
BRAJAVASIS DESERVE OUR SERVICE.....	20
ESTABLISHED BOOK TRUST AND PUBLISHING SEVERAL BOOKS..20	20
IMPORTANT BOOKS AT LOW COST.....	21
AFFECTIONATE TOWARDS DISCIPLES BOTH FOR GRUHASTAS AND THYAGIES.....	21
GOOD COMMAND ON DISCOURSES IN DIFFERENT LANGUAGES...21	21
VISITS ABROAD IN HIS PURSUIT OF PREACHING.....	22
TEAM SPIRIT IN TRAINING A GROUP OF DISCIPLES.....	22
PUBLISHED IN NUTSHELL.....	23
PRAY FOR LONG LOVE.....	23

Books

ALL GLORY TO MAHARAJ.....	23
SOME IMPORTANT PRECEPTS OF OUR SPIRITUAL MASTER SRILA BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI MAHARAJ THROUGH QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.....	24
PRECEPTOR'S PRECEPTS IN BRIEF.....	38
LIST OF TEMPLES AROUND INDIA.....	39
List of Publications.....	41
SIX GOSWAMINS.....	43
PREFACE.....	46
SANATANA GOSWAMI.....	48
APPEARANCE OF SANATANA.....	48
LOVE TOWARDS 'VIDYA' AND 'DHARMA' FROM CHILDHOOD....	49
HIS LOVE FOR SRIMAD BHAGAVATA.....	49
SANATANA'S LOVE FOR MUSIC AND DRAMA.....	50
SANATANA'S ATTACHMENT FOR DHARMA.....	50
DREAM ABOUT HIS LOVE FOR SRI CHAITANYA.....	50
HIS LETTER TO SRI CHAITANYA.....	51
SRI GAURANGA AT RAMAKELI.....	51
TWO BROTHERS MEETING SRI CHAITANYA.....	52
SANATANA IN JAIL.....	53
LIBERATION FROM PRISON.....	53
PILGRIMAGE TO VARANASI.....	54
MEETING SRIKANTA.....	54
AT VARANASI.....	55
SANATANA SIKSHA.....	57
SANATANA'S JOURNEY TO VRINDABAN.....	63
SANATANA WITH JAGADANANDA PANDIT.....	66
MADAN GOPAL GIVING MILK TO SANATANA.....	68
UNPRECEDENTED VISION NEAR GOVINDA KUNDA.....	69
SRI KRISHNA–NAM IS INVALUABLE WEALTH.....	69
THE GOVARDHANA PARIKRAMA.....	70
TO FOLLOW SANATANA GOSWAMI IS ATMA DHARMA.....	70
SRI RUPA GOSWAMI.....	72
RUPA SIKSHA.....	74
CRITERION OF PURE DEVOTION.....	75
SADHANA BHAKTI.....	76
RAGHUNATH DAS GOSWAMI.....	82
SRI JEEVA GOSWAMI.....	86
SRI RAGHUNATH BHATTA GOSWAMI.....	89
SRI GOPAL BHATTA GOSWAMI.....	92

Books

SRI CHAITANYA MAHAPRABHU.....	95
Expression of gratitude.....	98
Preface.....	99
Mahaprabhu's Teachings in a Nutshell.....	100
SRI CHAITANYA MAHAPRABHU.....	101
NITYANANDA PRABHU.....	114
ADVAITA ACHARYA.....	116
LORD'S GRAND REVELATION.....	117
GAURANGA AND MURARI GUPTA.....	119
LORD SRI JAGANNATH.....	175
P R E F A C E.....	178
LORD SRI JAGANNATH.....	179
SRI KSHETRA OR PURI.....	192
Nandighosh, Darpadalan and Taladhwaja (Three Chariots).....	194
DAILY BHOGA.....	195
Jagannath's Special Decorations.....	196
Lord Gouranga at Puri.....	197
NAM BHAJAN.....	204
PUBLISHER'S INTRODUCTION IN THE FIRST EDITION.....	207
FOREWORD.....	210
A survey on NAM–BHAJAN according to the different stages of Prem.....	212
Acceptance of the favourable and denial of the antagonistic to Prem–Bhakti.....	212
Exclusive Surrender to NAM; Krishna and Krishna–NAM identified.....	213
How to progress in Bhajan ?.....	213
Krishna and Jivas.....	213
Krishna–the sun; Jivas–the rays.....	214
Krishna purely spiritual.....	214
Eternal love between Krishna and Jiva.....	214
Absolute Truth beyond human Reasonings.....	215
The Lila Of Krishna.....	215
This world a perverted reflection of the spiritual Atmosphere.....	215
Vyasa and Narada.....	216
Bhakti the very nature of soul.....	217
The remembrance of Krishna.....	217
The Company of Sadhus.....	218
Two minds–spiritual and material.....	218
NAM is spiritual–the object of pursuit.....	218
NAM is beyond time and space.....	219
A devotee should be aware of the Form of Krishna–Nam.....	220

Books

The Processes of Nam–Bhajan.....	220
NAM–Incarnation of Krishna.....	220
The meaning of Nam.....	221
The Counting of NAM.....	222
Sadhak and Siddha.....	222
Lamenting prayer to NAM.....	223
The yoked and the free.....	223
Namabhasa.....	224
The five conditions of a Sadhak.....	225
SRI KRISHNA.....	229
PREFACE.....	232
1.THE ABSOLUTE TRUTH –SRI KRISHNA.....	233
2. THE REAL NATURE OF SREE KRISHNA.....	238
3. THE HIGHEST WORSHIP OF SREE KRISHNA.....	251
SREE KRISHNA CHAITANYA'S TEACHINGS IN A NUTSHELL.....	265
SRI DAMODARASTAKA.....	266
THE GLORY OF KRISHNA NAM.....	268
Eighteen Important Slokas from Srimad Bhagavadgeeta.....	270
FOUR PRIME SLOKAS FROM SRIMAD BHAGAVATAM.....	273
BRIEF HISTORY AND OBJECTS OF THE MISSION.....	274
LIST OF TEMPLES AROUND INDIA.....	276
List of Publications.....	278
RAI RAMANANDA.....	280
PREFACE.....	283
THE LORD AND HIS BELOVED (Viewed by Empiricists).....	287
THE LORD AND HIS BELOVED (Viewed by Devotees).....	298
THEIR CONVERSAZIONE (For the Beginners).....	301
THEIR CONVERSAZIONE (For the Advanced).....	305
CONCLUSION.....	309
VAISHNAVISM Real and Apparent.....	312
PUBLISHER'S FOREWORD IN THE FIRST EDITION.....	315
INTRODUCTION.....	316
INVOCATION.....	317
REAL VAISNAVISM.....	318
Real and apparent jiva.....	319
The bondage of jiva.....	320
Daya or kindness to jiva.....	321
Brahmacharya of the mind and of the soul.....	322
The characteristic defects of the mind.....	323
Two minds – material and spiritual.....	326

Books

The supplications of the spiritual mind.....	329
The advent of Shree Chaitanya Deva.....	331
Chaitanya Deva as a Gardener.....	333
Application of real kindness to jivas.....	334

Lectures of Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Maharaja.....338

Tivoli, Slovenia, 24.6.1999.....	339
Tivoli, Slovenia 24.6.1999.....	352
Ljubljana, Slovenia 26.6.1999.....	365
Novo Mesto, Slovenia 26.6.1999.....	378
Rijeka, Croatia 30.6.1999.....	382
Pula, Croatia 1.7.1999.....	390
Pula, Croatia 2.7.1999.....	398
Ljubljana, Slovenia 7.6.2000. morning.....	400
Nava Vrindavan, Slovenia 10.6.2000. morning.....	414
Darshan with Gopal Prema after class, Janche, 18.8.2001.....	425
Zagreb, Croatia 18.5.2003. evening.....	430
Vrindavan, India, 19 November 2001 – Krisna Balaram Mandir.....	436
Dedication to Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupada.....	441

Song of God.....445

SRIMAD BHAGAVAD–GITA.....	445
CONTENTS.....	447
Invocation.....	448
PREFACE.....	450
CHAPTER ONE.....	452
Arjuna–Visada–Yoga.....	452
Arjuna's grief.....	452
CHAPTER TWO.....	464
Sankhya–Yoga.....	464
Distinction between soul and body.....	464
Chapter THREE.....	482
Karma–Yoga.....	482
The Principle of action.....	482
CHAPTER FOUR.....	494
Jnana–Yoga.....	494
The path of divine knowledge.....	494
CHAPTER FIVE.....	505
Karma–Sannyasa–Yoga.....	505
Desireless action dedicated to the Supreme Lord.....	505

Song of God

CHAPTER SIX.....	513
Dhyana–Yoga.....	513
The principle of meditation.....	513
CHAPTER SEVEN.....	525
Jnana–Vijnana–Yoga.....	525
The transcendental knowledge of the Absolute.....	525
CHAPTER EIGHT.....	533
Taraka–Brahma–Yoga.....	533
Attaining the Supreme Lord.....	533
CHAPTER NINE.....	541
Raja–guhya–Yoga.....	541
The supreme secret knowledge.....	541
CHAPTER TEN.....	550
Vibhuti–Yoga.....	550
The opulence of the Supreme Lord.....	550
CHAPTER ELEVEN.....	561
Visva–rupa–darsana–Yoga.....	561
The universal form of the Supreme Lord.....	561
CHAPTER TWELVE.....	576
Bhakti–Yoga.....	576
The principle of devotion.....	576
CHAPTER THIRTEEN.....	582
Prakṛti–Puruṣa–Viveka–Yoga.....	582
Nature, the Enjoyer and the Spirit.....	582
CHAPTER FOURTEEN.....	591
Guṇatraya–vibhaga–Yoga.....	591
Triple qualities of material nature.....	591
CHAPTER FIFTEEN.....	599
Puruṣottama–Yoga.....	599
The Yoga of the Supreme Person.....	599
CHAPTER SIXTEEN.....	605
Daivasura–sāmpad–vibhaga–Yoga.....	605
Godly and demoniac qualities.....	605
CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.....	612
Śraddhātraya–vibhaga–Yoga.....	612
Division of threefold faiths.....	612
CHAPTER EIGHTEEN.....	620
Mokṣa–Yoga.....	620
The principle of salvation.....	620
THE GLORY OF THE GITA.....	640

Song of God

Bhagavad-gita As It Is.....	643
Foreword.....	644
Preface.....	647
Introduction.....	650
Chapter 1.....	682
Observing the Armies on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra.....	682
Chapter 2.....	732
Contents of the Gita Summarized.....	732
Chapter 3.....	843
Karma-yoga.....	843
Chapter 4.....	906
Transcendental Knowledge.....	906
Chapter 5.....	973
Karma-yoga—Action in Krsna Consciousness.....	973
Chapter 6.....	1016
Sankhya-yoga.....	1016
Chapter 7.....	1085
Knowledge of the Absolute.....	1085
Chapter 8.....	1140
Attaining the Supreme.....	1140
Chapter 9.....	1178
The Most Confidential Knowledge.....	1178
Chapter 10.....	1235
The Opulence of the Absolute.....	1235
Chapter 11.....	1295
The Universal Form.....	1295
Chapter 12.....	1362
Devotional Service.....	1362
Chapter 13.....	1390
Nature, the Enjoyer, and Consciousness.....	1390
Chapter 14.....	1439
The Three Modes Of Material Nature.....	1439
Chapter 15.....	1474
The Yoga of the Supreme Person.....	1474
Chapter 16.....	1506
The Divine And Demoniatic Natures.....	1506
Chapter 17.....	1538
The Divisions of Faith.....	1538
Chapter 18.....	1571
Conclusion—The Perfection of Renunciation.....	1571

Song of God

SRIMAD BHAGAVAD–GITA The Hidden Treasure of the Sweet

Absolute.....	1665
Invocation.....	1666
Preface.....	1669
Introduction.....	1670
Chapter One.....	1673
Chapter Two.....	1677
Chapter Three.....	1684
Chapter Four.....	1690
Chapter Five.....	1696
Chapter Six.....	1700
Chapter Seven.....	1706
Chapter Eight.....	1711
Chapter Nine.....	1715
Chapter Ten.....	1720
Chapter Eleven.....	1733
Chapter Twelve.....	1739
Chapter Thirteen.....	1743
Chapter Fourteen.....	1747
Chapter Fifteen.....	1750
Chapter Sixteen.....	1754
Chapter Seventeen.....	1757
Chapter Eighteen.....	1760
Quotes.....	1767

SRI CAITANYA BHAGAVATA.....1771

Adi Lila.....	1774
Chapter 1.....	1774
Chapter 2.....	1784
Chapter 3.....	1800
Chapter 4.....	1804
Chapter 5.....	1814
Chapter 6.....	1826
Chapter 7.....	1835
Chapter 8.....	1850
Chapter 9.....	1864
Chapter 10.....	1866
Chapter 11.....	1869
Chapter 12.....	1872
Chapter 13.....	1886

SRI CAITANYA BHAGAVATA

Chapter 14.....	1895
Chapter 15.....	1904
Chapter 16.....	1913
Chapter 17.....	1928
Madhya Lila.....	1936
Chapter 1.....	1936
Chapter 2.....	1955
Chapter 3.....	1971
Chapter 4.....	1980
Chapter 5.....	1985
Chapter 6.....	1994
Chapter 7.....	2003
Chapter 8.....	2011
Chapter 9.....	2026
Chapter 10.....	2037
Chapter 11.....	2054
Chapter 12.....	2059
Chapter 13.....	2063
Chapter 14.....	2082
Chapter 15.....	2086
Chapter 16.....	2092
Chapter 17.....	2100
Chapter 18.....	2106
Chapter 19.....	2116
Chapter 20.....	2129
Chapter 21.....	2137
Chapter 22.....	2142
Chapter 23.....	2149
Antya Lila.....	2171
Chapter 1.....	2171
Chapter 2.....	2182
Chapter 3.....	2201
Chapter 4.....	2222
Chapter 5.....	2242
Chapter 6.....	2271

Sri Namamrta: The Nectar of The Holy Name.....2280

Preface.....	2281
Introduction.....	2285
The Holy Name: The Universal and Supreme Religion for this Age.....	2298

Sri Namamrta: The Nectar of The Holy Name

1.....	2298
2.....	2306
3.....	2308
4.....	2311
5.....	2313
6.....	2325
7.....	2335
8.....	2338
9.....	2351
10.....	2352
11.....	2354
12.....	2357
13.....	2358
13.....	2361
14.....	2363
15.....	2369
16.....	2370
17.....	2374
18.....	2379
19.....	2382
20.....	2385
21.....	2399
22.....	2407
The Transcendental Attributes of the Holy Name.....	2412
1.....	2412
2.....	2414
3.....	2415
4.....	2416
5.....	2417
6.....	2419
7.....	2419
8.....	2425
9.....	2427
10.....	2428
11.....	2432
12.....	2434
13.....	2437
14.....	2444
15.....	2448
16.....	2450

Sri Namamrta: The Nectar of The Holy Name

17.....	2452
The Transcendental Effects of the Holy Name.....	2454
1.....	2454
2.....	2457
3.....	2461
4.....	2476
5.....	2479
6.....	2480
7.....	2480
8.....	2485
9.....	2496
10.....	2496
11.....	2513
12.....	2523
13.....	2524
14.....	2525
15.....	2528
16.....	2538
17.....	2538
18.....	2539
19.....	2542
20.....	2552
21.....	2558
22.....	2568
23.....	2572
24.....	2579
25.....	2589
26.....	2591
27.....	2592
28.....	2596
The Practice of the Holy Name.....	2600
1.....	2600
2.....	2601
3.....	2618
4.....	2628
5.....	2634
6.....	2636
7.....	2637
8.....	2640
9.....	2648

Sri Namamrta: The Nectar of The Holy Name

10.....	2654
11.....	2656
12.....	2656
13.....	2659
14.....	2659
15.....	2660
16.....	2664
17.....	2665
18.....	2666
19.....	2666
20.....	2667
21.....	2668
22.....	2672
23.....	2676
24.....	2678
25.....	2681
26.....	2685
The Propagation of the Holy Name.....	2689
1.....	2689
2.....	2696
3.....	2705
4.....	2709
Important Instructions.....	2710
1.....	2710
2.....	2716
3.....	2724
4.....	2726
5.....	2728
6.....	2730
7.....	2732
8.....	2733
9.....	2734
10.....	2734
11.....	2735
12.....	2737
13.....	2738
14.....	2739
15.....	2741
16.....	2742
Songs by Vaisnava Saints.....	2751

Sri Namamrta: The Nectar of The Holy Name

Sri Nama (from Gitavali).....	2751
Arunodaya–kirtana Kirtana songs to be sung at dawn (from Gitavali).....	2752
Arunodaya–kirtana part two.....	2754
Radha–Krsna Bol (from Gitavali).....	2755
Kabe Ha'be Bolo (from Saranagati).....	2757
Sri Sri Gaura–Nityananda The Mercy of Sri Gaura and Nityananda (from Dhamali).....	2759
PURPORT by His Divine Grace A. C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupada.....	2760
Ista–deve Vijnapti Prayer to One's Beloved Lord (from Prarthana).....	2761
Important Verses.....	2763
* I.....	2763
II.....	2768
III.....	2779
IV.....	2781
V.....	2782
His Divine Grace A. C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupada.....	2785

Sri Brhad Bhagatamrtam.....2790

Part One.....	2791
Chapter One: Bhauma Nama (The Earth).....	2791
Chapter Two: Divya (The Higher Material Planets).....	2799
Chapter Three: Prapancatita Nama (Beyond the Material World).....	2809
Chapter Four: Bhakta Nama (The Devotees).....	2817
Chapter Five: Priya Nama (The Devotees).....	2830
Chapter Six Priyatama Nama (The Most Dear Devotees).....	2843
Part Two.....	2854
Chapter One: Vairagya (Renunciation).....	2854
Chapter Two Jnana (knowledge).....	2882
Chapter Three Bhajana Nama (Worship).....	2916
Chapter Four: Vaikuntha Nama (The Divine Abode).....	2941
Chapter Seven Jagad–ananda (The Bliss of the Worlds).....	3010

Vaisnava Etiquette.....3038

Introductory Class Lecture.....	3038
Basic Principles–.....	3046
Becoming a Vaisnava Devotee of Krsna.....	3050
Basic Principles of Vaisnava Behavior.....	3053
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3054
A Vaisnava is Better Than a Brahmana.....	3054

Vaisnava Etiquette

Not Associating with Materialistic Persons.....	3055
The Feet.....	3055
Slamming Doors.....	3055
Stealing.....	3055
More on the Behavior of a Vaisnava.....	3057
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3057
SP Letter to Rupanuga (5/9/72) "Boil the Milk".....	3058
To Patita Uddharan (12/12/74) "A devotee is always ideal in behavior.".....	3058
SP Letter to Gargamuni (2/5/69) "Vaisnava Symptom is Humility".....	3059
SP Letter to Dindayal (2/2/70).....	3059
SP Letter to (8/18/70) Upendra.....	3059
SP Letter to Janardan (1/21/68).....	3059
SP Letter to Advaita (5/28/70).....	3060
Letter to Bali Mardan (2/22/70).....	3061
SP Letter to Satsvarupa (8/19/69).....	3061
(SP Lil.V, p.65–6).....	3061
Vaisnava Behavior is Inspiring for Everyone.....	3062
SP Letter to Janardan (1/21/68).....	3062
SP Letter to Shivananda (9/14/68).....	3062
SP Letter to Batu Gopal (2/1/75).....	3062
SP Letter to Madhavi Lata (10/28/68).....	3062
Letter to Sridama (7/8/70).....	3063
Etiquette within Relationships.....	3064
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3065
Use of Titles.....	3065
Dealing with Godbrothers.....	3065
SP Letter to Himavati VE (6/14/68) [68–6–18].....	3066
SP Letter to Shivananda (1/23/69).....	3066
SP Letter to Kirtanananda (11/23/74).....	3066
SP letter to Janardan (1/21/68).....	3067
SP Letter to Janaki (1/18/69).....	3067
SP Letter to Gargamuni (9/8/69).....	3067
SP Letter to Brahmananda (11/15/69).....	3067
SP Letter to Upendra (8/4/70).....	3068
Dealings Amongst Grhasthas.....	3068
SP Letter to Vrndavan Chandra (6/24/70).....	3068
Dealing with One's Guru.....	3069
Letter to Madhudvisa (2/14/70):.....	3069
(SP Lil.V, p.43).....	3069

Vaisnava Etiquette

(SP Lil.V, p.196).....	3069
(Cc Antya 8.21 purp.).....	3069
SP Letter to Acyutananda (8/21/68).....	3070
SP Letter to Mukunda VE (3/26/68).....	3070
Seniors, Juniors, and Equals.....	3070
Surpassing a Superior Personality.....	3071
SP Letter to Sudama (7/29/72) Respect for sannyasi.....	3072
SP Letter to Rayarama (1/30/67).....	3072
SP Letter to Janardan (1/21/68).....	3073
SP Letter to Arundhati (6/16/69).....	3073
SP Letter to Yamuna devi and Harsharani (1/15/68).....	3073
(Letter to Brahmananda 2/20/68).....	3073
Treating Women as Mothers.....	3074
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3075
SP letter to Gargamuni (75/9/?):.....	3075
Letter to Rayarama (10/4/67) "Protect the women (Don't Exploit Them.)".....	3075
SP Letter to Gargamuni (10/18/69).....	3076
SP letter to Ekayani (12/3/72):.....	3076
Vaisnava Aparadhas.....	3077
The Greatness of A Vaisnava Quotes from Hari Bhakti Vilas.....	3077
Blasphemy of a Vaisnava.....	3078
SP letter to Gopal Krishna (4/21/70).....	3078
Quotes from Hari Bhakti Vilas.....	3078
Four Kinds of Blasphemy to a Vaisnava.....	3079
What to Do If One Commits Vaisnava Aparadha.....	3079
Offering Praise to a Vaisnava.....	3079
Dressing Like a Vaisnava.....	3081
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3081
(SP Lilamrta, vol 2, pg 7).....	3082
(SP Nectar 3, 6th Story):.....	3082
(SP Lil.V pg. 93).....	3083
Correcting Others.....	3084
(SP letter to Hansadutta 12/10/72).....	3084
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3085
SP Letter to Patita Uddharan (12/12/74).....	3085
SP Letter to Brahmananda (11/15/69).....	3086
Letter to Tamal Krsna (8/23/73) [73-8-26].....	3086
(Devotee misbehavior) Letter to Upendra (8/18/70).....	3086
SP Letter to Bhavananda (10/28/70).....	3087

Vaisnava Etiquette

SP Letter to Upendra (3/11/69).....	3087
SP Letter to Hansadutta (9/29/74) "Mend it; Don't Break it".....	3087
SP Letter to Nara–Narayana (2/7/69) "Let The Authority Handle It".....	3087
SP Letter to Madhumangala (11/18/72).....	3088
SP Letter to Vrndavanesvari (7/28/69).....	3088
SP letter to Goursundar (8/26/72): THE DEFECT LIES WITHIN YOU.....	3089
Etiquette in Management.....	3090
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3091
(CC Adi–lila 6.103).....	3091
SP Letter to Hansadutta (7/11/70).....	3091
SP Letter to Amogha (5/9/72).....	3092
SP Letter to Janaki (1/18/69).....	3092
(SP Lil.V, p.9).....	3092
SP Letter to Upendra (8/6/70).....	3092
SP Letter to Kirtanananda (11/12/74).....	3093
SP Letter to Gajendra (1/27/70).....	3093
Spiritual Management (SP Lil.V, p.91).....	3093
SP Letter to Krsnavesa dd (1/16/75).....	3093
SP Letter to Krsna das VE (3/5/69).....	3094
(3/2/70) Yamuna.....	3094
Temple Room Etiquette.....	3095
Other Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3095
Letter to Nandarani and Krsna devi (10/4/67).....	3095
(7/26/70) Yamuna.....	3095
SP Letter to Kirtanananda (11/23/74).....	3096
Letter to Mahapurusa (3/28/68).....	3096
(Cc. Antya 4.128 purp.).....	3096
Seeing the Deity in a pleasing mood.....	3096
Letter (5/27/70) to Tamal Krsna.....	3096
(SP Lil.V, p.47,48.).....	3097
Serving Guests and Life Members.....	3098
General.....	3098
(Adi Lila 2.9.50, p.).....	3099
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3099
– SP Nectar 3, 1 Story of Surabhi Swami and Jayapataka Swami.....	3099
Serving and Honoring Prasad.....	3102
(SP letter to Dayananda 68/10/37).....	3102
How to Serve Prasadam.....	3103
(SP letter to Kirtiraja).....	3103

Vaisnava Etiquette

Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3104
Story of Prabhupada's Visit.....	3105
Kirtana Etiquette.....	3106
(SP Letter to Kirtanananda 11/10/74?).....	3106
Etiquette in Public.....	3108
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3109
SP Letter to Sri Govinda (6/12/74).....	3109
(SP Lil.V, p.22–23).....	3109
(3/11/70) Acyutananda.....	3110
(SP Lil.V, pg 58).....	3110
(SP Lil.V, p.16).....	3111
(SP Lil.V, p.17).....	3111
Etiquette in Holy Places.....	3112
(SP Lil.V, p. 193).....	3112
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3113
SP Letter to Jadunandan (3/26/68).....	3113
(SP Lil.V, p.29–30).....	3113
Not Disturbing The Dogs (SP Lil.V, p.25).....	3114
(SP Lil.V, p.42).....	3114
Indian Brahmanas, Mayavadis, and other Sampradayas.....	3115
Indian Brahmanas and Mayavadis.....	3115
Other Sampradayas.....	3116
Quotes from Srila Prabhupada.....	3116
(SP Lil.V, p. 62).....	3117
SP Letter to Alfred Ford (7/16/74).....	3117
Give everyone proper respect (4/30/70) Jayapataka.....	3117
SP Nectar.....	3117
Dealing with Mayavadis.....	3118
(Bhurijan w/SP in Japan, SP Lil.V, p.92).....	3118

Other.....3121

Sri Caitanya Mahaprabhu predicted.....	3121
Sruti: (alphabetic order).....	3121
Atharva Veda, third khanda, Brahma–vibhaga.....	3121
Caitanya Upanisad of Atharva Veda (the whole text of 19 verses).....	3122
Chandogya Upanisad 8.1.1 of Sama Veda.....	3122
Chandogya Upanisad 8.1.2.....	3122
Krsna Upanisad 2.6.....	3123
Mundaka Upanisad 3.1.3 of Atharva Veda.....	3123
Purusa–bodhini Upanisad of Atharva Veda.....	3124

Other

Svetasvatara Upanisad 3.12 of Yajur Veda.....	3124
Smṛti:.....	3126
Srimad–Bhagavatam 7.9.38.....	3126
Srimad–Bhagavatam 10.8.13.....	3126
Srimad–Bhagavatam 11.5.32.....	3127
Srimad–Bhagavatam 11.5.33.....	3127
Srimad–Bhagavatam 11.5.34.....	3128
Agni Purana.....	3129
Bhaviṣya Purana.....	3129
Brahma Purana.....	3129
Devi Purana.....	3130
Garuda Purana.....	3130
Kurma Purana.....	3132
Mahabharata, Dana–dharma–parva ch. 189.....	3133
Markandeya Purana.....	3133
Matsya Purana.....	3134
Narada–pañcaratra, Bala–Kṛṣṇa– sahasra–nama–stotra.....	3134
Narada Purana.....	3134
Nṛsiṃha Purana.....	3135
Padma Purana.....	3136
Skanda Purana.....	3137
Vamana Purana.....	3137
Varaha Purana.....	3138
Vayu Purana.....	3138
an Upapurana.....	3140
Ananta–saṃhita:.....	3141
Brahma–yamala tantra.....	3146
Jaimini–bharata.....	3147
Kapila tantra.....	3147
Kṛṣṇa–yamala tantra.....	3148
Urdhvamnaya tantra.....	3150
Viṣṇu–yamala tantra.....	3151
Yoga–vaśiṣṭha.....	3151
Gaura–lila.....	3154
The Pancha Tattva.....	3154
The Eight Goswamis.....	3156
The Eight Kavirajas.....	3156
The Dvādasha (Twelve) Gopas (Cowherd Boys) of Lord Nityānanda.....	3157
The Eight Principal Gopies of Their Lordships Śrī Śrī Rādhā and Kṛṣṇa in the pastimes of Lord Gaurāṅga.....	3157

Other

THE TABLE OF THE ASSOCIATES.....	3158
Nityananda–Gauranga Lila Corresponding Names of the Same
Associates in Radha–Krishna Lila.....	3158
GOPAS (COWHERD BOYS).....	3161
GOPIS (COWHERD GIRLFRIENDS).....	3163
Sriman Mahaprabhur Sata–Nama.....	3172
Song 1.....	3172
Part 1.....	3172
Part 2.....	3173
Part 3.....	3174
Part 4.....	3175
Part 5.....	3175
Part 6.....	3176
Part 7.....	3177
Part 8.....	3178
Song 2.....	3179
Song 3.....	3179
Song 4.....	3180
WORSHIPABLE ITEMS FROM LORD GAURANGA'S TIME STILL PRESENT NOW.....	3182
(A) – PERSONAL ITEMS –.....	3184
(B) – ORIGINAL HANDWRITING.....	3186
(C) – SACRED FOOTPRINTS –.....	3188
(D) – EARLY DEITIES –.....	3190
Deities Established By The Gosvamis.....	3192
Deities Established In Vraja By Vajra–nabha, Sri Krsna's Grandson.....	3194
Other Famous Early Deities.....	3195
(E) – EARLY PAINTINGS –.....	3197

Vrindavana—Radha kunda

Obeisances to the dearest to Lord Krishna

A Brief Life History of Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj

Published by:
BHAKTI VIGYAN NITYANANDA BOOK TRUST
SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION (Regd.)
SRI BHAKTI VINODA ASHRAM
BERHAMPUR-6(GM)
INDIA

First Edition–1998

WWW Edition–2002

To be had at:–

1. SRI CHAITANYA CHANDRA ASHRAM,
ITOTA, PURI–752001
Near Gundicha Mandir, Phone–24455
2. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
SRI RADHA VRINDABAN CHANDRA MANDIR
208, Sevakunja, P.O.–Vrindavan,
Dt.–Mathura, pin–281121, Phone–443603
3. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sri Goura Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, P.O.–Mayapur, Dt.–Nadia(W.B.)
Pin–741313, Phone–45313
4. SRI BHAKTI VINODE ASHRAM
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (G.M.)
Pin–760006, Phone–208400
5. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM
Aryapuram, Rajahmundry
Dt.–E.Godavari (A.P.), Pin–533104, Ph–79444

CONTENTS

Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Astakam
A Brief Life History of Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj
Questions and Answers
Preceptor's Precepts in Brief
List of Temples Around India
List of Publications

SRI SRIMAD BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI ASTAKAM

sada puja Gurudeva dayanidhe
gatidayak parag Vedamate
bhati tvadiyamananta dharmadhanam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(1)

bhakta sarbottama he Bhakti Vaibhava puri goswami nama dharin he deva rupanugariteh karosi bhajanam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(2)

abatirnah subarna–sujoge bhubi nityam jiba hite rata krsnapremi bhabasagar tarana kirti jutam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(3)

jibamoksakarye prabho cabatirna harinamno bitaraneapyagraganya prabalambya tu hrdaye gauramatam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(4)

sarbabidya–bisarada bhaktasrestha sarbasamsaya mocane asi balisthah sada bhabayasi hrda radhadhabam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(5)
dhyeyam siddha saraswati subhrapadam krsnebhakti vrindabane cahoratrām tatha rai ramanandasya pujakarjyam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(6)

biswe chaitanya cetana kathakarin hrdi jagannath bibhumaladharin mukhe piyuse sadrsam subacanam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(7)

karomi manasa Sripada pujanam
sugrahyam bhabatu mama nibedanam adhamaya mahyam dehi dibyagyanam
pranamami Guroh taba padapadam(8)

Sri Bhakti Vaibhavapadyam Purigoswaminh Stabam
Trikalam jah pathennityam sah jati paramam gatim(9)
iti Sri Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswamyastakam Sampurnam

All glory to the Divine Master and Lord Gauranga

Nama Om Vishnupadaya Krishnapresthaya Bhutale
Srimate Puri Goswami Bhakti Vaibhava Namine
Gaurabani Pracharaya Dridha Sankalpa Murtaye
Krishna Shakti Swarupaya Sri Bhakti Pradaine Namah

Great souls say– It is heard from sastras that the living entities are liberated from this material world simply by singing the glories and past times of Vaishnavas.

A Brief Life History of Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj

We discuss about the Life History of ideal persons who dedicated themselves to the cause of self realisation and for the benefit of mankind at large. So many Karmees, Jnanis and Yogis had given many pieces of advice through their conduct while preaching according to the interest of the people . They are not beneficial for the liberation of one's soul even though one gets benefit of one's body and mind by following their precepts through daily discussions . We may be benefited for the upliftment of our souls if we develop a taste for discussing the conduct and teachings of the Sadhus and great devotees of the Lord through their Life Histories. There is no other way than this for the benefit of one's soul. It is easy to get facilities for the enjoyment of one's body and mind in every state and in every birth. But the benefit of realisation one's self could be attained only in this human life. So great personalities coming to this world give us precepts through their personal conduct and rigorous practice. Teaching for our benefit and their Teachings are flourished through our self– conduct and adherence to the principles laid. So if we follow their precepts through our lives then certainly it will be beneficial for our souls. So the well–wishers of their self–souls progress in their devotional path by studying and understanding the Life Histories of Spiritual Masters and Vaishnavas .

The Lord Vishnu appears in this world on His own accord, when there is flourishing of irreligions and disgrace to the religion, in order to establish Bhagavata Dharma and to protect his devotees. Spiritual masters of the Vaishnava cult, either with the for permission of the Lord or on their own accord, appear in this world which is the abode of the Lord to re–establish religion by eradicating the disgracement to the Religion and to make the Truth Seekers drink the nectar of the loving devotional service of the Lord. When the atheists being offensive have lost their mental power and try to destroy the real truth as preached by the Lord Himself, the Lord makes His devotees appear in this world as His representatives to re–establish His doctrine.

It may be right in the beginning to worship the Lord alone as a neophyte devotee does so in a natural way leaving the worship of the great devotees of the Lord and Sadhus. But the Lord's devotees and the spiritual masters come to this world in order to bestow the living entities the joy of service to the Lord.

In this way the devotees come to this world from time to time in order to preach the Lord's doctrine and redeem the fallen souls from the dark well of material existence . Among those devotees, Sri Srimad B.V. Puri Goswami, the Founder President and Acharya of Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission, is one of the great disciples of the world spiritual master 108 Sri Srimad Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupad. He always engages himself in the services of Sri Varsabhanavi devi as if he is Her maid-servant.

'Shakti shakti matoyavedah'. The Lord's potency is the source of all the energies and the Omnipotent Lord is a non-different . It is said in the scriptures that energy is non-different from the Omnipotent Lord. The Lord is the source of potency in reality and the spiritual master being sent by the Lord is like the potency of the Lord. The Omnipotent Lord under the influence of His Para Shakti manifests his Wonderful lilas in this World. The Omnipotent Lord manifests His wonderful lilas through Sri VyasaDeva and other spiritual masters in line of disciplic succession. A spiritual master is well versed with all the scriptures. He churns all the scriptures to find the butter as the Lord's devotion and he declares to the living entities ascertaining their duties as the devotional service of the Lord with reverence.

It is offensive to consider a spiritual master or a sadhu to belong to a particular caste by his birth, as it is offensive to consider the Lord to be a Boar seeing His Boar form or to consider Hanuman who is in a monkey form to belong to a Monkey family.

BIRTH AND PARENTS

The Spiritual master Srimad B. V. Puri Goswami Maharaj appeared on this material plane on 5th day of the waning period of the Moon of Magha in 1913, in the house of his grand-father, in the village Fulta, which is just 5 kms away from Berhampur in Ganjam District of Orissa State in India, Bharata Varsha, the most sacred place in the world. His mother's name is Srimati Devi and his father's name is Sri Damodar. They had four sons and Srila B.V. Puri Maharaj is the second son having no sisters. The parents named our Maharaj on an auspicious day as Nrusingha. His father came with his family from the village Tulasi near Ichhapur to the village Kutharsingi in Ganjam District.

STUDY EDUCATION AND YOUTH

Srila Maharaj received his primary education from a teacher at Kutharsingi. After that he received his higher education in a high school at Surangi near Ichhapur which is few kilometres away from his village. At the encouragement of his elder brother he joined in Khallikote College, Berhampur for higher education and received his B.A. degree. Srila Maharaj was beneficial, noble, truthful and unenvious from his student career, so

Mahatma Gandhi's principle of truth and non– violence as well as the 1930's Civil Disobedience Movement had great impact on him. He became the president of the district freedom fighters association and he was a great freedom fighter himself

INTEREST IN AYURVEDA

Gradually he developed interest in Ayurveda and decided to learn it. He successfully completed his study about Ayurveda from the renowned Kaviraja Sripad Madhusudan Sharma who took initiation with his wife from Srila Prabhupada and after finishing Ayurvedic learning Srila Maharaj daily discussed Srimad Bhagavata and Goswamis' scriptures after the class and was encouraged by the teacher. In the meanwhile he also used to discuss with Sharma about the magazine 'The Gaudiya' and The news paper ' Daily Nadia prakash '. In this way some days passed and at the encouragement of Sripad Sharma he received his initiation from the world spiritual master Srila Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupada, on 3rd August, 1936, the advent day of Balarama in presence of Sripada Madhusudan Dasadhikari at Sridham Mayapur. After returning from that place by the encouragement of Sripada Sharma he opened an Ayurvedic charitable hospital at Bhanjanagar. After earning a good experience in the line of Ayurvedic treatment he came to be known as Sri Nrusingha Kaviraj. He was well versed with the scriptures of the Vaishnavas as well as Ayurvedic literature. Exactly at that time the staunch followers of Srila Prabhupada who were sannyasis or Brahmacharies came to Ganjam District for preaching the doctrine of Mahaprabhu and stayed at Bhanjanagar. The disciples of Srila Prabhupada advised Srila Maharaj to live with them in a math, seeing his wonderful zeal in preaching the Lord's doctrine and his self interest in reading scriptures.

DISAPPEARANCE OF HIS GURUDEV SRILA PRABHUPAD

After some days a telegram was received by Sripad Madhusudan prabhu and it stated the disappearance of Srila Prabhupad on 1st January 1937. Srila Maharaj attended with Sripad Sharma in that commemoration ceremony. In this way he practised his doctorship and left his house for Mayapur on 25th June, 1937.

DIKSHYA

He received Dikshya from Srila Ananta Vasudeva Para Vidyabhusan Prabhu as per the advice of the seniormost Sannyasis but later on left him for unavoidable circumstances.

1937–1942 IN CHARGE OF KOVVUR GAUDIYA MATH

One day Srila Maharaj met with Srila Bhakti Rupa Vilas Maharaj at the Sribas corridor at Mayapur . He finished his study in Sanskrit upto Bhagavata Acharya while staying at Mayapur. Bhakti Rupa Vilas Maharaj requested Puri Maharaj to stay with him in the Ashram. Puri Maharaj used to write articles for the monthly magazine 'The Gaudiya' staying there. Seeing his high standard articles Srila Bhakti Rupa Vilas Maharaj asked Puri Maharaj to write staying with him. But another envious person became furious at this. In the year 1937 Lord Krishna provided a munificent opportunity to Puri Maharaj by sending him to Sri Raya Ramananda Gaudiya Math at Kovvur in Andhra Pradesh as the chief of that monastery, by the secretary of the Gaudiya Math Sripad Bhakti Sudhakar Prabhu. He proved his administrative capabilities by managing the Gaudiya Math at Madras (Chennai) while he successfully managed the functions of the Kovvur Math as well.

During those days he was affectionately addressed as Nrusinghananda Prabhu by one and all. He used to go for alms to the nearby villages. He used to keep and maintain all the accounts of the Math always of today. As alms he was getting rice, dal and sugar candy for the deities. Srila Maharaj has great reverence for Srila Raya Ramananda. So he reconstructed the temple, corridor of the temple, and constructed a house for sadhus and a big hall for taking prasada part from collecting money for the cooking utensils by his personal attempt. After finishing all these constructions he invited all the Gaudiya sannyasis and Brahmacharis for the installation ceremony. All the invitees participated enthusiastically in the ceremony and involved themselves in the 7 days' congregational religious meetings, which was a grand success. Even though every one is praising Srila Maharaj, Maharaj is double-cautious to see that, knowingly or unknowingly, no vaishnava aparadham is committed at any level. At the end of the ceremony Srila Maharaj pleased all the Sadhus, Sannyasis and Brahmacharis by paying due respects to all of them and saw that they are honoured with new cloths etc., apart from money and articles enabling them to serve the Lord better. While doing all these works as a Lord's dedicated worker, he remained peaceful and simple thinking about the Trunadapi sunichena Verse from Sri Sikshastaka, the eight fundamental Regulations enunciated by Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu.

It was in 1942 that in order to instill discipline among the inhabitants of the math and to fix responsibility and caution in rendering the devotional service to the Lord, Puri Maharaj left for Mayapur making them to take charge of the Math. Before he reached Mayapur he went to Kharagpur and then proceeded to Midnapore. At that time the installation ceremony of the Ashram was going on at Midnapore. A great many sadhus like Srila Keshab Goswami Maharaj, and Srila Sridhar Goswami Maharaj had come to that place. Maharaj gave him all sorts of assistance for this ceremony. On account of Maharaj's extraordinary qualities several sannyasi devotees of Srila Prabhupad wanted to give Maharaj the fourth order of sannyasa. But Maharaj wanted to remain impartial towards them and to keep good companionship with all of them. He invited the grace of the Lord to rescue him at this delicate juncture. Even though he used to give assistance according to his capacity to all, he had great love for Srila Sridhar Maharaj and so he used to help him in all kinds of devotional services, Srila Sridhar Maharaj had no servitors with him. Therefore Srila Maharaj brought his followers to engage them for the Lord's service.

As per the request of Srila Sridhar Maharaj, he remained with him in his Ashram with Sripad Ananda Lilamaya Prabhu. Ananda Lilamaya Prabhu used to cook there for the Lord and Srila Maharaj used to worship the Lord. Ten full time devotees gathered there at the encouragement of Srila Maharaj. It was the month of Vaishakha, Srila Maharaj arranged to read Bhagavata at Nadanghata in the house of a Landlord Sripad Panchu Singh. He gave his discourses on Bhagavata for one month and the people of that place were very much pleased. The next year he was engaged in reading Bhagavata for seven days. After the discourses, kirtan was performed.

1942–1948 MAHARAJ STAYED AT MAYAPUR

Srila Maharaj used to go to the banks of Jahnvi during his five years' stay at Mayapur. There he used to meet the crest Jewel of Paramahansa's, Sri Srimad Bansidas Babaji Maharaj. But Srila Babaji Maharaj did not talk with any one, he only used to show his pipe. The disciple of Srila Babaji Maharaj used to offer coffee to Srila Maharaj because Babaji Maharaj used to drink coffee. He used to make notch– potch. Sometimes that was also available to Maharaj. Srila Babaji Maharaj was a Maha Bhagavata. He had earned success in parental love for Goura Nitai. His main peculiarity was that he remained always in trance position. He incessantly used to talk with his worshipping deities. Sometimes he laughed by playing jokes with the deities, sometimes he cried and at other times he cried bitterly calling "Oh Hari" who is affectionate for his devotees, "O life of my soul Hari", "O Gopal", "O the son of Nanda" etc. In this way he used to call the Lord in His different names. A great deal of people visited him on the banks of the Ganga, but he did not talk with any one and used to talk only with his worshipping deities in a parental loving manner . Though he was very old, he cooked himself for the deities. Sometimes he was under such a trance that he forgot for the service of the deities and even to eat for himself for days together. It was his significance.

Foot prints of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu were established by Puri Maharaj in a quick span in the old and ancient temple of Sri Radha Madan Mohan in Northa District. That was the first service to Srila Rupa Goswamy. Maharaj had intimate association with Srila Bhakti Rakshaka Sridhar Maharaj and Bhakti Vijaya Prabhu.

10TH ANNIVERSARY OF SRILA PRABHUPADA GREAT SUCCESS

In 1947 a Grand celebrations were organised for seven days at Brahmapur Town Hall, on occasion of the 10th commemoration ceremony of Srila Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupad. And for that occasion Srila Baikhanas Maharaj, Srila Nityananda Prabhu and Srila Maharaj had tried their level best with all their full energies. Srila Maharaj did every thing, accompanied by Srila Baikhanas Maharaj. The donation of Sri Balaji Sahu, the proprietor of 'Ganjam Amala' was very significant. Different sadhus from different pilgrimages attended that meeting held at Brahmapur Town Hall and delivered their discourses. For their boarding some rooms of Khallikote College and Hostel were spared with the help of the then principal of the college. People from nearby villages poured into that meeting to hear the discourses. On every evening Srila Maharaj with more than 300 devotees was going in a procession starting from Balaji Pentha street upto Town Hall with big banners and flags. The important Sadhus who were present in that great religious meeting were the sannyasi disciples of Srila Prabhupad, like Srila Srauti Maharaj, Santha Maharaj, Jajabara Maharaj and Brahmacharis. .

MAHARAJ KNOWN TO BE THE BHAGAVATACHARYA AT RAMANANDA GOUDIYA MATH AMONG MAYAPUR SANNYASIS

When Maharaj used to stay at Mayapur he attended the classes on Bhagavata of Srila Bhakti Pradeepa Tirtha Maharaj. Srila Tirtha Maharaj loved him very much. He became the monitor of that Bhagavata class. He could give correct answers of all sorts of questions on Bhagavata. Maharaj at that time used to take Bhagavata classes at the direction of Srila Tirtha Maharaj and Srila Tirtha Maharaj used to sit along side with him. In this way Srila Maharaj got his recognition as a Bhagavata Acharya at Mayapur. Still now Srila Maharaj gives the correct annotation of any verse from Bhagavata at his present advanced age of 85 years. Maharaj has remembered most of the verses of Srimad Bhagavata. He usually takes water or any food after reading Srimad Bhagavata.

1948–1966 IN CHARGE OF GOUDIYA MATHS, KOVVUR, MADRAS

At that time the things were settled between the Gaudiya Maths and Kunjada received some maths. After that Maharaj again became the chief of the previous two maths situated at Kovvur and Madras (Chennai).

LEAVING GAUDIYA MATH AT KOVVUR

Once he went on a pilgrimage to the south with Srila Nityananda Prabhu giving the charge of the math to Purushottam Brahmachari. Maharaj never allowed indiscipline in the devotional service to the Lord. One Sannyasi took charge of the math from Sripad Purushottam Prabhu. Srila Maharaj saw this incident to his utter displeasure after returning from his pilgrimage and mentally decided to leave the Math. He left the math with Srila Janardana Maharaj, Srila Nityananda Prabhu, Srila Ananda Prabhu and Srila Ramamohan Prabhu. At that time the followers of the math who were renunciates or house-holders requested him, "This is your place, you stay here". Though they requested Srila Maharaj to stay there, he did not stay with them and told, "I have not come to establish any math, building, etc. If Sriman Mahaprabhu wants that I should preach His doctrine, then I can establish 10 to 15 maths. Why should I stay here ?" Leaving that place he took shelter in the house of a Fortunate devotee named Garpati Subamma at her humble request. He used to go for alms and remained in her house. He cooked himself the alms and offered to the Lord . He alone continued his preaching activity and achieved the task.

TOOK SANYASA IN 1966 FROM SRILA GIRI MAHARAJ

The aged sannyasis who were loving him wanted to make him their sannyasi disciple seeing Maharaja's great devotion, service to Vaishnavas, and his thoroughness in scriptures. He consulted with Srila Baikhanas Maharaj about taking sannyasa and at last on 7th February, 1966 he took sannyasa in Mayapur at Sriman Mahaprabhu's birth place according to the scriptural injunctions, from Srila Bhakti Swarupa Giri Maharaj in presence of his Vaishnava circle. After this he came to Srila Keshaba Maharaj with Srila Giri Maharaj. Srila Keshaba Maharaj became angry upon Srila Giri Maharaj and said, "Why did you give sannyasa to him? He is ours." But Srila Giri Maharaj in order to avoid this told, "I am your servitor." Everyone wanted to make Maharaj his own disciple. The main reason behind it was that Maharaj was apt in management of maths and he was well versed in Bhagavata. Everyone wanted to give him the charge of their maths.

ESTABLISHED SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM IN KAKINADA IN 1966

After so much effort Srila Maharaj wanted to stand up himself and to manage an Ashram. He formed one registered board named 'Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram' in Kakinada of Andhra Pradesh in June, 1966. He became The president of that registered board. A Retd. Police officer was the cashier of the registered board and the secretary was a local devotee named Satyanarayan Murty (A Retd. Chemistry Lecturer). After some years some maths were established.

FORMED THE PRESENT SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION

In 1983 he formed a new registered board at Itota in Sridhama PURI making Sri Chaitanya Chandra Ashram the centre place of the Mission and Srila Purushottam Tirtha Maharaj became the Secretary of that registered body. From that time onwards this body is functioning and the number of maths under the mission raised to 18. (list of addressess even at the end of this book.)

On the one hand Srila Maharaj is devoid of lust and thinks himself to be an ordinary devotee and on the other hand he was a noble worker of the Congress and is beneficial to all. He is a lover of truth and non-violence. Once Srila Maharaj was returning from Mayapur after finishing the advent ceremony of Sriman Mahaprabhu, Srila Jajabar Maharaj came from the Ashram of Srila Sridhar Maharaj and met him at Howrah railway station. He asked Maharaj to accept the charge of the math. Maharaj refused to accept anything. He tells to his disciples, "You get together for one purpose, that is the service of the Lord and try to preach the doctrine of Mahaprabhu after me. You keep good relations with yourselves and stay in the Ashram."

ADHERENCE TO THE PRINCIPLES

Srila Maharaj has never tasted any kind of intoxicants and he can not tolerate any one using them. He comments against the intoxicants telling that these are the disciples of this iron age. Once a Brahman came to the Ashram at Rajahmundry. He took his dinner and asked some money for taking betel. Maharaj became furious and scolded him. That Brahmin also became furious and cursed him saying, "You cut the root after allowing one to climb a tree." Maharaj gave scriptural evidences in support of his comment. After that the Brahmin understood his fault and left that place. So Maharaj tells during his discourses every human being should try to rectify his personal fault.

VAISHNAVA APARADHA IS NEVER TOLERATED

Maharaj can not tolerate denouncing Guru–Vaishnavas or doing anything against scriptural injunctions. Even in the meeting if one tells something sounding so, he asks him to stop his discourse or if there is chance he rules it out by quoting scriptural verses. Once a conference of sadhus was organised at Bhakti Vinod Ashram in Brahmapur. One scholar described that a farmer's utterance of the name of Hari only once before going to bed is greater than the incessant chanting of Narada. Hearing this Maharaj stopped him to say any more. The reason behind it is that the incessant chanter Narada, Who is a stalwart devotee, is incomparable to a farmer who is a mere Karmee. This goes against Mahaprabhu's doctrine. He says chant always Hari. In this way Srila Maharaj establishes any matter which goes against scriptural injunctions with strong arguments basing on scriptures.

INTIMATE FRIENDSHIP WITH A.C. BHAKTI VEDANTA SWAMY

The founder Acharya of ISKCON, Srila A.C. Bhakti Vedanta Swami Maharaj was an intimate friend of Srila Maharaj. He liked Maharaj very much among all the sannyasis of Gaudiya maths. The Vaishnavas of all other Gaudiya Maths were disliking Swami Maharaj. Srila Maharaj liked him very much and that's why he was invited by Srila Swami Maharaj while installing new temples or conducting religious meetings. Srila Maharaj accepting his invitation used to attend the ceremonies arranged by Srila Swami Maharaj. Srila Maharaj went around the streets of the town Visakhapatnam with Srila Swami Maharaj and he arranged prasad and boarding for all the foreign devotees who came with Srila Swami Maharaj. Especially he helped them in preaching Mahaprabhu's doctrine and being pleased in his service Srila Swami Maharaj loved him very affectionately. Before the disappearance of Srila Swami Maharaj he called his disciples and told them, "You take advice of Srila Sridhar Maharaj or my most dear friend Srila Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj on any matter regarding scriptural injunctions or temples." At the last time of his disappearance Srila Swami Maharaj wanted the presence of Srila Puri Maharaj at Sridham Brindavan.

In 1971 Srila Maharaj invited Swamy Maharaj to inaugurate a new temple at Rajahmundry on the banks of Godavari. In 1973 A.C. Bhakti Vedanta Swamy Maharaj visited our Visakhapatnam Ashram with 15 senior disciples and stayed for about 20 days. They discussed lots of issues in Practice of Bhakti and its preaching.

Srila B.V.Puri Maharaj went to Mayapur to lay foundation to the present Chandrodaya Temple of ISKCON. Thus a thick friendship was established between them.

The aged and most experienced sannyasis and Brahmacharies of other Gaudiya Maths were also attending with Srila Maharaj while installing new temples or constructing buildings for sadhus. They also were making success to the religious meetings following the words of their spiritual master. Now also the justified disciples of Srila Swami Maharaj request Srila Maharaj for attending the installation ceremonies and joining in the religious meetings.

MAHARAJ LOVES KIRTAN AND LOUD CHANTING

Maharaj used to say at universal conference of sadhus, "should Vaishnavas go ahead of a procession with loud chanting." The aim of such advice was to attract persons to the procession and to make them realise the effect of kirtan, so that the people of that place would come to the meeting place for hearing the discourses delivered by pure devotees and to benefit themselves. He always wants to fulfil the desires of Guru and Gauranga. It is also his aim to encourage persons to follow good conduct leaving bad conduct of this iron age and to serve the Lord by remaining away from quarreling themselves.

KEEN INTEREST ON THE SONGS OF NAROTTAMA THAKUR

Srila Maharaj liked the songs written by Narottama Thakur. The songs which are loved by Maharaj, written by Narottam Thakur are, "Gora Panhu na Vajiya mainu" and Narottama Dasa "kene nagela mariya". He says that the songs written by Lochana Dasa are good but advisory. Similarly the songs written by Bhakti Vinoda Thakur are systematic but those are only his feelings. The songs of Narottam Dasa Thakur have great impact on the neophytes. "The Prema Bhakti Chandrika" of Srila Narottam Thakur is the best of all his songs. He tells about the preaching in West Bengal. Srila Jajabar Maharaj had a good voice and he was also a good singer. While Srila Keshaba Maharaj was doing kirtan Srila Maharaj rhythmically used to repeat the same song. At the time of preaching he used to sing with other sannyasis.

MERCY OF THE VAISHNAVAS IS ESSENTIAL

Srila Maharaj has observed the conduct and behaviour of great Vaishnavas staying with them. So he says it is very difficult to get the Lord's feet by any one who has not stayed with great personalities or pure devotees of the Lord.

EYES WITH TEARS

Srila Maharaj comes into trance with full of tears in his eyes while narrating the pastimes of Gauranga or commenting on the verses of Srimad Bhagavata. He is very sentimental. He does with utmost care the service to Tulasi, circumambulating the temple of the Lord, worshipping the deities or singing the names of the Lord. These are his daily routine work and ideal principles. He daily discusses in his friends' circle and with his disciples 'Sri Chaitanya Charitamruta', 'Srimad Bhagavata', scriptures of Gaudiya philosophy, etc. He being accompanied by his disciples always teaches how to serve the Lord. Every day in the morning he with his disciples reads Srimad Bhagavata, Srimad Bhagavata Gita, Brahma Sanhita, Stotra Ratna and sometimes does it by the help of his disciples. He becomes furious if any disciple does not sit for kirtan and he points out the errors of his disciples through his lecture with strong words in order to rectify them. His main teaching is that if one wants to take shelter under one's spiritual master's feet then he should have perseverance to accept his spiritual master's ruling. Tolerance is one of the good qualities of an Ashram dweller. It is not possible on one's part to develop without tolerance.

MOST OF THE INTIMATE ASSOCIATES OF THE MAHARAJ LEFT THIS MATERIAL WORLD

Srila Maharaj had great friendship with Srila Nityananda Prabhu, Srila Tirtha Maharaj, Srila Ananda Prabhu and Srila Janardana Maharaj. He used to send some money to Ananda Prabhu in every month while he was in Brindavan. He also helped Srila Nityananda Prabhu in his difficulties and he also used to send money and paper to Nityananda Prabhu for printing books. He comes to Brahmapur at the time of the commemoration day of Srila Prabhupada and at some other times. Sometimes two friends talked with each other in a friendly way. He was loving very much to Srila Tirtha Maharaj thinking that he would look after him the developmental work of the Ashrams but he had lost almost all his true friends. So Srila Maharaj is in deep sorrow due to the separation of Vaishnavas. He is now staying in this world to give chance to the fallen souls for their upliftment by the God's will and doing the work of installing Ashramas and publishing scriptures on Vaishnava philosophy besides guides the temple incharges in execution of their daily devotional work effectively.

EFFORTS IN ESTABLISHING A MATH IN BRINDAVAN

By the desire of his friends' circle he wanted to establish a math in Brindavan. His spiritual master, who had given him sannyasa, Srila Giri Maharaj, had a math at Brindavana and Srila Maharaj was the only disciple of Srila Giri Maharaj. So Srila Giri Maharaj wanted to make him his successor and handover his math at Brindavan. But at God's will Srila Giri Maharaj fell ill and while he was in the hospital the disciples of Srila Madhava Maharaj were looking after him. Still then he wanted to handover his math to Srila Puri Maharaj. Hearing this one of the householders told to Giri Maharaj, "Srila Puri Maharaj is not here. He is in Andhra Pradesh. So please handover your math to Srila Madhava Maharaj." So Srila Giri Maharaj handed over it to Srila Madhava Maharaj.

BRAJAVASIS DESERVE OUR SERVICE

Now as per the causeless mercy of Sri Brusabhanunandini Srimati Radharani, he has a temple near Her place of sporting called Sebakunja in Brindavan. He says his disciples, "We have come to this place for serving the Lord but not to receive service from the Brajabasis." So he denies to ask alms from the inhabitants of Brindavan Dham. At the request of his disciples and some householders he has accepted some foreign disciples and he has now established a math at Sridham Mayapur, the advent place of Sriman Mahaprabhu. Though Srila Maharaj was driven out indirectly from the Raya Ramananda Gaudiya Math at Kovvur in Andhra Pradesh, he has constructed many maths, by the will of Mahaprabhu, on the donated lands as per the request of the local people. Now he has 18 maths, some charitable hospitals and libraries. Still then he has formidable promise to preach and distribute the doctrine of Sriman Mahaprabhu.

ESTABLISHED BOOK TRUST AND PUBLISHING SEVERAL BOOKS

He has published many books on Vaishnava philosophy in different languages like Telugu, Oriya, Hindi and English in order to supply books on unalloyed devotion to the public. After the demise of Srila Nityananda Prabhu he established a book trust named "Sri Bhakti Bigyana Nityananda Book Trust" in the name of Srila Nityananda Prabhu on 28th July, 1988. As the president of the trust he advises the trust at different times to publish different books. These books are printed with the help of a printing machine which was established by Srila Nityananda Prabhu and Srila Maharaj. The printed books are sent to different maths of this mission for the benefit of the devotees. Now he is the chief editor of the monthly magazine "The Siddhanta" which was published under the able guidance of Srila Nityananda Prabhu before his disappearance.

IMPORTANT BOOKS AT LOW COST

He has high ambition to fulfil the will of his spiritual master, Srila Prabhupad by publishing books from the printing press which is called "Bruhata Mrudanga." Now he desires to publish Srimad Bhagavata which was written by Sri Krishna Dwaipayana Veda Vyasa but it has not been done. It may be fulfilled if Lord so desires. He spends money in printing books. He is always very particular for the get up of the books, errorless printing and low cost of the books. He thinks that people should be able to buy books at low cost so that they can read them and get benefit out of them. He gives strong instructions to the charge holders of various maths to pay the cost of the books sent to them. He wants that small booklets should be published on the teachings of Srila Prabhupad, the life histories of great souls, the life histories of Associates of Sriman Mahaprabhu, the philosophy of Sriman Mahaprabhu, the main theme of Srimad Bhagavatam and the teachings of Sri Krishna in Gita.

AFFECTIONATE TOWARDS DISCIPLES BOTH FOR GRUHASTAS AND THYAGIES

Srila Maharaj is affectionate to his disciples. He is eager to dispel the doubts of his disciples. He asks his disciples how do they chant, what do they feel and so on? He never tries to disrespect others. He also does not tolerate any kind of disrespect to others. He tells his disciples that who does not chant even residing in maths, his life is spoiled due to the misutilisation of a golden opportunity given by the Lord. One's song or kirtan should be impressive as per his advice. He always says that prayers should make oneself to feel as insignificant as a blade of grass. He does not like to sing like a tape-recorder without proper feeling. He praises one seeing one's serving attitude and encourages him to do so. He does not tolerate any one's negligence in performing his service to the Lord and he scolds him.

GOOD COMMAND ON DISCOURSES IN DIFFERENT LANGUAGES

Srila Maharaj has a great power in delivering speech without a pause in Oriya, Telugu, Hindi, Bengali and English languages. The listeners are wonderstruck by hearing his speech. Though Maharaj has strong faith on Sri Radha Krishna, he has also strong devotion for Nrusinghanath. He has success over Nrusingha mantra and so he advises to mutter Nrusingha mantra while one is under illness. Maharaj knows Nrusingha dev eradicates all the difficulties in the path of devotion and He also eradicates all other sorts of difficulties, while bestowing the things that are beneficial to one's self.

VISITS ABROAD IN HIS PURSUIT OF PREACHING

He went on tour for two months to the Western countries like Italy and Spain on 5th May, 1997 as per the request of the foreign devotees and delivered devotional discourses on unalloyed devotion in the religious meetings arranged in Schools, Colleges, Universities and public places. The devotees of those places were very much pleased by his speech. Now he has been donated a large plot for establishing a centre in the foreign country to distribute unalloyed devotion as preached by Sriman Mahaprabhu.

It should be remembered that the will of God is mighty. Srimati Radharani has kept Her associates to spread serving attitude to the Lord among the fallen souls for their liberation.

TEAM SPIRIT IN TRAINING A GROUP OF DISCIPLES

Now Maharaj has arranged to learn Sanskrit by his disciples at Sridham Brindavan so that after him they would engage themselves in preaching the unalloyed devotion of Lord Gauranga. It is his will that these devotees should be well versed in scriptures and scriptural conclusions, so that they can redeem the fallen souls after his disappearance. He has great desire in preaching. He wants a vehicle to go round the villages of Orissa in order to preach the devotional path. He says quoting from Prabhupada's words, "One should preach till he breathes his last." The preacher controls himself while preaching, he follows the real path and he can engage others to follow the path of reality. He is not in support of preaching without good behaviour. So he advises his disciples to have good conduct. He has collected the conduct rules and has published a book named "Sankhīpta Sadachara".

PUBLISHED IN NUTSHELL

It is not possible to glorify the vaishnavas whose mercy can liberate the people of the world. Even the demigods are unable to glorify the Vaishnavas. So the little we glorify them is a mark of our inability. The life history of our spiritual master is very deep and inexpressive. It is impossible on our part to touch it as we are foolish and ignorant. As we are much delighted to discuss his life history we tried to publish it in a nut-shell.

PRAY FOR LONG LOVE

Let Srila Maharaj live long for more years to preach the doctrine of the Lord, publish books, establish temples, install deities, etc. Nowadays we see Vaishnavas leave this world one by one and the world is felt to be empty of Vaishnavas. So the presence of Srila Maharaj will certainly give encouragement, inspiration and provocation to Vaishnavas. So let the Lord Brajendra Nandan keep alive him among his disciples and devotees for more years so that he would keep the flow of Gaura Saraswata Bhakti Vinoda stream eternal. This is the sole prayer at the lotus feet of Sri Radha Brindavana Chandra and Sri Godruma Bihari.

ALL GLORY TO MAHARAJ

All glories, all glories to the crest jewel of Paramahansa's Om Vishnupad 108 Sri Srimad Bhakti Baibhava Puri Goswami Maharaj. All glories, all glories to Sri Guru Gauranga Gandharbika Giridhari Radha Vinod Bihari and their associates.

(N.B:– Due to some difficulties the life history of Srila Maharaj has not been published in detail. If the spiritual master and the Vaishnavas will be graceful then we will be able to publish his elongated life history in a large volume.)

SOME IMPORTANT PRECEPTS OF OUR SPIRITUAL MASTER SRILA BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI MAHARAJ THROUGH QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q:– When can a living entity live peacefully ?

A:– A living entity can not enjoy peace until he is under the fruits of his past deeds. He is weak, inefficient and incomplete. So he can not attain eternal peace until he surrenders himself to the lotus feet of the Lord.

Q:– This material world is treacherous soil, so under this circumstances what is the duty of a devotee ?

A:– Though the material world makes a living entity to enjoy different kinds of sorrows, a devotee is not affected by such sorrows. So a devotee should proceed in the path of devotion with enthusiasm and perserverance.

Q:– What is the duty of the human society ? What is the result of following one's duty ?

A:– The sole duty of the human society is the congregational chanting of the holy name of Lord Krishna. Sriman Mahaprabhu is the most munificent incarnation as He has guided us to take the shelter of Sri Krishna name or He has provoked us to chant the name of Krishna incessantly. A living entity is empowered to relish the devotional mellows of Sri Krishna by chanting His name which is not attainable even by the demigods.

Q:– Everyone in this world is selfish. What is your opinion on this point ?

A:– It is natural that the people of this material world are engaged themselves in their personal benefit. But we are eager to gain the devotion at the lotus feet of the Lord. We are fully selfish because the only object of our worship is to please Lord Krishna and we think we are the servitors of Krishna.

Q:– In which way an intelligent person would utilise his selfishness ?

A:– We have no any other desire except serving the Lord Krishna and our spiritual master. Thinking in this line one should utilise his intelligence for serving both the above persons.

Q:– Can a living entity do any beneficial work for himself ?

A:– A living entity can not attain one's ultimate goal by reading hundreds of scriptures and engaging himself in singing, worshipping, etc. according to his personal will and pleasure.

Q:– Can a living entity become Brahma ?

A:– It is not possible to get curd out of water. Similarly, a living entity can not become Brahma. The living entity has some similar qualities like the Supreme Lord and so he is endowed with the power to serve the Lord. As God is above all the living entities and demigods, it is not possible on the part of a living entity to occupy His position .

Q:– Everyone says that one should marry to have a son. What is the significance of this proverb ?

A:– A son delivers his parents from the hell named 'Pun' and so he is called a son. A son who does not serve the Lord and engages himself in other deeds, according to scriptures he is an unwanted son. It is just like doing enviousness to the living entity by giving birth to such a son. The son who serves the Lord and the father who makes his son serve the Lord, such type of parental relation with the son is beneficial for their clan.

Q:– Can a person be benefited by denouncing or praising others character ?

A:– It is never so. The benefit of the soul can not be attained by denouncing or praising others character. Moreover it is better to discuss over personal loopholes than discussing over others faults. To control the mind is one type of yoga. The discussion over others character means discussion over the deeds of a person who is not in a position to serve the Lord. So it is not beneficial for the soul. But the word 'Para' means the Lord. So by discussing over the Lord's pastimes, names, etc. we can be benefited in a true sense.

Q:– What should we do at every moment ?

A:– It is always required to discuss relating to our resort, then we can free ourselves from material entanglement. When a devotee gets devotion towards the Lord, he always discusses over the names and deeds of Hari and this helps him in attaining the summum bonum of life.

Q:– How many kinds of Vaishnavas are there and how would we identify them ?

A:– There are three kinds of Vaishnavas like neophytes, middle order Vaishnavas and superior Vaishnavas i.e. who are engaged in the service of the Lord after attaining perfection. A Vaishnava's position is considered according to his attachment for chanting the Lord's name. The neophytes have interest to worship the Lord but they do not have the knowledge about Krishna, His devotees and His self– soul. They are like Vaishnavas. The middle order Vaishnavas have inward mentality and they serve the enlightened devotees attentively. The Superior Vaishnavas are impartial to the living entities and they have no discrimination over the name and His person.

Q:– To which kind of reality Sri Jagannath, Sri Balarama and Sri Subhadra Devi belong ?

A:– Sri Jagannath is the symbol of the Lord having the form of the Lord with eyes and hands. The meaning of this is that the Lord sees everything, knows everything and creates everything. Balarama is the potency of the Lord who has the capacity to create living entities. Mother Subhadra is the illusory potency of the Lord and Sudarsana represents His will power.

Q:– Why Brahma and Siva are called the demigods ?

A:– Brahma and Siva belong to the differential potency of the Lord. So they are considered as demigods.

Q:– Which method is the better one to enter into the transcendental world ?

A:– There is no other way except congregational chanting to enter into the transcendental world for the living entity.

Q:– How can one attain the highest qualification to enter into the spiritual life ?

A:– The association with sadhus bestows a living entity to enter into the spiritual life.

Q:–What is the result of association with good persons and bad persons ?

A:– A living entity attains love for Krishna by the association with Saints but by the association with unholy people men become like beasts and can not discriminate between good and bad. The association with the unholy persons deviates one's mind from serving Lord and the real duty of a person.

Q:– It is said that one should give up imitation and should follow the path of good persons, what is the difference between the two?

A:– It is seen that people act like Narada in a drama. But it is quite different from following the devotional path shown by Narada. When one imitates others, he is devoid of benefiting himself but by following the devotional path of saints one attains devotion to the Lord.

Q:– What is the difference between muttering and chanting the Lord's name ?

A:– Utterance of an incantation with a murmuring voice without the movement of the lips is called mutter. But when one chants with the movement of his lips is called kirtan. Kirtan is more beneficial than muttering. Utterance of the Lord's name, quality and pastimes with a loud voice is called chanting.

Q:– What is the first hand information about Krishna and what is the significance of Krishna's name ?

A:– The first hand information about Krishna is His holy name. The name of Krishna has the attractive power and it is the most powerful reality in itself. One should chant Krishna's name for attaining Krishna Himself .

Q:– It has been told that five types of accomplishments are there to attain success in devotional path. Are they not self-sufficient ?

A:– Leaving chanting of Lord's name, no accomplishment is complete in its nature That means leaving chanting, dwelling in Mathura, association with saints are imperfect. Chanting of the Lord's name gives us the fruit of dwelling in Mathura, association with saints, worship of deities and reading Bhagavata.

Q:– It is known that the chanting of the Lord's name is the means as well as the end. How far is it true ?

A:– Lord's grace is the only way to attain accomplishment. Any other kind of deed or knowledge is not counted as the chief accomplishment. The name of the Lord and His person are nondifferent. So the attainment of one's objective is itself the attainment of the Lord as the Lord Himself is in the form of His name.

Q:– Why people treat the pastimes of Krishna as the deeds of an ordinary person ?

A:– The character of Sri Krishna is clear and devoid of misconduct as seen in his meditation by Vyasadeva. The historical characters are entangled with material existences but the pastimes of Krishna are not considered so. The pastimes of Sri Krishna has no relationship with a country's time, place and person or it is not related with any kind of material happiness.

Q:– Many people think ill of Krishna as He has stolen the clothes of the Gopies. What is the significance of this pastime ?

A:—Those who want to serve the Lord, have nothing to conceal before the Lord. In order to teach this to his devotees the Lord enacted this pastime.

Q:— How Sri Radha and Krishna are related to each other ?

A:— The persons who have accepted the doctrine of Srīman Mahāprabhu know that the conjugal love for Sri Krishna is the greatest serving attitude. The persons who are the followers of Srimati Radha Rani can taste this mellow. Sri Krishna is the truth in reality and Srimati Radharani is His eternal consort. Sri Radha and Krishna are one and the same and they glorify the mellows of Their service. They appear in two forms. They are like the two sides of the same coin.

Q:— What is the difference between Goloka and Gokula ?

A:— There is no difference between Goloka and Gokula. The eternal abode of the Lord is called Goloka and when it comes down to this material world is called Gokula, as the mark of Sri Krishna's sporting place.

Q:— Is it possible to see the manifested Dhama with our material eyes ?

A:— One should have transcendental eyes to see a Dhama in its real form. Those who receive transcendental vision by the grace of the Lord, are eligible to see the transcendental abode of the Lord.

Q:— Why is it required to take shelter under the lotus feet of Srīman Mahāprabhu ?

A:— The propagator of the congregational chanting of Sri Krishna's name is Sri Chaitanya Mahāprabhu. He enlightens in their hearts and encourages them with Krishna Prema. They gain devotion for the Lord with the help of Sri Krishna sankīrtan and taste the mellows of conjugal love. So it is the foremost duty of a living entity to take shelter under the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya. Again one should take shelter of the staunch followers of Sri Chaitanya Mahāprabhu like Sri Swarupa Damodara, Rupa Goswami etc. in order to get the grace of Sri Chaitanya Mahāprabhu.

Q:—Why is it said that the incarnation of Gaurāṅga Mahāprabhu is unconceivable ?

A:— The significance of taking incarnation in this iron age is to preach kīrtan and distribute Krishna Prema among the living entities. Though this incarnation has its own significance, it is secret to the ordinary people.

Q:— What will one attain by remembering the pastimes of Gaura and Sri Krishna ?

A:– There are two compartments in the Brindavan, which is above this material universe. There exists the servitors who are generous. But sweetness is the main character of this abode. In the place of Gauranga generosity is main but there also live the persons who have taken shelter of sweetness. At the time of accomplishment those who worship both Krishna and Gaura, attain at the time of perfection spiritual bodies and stay simultaneously in both the places.

Q:– Who are the disciples of this iron age ?

A:– To worship Gauranga with the incantation of Krishna and worship Lord Krishna with the incantation of Gaura is the one and the same. Those who consider them to be different are called the disciples of this iron age.

Q:– Who worships Gauranga and who worships Sri Krishna ?

A:– When a living entity is not free from material entanglement he worships Gaurasundar and when he is freed from material attachment, Sri Krishna becomes his worshipable Lord.

Q:– The religion of this Kali Yuga is congregational chanting of Lord's name. But why do you engage your devotees in constructing temples and buildings ?

A:– Everyone has not that qualification which is required to chant the sacred name of the Lord. So they are asked to construct buildings to create serving attitude towards the Lord. At the grace of the Lord one becomes the servitor of the Lord and the transcendental name of the Lord dances on his tongue.

Q:– How can we be freed from sense gratification ?

A:– By the grace of the Spiritual Master when the transcendental name of the Lord purifies our ears we are freed from sense gratification mentality.

Q:– When can a living entity be freed from material attachment?

A:– When we engage ourselves in chanting the name of Hari thinking ourselves to be Karmees, we attain religion, name and fulfilment of our desires. Then we do offence at the transcendental name. So we get only material benefit. When we chant the name of Hari having no ambition for salvation, we are freed from material entanglement.

Q:– What are the favourable situations for chanting the name of the Lord ?

A:– At first we shall be freed from enviousness to the Vaishnavas because it causes misfortune in this material world as well as in the transcendental world. This material world is the testing place. We find here only sorrow. Tolerance, feeling insignificant and praising others are helpful for chanting the Lord's name.

Q:– How can we make this material body favourable towards devotion ?

A:– One should not try to do any thing against the will of Lord Krishna. If one serves the Lord he feels comfort with his body, mind and soul. If one keeps oneself away from the service of the Lord it stands against him in doing service to the Lord.

Q:– Are the names uttered by us transcendental ?

A:– It is not possible to utter the transcendental name of the Lord with His form, attributes and pastimes with the help of our natural eyes, ears and tongues. With serving attitude of the senses the Omnipotent Lord manifests Himself before us.

Q:– What is the result of chanting offensive name ?

A:– By chanting offensive name we shall be dragged towards hell. This stands against utterance of transcendental name.

Q:– How can we be freed from mental speculation ?

A:– After hearing the scriptures one can be freed from mental speculation. After hearing the scriptures all kinds of mental speculations against the scriptures are removed.

Q:– When does one attain the wealth of transcendental name ?

A:– The Lord and His devotees manifest in this material world for distributing the wealth of Baikuntha. Vaishnavas are transcendental in nature. They know the temporal existence of this material world and that's why they inform us about the transcendental matter.

Q:– While chanting the Lord's name mundane thoughts come to our mind. So this chanting becomes valueless. Then how can we be freed from its clutches ?

A:– It is not wise to leave chanting of the Lord's name, thinking that the material thoughts come to our mind while chanting the transcendental name. Gradually by accepting the transcendental name these unnecessary thoughts vanish and the transcendental name will arise as a Sun with its self-efluence.

Q:– What is the system of serving the Lord ?

A:– Sri Krishna Dasa Kaviraj Goswami has taught to worship one's Spiritual master at the beginning, then Sri Gauranga and at the end Gandharvika Giridhari.

Q:–To which thing one should be conscious while chanting the Lord's name ?

A:– If one chants the Lord's name Krishna in a clear heart, the senses don't go away from the Lord's transcendental form, attributes and pastimes. One should have keen interest for the unbreakable manifestation of the Lord's form, attributes and pastimes.

Q:– Why is the human form considered as the most valuable form ?

A:– Human form is the most valuable form because it is attained as a result of congregation of good deeds in different births. This is attained by travelling through 80 Lakhs of births. It has been said in the 11th canto 2nd chapter and 29th verse of Srimad Bhagavatam that this temporary human form is very much valuable form which is attained after the accumulation of good deeds in different births. Due to ignorance animals and birds don't have the knowledge to serve the Lord. They don't have sacrificing mentality. This human form is suitable for serving the Lord. So the human form is considered as the most valuable form.

Q:– Is there any remedy for death ? How can one conquer it ?

A:– Yes, one can overcome death. But atheists can not overcome death. They can never escape from the hands of death. Only the devotees of Krishna can overcome death, like Bhisma who accepted death at his own will. One can overcome death by taking shelter under the lotus feet of the Lord Krishna. Lord has told in Bhagavata in the 2nd canto 3rd chapter 17th verse that the sunrise and sunset destroys man's life span, if they are not utilised for discussing the Lord's pastimes. Those who spent their time in discussing Lord's pastimes, are not under the control of death. Lord Sri Krishna has also told to Arjuna in Srimad Bhagavata Gita 9th chapter 31st verse, "O Arjuna, O, the son of Kunti, I declare it properly that my devotee is never destroyed. I will protect him."

Q:– Then what should a person do at the time of death ?

A:– When a person is at the doorstep of death he should take complete shelter of Krishna, His name, attributes, form and pastimes should be remembered. He should associate with saints and should hear and chant Hari. Once Khatwanga Maharaj had a life span of only a moment. Knowing this he took complete shelter under the lotus feet of the Lord and then he went to the transcendental abode of Lord Hari. It is said in Vishnu Smriti by the Lord, "O Sadasiva, O Mahadeva, I promise, My name 'Krishna' is very secret. What can I say more about it as it protects one from death." So always remember the name of Krishna.

Q:– What is called the doctrine of Bhagavata ? Let me tell this gracefully.

A:–The Lord Shyamasundar has expressed the easiest method to attain Him. To offer

Lord Sri Krishna all the deeds done either due to enforcement of one's nature or fate with mind, speech, sense organs, intelligence or heart is called the doctrine of Bhagavat.

Q:– What do people feel when Mahaprabhu manifested Himself in Nabadwipa ?

A:– When Mahaprabhu appeared in this world at Nabadwipa, the fallen souls, fools, Muslims and illiterate people felt happy and the people of the world chanted the name of Hari and received Krishna Prema which is even unattainable by Brahma.

Q:– Can the remnants of Lord Jagannath be compared with the ordinary food ?

A:– Not at all, the remnants of the Lord, the name of Krishna are transcendental in nature as per devotees of the Lord. So the transcendental objects are not related with the local time, place and person.

Q:– Does the pastimes of the Lord like killing of demons occur in the transcendental abode of the Lord which is above this world?

A:– Goloka is eternally transcendental abode of the Lord. There is no place for illusion. There, the servitors of the Lord enjoy the mellows of conjugal love by thinking themselves as the servitors of the Lord.

Q:– Are Brahma, the Super Soul and the Lord different reality and why Sri Krishna has more importance ?

A:– Though they are same in nature, one realises the reality as per his accomplishment and one thinks that to be the most desirable thing. Krishna is the embodiment and one thinks that to be the transcendental form, the Super Soul and Brahma.

Q:– What quality should one possess to enter into the abode of the Lord and how can it be attained ?

A:– In order to enter into the Lord's abode or to attain His name one has to acquire four attributes– 1) One should think himself to be as insignificant as a blade of grass, 2) He should be tolerant more than a tree, 3) He should give up the desire of name and fame, and 4) He should be compassionate towards the living entities. These four qualities are required to chant Hari Nama . There is no other way except the possession of these attributes.

Q:– Does the Lord is served by serving His deity ?

A:– There is no difference between the service of the deity and the Lord. He manifests Himself in the worshipable form. We know that the writers of the scriptures declare that

His name, form and God are nondifferent things. He who has no devotion, says the deity is an idol. One who knows the method of creating electricity with the help of a wire, can say that the wire itself is the current. But the person having no knowledge about it will say it is a wire. Similarly a material thing becomes transcendental.

Q:– What is the object of a devotee ?

A:– A devotee wants to give satisfaction to the Lord. He chants the holy name of the Lord with a serving attitude. He has no other ambition.

Q:–What quality should we possess to serve the Lord ?

Q:– The things that are favourable in the line of serving the Lord are tolerance, feeling insignificant and praising others. Unless one has tolerance, one can not have strong faith in the Lord. Tolerance is the ornament of a Vaishnava. One can not praise another person unless one feels oneself to be inferior. So these are the attributes helpful in the line of serving the Lord.

Q:– Why shall we call a Mahabhagavata to be the Universal spiritual master ?

A:– Mahabhagavata sees all the living entities as his spiritual master. This great attribute makes him great and gives him the fame of Universal spiritual master.

Q:– Maharaj ! Everybody has emanated from the Lord. Then why should articles be offered to Him and what significance has it ?

A:– This is a good question. The persons who like arguments think that existence of God is not at all required. So it is not required to offer food to Him. They think that the things created by the Lord when offered to Him, make one think the Lord's godly qualities to be transformed into mere human qualities. They argue against the requirement of prayer, meditation and eulogy for the benefit of our souls. All the work should be directed for pleasing the Lord and, there should not be any thought of personal benefit. The love for the Lord shows that the beautiful Lord sits before us and enjoys Himself as a father feels arranging food for his children. Similarly God has arranged food for us. For the pleasure of the father the children collected food and offered to their father as a mark of love to obtain blessings. Father lovingly blesses them and returns them all the food articles and says, "O my dear children, these are for you. You offer me as a symbol of love for me. But I don't require anything. I accepted a little of your offering which is nothing but the unalloyed love and selfless affection." When we accept Mahaprasad we become happy.

Q:– Are the attainment of service of Lord Sri Krishna and realisation of Him equally significant ?

A:– A living entity is the servitor of Lord Krishna by nature. By chanting the transcendental name of Lord Krishna one attains eligibility to serve Lord Krishna, who is a Cupid . When one is interested with a particular type of service, His real form and realising His real form are equally important.

Q:– When a living entity is entitled to utter the transcendental name of the Lord ?

A:– When one is mentally prepared to serve the Lord for His happiness, then the transcendental name would dance on his tongue automatically.

Q:– What is the duty of a man, whose birth is temporary ?

A:– An intelligent person engages his energy fully in the service of the Lord without wasting a moment insignificantly because he knows very well that his life span is very short.

Q:– What should a devotee do being effected by grief ?

A:– One should tolerate it knowing that it has been created by the grace of God. There is no other way to overcome it, other than waiting for the receipt of Lord's grace.

Q:– Maharaja! What is the aim of begging alms from door to door?

A:– This begging system is for the benefit of pure devotees, but the religious hypocrites misutilise this system to fulfil their belly.

Q:– What is the most beneficial pity for the living being ?

A:– The preach of devotional path is the most ideal benevolence for the living entities, it keeps away from sinful activities and drags them to the Lord.

Q:– Why does a living being disbelieve in the existence of the Lord ?

A:– Atheists learn to argue irrelevantly due to their association with bad persons from their childhood and being effected by this, he does not believe God's existence. He harms himself and there is no loss to the God.

Q:– Though a living being is an eternal servitor of the Lord, why does he disbelieve in Him ?

A:– Those who don't have transcendental eyes can't see the Lord, and so they think that God does not exist. As the blind can't see the light of the Sun, so also an atheist doesn't have belief in God .

Q:– Who can not be termed as a human being ?

A:– What is the world ? Who am I ? Who has created this world? What is my duty ? Those don't have ideas over these things can't be termed as human beings.

A:– What are the five states of a living entity ?

A:– A fallen soul has five states like conceived consciousness, contracted consciousness, blossomed consciousness, flourished consciousness and perfect consciousness.

Q:– What is called birth ?

A:– When a fallen soul's astral body is covered with its material body according to the fruit of his action is called the birth of a living entity.

Q:– What is called death ?

A:– When the material body of a living being is detached from its astral body is called death.

Q:– What is called egoism ? How long does it stay with a living being ?

A:– As long as the astral body is not destroyed the living entity feels egoism in contact with the material body.

Q:– In which body does a living entity enjoy the material things and what is the effect over him ?

A:– The cause of one's willingness to enjoy the world is due to the existence of astral body encircled with aspirations . The astral body is the cause of a living being's happiness, sorrow, fear and unhappiness. That's why a living being is entangled with this material world .

Q:– Which body favours the living being to serve the Lord ?

A:– A living being cannot serve the lord until he has an astral body along with the material body. When one realises his ownself by pure devotion, the serving attitude of the soul is aroused and he gets the right to relish the ecstatic bliss related to the service of Lord Krishna.

Q:– By whom a living being is effected and can't know himself?

A:– The knowledge of a living being is captivated by the Lord's illusory potency. His outward knowledge is effected by that prime nature of a living being. So he can't think himself to be devoid of prime natures.

Q:– Who feels sorrow due to birth and death ?

A:– A person who saves more than his requirement is called a thief, he always enjoys the sorrow due to death and birth

Q:– What is an absolute knowledge ?

A:– To know one's object of worship and real self form is called absolute knowledge .

Q:– How can we know that we are endowed with devotion ?

A:– It is possible to be related with God by devotion. Devotion is the only way to gain the service of the Lord. When our transcendental eyes are cleared with devotion we are able to know the God in His real form. The God manifests Himself in the Heart of a pure devotee.

Q:– What happens when a living being comes to the state of contemplation and state of loving attitude to the Lord ?

A:– In the State of contemplation one attracts the Lord Krishna with his associates but in the loving state one relishes the devotion to the Lord sporting with His associates .

Q:– What is devotion ? Please explain it graciously ?

A:– The state of mind which thinks over Krishna in a conducive way being devoid of jnana, karma and yoga is called unalloyed devotion. Devotion is internal in nature . It is not a thing to show outwardly.

Q:– Can a living being serve the Lord without the grace of his resort deity ?

A:– It can't be so. One's spiritual master is the resort deity and his disciples belong to the resort class of servitors or the dust particles of the resort deity. When one realises this he can serve the Lord. When one serves His spiritual master properly he attains the service of Lord by his grace. It is not possible to get the service of Lord through personal attempt .

Q:– Let me know the difference between knowledge and devotion ?

A:– One can remove the forgetting attitude to the Lord by devotion. Knowledge roots out the virtue and vice arising out of one's pursuits. But devotion destroys the seed of pursuits causing virtue and vice and also destroys completely the main root of ignorance .

Devotion destroys the sinful fruits of past deeds and present deeds .

Q:– Why is the mind entangled with sorrow and happiness ?

A:– As long as the mind is under the control of primal quality of birth and goodness second basic quality of a human being and ignorance, it remains being absorbed in sense gratification with its senses of knowledge and senses related to actions.

Q:– What is the real form of a soul ?

A:– All the things in the transcendental world have emanated from the Sandhini potency of the Lord. Knowledge and will power has emanated from Sandhini potency and chit potency is the cause of bliss. The embodiment of these three potencies is the real form of the Jiva Soul.

Q:– What is the significance of the Lord ?

A:– The Chitpotency, Sambit potency and Hladini potency are minutely present with a living being, whereas they are in complete form with the Lord. There lies the significance of the Lord .

Q:– What is the difference between the mind and soul ?

A:– The soul never tries for sense gratification whereas the mind is engaged in sense gratification. This is the difference between the two.

PRECEPTOR'S PRECEPTS IN BRIEF

1. A living being attains devotion to the Lord as a result of congregational chanting of the Lord's name. He relishes the devotional mellow. So one should take shelter under the lotus feet of the Lord Sri Chaitanya Dev. It is concluded that one gets the grace of the Lord by loving the followers of Chaitanya Dev like Swarup and Rupa.
2. A living entity is an eternal servant of Lord Krishna. One realises his ownself by chanting the transcendental name of Lord Krishna which is a service of Lord Krishna, the Cupid .
3. Encouragement and perseverance are the two main qualities of a devotee. The material world can't give displeasure to a true devotee.
4. One should chant the name of the Lord Krishna in a clear heart. One should be attentive not to allow the detachment of his senses from meditation on Lord's form, attributes and pastimes .
5. I am completely selfish because my object of worship is Krishna and I belong to Krishna. I have no love for any other thing unrelated to Krishna.
6. We have no aim other than serving the spiritual master as well as Lord Krishna. An intelligent person should guide his intelligence to acquire this.
7. The human society has one duty that is to chant congregationally the name of Lord Krishna. This is the most munificent quality of Sriman Mahaprabhu, because a living being attains Krishna Prema which is not attainable by the demigods .
8. Association with the saints endows one with the capacity to lead a spiritual life.

KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION (Regd.)

LIST OF TEMPLES AROUND INDIA

1. Sri Chaitanya Chandra Ashram
I. Thota, Puri, Orissa,
Pin 752002
Ph. 06752–24455
2. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Radha Vrindavan Chandra Mandir
208, Seva Kunj mahalla,
Vrindavan Dt., Mathura,
Pin 281122, U. P.
Ph:6565–443603
3. Sri Gaura Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, Mayapur,
Dt. Nadia, West Bengal.
Ph:03472–45313
4. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Aryapuram, Rajahmundry,
East Godavari Dt. (A.P.)
Ph:0883–79444
5. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Math
Srikrishna Nagar,
Visakhapatnam – 530 002.
Ph:0891–560549
6. Srimad Bhagvat Geetamandir
Goshpad Kshetram,
Kovvur, W.G.Dt.(A.P.)
7. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Gurukul Ashram
Sri Radha Nagar
Peda Waltair
Visakhapatnam (A.P.)
8. Sri Bhaktivinod Ashram
H.K.Road, Ananda Nagar

Berhampur–760 006(A.P.)
Ph: 0680–208400
9. Sri Goura–Vani–Vinod–Ashram
Subash Palli, Kharagapur
Dt. Midinapur(W.B.)
10. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Kotta Peta, Undi
W.G.Dt.(A.P.)
11. Sri Bhakti Sidhanta Gaudiya Math
44, Panch Rulla, Kharagpur,
West Bengal, Minapur (Dt.)
12. Sri Shyamasundar Ragunath Mandir,
Village – Chelia,
Po – Sasan padar,
Dt. Ganjam, Orissa.
13. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Near Bada Bandha
Diga – Pahedi – 761 102
Dt. Ganjam, Orissa.
14. Sri Chaitanya Reasearch
Institute (Sri K. Ch. Math)
Tara Huda, Garage Chackka
Bhubaneswar, Orissa.
15. Sri Ram Mandir
Peda Waltair,
Visakhapatnam. (A.P.)
16. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission
Sri Hari – Bhakti Prdayani
Sabha, Barabati, Balasore,
Orissa.
17. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Khanta – Para
Dt. Balasore, Orissa
18. Sri Bhakti Vijaya Prusottam
Teerth Granthalaya
Sri Krishna Chaitanya Marga
Rajahmundry – 4, (A.P.)
19. Sri Sachinandan Granthalaya
I. tota, Puri, Orissa.

SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION

List of Publications

Books Published In English:

*Divine Name, *Six Goswamis, *Lord Gauranga, *Lord Jagannath, *Sri Mahaprabhu (His life and Precepts), *Rai Ramananda, *Nam Bhajan, *Vaishnabism, *Sri Krishna Supreme God Head, * Sri Chaitanya Bhagabat.

Books Published in Telugu:

Sri Krishna Ch. Mahaprabhu, *Sri Saraswati Goswami, *Prema Bhakti Siksyastakam, *Geetavali, *Stotra Ramavali Part I and II, *Krishna Bhajanam Gaudiya Vaishnav Sidhanta Sangraha, *Mahamantra Bhasyam, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Arnrutam, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Tatparya Sahitamu, *Upadesamrutam.

Books Published in Utkala Bhasha:

Chaitanya Bhagavata, *Srimad Bhagavatam, *Hari Bhakti Vilas, *Bhakti Rasamrita Sindhu, *Bhagavatarka Marichimala, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta– Moola Mantram, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Baladeva Bhasya, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Sreedhar Bhasya, *Atma Dharma, *Gopal Krishna Geetavali, *Sat Sampradaya, *Brihat Bhagavatamrita, *Sri Kshetra Parichaya, *Manava Jeevena Gupta Rahasyam, * Siddhanta Monthly Magazine, *Sri Gaura Parsada Charitabali, *Ekadasimahatmya, *Sri Radharasa Sudhanidhi, *Srila Prabhupad's History, *Sahasrabali, *Bruhat Bhagabatamruta, *Sikhyastak.

Please contact any of our centres for the books in other languages of Bengali, Hindi etc.

SIX GOSWAMINS

All Glory to the Divine Master and Lord Gauranga

SIX GOSWAMINS

Collected by

Paribrajakacharya 108 Sri Shrimad Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami
Maharaj

Founder–Acharya
Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission (Regd.)

Published by:
SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION

Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust,
Sri Bhakti Vinod Ashram,
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (Gm.)
Orissa, INDIA, Ph.– 208400

Second Edition – 1997
(Rasa Purnima – 14th Nov. 1997)

WWW Edition – 2002 To be had at:–

1. SRI CHAITANYA CHANDRA ASHRAM,
ITOTA, PURI–752001

Near Gundicha Mandir, Phone–24455

2. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sree RADHA VRINDABAN CHANDRA MANDIR
208, Sevakunja, P.O.–Vrindavan,
Dt.–Mathura, pin–281121, Phone–443603

3. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sree Goura Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, P.O.–Mayapur, Dt.–Nadia(W.B.)
Pin–741313, Phone–45313

4. SRI BHAKTI VINODE ASHRAM
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (G.M.)
Pin–760006, Phone–208400

5. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM
Aryapuram, Rajahmundry
Dt.–E.Godavari (A.P.), Pin–533104, Ph–79444

6. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MATH
Maharanipeta, Sreekrishna nagar
Visakhapatnam, (A.P.) Pin–530002 Ph–560549

CONTENTS

Preface

Sri Sanatana Goswami

Sri Rupa Goswami

Sri Ragunath das Goswami

Sri Jeeva Goswami

Sri Ragunath Bhatta Goswami

Sri Gopal Bhatta Goswami

PREFACE

The life and teachings of Six Goswamies in this brochure are collections from the writings of Rupanuga Acharyas.

The Advent of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and Six Goswamies into this world is a most marked event even to great celestials.

The ideal lives and teachings of saints are a precious heritage for guiding the destinies of men and for inspiring them in their march forward to the attainment of Divine Bliss. We all know that the lives of great men carry with them, magnetic influence from which we can not often escape. Both in the mundane as well as in the spiritual realms, lives of great personalities, the hardships and the selfless sacrifices which they underwent for their respective causes, generate in the minds of men, an impetus to emulate them. Our country is flooded with the autobiographies of many eminent persons who have achieved their greatness both in the physical and intellectual regions. Those biographies somehow do not help humanity to achieve real eternal peace and happiness, nor do these settle the discord and chaos that are on the increase, without the lives and teachings of saintly personages the achievements of humanity must, indeed be very poor. God-Loving saints or Bhaktas who come down and move in the world, not for any selfish purpose of their own, but solely for the welfare of humanity, are none other than the agents of the Lord, deputed by Him for the expression of the purpose of regeneration and uplift of all fallen souls.

Six Goswamies like Sri Sanatana, Sri Rupa, Sri Raghunath Das, Sri Jeeva, Sri Raghunath Bhatta and Sri Gopal Bhatta are celebrated devotees of Sri Gauranga Mahaprabhu, occupy prominent position amongst the devotees of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and a long life of devotees, India can boast of. They followed the total course of Saranagati. The six-fold features of Saranagati are : 1. activities favourable to devotional progress, 2. unfavourable acts that arrest devotional progress, 3. firm confidence in the Lord. 4. choosing the Lord as Protector, 5. self dedication to the Lord, and 6. prayers with repentance.

Saranagati leads a devotee to the realisation of liberation and finally Divine Love. The various secrets and specialities in the vast field of Divine Love such as Sneh, Maan, Pranaya, Raga, Anuraga, Bhav, Mahabhav, Dasya, Sakhya, Vatsalya and Madhurya Rasas are realised only by Atma Nivedan. Atma Nivedan is complete surrender of one's body, mind, words, deeds, thoughts, Atma and all other things that he feels or claims as his own with the knowledge or relationship and guided by predominant feeling of rendering whole-hearted service to the Supreme Lord.

This small booklet is reprinted by the Bhakti Vigyan Nityananda Book Trust realising its importance for the neophyte, as well as followers of the cult of devotion by the benign guidance and advice of the President of the Book Trust as well as the Founder Acharya of Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission, Sri Srimad Bhakti Vaibhaba Puri Goswami Maharaj. The books published and we hope that this small book will be helpful to strengthen one's devotion, who finds pleasure in reading it. It is sure that the readers will get the grace of the Six Gowamins to follow up their teachings in reaching the abode of peace, Golok Dham, the sporting place of Radha Krishna, by having love and devotion of Krishna which is the summon bonum of every soul.

Glory to Sree Guru and Gauranga

SANATANA GOSWAMI

Appearance: 1410 Saka (1488 A.D.)

Disappearance: 1480 Saka (1558 A.D.)

Manifest career : 70 years;

Household career : 27 years

Vrindaban residence : 43 years.

In the twelfth century, a great famous Sarva Veda Adhyapaka Mahatma, named Sarvagna was born in a Yajurvedi Bharadwaja Gotra Brahmin family. His son was Aniruddha. Two sons were born to Aniruddha, named Rupeswar and Harihara. They were highly cultured Dharmika Vidwans. Their ancestors were rulers. The elder brother, Rupeswar lost his kingdom and settled down at Sikhar Pradesh. There he was blessed with a son named Padmanabh. He was a scholar in four Vedas and was a devotee of Lord Jagannatha. With a desire to live on the banks of the River Ganga, he came with family to Naihati in Banga–desha. Padmanabh had eight daughters and five sons. The sons were Purushottama, Jagannath, Sri Narayana, Sri Murari and Sri Mukunda. Mukunda's only son named Kumardev later on became a Suddha Vaishnaba. Kumardev had two dwelling houses – one at Bakla Chandra–dweep and another at Phatayabad in Jessore District. Kumardev had a number of children. But three of them, Sri Sanatana, Sri Rupa and Sri Vallabha were Parama Bhagavatas of Vaishnavism. Vallabha had only one child named Sri Jeeva, a gem among the Vaishnavas.

APPEARANCE OF SANATANA

According to the opinions of Sri Sachidananda Bhakti Vinoda Thakur, Sri Viswambharananda Deva Goswami, Mahant of Gopi Vallabhpur and Vanamali Lal

Goswami of Sree Radha Ramana Ghera of Vrindaban, Sree Sanatana Goswami was born on 1410 Saka or 1488 A.D. and lived in home for 27 years. After coming in contact with Sri Lord Gauranga, he left his home and spent his remaining 43 years as a Tyagi in Vrindaban to fulfil the desire of Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mahaprabhu.

LOVE TOWARDS 'VIDYA' AND 'DHARMA' FROM CHILDHOOD

Sanatana, even in his teens, acquired astounding knowledge of Logic, Vedanta, Rhetoric, Philosophy and other Dharma Sastras. We can know this from his writings. His Sikshya Gurus were Vidya Vachaspati, Vasudeva Sarvabhaurna, Sri Paramananda Bhattacharya and Professor Sri Rama Bhadra. Through learning one should have growing attachment to the Lotus Feet of the Supreme Lord Krishna. It is real Para Vidya. When learning creates more love towards sensual pleasures, it is not proper learning. So this is considered to be Aparā Vidya. Sri Sanatana dedicated his wisdom and learning in the eternal service of the Supreme Lord Krishna.

HIS LOVE FOR SRIMAD BHAGAVATA

Sri Sanatana and his brother Sri Rupa at an early age were initiated with Sri Krishna Mantra and followed pure Vaishnavism. Sri Vallabha his younger brother was a devotee of Sri Rama. These brothers used to live together in Ramakeli Village – (Maldah District) – Sri Sanatana was daily serving Sri Radha Krishna and reading Srimad–Bhagavata. Sri Krishna being pleased with his sincere service, one day came to him as a Brahmin and offered him Srimad Bhagavat Book. Sanatana was glad to find that his previous night's dream became a reality.

After receiving Srimad Bhagavata, he daily discussed the same with great scholars and used to enjoy Sri Krishna Leelamruta. He wrote an admirable commentary on Srimad Bhagavata X Canto, known as "Dasama Tippani". In Ramakeli village very near to his dwelling house, he grew a Kadamba flower garden and in it, he established Radha Kunda (a pool), Syama Kunda, Lalita Kunda and altogether eight Kundas, experiencing the Divine Love of Sri Radha Krishna.

The ruler of Gauda Dash, Hussain Sah was attracted by the knowledge, learning, character and nice qualities of Sri Sanatana. He offered him the chief– minister's post and accepted his brother, Sri Rupa as a minister of his state. Pleased with their administration, Hussain gave Sanatana and Roopa the titles of Sakarmallik and Davirkhas respectively besides a vast landed property. The people of the state were also, highly satisfied with the administration of Sri Sanatana.

SANATANA'S LOVE FOR MUSIC AND DRAMA

Sanatana had incomparable wealth, He constructed an auditorium to conduct Dramas and musical performances. Dramatic and prophetic experts, famous poets, instrumental music players and musicians from various parts of the country, were profusely honoured by him. He used to pay special attention to artists coming from Karnataka. For their lodging and boarding and for learning the arts, he constructed a building on the banks of the river Ganga in Bhathepalli.

SANATANA'S ATTACHMENT FOR DHARMA

He was unhappy in doing the service of a Yavana ruler. He never gave up his Varna–Ashrama Dharma, though he was serving the anti–Hindu king. Daily he was performing Brahmin's rites. He wrote a book called Sadachar Paddhati which contains the daily rules, regulations and rites of a Varnashrami. As for himself he did not give up observing the principles of his ancient culture. As a house–holder, he used to feed Sadhus, Brahmins, poor, destitutes and invalid people daily. Thus a man of abundant wealth became a man of little wealth. Hearing the greatness of Sanatana, people from distant places used to come to him.

DREAM ABOUT HIS LOVE FOR SRI CHAITANYA

One night in a dream Sanatana saw a handsome Sanyasi who asked him not to waste his time, energy and life by acquiring sensual pleasures but to engage himself in the service of the Supreme Lord Krishna, by going to Vrindaban to re–establish the dwindled holy places and to preach Bhakti Sastras. Sanatana woke up and told the contents of his dream to Roopa, his brother. Sri Roopa hearing the wonderful news said, "Yes. I have heard the same news through Sri Jagannath Misra at the holy Mayapur too. It means Lord Krishna has come to save us. He is Patitapavana. We should embrace his Lotus Feet." So saying, both of them with tears in their eyes fell down unconscious.

HIS LETTER TO SRI CHAITANYA

Thinking often and often about the auspicious dream Sanatana developed asceticism but was unable to keep patience. Both the brothers, consulting their mother with grief and modesty, wrote a letter to Sri Gaur Sundar. As no reply was received they humbly wrote him consecutive letters. At last, Sri Gaur Sundar replied them in one Sloka which reads as under – "If a woman is attached to a man other than her husband, she appears to be very busy in carrying out her house–hold duties, but within her heart she always relishes her feelings of association with her paramour."

Knowing the contents of the Sloka, the two brothers offered themselves to Gauranga. They were very anxious to have the Darsan of Sri Chaitanya. At that time, Sri Chaitanya after taking Sanyasam went to Puri from Nabadwip and later on travelled over South India distributing Prema Bhakti, to all, without any distinction of caste or creed. Returning from South India, Lord Gauranga came to Ramakeli in North Bengal, on his way to Vrindaban, to mitigate the anxiety of Sanatana and Roopa by giving them His Darsan.

SRI GAURANGA AT RAMAKELI

Sri Chaitanya's arrival at Ramakeli was made known to Hussain Sah, the Muslim ruler of Gauda Desha, by his muslim guard. He said, "A Hindu Sanyasi has come to Ramakeli dancing and singing Hare Krishna with innumerable followers. We anticipate some calamity to our country." Hussain Sah, hearing about Sri Gauranga, remembered the forecast of a Fakir. At the same time one of his Hindu Officers, named Kesab came there. Hussain asked, "Is it a fact that a Sanyasi with a number of followers has arrived at Ramakeli ?" Kesab, knowing the ruler to be anti–Hindu, without disclosing the whole fact, said, "Yes, a Sanyasi with two or three people has come to Ramakeli and only one or two persons are going to see him."

Hussain Sah said, "Kesab, why do you try to hide facts? I have come to know that He is not an artificial Sanyasi and as such Hindus are worshipping Him as the ruler of the Universe. I know that I am humble before Him. So I am going to pass orders that no one in my country should do Him harm or disrespect Him." Understanding the words of Hussain Sah to be unbelievable, Kesab Khan secretly sent word to Sri Gauranga to leave Ramakeli soon. When Hussain Sah asked Davirkhas about Shri Chaitanya, he said to the ruler, With whose mercy you could become the ruler of Gauda desh, with whose mercy wherever you go, you return with all success, it is He who has born in your country. You are a king with Vishnu Amsa. So you better ask for yourself. Why do you ask me such questions ?" Then the king said, "I definitely understand Him as Eswara." Praising the king, for his belief in Him, Roopa returning home, decided to meet Sri Chaitanya with his brother Sanatana.

TWO BROTHERS MEETING SRI CHAITANYA

In the night the two brothers changing their dress, came to Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, when Nityananda and Haridas first blessed them and led them to Sri Chaitanya. The two brothers, with straw in their mouths, fell at the Lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya. They were weeping to express their miserable state. "Oh Lord we are extremely wicked and sinful for having joined with the low and wicked. We are stupid. There can be no sinners greater than us. You are the indweller of our hearts, you know everything. Please rescue these fallen souls as you had redeemed Jaggai and Madhai. Of course we are greater sinners than those two of Nabadwip. We always do sins, serving Mlechas. We have fallen into the deep dark Samsara Kupa. Unless you bless us, there can be no choice of our redemption."

Listening to the humble prayer of Rupa and Sanatana Sri Chaitanya Dev said, "Your heart-melting words are causing pity in my heart. Previously both of you were my servitors. I could read your hearts through your letters. From to-day onwards let your Muslim names Davirkhas and Sakarmallik be changed into Roopa and Sanatana ! There is no need for me to come to Gauda desh but for seeing you. None knows my desire." Afterwards while returning home Sanatana said, "My Lord, I think it is not proper for you to visit Vrindaban with thousands of people." Keeping in mind the advice of Sanatana, Chaitanya Dev returned from Kanai Natsala to Puri without going to Vrindaban.

After seeing Sri Chaitanya, the two brothers decided to quit the service of the muslim ruler, inspite of his respects for them. Taking Sri Sanatana's permission Roopa distributed his wealth and landed property among his family members, relatives and Brahmins, keeping ten thousand Mohurs with a wealthy merchant for the expenses of Sanatana. Discharging off all his duties without Hussain Sah's knowledge, he sent one reliable person to Puri to get the programme of Sri Chaitanya's visit to Vrindaban.

SANATANA IN JAIL

Having no relish for the services of Hussain Sah, Sanatana, applying for leave on medical grounds, used to be at home with scholars discussing Srimad Bhagavata. When he was sent for by the king, Sanatana expressed his inability pleading his ill-health. Having no belief in him, Hussain Sah himself came to see him and found him hale and healthy. Sanatana, offering his due respects, requested the king to give him relief from service.

Hussain had no mind to comply with Sanatana's request as, in his opinion and belief, there was no other person who was competent enough to shoulder the responsibilities of the Chief Minister. "Why do you wish for relinquishing your services to the kingdom when I am allowing you to perform your religious ceremonies ?" Hussain said to Sanatana. He returned to his Bhavan in an angry mood and ordered Sanatana to be put in Jail so that he might not go anywhere.

Roopa came to know that Sri Chaitanya was leaving Puri to Vrindaban. So, he being followed by his younger brother Anupama, started for Vrindaban informing the same to Sanatana. The letter was sent through Isana, a faithful servant. The letter was in the form of a sloka. The meaning of it was – Do you not know where Yadupati of Mathura is ? Or do you not know where Raghupati of Uttara Kosala is ? Taking their example keep your mind firm from hurry, or perturbation.

LIBERATION FROM PRISON

Sri Sanatana desired to be liberated from jail. So he approached the jailor and said, "Is it not your Dharma to help a person who helped you ? Is it not through my favour that got this job ? Never mind. I promise to give you 5000 Mohurs if you release me." Of course, Dharma and Artha tempted him. But for fear of the Badsha, he did not release him. Sanatana went on "Please, release me and then report to the king that Sanatana jumped into the river Ganga when let out to answer the call of nature and in spite of sincere search the body could not be traced out," I will leave this country as a Daravesh, going to Mecca." So saying Sanatana brought seven thousand mohurs and placed them before him. Greed changed the jailor's mind and Sanatana was released from the prison.

Pious Sanatana, of course, deceived the prison authorities for the sake of his service to the Supreme Lord Krishna. He did all this because he had no liking for power or wealth like a mundane soul.

PILGRIMAGE TO VARANASI

Sanatana, coming out from the prison anxiously started on his journey with his faithful servant Isana, towards Varanasi, to see Sri Chaitanya's Lotus feet. Being an escaped prisoner, he left aside the trunk road and walked along the forest route and reached the bottom of the Patada mountain, where a leader of a gang of robbers met him, offered hospitality and promised to help him to cross over the forest with the help of his gangmen. The intelligent Sanatana doubted his behaviour towards them. He suspected that he had come to kill them both and take away the wealth which he suspected to be with them. In that evening, after brunch after three days' fasting, Sanatana asked Isana, if he had any money with him, to which the servant said that he had seven mohurs. Scolding him for carrying the Death-God (gold mohurs) with him, he took away those mohurs and gave them to the leader of the robbers. The leader felt Sanatana to be the personification of truth and sincerity, did not accept the mohurs and on the other hand helped them to cross over the mountain in the night. "Money is the cause of miseries," said Sanatana, "You have spared our lives, does not mean that others too shall spare us. So please accept these seven mohurs as a favour done to us." Then the leader of the gang was pleased to accept the money and left the place with his four escorts. Sanatana later on, found that his servant had still one more gold mohur with him. Sanatana asked him, "Why did you lie that you had Only seven gold mohurs with you ? Why did you keep this one with you ?" Isana replied, "Oh master, I wish to utilise this in your service. How long can you travel bare and sore footed ? How can we continue our further journey without a single pie on hand ?" Sanatana ordered him not to follow him further but to go back home with that gold mohur.

Honouring his master's command, Isana returned home weeping. Penniless and fearless Sanatana, with poor dress walked alone till he reached Hazipur.

MEETING SRIKANTA

Srikanta a relative of Sanatana, was astonished to see Sanatana being fully exhausted. He immediately came near him. They both conversed. Srikanta felt pity for his imprisonment and his trial in getting out of the prison, and requested him to take rest, changing his dirty clothes. But Sanatana did not accept his request. But Srikanta with great difficulty was able to persuade him to accept his wish and act accordingly.

Having refreshed and recouped, Sanatana alone proceeded further, maintaining himself on fruits, roots and water till he reached Varanasi.

AT VARANASI

Sanatana came to know that Sri Chaitanya Dev, after returning from Vrindaban, was staying in the house of Chandra Sekhara at Varanasi. Reaching his house, he sat in the verandah. The omniscient Sri Chaitanya, knowing the arrival of Sanatana, asked Chandrasekhar to bring in the Vaishnab sitting outside in the verandah. Chandrasekhar came out and saw no Vaishnab there except a Darabesh, in Muslim dress. Going in, he told the matter to Sri Chaitanya Dev. Sri Chaitanya asked him to bring in that Darabesh. Chandrasekhar did so. All that glitters are not gold. One should not be estimated from his outward appearances. He, who has engaged his ten senses for the satisfaction of Sri Krishna, is the real Vaishnab. Being a devotee of Sri Chaitanya, how is it that Chandrasekhar could not even recognise Sanatana ? Without Krishna's blessing no one can know a Vaishnaba.

No sooner did Sanatana enter in, than Sri Chaitanya ran to embrace him. Sanatana stepped back requesting Sri Chaitanya not to touch him. "I am a wretched creature with foul company. I am unfit to be touched by Your Holiness." Sri Chaitanya set aside his words and embraced him again and again. Observing this, Chandrasekhar was highly astonished. Lord Chaitanya said, "Sanatana, you can redeem the whole universe through your sublimated devotion to Krishna. So I embrace you to purify myself. You are a sacred tirtha. (water)" Next, they both sat down when Lord Chaitanya asked him how he could come out of the prison. Sanatana, narrated the whole story. Lord Chaitanya said, "Krishna is more compassionate and Holy. He has liberated you from the dreadful hell. No one can understand the depth of the ocean of His mercy. Your two younger brothers met me at Prayag. Both of them have gone to Vrindaban." Sanatana was introduced to Tapan Misra and Chandrasekhar by Sri Chaitanya. On that day Tapan Misra invited Sanatana to take food in his house.

Chandrasekhar had Sanatana his shave and then his bath in Ganga. Afterwards, a new cloth was offered to him by Tapan Mishra, but due to asceticism he rejected the new cloth and accepted a worn out cloth which he used as kaupina, bahirvas and uttariya. On that day, he accepted the Mahaprasad in the house of Tapan Misra. One day a Maharastra Brahmin, giving him Bhikya, requested him to take Bhikya in his house as long as he stayed at Varanasi, but he rejected the offer saying that as an ascetic, he should not take bulky Bhikya from any person except only madhukari.

Sanatana, the minister of Gauda Desa, who quitted prosperity and power, was progressing in his worship of Sri Krishna with alms obtained from different places and covering his body with torn cloths. Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was extremely glad for Sanatana's renunciative life.

Srikanta gave Sanatana a blanket. As Sri Chaitanya was often looking at the blanket, Sanatana, could understand Sri Chaitanya's dislike for his wearing the blanket. So one day he went to the Dasaswamedh Ghat in Varanasi and gave the blanket to a Sadhu, and took his patched garment. When asked by Sri Chaitanya Dev about the costly blanket, Sanatana , replied that he gave it to a Sadhu and took his patched garment instead. Just as an efficient doctor never keeps the remainder of the disease, Lord Krishna destroyed all his (Sanatana's) worldly diseases completely. Does the man who has given up all sensual pleasures, and living on madhukari require a costly blanket ? If so, people will mock at him. Bound souls should always follow the excelling holy people.

In Geeta, Krishna told Arjuna – Commoners perform what the great men do. They follow what He accepts as the standard of action. "Sanatana, your action is very ideal too. Following you, many people will attain eternal bliss. A man of practice can preach religion," Sri Chaitanya exclaimed. Sanatana replied, "He, who has released me from the worldly attachment, has also cured me now of this last remnant of worldliness." Being born low and having mixed with vile companions, as a fallen soul, I have wasted all my life immersed in the foul sin of worldliness. O Lord! as you have graciously saved me please tell me what my duties are ? Who am I ? Why do these (Tri tarpams) three afflictions trouble me. I know not even how to inquire about the goal of life and the process for reaching it. Please be merciful to unfold all these truths to me." Sri Chaitanya said, "O Sanatana, by the mercy of Lord Krishna, you know all these truths and so these threefold miseries, do not affect you. It is the nature of Sadhus to inquire and to know the subject throughly so that they might be in their guard of not being affected by them. You are indeed the proper agent to preach the bhakti doctrine."

SANATANA SIKSHA

Sri Chaitanya taught Sanatana all the Inner truths of Vaishnava theology. It consists of :

(1)The true conception of Jeeva (soul) and the Absolute Entity Sree Krishna : The jeeva is the eternal servant of Sree Krishna and is the manifestation of both the distinct and non-distinct from Him, like the rays of the Sun and the sparks of the fire. He is distinct in the sense that Sri Krishna is the infinite Absolute Entity whereas he, (the souls), is the infinitesimal or the spiritual atomic part of the Absolute as the ray of the Sun is distinct from the Sun itself. He is non-distinct or identical with Krishna in the sense that both Krishna and we are of the same essence, Sat-Chit- Ananda (Being-Intelligence-Bliss.)

(2)The relationship between the Absolute Entity and the Jeeva and the world is known as A Chintya Bheda – Abheda.

(3)The threefold potencies of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna are, Chit sakti (internal Spiritual potency), Achit sakti (External deluding material potency) and Jeeva sakti (intermediate potency).

(4)The Jeevas are of two kinds (1) those that are free from the bondage of the triple qualities of maya and (2) those that are fallen or conditioned i.e., those that are enthralled by the tripal qualities of maya.

(5)The means of liberation from the bondage of maya consists (i) in submissive listening to the Sad Guru (the Absolute – Realised soul as guide), (ii) in following the scriptures especially Srimad Bhagavata, the authoritative undisputable commentary of the Vedanta Sutras, (iii) and in sublimation to the Chaitanya Guru (the indwelling monitor). These three entities are the manifestations of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna for imparting the jeeva or soul the real knowledge that Sri Krishna is the only Supreme-God-Head and the only Object of worship, but he forgets Him under the spell of Maya.

(6)The authenticity of the self-revealed Vedas regarding the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna as the only Object of worship. The Vedas declare the three principles as follows: (i) The object of relationship is Sri Krishna, (ii) The means of attaining ultimate end is Krishna Bhakti and (iii) The ultimate end is Krishna Prema.

Sri Chaitanya deva, by illustrating a parable, explained how bhakti only is the means to the end of reaching the goal of life. A learned astrologer visits a poor man and tells him that his deceased father has left him a legacy of immense wealth which lies buried underground of his premises. To have the wealth, the poor man digs on the South; he does not find the treasure. On the contrary, hornets and wasps attack him. He thinks, "I should have dug on to the West." He digs there and finds a demi- god standing in his way. Next he digs on the North, where he finds a huge python to swallow him up. Later on he digs a little on the East and finds the vessel of immense treasure. His worldly miseries disappear with the possession of the wealth. Similarly, the Sastras assert that one can attain Sri Krishna by the path of bhakti, the eastern and the right royal road of devotion leaving aside the South, i.e., karma or action, the West i.e. yoga or austerity and the North i.e. gnana or abstract knowledge. Hence, Karma Yoga, and Gnana form no integral part of bhakti.

Hence, devotional faith is the only means of attaining the love of Krishna. At the incoming of wealth, as pleasure is ensured and poverty disappears, so pure bhakti kindles love for Sri Krishna in a person and frees him from the bondage of maya. So the direct fruit of love is neither cessation of poverty nor cessation of re- birth but the positive realisation of Eternal Bliss which is Divine Love. This is the highest end of human existence.

(7)Vrajendra Nandan is Sri Krishna Swarupa. He is the Supreme Entity, second to none, the beginningless, yet the beginning of all beginnings, and the fountain head of all causes. He is the Akhila Rasamrit Murti, the embodiment of the nectarine ocean of all rasas as well as the Chief Enjoyer of all rasas. He is the All beautiful ever in the budding prime of youth. He is the eternal Adolescent, the Embodiment of All-Being, Intelligence, Bliss, the All-powerful, Omniscient and Omni-present, Absolute Entity, the Supreme Lord of all Lords, and the Supreme Enjoyer of all entities, whose eternal abode is Goloka.

(8)The three-fold forms of Sri Krishna are (A) The Svayam-Rupa; (His eternal form as he is); (B)The Tadekatma Rupa (His other forms of His own and self); and (C) The Avesa Rupa (His Entranced forms).

(A) Swayam-Rupa is two-fold: (1) as Nanda Nandana in Vraja and (2) as Swayam-Prakas. This is of two kinds prabhav prakas and vaibhav prakas. (B) Tadekatma-Rupa is He, who is identical with Swayam-Rupa Krishna, but appears to differ in the Form, Ego and Shape from Him. Tadekatma-Rupa is two fold (1)Vilas, and (2) Swamsa. Vilas is two fold (a) Prabhav Vilas, (b)Vibhav-Vilas. The four-fold forms of Prabhav Vilas are (1)Vasudeva (2) Sankarsana (3) Pradyumna and (4) Aniruddha, who have extended themselves into twenty forms and designated as Vaibhav-Vilas.

(9)Swamsa is two-fold; (a) The presiding deities, who guide Prakriti maya and jeevas, and (b) the Preserver of the Gods and the destroyer of the demons. The Swamsas are the six-fold Avataras or Descents.

Sri Krishna is the Lord or Weilder of His three internal Potencies: (1) His Chitsakti (Power of will), (2) Gnana Sakti (Power of intelligence) and (3) Kriya Sakti (Power of action).

The two-fold phases of maya are, (1) Prakriti (the instrumental or efficient cause of the universe), and (2) Pradhana (the material or ingredient cause of Universe.)

Sri Gauranga then narrated the various deeds of Sri Krishna in His different periods of life and extolled the Eternity and Super-excellence of His adolescent age, the one and the same with His beautiful all-loving Syama Sundara form. The Supreme Lord Sri Krishna manifests Himself in the fullest degree of Amorous Love in Vraja, while in successively less degrees in Mathura and Dwaraka. The leelas of the Supreme Lord are eternal and revolve in succession, like the Stellar orbs round the fourteen worlds in one day of Brahma, for Fourteen manvantaras. Sri Krishna always dwells in the three eternal Regions of Gokula, Mathura and Dwaraka. I could not plunge into the boundless nectarine ocean of Sri Krishna's Divine powers but have touched only a drop of it. Sri Krishna's own form, the Sweetest of the sweet is well adapted to His sports in the mundane plane. Of all the leelas of Sri Krishna, His Human leela is the best and the most charming, the human form is His swarupa or own personality. It is the fullest, highest and sweetest personality. His Attire as a cow-boy with Flute on hand, His budding prime of youth, His graceful thrice-bent dancing pose with sweet charming smile on His all beautiful face – all attune with the graces of His human leela.

The Sastras unanimously declare that Suddha-Bhakti to Sri Krishna is the only means (Abhidheya) to attain Krishna-Prema (Love for Him is the Ultimate summum bonum).

Jeevas are of two kinds, nitya mukta (eternally free), and nitya baddha (eternally bound). While rotating in the wheel of karma, if a jeeva comes in contact with the sadguru and be reminded of Sri Krishna as his eternal Lord, he worships Him under the guidance of His guru.

Karma, Gnana, Yoga and other means, when divorced from Krishna bhakti, are of no avail. Saranagati or unconditional surrender to the Lotus Feet of Sri Krishna is the only means of deliverance.

Sri Krishna is like the Sun, while maya is like darkness. Maya or deluding energy has no power to stand before Sri Krishna.

If Sri Krishna favours any blessed being, He teaches him as dikshaguru, siksha guru and chaitya guru.

Those who have sraddha, strong faith, are eligible for bhakti. They are of three grades, 1. He, whose sraddha is based on firm sastric reason is the most eligible for bhakti and can free himself from the wordly bondage. 2. He, whose sraddha is not very firmly grounded on sastric knowledge and arguments, but puts in him the faith for Sri Krishna, belongs to the second grade and is very fortunate as well and 3. He, whose faith is delicate (not yet firm), is inferior to the both; but he, too, shall turn in to a good bhakta in course of time if he associates with bhaktas of the superior grades. These grades of bhaktas vary according to difference in the quality of their attachment and love for Sri Krishna.

All the really good qualities are found in the person of a vaishnava, because Sri Krishna's attributes diffuse themselves in His devotees.

Devotees are always compassionate, spiteless, truthful, equal to all, faultless, magnanimous, gentle, and pure in words, deed and thoughts. They are without any material possessions, universal benefactors; they are tranquil having mind and senses under control; they surrender to Sri Krishna. They are desireless, harmless and firm in their faith; and they are conquerors of hunger, thirst, affliction, fear, infirmity and death. Further, they are not affected by the six fold miseries. On the other hand they are temperate in diet, vigilant and cautious, respectful to others, modest, serious, tender-hearted, friendly to all learned and discreet, clever and skilful, reticent and not given to idle or vulgar gossip.

O Sanatana ! Kindness to jeevas, relish for chanting the holy name and sincere service to the real vaishnevas are the three fundamental characteristics of a true vaishnava.

Kindness to all, animate or inanimate, is part and parcel of the bhakti cult. When our heart's affection is targetted to the Supreme Lord, it is Divine Love, which includes the love for his creation and creatures.

A Vaidha Sadhana Bhakta is one who has no spontaneous inclination for the service of Sri Krishna but he worships Him with firm faith in obedience to the injunctions of the scriptures.

They are as follows : 1. accepting a bonafide spiritual master, 2. purification, 3. faithful service to the guru, 4. enquiring of and learning the true religion, 5. following the path Sadhus or realised souls, 6. renunciation for the pleasure of Sri Krishna, 7. residence at holy places associated with Krishna, 8. accepting livelihood that is just sufficient to keep body and soul together, 9. fasting on every ekadasi day, 10. adoring the Brahmins, the Vaishnavas, the cows and the Dhatri and Pipul trees, 11. One should avoid offences against devotional service and the holy Name, 12. to give up the company of non-devotees, 13. not accepting many disciples, 14. avoiding the study and exposition of books of various schools of thought, 15. treating loss or profit alike, 16. not being overwhelmed by grief or sorrow, 17. refraining from disrespecting other Gods and scriptures, 18. not listening to scandals against Vishnu or vaishnavas, 19. Not indulging in worldly gossip, 20. not causing anxiety to any creature on earth, either by thought or words or deed. 21. having love for devotional services or hearing, 22. Chanting his name, 23. meditating Him, 24. serving the Holy feet, 25. worshipping Him, 26. offering salutations to Him, 27. Servitude, 28. Friendship, 29. Self surrender to Vishnu and vaisnavas, 30. Dancing before the deity, 31. Singing holy songs, 32. representing before Vishnu and Vaishnavas one's helplessness. 33. Prostration before the Holy Image, 34. rising from one's seat to welcome the Holy Deity, and spiritual master 35. Following the Holy Image and Vaisnavas, 36. Visiting Holy shrines associated with Sri Krishna, 38. Hymning, 39. Chanting softly. 40. Chanting congregationally or loudly, 41. honouring Mahaprasad (42 to 44) offering Him consecrated incense, garlands and perfumed essence, 45. Witnessing the Divine Arati, 46. celebrating Mahotsava, 47. beholding the Deity with inner eye, 48. offering to the Deity what is very dear to one's own self, 49. Constant contemplation on His Lotus Feet, 50. Serving Him and His related, 51. Constant service to Tulasi and Vaishnava, 52. visiting Mathura the birth place of Krishna and, 53. praising the value of the Bhagavata scripture, 54. service to the above said four which have been approved by Krishna, 55. Energizing all activities to the service of Sri Krishna, 56. absolute reliance upon Sri Krishna's Mercy, 57. celebrating the birth day of Sri Krishna and Sri Rama in the company of devotees, 58– 63. Six fold saranagati with body mind and soul, 64. and celebrating urja or Radha– damodar vrata in the month of Kartika.

Out of these sixty–four kinds of devotional services some five types are most important. They are 1. Sri Krishna Nam Samkirtana, 2. association with Sadhus, 3. listening Srimad Bhagavata, 4. dwelling in Mathura, and 5. Worshipping the deity with full faith. Even a little performance of these five generates Love for Sri Krishna.

Ragatmika–Bhakti is only to be found among the associates of Sri Krishna in Vraja. The devotion that follows the footsteps of ragatmika bhaktas is called raganuga bhakti.

There are two kinds of cultivation of bhakti by the raganuga bhaktas i.e., external and internal. Externally a raganuga bhakta performs the devotional functions of hearing, chanting, etc., through his Physical sense–Organs; internally he realises himself to be an attendant of a Gopee, and renders day and night eternal loving confidential service to Sri Krishna the Lord of Gopies in Vrindavana. A Raganuga– Bhakta incessantly serves Sri Krishna in four–fold rasas either as a servitor, a friend, as parents or a sweetheart. A santa rasa bhakta lacks in raga.

The principles of bhava bhakti and prema bhakti are always the end or the ultimate goal of the principles of sadhan bhakti, the means.

The following are the nine gradual stages from sraddha to Prema Bhakti. 1. sraddha, 2. sadhusanga, 3. bhajan kriya, 4. anartha nivriti, 5. nista, 6. ruchi, 7. asakti, 8. bhava or rati, and 9. prema. This Prema is alone capable of capturing the heart of the unconquerable Krishna.

Even the wise fail to comprehend the speeches, acts and gestures of a Prema bhakta, whose heart is full of Love for Sri Krishna. Sri Krishna, the darling Lord of Vraja is the chief of Lovers, while Sri Radhika is at the head of His consorts. Countless are the qualities of Sri Krishna, even one of which, when heard can soothe the ears of a Bhakta. Also are endless Sri Radha's qualities of which twentyfive are the chief ones which have captured, the heart of Sri Krishna who has sixty four principal Divine qualities.

The lover, Sri Krishna, and His consort Sri Radhika, are the themes of Madhura Rasa, the Vishaya being Sri Krishna and the asraya, Sri Radhika. Similarly in the dasya rasa the asraya is a servant Chitraka or Patraka, in sakhya rasa the asraya is a friend (Dam and Sudam); in the vatsalya rasa the asraya are the parents (Nanda– Yasoda) and in the madhura rasa the asraya are the milk maids of Vraja of whom Sri Radhika is the foremost. In all these rasas Sri Krishna is the only vishaya. The rasa is tasted only by the devotees of Sri Krishna and is not comprehensible to the devotees of His other manifestations or Descents, not to speak of the nondevotees. So, to be a true devotee one should devotee himself to Lord Krishna alone and none else.

Then Lord Gauranga taught Sri Sanatana all about yukta–vairagya which consists in the proper use and enjoyment of all things, sentient, and insentient belonging to Sri Krishna in the spirit of non–attachment and condemned false Vairagya of Pseudo–asceticism and dry gnosticism. He in the course of His teachings rejected mawsala leela, Kesavatar and abduction of the queen consorts of Dwaraka and other fabricated antidevotional stories as illusory to delude men of demoniac characters.

The Lord then explained the atmarama sloka from Srimad Bhagavata in sixty–one diverse ways which astounded Sanatana who implored the Lord to inspire him with true knowledge of what He had taught him. In the course of explaining the sloka the Lord greatly praised the effect of satsanga and narrated the story of a fowler who gave up his sinful profession and became a true devotee of Sri Krishna by the grace of the Holy Saint, Sri Naradagoswamy.

The absolute is the Supreme Entity focussing All being, All–intelligence and All–Bliss. He is the Beginningless, the Middleless and the Endless, yet He is the Beginning, the Middle and the End of the temporal world. He is the Prime of all causes. He is the fountain–head of all manifestations, spiritual and material. He is All– love, All–beauty and All–harmony. He is the only Attractor, the only Enjoyer, the only proprietor of all that exists. He is the only master. He is the entire whole, the central figure of Truth, Beauty, Love and Harmony. He is the Lord of all Lords. He is the chief emporium of all divine emotions. He is the Akhila Rasamrita Murty. When viewed as pure existence. He manifests Himself as Brahman, which is His Effulgent Aspect, when viewed as Conjoint existence, and Intelligence. He is Paramatma the All pervading over-soul, the partial Immanent Aspect of the Supreme Lord. When viewed as Conjoint Existence, Intelligence and Bliss, He manifests His own form as Bhagavan possessed of six-fold Divine attributes of Majesty, Glory, Beauty, Power, Intelligence and Freedom in the fullest degree. In His Majestic aspect He is Narayana, in the Vaikuntha, the lower half of the Transcendental Sphere. In His beautiful loving form, He is All-Loving and All-Beautiful Sri Krishna in Goloka, the upper half of the spiritual Realm. In His Majestic Aspect His All-Loving nature is latent; and in His All-Beautiful Loving Form, His Majestic nature is unmanifest. Brahman is realized through the path of Gnana, Paramatma, through the path of Yoga and Bhagavan the Supreme Lord through the path of Bhakti.

The Supreme lord is endowed with innumerable and unlimited potencies. Of these, there are three principal ones. They are 1. His Chit or Internal spiritual potency, from which emanates His perfect Transcendental Realm with all His Divine Entourage, 2. His Achit or external materials, eclipsing, repelling and deluding potency, which is the shadow of Chit potency, and 3. His marginal Jeeva potency lying in between the Chit and Achit potencies, giving rise to Jeeva souls that are spiritual atomic parts of his Chit (Internal) Potency. Jeevas emanate from Sri Krishna as the rays from the Sun. In the Transcendental Realm, the Absolute Entity is one and the same with his name, Form, Attributes, Entourage, Deeds and Realm, a fact which is quite different from our experiences of the mundane non-absolute plane.

The Holy Name being one and the same with Sri Krishna, reveals Himself to the pure essence of a fallen soul when it is purged of all worldly dross. No amount of mundane endeavours of hearing and chanting the Name of Sri Krishna for millions of years is competent enough to enable one to realise the true nature of the Holy Name and enkindle love for Him, unless and until one absolutely surrenders himself to the Sadguru, hears from Him the Eternal Glories of the Holy Name and chants His Name being free from all offences. Thus Sri Sanatana Goswami was taught all about Sambandha Gnana by the Lord Gauranga during His two months stay at Varanasi.

SANATANA'S JOURNEY TO VRINDABAN

Attaining spiritual strength from Sri Chaitanya Dev, Sanatana started his journey towards Vrindaban though he was anxious to go to Puri with Chaitanya Maha Prabhu, Sri Gauranga asked him to go to Vrindaban first and then from Mathura he can come to Puri. As his two brothers also had gone to Vrindaban he should go. At Mathura Sanatana met Subudhi Ray a disciple of Lord Gauranga and came to know from him the departure of Sri Roopa and Anupama to Puri. After going around twelve Vanams with the Sanodia Brahmin Sanatana also started for Puri. Subudhi Ray and Sanatana knew each other before accepting renunciation. Sanatana hesitated to accept the affection shown by Subudhi Ray. Being an extreme renounced soul Sanatana used to wander in the forest and used to live under the trees and bushes day and night. Sanatana followed the same Jharikhanda path travelled by Sri Chaitanya from Puri to Vrindaban, seeing the beauty of the thick forest. On the way due to fasting and drinking different types of water he has to suffer from the itching of the whole body; yet he came straight to Siddha Bakula where Sri Haridas Thakur was chanting three lakhs Harinam daily.

Prior to the arrival of Sanatana at Puri, Sri Roopa left for Vrindaban under the instructions of Sri Chaitanya Deva. Sri Chaitanya daily after Jagannath darsan used to visit the Namacharya Haridas Thakur. On that day Sanatana offered his Sastanga Pranam to Sri Chaitanya, while lifting and embracing him, Sanatana said, "My Lord, Please do not touch this low and worthless person whose body and skin is effected from itching". Chaitanya Dev, said, "Sanantana you are a Maha Bhagavata, I touch your holy body to purify Myself."

Sanatana thought that he cannot have the Darsan of Lord Jagannath with his sinful body, nor he could move on the grandroad out of fear of touching the servants of Lord Jagannath. Chaitanya Deva was daily embracing him, the pus of the skin– disease touching the body of the Lord, it was a great offence.

When the Lord Chaitanya asked him about his wellbeing and about all the Vaishnavas of Mathura, Sanatana said, "All are well in Vrindaban". Chaitanya Dev again said, "Sree Roopa was at Puri for ten months and left for Bengal ten days ago, your brother Anupama was dead. He was a devotee of Raghunath."

Sanatana said, "My Lord, without hatred towards our low family, you have accepted us as devotional servants to our good fortune. Anupama from his childhood used to worship Raghunath day and night. He was staying with us listening Srimad Bhagavat. To test him, we often requested him to worship Krishna, so that we three can worship Krishna together". Then he said, "You please give me Krishna Mantra initiation, I will do the service of Lord Krishna", and said that he has sold his head to Ramachandra and it was not possible for him to withdraw. We both were astonished to hear him.

Chaitanya Deva said, "Very Good, you have arrived, you stay here with Haridas and chant Krishna Mantra, daily, Govinda will bring Jagannath Prasad for both of you".

One day suddenly Chaitanya Deva said, "Sanatana, if one can attain Krishna by committing suicide, I would certainly give–up millions of bodies. You should know, He is attainable only by devotion. A devotee in separation wants to give up the body, but by such ecstatic love, one meets Krishna, such a devotee can not die. One who is deeply in love with Krishna can not tolerate separation from Him and always desires his own death. Sanatana, please do not think otherwise, engage yourself in chanting and hearing Krishna.

Very soon you will reach Krishna without any doubt. An outcaste is not unfit for devotion and a Brahmin is fit for devotion. There is no caste and family consideration in performing devotional service. Lord Krishna is always favourable to the humble, but not to aristocrats, scholars and wealthy people who are proud of their positions.

Sanatana said to himself, "Lord Chaitanya knows everything, he has forbidden me to commit suicide". Sanatana touching the Feet of the Lord said, "My Lord, you are Omniscient, Supreme and Merciful. I am a low born and sinful man. What benefit can you derive by saving my life?"

Sri Chaitanya Deva said, "Sanatana, why do you think of benefits or losses ? You have already surrendered to Me. So your body is my property and you have no right to destroy 'my property'. With your body, I have to execute many deeds. You shall have to ascertain the basic principles of devotee, of a devotion, of love of Godhead, of Vaishnava duties and of Vaishnava characteristics. You have to explain Krishna Bhakti, Krishna Prema and service to Lord Krishna. You have to re-discover the forgotten places where Sri Krishna performed His Leelas and teach people the real asceticism. Mathura Vrindaban is my own very dear abode and all these activities, I shall have to do there. As I have to stay at Puri, by the order of my mother, I can not do all these at Mathura. I have to do all these duties, through your body but sorry, you want to give it up, how I can tolerate it." Sanatana said, "My Lord, I offer my prostrations to you. None can understand you. A wooden doll chants and dances according to Your Will."

Haridas said, "Sanatana, I can understand that your body has been accepted by Lord Gauranga as His own. What He cannot do in person so you are second to none. You have to do that, too in Mathura. How fortunate you are!"

Lord Gauranga, one day in the month of May was invited by a devotee for food to Yameswar Garden. After accepting the food, He sent word to Sanatana. Sanatana came there at noon walking barefooted along the sea beach though the sand was very hot. Overwhelmed with joy for being called by the Lord, Sanatana did not feel the burning sensation in the hot sand though his feet were full of blowing bubbles. Lord Gauranga said, "Sanatana why did you come along the beach path? Due to hot sand you have blistered your soles. How could you tolerate the pain?"

Sanatana said, "I neither felt much pain nor did I know about blisters. I can not come through Simhadwar path due to frequent movement of Jagannath sevakas. If I touch them I shall be ruined."

Being highly pleased, the Lord said, "Sanatana, you can purify the whole universe including demi-gods and saints by mere touch. Yet as a devotee you are observing and protecting the Vaishnava etiquettes. By observing the etiquette you have satisfied me."

SANATANA WITH JAGADANANDA PANDIT

Once when Jagadananda, and Sanatana, while sitting together, started to discuss about Sri Krishna, Sanatana submitted his distress to the Pandit saying, "I came here to minimise my unhappiness by seeing my Lord, but He did not allow me to execute what was in my mind. Although I forbid him, He nevertheless, embraces me. His body is becoming smeared with the discharges from my itching sores. I am committing offence at His feet. There is no deliverance for me, I feel, I cannot see Lord Jagannath. This is my great uneasiness. I came here for real benefit. Now I get the opposite. I do neither know, nor can I ascertain how there I shall be beneficial at Mathura Vrindaban.

Jagadananda said, "The most suitable place for you is Vrindaban. The Lord has already ordered both of you to reside there and achieve all happiness. You have seen the Lotus feet of the Lord. Therefore, after witnessing Lord Jagannath's Rathayatra, you can go there." Sanatana said, "You have given me a good advice. Lord has given me Vrindaban for my residence." Next day, when Lord Gauranga came to Haridas, Sanatana offered his prostrations from a long distance. Lord was anxious to embrace him. Sanatana felt sorry. In spite of his unwillingness, He embraced him wholeheartedly. Then Sanatana requested the Lord to allow him to go to Vrindaban after Ratha Yatra. He consulted Jagadananda, who advised Him to do so. Hearing this, Lord Gauranga, in an angry mood, chastised Jagadananda Pandit. He said, "You are becoming childish and out of ponderness you think yourself competent to advise a person like Me. You feel that you are in the level of your spiritual Master. Not knowing your level, you dare to advise him." Falling at the feet of the Lord, Sanatana said, "I can now understand the fortunate position of Jagadananda and my misfortune." The Lord said, "Sanatana, do not think that Jagadananda is more dear to me than you. However, I can not tolerate breaking of the standard etiquette. Jaga's advice to you is intolerable for Me. So I am chastising him."

"Your body is not material but transcendental. Even if it is material, I can not neglect your body. The conception of good and bad in the material object is only mental speculation. As a Sanyasi I should show no distinction between sandal paste and mud. I have no hatred for some and liking for others. If I behave like that, I am deviating myself from Dharma. I always consider both of you to be my little children. Haridas! the stool and urine of the child is being considered as sandal paste and scented water by the mother who cleans the same with much pleasure. Similarly, the foul moisture oozing out from the itches of Sanatana, though touches my body, is no cause of hatred for Me. Lord Krishna, somehow or other created those itching sores on the body of Sanatana and sent him here to test me. Due to hatred, if I do not embrace him, I will certainly be chastised for my offences to Lord Krishna. On the first day, when I embraced you, I smelled thee pus from the itchings of your body to be the aroma of Chatusama (Sandal wood, Camphor, Agur and Musk). My dear Sanatana, do not be aggrieved for my embracing you, for when I embrace you, I actually get great pleasure. Stay with me at Puri for one year and after that I shall send you to Vrindaban." So saying, again the Lord embraced Sanatana. To the great wonder of all, Sanatana's itches disappeared immediately. Sanatana stayed with Haridas, discussing the sublime qualities of the Lord Gauranga daily.

After Dola Yatra in March, Lord Gauranga instructed Sanatana fully about his duties in Vrindaban and bade him farewell. Sanatana decided to go to Vrindaban by the same forest, traversed by Lord Gauranga, taking notes from Balabhadra about all the village, rivers, hills which he comes along his way.

On his way to Vrindaban Sanatana visited all the places where Lord Gauranga performed his pastimes. After his arrival at Vrindaban Rupa, his brother met him. Both the brothers stayed there to execute the will of Lord Gauranga.

The brothers collected many scriptures and with the help of those scriptures they renovated the disappeared and disappearing Tirthas and temples for the worship of Lord Krishna. Sanatana compiled the Bhagavatamrita which reveals the true nature of Bhakta, Bhakti and Krishna. He wrote the commentary of Srimad Bhagavata, tenth Canto, known as Dasama Tippiani from which we can know the pastimes of Lord Krishna and the methods to be adopted to have an ecstatic love for Supreme Lord Krishna. He also compiled the Hari Bhakti Vilas from which we can understand the behaviour of a devotee and the full extent of Vaishnava's duty. He compiled many other books relating to the service of Sri Madan Gopal and Govindaji also.

Sanatana often used to stay in the Gokul Mahavana. Once in Ramana Reti, Sri Madan Gopal was playing with the boys of Gokul Mahavan. Witnessing the boy's skill in his play, Sanatana was surprised and concluded that the boy was not an ordinary one, After the playmates had left the ground, Sanatana followed the boy, who later on entered the Madanmohan temple. The boy was none but Sri Madanmohan himself. Then he offered prostrations to Him and came back.

On that night Sri Madanmohan appeared before Sanatana in his dream, told him that He was anxious to stay with in his hut and disappeared. Early in the morning, he saw the Lord standing at the door-way of the hut.

Overwhelming with joy, Sanatana began to serve his Lord Madanmohan with ecstatic love. Though Sanatana was once a lord of wealth, now an ascetic, living on dried roti and chana. To serve his beloved Lord became a problem to him. He was very much perplexed to offer the little unworthy food received from others as alms. Sanatana felt unhappy to do so. As a dependant to the devotee the Lord had come to the hut of Sanatana. Knowing the heart of Sanatana, the Lord desired to manifest himself. According to the will of Madan Gopal, Krishna Das Kapur, a wealthy person, came to Sanatana and offered his wealth to construct a huge beautiful temple and arrange daily offerings on a grand scale.

The services to Sri Madanmohan went on smoothly till the shrine was destroyed by Aurangzeb. Madanmohan was taken away to the palace of the Raja of Jaipur. At a later stage, the same moorthi was given to Gopal Singh of Karauli. Till now the same Madanmohan is being worshipped there.

MADAN GOPAL GIVING MILK TO SANATANA

Sanatana had no particular residence in Vrajamandal. Now and then he would stay and move on the banks of the Yamuna, the Kusuma Sarobar, the Radha Kunda and the Pabansarobar. He would be going to Vrindaban and Govardhan out of ecstatic love for Sri Madan Gopal. He used to stay at the desolate Pavan Sarovar for a long time and meditate upon his beloved Lord Krishna. Being deeply drawn in ecstatic Love for Him, Sanatana did not feel hunger and remained fasting for three or four days, at a time. Lord Krishna, as a cowherd boy, came to him with milk and said, "Swami, none knows your location as you are staying in a desert-like place. Please drink this milk and preserve the pot. On my way back I will take it. Vrajavasis will be happy, if they see you live in a hut rather than under a tree." Charmed with the beauty and words of the Boy, Sanatana accepted the milk. After drinking the milk, Sanatana could not console himself out of ecstatic Love for Lord Krishna. So he began to weep. Lord Krishna indirectly consoled him and Vrajavasi constructed a hut for Sanatana near to Pavan Sarobar. That hut or Bhajan Kuteer is still there.

Sri Roopa often visited the Kuteer of Sanatana. Once Roopa Goswami desired to offer Kshirannam to Sanatana. But at the same time, he withdrew his proposal as he did not like to ask any one for milk, rice and sugar. Knowing the desires of Sri Roopa, Sri Radha Devi as a milk maid came to him with ghee, milk, rice and sugar and said, "Swamiji, My mother has sent these articles. Please cook payasam, offer to Lord Krishna and then you eat it." So saying, She left the place.

Sri Roopa immediately prepared kshirannam offered to Lord Krishna and then to Sanatana Goswami. Sanatana accepted very little payasamas he could not consume more. The sweet fragrance of the ksheer prasad made him unconscious due to Asta-satwikvikar. Later on hearing the whole story from Sri Roopa, he was amazed and warned him not to cherish such desires often. Sri Roopa felt sorry for his desire. On the same night Srimati Radhika appeared to him in dream and consoled him.

UNPRECEDENTED VISION NEAR GOVINDA KUNDA

Sri Rupa and Raghunath resided for some days near the Govinda Kunda on the Govardhana Giri. Sri Rupa was writing Chatu Pushpanjali. Sanatana studied the Sloka, "Veni vyalangana phana" and doubted as braided hair was compared with a hooded serpent. Without expressing his view, he went to take bath in the Govinda Kunda. At a distance, he saw beautifully well-dressed young girls playing. He saw them from behind and felt their combed and blended rope-like hair to be the black serpents climbing upon their heads. He loudly cautioned those playing girls against the danger suspected by him, but they never heeded his warning. When he ran nearer to them, they loudly laughed and disappeared. Then Sanatana could remember the comparison written by Rupa Goswami and was a little ashamed. After finishing his bath, he came to Roopa Goswami and admitted his fault before him. By this, we can believe the descriptions of Goswami's are not imaginary but practical and real truth.

SRI KRISHNA-NAM IS INVALUABLE WEALTH

While travelling, excavating the disappeared Tirthas of Vraja Bhumi, Sanatana found a Sparsamani which can transform iron into gold. As he had already acquired the invaluable Transcendental wealth, he is not in need of the material gem. So he placed it under a tree and covered it with sand. A poor brahmin was performing penance at Varanasi for wealth. Parama Vaishnava Sankara asked the Brahmin to approach Sanatana to have his desire fulfilled. The Brahmin reached Vrindaban and requested Sanatana to give him the Sparsamani. He also told him that he had come to him as ordered by Sankara. Sanatana asked him to search for it under the particular tree. Accordingly to his astonishment the Brahmin could get the Mani. After examining it with joy started his journey home-wards.

Walking some distance, the brahmin was perplexed to think that why such a valuable gem as that was neglected by him. Then he said to himself that he ought to have possessed a more valuable one than that Sparsamani. He returned immediately to Sanatana and begged him to bless him with that gem which was more valuable than that Sparsamani. Sanatana asked him to throw that gem into the Yamuna, if he was anxious for the invaluable wealth. The brahmin was very glad to carry out Sanatana's advice. Immediately Sanatana Goswami offered him Sri Krishna Nam Chintamani which purified and refreshed the whole body, mind and soul of the Brahmin. He experienced the ocean of ecstatic Bliss.

THE GOVARDHANA PARIKRAMA

Staying in Chakra Teertha, close to Govardhana Giriraj, Sanatana used to go round the Giriraj daily considering Him as Lord Krishna. Due to old age going round twentyfour miles daily became a difficult task for him. One day Krishna in the guise of Vraja Balaka came to him with a fan in his hand. The Boy, fanning Sanatana, said to him, "Swamy it is very difficult for you to go round the mountain daily walking twentyfour miles. Please accept my sound advice. This is one Sila with Lord Krishna's footprints on it. I have brought it for you from the top of this mountain. Going round this Sila is in no way less than going round the Hill." So saying the charming Boy disappeared. Then Sanatana felt very much happy and followed his sound counsel.

Both the brothers, Rupa Goswami and Sanatana Goswami were the object of love and honour for all the great devotees of Lord Gauranga. The devotees would be asking those returning from Vrindaban about Roopa and Sanatana's activities and their asceticism. They would be telling them, "The brothers have no fixed residence. They reside one night under one tree and the next night under another tree. They take food from Brahmins or Madhukari Bhiksha (alms obtained from different houses). They give up all kinds of enjoyment. At times, they are satisfied with dry bread and free chick-peas. They always chant the Holy names of Krishna. They discuss His pastimes in great jubilation. They also dance in ecstasy. They carry earthen water pots only. They wear torn quills. All the time, they render service to Lord Krishna. They sleep only for one and half hours a day. Sometimes they do not sleep even. Sometimes, they engage themselves in writing Bhakti Rasa Sastras. Sometimes they hear about Sri Gauranga and meditate upon Him."

TO FOLLOW SANATANA GOSWAMI IS ATMA DHARMA

Sanatana was the Divine teacher of Sri Rupa, whom he considered as his spiritual teacher. Sanatana Goswami is Jagadguru. Through his mercy one can get the service of Lord Chaitanya. Lord Chaitanya was subdued by Rupa and Sanatana's ecstatic love for Krishna. Sanatana was attracted by Sri Rupa's service. Sri Rupa was intoxicated in the service of Sanatana Goswami. Both Sri Jeeva and Sri Ragunath Das Goswami were true followers of Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswamis. Unless one prays with all sincerity stating his miserable state, he can not obtain the mercy of Sri Rupa Goswami and Sanatana Goswami.

Sanatana Goswami disappeared on Ashadh Purnima day at Vrindaban in 1558 A.D. having Vrindaban career for 43 years. Sanatana Goswami, in the Vraja leela was Rati manjari.

SRI RUPA GOSWAMI

Manifest career –75 yrs.,

Household –22 yrs.,

Vrindaban – 53 yrs.,

Advent 1411 Saka or A.D. 1489,

Disappearance 1486 Saka A.D. 1564.

After meeting Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu in the Ramakeli village in Gauda, Rupa and Sanatana returned to their homes, planning to give up their material attachment. So they engaged two Brahmins to chant Krishna's Name and perform Homa, so that both of them can attain shelter at the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu very soon.

Sree Rupa returned from Gauda with large quantities of wealth. He distributed half of that to brahmins and Vaishnavas, gave one fourth to his relatives and kept the remaining for personal security. Out of this one-fourth, he preserved ten thousand coins with a local grocer for the future safety of Sri Sanatana Goswami, his elder brother. When Rupa heard the news that Sri Chaitanya Dev was returning to Puri and would proceed to Vrindavan immediately he sent two messengers to Puri, to know the exact date of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's departure. The Messengers returned back from Puri and informed Sri Rupa about the departure of Sri Chaitanya to Vrindavan. Soon after receiving the message, Sri Rupa wrote to Sanatana, "Chaitanya Mahaprabhu has already started His journey for Vrindavan, we both (Rupa and Anupama) are starting to meet Him. At any cost you try to escape from the prison. I have deposited ten thousand coins with the grocer. Somehow or other get your-self released and come to Vrindaban."

With his younger brother Anupama (Sree Vallabha) a great devotee of Lord Sri Ramachandra; Sri Rupa Goswami came to Prayag and both were pleased to hear the news that Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was staying there.

At Prayag, when Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was going to have the Darsan of Vindu

Madhav, being followed by hundreds of thousands of people crying, dancing, chanting and rolling on the ground exclaiming "Krishna, Krishna", the Rivers Ganga and Yamuna were not able to flood Prayag with water as Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu had already enundated the whole area of Prayag with waves of ecstatic love for Lord Krishna.

Seeing the heavy crowd, the brothers stood outside and witnessed Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's ecstatic dance of love at the temple of Lord Vindu Madhav. Later on when Mahaprabhu was sitting alone in the house of a South Indian brahmin, Rupa and Anupama came to meet Him. Seeing the Lord from a distance both the brothers, with straw in their mouths, fell down on the ground and offered their obeisances with ecstatic emotion they recited Sanskrit slokas and offered a number of prostrated obeisances. Mahaprabhu asking them to get up and come nearer to Him, said "it is not possible to describe Lord Krishna's mercy for He has delivered you both from sensuality den. A learned vedic scholar without devotion is not nearer to Me than a dog-eater with pure devotion. Reciting a Sanskrit verse Chaitanya Mahaprabhu embraced both the brothers and placed His Lotus feet on their heads. After receiving the Lord's causeless mercy, the brothers folded their hands and in great humility offered the following prayers. "Namo Maha Vadanyaya Krishna–Prema–Pradayate, Krishnaya Krishna Chaitanya Namne Gaura Twise Namah". When the two brothers sat by His side, Mahaprabhu asked them about the welfare of Sanatana. Rupa Goswami replied, "Sanatana was imprisoned by Hussain Shah. If you kindly want to save him he can be liberated". To this Chaitanya Mahaprabhu replied, "Sanatana has already been released from his confinement, and will meet us very soon". Chaitanya Mahaprabhu accepted lunch in the house of that Brahmin, Balabhadra Bhattacharya an attendant of Sri Chaitanya offered the remnants of the Lord to both of the brothers. Mahaprabhu selected His residence on the banks of Triveni. Rupa and Anupama also settled down close to His residence.

Vallabhacharya who was staying in Adaila village, heard of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's arrival and so came to see Him. Vallabhacharya invited Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu for lunch, and the Lord introduced Sri Rupa and Anupama to him. From a distance the two brothers offered their obeisances to Vallabhacharya with great humility. When the Acharya was coming to embrace them, Rupa said, "We are untouchables and most sinful. Please do not touch us." Vallabhacharya was surprised at this, but Sri Chaitanya Deva was very much pleased and said, "Don't touch them as they belong to very low caste, you are an aristocratic Yagnik brahmin." Hearing the Holy Name, constantly vibrated by the two brothers, Vallabhacharya said, "since these two brothers incessantly chanting Krishna Name, they can not be untouchables. On the contrary they are most exalted."

He then quoted a verse from Bhagavata. Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was very glad to hear the quotations from the scriptures through Vallabhacharya. Vallabhacharya took Sri Krishna Chaitanya to his village on a boat and after lunch brought Him back to Prayag.

Avoiding the great crowds in Prayag Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu selected

Dasaswamedhaghat where, He instructed Sri Rupa Goswami infusing spiritual energy in him. He also taught him about the inexplicable and unlimited Truth, regarding Lord Krishna, about pure devotion, about transcendental mellows and about Srimad Bhagavatam. Thus Sri Rupa was personally empowered by Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's instructions for ten days at Prayag.

RUPA SIKSHA

Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu said, "Listen, O! Rupa, it is not possible to describe the transcendental mellows from the Ocean of devotional Service. It is unfathomable and unestimable. However I am describing you a drop of that Ocean mentioned. In this universe there are numberless Jivas that pass through eighty-four (84) lakhs of births.

The real nature of the Jiva is an absolute infinitesimal and quantitatively a hundredth part of a hundredth part of the point of a hair. Hence a Jiva is Achintya– Bheda–Bheda manifestation of Lord Sri Krishna.

The Jivas are of two classes animate and inanimate. Among the animates, there are many varieties, such as birds, terrene–animals, aquatic animals etc. Human beings are only a minority among the terrene–animals. Among the human beings, there are many uncultured human beings like Mlechhas, Pulindas, Baudhas and Savaras. Among the followers of Vedic knowledge (civilized class) almost half of them follow the Vedas only by lip but, commit sins condemned by the Vedas without regard for regulative principles. Among the religious–minded other half, many are unduly devoted to karma. Among the ten million men following the path of Karma, we may have one Gnani valuing the path of scriptural knowledge and so superior to the Karmi. Among the ten million men pursuing scriptural knowledge we find hardly a Mukta (a liberated soul) who is therefore superior to the Gnani. Among the ten millions of liberated souls, we meet hardly a devotee of Sri Krishna. Krishna Bhaktas are really passionless and tranquil. Karmis desire material enjoyment; Gnanis desire liberation and yogis desire material opulence. So they are all lusty and can not be peaceful.

Blessed is he, who, in rotating in his cycles of births and rebirths, throughout the fourteen worlds, obtains the seed of the Bhakti creeper by the grace of Guru and Krishna. The Guru's grace leads to Krishna's grace and Krishna's grace leads to Guru's grace and vicaversa. A fortunate soul only can get their grace. The devotee sows the seed in his heart and begins to water it in the form of hearing and chanting the Holy Name of Krishna in the company of Sadhus, (Absolute–realised soul). By this the seed sprouts up, and the creeper crossing fourteen worlds (the regions of time, space, cause and effect) goes beyond Viraja and Brahma–Loka, (hallowed region surrounding Vaikuntha) and there, finding no object to support, it creeps to Vaikuntha. The creeper next enters Goloka-Vrindavana, the highest region of Bliss and entwines the Lotus Feet of Sri Krishna (Wish yielding Tree) and bears Prema fruit. This fruit of Krishna Prema, shall be eternally tasted by the gardener, the devotee. Thus blessed, the devotee-soul, does not refrain from his spiritual practices. He is always careful not to commit any offence against a Vaisnava. he follows Yukta- Vairagya (genuine asceticism), and avoids Phalgu-Vairagya (pseudoasceticism). He strictly observes the rules of pure devotional life enjoined by the scriptures and gives up those that are forbidden. Desire for elevation, salvation, Siddhi, forbidden practices, greed for money, hunting after self-gratification, name and fame, double dealing or duplicity and slaughter of animals. All these are the fundamental impediments that stand in the way of serving the Lotus feet of Sree Krishna. Keeping himself aloof from all these anti-devotional desires, practices and offences the gardener devotes himself wholeheartedly to the service of Sri Krishna under the guidance of his Divine Master and then he is blessed with the taste of Divine Fruit of Krishna-Prema, superior to the four-fold human pursuits of Dharma, Artha, Kama and Moksha, (Duty, wealth, passion and salvation) four Purusharthas are as worthless as a straw. Hence, Krishna prema is the ultimate goal of human existence which can only be attained by Suddha bhakti(unadulterated devotion).

CRITERION OF PURE DEVOTION

Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu continues – "When one sits to dine, every morsel of food affords him three things at a time i.e., satisfaction, nourishment and appeasement of hunger; so where a person is a genuine devotee, he must be imbued with three things simultaneously; (1) a steadfast attachment for Sri Krishna, (2) a definite realisation of true nature of Sri Krishna, Jeeva and Maya and their interrelationship and (3) a corresponding detachment from all affairs that do not concern Krishna and His devotion. Pure devotional culture towards the realisation of Krishna and Prema through the mind and all the physical senses, aiming at the gratification of the spiritual senses of Sri Krishna, is the culture of pure devotion. Service to Krishna should be rendered for His own sake and pleasure. It should be free from all other desires and un-enveloped by Karma and Gnana. The highest form of devotion to Hrishikesa, the Lord of all senses, consists in rendering Him services with steadfast attachment by means of all spiritual senses and fixing on His Lotus feet the purified mind devoid of all physical and mental wordly dross. As He is Adhokshyaja, He reserves the prerogative of not being exposed or subject to human sense experiences. Hence, the supreme and fundamental religion consists in the causeless and unhampered devotional service vice to the Lotus feet of the Absolute Person, by which the soul enjoys the eternal Bliss."

Thus the Lord Chaitanya gave a number of quotations from Srimad Bhagavata regarding the pure devotion to Lord Krishna.

SADHANA BHAKTI

The Lord Chaitanya then described the grades in Sadhana Bhakti through regulations. From Sadhana Bhakti sprouts up rati (permanent seed of love). When Rati is deepened it becomes Love or Prema. When Prema is intensified it develops and takes the form of Sneha (affection growing from melting of the heart), Mana (Loving sensitiveness), Pranaya (intimacy), Raga (Attachment), Anuraga (passionate attachment), Bhava (dawning of love) and Mahabhava (highest pitch or culmination of Divine Love). The foremost of Prema mixed with the ingredients such as (1) Bibhava, (2) Anubhava, (3) Satwika (4) Vyabhichari (extensive divine Emotions) become a wonderfully delicious nectar called "Rasa". There are fivefold Rasas among the fivefold servitors of Sree Krishna. The Supreme Lord Sree Krishna is the ocean of all Nectarine Rasas. There are twelve kinds of Rasas; Santa Rasa (neutral mood), Sakhya Rasa (friendly mood), Vatsalya Rasa (parental mood), and Madhura Rasa (erotic mood). These are called the five primary Rasas while there are seven secondary Rasas; Hasya (laughter), Adbhuta (wonder), Veera (heroic), Karuna (pathetic), Raudra (anger), Bhayanaka (horrible) and Bibhatsa (loathsome). "Devoting the soul's mind exclusively to Me alone being bereft of all other thirsts for enjoyment and renunciation is the characteristic feature of Santa Bhakta", says the Supreme Lord Krishna. "Among the Santa-Bhaktas are the nine sages known as Navayogendras and Chatuhsanas or Sanaka, Sanatana, Sanandana and Sanat Kumara. Dasya Rasa Bhaktas are Raktaka, Patraka and Chitraka in Vraja; Daruka in Dwaraka, Hanuman in Ayodhya; Nanda, Sunanda and others in Vaikuntha. The Sakhya Rasa Bhaktas are Sridama, Sudama, Vasudama, Subala, Balabhadra, Devaprastha and others in Vraja; Vibhishana in Ayodhya and Bhima, and Arjuna in Dwaraka. The Vatsalya Rasa Bhaktas are Nanda, Yasoda in Vraja; Vasudeva and Devaki in Mathura and Dwaraka. The Madhura Rasa Bhaktas are Gopees in Vraja; the Queens in Dwaraka and Lakshmis in Vaikuntha. Krishna Rati is two fold, Kevala (unmixed) as in Vraja and Aiswarya Misra (mixed with the consciousness of His Majesty) in Mathura, Dwaraka and Vaikuntha.

Love is stunted where the sense of majesty predominates. But pure love or Kevala Bhakti ignores His Majesty and if He reveals His Majesty, it disowns its loving connection with Him. A Santa Bhakta is devoid of reciprocal relationship with Sri Krishna Himself. He is endowed with the knowledge of Him as Para Brahman—Paramatma. A Bhakta of Dasya-rasa constantly gratifies Sri Krishna by rendering Him service with a sense of reverence. Dasya Rasa has the quality of Santa Rasa plus service. Sakhya Rasa has the qualities of Santa and Dasya plus intimate confidence in Sri Krishna. The fundamental feature of Sakhya Rasa is free comradeship without any feeling of reverence. Vatsalya

Rasa possesses the qualities of Santa, Dasya and Sakhya Rases plus tenderness of parental affection which in its excess leads to chiding and chastisement. Such a devotee of Sree Krishna considers himself or herself as the parent and Krishna as his or her ward or protege. His or her service to Sri Krishna takes the form of parental care and affection. In Madhura rasa all the above four qualities of Santa, Dasya, Sakhya and Vatsalya Rases are present in a super- abundant measure; and in addition to them the votary serves Sri Krishna by offering her perfect spiritual body for the gratification of His transcendental senses. Here all the five qualities are fully present, just as in the case of the five elements (ether, air, fire, water and earth) the properties of the first four are present in the fifth, so also the four qualities of the above four-fold Rasas find there Syntheses and consummation in the Madhura Rasa which possesses the most wonderful deliciousness. By the Grace of Sri Krishna even the most unqualified can reach the farthest shore of the ocean of Bhakti-Rasa."

So saying the Lord directed Sri Rupa to proceed to Vrindavan, thence to Gauda-desa and thence to meet Him at Puri. The Lord embraced Sri Rupa Goswami, then he fell into an extatic swoon. Next morning Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu started to Varanasi, Sri Rupa Goswami and his brother Anupama set out for Vrindavan.

Reaching Vrindaban Rupa Goswami desired to write dramas on the Pastimes of Lord Krishna. In this connection, he first composed auspicious introduction. On his way to Gauda-Desh from Vrindaban he prepared some notes and begun to write the plays. When those two brothers reached Bengal, Anupama, his brother died. After some delay, Rupa Goswami being anxious to see Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, started to Puri. On his way, he came to a village known as Satyabhamapur in Orissa. While taking rest at night in that village, he saw an extraordinary beautiful woman in a dream, asking him to write a separate drama about her. Next morning he considered the dream as the order of Satyabhama to write a separate drama for her. The pastimes performed by Lord Krishna in Vrindaban and in Dwaraka were brought together. Now they should be divided into two dramas. So thinking Sri Rupa Goswami reached Haridas Thakur's Bhajan Kuteer at Puri. Haridas Thakur affectionately told him that Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu had pre-informed him about Rupa's arrival. When the Lord visited Haridas, He saw Sri Rupa who was offering his obeisances to Him. Immediately the Lord embraced him and inquired about Sanatana Goswami. Sri Rupa could not see Sanatana as he came in a different path to Puri. On the next day the Lord came with all His associates.

Chaitanya Mahaprabhu introduced him to all the devotees. Sri Rupa offered his obeisances to all of them. The Lord asked Nityananda Prabhu and Adwaitacharya to bless Sri Rupa whole-heartedly so that he may be able to describe Krishna-Rasa- Bhakti.

Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, used to send Jagannath Prasad to both Haridas and Sri Rupa daily. He used to visit them and have a happy talk with them. Sri Rupa was extremely happy to receive that transcendental favour of the Lord. Thus on Gundicha Marjan day, while Mahaprabhu with His devotees was washing and cleansing the Gundich temple, Prasad was sent to him to Aithota. He accepted the prasad chanting the Holy name of Hari, Haridas and Sri Rupa were greatly pleased to witness the function. After receiving the remnants of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu Prasad through Govinda, both danced with ecstasy.

On the next day, meeting, the omniscient Lord said to Sree Rupa, "Please do not take Krishna out of Vrindaban. Yadunandan–Vasudev–Krishna is different from Nanda Nandan, Krishna, who never leaves Vrindavan at any time." When Mahaprabhu left, so saying Rupa Goswami was surprised and said to himself "Satyabhama ordered me to write two different dramas and now Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu has also confirmed it. I shall divide one composition in two dramas and describe the incidents in two separate works."

The Rupa Goswami during the Ratha Yatra ceremony observed Lord Jagannath enjoying the Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's dance and Sankirtan in front of His Chariots. While so doing, Mahaprabhu was uttering a Sloka from Kavya Prakasa and at the same time revealing its spirit. Rupa Goswami composed a verse in an easier language. None except Swarupa Damodar and Rupa Goswami were able to know the meaning of the verse recited by Mahaprabhu.

The meaning of the verse composed by Sree Rupa Goswami was, "My friend, now I have met my dear Krishna at Kurukshetra. I am the same Radha. Our meeting is very pleasant but I would still like the visitation of Vrindaban on the banks of the Yamuna filled with vibrations of Krishna's melodious sweet flute."

Having written the verse on a palm–leaf Rupa Goswami put it in that thatched roof and went to the sea for bath. At that time Chaitanya Mahaprabhu went there and read the verse on the palm–leaf. While reading the verse, He was overwhelmed with extatic love. Returning from the sea, Sri Rupa offered his prostrated obeisances to the Lord in the courtyard. "How could you know my mind ? It is wonderful", so saying Chaitanya Mahaprabhu firmly embraced Sri Rupa. When that verse was showed to Swarupa Damodar, he said "Oh Lord! I presume that You had bestowed upon Sri Rupa Your Causeless mercy long ago, so he could understand Your heart." At this, Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu said, "Sri Rupa met me at Prayag. Knowing him to be a fit person I naturally blessed him. Now you also should instruct him Bhakti Rasa." After the four months of Chaturmasya the Vaishnavas of Bengal returned to their homes, but Sri Rupa Goswami remained in Jagannath Puri. One day suddenly, Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu visited him, while Sri Rupa Goswami was writing his book. Seeing the fine hand writing which was like rows of pearls, He was very much pleased and asked him about the contents of the book. Sri Rupa Goswami told him that it was a play on Vidagdha Madhavam and read a verse from it. When Mahaprabhu heard it, He was overwhelmed with Prema. Haridas Thakur hearing it became jubilant and began dancing and praising, knowing its meaning.

"We hear the glory of the Holy Name from the revealed scriptures and Sadhus but nowhere else we hear the sweetness of the Holy name as explained in this verse", said Haridas. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu embracing both of them, went to bathe in the sea.

On the next day, after visiting the temple of Jagannath Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu came to Sri Rupa with Sarvabhauma Bhattacharya. Ramananda Raya and Swarupa Damodar greatly praised Sri Rupa's characteristics. Reciting the two important verses, He praised Sri Rupa in their presence just to examine them. Purushottama the Supreme Godhead is so gentle, that even if His servant commits a serious offence, He does not take it very seriously. Indeed if His servant renders a small service, the Lord accepts it to be a very great one and prepares to give Himself to him, not to speak of other benedictions. The Lord and His devotees after meeting Sree Rupa and Haridas sat on the ground. Then Swarupa Damodar recited the verse which astonished the devotees. Sarvabhauma and Ramananda said to the Lord, 'Without your special blessings Sri Rupa cannot understand your mind. Ramananda at Kovvur expressed elevated and conclusive statements by Your mercy.' Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, asked Sri Rupa to recite that verse from his drama so that all the people may be happy to listen it, destroying their three fold afflictions. When Mahaprabhu persited Sri Rupa recited that verse. The meaning is: "When the Krishna Nama starts dancing within the mouth then we desire many, many mouths; when that Holy Name enters the ears, we desire for many millions of ears; and when the Holy Name dances in our courtyard of the heart, it controls the mind and all the senses. So I do not know how much nectar the two syllables "Krish–Na" contain.

Then Ramananda Raya wanted to know the title of the drama, which is a mine of conclusive statements. Sri Swarupa Damodara said, "Sri Rupa wanted to describe the pastimes of Lord Krishna at Vrindaban, Mathura and Dwaraka all in one drama. Now by the order of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu he has divided it into two and so writing two plays known as Vidagdha Madhav and Lalita Madhav which contain wonderful prema rasa."

Asked by Ramananda Ray, Sri Rupa recited the introductory verse of Vidagdhamadhav. There he described the glories of his favourite Deity as Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. When Mahaprabhu remarked, that was all an exaggeration by him, the devotees present there expressed their gratitude to Sri Rupa for his mode of introducing the characters in suitable situation in Pravartaka. (When the entrance of the characters is set in motion by the arrival of a suitable time called pravartaka).

While reading the drama to the devotees, Sri Rupa explained prarochandi (the causes for love affairs between Krishna and Gopies), previous attachment, transformation of love, endeavours for love, exchange of letters, disclosing the Gopies and awakening love for Krishna. When Ramananda asked, Sri Rupa replied, "This is the nature of emotional love for Krishna. If one develops love for Nandanandana Krishna all the bitter and sweet influence of this love will manifest in one's heart. Such love acts in two ways. The poisonous effects of love defeat the severe and fresh poison of the serpent. Yet there is simultaneously Transcendental bliss which minimises the pride of Nectar and its sweetness. So Krishna Prema is simultaneously poisonous and nectarine." Thus he explained the characteristics of love of God. His description of Vrindavan, the melody of transcendental Flute, the relationship between Krishna and Radhika gave immense delight to all the Vaishnavas and to Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, Ramananda said, "Your poetic expressions are like continuous showers of Nectar. Kindly let us hear the introductory position of the second drama." Thereupon Rupa Goswami wondered at their desire for hearing his second play and said, "I do not know why you are so much interested in hearing the play giving importance to my person. What am I before you ? To speak the truth, in your presence like a brilliant sun I am an insignificant glow-worm.

It is even impudent for me to open my mouth before you. In spite of it, to please you I am reciting it." So saying, he recited the introductory verse of Lalita Madhava drama. When Sri Rupa Goswami was reciting the second introductory verse, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was greatly pleased within himself but pretending to be in an angry mood said, "Your exalted poetic descriptions of the mellows of Lord Krishna's pastimes are like an ocean of nectar, but your false praise to me in it is like a drop of detested alkali." Ramananda said, "Sri Rupa has added a particle of camphor into the nectar of his exalted poetic expression." Mahaprabhu said, "You are jubilant at hearing these poetic expressions, but I am ashamed to hear them. People in general will ridicule." Ramananda said again, "People in general feel happy to read such poetry." Rupa Goswami briefly quoted his Lalita Madhava drama.

After hearing the play, Ramananda submitted his opinion at the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. He extolled the super excellence of Sri Rupa Goswami's poetic expressions saying, "The poetic presentation is a continuous shower of Nectar. Indeed, it is the essence of all ultimate realisation appearing in the form of plays, the wonderful description of Transcendental love, by hearing which the heart and ears will plunge into a whirlpool of the transcendental bliss." Mahaprabhu said, "When I saw Sri Rupa at Prayag I was attracted and pleased with his fine qualities. His ornamental and poetical inference can help to preach Transcendental mellows." He requested His associates to bless Sri Rupa so that he can describe Vraja Leela and Prema-Rasa. "His elder brother Sanatana too was so learned that he was second to none. His renunciation is just like yours. Humility, renunciation and excellent learning exist in him simultaneously. I sent both brothers to Vrindaban with my blessings to spread Bhakti Sastra." Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu then embraced Sri Rupa and asked him to offer his prayers at the feet of all the devotees. Adwaitacharya and Nityananda showered their causeless mercy and embraced him. All the devotees were struck with wonder to see the Personal qualities of Sri Rupa which attracted the mercy of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu towards him. Haridas Thakur embracing Sri Rupa said, "There is no limit to your fortune. No one can understand the glories of your dramas. Sri Rupa said, "I do not know anything. Whatever Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu wants to do he does. He now makes me to speak and I am speaking." All the devotees of Bengal thus spent four months with Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and Rupa Goswami. Then the Lord bade them farewell and they returned to Bengal. Sri Rupa remained at His Lotus feet up to Dola Yatra. After the festival, Mahaprabhu sent him to Vrindaban asking him to stay there preaching the transcendental literature and excavating the forgotten holy places of Vraja Bhumi. Having thus spoken Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu embraced Sri Rupa who in turn placed His Lotus feet upon his own head.

Rupa Goswami took leave of all the devotees and returned to Vrindaban via Bengal. Sanatana Goswami first reached Vrindavan. Rupa Goswami was delayed in Bengal for a year to divide and distribute his wealth among his relatives. He collected the money accumulated in Gauda and distributed it among his relatives, Brahmins and the temples. Thus after finishing off his business there, he had in his mind, he returned to Vrindaban with full satisfaction. Both the brothers met at Vrindaban where they stayed to execute the desire of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. Sri Rupa and Sanatana collected many scriptures and with their help they excavated all the forgotten or lost sites of pilgrimage. Thus they established big temples for the worship of Lord Krishna. The two brothers Rupa and Sanatana never climbed the Govardhana Hill to see Gopala Murthy. At an old age Rupa Goswami could not go there though he had a desire to see the beauty of Gopala. Once due to an attack by the Mohammadans the devotees of Gopala brought Him to Mathura. There He remained in the temple of Vithaleswara for one month. So Sri Rupa and his associates stayed in Mathura for one month and saw the Gopala Deity. After one month, when Gopala returned to Govardhana Hill, Rupa Goswami also came back to Vrindaban. Sri Rupa Goswami wrote many famous books known as:

1. Bhakti Rasamrita Sindhu through which we can understand the essence of devotion, service to Krishna and the transcendental mellow.
2. Ujjvala Nilamani – which contains the fullest limits of the love affairs of Sri Radha Krishna.
3. Vidagdha Madhav and Lalitha Madhav – two important dramas from which we can understand all the mellows derived from the pastimes of Lord Krishna.

He compiled 1,00,000 verses beginning with the book 4. Dana Keli Kaumudi, 5. Hamsa doota, 6. Uddhava Sandesha, 7. Krishna Janma Tithi, 8. Ganoddesa Deepika, 9. Stava Mala, 10. Akhyata Chandrika, 11. Mathura Mahima, 12. Padyavali, 13. Nataka Chandrika, 14. Laghu Bhagavatamruta and 15. Govinda Virudavall.

Rupa Goswami in Vraja Leela was Rupa Manjari

RAGHUNATH DAS GOSWAMI

Advent: Sakabda 1417 (A.D. 1495)

Disappearance : Sakabda 1493 (A.D. 1571)

Manifest Career: 76 years

Household Career: 19 years

Residence in Vrindaban: 41 years

Residence in Puri 16 Years

Ragunath was born at Sri Krishnapur – two miles away from Saptagram in the Hoogly District, West Bengal, in a Kayastha Zamindar family. His father was Govardhan, the brother of Hiranya Mazumdar. Their yearly income was nearly twenty lakhs from their Zamindary. Both the brothers were well behaved and charitably disposed. They regarded Nilambara Chakravarthi as their Guru. Formerly they served under Misra Purandar also and were thus wellknown to Lord Gauranga.

Ragunath was indifferent to the world from his very childhood. Namacharya Haridas when lived at the house of Balaram Acharya, Raghunath used to hear Krishna's pastimes from Sri Haridas which helped him to attain Lord Gauranga's lotus feet. Embracing Sanyasasram, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu came to Santipur. Then Raghunath fell at his lotus feet and received His blessings as well as the remnants of his dish. Advaita Acharya also blessed Raghunath at Santipur and after a week's stay he was sent home on the eve of the Lord's departure for Puri.

Raghunath made many vain attempts to run away from his house to Puri. At one time his father caught him redhanded and kept him as a prisoner under the custody of eleven persons. Raghunath spent his days with sorrow, till he met the Lord Gauranga again at Santipur with the permission from his father. He stayed there for a week in the company of Lord Chaitanya. The omniscient Lord said, "Raghunath be patient and go home. One can reach the shore of the world-ocean gradually and slowly. Don't make a show of asceticism. Accept the sense objects in a spirit of real dispassion or renunciation. Cherish steadfast attachment to the Lord Krishna in your heart, while outwardly discharging your wordly affairs. You will soon be delivered by Krishna's grace. After my return from Vrindaban, meet me at Puri." Implicitly obeying Him, Raghunath returned home. Following the Lord's advice, without any kind of worldly attachment, he paid his attention to the temporal duties to please his parents. The guards relaxed their control over him.

Thus Raghunath spent some years following Yuktha–Vairagya and rejecting Phalgu or false vairagya.

Once the Muslim Revenue Collector, with the help of Nawab's vizir charged, Hiranya and Govardhana for defalcation of the Government revenue. Both brothers fled at his approach. But Raghunath was bound and brought before the Vizir for the embezzlement of Government money. Raghunath, who was well-behaved and amiable in his conduct, at last succeeded in bringing about an amicable compromise between the Muslim Collector and his uncle and father. Unable to bear the pangs of separation from the Lord, Raghunath ran away from his house to meet the Lord at Puri. But he was brought back by the guards from halfway. His mother advised his father to bind him with ropes. The father said, "How can you tie Him with a rope, where a splendid opulence and matchless beautiful wife failed to captivate him ? A father can not destroy the 'prarabdha' of his son, while the Lord is attracting him."

A few days latter, Raghunath met Nityananda Prabhu, seated on an elevated platform with his followers. To feed his followers, Nityananda Prabhu asked him to celebrate "Chuda Dadhi" mahotsava. Receiving the command of Sri Nityananda Prabhu Raghunath procured quintals of flattened rice, litres of milk, large quantities of curd and sugar, lots of bananas and hundreds of pots, in a moment and offered all of them to the Lord amid loud cheers of Harinam. When Nityananda Prabhu invoked, Lord Chaitanya appeared in their mid, accepting offerings smilingly. Their mutual feeding was not visible to anybody except to the devotees. With loud Hari Samkirtan the followers of Nityananda Prabhu accepted Mahaprasad which reminded them of Krishna and Balaram's feasting on banks of the river Yamuna. Next day Raghunath prostrated at the lotus feet of Sri Nityananda Prabhu and prayed for his blessings to reach Lord Gauranga's Lotus Feet. Nityananda Prabhu, placed his lotus feet upon Raghunath's head and blessed him. His followers blessed him too. Then Nityananda Prabhu said to him "Raghunath, because you have intense love for Sri Krishna, the Lord will deliver you to Damodar Swarupa who will be pleased to keep you as his favourite disciple. Go home now, Sri Krishna will liberate you soon." Raghunath honoured Nityananda Prabhu and his men with several hundreds of gold coins.

Raghunath returned home and began to think over the means of escape from the custody of his guards. One day he heard that the Bengal Devotees under the guidance of Sivananda Sen were on their way to Puri. Next Day Yadunandan Acharya, the purohit came to Raghunath's house and requested him to persuade his Archaka, who was on strike, to resume his duty. Raghunath went to the Archaka's house and persuaded him to render service to the Deity. Thus, in the night, while returning home, Raghunath thought it a golden opportunity to escape, because he was then left alone. So, immediately he ran—way unguarded, avoiding high road and keeping his mind on the lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu.

The escape of Raghunath from the vigilant guards tilled the hearts of all the members of the family with unique quiet. His father sent a number of his men throughout the country in search of his beloved son. But they returned home with broken hearts as they could not find him even amongst the devotees going to Puri.

Raghunath walked fast and reached Pun in twelve days, without proper food. He offered his prostrated obeisances at the lotus feet of Lord Gauranga. The Lord embraced him saying, "Sri Krishna's strongest mercy has delivered you from the foul sink of worldlines. Your father and uncle, though the supporters of the Brahmins, are not in a par with Vaishnavas but are stepped in the gloom of worldly "ignorance". Then the Lord delivered him to Sri Swarupa Damodar, who accepted him as his most intimate disciple.

Mahaprabhu asked Govinda, his attendant, to serve Raghunath with nutritious food as he came walking without food. Raghunath took Prasad, only for five days from Govinda. He lived a life of severe asceticism living entirely upon alms, un—asked from people, at the Lions Gate in front of Jagannath Temple. Mahaprabhu was very much pleased with the asceticism of Raghunath. One day Swarupa Damodar said to Mahaprabhu "Raghunath desires to have some enlightenment from your lotus feet. He says, he does not know his duty or the goal of his life. Therefore, please give him instructions personally from your transcendental mouth." Smiling, the Lord told Raghunath, "Swarupa Damodar is your instructor, you may learn the means and end of the philosophy from him. He knows better than Me. Still if you are faithful in following my instructions, do not hear or talk worldly matters; do not eat palatable food nor should you wear costly dress. Always chant the holy name without expecting honour from others; render service within your mind to Radha Krishna of Vrindaban. My instructions are brief, you can hear in detail from Swarupa Damodar. On hearing from Sivananda Sen, Raghunath's father sent a large sum of money, two servants and a cook to his son, so that they might look after his health giving him timely meals. But Raghunath refused to accept them. On the other hand he used to invite Chaitanya Mahaprabhu to his lodge twice a month, and serve Him with Jagannath Prasad bought with a small amount of his father's money. Thus he continued to invite the Lord for two years and then discontinued inviting Him, thinking that it would rather add premium to his worldly name and fame than satisfy the Lord. When Mahaprabhu asked Swarupa about the termination of the invitation by Raghunath, Swarupa said, "Raghunath must have thought over the matter that his invitation Your Holiness for dinner, accepting the money from materialistic people does not give You happiness in any way. He also might have thought that You are accepting the dinner only to please a fool like him !" Mahaprabhu expressed His delight saying. "It is true that food accepted from the worldly minded, contaminates even the mind of a Holy—man and such a mind can not meditate on Lord Krishna. It becomes an invitation which results in Rajoguna, polluting the mind of both the giver and the Receiver.

Some days after, Raghunath gave up the habit of begging at the Lions Gate at which the Lord said, "I am glad to hear that Raghunath has abandoned begging at the Lions Gate and took recourse to un-solicited Prasad at the Chaatra(Choultry), for begging at the Lions Gate is no less than a harlot's mode of living", so saying Chaitanya Mahaprabhu gave Raghunath, His Own Govardhan Sila and Gunja Mala. With Govardhan sila, the Lord consecrated Raghunath to the lotus feet of Govardhan, the very self of Sri Krishna and with Gunjamala the Lord dedicated him to the lotus feet of Sri Radha. The very thought of these two divine gifts from the hands of the Lord, threw him into a rapture of Divine love with which he began to worship the Sila in a transcendental Satwika mood. Such was his spirit of renunciation, that he began to live upon the rejected Prasad of Lord Jagannath with a little salt. This moved the heart of not only Sri Swarupa Damodar but also that of Lord Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, who partook a morsal or two of that Holy food and extolled it saying that he had never tasted such an excellent Prasadam before. Such was the mode of his stern ascetic life, that he rendered confidential loving service to the Lord for sixteen years under the guidance of his divine master Sri Damodara Swarup, the second self of the Lord. After disappearance of the Lord in 1534. AD, Raghunath arrived at Vrindaban and resolved to make end of himself by falling from Govardhan giri. He met the two brothers Sri Rupa and Sanatana, who saved him from his intended suicide and kept him by their side in the place of their deceased brother. The two brothers were very much pleased to listen to his talks on the Inner and External Leelas of the Supreme Lord Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu with rapt attention.

Amongst the most favourite and intimate followers of the lord, Raghunath was one who had taken absolute shelter at His lotus feet leaving everything behind. In the last days of his Bhajan, he gave up even food and lived upon only one fourth litre of butter-milk a day. His daily performance of "Sadhan" was to chant the Holy name, a Lakh times, to do two thousand of prostrated obeisances to the Vaishnavas, to recite the Divine career of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu for three hours, to worship Sri Radha Krishna in his real unalloyed-self, to bathe thrice in Sri Radha Kunda, to embrace vrajavasi Vaishnavas whenever he would come accross and to be deeply absorbed in his worship. Thus he spent only one hour and a half for sleep and the rest of twenty two and half hours in His service. There were days, that were spent with complete sleeplessness too. Such was the wonderful mode of devotional practices of Sri Raghunath Goswami.

In His Vrindaban Leela he is Rasa Manjari. He wrote three famous books : (1) Sthava Mala or Stavavali, (2) Sri Dana Charita and (3) Muktavali. In his 76th year he disappeared on the banks of the Radha Kunda, where his Samadhi is still being worshipped by the devotees.

SRI JEEVA GOSWAMI

Sakabda 1435 (A.D. 1513) to 1520 Sakabda (A.D. 1598).

Manifest Career 85 Years

House Hold Career 20 Years

Vrindaban Residence 65 Years

Jeeva Goswami in his Vrala Leela is known as "VILAS MANJARI". He was the son of Vallabha, the younger brother of Sri Rupa and Sanatana. Sri Jeeva Goswami at an early age completing the elementary education, studied Srimad Bhagavatam. At a later stage coming to Nabadwip, he received the blessings of Nityananda Prabhu and went round the nine Islands or Nabadwip Dham, 1. Antardwip, 2 Seemanta Dwip, 3. Godrum Dwip, 4. Madhya Dwip, 5. Kola Dwip, 6. Rutu Dwip, 7. Modadruma Dwip, 8 Jahnu Dwip and 9. Rudra Dwip, along with Nityananda Prabhu. Taking the blessings of Nabadweepa Devotees, he came to Varanasi. His renunciation and asceticism, was highly appreciated by the devotees of Nabadweep Dhama and Nityananda Prabhu.

At Varanasi Sri Jeeva studied Vedanta, Logic, Philosophy and all other different scriptures under the guidance of Sri Madhusudhan Vachaspathi, the disciple of Sarvabhauma. Afterwards he came to Vrindaban and served Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswami. He became the great Vaishnava Acharya of Utkala, Gauda and Mathur– Mandalas after the disappearance of Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswamis.

Once a great learned scholar, conquering all the Pandits of the country, came to Sri Rupa Goswami at Vrindaban to discuss all the scriptures. Sri Rupa and Sanatana, being the masters of all the Philosophies were of course, reluctant to discuss with the Digvijai Pandit, so lent their signatures to the effect that he won. But their disciple Sri Jeeva could not tolerate. He immediately challenged and defeated the scholar in the discussion. Thus he established himself as unconquerable learned person in those days.

As a great Gaudiya Sampradayacharya, Sri Jeeva practised and propagated the message of Lord Gauranga and he was attracted by many devotees. Followed by the devotees, he used to go round the Vrajamandal on parikrama and visit Vithal Deva in Mathura often and often. During this time Sri Krishnadas Kaviraj Goswami wrote Sri Chaitanya Charithamruta. After some time Srinivas, Narothona and Dukhi Krishna Das came to him from Gauda Desh. He taught them all the vaishnava sastres and took them round the Vrajadham pointing out to them all the sacred places where Lord Krishna performed His Pastimes or Leelas. Further he gave them the titles of Acharya, Thakur and Syamananda to Srinivas, Narothona and Dukhi Krishna Das respectively. A cart load of Sastras written by Goswamis were given to these three Acharyas to spread the Divine Name and Krishna Prema among the devotees of Banga and Utkal Desh. But on their way to Banga and Utkal, the cart load of scriptures were stolen and, again, with great difficulty, those Sastras were recovered by Srinivas Acharya. Sri Jeeva Goswami at Vrindaban was happy to hear the recovery of the Goswami scriptures. Sri Jeeva Goswami awarded Ramachandra Sen and his brother Govinda Sen, disciples of Srinivas Acharya, the titles of Kavirajas. In his life time, Jahnavi Devi, with several Bhaktas, came to Vrindaban. Sri Jeeva Goswami greeted them with due respect as he was used to give boarding and lodging to the incoming devotees from Gauda.

In his life time observing several of his followers possessing the concept of Swakiarasa for their eternal benefit, he could not but accept the Swakiarasa (relationship with Krishna as one's formally married husband) though he was the disciple of Sri Rupa Goswami who wrote about the supremeness of Parakiarasa (relationship with Krishna as a paramour) in all his books. Jeeva Goswami wrote many books and commentaries.

1) Hari Namamruta Vyakarana(Grammar), 2) Sutra malika, 3) Dhatu Sangraha, 4) Krishnaarchana Deepika, 5) Gopal Virudavali, 6) Rasamruta Sesa, 7) Madhav Mahochava, 8) Sankalpa Kalpavriksha, 9) Bhavaratha–Suchaka Champu, 10) Gopal Tapaniteeka, 11) Brahma Samhita Commentary, 12) Rasamruta Teeka, 13) Ujwala Teeka, 14) Joga–sara–Teeka, 15) Gayatri Bhashya, 16) Padma Puran–Krishna Pada Chinha, 17) Radhika Kara–Pada–Chinha, 18) Gopal Champu, 19) Tatwa Sandarbha, 20) Bhagavat Sandarbha, 21) Paramatma Sandarbha, 22) Sri Krishna Sandarbha, 23) Bhakti Sandarbha, 24) Preeti Sandarbha, 25) Sarva–Sambadini.

SRI RAGHUNATH BHATTA GOSWAMI

ADVENT 1427.

Ascension Sakabda. 1501 (A. D. 1505)

Duration of manifest Career 74 Years

Duration of Household Career 28 Years

Duration of Residence at Puri 1 Year

Duration at Vrindaban 45 Years.

Raghunath Bhatta was the son of Tapana Misra. When Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, as a preceptor, was in the East Bengal imparting sacred knowledge to students, Tapana Misra approached Him to discuss spiritual advancement. Then he was favoured by the Lord with Harinam Initiation. After that He ordered Tapana Misra to proceed to Varanasi and settle there with family. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu on His return from Vrindaban stayed at Varanasi for two months in the house of Chandra Sekhar, accepting Bhikshya (Food) for two months in the house of Tapana Misra. Raghunath Bhatta who was then a child used to wash the dishes of the Lord and massaged His legs. Gopala Bhatta used to listen to the teachings of the Lord that were being delivered to Sanatana Goswami at Varanasi.

Having grown up, the young Raghunath Bhatta, being followed by a servant, started from Varanasi to Puri, travelling along the path leading through Bengal. In Bengal he met Ramdas Viswas, the learned Pandit in all the revealed scriptures. He used to teach the boys Kavya–Prakas. He was an advanced devotee of Lord Ramachandra. Renouncing every thing he was going to see Lord Jagannath at Puri. On the way he met Raghunath Bhatta. Accompanying him, he carried Raghunath's baggage and followed him. On the way Ramadas served Raghunath in various ways even by massaging his legs. Raghunath felt ashamed of it and said, "You are a respectable learned scholar and a great devotee. As such I wish, you should follow me without rendering any kind of service to me". To this, said Ramadas, "I am a Sudra and a fallen soul. To serve a Brahmin is my duty or Dharma. Therefore please do not be hesitant to accept my service. I am your servant, and when I serve you my heart becomes jubilant." So saying, Ramadas, repeating the Ramatarak Mantra day and night, carried the baggage of Raghunath Bhatta till they reached Jagannath Puri. Raghunath Bhatta saw Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and immediately offered prostrated obeisances at His Lotus Feet. Mahaprabhu embraced him. Raghunath Bhatta offered respectful obeisances to Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu on behalf of Tapana Misra and Chandra Sekhar. The Lord also inquired about them. The lord said, "Very good that you have come here." Now go and see the lotus eyed Lord Jagannath. Accept Prasad today at my place."

The lord asked Govinda to arrange for Raghunath Bhatta's accommodation and then introduced him to all the devotees headed by Swarupa Damodara Goswami. Raghunath Bhatta lived with Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu continuously for eight months and by the Lord's mercy he felt his transcendental happiness increasing day to day.

As he was an expert in cooking, he used to cook, now and then, rice with various vegetables and invite Sni Chaitanya Mahaprabhu to his lodge. As whatever he prepared for Naivedya, it tasted just like nectar. Mahaprabhu would accept with great satisfaction the food prepared by him. After the Lord was satisfied Raghunath Bhatta would eat the remnants.

After eight months, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu bade farwell to Raghunath Bhatta warning him not to marry. He said, "When you return home, serve your aged, devout parents and also read Srimad Bhagavatam with a Pure Vaishnava. Come again to Nilachala (Jagannath Puri). So saying the Lord put his own necklace of beads on Raghunath's neck and again embraced him. Taking permission from Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and all the other devotees under Swarupa Damodar, he returned to Varanasi. According to the instructions of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, he continuously rendered service to his parents for four years. He also regularly studied the Srimad Bhagavatam with a Vaishnava Pandit.

When his parents died at Varanasi he became indifferent and returned to Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu at Puri. Keeping Raghunath for some months with Him, the Lord said, "My dear Raghunath go to Vrindaban and place yourself under the care of Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswami. There, you chant Krishna Nam always and read Srimad Bhagavatam continuously. The Supreme Lord Krishna will very soon bestow His mercy upon You. The Lord's grace and his embrace made Raghunath Bhatta mad with ecstatic love for Krishna. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu gave him garland, fourteen cubits long, worn by Lord Jagannath along with some betel leaves at the time of his departure to Vrindaban. Preserving the garland carefully Raghunath Bhatta arrived at Vrindaban and put himself under the care of Sri Rupa and Sanatana.

While reciting Srimad Bhagavatam in the assembly of Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswami, Raghunath Bhatta used to overwhelm with ecstatic love for Krishna. By the mercy of the Lord he experienced the symptoms of ecstatic love with tears, and the trembling and faltering of the voice. His eyes filled with tears, his throat became choked and thus he could not recite Srimad Bhagavat. His voice was as sweet as a cuckoo and he would recite each verse of Srimad Bhagavatam in three or four tunes. Thus his recitations were very sweet to hear. When he recited or heard about the beauty and sweetness of Krishna, he would be overwhelmed with ecstasy and become oblivious to every thing. Raghunath Bhatta fully surrendered at the lotus feet of Lord Govinda and these lotus feet became his life and soul. Subsequently he ordered his disciples to construct a temple for lord Govinda. He prepared various ornaments for Govinda including a flute and earrings shaped like sharks.

Raghunath Bhatta would neither hear nor speak about anything of the material world. He would simply discuss upon Krishna and would worship Him only, day and night. He would not listen to blasphemy of a Vaishnava nor would he listen to talk of a Vaishnava's misbehaviour. He knew only this much that every human being was carrying on Krishna's orders. He did not understand anything else. When he was absorbed in meditation of Lord Krishna, he would take the Tulasi and the Prasada garland of Lord Jagannatha given to him by Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, bind them together and wear them on his neck.

He disappeared at Vrindaban at the age of 74. He is Ragamanjari in Vrajaleela.

SRI GOPAL BHATTA GOSWAMI

Advent Sakabda 1425. A.D. 1503

Ascension 1500. Saka A.D. 1578

Duration of Manifest Career 75 Years

Duration of House Hold Career 30 Years

Duration of Residence in Vrindaban 45 Years

Gopal Bhatta was the son of Venkata Bhatta of Srirangam, belonging to Ramanuja cult. He embraced Gaudiya Sampradaya. He was the disciple of Prabodhananda Saraswathi. In 1433 Saka, when Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was celebrating 'Chathurmasya vratam' in the house of Venkata Bhatta, Gopal Bhatta served Lord Gauranga and took initiation from his paternal Uncle, Sri Tridandi Prabodhananda Saraswathi. The Parents of Gopal Bhatta too surrendered at the Lotus Feet of Lord Gauranga. After permitting Gopal Bhatta to proceed to Vrindaban they left their mortal coil, remembering the Lotus Feet of Lord Gauranga. After some days Gopal reached Vrindaban and had the darsan of Sri Rupa Sanatana Goswami. Rupa Sanatana sent a letter to Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu informing Him about the arrival of Sri Gopal Bhatta at Vrindaban. Receiving the letter at Puri, Mahaprabhu gave a reply to Sri Rupa and Sanatana saying "My dear Rupa and Sanatana, I am extremely pleased to learn that Gopal has arrived at Vrindaban, treat him as your brother."

In the name of Gopal Bhatta, Sri Sanatana Goswami compiled 'Sri Hari– Bhakti–Vilas', 'Vaishnava Smruti'. Sri Krishna Das Kaviraj Goswami, while originating Sri Chaitanya Charithamrutha in Bengali Verse, requested Sri Gopal Bhatta to permit him to mention his career in the book, which Gopal Bhatta set aside. Yet Sri Krishna Das took the liberty of mentioning Gopala Bhatta's name in that Sacred Book. At Vrindaban Sri Gopal Bhatta Goswami installed Sri Radha Ramana murty with the assistance of Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswami.

Gopal Bhatta Goswami compiled 'Satkriya–Sardeepika' and wrote the glossary of Krishna Karnamrita too. He is Ananga Manjari in Vraja Leela. He disappeared at the age of 75 in Vrindaban.

SRI CHAITANYA MAHAPRABHU

All Glory to Sri Guru and Gauranga
SRI CHAITANYA MAHAPRABHU

EDITED

By

Om Vishnupada Paramahansa Parivrajakacarya–varya Asttotara–sata–sri–
Srimad Bhakti Vaibhav Puri Goswami Maharaj
Founder Acharya of the Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission.

PUBLISHED BY:
Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission
Sri Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust
Sri Bhakti Vinoda Ashram,
Ananda Nagar, Berhampur-6
GANJAM, (ORISA)

SRI CHAITANYA MAHAPRABHU

THIRD EDITION

3rd July 2000

(Sri Gundicha)

To be had at:

1. Sri Bhakti Vinod Ashram

Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (Gm.)

Pin – 760 006, Phone – 208400

2. Sri Chaitanya Chandra Ashram

Itota, Near Gundicha Mandir

Puri – 752 002, Phone – 24455

3. Sri Radha Vrindaban Chandra Mandir

208, Sevakunja, P.O. – Vridaban

Dist – Mathura (U.P.)

Pin – 281121, Phone – 443603

4. Sri Gaura – Saraswata Ashram

Isodyan, P.O. – Mayapur, Dt. – Nadia(W.B.)

Pin – 741 313, Phone – 79444

5. New Nilacala Dham

S.S. 125 Kw. 19,600

GRUXI LILLIUS, QUARTUCCI

CAGLIARI ITALY

TEL:– 0337 815553

Expression of gratitude

We express our hearty gratitude to Sripad Shyam Das (disciple of His Divine Grace A.C. Bhakti Vedanta Swami Prabhupada) on the occasion of his 'Diamond Jubilee' whose two sons Dr. Badam Surendra Babu M.S., M.Ch. and Er. Badam Balakrishna B.Tech, M.S., Ph. D. as well as his son-in-law Dr. Gunda Poorna Chandra Rao M.Sc., Ph.D. have financially helped for the publication of the present edition of the book "Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu" compiled by H.H. Tridandi Swami Bhakti Vaibhav Puri Goswami Maharaj the founder acharya of 'Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission.' So we pray at the Lotus Feet of Lord Gauranga to keep him and his family members healthy and prosperous in the devotional path for the service of Supreme Lord.

Bhakti Vigyan Nityananda Book Trust

Preface

To show the efficacy and supremacy as well as to establish and propound the chanting of the Divine Names of Lord Krishna by setting an example of His own Divine career and thereby delivering the sinful people of the dark age, the Supreme Divinity Himself descended as a spiritual teacher in the form of Lord Chaityanya and proclaimed Nama–Sankirtan, the Chanting of the Divine Names of Sri Krishna, to be the special dispensation of Kali Yuga.

The Lord had also some hidden primary purposes of enacting His own servitor's role too, such as: (i) to taste the profundity of Sri Radha's unalloyed love towards Sri Krishna, (ii) to experience the wonderful sweetness of His Transcendental Personality tasted by her and (iii) to know that Divine ecstatic bliss which Sri Radha experiences by rendering loving services to Him.

Now it is a matter of great pleasure that, by the grace of Lord Gauranga this thoroughly revised edition is represented before our dear readers on behalf of 'Bhakti Vigyan Nityananda Book Trust.' In spite of our sincere attempt to bring out the book, some printing mistakes may exist. As such we request our readers to excuse us.

Mahaprabhu's Teachings in a Nutshell

The self–revealed Vedic truths descending from the Absolute Person through the preceptorial line of succession, are known as Amnaya. They declare that–

1. Sri Krishna is the Supreme Person without a second.
2. He is always vested with infinite potency.
3. He is the nectarine ocean of all Rasas.
4. The Jeeva souls are His marginal or intermediate discrete parts.
5. Marginally situated, the Jeeva souls in their fallen state are liable to be enthralled by Prakriti or Maya, the deluding Potency of the Lord.
6. Lying in between the chit (internal spiritual) and achit (external deluding cosmic) Potencies of the Lord, the jeeva souls are freed from the shackles of the triple qualities of Maya by the loving service of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna.
7. All spiritual and mundane phenomena are simultaneously distinct and non–distinct manifestation of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna. This is known as Achintya–bhedabheda–prakash of the Lord. It is Achintya, i.e. inconceivable as the rational attributes of human' beings are quite incapable of understanding or even approaching the Divine sphere of the Lord except by His mercy.
8. Suddha Bhakti or unalloyed devotion, which is the external function of all Jeeva souls, is the only means of attaining Divine love, the summom–bonum of human existence.
9. Krishna Prema or Divine love is alone the final desideratum of spiritual existence.

SRI CHAITANYA MAHAPRABHU

Sri Krishna Chaitanya or Gauranga Mahaprabhu made His appearance at Sridham Mayapur, on the banks of Bhagirathi river in the district of Nadia, Bengal State, on the evening of Phalgun Purnima is 1407 Sakabda (1486 A.D.), during Lunar eclipse, while according to tradition, the devotees were bathing in the Ganga chanting Sri Harinam, loudly.

Sri Chaitanya was born of Sri Jagannath Misra, a Great Sanskrit Scholar and Srimati Sachidevi and they named Him, Nimai, as he was born under a neem tree. In giving Him that name they were, of course, a bit superstitious too that the bitterness of the tree could keep away the Death God who had previously snatched away eight of their children from their bosom. But the neighbouring ladies called Him Gauranga because of His handsome and gold-like glittering complexion, while His grand father, Nilambar Chakravarthy studying His horoscope, named Him Viswambhara.

On the occasion of Anna Prasana, several things, like rice, gold, silver and a copy of the Bhagavatam were kept before Him. As forethought by the grand father, the boy, crawled to Srimad Bhagavatam and embraced it in preference to the other mundane things.

Once Sachi Devi and Jagannath Misra found their darling on the coiled bed of a hooded serpent. When they raised a hue and cry, the serpent slowly made its way off leaving the child unhurt. The serpent was no other than Sesha Deva Himself.

The house of Jagannath Misra was used to echo with the Holy Harinam every day, in the company of the amusing neighbouring ladies lest the child, Nimai, should weep but dance lively to its tune. This baby to the astonishment of all would play with the moon and stars but not with toys. He would like to hear Harinam only and would sleep only when Harinam was sung to Him but not any other lullaby.

Once while playing in the street, two thieves carried the child away with the aim of knocking off His ornaments, but missing their way brought Him back to His own house, as if they were charmed. Those two souls, on whose arms the Lord had the ride were fortunate enough.

One day, obeying the orders of His parents, Nimai was going into the other room when the tinkling sound of the anklets was heard from the bare feet of the child. When the child went out to play, the parents, to their great astonishment, found their son's footprints to be the foot prints of Lord Vishnu. So they prostrated before him.

On a certain day the boy began to eat clay instead of sweets. His mother snatched the clay away. Then the boy said to her, "Mother, why do you take away the clay from My hand? Are the so called sweets not the transformation of this clay?"

Once a Brahmin pilgrim arrived at the house of Sri Misra, and accepted his hospitality. After meditation when the Brahmin was pronouncing the hymns of offering to Balgopal, Nimai came there, took a morsel of food and ran away. The Brahmin was disappointed and felt it to be an offence done to God. Jagannath Misra requested him to be kind enough to commence his Archana again. He also assured him that he would keep Nimai under strict vigilance. Having satisfied with it, he again prayed to God and pronounced the hymns of offering when Nimai, under vigilance, stood before him and touched the food, the Brahmin was greatly perplexed. This time, Nimai's elder brother, Viswaroopa, prevailed upon the Brahmin to do his archana again. This time, Nimai was kept in a neighbour's room under lock and key. It became very late in the night by the time the Brahmin got ready to offer the food to Lord Gopal. With patience he uttered the Gopal Mantra. Lo, again the Boy stood before him. The Brahmin was very much bewildered to see the Boy. Then He smilingly said. "O, Brahmin! why do you utter the Gopal Mantra and call Me if you do not like My partaking of this food?" Saying these words, the Boy showed to him His Bala Gopal Swarup (Form) with His eight arms. He also warned him not to reveal. this to any one. Hence forward the Brahmin stayed there only as Navadweepa Dham regularly visiting Nimai in Misra's house.

Once on an Ekadasi Day two devotees, Hiranya and Jagadeesh were making their offerings to Lord Vishnu, in a far off place. Then this Boy began to cry vehemently for those offerings and He did not stop crying till they were brought to Him. It was a mystery how the baby could know about the offerings.

The Pandits of that place constantly complained to Jagannath Misra against his son who was polluting them by sprinting water over them after their bath. So one day the father went to the ghat to find Him doing the mischief and to punish him. The Boy was not there. He found Him returning home from school with ink dots on His dress !

Sachi Devi also got many complaints against Nimai from the girls that used to go to the ghat with Pooja Dravyams (articles for worshipping God.) They complained to her that her son was hindering them from praying to God by snatching away their Pooja articles. Sachi Devi was able to soften them with enduring words. As the girls too had a liking and affection for the Boy they got softened.

Once while Nimai was playing, His hand struck Sachi Devi. She immediately fell into a swoon and Nimai began to weep. The ladies nearby asked Him to give her some cocoanut water. Nniyai had many cocoanuts ready there in a wink of an eye, to the utter amazement of all. Such deeds of His made Sachi Devi, Jagannath and their friends believe that He was no other than Bala Gopal.

One day, Gauranga met His eternal consort, Lakshmi Priya, on the bank of the Ganga. At the first sight; she recognised Him to be the Lord of her heart and garlanded Him and offering the sweets worshipped His Lotus Feet with flowers brought for Vishnu Pooja. There, He with great pleasure granted her, desired boon.

One night Misra in his dream saw a super human being who made it clear to him not to consider Nimai to be an ordinary boy not to chastise Him for His naughtiness. Then Misra replied to him, "Let him be a Sidha Purusha or the Supreme God Himself. As a father it is my duty to put Him in the right path, somehow or other." The Super Human being too was very much affected with his words. Moreover, he was pleased with him for his parental affection.

Nimai, wilfully gave no heed to His mother's repeated cojolings about His behaviour. He feared none but His elder brother Viswaroopa who spent all his time with devotees to hear the religious discourses at Advaita Acharya's Sanskrit School. The result was that he renounced the world on the very eve of his marriage contemplated by his parents and became a yati under the name of Sankararanya for which the hearts of Sachi Devi and Jagannath Misra were filled with sorrow.

Since Viswaroopa's renouncement, Nimai kept Himself with His grieved parents and cheered them up with His sweet soothing books. He concentrated His attention on sacred books and thoroughly mastered them in a very short period. This gladdened the hearts of Sachi and others except Misra, who apprehending the danger of Nimai following suit of His elder brother, Viswaroopa, ordered Him to stop His studies. This made the child more obstinate and turbulent. He was sad at heart too.

One day He was seen seated upon a pile of earthen pots thrown away after cooking. Sachi Devi implored Him to come down from that refuse But Nimai did not get up from His seat. He said, "Mother. how are these pots used for cooking Vishnu Naivedyam unholy? If you feel them to be unholy, with my touch, they have become holy. Idea of holiness or unholiness is a delusion of the mind but not of the pure soul "Sachi Devi was surprised at these words. One day Nimai was much delighted to hear a beggar singing the glories of His Lord Siva in his yard when He manifested Himself as Siva and mounted on the beggar's shoulders. The beggar danced with great joy.

Jagannath Misra, as duty bound performed the sacred Thread Ceremony of his son and got Him admitted in Gangadas Pandits's School. In a short time, He mastered all the intricacies of Grammar, Nyaya, Philosophy, Rhetoric etc. His wonderful acumen and clear understanding won for Him the highest academic distinction.

One night Misra dreamt that his son had become a Sanyasi with red robes on and without the long beautiful curling hair on His head. He also saw him marching to Puri being followed by millions of devotees dancing and singing Hari Nama. At once Misra woke up and found nothing of that sort. On the next morning he prayed to Sri Krishna, to keep his son at home as a house holder so that he and his wife might lead a happy and peaceful life enjoying the smiling beauty of their son.

To the great grief of Nimai and His mother, all of a sudden Jagannath Misra passed away. Nimai consoled His mother in her bereavement with soft words of love and affection. Sachi Mata too, in course of time forgetting all her past sorrows, devoted herself in the service of the fatherless child.

One day Nimai asked His mother to give Him some oil for bathing and flowers and sandal paste for the worship of River Ganga. Sachi Devi asked Him to wait till she would get them from the shop outside. The word 'wait' made Him a 'Rudra' and with a lathi, He broke into pieces all pots and utensils containing rice, pulses, ghee, oil milk, Ganga water etc. He tore off the clothes. He destroyed whatever, He came across, i.e. the trees, the roofs and so on. There was nothing that escaped His lathi charges. Having done such kind of divine violence, Nimai rolled on the ground in an angry mood and fell asleep. The mother, procuring flowers and garlands reached Him and softly patted Him on His back. He woke up, finished His bath completed the Ganga pooja, returned home, watered the Tulasi, worshipped Vishnu, and sat down to take food. When He finished His meal, Sachi Devi said, "My darling you have broken all these utensils; all the eatables including. The rice have gone to dust, nothing is there for us for tomorrow to eat, Whose loss, do you think, all this is?" Then Nimai said, "It is all His will and one cannot go against it. Believe in Sri Krishna, the only saviour and Sustainer of the Universe." Sometime after, He brought two tolas of gold and gave it to His mother to do the needful. Sachi Devi was very much astonished at His unusual way of meeting the necessities. She could not think of her son as the Lord of all Yogic performances.

He being a Brahmachari never took His meal without bathing in the Ganga, and worshipping Vishnu and watering Tulasi.

He was very careful in avoiding the society which was indifferent in performing the spiritual duties. He regularly performed Sandhya Vandana and insisted the same upon His pupils, who joined His School. His pupils should not attend His class without Tilakam on their fore heads. He never engaged Himself in idle gossips, He was very attentive to the study of scriptures and different branches of learning. He never looked at women with lust. The innumerable learned and farfamed Pandits of Navadweep never dared out to confront with Him either in academic controversies and Polemic discussions or in Grammar, Rhetoric, Smruthis, Nyaya, Sankhya, Vedanta etc. Thus all the notabilities greeted Him with all humility and regarded Him as the foremost Pandit of the city.

Once pandit Srivas, a great devotee met the young Nimai on the way exhorted Him to devotee His life in the worship of the Supreme Lord. He also said. "Scholasticism is not the be-all and end-all of learning but the ultimate end of it the attainment of Sri Krishna, Krishna Bhakti and Krishna Prema. Acquisition of mundane knowledge divorced from religion leads one to self-conceit, sufficiency, self-aggrandisement, wrangling, pedantry and what not. Nimai gladly accepted his blessings and told him, "The benedictions such as- these from Sadhus like you will surely beget Krishna Bhakti in Me."

Sri Iswara Puri was a great Vaishnava Yati. He was the disciple of Sri Madhavendra Puri. He wrote a book named Sri Krishna Leelamruta. One day he was invited and entertained by Nimai, On that occasion, Iswara Puri asked Nimai Pandit to point out the defects if any. In his book, Nimai said, "How could there be defects in the work of an inspired true devotee of Sri Krishna?" It was this Iswara Puri whom Nimai accepted as His spiritual guide at Gaya.

While strolling round the city, with His pupils, Nimai visited the houses of weavers, milkmen, scent dealers, garland makers, betel sellers and conch dealers. So endearing was His amiable demeanour, and so attractive was His handsome person that wherever He went, He was greeted with presents.

Once Nimai pandit visited the house of an astrologer and enquired about His own previous birth. The astrologer meditated on his Bala Gopala Mantra and peeped into His birth. The more he muttered the mantra, the more Leelas of Sri Krishna, His Leela in Gokula, His Leela in Mathura, His various descents such as Matchya, Kurma, Varaha, Narsimha, Vamana, Parasurama, Rama, Balarama, Jagannath with Balabhadra and Subhadra—he was able to see in the very person of Nimai in front of him. But under the influence of the Lord's Maya, he failed to understand the mystery lying beyond his vision. He got puzzled and said to himself that Nimai must either be a magician or a super Human being who came to test his knowledge in prediction. He then requested the Lord to come to him the next day at which Nimai smiled and walked away.

One day Namai came to the dilapidated cottage of Sreedhara, a genuine devotee of Vishnu and regular worshipper of the river Ganga. He spend his nights in chanting aloud the names of Sri Hari and Narayana which was a great disturbance for his neighbours. He was poor and lived by selling banana leaves and vegetables. Nimai was fond of joking with him. So one day Nimai jokingly asked him why he should continue worshipping Sri Lakshmi-Narayana and be devoid of food and clothing instead of praying to Demi gods to roll in wealth as many were doing. Sridhara replied. "Oh. Pandit, Time, the respecter of none, passes away equally with one and all whether rich or poor, beast or bird, keeping them all engaged in reaping the consequences of their respective actions. Eating, drinking, Merry making, sleeping and other sensual pleasure are common factors both in man and animal but worship of Hari is the exclusive right of human beings, ignoring which they can not claim to be superiors to other animals. That is why I never think of my poverty but go on praying to my Lord without any kind of desire for anything.

At this Lord said, "No, You have enough hidden treasure and yet pose yourself to be poor to deceive the public. I will certainly expose you to others. If you do not offer Me My due share."

Sridhara pleaded his inability of sparing anything out of the small stock of vegetables, he had for sale. But the Lord was obstinate in his demands. At last Sridhara yielded and promised to give Him gratis the required vegetables for His every day consumption.

Nimai was satisfied with it and said. "O Sridhara ! what do you think of Me?" Sridhara replied, "Why? You are a young Brahmin and as such a part and parcel of Vishnu." "No you failed in your assumption. I am the Milkman and the Father of river that you worship." Sridhara took His words to be offensive and shouted ironically. "Sri Vishnu! You are Sri Vishnu ! What ! Have you no regard for the Ganges ? How ruthless you are to assert yourself to be the father of the Ganges? Generally men become wiser with age but I find the reverse in you.

Poor Sridhara failed to recognise his own Lord. It is true with every one. Nobody knows Him though He reveals Himself in one way or other.

From this it is evident that Sridhara did not accumulate by selling vegetables the mundane wealth of rupees and pies but accumulated the supper mundane treasure and this kind of treasure can never be had by the millionaires in millions of their births. The Supreme Lord is not attainable by wealth lineage and learning but only by single minded loving devotion.

Nimai Pandit married Srimati lakshmipriya Devi, daughter of Sri Vallabha Acharya. As an ideal housewife, Lakshmipriya Devi was a source of great joy to her mother-in-law too. She spared no pains to perform the household duties entrusted to her. She was always cheerful and ready to cook and serve any number of guests and Sanyasis on invitation by her Lord.

Nimai Pandit's door was always kept open for charity and hospitality. He was very liberal in giving food and clothing to the poor and the needy. When Sachi Devi found it hard to meet such heavy pressure in serving daily ten or twenty chance-guests, Nimai would say, Lord Krishna will manage everything. He is the Saviour and Sustainer of the universe. As He said, the needed articles too came pouring in unexpectedly from unknown quarters. From this we have to understand that every householder should have absolute reliance on the Supreme Lord. Even if there is nothing a home to meet the needs of the guests, one should learn to entertain him atleast with soothing words or with comfortable tea or with drinking water.

Gauranga went to East Bengal as professor for imparting real education to the students. Thousands of students were benefited through His teachings. During this time, Tapan Mishra, an earnest seeker of Absolute Truth, dreamt a man advising him to go to Nimai Pandit, the Supreme Lord, who could solve his problems regarding Truth. Next morning, Tapan Mishra came to Nimai Pandit, implored Him with all humility to enlighten him on SADHANA and SADHYA. To this Gauranga said, " Hari Nama Samkirtan is the only means in Kaliyuga to attain that end. There is no other means of deliverance. So go home and chant incessantly the Holy name of Sri Krishna avoiding ten offences. As a result of Nama Samkirtan the Sprout of Divine Love will spring up in your heart. Then you will come to know the real SADHYA. Thus, Gauranga exhorted him to chant the following concept of the Holy name.

hare krsna hare krsna krsna krsna hare hare
hare rama hare rama rama rama hare hare

Tapan Mishra wanted to renounce the world and follow Him. But Gauranga asked him to go to Kasi and wait for Him.

During His journey in East Bengal , Lakshmipriya Devi left this world. Nimai pandit returned to Navadweep with a large fortune of free gifts from His pupils. Then He consoled His mother for the premature passing away of Lakshmipriya. At the request of His mother, Nimai Pandit to please His mother, married Vishnupriya Devi the daughter of Sri Sanatana Mishra, the court pandit. Vishnupriya too discharged her duties as an ideal wife looking after the comforts of her Dear, Gauranga and her mother-in-law, Sachi Devi.

Once a Digvijayee Pandit, named Kesava Bharati of Kashmir visited Navadweep and challenged the pandits to confront him in any branch of learning. Some Pandits knowing him to be an unchangeable one, left the city on some pretext or other. One evening when the young Nimai Pandit was seated with His pupils on the bank of Ganga it happened for the Digvijayee Pandit to come there and recite hundred and one hymns in praise of Ganga. After that, Nimai Pandit quoting one of the recited sloka asked him to explain the merits and demerits in it. Degvijayee was greatly astonished at the wonderful memory of Nimai and boastingly declared that there were no defects in that hymn. But Nimai Pandit did not admit it. On the other hand He pointed out five kinds of demerits also there in. It was the special characteristic feature of the Lord not to wound the feelings in anyway of His vanquished opponents in literary disputes. When His pupils were going to laugh at Digvijayee for his defeat, Nimai prevented them from doing so. Yet this discomfiture had a marvellous effect on Divijayee. That very night Goddess Sarswati appeared before him in his dream and advised him to surrender his all at the Lotus feet of Sri Nimai Pandit, who was no one but the Supreme Lord Krishna. Next morning the Digvij ayee submitted himself with all humility. Then the Lord said to him. "The object of learning is not to acquire world fame but to render devotional service to Supreme Lord Krishna. To concentrate body, mind, soul and property in the service of Sri Krishna is the ultimate end of real learning." With these words the Lord embraced him and the true knowledge dawned upon him. This spectacular victory of the Lord over the Digvijayee gained Him the name of 'BADISIMHA.'

Nimai's reputation as the foremost pandit of Navadweep, reached its zentith. He proceeded to Gaya with some of His pupils to perform the Sraddha ceremony of His departed father. During His journey, He had the Darsan of the Holy Immage of Sri Madhusudan on the Mandara Hills. On His way to Punpoona, Nimai feigned illness and drank the feet wash of a pious brahmin as a remedy to extole the glories of such water.

Arriving at Gaya, He went inside the Gadadhara Temple to worship His Lotus feet, while the surrounding Brahmin Pandits were singing in praise of them. At that time, Nimai was so much overwhelmed with joy that the eight fold symptoms of ecstatic emotions began to manifest in His body to the great delight and wonder of the brahmins present there.

Iswar Puri, whom He had once entertained as His guest in Navadweep, happened to arrive at Gaya. Then they both greeted and embraced each other with overflowing tears of joy. Nimai said, "My pilgrimage to Gaya is crowned with success by the Darsan of Mahatmas like you. Hence the Lotus feet are the Sanctum— Sanctorum of all sacred shrines and are being regarded as such by all sages. Therefore, I consecrate unreserervedly My body, mind and soul in the service of thy lotus feet. Be thou merciful, Oh Puri Goswamy ! to deliver Me from this ocean of vices of this world by opening My inner spiritual eye long sealed in the gloom of nescience."

Puri Goswami said, "O pandit, since my Darsan of Yours at Sri Mayapur, I have no other thought than that of your charming possession of my heart. To tell you the truth the ecstatic bliss, I derive from Your Darsan, is the same as I feel in the Darsan of Sri Krishna." Next morning Puri Goswami presented himself before the Nimai pandit where the latter had just finished cooking and offered him food to show His duty as his disciple.

Another day, the Pandit, prayed the Goswami for Deeksha Mantra. Iswar Puri initiated Him with the Ten, lettered Mantra muttering which the Pandit plunged Himself in the nectarine ocean of Krishna prema.

Allthough Gauranga did not require any initation from a preceptor yet as an Acharya, He enacted simply to teach the people, who are aspirant after Mukti and Krishna prema, the indispensable necessity of initiation from a Sad Guru after unconditional self—surrender.

Intoxicated with love in separation from Sri Krishna, the Lord started one night for Vrindaban without the knowledge of His followers. On the way, He heard a heavenly voice asking Him to postpone His journey to Vrindaban for the time being but to proceed to Navadweep where His Revelation as God-Head was necessary to cater Krishna prema by means of Harinam Samkirtan all over the country as it was an urgent need of the day. So the Nimai Pandit with His followers had to proceed to Navadweep and immersed Himself in Divine Love for Krishna .

The very remembrance of the Lotus feet of the Lord Gadadhara of Gaya filled Nimai Pandit with overflowing tears of love for Sri Krishna. Then the Pandit revealed His heart's grief to some of His most intimate friends that assembled in the house of Suklambara. The pandit gave vent to His Love-Lorn feelings thus: "When and where shall I find My Beloved Krishna, the Nanda Kumara, who disappeared from My view as soon as I beheld Him. My heart breaks with His separation." Saying this Nimai fell into a trance and after regaining consciousness praised Gadadhara a Pandit for his unshaking devotion for Sri Krishna from his childhood.

Then Nimai Pandit met His pupils at Mukunda Samjaya's house at Navadweep to resume reluctantly His task as a professor. He explained nothing but the glories of Sri Krishna and His Holy Name, He said, "Sri Krishna is the Lord of all as declared by the Vedas. The so called professors or Vendastists do not worship Sri Krishna under the spell of Maya. Sri Krishna is the soul of the Universe. His Name is the ocean of Bliss and kindness. He who has no love for Sri Krishna, and who, has no relish for His All Bounty Holy Name, is doomed to destruction. It is a matter of regret that such an All-munificent Holy Name is ignored by the rich and the learned due to their pride in mundane acquisitions of wealth learning lineage name and fame. They are thereby creating eternal destruction. So you should worship the Lotus feet of Sri Krishna, whom the Goddess of wealth and learning (Lakshmi and Saraswathi) worship with all regard and reverence as His eternal servants. He also stated. "These feet of His are holy because the Holy Ganga, adorned Siva's head, to wash off the sins of the people, spring forth from there only, sins of the people, springs forth from there only. O, dear pupils, let the Holy Name of Sri Krishna be the strength and support of your spiritual growth. Accept the principles based on pure theism and reject those that are anti devotional in spirit to Krishna and Krishna Bhakti Never give way to idle gossips nor hanker after vain pursuits such as wealth, passion, piety or even salvations." The Pandit taught His pupils how to chant the Holy Name, by chanting Himself. Then being intoxicated with Love for Sri Krishna, keeping the rhythm by clapping His hands. He began to utter.

hari haraya namha
krsna yadavaya namna

Being asked by His mother, Sachi Devi, the Pandit replied, "I have read the scriptures that speak about the hearing and chanting of the Holy Names, Attributes, Deeds Entourage pastimes and Realms of Sri Krishna are alone externally true. Those scriptures alone are to be relied on and regarded as sacred. Dear mother Sachi Devi, love Sri Krishna with all your heart and soul as explained by Kapil Deva to (His mother) Devahuti A servitor of Sri Krishna lives happily in the company of devotees with constant chanting and remembering His Holy Name and passes away peacefully when time comes. He does not like to live in a society which is averse to Krishna and Krishna Bhakti, even if it be an Indraloka. So please chant the Holy Name of Sri Krishna incessantly and meditate on Him in the company of Sadhus because Sat-sanga even for a single moment enriches one with the highest treasure in human life as in the case of King Khatwanga of Ayodhya on hearing these pieces of advice from the Pandit, was merged in the nectarine ocean of ecstatic Bliss. Thence forward, Nimai Pandit used to spend day and night in hearing topics on Krishna in chanting Krishna Nama and in beholding the All pervading Sri Krishna Bhava.

Gouranga discovered the right Royal Road to the realm of pure Bhakti and made the whole world suddenly inundate with the full floods of the ocean of Prema Bhakti.

Gauranga's love ravings for Sri Krishna and His symptoms of ecstatic emotions were narrated to Advaita Acharya by the devotees of Navadweep. Advaita Acharya told them. "Deeply mortified in failing to ascertain the appropriate reading and understanding of Bhagabat Geeta, Chapter XIII, I fasted that night and fell asleep. In my dream, I saw a Superhuman Being who cleared my doubts and asked me to break my fast and worship Him without further delay. The Superhuman Being assured me that Sri Krishna is graciously pleased to appear before so that His grace, everyone might be induced with pure Bhakti.

Then I woke up and found that Supreme Being whom I had seen in my dream was no other than the Viswambhara." He then, invoked the Mercy of Lord Krishna upon the people of this world, so that they might chant His Holy Name with Love intoxicated. He assured the devotees of Navadweep that the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna would soon reveal Himself in the midst.

Gauranga began to render services to pandit Srivas and other devotees of Navadweep. When ever he met them on the banks of the Ganga. He greeted them with all humility and used to carry their flower baskets, clothes, water pots, sandal paste etc. for them. Then devotees showered their sincere blessings upon Him saying. "O Pandit, be a devotee of Sri Krishna, hear and chant His Holy Name, worship Him with firm devotion. Krishna is the eternal father of this Universe. He is the life of all beings, animate and inanimate. Beauty, learning, wealth, name and fame without Krishna Bhakti is useless. Now you being a champion scholar of world fame, please destroy atheism from this globe through Your Krishna Bhakti.

Nimai Pandit said, "No, freedom from bondage is not possible without the service of the devotees. Krishna 's mercy follows the track of His servitors. Unless the people of the world consecrate their body, mind and soul with the feet dust of His genuine devotees who are void of varieties of birth, wealth, learning and fame they cannot even touch His Lotus feet which destroy all evils and worldly sojourns." Lord Gauranga, the Supreme Godhead of all the worlds, began to teach the people of the world, Himself rendering services to His own devotees, for none is competent to preach the gospel of Divine service unless He Himself puts it into practice in His own life. Thus the Lord played the part of a servitor to His own servitors. Sri Gauranga now began to get intoxicated with Love for Sri Krishna by chanting His Holy name and with a heart saturated with intense longing for catching a glimpse of His beloved Krishna. Gauranga sometimes laughed, wept, lamented, sang and danced like a mad man without caring for what others would say about Him. Sachi Devi the veritable emblem of motherly affection could not understand the Divine Love exhibited by her son. She, therefore asked neighbours who were as ignorant as herself, as to the cause and remedy of her son's malady. They attributed this to be the epileptic fit and advised her to apply the Narayan Taila, Vishnu Taila, Siva Ghruta etc. on His head as remedy. Such process of advice from the neighbours did not give Sachi Devi any kind of relief.

Seeking the absolute shelter from the Lord feet of Sri Govindji, the Tutelary Deity of the family, she sent for Pandit Srivas to ascertain the cause and remedy thereof. No sooner had Gauranga seen Srivas Pandit in His own house than He fell into a trance having the eight fold symptoms of Mahabhava, the characteristic features of a Mahabhagabta. Then he immediately informed Sachi Devi that there was nothing to be afraid of and her son was the most blessed of all the devotees of Navadweep in being the recipient of the highest grace of Sri Krishna. If she would see more of this mystery she need not get frightened nor disclose it to others: Of course Srivasa's words consoled Sachi Devi to some extent, yet she could not be certain that her beloved son would not relinquish the world.

One day, Nimai accompanied by His young friend, Pandit Gadadhara visited the house of Sri Advaitacharya in the neighbourhood. No sooner had Gauranga seen the Acharya worshipping Vishnu with Ganga water, Tulsi and sandal paste, then he fell into a trance. Advaitacharya immediately turned his attention towards Gaurang in his trance and worshipped Him with the same Tulsi and Ganga water meant for Vishnu Puja. It was Sri Advaita Acharya who first recognised the young Nimai Padit as the Supreme God– head.

Gauranga, imbued with the loving sentiment of a Gopi, began to lament thus, "Where shall I go to find my Beloved, the Flutist, Sri Krishna, whom I had seen at Kanai Natsala? To my great misfortune and grief I lost Him, the most valuable treasure of my heart !" So saying the Lord fell senselessly on the ground. After regaining consciousness. He asked Gadadhara, "Where is my yellow robed All Beautiful–Shyama–Sundar" "He is within your heart." replied Gadadhara. At this Gauranga began to tear His breast with His nails. in a confused hurry. Gadadhara prevented Gauranga from so doing consoling Him that Sri Krishna would soon appear before Him. Pleased with the conduct of Gadadhara, Sachi Devi asked him to keep constant watch over her son, Nimai without leaving Him alone even for a moment.

Thus Gauranga spent day and night, in His house in Nama Samkirtan with the selected few of His adherents. Some Hindus, belonging to antidevotional cult, being thus disturbed in their sleep, got angry and in order to check this novel system of Harinamkirtan, spread a rumour out of jealousy that the Kazi was indignant and was going to arrest the Vaishnavas for disturbing public peace. Gauranga being the saviour and sustainer of the world now deemed it proper to reveal Himself in order to protect His devotees from impending threat and fear with which they were stricken.

One day the very sight of the cows grazing on the banks of river Ganga, reminded Gauranga of His previous Leela in Vraja. There He declared Himself. "I am He. I am He. He hastened towards the house of pandit Srivas, who then engaged in the worship. of Nrisimha Dev. Gauranga exclaimed, "O Srivas, behold Him whom you worship. He is now visibly present before you". At this Srivas opened his eyes and beheld the four armed Viswambhara with conch, Disc, Mace and Lotus in His four hands. He then began to praise His glorious form.

Praising the super excellent beauty of the Lord Gauranga's form pandit Srivas was overwhelmed with Love for Sri Krishna and began to weep shedding tears of ecstatic delight. Then Gauranga asked Pandit Srivas to perform his Abhisheka with burning incense, candle light, flower garlands, Ganga water tulsi mixed with sandal paste etc. This being done, the family members of Srivas Pandit bowed down before the Lotus feet of Gauranga, who was graciously pleased to set His Lotus feet upon their devoted heads.

Lord Gauranga assured Pandit Srivas not to be frightened at the mischievous anti-devotional propagandists. As He is the in-dwelling Monitor of all the Avas of the world, they are powerless to do anything contrary to His will. By the force of His will; He could Make even the wild animals weep out of Love for Sri %Krishna. To prove the validity of His command.

Gauranga called for Narayani, the four year old niece of Pandit Srivas and asked her to shed tears of Love for Sri Krishna. The young girl at once began to weep and dance being intoxicated with Divine Love. Since then all the family members of Srivas Pandit became the staunch followers of Gauranga, His compound, still known as Srivas-Angan became the centre of the natural congregational chant of the Holy Name being inaugurated by Gauranga with chosen few of His adherents for one year. He warned Pandit Srivas not to divulge this secret to anybody outside.

On another occasion Lord Gauranga manifested Himself as Varah Avatar in the Vishnu temple of Murari Gupta whom Gauranga loved as dearly as Sri Ramachandra did. Sri Hanumanji Being asked by Gauranga, to recite the hymn on Him, Murari declared. "O Lord of the lords, when even Ananta Deva with His thousand tongues finds no words to describe your qualities and deeds and when even the Vedas fail to depict your real nature and glory, how then is it possible for a poor insignificant creature like me to sing your glory !"

The Lord then irksomely pointed out. "It is unjust and audacious for the Vedas to call Me Impersonal. Swetaswetor Upanishad, the crest jewel of all Upanishads, asserts that I possess Eternal Beautiful form with hands, feet eyes, face, mind and body all spiritual. But Prakashanand of Varanasi does not know, that I am the lord of all Yajnas, the Holiest of the Holy, the Absolute Person worshipped by Brahma, Rudra and other Devatas. It was I, who manifesting Myself as Divine Boar, rescued the Earth, void of the Vedas from her watery grave of impersonal Monism. Now I have descended in this Avatar for propagating Hari Nama Samkirtan and for protecting My devotees against all oppression of the tyrants or infidels, who are averse to Krishna Bhakti." Hearing these Glorious Deeds of the Lord as Divine Boar in days of yore, Sri Murari Gupta who, overwhelmed with ecstatic Divine Love, began to weep out of Love for the Lord. The atmosphere all around was surcharged with the sweet scents of Eternal Bliss.

NITYANANDA PRABHU

Nityananda appeared prior to the advent of Sri Chaityanya Mahaprabhu in the village of Ekachakri in Birbhum District, Bengal, to fulfill His desire of spreading the Holy Name all over the country and thus redeem the people from the worldly disasters. As a Divine child of his parents Hadaipandit and Padmavati Devi, Nityananda prabhu enacted all the infant Leelas of Sri Balaram and Lakshman to the great joy and astonishment of His parents, friends and relatives. At the age of twelve Sri Nityananda accompanied by a Vaishnava Sanyasi Lakshimpati Teertha of Madhwa Sampradaya, visited all the sacred shrines of India till his arrival at Vrindaban in his twentieth year. There he came to know of the grand Revelation of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu in Navadweep. He hastened to Sri Mayapur and stayed at the house of Nandanacharya. Lord Gauranga fore-told His devotees that some Mahapurusa would visit Navadweep in a day or two. So after Nityananda has reached Navadweep Gauranga sent His devotees, Srivas and Haridas to search him but they found him nowhere. At last Gauranga Himself went in search of Him and found him in the house of Nandanacharya. By this He teaches us that without His own grace none could know Nityananda Prabhu, the veritable embodiment of Eternal Bliss. He is the fountain-head from whom the Mahabagabata derive inner light.

On one fullmoon day Sri Nityananda Prabhu desired to perform Sri Vyasapuj a ceremony in the house of Srivas Pandit. Sri Nityananda after finishing off his morning ablutions in the Ganga garlanded Sriman Mahaprabhu as the Acme of his Vyasapuja when the Supreme Lord Sri Chaitanya showed him His Divine six Arms, then four Arms and eventually beautiful two armed Shyaina Sundar form of Vraja. From this Vyasapuja of Sri Nityananda, we come to learn that the only object of worship of all beings, animate or inanimate, is the Lord Krishna Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and that Nityananda is the Divine Master, the transparent medium, through whom we can realise the Supreme Lord, His Name, Form, Attributes and Pastimes in our unalloyed existence in Vraja.

Vyasapuja means the worship of Jagat-Guru Vyasadeva, the Author of 18 Mahapurans, the Vedas –and Srimad Bhagabatam and his causeless mercy enabled us to realise the esoteric meaning of the Holy Book and acquire transcendental knowledge regarding Sri Krishna and Krishna Bhakti. All the Acharyas of the Vaishnava cult till now, derive their succession from Sri Vyasa Deva. The worship of all the Divine Acharyas is also known as Sri Vyasapuja or Guru Puja.

ADVAITA ACHARYA

Sri Advaitacharya lived at Santipur near Navadweep. He started a Sanskrit school. There all the genuine Vasihnavas of the city used to hold discourses on the glorious Narratives and Deeps of the Supreme Lord Krishna from Srimad Bhagabatam. In order to bring on the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna, to the mundane plane, Sri Advaita Acharya used to pray and worship Sri Krishna with Tulsi and Ganga water meaning to reform the world's aversion to His worship.

Krishna granted his prayer and manifested Himself as Sri Gauranga with Divine glow and love of Sint. Radhika. Advaitacharya like Sri Iswar Puri was one of the most favourables of Sri Madhavendra Puri. As directed by Lord Gauranga, he over flooded the whole of Bengal with Divine Love, irrespective of caste, creed, colour, community, sect or sex.

LORD'S GRAND REVELATION

One day, Lord Gauranga accompanied by Sri Nityananda, met the devotees of Navadweep who had assembled at the house of Pandit Srivas. When the Sankirtan started, the Lord revealed Himself, out of His own accord, in all His Magnificence, Glory, Power, Beauty, Intelligence and Freedom and sat on the throne of Sri Vishnu in the temple of Pandit Srivas. Then the Lord, asked His devotees to perform Abhiseka to Him as was done under the auspicious of Sri Advaitacharya with various puja offerings, such as flowers, Ganga water, Panchamrita and sweet of all kinds. Among the devotees, who had brought the Ganga water for Abhiseka, was one maid servant named Dukhi in Srivas's family. As a reward, after faithful services to the Vasihnavas, Gauranga was graciously pleased to name her Sukhi instead of Dukhi. The devotees began to sing hymns in praise of the Lord and qualities of His various manifestations in different ages. He then began to remind them of their past secret mishaps of life and His help unto them. Once Pandit Srivas, overwhelmed with Divine Ecstatic Love, began to weep while hearing Srimad Bhagabatam discourses delivered by Devananda of Navadweep. Mistaking him to be a disturbing element, the pupils of Devananda dragged him out. At this, the Lord appearing in the pure heart of Srivas, made him intoxicated and shed torrents of tears of Love for Sri Krishna. Another instance cited by the Lord was that a devotee who was present there was cured of his virulent type of fever, by Gauranga in the role of a physician. A third instance was that when Pandit Gangadas was running away for life with family at dead of night in fear of oppression at the hands of rulers of Navadweep, the Lord graciously ferried him with his family over the river Ganga, then in spate for a tip of only rupee one and a pair of clothes.

The Lord was pleased to welcome Sridhar for his sacrifice in the past many a devotional life in the service of Supreme Lord Vishnu. In this present life, Gauranga, after a long love– quarrel managed to secure from him gratis for his daily consumption of vegetable such as bananas etc. Despite his poverty he used to spend half of his daily profits in the worship of Ganga river and the remaining for his maintenance. He used to spend the whole night in chanting aloud the Holy Names of Sri Krishna and that pleased Him so much that the Lord was ready to grant him Astha Sidhi which Sridhara promptly refused with this application. "Let thyself be some Brahmin to snatch away the banana leaves and vegetables from me, be my eternal Lord; wherever and whenever I may be born. Let Thy Lotus feet be my supreme command to amuse, Thee with love quarrels at the time of selling these articles." Bhakta Sridhar accepted nothing but the whole hearted Loving service of the Lord at all times and under all circumstances.

Gauranga was so kind and affectionate to poor Sridhara that He accepted a delicious repast prepared of milk and curd thereby showing the people of the world that He prefers humblest offerings of the poor to the palatable dishes offered by the rich without any devotional aptitude.

GAURANGA AND MURARI GUPTA

After conferring the boon on Sridhara, the Lord Gauranga manifested Himself before Murari Gupta as Sri Ramchandra with His bow and arrow with His consort Sita Devi, on the left and Sri Lakshman on the right. On seeing the desired object of his worship. Murari Gupta fell into a swoon. When brought back to his consciousness by the Lord, he began to weep so vehemently out of Divine Love that it melted the hearts of all the devotees assembled there. Being demanded by the Lord to ask for a boon, Murari prayed with all humility "O Lord, by Thou pleased to grant me this boon that I may sing thy glories in every birth and that I may be the servant of Thy Eternal Associates wherever and whenever they may descend."

"O Lord, I do not crave for that salvation which wipes out the relationship that exists between master and servant in the field of devotion. I do not yearn for piety, wealth, passion or even freedom from bondage, but vouchsafe unto me. O Lord, that I may be a particle of dust at Thy Lotus feet."

The Lord Gauranga was graciously pleased to confer upon Murari Gupta, the boon solicited with this pithy remark that he was aptly named "Murari Gupta" because the Surpeme Lord Murari (Sri Krishna) was dwelling secretly in the innermost recess of his heart.

After granting the desired boon to Murari Gupta, Gauranga said, "Thakur Haridas belongs to the same class that of Mine. The attribute, Satchit-Ananda of God-head, was equally applicable to Hairdas as the Divine quality manifests itself in a sincere and loving devotee. in his unalloyed existence, whether he is in the spiritual or mundance plane, just as a piece of iron acquires. 'Tadatma' or same quality of blazing fire by coming in close touch with it so a devotee acquires the same quality of God-head when he is thoroughly imbued with the confidential loving service to Him. Though Thakur Haridas had been suffering from terrible persecutions at the hands of his persecuters, he prayed to the Lord not only to forgive them but also to do them eternal good. So the Lord Himself had to bear the brunt of the persecutions on His own body in order to save Haridas and having a glimpse of Lord Gauranga's Grand Revelation, Thakur Haridas fell into a swoon under the impulse of Supreme Ecstatic Love which is quite distinct from mundane epileptic fit or pseudo trance. Hence a Mahabhagabat was initiated to have a darsan of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna who revealed His own beautiful Human form on him in his trance. Regaining his consciousness, Thakur Haridas began to address the Lord, "O Lord of infinite mercy, I am the most unworthy of the devotees, I am the most untouchable of untouchables, being born in a low caste non-hindu family. The very sight of mine is sin and the very touch of mine requires purification in the Ganga water. Even without my remembrance of Thy Lotus feet. Thou hast saved me from all perils. I, therefore, beseech These, O Lord of unbounded ocean of mercy. that I may be the recipient of remains of dishes of Thy most beloved servitors." Hearing him Lord Gauranga said, "O Haridas He who keeps your company even for a single moment and shows loving regard to you, will surely attain Me. As you have no offence against Me and My devotees, I bless you this day for your devotional love for Lord Krishna." By this Lord Gauranga teaches us that Sri Krishna is attainable only by single minded loving devotion i.e. having intense yearning for and pinning agony of separation from Him. No amount of wealth, lineage beauty, austerity, scholasticism, energy, splendour authority, strength, manliness, wisdom of Astangayoga is competent enough to please the Supreme Lord Bhagavan. Whatever caste of community a devotee may belong to, he stands superior to all others, who are void of Krishna Bhakti. Even the remembrance of Thakur Haridas destroys all kinds of sins. Not to speak of the demigods who are aspirants of his touch, even the Ganga yearns for his plunge in her water. Even the very sight of Thakur Haridas, not to speak of his touch, delivers one from the bondage of Maya.

Hearing the blessing voices of the Lord Gauranga about Thakur Haridas, the devotees began to weep out of intense love for the Lord.

Sri Gauranga then reminded Sri Advaita Acharya of his fasting at one night owing to his failure of finding a Bhakti interpretation of a sloka in the Geeta and His revealing to him, in dream, the real reading and meaning of the above sloka.

When all the devotees were blessed with their respective boons by Lord Gauranga except Mukunda Dutta, Pandit Srivas asked the Lord as to why Mukunda, His favourite musician should be deprived of His blessings and requested the Lord that he might be accepted as a recipient of His Mercy, after adequate punishment for his offence if any. At this Gauranga said that Mukunda does not deserve His blessings as he was (a chit-jada-samanvaya-vadi) an irrational compromiser between spirit and matter. An opportunist some times advocates the theory of illusion, sometimes glorifies Bhakti and sometimes denounces Bhakti supporting the life-less non-devotional activities of Karmi, Jnani yogi to be superior to the devotional practices of pure devotees. Therefore, he was debarred from the delight of Lord's Darsan. Mukunda Dutta too heard Gauranga and said to himself, "I have been really guilty as an offender at the Lotus feet of Bhakti Devi, the Delight giving potency or Hladini Sakti of the Supreme Lord Krishna. Bhakti is but the eternal function of an unalloyed self, always searching after the devotional service of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna to His pleasure without the slightest tinges of desire for elevation or salvation. Ignoring this truth, I have misidentified myself with body and mind and have; therefore, taken recourse to the defective, deceptive and fluctuating principles of the illusionists for which act of disservice or offence I must put an end to my life. But before adopting this desperate measure. I must know, if there is any hope of my receiving the Lord's grace in my birth to come." He then asked pandit Srivas to implore the Lord for him, whether he has any chance of receiving His grace in any life to come and to this the Lord replied, "Mukunda should have to wait for a crore of births to receive My grace." Hearing this Mukunda began to dance with intense love for the Lord. As a result of his devotional fervour Mukunda could over-come the almost unbundled span of one crore of births. When he regained his consciousness from Love intoxicated swoon, the Lord said, "O Mukunda, you have knocked out one core of births by simply putting your firm conviction in My words. You have captured My heart. Your mind and body are surcharged with devotional fervour for Me. You are My eternal servant. I always dance on the tip of your tongue and hear you sing." Hearing this Mukunda, felt remorse for his past non-devotional aptitude and considered himself as the most pitiable wretch in the world void of pure devotion and hence deprived of the delight resulting in the Darsan of the Lord. Then the Lord Gauranga out of His infinite mercy began to console him. "Mukunda!" you are very dear to Me for your unflinching devotion. I descend whenever and wherever you sing the glories of Krishna. What you have said so long is nothing but truth, There can be no delight for you in My Darsan without Bhakti. Whoever ignores Bhakti incurs My displeasure which stands in the way of his delight in My Darsan." Hearing these blessings of Gauranga on Sri Mukunda Dutta all the devotees were thrilled with joy and began to praise his good luck.

During the grand revelation of Gauranga every devotee beheld his respective object of worship in the Lord Gauranga in proportion to his loving devotion to Him.

Gauranga then called for Narayani the fortunate four year old niece of Pandit Srivas and with grace and pleasure, offered her the remnants of His chewed betel.

Then Gaurnaga along with His followers held Sri Nama Yajna every night in the house of Pandit Srivas. While the Sankirtan went on, no outsider was allowed to peep or enter into the compound of Srivas Pandit. One night. Srivasa's mother-in-law, who had kept herself hidden in corner of the room was turned out by the Pandit for her anti-devotional aptitude. Men of malicious disposition, finding the door shut against them cast aspersions on the spot-less character of the Lord's devotees, to which the latter paid no heed at all.

Once Gopal Chapal being refused admission into the compound, out of wrath and jealousy, deposited some objectionable articles such as wine, flesh etc. outside the gate of Pandit Srivas For this offence done to Srivas Pandit, Gopal Chapal was attacked with leprosy and suffered a lot for a long period.

Not being allowed to enter into the court yard of Srivas Pandit, to witness Sankirtan a foulmouthed Brahmin tore his sacred thread in a fit of rage and cursed Gauranga saying. " Let your wordly happiness be at an end." Gauranga accepted the curse with great pleasure. By this Gauranga teaches us that complete destruction of worldly desires and prosperity is the significance of God's Grace.

One night an old ascetic, living entirely on milk, earnestly requesting Pandit Srivas, obtained entrance into the fold, but was turned out by Gaumaga as a foreign element. Gauranga remarked. 'No amount of severe austerities, scepticism or renunciation is competent enough to please Me. I am pleased only by un- adulterated devotion.' The Brahmachary accepted this chastisement with good grace and was afterwards redeemed by the Lord Gauranga when he surrendered himself entirely to His Lotus feet.

One night when gauranga and His devotees were lost the ecstatic dance and chanting of the Holy name of Sri Krishna, the only son of Srivas Pandit breathed his last. Although the members of his family were overwhelmed with grief and began to lament, Srivas immediately stopped them to do so, lest Gauranga's ecstasy would be disturbed. Gauranga apprised of this mishap. Late at night, He went to the place of occurrence with His associates and had the mystery of this sudden departure unravelled from the lips of the departed soul who addressed the Lord with the following ever memorable grief killing words. "I am a jeeva soul. At the will of the Lord, I came here and got Pandit Srivas and Malini Devi as my parents. The span of my life came to an end. At the will of the Lord, I am now departing to another world. Please bless me. O Lord, that I may be your eternal servitor wherever I shall be born. I offer my humble prostrations at your Lotus feet and your associates, to be merciful on me." The soul left the body amidst loud cheer of 'Haribol'. The members of Sriva's family were relieved of their anxiety and grief. There lived Suklamber Brahmachary in Navadweep, a true devotee of the Lord. He lived an exemplary simple life solely consecrated to the service of the Supreme Lord. One day, while he was returning to his hermitage after begging. Gauranga forcibly thrust His hand into his alms. bag and ate a morsel of rice particles out of it, to establish the sastric truth that neither riches nor the rich dishes of affluent atheists can have any charm for the Lord, who always accepts with great relish the humblest offerings made with loving devotion.

Once when Gauranga was narrating the glories of the Holy name to His devotees. a student tauntingly remarked. "Is this not simply a highly exaggeration? Is salvation possible only by chanting Name to the exclusion of other religious practices? Such dogmatism or sectarianism should find no favour among the learned Pandits. To consider the glories of the Holy Name as merely hyperbolic or eulogistic is a great offence against the Holy Name." Thereupon the Lord Gauranga indignantly exclaimed to him.

harer nama harer nama
harer namaiva kevalam
kalau nasty eva nasty eva

nasty eva gatih anyatha

One day, Gauranga recited the above sloka to His disciples and explained to them. "In this Kaliyuga the Supreme Lord, Krishna has revealed Himself in the form of 'Nama'. The chanting of the Holy Name is the only panacea for world disease. To convince the people, the Name of Hari has been repeated thrice.

Hari's Name alone and nothing else can dispel the gloom of ignorance from the people and liberate them from the bondage of maya. The word 'Nasthi', is repeated thrice to leave no room for doubt. The fact that those who consider otherwise and take recourse to other processes than the devotional path are doomed to destruction."

"A devotee willing to chant the Holy Name must feel himself to be humbler than a blade of grass; he must be more forbearing than a tree; he must not give way to lust and anger despite the cause of provocation; he should give due respect to others and must not covet any for himself."

While preaching the tenets of Gauranga, Nityananda and Haridas encountered the two brothers Jagai and Madhai who had left no sins, vices or crimes uncommitted. They assaulted the two innocent missionaries of Divine Love. This assault caused the forehead of Nityananda to bleed profusely. "Gauranga Mahaprabhu came instantly to the spot to punish the miscreants.

The ruffians got terribly afraid and fell prostrate at His Lotus feet to forgive and save them. Gauranga directed them to seek the mercy of Nityananda, at whose feet they have committed serious offences.

When they did so, Gauranga promised to take upon Himself all their past sins provided they would promise not to commit any sin in future. With overflooded tears of repentance, the two ruffians responded with submission. The iron was thus changed into pure gold by the philosopher's miraculous touch—stone and thence forward they led the purest life of devotion.

One day to have relief from the fatigue caused by the scorching rays of the mid-day sun, Gauranga took rest in a devotee's house and sowed a mangoseed in his compound. Lo ! In an instant sprang up a mango tree laden with ripe delicious and beautiful fruit with which Gauranga feasted the devotees those were present to their satisfaction.

Since then, He used to perform such mango festivals everyday after Hari Sankirtan for one year. The place where this miraculous festival was held is still known as "Amrahatta."

Once Gauranga with His devotees, went far away from His house, on a Krishna Sankirtan

Mission, when the sky was suddenly overcast with dark thick clouds And the rumbling noise being accompanied with lightening and thunders began to threaten the atmosphere. Gauranga immediately desired the clouds to disperse in the interest of the Nama Sankirtan. Where this incident happened is still known as 'Megherchar'.

Sri Gauranga named Murari Gupta, a faithful devotee of Sri Ram, Hanuman. One day Gauranga went to his house and assumed the form of the Divine Board lifted up a water pot with His teeth. Intoxicated with Divine Love Murari Gupta carried the Divine Manifestation of the Lord upon his shoulders and went about in his compound dancing. By this He condemned the anti-devotional propaganda. God is void of any Name, Form, Attribute, Entourage pastimes and Realms.

Sachi Devi in a dream saw Nimai and Nitai on one side and Krishna, Balaram and the Tutelary Deities of her house on the other side. snatching from one another the offerings. She revealed her dream to Nitai and invited him to dine with Gauranga. While both Nimai and Nitai were partaking of their meals served by Sachi Devi she saw that they were no other than the veritable Deities, Krishna and Balaram. She fell into swoon transported with unspeakable joy.

On another night the sight of the full moon filled the heart of Gauranga with the thoughts of Vrindaban and He began to play the flute being surcharged with that emotion. None—else heard that melodious sound except Sachi Devi who came out and found her son Nimai seated on the threshold of the Vishnu temple. Then she no longer heard any sound of the flute, but beheld a halo of the moon shining round her son's head.

Advaita Acharya being deprived of Gauranga's blessings devised a plan to obtain His favour. He retired to his house at Santipur where he began to expound Mayavada Jnana to his disciples. When Gauranga came to know of this, He hastened there and in a fit of rage began to give him blows saying, "What makes you, Acharya to establish the superiority of Jnana over Bhakti cult? Is it the reason for which you have invoked Me from My Supreme Seat Vaikuntha?" Advaita's desire was thus fulfilled, as he received the loving chastisement from the Lord Himself. By this Gauranga teaches us, that He has appeared to establish Bhagabat—Dharma of the religion of Divine Love all over the world.

One day, Gauranga was heard crying out "Pundarika, Pundarika" other could not make out the real significance of it. Then Gauranga told His devotees that pundarika—Vidyanidhi , a wonderful devotee from Chitagong would soon visit Sridahm Navadweep. Accordingly Pundarika arrived at Navadweep in a short time. He was staturated with Krishna Prema in his heart of hearts. His strong loving nature was hardly recognisable becuase of his exterior splendid garments. Mukunda who knew Vidyanidhi before—hand wanted to see him accompanied by Pandit Gadadhara, his most intimate friend. Gadadhara a life—long celibate, wholly detached from the world, mistook Vidyanidhi, for a man of the world to deliver Gadadhara from this great offence.

Mukunda recited a sloka from Srimad Bhagabata to show how deep Pundarika's love for Sri Krishna was. Hearing the sloka Vidyanidhi, was so much transported with ecstatic joy that he fell into a trance and symptoms of Divine emotions began to manifest themselves in his body. To make amends for his offence against Vidyanidhi, Gadadhar made up his mind to be initiated by him and informed Gauranga of his pious desire to which Mahaprabhu gave His consent.

Sri Gauranga one night staged an unprecedented wonderful dramatic performance known as "Dana Leela" (the Divine Leela of gift) at the house of Chandrasekhar Acharya His elder devotee. The dramatic personel were Sri Advaitacharya, Sri Nityananda, Pandit Srivas, Thakur Haridas, Pandit Gadadhara and others. They played their respective roles on the stage extempore under the Divine inspiration. Sri Gauranga played the part of Rukmini, the consort of Sri Krishna at Dwaraka. This was the first dramatic preformance on the Bengali stage.

Devananda Pandit a learned Brahmin living at Navadweep, had a sanskrit school. He used to give Bhagabat discourses to a large audience daily. Though an empiric reader of the Bhagabat he failed to realise that Krishna is one with, name, form and attributes. He also failed to undersrtand the non–difference between a Bhakta Bhagabata and Grantha Bhagabat both being Divine. One day Srivas Pandit went to listen to Devananda's discourse on Bhagabata. On hearing Sri Krishna Leela, Srivas was so much intoxicated with Divine love that he could not refrain himself and so began to weep out of love in–separation from Sri Krishna. Devadanda regarding it as unpleasant disparaged him to his pupils who turned him out of the compound.

Sri Gauranga with His associates while passing by that way, saw Devananda reading Bhagabat to a distinguished gathering of Pandits. Gauranga at once flew into a rage and exclaimed "What right has this fellow to read the Bhagabat and thus delude the audience with false and farfetched interpretations? Pride in high lineage empiricscholarship, mundane piety or purity is always an effective bar to the right comprehension of the Bhagabat. It is only understandable by a devotee who renders sincere service and submissively listens to the Sad–Guru. Now he enlightens only himself with this kind of esoteric meaning. It is a matter of great regret that Devananda not only lacks the above qualities but also commits a great offence at the feet of Pandit Srivas by defaming him the other day. He is a mere dry panditic wrangler of the empiric school and has therefore no right to read the Bhagabat." Devananda fell down at the Lotus feet of Sri Gauranga and begged to be forgiven. Gauranga advised him to ask for the pardon of Pandit Srivas at whose feet he had committed offence and he acted accordingly.

Gauranga through His disciples preached His Nam Samkirtan cult in important towns and villages till His renunciation. As a result of it thousands of people joined His banner. The complete success of His Doctrine of Divine Love stirred up malacious disposition of some of the Navadweep Pandits who brought a charge against Him to Chand Kazi, the then Governor of the city. The Kazi polluted the Holy Nama–Sankirtan by smashing into pieces the Mridangas of the Sankirtan party and introduced prohibition. The place where the incident occurred is still known as Khol Bhangar Danga. There upon Gauranga took out a huge procession of Nama Sankirtan in which almost all the citizens of Navadweep joined, each holding a lighted torch. Frightened by the huge demonstrations and the loud chant of the Holy Name, Kazi concealed himself inside the house. Gauranga sent for the Kazi who came out and met Him.

The Kazi had long conversation with Gauranga about some topic of vital importance. When Gauranga asked as to why there was the slaughter of animals, especially cows and oxen in his jurisdiction, the Kazi replied that it was enjoined in the Quoran to kill animals for those who are attached to worldly pleasures and not for those who follow the path of abstention. He supported his statement by a reference to Vedic sanctions to which the Lord objected saying cowkilling is strictly prohibited in the Vedas which declare that old oxen but not cows, are to be sacrificed in order to be revived and rejuvenated by Vedic Mantras. But such psychipowers are sadly lacking in the brahmins of Kali Yuga.

Further, the Kazi made no secret of the punishment he received in his sleep in the shape of nail scratches on his breast at the hands of a grim lion faced human figure grinding his teeth and reprimanding him for his anti–religious act on the very night of day he broke into pieces the 'Maridangas' of Sankirtan party. He also added that some of his peons who had been out on the anti–theistic errand had their beards burnt by meteorlike flame from heaven and some of them, in spite of unwillingness, repeat, Rama, Krishna, Hari as if by spell. The utterance of Holy Names of Sri Krishna thrice, in this way, purified and melted the heart of Kazi who implored the Lord for His mercy and promised Him to abstain from all further desecrations of His Divine religion and to punish any one for neglecting duty of his community with social punishment. Moved with the truth of the doctrine of Gauranga, the Kazi gladly joined the banner of His Universal religion. The Kazi and his descendents were staunch followers of the Lord for many generations. The conversion of Chand kazi not only created thrilling sensation all over Navadweep but also attracted thousands of unbelievers to flock under the Lord's banner of Nama Samkirtan.

After converting the Kazi, Gauranga with Samkirtan party passed through the quarters of conchsellers and weavers of Navadweep and at last arrived at Sridhar's house. They then drank with great relish a little quantity of water from patched–up iron pot. Drinking the water He showered His choicest blessings upon Sridhara. Gauranga asked him the cause of his willingness like others, he did not become affluent by worshipping minor Gods. To this Sridhara said, "Eating, drinking, merry making, sleeping and such like sensual pleasures are common factors both in man and animal according to their past deeds. But to please Hari is the exclusive right of human beings a right which is only possible for an 'Akinchana'.

Once Gauranga and Nityananda walked to Santipur to see Advaita Acharya. On their way they met a pseudo Sanyasi who was a prodigal and a drunkard. At Lalitpur. He blessed Gauranga to be happy with all sorts of worldly enjoyments. Gauranga summarily discarded them saying, "Real benediction lies not in the achievement of mundane or celestial happiness, but in the attainment of eternal Krishna Prema, which is the be-all and end-all of human existence." So saying both of them left the place in disgust.

Once when the Lord Gauranga had first paused for a while after His long Samkirtan dance a Brahmin lady touched, caught hold of and repeatedly took the dust of His Lotus feet. This was too much for Him to bear. Being greatly mortified, He threw Himself in to the river Ganga and was rescued by Nityanda and Haridas. He spent that night in the house of Sri Vijay Acharya and was brought home next morning by His devotees.

Once a sage was offering his prayers standing in water. When a boy out his childish pranks dragged the legs of the sage under the water, the sage became angry and cursed the body to be born as a crocodile. When the boy besought the sages mercy, the sage pardoned him and said that he would be delivered by the touch of the Lotus feet of Sri Krishna who could soon appear as Sri Gauranga. Now while passing the lake near Godrum, it happened for Gauranga to touch the crocodile with His feet and the crocodile soon changed into a beautiful boy who went to his own place chanting the glories of Sri Gauranga.

After sometime Sri Gauranga converted a Mohammadan tailor into a great Vaishnav as the latter used to stitch the tattered clothes of Pandit Srivas, His intimate associate. Thereby He showed that the slightest service to Vaishnavas entitles one to attain the grace of the Lord.

One day, Sri Gauranga was chanting the Name of Gopi, instead of Krishna in His home. A student of atheistic views came to Him and not knowing that it was the outcome of unbearable separation in love for Krishna exhorted Him to say Krishna instead of Gopi. His words enkindled in Gauranga deep passionate love for Krishna which prepared Him to change the student in a frenzied mood with a staff in hand. The student took to his heels and reported the matter to his fellowstudents who, forming a league, began to scoff at the Lord and even went so far as to threaten Him with assault. This impious conduct on the part of students fomented by their professors who were of the same staff, paved the way for their eternal condemnation.

Sri Krishna Sankirtan Transported Sri Gauranga's devotees with unspeakable joy. His all embracing doctrine of Divine Love opened the gateway of the spiritual realm to one and all without distinction of caste, creed or community. But the Pandits, students, so-called religionists, elevationists, salvationsists and all other unbelievers of the empiric school, maliciously began to spread evil reports against the Lord Gauranga. He took notice of the fact that they were doomed to destruction. He, therefore prescribed a desperate remedy for the cancer that was eating into their very vitals.

Gauranga, finding that the object of His Advent was going to be counteracted by the ungodly character and conduct of the padantic wranglers of Navadweep, decided to renounce the world. The news of renunciation agonised His mother Sachi and His consort Vishnupriya and His associates Nityanada, Gadadhara, Haridas, Srivas Mukunda and others. He assured His mother that He had still two more Divine forms to be manifested through her help. One wintry morning they actually found that the beloved of hearts had left them. By this renunciation Gauranga teaches that external service of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna includes the service of all beings in the universe without any exception. When the whole is served, the parts associated with the whole are automatically served.

He crossed the river Ganga, reached Katwa which is 36 Kms. away from Navadweep and accepted Sanyasa from Kesav Bharati. then He assumed transcendental name Sri Krishna Chaitanya (He who awakens Sri Krishna in the hearts of all) After the function, Gauranga set out on His pilgrimage to Vrindaban in quest of Sri Krishna saying "I too shall cross the terrible dark ocean of this world by serving the lotus feet of Mukunda, the Supreme Lord as did the sages of yore" For three days and nights. he raved in a state of trance without food and rest. At last He was induced by Nityananda, His comrade to visit the house of Advaita Acharya at Santipur.

He stayed there for ten days, deeply absorbed in the ecstatic joy arising from the chanting of Holy Name. His mother and His other followers of Navadweep too found an opportunity of looking at the matchless beauty of His Divine face. A sanyasi cannot pass his days in the midst of his former kith and kin. So Sachi Devi desired that her son Nimai might stay at Puri in Orissa. After ten days stay at Santipur, He left for Puri with His six associates, Nityananda, Jagadananda, Mukunda, Gadadhara, Govinda and Brahmananda. Travelling through Atisara, Chatrabhog and Jaleswar, Chaitanya visited Gopinath at Remuna near Balesore.

There He narrated to His followers the incident of Sri Madhavendra Puri which He had heard from His Guru Iswar Puri, Sri Madhavendra was a Vaishnav monk who was the Guru of Iswar Puri. One day after going round the Govardhan Giri, he sat near Govinda Kunda, chanting the Holy Name of Sri Krishna. A boy gave him suddenly a little milk to drink. On enquiry he came to know that the lad was a cow-boy who used to offer food to those devotees who refrained from begging. That very night the same cowboy in dream revealed Himself as Gopal, the uplifter of Govardhana Hill. He also told him how His servitors, being afraid of non-believers, had removed Him from the Hill to a grave, and so wanted him to reinstall Him on the hill. Accordingly took Gopal out of the pit with the help of villagers, installed Him on the Govardhan Hill and performed Annakuta (Hillock of consecrated food of various kinds) ceremony next day. Another night Gopal told Madhavendra in a dream that; as he was feeling burning sensation all over His Body through excessive heat, He should procure sandalwood from Nilachala (Puri) to coat Him with its paste so that heat might be subsided. There upon Puri Goswami set out on his eastern journey, reached Santipur where he initiated Advaitacharya. Thence he proceeded to Orissa and saw Gopinath at Remuna whose beauty threw him into ecstasy. After grog and dancing he enquired into the character of a Bhog (preparations) of Gopinath, and came to learn that Kshira prasad full of twelve earthen pots (inspissated milk) with fine rice and sugar called Amritakli (cream of nectar) was being offered to the Deity every evening. He thought within himself, that if he could taste a little of that Krishna Prasad, he could offer the same preparation to his Gopal at Govardhan.

But being ashamed of the desire he withdrew to a nearby mango garden where he began to chant the Holy Name. Lord Gopinath concealing a Kshira pot under His skirt, went to the priest and insisted him in his dream to give that Kshira Prasad to Madhavendra Puri, who was under a tree in the mango grove. The priest woke up and took the Kshira to Puri Goswami, and offered it to him. Madhavendra with excessive delight took the Kshira Prasad entering into raptures. For the sake of Madhavendra, Gopinath stole the Kshira and got the name, 'Kshira Chora' since that day. Bowing to Gopinath he at once set out on his journey to Puri. Many men followed him with reverence. Such is the nature of the fame, that it comes as God sent to those who do not hanker after it. Disliking the public applause, Madhavendra Puri fled away from Remuna but fame followed him all the way. He told the story of Gopal to the attendants of Lord Jagannath and begged them for the sandal for Him. he collected sandal wood and camphor with passports, returned to Remuna where the servitors of the temple offered him Kshira Prasad. At the close of the night he had a dream in which Gopal told him to offer the sandal wood and camphor to Gopinath, as there is no difference between Him and Gopinath. Puri Goswami gave them to the servitors to anoint all the sandal and camphor on Gopinath's person.

Sri Chaitanya said to Nityanada that Madhavendra Puri's Love for his Gopal was fathomless. He thrice blessed him with Darsan in dream. Such is the effect of true love of devotee. Such were his thoughts that he never thought of his own sufferings and snags in the service of his beloved. There only Sri Madhavendra Puri attained Supreme realisation of Divine Love. The whole of it reeled in Lord Chaitanya's mind. So He fell down unconsciously on the ground in a trance out of intense love for Sri Krishna. None but the three Sri Radhika, Madhavendra and Sri Chaitanya relish the true beauty and significance of the sloka, the rarest gem in Transcendental Erotic poetry. Sri Chaitanya rose up and ran up and down in transport of love. His voice choked with and Satwika symptoms as trembling, perspiration, horripilation, standing still, changing colour, now showing remorse, now grief, now stuper, now pride, now joy, now meekness, were seen manifested on His Body. The servitors of Gopinath were wonder-struck to see Sri Chaitanya's out pourings of Love and served them the Krishna Prasad. Spending the night in chanting Harinam, He left for Cuttack after Mangal Arati next morning.

Sri Chaitanya arrived at Cuttack via. Jajpur and saw the Sakshi Gopal Murty with matchless beauty which threw Him into raptures when He began His ecstatic dance which astonished the servitors of Gopal. Nityananda narrated the legend of Gopal as follows.

Once upon a time two Brahmins of South India set out on a pilgrimage. After visiting all the Shrines of India, they reached Vrindaban, saw the Lord Gopal and stayed there. Being deeply moved with the service of the younger Brahmin throughout the pilgrimage, the older Brahmin promised to give his daughter in marriage to the younger, despite his repeated expressions of disparity in lineage, learning and wealth. Seeing the old Brahmin still determined, the younger Brahmin adjured Gopal to bear witness for him in case the elder might break his promise. Thus Gopal Murty was made the witness to their agreement.

The two Brahmins returned to their homes. The old Brahmin disclosed his promise to his kins folk who threatened to boycott him, if he would utter such words again. One day the younger Brahmin met the elder Brahmin in his abode and asked him to give his daughter in marriage to him. But the old Brahmin, refused to do so. Then the younger Brahmin summoned the village panchayat, and old Brahmin along with his son. He pledged that he could call Gopal from Vrindaban to bear testimony for him; if the old Brahmin would not abide by his promise. To this they all agreed. The old man prayed to Gopal to save him from this critical situation. His son thought that an idol would never come there to bear witness for him.

The younger Brahmin went to Vrindaban and fervently implored Gopal to bear witness for him and save the honour of the two Brahmins. It was not because he was persistent to have the hand of his daughter but because it would be a great pity that the Brahmin was degrading himself to the position of a breaker of promise made before the very Lord. He firmly believed that Gopal was not a Pratima but Vrajendra Nandan Himself. Pleased with the devotional fervour of the younger Brahmin, Gopal followed him on a condition that, if he looked back, he would stop there and cease to follow him further. He assured him that he would be hearing the jingling of His tinkling anklets as a mark that He was actually following him, and that he should offer one kilo of cooked rice daily as Naivedya, for Him. The young Brahmin reaching his village looked behind and Gopal stopped at the same place: He informed the villagers about the arrival of Gopal Murty.

The villagers immediately rushed to see the Divine witness and were overwhelmed with joy when they actually beheld Him giving evidence in favour of the younger Brahmin. The old Brahmin solemnised the wedding of his daughter with the bridegroom with great pomp. Gopal remained there accepting the services of both the Brahmins. A temple was also constructed by the king for Gopal. Thus Gopal became famous under the name 'Sakshi Gopal.'

The king of that province refused to wed his daughter to Purushotham Deva, the then king of Orissa, insulting him for being Lord Jagannath's sweeper. The latter defeated the former in battle and got his daughter, his Manikya Simhasana and Lord Sakshi Gopal as well. As he was a great devotee of Lord Jagannath, he entreated Lord Gopal to remain in his capital only. He took Him to Cuttack and installed Him there. The queen of Purushotham Deva adorned the nose of Gopal with a precious pearl as Gopal demanded her in her dream. The king dedicated the Manikya Simhasana to the Lord Jagannath.

From Cuttack, Sri Chaitanya with His followers passing through Bhubaneswar reached the Bhargabi river, took His bath and keeping His Danda (single monk staff) with Nityananda went for Kapotheswar's Darsan. In the meantime, Nityananda, broke the Danda into three parts and cast them into the river. On return Sri Chaitanya asked for the Danda and being annoyed at this incident, separated Himself from the company of His followers, and reached Puri alone in advance. On entering the lofty Temple of Sri Jagannath, He ran to embrace the Deity out of ecstasy for union after a long separation from His beloved Krishna. He fell into trance and was carried to the house of Pandit Sarvabhauma, who was present on the spot. Nityananda and other devotees subsequently arrived at Puri. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's news was delivered to them by Gopinath Acharya. They all hastened to Sarvabhauma's house and found Him unconsciously lying on the floor. They chanted into His ears Krishna Nama which brought Him to consciousness after six hours of trance.

Vasudeva Sarvabhauma a foremost logician was an erudite scholar of Sankara's Monistic School. He was the court Pandit of Pratapa Rudra, the powerful independent king of Orissa.

Pandit Sarvabhauma, due to his empiric knowledge, mistaking Him for an ordinary Monk and youthful novice, expounded to Him the aphorisms of Brahma Sutras as well as the commentaries on them. Sri Chaitanya remained mute and silent as the interpretations of Sarvabhauma were going aside of the mark. When Sarvabhauma noticed the indifference of Sri Chaitanya, he enquired the reasons thereof, where upon Sri Chaitanya explained those aphorisms strictly on the basis of pure theism thus

" A commentary must elucidate the text, but your exposition is concealing the text clearly. I understand the aphorisms but not your commentary. Sankara's commentary has rejected the primary meaning of the aphorisms and has given a secondary meaning of his own imagination. The primary meaning as given by Sruti can alone carry conviction. According to Sruti conch-shell and cowdung are considered as pure, although they are being bone and dung of animals, naturally unholy. So the meaning of the spiritual truth set forth in Vedanta is plain and self evident. The meaning of Vyasa's aphorisms are clear like the Sun but Sankara enveloped the meaning with the cloud of his imaginary commentary. When the Vedas and Purans tell us how to discern 'Brahman' who is the Supreme Lord Himself full of all powers, he describes Him as formless and power less. The Srutis, that speak of Him as Impersonal, exclude only His material form but establish His Transcendental form, Attributes, Pastimes and Realm.

From Brahman originates the universe which lives in Him and again merges in Him. The three Attributes of Brahman are that He is the Ablative, Instrumental and Locative in relation to the Universe. Those Attributes particularise Brahman as personal.

When He cast His glance upon Prakriti (External cosmic deluding potency) before creation, the physical mind and eye could not have then existed. Hence, the Transcendental Brahman has spiritual eyes to see and spiritual mind to will. The term Brahman means the perfect Supreme Lord and the scriptures affirm that Sri Krishna is that perfect Supreme Lord.

The meaning of the Vedas is too deep for human understanding. So the Purans make the sense all clear. The Srutis deny the Material hands and feet of Brahman but they declare, 'Brahman' sees all, hears prayers, moves swiftly and receives everything. Therefore Sruti asserts Brahman to be personal. How do you call that Brahman, who having the six Divine qualities is supremely blissful as abstract and formless? How can you say that He having the three natural powers, Chit Sakti (internal spiritual potency), Achit Sakti (external cosmic potency) and Jiva Sakti (intermediate or marginal potency lying in between Chit and Achit potencies) is powerless?

Vishnu's Nature, Form etc. are Sat (being), Chit (pure intelligence) and Ananda (bliss), His Supreme Potency assumes three different forms in three aspects in the Sat aspect, the Divine potency is Sandhini, (the energy of expansion of entities) in the Chit aspect it is Sambit (the energy of self enlightening cognition). In the Ananda aspect it is Hlandini, (the exhilarating energy). The Chit potency is the Lord's Internal Inseparable power. The Jiva potency is His Tatastha or intermediate or marginal potency. The Maya is the external material deluding potency. But all these three potencies offer devotion to Him in form of Love. The Lord's six qualities are only manifestation of this Chit power. When such is the case how dare you presume to deny His power? God and Jiva differ as one being the Lord of Maya and the other being liable to be enrolled by Maya and yet you affirm that Jiva is one and the same with God. But in Geeta, Jiva is recognised as a potency of God but not God Himself.

Where the Upanishads speak of Brahman as One without the second, they mean that the Godhead and the Jiva are identical but not one and the same. There is an eternal relation between Godhead, the Saktiman (Possessor of Sakti) and Jiva, Sakti, which relation is inconceivable to the human understanding that the Shaktiman is simultaneously distinct and non-distinct from the Shaktis i.e. Jiva and Maya are always an intellectual puzzle which is only realisable in the plane of Transcendence by the Jiva. This is inconceivable by the simultaneous distinct and non-distinct of the Jiva from the God-head. The Doctrine of Achintya Bhedabheda is applicable to each and every Upanishad Mantra and is not limited in its application to any or some stray sutras on which Sankara and the other Acharyas of Monistic School, have based their interpretations.

When Vishnu's form is composed of Sat, Chit and Ananda how can you assert that form to be a transformation of Mayik Sattwa Quality? He is to be pitied who denies the Eternal form of Vishnu. Touch not behold not that pasanda (vilifier of Vishnu) who is doomed to perdition. The Buddhists are atheists for not respecting the Vedas. But atheism under the garb of belief in the Vedas is worse than Buddhism. Vyasa compiled the aphorisms for the deliverance of Jivas but the impersonalistic interpretation of these aphorisms by the pantheistic or Monistic School is the cause of eternal damnation.

Vishnu is incomprehensible but He manifests in the creation by his inconceivable Chit power. Just as the 'Sparsa Mani' produces gold without itself undergoing any change. Sri Vishnu manifests His potencies in the forms of the entities such as spiritual, material and Jiva without any change in Himself. Objecting to this aphorism as an error of Vedavyasa you have set up the theory of Vivarta by a fanciful interpretation. Vivarta is an error which consists of Jiva's misidentification of his eternal; Cognitive, blissful, infinite-simal and real self with his everchanging physical and mental bodies. The creation is not unreal but only changeable and perishable.

The sublimest word Pranava (OM) being the Image of God is Supreme Truth. From that Pranava all the Vedas have derived their origin in this world. The words 'Thou art That' etc being casual are applied to a Jiva and imply that thou-art of God and not one and the same with God-head, thus making a glaring distinction between God head and Jiva. But you, without minding the Pranava call these words the Supreme Truth. Thus Sri Chaitanya pointed out hundreds of faults in interpretations of Vedantists of Advaita School.

Sri Chaitanya said, "The Vedas assert only three things viz. (i) about Sri Krishna, (ii) our relation to Him and, (iii) devotional practices and Love as the ultimate end of devotion.

All the rest attributed to Him are born of fancy. The words of the Vedas are self evident and should not be interpreted with the help of imagination. But Shankara was not to blame for it. He merely carried Sri Krishna's will in expounding Brahma Sutras according to his imaginary atheistical philosophy to delude those who are anti devotional in spirit. O Sarvabhauma, the ultimate goal of human life is unalloyed devotion to Sri Krishna. The Supreme Lord's attributes of incomprehensible. For such are the attributes of Sri Krishna that even the unconcerned and passionless self-delighted Atmarams worship Him with causeless devotion. "Sarvabhauma explained this sloka in nine different ways but Sri Chaitanya ignoring those explanations explained it in eighteen different ways. Sarvabhauma being fully convinced of the Lord's Divinity, fell prostrate before Mahaprabhu and composed then and there a few exquisite hymns in praise of Him:

Next morning Sri Chaitanya having had the Mangal Arati Darsan of Lord Jagannath, went straight to Sarvabhauma's house: Sarvabhauma awoke repeating Krishna Nama. Then Mahaprasad was given to Him by Sri Chaitanya. Though he had not till then washed his face nor even cleaned his teeth he at once respectfully accepted it after reciting a Sastra quotation. At this Chaitanya was delighted and embraced Sarvabhauma in a transport of joy. He said to Himself, "I have conquered three worlds. I have ascended Vaikuntha. Today all My wishes have been realised because Sarvabhauma has duly respected Mahaprasad. Turning towards Sarvabhauma, He said." Today you have taken refuge in Krishna with all your heart. Sri Krishna has showered His mercy on you without any reserve. Today, He has removed your bondage. And you have torn off the meshes of Maya. Now your heart has been made worthy to gain Sri Krishna, because you have duly respected Mahaprasad in defiance of Vedic rites.

Then Sarvabhauma became a staunch disciple of the Lord, attending to nothing, but His service only. Ever did he meditate, pray and recite the Name of Sri Krishna Chaitanya, the son of Sachi, the fountain head of all Attributes and Glories. The conversion of Sarvabhauma brought the whole of Orissa to the Lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. Though sarvabhauma could not at first recognise Roy Ramananda, a great devotee of Sri Krishna and the then Governor of Vidyanagar with head quarters at Rajahmundry, he supplicated him to meet Sri Chaitanya when He would be going along that way to redeem the people of South India.

To deliver the people of the south from narrow sectarianism Sri Chaitanya proceeded to south with Kala Krishna Das. He first visited Alalnath at Brahmagiri and came to Srikurma. He gave deliverance to a leper Brahmin named Vasudev. On the way visiting Varah Nrisimha at Simhachalam He came to Rajahmundry in 1510 A.D. Crossing the river Godavari He took a bath in Gospada Ghat at Kovvur and met Roy Ramananda the then Governor of Southern State belonging to Gajapati Prataprudra the King of Orissa and had long philosophical discourse with him. At Puri Sarvabhauma entreated Him to meet Ramananda.

The same Ramananda who came with a number of Brahmins to the same Ghat to take ceremonial bath saw Sri Chaitanya sitting and chanting the Holy Name near the Ghat. After bath Ramananda came and prostrated before Him Sri Chaitanya embraced him and both of them being transported with pure love began to perspire, weep, tremble and utter Krishna , Krishna in ecstatic joy. The Brahmin attendants of Ramanda were amazed at the sight and thought, "This Sanyasi must be a holy person where as our Roy Ramananda is only a profound scholar and a great dignitary. See how the embrace is transporting each other with delight? On seeing the strangers Sri Chaitanya checked Himself. Who knows your ways? You are mercy personified you have come here to deliver me. O Saviour of the fallen, the saints ever visit the homes of worldly people for compassing their eternal good. The hearts of the Brahmins and the other attendants numbering a thousand have been melted by your Darsan. All of them are shouting Krishna , Hari shedding tears of joy.

Sri Chaitanya replied, "You are the greatest of devotees. When your sight itself can melt the heart of the scholarly Brahmins, what to speak of the others ! I Myself a Mayavadi Sanyasi, am steeped in the Love of Krishna at your touch." While they were praising each other and enjoying the delightful company, a local Vaishnav Brahmin requested the Sanyasi to accept food which Sri Chaitanya accepted. In the evening the two retired to the seclusion of privacy and began to converse on Sadhya (goal) and Sadhana (the means). On His first question Ramananda recited the texts. "Vishnu gets pleased with those who observe the duties of Varnashrama." Sri Chaitanya said, "Please tell Me little advanced Sadhana." Roy said, "the acme of Sadhana is to offer action and the fruits thereof to Sri Krishna." Sri Chaitanya rejecting this view even asked Roy to cite more advanced Sadhana. Then Roy said, "The highest devotion acquires one to give up duties enjoined by the Scriptures." This was also when objected to by Sri Chaitanya, Ramananda said, "A Brahman realised soul is self delighted, possesses calm and equitable vision and does not grieve nor long anything mundane. He gradually attains true devotion to Supreme Lord."

Sri Chaitanya not being satisfied with this requested Ramananda to cite more advanced methods. Roy answered, "A pure devotion is the highest form of worship." Sri Chaitanya appreciating the reply requested to cite higher stages. Ramananda said, "Prem Bhakti or Love to Sri Krishna is the highest form of true devotion. Prema Bhakti cannot be attained through good actions in millions of lives." When Sri Chaitanya wanted him to proceed still higher, he said, "Love as that of a servant of Sri Krishna is the highest devotion. Love as that of a friend is greater than the previous devotions. The highest devotion is parental affection for the Supreme Lord, "The highest form of devotion is conjugal love for the Supreme Lord Krishna."

Roy continued, "to attain Sri Krishna there are many means and degrees. They are five Rasas. They appear in an ascending order of excellence. The chief characteristic and quality of each Rasa is to attain maturity incorporating in the next. Thus Santa Rasa attains perfection in Dasya in Sakhyam, Sakhya in Vatsalya and all four in Madhura, just as properties of the four elements Ether, Air, Fire, and water, increasing in an ascending order, finally are found in the fifth element, the Earth. Sri Krishna always gives return of our worship exactly in the form in which it is offered. But He cannot repay the offer of Prema of the Gopees. So He remains a debtor to their Love." After listening these with rapture Sri Chaitany remarked, "this indeed is the extreme point of devotion, please tell Me if anything is beyond the extreme point of devotion, Please tell Me if anything is beyond this. Filled with astonishment Ramananda said that he did not know anything beyond that and if there was anybody on the earth who could explain beyond this he would pay homage to him with sublimation. He also said about all kinds of prema and added Srimati Radha's Love for Sri Krishna is reputed as the highest and the ever increasing one". Sri Chaitanya was pleased to hear the praise of Radhika from Ramananda Roy. He said, "I am delighted to hear your sermon. A wonderful stream of nectar is flowing from your lips." He accepted Madhura Rasa as the highest form of Devotion.

Ramananda described the real form of Sri Krishna and Srimati Radhika and the features of Rasa and Prema. At last he said that Sri Radha–Krishna Leela can only be realised by submitting completely to the sakhis, the dearest female attendants of Sri Radha–Krishna in their secret bower. Sri Chaitanya gave the world a number of valuable instructions in the form of a dialogue between Himself and Roy Ramanda.

Ramananda replied several other questions put by Sri Chaitanya and the salient points are as follows (1) Loving devotion to Sri Krishna is the highest knowledge. (2) The highest glory of a Jiva is to be reputed as the true devotee of Sri Krishna. (3) He is the wealthiest who has love for Sri Krishna (4) No sorrow is greater than the separation from a Krishna devotee, (5) The foremost of the liberated is one who loves Sri Krishna wholeheartedly. (6) That which speaks of the transcendental amorous sports of Sri Radha Krishna is the most eternal natural song of the Jiva. (7) There is higher good than the association with a Sri Krishna devotee, (8) The only things to be remembered are the names, form attributes, associates and amorous sports of Sri Radha Krishna, (9) The Supreme object of meditation is the Lotus feet of Sri Radha–Krishna, (10) It is the glorious land of Vrindaban where one should live, leaving all behind. (11) The love sports of Sri Radha Krishna are the sweetest and the most relishing to the ears to hear, (12) The highest object of worship is the Holy name of most adorable Divine couple, Sri Radhakrishna (13) The Salvationists attain the bodies of inert beings, such as stones etc., and the elevationists attain celestial bodies in heaven.

Sri Chaitanya spent ten days happily with Ramananda hearing the sweet discourses about Krishna. Then He showed him His real form in which were blended into one the Rasa Raj (Krishna) and Maha Bhava (the Supreme emotions). Sri Chaitanya then went to Mangalagiri, Ahobilam Tirupati, Sri Sailam, Kanchipuram, Sri Rangam, Madhura, Kumbhakonam, Tanjavuru, Varkala, Trivandrum, Rameswaram and visited many other shrines in South India.

Sri Chaitanya stayed for four months (chaturmasa) at Srirangam in the house of Venkata Bhatta, a Vaishnava house holder. His discourse on the fundamental principles of Rasa in Srimalad Bhagabatam converted the whole family of Venkata Bhatta from the worship of Lakshmi Narayana into that of Sri Radha Krishna. Though both Narayana and Krishna in essence are one and the same in of Love Krishna excels Narayana. Let it amours be remembered here that Venkata Bhatta's son Gopal Bhatta, the disciple of his uncle. Sri Prbodhananda Saraswati was one of the six Goswamis of Vrindaban.

Then Sri Chaitanya visited Sringeri, Udipi, Gokarna and other shrines in western coast. At Udipi, by a learned controversy with the head of Madhwa Math, Sri Raghu Varya Tritha. He established that the unalloyed devotion to the Absolute Person, Sri Krishna, is the means as well as the end of all spiritual or devotional activities of all human beings. He discarded futility of Karmamistra– Bhakti as means in the Madhwa cult. During His South India travel, Sri Chaitanya procured two most precious works. (1) Brahma Samhita V Chapter (a conclusive treatise on the ontology of the highest excellence of Sri Krishna.

His Realm and pastimes) from the temple of Adikesava at Tiruvattner and (2) Krishna Karnamrita (an intensely spiritual and transcendental Amorous lyric on the Name Form, Attributes and Deeds of Sri Krishna) from the banks of Krishna Veni. Wherever Sri Chaitanya went, He preached the Super excellence of Sri Krishna Nama over all other forms of devotion. He diverted the Buddhists, the Jains, the Mayabadis (Monists) the Smartas (Elevationists) to the path of Bhakti, or unalloyed devotion to the Supreme Lord Krishna.

Once Sri Chaitanya met a Buddhist Monk and refuted all his fallacious arguments of his cult. This enraged all the Buddhist monks. The leader of the monks out of malice offered Sri Chaitanya a dishful of unholy food in the name of Mahaprasad. But all of a sudden a gigantic bird snatched away the dish, which fell obliquely on the head of the Buddhist Guru who forthwith fell down unconsciously. The Buddhists were taken aback at this unforeseen punishment and implored the mercy of Sri Chaitanya. When the Buddhists began to chant the Name of Sri Krishna into the ears of their Guru; the monk came to his senses. He became a Vaishnava with all his followers.

Once near Madhura. Chaitanya met a devotee of Sri Rama. He was spending his days in great grief at the recollection of Ravana's abduction of Sita. Sri Chaitanya consoled him saying that Divine entities are inaccessible to mundane beings. Sita Devi is Divine. How could it be possible for Ravana, a mortal, to see or touch her Divine form? In the guise of a Sanyasi Ravana stole only Maya Sita or a shadow of the real Sita. After a few days Sri Chaitanya again came there with a leaflet of the Kurma Purana which contained the above episode and showed it to the Devotee of Rama.

There lived at Malabar, a wandering gang known as Bhattatharis who were experts in their infernal witch crafts. One day when Sri Chaitanya arrived there after visiting many a shrine of the West Coast they lured the weak-minded Kala Krishna Das the only attendant into that group. Chaitanya Himself went to their place and rescued Krishna Das from their terrible grip despite their armed resistance which brought about their own destruction.

Sri Chaitanya here teaches us that, a Jiva is endowed with free will which he can misuse or make the best use of it. By the Grace of the Sadguru, when he is in touch with the Supreme Lord Krishna, he makes the best use of his freedom by rendering devotional service to Him. But when he misuses his freedom, he forgets his relationship with Sri Krishna and the more to use it over the phenomena, the more he is distracted from Sri Krishna. The repulsing and the eclipsing forces of Maya are the root causes of his fall from the Lotus Feet of Lord Krishna.

At Sri Rangam, Sri Chaitanya saw a Brahmin deeply absorbed in reciting Geeta with great rapture, heedless of all mockery from outside. Accosted by Chaitanya as to the reason there of the Brahmin replied that under the instructions of his Guru while reading the Geeta, the very vision of Partha Sarathi Krishna holding the reins of the chariot and instructing Arjuna all the while transported him with much delight. As such he could not resist the temptation of reciting the book although he was ignorant of the Sanskrit or the meaning of the verses. Thereupon Sri Chaitanya commended him with a warm embrace saying. "You are the only eligible person to read Geeta as you really understand the true import of the Book.

After two years Sri Chaitanya returned to Puri. He first met Nityananda, Jagadananda, Mukunda and Sarvabhauma and told them. "Many of Sadhus and Holy Shriness I visited in the South, none I saw so ardent and devout Vaishnavas like you. Ramananda afforded Me unspeakable delight by his ontological and theological discourses on the pure devotion to Sri Krishna." Sarvabhauma arranged Kasi Mishra's garden house for Sri Chaitanya's residence. Then he introduced the devotees like Pandit Kasi Mishra. Roy Bhavananda, paramananda Puri, Govinda and Brahmananda Bharati to Sri Chaitanya. Kala Krishna Das was sent to Bengal to inform the devotees there of the safe arrival of Sri Chaitanya in Puri.

Purushottam Bhattacharya an intimate comrade of Gauranga at Navadweep, being unable to bear the sight of Gauranga's Sanyasa, renounced the world and assumed the designation of Damodar Swarupa from his Guru at Varanasi His intention was to worship Sri Krishna with confidential Love. He was a great erudite scholar in the Vedanta. He was a second Brihaspati in Sasrtic Lore and a Gandharva in music. he used to delight Sri Chaitanya with Divine Love songs of Vidya Pati, Chandi Das and Jayadeva's Geeta Govinda. When such a devotee, at last prostrated before Him. Sri Chaitanya embraced and requested him to be with Him as His constant companion in the realisation of Divine Love at Kasi Mishra's house.

The King of Orissa, Prataprudra Gajapati was anxious to meet Sri Chaitanya. But he refused to grant him an interview on the ground that a Sanyasi should not behold a Rajah or a woman. The Rajah devoutly used to perform his humble service like sweeping and sprinkling scented water on the chariot approaching path of Lord Jagannath at the time of carfestival. Seeing this menial service of King. Nityananda, Ramananda, and Sarvabhauma requested Sri Chaitanya to bless Prataparudra. Whereupon Sri Chaitanya gave him a warm embrace and blessed him with his grace being Prataprudra became a staunch followers.

About two hundred Bengal devotees hastened to Puri under the guidance of Advaitacharya to meet Lord Sri Chaitanya after a long separation for two years. When the party reached Puri. Sri Chaitanya, sent Damodar Swarup and Govinda with prasada and garlands of Sri Jagannath. Gajapati Prataprudra was very much delighted to see their handsome complexion with spiritual intelligence and with their sweet sankirtan accompanied of ecstatic dances. Sri Chaitanya met all the devotees of Bengal. The devotees were given Mahaprasada and were housed in their respective quarters. Haridas was given a solitary place under Sidha Bakula tree for his Nama, Bhajan, Sri Chaitanya used to meet him daily and send him Mahaprasad through Govinda, His servitor.

Sri Chaitanya was glad to embrace Vasudeva Dutta, one of His favourite disciples and a great devotee who had prayed for the whole-sale redemption of all the fallen souls of this world. He wanted to take upon himself the sins and offences committed by them in various births. The Lord granted his prayer without punishment for himself. By such prayer Vasudeva Dutta excelled all tother altrustists and philanthropists of the world by his universal sympathy for the redemption of the evils and restoration of eternal Bliss to the Jivas. The Bengal Devotees were delighted to see Sarvabhauma in their midst.

Lord Jagannath's Rathayatra, a nine-day festival takes place in the month of Ashadha. Jagannath, Subhadra and Baladev travelling on three Chariots reach Gundicha Mandir on the second day (Suddha dwitia) and again return Nilachala Mandir on tenth day (Dasami) During His stay at Puri Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu used to perform 'The Cleansing Ceremony of Gundicha Mandir every year with all His followers on the previous day of the car festival. He has taught us the underlying principles of the Cleansing Ceremony of Gundicha Mandir The Mandir represents the heart of a devotee and if any Jiva desires to enthrone Sri Krishna in his heart, he should first of all, purify it from all foreign dirt under the guidance of Sri Chaitanya who manifests Himself in every heart as (Chaitya Guru) of indwelling guide. The seat of the Supreme Lord, Sri Krishna should be purged of all desires of enjoyment and renunciation and be washed off with the holy water of unalloyed devotion.

Next day, while Jagannath was travelling by His Car, Nandighos, from Nilachala, Sri Chaitanya having fixed his eyes on the beautiful face of his beloved Lord Jagannath began to dance in ecstasy. All his followers forming into seven groups and being deeply absorbed in Sri Krishna surcharged the three worlds with Nama Sankritan. Sri Chaitanya manifested this Divinity by finding Himself present in each of the seven group simultaneously and the devotees in each group opined that He was dancing in their partyout of His grace. King Prataparuda was specially blessed by the Lord to have the vision of His person in all the groups simultaneously.

Sri Chaitanya with His folded palms and uplifted face prayed to Lord Jagannath. "These are my humble and numerous greetings to You. Oh, Govinda the Supreme Lord, the object of worship of the pure souled Brahmins, Oh, 'Brahmanya Deva' the protector of Brahmins and cows and the eternal benefactor of the universe."

Forgetting all else, Pandit Srivas, in absorption of Love was gazing at Sri Chaitanya's dance. He was repeatedly pushed aside by Hari Chandan, the King's minister so that the Rajah could see Sri Chaitanya's dance. At this, Srivas got enraged and slapped him on the face. While the minister was about to chide Srivas, Raja Prataprudra checked him saying, "Blessed art thou, to have been touched by the hand of Srivas, such blessing has not been

to my lot." While dancing, all the eight forms of spiritual emotions manifested themselves in the Lord's body. Then (leaving the dance) He bade Swarupa to sing. He knowing His Heart, began thus. "I have just met the Lord of my life for whose sake I have been smouldering in the fire of spiritual erotica." When Sri Chaitanya used to lag behind, Jagannath's Chariot used to halt and when He used to proceed ahead, Jagannath used to move (in His rath) slowly. Thus did the two Lords to impel each other on. In course of dancing another mood came over to Sri Chaitanya. With uplifted arms Sri Chaitanya recited aloud the following sloka from Kavya Prakash. As the milk maids of Vraja were delighted to behold their beloved Sri Krishna in Kurukshetra so was Sri Chaitanya gratified at the sight of the Lord Jagannath who was no other than his beloved Madanmohan. In the role of Srimati Radhika, Sri Chaitanya thus prays to Sri Krishna. "Thou art the same lover and I am the same consort, yet my heart represents Vrindabana, showing clearly again Thy Lotus feet at Vrindabana. Here in Kurukshetra there are crowds, loud noise of elephants, horses, chariots but there at Vrindaban only flowery towers; the bees humming and the cuckoo's cooing. Here Thou art full of pomp, grandeur and great show in Royal robes being surrounded by a retinue of warriors. There thou were dressed as an adolescent cow boy with flute in Thy lips, here I don't have even a drop of the ocean of bliss; which I used to taste to my satisfaction in Thy company at Vrindaban. So be Thou please to take me with Thee to sport again at Vrindabana." At last the chariot reached Sundarachala.

On the fifth day of the Rath Yatra, Lakshmi Devi goes to Gundicha Mandir with huge procession, full of pomp and show. On that Hera Panchmi day Sri Chaitanya had a philosophical discourse with His intimate associates, Damodar Swarup and Srivas Pandit on the distinctive characteristics of Lakshmi and the Gopees. Lakshmi Devi serves Her Lord Sri Narayana in Vaikuntha with reverential mood, while the Gopees or the milkmaids of Vraja render their service to Sri Krishna with confidential love. Sri Chaitanya expressed His delight to hear the Super excellent qualities of Srimati Radhika over other Gopees. Sri Chaitanya then pointed out the distinctive features of the unalloyed devotional services of Pandit Srivas and Damodar Swarup. The former represents Narada in his unalloyed service to Vasudeva in Dwaraka, as the object of divinity reverence and glory while the latter represents a pure village in Vraja who, in his pure confidential loving service to Sri Krishna, completely ignores even the tinge of lordliness or Divinity in Him.

"Do you think the ocean of transcendental bliss of Vrindaban in comparison with the vast ocean of splendour of Dwaraka or Vaikuntha, is but a drop? No. I worship that transcendental Realm known as Swetadwipa (Vrindaban) where the Gopees, as loving consorts in their pure spiritual essence, render perpetual amorous service to the Supreme Lord. Sri Krishna as their only Lover, where every tree is with a Divine purpose, where the soil is worth while like a gem, where all water is nectar, every word a song and every gait a dance, where the flute gives the favourite confident bliss, where the Supreme spiritual entities are all enjoyable and tasty, where numberless milch cows always give oceans of milk and where there is eternal existence of transcendental time. Hence nothing there is subject to decay or destruction even for half a moment. That Goloka is in the world." said Chaitanya to Srivas to convince him that Vrindaban is preferable to anything.

The gradation of devotees of the Supreme Lord is as follows according to the degree of their Love for the Lord.

The gods in heaven are superior in their Love for Sri Vishnu to the common people of the world who show some faith and regard for Him. Indra, Swarlok King is superior to them for his love for Upendra (Vaman) who protects him always from his enemies. Brahma, with a deeper love serves Padmanabha, from whose Lotus Navel he derived his origin. Sri Sambhu is superior to Brahma in his worship of Sankarsana (Ananta Deva in Vaikuntha) Sri Prahllad and Sri Ambarish are superior to Siva for their constant meditation and all round services to their Lords. Nrusimha and Sri Krishna respectively. Sri Hanuman is superior to Prahllad and Ambarish for his unshaken faith as a servitor of Sri Rama.

Pandavas are superior to Hanuman for their Loving friendship with Sri Krishna, who rendered His services to them as Minister, Adviser Protector, Messenger and Charioteer. The Yadus in Dwaraka are superior to the Pandavas for their constant company with Sri Krishna, their kinsman in their day-to-day worldly affairs, such as conversation, walking, sitting, playing, bathing, eating, drinking, sleeping etc. The queens of Dwaraka are superior to the other members of Yadava family for their depth of Love for Sri Krishna and Baladev (Krishna's elder brother) and Pradyumna (Sri Krishna's son) stand superior even to the queens for his depth of Love for Him. Sri Uddhava is superior to all other Yadavas for his fathomless, love for Sri Krishna, who Himself said that Uddhava was dearer to Him than His ownself even.

The milkmaids of Vraja are superior to even Uddhava, who expressed his earnest desire to be the feet dust of the Vrajas Gopees, whose chanting of the Holy Names of Sri Krishna purified the three worlds. Among the Gopees, Srimati Radharani, the most beloved consort of Sri Krishna stands for her every deep love for Him.

The Devotees were immersed in the ocean of ecstasy in the sweet company of their beloved Sri Chaitanya. He celebrated Nandotsava and Vijaya Dasami with his followers. He requested Nityananda and Advaita to start for Bengal on the eve of their departure from Puri and to bestow Krishna Prema on all irrespective of caste, creed or community. He gave some Mahaprasad and consecrated articles to Srivas Pandit to be given to His mother. Sri Chaitanya further wanted Nityananda, Srivas and Raghav to remind, His mother Sachi Devi that He invariably remained with her on the following occasions:

1. When Srivas performed Nama Sankirtan in his courtyard.

2. When Nityananda performed his ecstatic dance.
3. When mother Sachi Devi offered cooked food to Him and
4. When Raghava performed his spotless worship of deities at home which was highly spoken of by him.

He instructed Sivananda Sen to be the care taker of the family of Vasudev Dutta who used to spend whole day's income in the service of the Lord, even to the last pie. The Lord asked Mukunda whether he was the father of Raghunandan Mukunda replied that Raghuananda was his father because it was Raghuananda who first inspired him and others in the family with Krishna Bhakti. Being glad to hear this Sri Caitanya said, "Truly he is the guru who inspires Krishna Bhakti in the minds of the seekers of Truth." Then He narrated to His devotees an incident regarding the depth of Mukunda's loves for Sri Krishna. Mukunda was the court physician of the Nawab of Bengal. One day, while he was seated on the terrace and attending on the Nawab he saw one palace servant coming there with a peacock feathered fan. His recollection of Sri Krishna with peacock terrace and became unconscious. When he regained his consciousness the Nawab enquired of him for the cause of his swoon. Mukunda replied that it was his hysteric fit. But the Nawab could not believe his statement because he recognised in him the manifestation of the eight fold spiritual symptoms. His son Raghunandana, though a lad of seven was also an adept in Krishna Prema. He used to worship Sri Krishna with a couple of kadamba flowers that bloomed everyday throughout the year on a Jambira tree.

Once Sri Chaitanya asked Satyaraj Khan and Ramananda Basu of Kuleagram to bring Silkrobes for Lord Jagannath every year. As both the Vaishnava house holders asked Sri Chaitanya regarding their duties, Sri Chaitanya said that a Vaishnava householder must always serve Sri Krishna and His devotees and incessantly chant the Holy Name of Sri Krishna. He explained that the Name, the Body, and the Self of Sri Krishna are all one and the same with Sri Krishna Himself. All the three are of the nature of Eternal Bliss. Sri Krishna's Name, if once uttered without any offence, washes off all sins and enkindles nine forms of devotional faith. The Holy Name of Sri Krishna is more compassionate than Sri Krishna Himself, as the Holy Name redeems not only an offender against the Name but also against Sri Krishna Himself.

He then gave a definition of three gradaes of Vaishnavas.

1. One who chants the Name of Sri Krishna even once without offence is a good Vaishnava. He is to be honoured above all Karmis, Jnanis and Yogis.
2. A better Vaishnava is he who chants the Name of Sri Krishna incessantly without any offence. He is to be served as a superior Vaishnava.

3. The best Vaishnava is he whose very sight is enough to make the Name of Sri Krishna dance on the other's tongue. He is generally known as a Mahabhagabata. He should be worshipped with unconditional surrender and submissive listening. It is he who has realised the absolute person Sri Krishna and who can make others realise Him. A Vaishnava householder must serve these three grades of devotees. Thus Sri Chaitanya inspired His associates through His sweet words of advice and bade them farewell with a heavy heart.

At Puri, Sarvabhauma invited Sri Chaitanya to take His meal at his house. Within a short time his wife prepared all sorts of delicious food, Sri Chaitanya came to dine in time. The host couple were attentive to their Divine guest. The extraordinary loving regard with which Sri Chaitanya was entertained by Sarvabhauma was too much for their son-in-law, Amogha, the antidevotional person with malicious character, to bear. "What a voracious Sanyasi He is !" he exclaimed. This dishonour of Sri Chaitanya by Amogha made the blood of the hosts boil within them. They poured volumes of curses upon Amogha. Next morning due to the grave offence against Sri Chaitanya, Amogha was attacked with cholera and was about to breathe his last. Then Sri Chaitanya saved him from imminent death. Repentant Amogha became one of the devout followers of Sri Chaitanya.

Sri Chaitanya started for Vrindaban via Bengal on Vijaya Dasami and went up to Ramakeli in the district of Maldaha. He redeemed the two brothers Davirkhas and Saker Mallik, ministers of Hussain Shah, the Muslim King of Gauda. They have since then been known as Sri Rupa and Sri Sanatan. Sri Chaitanya instructed them to proceed to Vrindaban for reclaiming the then extinct Shrines and the sites of the pastimes of Sri Krishna. Then Sri Chaitanya retraced His steps to Santipur via Kanai Natsala as advised by Sri Sanatana and predicted by Nrishmhananda Brahmachary of Navadweep. He gave up His idea of proceeding to Vrindaban with His huge group of followers. Instructing Raghunath Das of Saptagram to put to (Yukta Vairagya) proper use of every thing conducive to the service of Sri Krishna and to avoid (Falgu Vairagya) pseudo-asceticism Sri Chaitanya returned to Puri.

After one year He set out for Vrindaban through the forest route of Jharkhanda with a simple minded Brahmin named Bala Bhadra Bhattacharya. Throughout the journey across the dense forest. He incessantly chanted the Name of Sri Krishna. The forest dwellers, seeing His beautiful figure and hearing the music of His chanting of the Name of Krishna, forgot their animal nature and followed Him with a yearning of deep affection so much that a tiger kissed a deer under the influence of Divine Love. In this manner He reached Varanasi and put up at the house of Tapan Misra for a few days. Thence He went to Mathura where He accepted food cooked and offered to Sri Vishnu by one Krishna Das, a Sanodia Brahmin as he was a disciple of Sri Madhavendra Puri.

Sri Chaitanya went round the twelve groves (Dwadasa Vana) Madhuban, Taalaban, Kumudaban, Behulaban, Kamyaban, Khadiraban, Vrindaban, Bhadraban, Vilwaban, Louhaban, Bhandirban and Mahaban deeply saturated with love in separation from Sri Krishna. He removed the false idea with love in separation from Sri Krishna. He removed the false idea from the mind of Balabhadra Bhattacharya explaining how all the other laymen were mistaking the fisherman on the Yamuna for Sri Krishna, his boat for the Kaliya serpent and his lamp for the crest jewel of His head.

He then left Vrindaban and Mathura and returned to Varanasi via Prayag. On the way He instilled Love for Sri Krishna into a Pathan prince named Bijlikhan and his followers who were afterwards known as the Pathan Vaishnavas. At Prayag Sri Chaitanya met Sri Rupa and his younger brother Vallabha (Anupama) who was a Rama Bhakta.

Both the brothers bowed down before Sri Chaitanya with all humility. He embraced them saying, "Sri Krishna has saved you from the foul sink of worldliness. It is not by studying four Vedas that one can become Krishna Bhakta, but even a low caste Chandala can win His love by his truly submissive faith." Then Sri Rupa made his humble obeisance to Sri Chaitanya saying, "I offer my prostrated obeisance to the Supreme Lord who is Sri Krishna Himself; who bears the designation of Sri Krishna Chaitanya and whose complexion is of molten gold. He is the greatest bestower of grace whose deed is to confer Krishna Prema on one and all. I take shelter at the Lotus feet of Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, who out of His infinite mercy has redeemed the world steeped in the gloom of ignorance."

Vallabh Bhatta, the founder of the Pustimarga met Sri Chaitanya, who introduced him to Sri Rupa and Anupama who belonged to the lowcaste. Hearing the ceaseless Sri Krishna Name on their lips, Vallabha Bhatta remarked. "Ali! Super exalted is he, though 'Swapacha' by birth, on the tip of whose tongue dances Krishna Name incessantly. He must have surely performed many austerities and sacrifices and bathed in many sacred waters. Really he is holy in his conduct and he has studied the Vedas thoroughly well." Sri Chaitanya was delighted to hear it and praised Vallabha Bhatta. Vallabha Bhatta was wonderstruck as he perceived Sri Chaitanya's fervour, devotion, power, faith and beauty. He took Him and His followers in a boat to his own house with Adhail, a village on the opposite side of the Fort when Beholding the sparkling blue water of Yamuna, Sri Chaitanya leaped into the river, being overcome by love. he was hurriedly pulled out of the water. The anxious Bhatta brought Him home gave Him a fine garment and washed His feet. His family honoured the Feet—wash by sprinkling it on their heads. Sri Chaitanya dined at his house and the leavings of His dinner were given to Sri Rupa and Krishna Das.

Raghupati Upadhyaya; a great scholar and Vaishnava of North Bihar (Tiruhut) came to Prayaga and bowed before Sri Chaitanya who greeted him saying, 'Be thy mind fixed on Sri Krishna.' At the request of Sri Chaitanya, the Upadhyaya recited Verses of his own composition describing Sri Krishna's Deeds.

Afflicted with the miseries of the world some adore Sruti, some adore Smriti, some adore Mahabharata but I adore Nanda, the Corridors of whose house are the favourite haunts of his heart's Darling, the Parbrahman, Sri Krishna Himself. Sri Chaitanya had a transport of love as He listened and urged the poet to proceed further. Upadhyaya said, (1) Syama Form is the best of all forms, (2) Mathura is the best abode of Syama Rupa, (3) Out of boyhood and maturity adolescence is the best age fit for meditation, (4) The amorous (Madhura Rasa) love is the highest of all Rasas. Hearing the right answers for four questions, Sri Chaitanya said to Upadhyaya, "Thou hast transported Me the true love." In rapture He embraced him who began to dance in ecstasy.

Then Vallabha Bhatta ferried Sri Chaitanya across Yamuna and landed Him at Prayag. Avoiding the rush of the people Sri Chaitanya went to Dasaswamedha Ghat and there taught Sri Rupa about Sri Krishna's essence, the path of pure Bhakti the lore of Divine emotions and the sublime conclusions of the Srimad Bhagavatam. He infused His own power into Sri Rupa's heart in order to make him the world teacher, a Perfect Doctor of Vaishnava Theology.

Sri Chaitanya said, "Listen, O Rupa, I give you only one drop out of the unfathomable ocean of Bhakti Rasa to taste it. In the universe the numberless Jivas pass through eighty four lakh births. The real nature of the Jiva is an Absolute of the point of a hair. I am the Jiva among the subtlest of beings. Hence a Jiva is Achintya Bheda Bhed manifestation of Sri Krishna."

He continued, "Jivas are of two classes, animate and inanimate. Among the animate, there are many varieties such as birds, land animals, aquatic animals etc. Human beings are only a minority among the land animals. If we eliminate the Mlechhas, the Pulindas, the Baudhas and the Savaras, remaining are the followers of the Vedas. Out of them we may eliminate half who follow the Vedas by lip only, but commit sins condemned by the Vedas disregarding the functions of the soul. Among the other half, many are unduly devoted to Karma. Among the ten millions, following the path of karma we have but one Jnani, who values the path of Scriptural Knowledge and who is therefore, superior to the Karmi. Among these ten million men pursuing scriptural knowledge we find hardly a Mukta, a liberated soul who is, therefore, superior to the Jnani. Among these ten million of liberated souls, we meet hardly a devotee of Sri Krishna, who is really passionless and tranquil. The pseudokarmis, Jnanis and Yogis are constantly perturbed and ever deprived of the extreme bliss.

Blessed is he who obtains the seed of Bhakti creeper by the grace of Guru and Krishna. In the role of a gardener, the devotee sows the seed in his heart and begins to water it in the company of Sadhus. With this the seed sprouts up and the creeper transcending the fourteen worlds (the regions of time, space, cause and effect.) crosses the Viraja (the river of the cause water which is undisturbed by the triple qualities of Maya) and Brahmaloka (haloed region surrounding Vaikuntha). There being no object of support for the creeper, it reaches Vaikuntha where Narayan the Majestic self of Sri Krishna is the presiding Deity worshipped by Lakshmi and His devotees with reverence. Next the creeper enters Golok–Vrindaban, the highest region of Bliss. It entwines the Lotus feet of Krishna, the wish–yielding tree and bear fruit of Krishna prema eternally tasted by the gardener the devotee. Though thus blessed with Prema fruit, he does not refrain from his spiritual practices. He is careful not to commit any offence and avoids pseudo one. He strictly observes the rules of pure devotional life. But desires for elevation, salvation and Sidhi duplicity, slaughter of animals, greed for wealth, hunting after self gratification, name and fame, all these are the fundamental impediments that stand on the way of serving Sri Krishna.

He, keeping himself aloof from all these anti devotional desires, whole–heartedly devotes himself to the services of Sri Krishna, under the guidamnce of his Divine master. Then he is blessed with the taste of Krishna Prema Rasa compared to which the four–fold human pursuits of piety, wealth, passion and salvation are as worthless as a straw: Hence, Krishna Prema is the ultimate goal of human existence.

Sri Chaitanya, then described the grades of Bhakti. According to Him from Sadhan Bhakti (the culture of pure devotion through regulations) sprouts up Rati (permanent seed of love). When Rati is deepened it becomes Love for Prema. Intensified prema takes the forms of Sneha (affection growing from melting of the heart), Mana (Loving sensitiveness), Pranaya (intimacy), Raga (attachment), Anruaga (Passionate attachment), Bhava (dawning of Love) and Maha–bhava (highest pitch of Divine Love). The forms of Prema mixed with the ingredients such as, (1) Bibhav (that which imparts relish to growing love) (2) Anubhav (accompanying phases of Divine emotions), (3) Sattvika (transcendental emotions) and (4) Byabhichari (extensive Divine emotions) become a wonder–fully delicious nectar called 'Rasa!'. There are five fold Rasas among the five fold servitors of Sri Krishna. He is the Akhilarasamrita–Sindhu (the ocean of all nectarine Rasas.) According to the degree and depth in the nature of passionate attachment, Krishna Prema–Rasa assumes five forms. Santa Rasa (neutral mood), Dasya Rasa (serving mood), Sakhya Rasas (friendly mood), Vatsalya Rasa (parental mood), and Madhura Rasa (erotic mood). These are five primary Rasa. The secondary Rasa are Hasya (comic), Adbhuta (ridiculous), Veera (heroic), Karuna (pathetic), Raudra (furious), Bhayanaka (horrible) and Bibhatsa (Loath some.)

Devoting the mind exclusively to the Lord. bereft of all other thirsts for enjoyment and renuciation is the characteristic feature of a Santa Bhakta. They are Nava Yogendras, and Chatus Sanas. Dasya Bhaktas are Raktaka, and Patraka and Chitraka in Vraja, Daruka in Dwaraka, Hanuman in Ayodhya, Nanda, Sunanda and others in Vaikuntha. The Sakhya bhaktas are Sridama, Sudama, Basudama, Subala, Balabhadra, Devaprastha and others in Vraja, Vibhishana in Ayodya. Bhima and Arjuna in Dwaraka. The Vatsalya Bhaktas are Nanda and Yosoda in Vraja, and Basudev Devaki in Mathura and Dwaraka Madhura Bhaktas are Gopis in Vraja, the queens in Dwaraka. Lakshmi in Vaikuntha is with predominantly Dasya Rasa. Krishna Rati is two fold; (A) Kevala in Vraja (Unmixed) and (B) Aiswarya in Mathura, Dwaraka and Vaikuntha.

A Santa Bhakta is devoid of reciprocal relationship with Sri Krishna Himself. He is endowed with the knowledge of Him as Parabrahman Paramatma. A Dasya–Bhakta constantly gratifies Sri Krishna by rendering Him service with a sense of reverence. Dasya Rasa has the quality of Santa Rasas plus service. Sakhya Rasa has the qualities of Santa and Dasya Rasas plus intimate confidence in Sri Krishna. The fundamental feature of Sakhya Rasa is free comradeship without any feeling of reverence. Vatsalya Rasa possesses qualities of Santa, Dasya and Sakhya Rasas, plus tenderness of parental affection which in its excessness leads to chiding chastisement. His or Her service to Sri Krishna takes the form of parental care and affection.

In Madhura Rasa all the above four qualities of Santa, Dasya, Sakhya and Vatsalya Rasas are present in a super abundant measure, and in addition to them, the votary serves Sri Krishna by offering her perfect spiritual body for the gratification of His transcendental senses. Here all the five qualities are fully present. Just as in the case of the five elements (ether, air, fire, water, and earth) the properties of the first four are present in the fifth, so also all the four qualities of the above fourfold Rasas find their synthesis and consummation in the Madhura Rasa which possesses the most wonderful deliciousness.

So saying Sri Chaitanya directed Sri Rupa to proceed to Vrindaban, thence to Gauda Desh and thence to meet Him at Puri. Next morning Sri Chaitanya started for Varanasi and Sri Rupa Goswami and his brother Anupama set out for Vrindaban.

Reaching Varanasi Sri Chaitanya stayed at the house of Chandra sekhar and dined at Tapan Misra's house. On receipt of Sri Rupa's letter Sri Sanatana having made good his escape from the prison at Gauda by bribing the Muslim Jailor with seven thousand Mohurs. hastened to Varanasi to meet Sri Chaitanya. On his way he and his attendant Isan had to encounter a good deal of obstacles at the hands of the robbers at the Patna? Hills in Hazaribagh District. After having relief from their hands, Sri Sanatana dissociated himself from the company of Isan. and arrived alone at Varanasi in the garb of a Daraves (Mohammadan Faquir). He could not be recognised by Chandrasekhar until made known by Sri Chaitanya, who welcomed Sri Sanatana with a loving embrace Sri Chaitanya said. "O Sanatana ! Sri Krishna, the Saviour of the fallen and ocean of mercy has delivered you from the worst hell of the world." Sanatana submitted, "I know not Krishna. It is thy grace that has worked out my deliverance," Then He introduced Sanatana to Tapan Misra and Chandrasekhar He asked Sanatana to get himself shaved. After that Chandrasekhar gave him a new pair of clothes which Sanatana refused to accept, Sri Chaitanya was pleased with his dislike of worldly things but cast a glance at the costly blanket. Sanatan knowing His intention exchanged it for a tattered quilt of a mendicant.

Sanatan said, "O Lord, Thou has graciously saved a fallen wretch like me who wasted all the time being immersed in the foul sink of worldliness. Now please tell me, what are my duties,? Who am I? Why are the three kinds of afflictions oppressing me? I don't know my eternal good. I don't know even how to ask what are Sadhya and Sadhana? Be pleased to unfold all these truths to me." Sri Chaitanya said, "Krishna 's grace is full upon thee.' You know all the truths and are not subjected to the three fold afflictions. It is the nature of Sadhus to enquire about what they already know. You are indeed the proper agent for preaching the doctrine of Bhakti."

Sri Chaitanya taught Sanatana all the inner truths of Vaishnava theology:

1. The Jiva, soul, is the eternal servant of Sri Krishna. He is the Tatastha potency of Sri Krishna and is the manifestaion of both the distinct and non–distinct from Him, like rays of the Sun or sparks of the fire. Jiva is distinct in the sense that Sri Krishna is the Infinite Absolute Entity, where as Jiva is the infitesimal Absolute or the Spiritual atomic part of the Absolute. Jiva is non–distinct or identical with Krishna in the sense that both Krishna and Jiva are of the same essence, Sat–Chit–Anand (Being–Intelligence–Bliss).
2. The relationship between the Absolute Entity, the Jiva and the world is known as Achintya–Bhedabhed."
3. The three fold potency of the Supreme Lord Krishna is Chit Sakti (internal spiritual potency), Jiva Sakti (Tatastha or Intermediate potency), and Maya Sakti (External potency).
4. Two kinds of Jivas, (1) Those that are free from the bondage of the triple qualities of Maya and (2) those that are enthralled by the triple qualities.
5. the Sadguru (The absolute realised soul as guide) Scriptures, especially Srimad Bhagavatam the commenter of Vedanta Sutras and the Chaitanya Guru (the indwelling Monitor) are the manifestations of Sri Krishna for imparting the real knowledge to the souls. As such Sri Krishna is the only object of worship.
6. The Vedas declare three principles. (1) the object of relationship is Krishna, (2) the means of attaining the ultimate end is Krishna Bhakti, and (3) the ultimate end is Krishna Prema. Devotional faith is the only means of attaining Love for Sri Krishna. At the incoming of wealth, as pleasure is ensured, poverty disappearing pure Bhakti enkindles love for Sri Krishna and freedom from the bondage of Maya which is automatically effected. Hence the direct fruit of Love is neither cessation of poverty nor cessation of re–birth but the positive realisation of eternal Bliss which is Divine Love. This is the highest end of human existence.

7. Sri Krishna's Swarupa is Vrajendra Nandan Himself. He is the Supreme Entity. He is the Beginningless yet the beginning of all beginning and the fountain head of all causes. He is the Akhila Rasmarita Murty, the Embodiment of the Nectarine ocean of all Rasas, as well as the Chief Enjoyer of all Rasas. He is the All Beautiful Eternal Adolescent, the embodiment of All Being, Intelligence, Bliss, the all powerful omniscient and omnipresent, the Absolute Entity. The Supreme Lord of all Lords, the Supreme Enjoyer of all entities whose Eternal Abode is Goloka. He is called Brahman. Paramatma and Bhagavan according as He manifests Himself to those who seek Him through the different paths of Jnana, Yoga and Bhakti respectively. So Brahman is the imperfect impersonal aspect of Sri Krishna, the ultimate goal of Jnanis. paramatma, the partial immanent aspect of Sri Krishna is the indwelling Monitor of the universe and the Jivas and is the ultimate goal of the yogis.

8. The three fold forms of Sri Krishna are the Swayam Rupa (The Eternal form as He is), Tadekatma Rupa (His other form of His ownself) and the Avesa Rupa (His Entranced Forms) Swayam Rupa is two fold. Nanda's son with ego and in the attire of cow boy is Swayam Rupa and Swayam Prakash (Krishna, as He manifests Himself). Swayam Prakash is two fold, Prabhav– Prakash and Vaibhav–Prakash. As Prabhav–Prakash Sri Krishna appears in the Rasa dance with every Gopee in Vraja and in the marriage with every queen in Dwaraka. As Vaibhav–Prakash, Sri Krishna appeared as Balaram who is identical with Him in all respects including the Ego as a cow boy except in colour. this Balaram appears also in Mathura and Dwaraka and as Devakinandan Vasudev, sometimes two armed and sometimes four armed when He is designated by Prabhav vilas. This four armed Vasudev extends Himself as Vasudev, Sankarsana, pradyumna and Anirudha. These four are known as Adi–chatur– Vyuha.

Tadekatma is He who is identical with Swayam Rupa Krishna but appears to differ in form, ego and shape from Him. Tadekatma Rupa is two fold vilas is two fold. Pravav–Vilas and swansa: Vilas is two fold, Pravav–Vilas and Vaibhav–Vilas. Adichaturbyuha is the source of source second Chaturbyuha in Vaikuntha, where Narayan resides, Vasudeva, Sankarsana, Pradyumna and Aniruddha who have extended themselves into twenty forms are designated as Vaibhav–Vilas.

Prakash Vighrahas of second Chaturbyuha are: Kesava, the presiding deity of Agrahayan. Narayan of Pouse. Madhava of Magh Govinda of Falguna, Vishnu of Chaitra, Madhusudan of Vaisakh, Trivikrama of Jesta, Vaman of Ashara, Sridhar of Sravan, Hrishikesa of Bhadraba, Padmanabha of Aswina and Damodara of Karitka.

Eight Vilas–Vighrahs of second Chaturvyuha are Adhokshaj a, Purushottam, Upendra, Achyuta, Nrisihma, Jananrdan, Hari and Krishna. The four vighrahas of Dwitiya Chaturvyuha with twelve Prakash and eight Vilas Murties constitute the twentyfour Vaibhav–Vilas forms of the Adichaturvyuha. These twenty four Vaibhav Vilas Murties have their distinctive spiritual abode in Vaikuntha. Some of the above twenty four Vaibhav Murties have manifested their Holy images on this mundane plane are worshipped as such, Kesav in Mathura, Purushottam in Puri, Bindimadvav in Prayag, Madhusudan in Mandar Hills, Vasudev Padmanava and Janardan in travancore, Vardaraja Vishnu in Kancipuram, Hari in Haridwar and other Sri Murties at other Holy Shrines.

Swamsa is two fold (a) The presiding Deities who guide prakriti and Jivas (b) the Preserver of the good and the destroyers of the demons. Swansas are the sixfold Avatars of Sri Krishna.

(I) Purushavatars are three such as, Karanodaksaye, Garbhodakasaye and Kshirodakasaye.

(II) Leela–Avatars are twentyfive : Sri Chatusana, Narad, Varaha, Matsya, Yajnya, Nara Narayana, Kapila, Dattatreya, Hayaseersha, Hamsa, Prinigarbha, Risabha, Pruthu, Nrisimha, Kurma, Dhanwantari, Mohini, Vaman, Parasurama, Rama, Vedavyasa, Balarama, Krsihna, Buddha and Kalki. These Leela Avataras manifest in each Kalpa or the day of Brahma.

(III) Gunavataras are Brahma, Vishnu and Siva.

(IV) Manvantara– Avataras are fourteen, (a) Yajna Swayambhuva, (b) Bibbhu in Svarochisha (c) Satyasenas in Uttama, (d) Hari in Tamasa, (e) Vaikuntha in Raivata, (f) Ajita in Chakshusa, (g) Vamana in Vaivasvata, (h) Sarvabhauma in Savarni, (i) Rishabha in Daksha Savarni, (j) Visvaksena in Brahma Savarni, (k) Dharma in Dharma Savarni (1) Sudhama in Rupa Savarni , (m) Yogeswar in Deva Savarni and (n) Brihatbhanu in Indra Savarni.

(V) Yoga– Avataras are four, Sukla in Satya Yuga, Rakta in Treta Yuga, Syama in Dwapara Yoga, Peeta in Kali Yuga.

(VI) Saktyavesa–Avataras are seven in number. Sesha–endowed with the potency for personal service to the Supreme Lord, Ananta – Endowed with the potency that upholds the universe.

Sanaka – Endowed with the potency of imparting transcendental knowledge of the Absolute.

Brahma – Endowed with the potency of creation.

Narada – Endowed with the potency of imparting Bhakti.

Prithu – Endowed with the potency of preserving the worlds, and

Parasuram – Endowed with the potency of destroying the evil elements of the world.

Sri Krishna is the Lord of His three internal potencies—His Chit–Sakti (power of will), Jnana Sakti (Power of intelligence) and Kriya Sakti (power of action), He Himself is wielder of His Chit–Sakti or Supreme will, This is His exclusive right. Vasudeva is the presiding Deity of Jnana Sakti and Sankarsan Balaram is the presiding Deity of His Kriya Sakti or power of action, Nothing can bear any fruit without the Divine will Intelligence and Action. The spiritual as well as material worlds are manifested by Samkarsana at the will of Sri Krishna. Samakarshana is also the presiding Deity of Ahankara (individual ego). Samkarshana with His Samdhini Sakti manifests the spiritual entities or names such as Krishna, Govinda, Rama etc, Spiritual forms such as two armed, four armed Vishnu Murties and spiritual realms such as Goloka, Mathura, Dwaraka and Vaikuntha and spiritual qualities such as Bhakti, vatsalya, mercy etc, all at the will of Sri Krishna.

His first Purushavatara brings into existence, the material worlds or the universe with the help of Maha Maya and Jaiva—worlds or the Jiva souls with the help of Jiva—maya at the will of Sri Krishna.

The two fold phases of Maya are Prakriti and Pradhana. This Prakriti is the material potency of the Lord Karanodakasaye Vishnu, who casts His glance upon Her' without actual contact, with the result that. this Universe comes into being, Just as a piece of iron which has no power of burning acquires that quality by coming in touch with a blazing fire, so also Prakriti being herself inactive brings forth this material universe, impregnated with the glance of Karanodakasaye Mahavishnu, the presiding Deity of the three fold Ahankaras and the twenty four principles. They are Prakriti, Mahat Tattwa, (Chitta) Ahankara and five properties of five great elements, plus eleven senses. These twenty four principles constitute Kshetra. The twenty fifth principle, the Jiva and the twenty sixth principle the Paramatma both are termed as Kshetrajna. Paramatma (Karanodakasaye Vishnu) energizes the Kshetra or the twenty four principles into action by the chit–kana Jiva who emanate from His glance on Jiva Prakriti. The Paramatma as the Garbhodakasaye Vishnu is Brahmanda Antaryami and Indwelling Monitor of the collective Jivas and as the Kshirodakasaye Vishnu is Jiva Antaryami and Indwelling Monitor of the individual souls, thus pervading both the Mayik and the Jaiva worlds.

The three Purushavataras though they function with Mayik and Jiva worlds are the Lords of Guna Maya as well as Jiva Maya. The super excellent spiritual region of Transcendental sports of Krishna is known as Goloka (Gokul). Sri Krishna and Balaram are the primal progenitors and controllers of the eternal, unconditioned, conditioned, material and animal worlds. They both pervade and permeate all beings, sentient and insentient in the universe. They are the efficient and material causes of the universe. Their potencies or energies are transformed into Chit, Achit and Jaiva worlds. Both immanent aspect Paramatma and the effulgent aspect of Brahman are their partial and imperfect manifestations.

The Avatars are the descents from the spiritual realm at the will of Sri Krishna as the partial aspects of Sankarsana to preserve the gods. His devotees are god like persons and destroy the demons. The Supreme Lord Krishna manifests Himself in the fullest degree of Amorous Love in Vraja, while successively less in Mathura and Dwaraka. The Leelas of the Supreme Lord are eternal and revolve in succession, like the stellar orbs round the fourteen Manvantaras. At the end of each day of Brahma, innumerable Brahmandas are created and Krishna Leelas are enacted in them in succession.

Sri Chaitanya then described the three Realms where Sri Krishna dwells as the Supreme over Lord. The uppermost Realm is Antah-Pura (innermost abode) consisting of Gokula Vrindaban in which dwell His consorts, Parents, Friends and servants. There He manifests His all loving tributes Rasa and Mercy. Below it is the Vishnu Loka (second) wherein dwells Sri Narayana, with His eternal forms and associates. The Vaikunthas are endless and in the innumerable compartments there, the Parishads (eternal constant attendants) possess six fold Divine Attributes. Below it is Devidham, His external abode, Mundane universe, is beyond the Viraja, where the Brahmandas are endless and the conditioned souls dwelling there, are innumerable. The Goddess Durga is the presiding Deity of this Devidham. The Realms, Vaikuntha and Goloka, which are displayed by His Chit-Potency, manifest three quadrants of His Divinity (Tripad Bibhuti) and the Brahmandas, on whom He displays His power of illusion, manifest only quadrant Divinity (Ekapada Bibhuti), the three quadrant Divinities of Sri Krishna being beyond the conception of human mind and speech.

Of all the Leelas of Sri Krishna, His Human Leela is the best and most charming. His Human form is His Svarupa, the fullest, Highest and Sweetest. His Attire as a cow boy with flute in His hand, His budding prime of youth, His graceful thrice bent dancing pose with sweet charming smile in His All beautiful face all well attuned graces of His Human Leela are also second to none. So super excellent and enchanting is the beauty of His body, that a particle of that beauty draws the three Regions in His all-loving sweetness and attracts all beings towards His all-loving self.

The Jivas are of two kinds i.e. Nityamukta and Nityabadha. (1) Those who have emanated from Baladeva (sankarsana) are Nityamuktas or eternally free souls engaged in service of Krishna and His various manifestations in various planes in the Realm of Vaikuntha and Golok. They do not know what Maya is. (2) Those who, emanating from the glance of Karanodakasaye Vishnu with which Prakriti is impregnated, have forgotten Krishna and want to lord over external phenomena. They are then captured by Maya and enwrapped with two garments of subtle and gross bodies with which they misidentify themselves and perform endless journey in the vicious circular path of births and deaths reaping the fruits of their actions good or bad. These fallen souls, coming in contact with the Sadguru and being reminded of Sri Krishna as their eternal Lord, worship Him under his guidance.

Saranagati or unconditional self-surrender to the Lotus feet of Sri Krishna is the only means of deliverance. It is six fold in character. (1) Firm determination to adopt what is favourable to Krishna Bhakti, (2) Strict avoidance of what is unfavourable to Krishna Bhakti, (3) Firm conviction that Krishna will protect him under all circumstances and at all times, (4) Firm conviction that Krishna and none else is his only preserver and saviour, (5) Self resignation with a conviction that Krishna's will is predominant over his will and (6) Constant expression of repentance with a sincere humility of heart.

Those who have Sraddha are eligible for Bhakti. They are of three grades. (1) Those whose sraddha is based on firm Sastric reasonings. (2) Those whose sraddha is not firmly grounded on Sastric knowledge and arguments but has faith in Krishna and (3) Those whose faith is delicate and not yet firm. The third section of people are inferior to the other two sections but will turn to be good Bhaktas in due course if they associate with Bhaktas of the superior grades.

Sraddha is of two kinds: (1) Laukik, conventional and (2) Sastriya, born of real understanding of the estoric meanings of the scriptures. Laukik Sraddha, leaning towards Karma, Jnana and Yoga, is faltering. The positive features of Sraddha is an antecedent, to devotion by consecrating fruits of action to the Supreme Lord Vishnu. The faith is strengthened gradually by the association with Sadhus of Bhakti cult. Sastriya Sraddha is expressed itself as (a) Saranagati, self surrender, (b) unconcerned in lesser gain (c) relishing interest in hearing and chanting about the Lord, (d) Extraordinary reverence for spiritual objects such as Vaishnavas, Brahmins, Mahaprasad, Sri Murties and Govind Nam. Saraddha or faith is a mental attitude and hence is not a part of Bhakti which consists of devotional activities.

The good qualities of a true sadhu are, 1. He is compassionate, 2. Spiteless, 3. His mainstay is Truth, 4. Unaffected by pleasure or pain, happiness or misery, 5. Spotless, 6. Munificent, 7. Gentle, 8. Pure in words and thoughts, 9. Universal benefactor 10. Tranquil, 11. Wholly dependent on Sri Krishna, 12. Free from all mundane desires, 13. Harmless, 14. Firm in his own faith, 15. Conqueror of six fold miseries, 16. Temperate in diet 17. Watchful and cautious, 18. Respectful to others, 19. Not proud of himself, 20. Deep thinker, 21. Tender hearted 22. Friendly to all 23. Learned 24. Competent and 26. Silent towards idle or vulgar gossip.

The service of the absolute-realised souls is the open gate of liberation, while society of those who wrongly consort with woman is the chief gate leading to the hell of worldly suffering.

Association with Sadhus bears no fruit, if one keeps the company of anti-devotionalists alongside.

The function of the senses of one fostering devotional aptitude towards Sri Krishna, when solely aimed for His pleasure is called Sadhana Bhakti. This Bhakti is twofold, Vaidhi sadhan Bhakti and Raganuga Sadhana Bhakti, A Vaidhi Sadhan Bhakta worships Him with firm faith in obedience to the injunctions of the scriptures. There are sixty four modes of Vaidhi Sadhan Bhakti, They are, 1. Self surrender to a Sadguru, 2. Initiation, 3. Faithful service to the Guru 4. Enquiring of and learning the true religion, 5. Following the Path of Absolutes realised souls 6. Renunciation of enjoyment to please Sri Krishna. 7. Residence at holy places associated with Krishna , 8. Accepting what would suffice for one's sustenance 9. Fasting on Ekadasi day 10. Adoration of pure Brahmins, Vaishnavas cows, Amalaki (goose berries) and Aswattha trees 11. Exclusion of all offences against the Holy Name and Vaishnavas, 12. Not accepting many disciples. 13. avoidance of the study of many books of various schools of thought. 14. Treating loss and profit alike, 15. Uninfluenced by grief and sorrow, 16. Refraining from disparaging other Gods and scriptures, 17. Never listening scandal against Vishnu or Vaishnavas, 18. Never indulging in worldly gossip, 19. Giving no anxiety, to any creature on the earth by word, deed or thought 20. to 29. Hearing, Chanting, Meditating, Serving the Holy feet, Worship, Salutation Servitude.

Friendship, and Self-resignation to Vishnu and Vaishnavas, 30. Dancing before the Divine Image, 31. Singing holy songs regarding Sri Krishna's Name, Form, Attributes and deeds etc., 32. Representing before Vishnu and Vaishnavas one's helplessness, 33. Prostration before the Holy Image of Vishnu and Vaishnavas, 34. Rising from one's seat to welcome the holy shrines and Vaishnavas 35. Visiting Holy shrines associated with Sri Krishna, 36. Following the Holy Image and Vaishnavas when they start to depart, 37. Going round the holy places associated with Sri Krishna, 38. Hymning 39. Reciting the Holy Name of Sri Krishna, 40. Congregational Chant, 41. to 44. Respectfully accepting Mahaprasadam Consecrating incense. Garlands and perfumed essence, 45 to 47, witnessing the Divine Arati, Celebration of the Lord and beholding the Holy Image, 48. Offering to Krishna, whatever is dear to one's ownself, 49. Constant contemplation on His Lotus Feet. 50. Serving Him and His persons and articles 51. to 54, Constant service of Tulasi, Vaishnava, Mathura, and Bhagabata Sastra having been approved by them, 55. Encouraging all activities to the pertaining to the service of Sri Krishna, 56. Absolute reliance upon Sri Krishna's Mercy, 57. Celebration of Sri Krishna's Advent and Ascension Days of His Acharyas in the company of Bhaktas, 58 to 63. Six fold Saranagati with body, mind and soul, and 64. Celebration of Vraja-Vrata in the month of Kartik.

Of the nine fold methods of devotion, 1. King Parikshit attained the Lotus Feet of Sri Krishna by following the devotional method of hearing, 2. Sukadeva attained the Fame by chanting, 3. Prahlad by meditating, 4. Laxmi Devi by serving the Lotus feet of Narayan 5. Prithu by worshipping His Holy Image, 6. Akrura by greeting His Lotus Feet 7. Hanuman by serving and doing all that pleased Sri Raghava, 8. Arjuna by friendship and

9. King Bali by complete self–resignation and Ambarish Maharaj cultivating Krishna Bhakti with all his senses physical and mental.

Ragatmika–Bhakti is only to be found among the associates of Sri Krishna in Vraja. The devotion that follows the steps of Ragatmika Bhaktas is called Raganuga Bhakti. Intense longing and spontaneous love for the adored object of Sri Krishna is the distinctive characteristic of Ragatmika Bhakti. A spontaneous inclination of selfless Love for Sri Krishna following the wake of Vrajavasi is the characteristic feature of a Raganuga–Bhakta who does not require to pay any heed of Sastric reasonings. There are two types of cultivation of Bhakti by the Raganuga Bhaktas, the external and internal. Externally one performs the devotional functions of hearing, chanting etc. through his physical sense organs internally, a Raganuga Bhakta realising himself to be an attendant of a Gopee, renders day and night, external loving confidential service to Sri Krishna, the Lord of the Gopees in Vrindaban. He incessantly serves Sri Krishna in four fold Rasas either as a servitor, a friend, a parent or a sweet heart. A Santa Rasa Bhakta lacks in Raga.

The principles of Bhava Bhakti are always the end of the ultimate goal of the principle of Sadhana Bhakti. The means of Bhava or the sprout of Divine Love, is awakened in the unalloyed heart of a Jiva which is softened by an intense longing for Sri Krishna. It is compared to rays of the sun of Divine Love. When the pure heart is thus softened, this Bhava or Dawn of Love being deepened and intensified by strong attachment for Sri Krishna, becomes Premas or Divine Love, the ultimate quest of all human souls.

The gradual stages from Sraddha to Prema Bhakti a fortunate soul gets the seed of Sraddha from the causeless mercy of Sri Guru and Krishna. Then follows, 2. Sadhu Sanga (association with the Sadhus). afterwards comes, 3. Bhajan Kriya (honest or earnest observance of Bhajan or Sadhan). then follows, 4. Anarth–Nivriti, evils which are four in number are (a) Tattwa Bhrama or ignorance of the real nature of one's ownself and Krishna and Maya (b) Asat–Trisna or the evil propensity to enjoy or renounce the world (c) ,Hridaya Daurbalya, due to heart weakness hankering after wealth, woman, name and fame etc., and (d) Aparadha, offences against Vishnu and Vaishnavas, 5. Nistha or devoutness or steadfastness, 6. Ruchi or relish for hearing or hymning on Sri Krishna Name etc., 7. Asakti or strong attachment for Sri Krishna arises next. Then attachment for Sri Krishna arises next. Then sprouts of Bhava or dawn of Acme of Love, which is called Rati, 8 when this Rati or passion for Krishna is deepened, it is called Prema or the concentrated form of unalloyed Bhakti to Sri Krishna. This Prema alone is capable of conquering the unconquerable Krishna.

The devotee in whose heart sprouts the Bhava or Rati is marked by the following nine internal symptoms : 1. Kshanti, a devotee is not agitated by any earthly cause of disturbances, 2. Avyarth Kalatwam, he never wastes his time with anything that does not concern Krishna . 3. Virakti, he does not like sensual pleasures or celestial enjoyments. He is dispassionate but attached to all thing related to devotion 4. Mana Sunyata, he does not crave for honour 5. Asabandha, He has a full hope to receive the grace of Sri Krishna. 6. Samutkantha, he possesses feverish earning for Krishna's Grace, 7. Nama gane sada ruchi— he cherishes a constant longing for singing of the glories of Sri Krishna 8. Asaktitad—guna—Khyane, he always loves to read and relate the qualities and deeds of Sri Krishna. 9. Priti, tad—vasati—sthale, he always loves to reside in places consecrated by the Leelas of Sri Krishna Praying. "O Lotus eyed ! When shall I perform an ecstatic dance on the bank of the Yamuna with tears in my eyes and the chantings of the Holy Names on my tongue and lips?"

Even the wise fail to comprehend the speeches, acts and gestures of a prema—bhakta whose heart is full of love for Krishna. He realises Divine Love for Sri Krishna by chanting His Holy Names and with a heart saturated with intense longing for His Darsan. Sometimes he laughs aloud, weeps, laments for separation in Love for Him, sings and dances like a mad, without caring for what the people will say. As love develop it takes successive sweeter forms of Sneha, Mana Pranaya, Raga, Anuraga, Bhava and Mahabhava.

The permanent emotions of Bhava mingled with four fold ingredients mature in the form of Krishna Prema—Rasa. The four fold ingredients of Rasa are Vibhava, Anubhav, Sattwika and Sanchari, Vibhava is of two kinds, Alambana and Uddipana, which are enkindled by the notes of His Flute. Alambana is of two kinds, Vaishaya and Asraya. Anubhava is stimulated by smile, dance and song. Sanchari is of 33 kinds. In Santarasa, Rati advances up to the stage of Prema, in Dasya upto Raga, in Sakhya and Vatsalya upto Anuraga.

Nanda Nandana Krishna is the chief of Lovers, while Radhika is at the head of His consorts. Countless are the qualities of Sri Krishna every one of which, when heard, can soothe the ears of a Bhakta. Endless are also Sri Radha's qualities of which twenty five are the chief ones which have captured Sri Krishna's heart Who has His sixty four principal Divine qualities. The love for Sri Krishna and His consort Radhika is the theme of Madhura Rasa, the Vishaya being Sri Krishna and Asraya, Srimati Radhika, Similarly in the Dasya Rasa, the Asraya is a servant, in the Sakhya Rasa, a friend, in the Vatsalya Rasa, the parents, and in the Madhura Rasa, the milk—maids or Vraja of whom Radhika is the foremost, but in all these Rasas, Sri Krishna is the only Vishaya. The Rasa is tasted only by the devotees of Sri Krishna but not the devotees of His other manifestations.

Sri Chaitanya taught Sri Sanatana all about Yukta Vairagya which consists in the proper use and enjoyment of all things, sentient and insentient belonging to Sri Krishna, in the spirit of non— attachment and condemned pseudo asceticism. He, in the course of His teaching; rejected the storices of (A) Mausala Leela (B) Kesavatar, (C) Abduction of the queen consorts of Dwaraka, as they delude men of demonic characters. He then explained the 'Atmaramascha' sloka of Srimalad Bhagavatam in sixty one diverse ways, which astounded Sri Sanatana. While explaining the sloka He extolled the beneficial, effects of satsanga and narrated the story of a fowler who gave up his sinful profession and became a true devotee of Krishna by the grace of the Holy saint Sri Narada Goswami. Thus Sanatana was taught all about Sambandha Jnana by Sri Chaitanya during His two month's stay at Varanasi .

While at Varanasi Sri Chaitanya accepted the invitation of a Mharastra Brahmin to his house where He met Prakasananda Saraswati one of the exponents in India of Monistic School. The beautiful smiling face of Sri Chaitanya, His calm and serene look and symmetrical build up of body, the sparkling intellignece beaming forth all about His personality and above all, the sweet and constant soul, enchanting Names of Sri Krishna coming out of His Holy lips, atracted the attention of all assembled there.

In reply to the query of Prakasananda as to why He had neglected the study of the Vedanta, the duty of a Sanyasi, He said that He had neither the capacity nor intelligence to read and understand the same with His limited empiric knowledge. He further added that the absolute Truth reveals itself to a sincere seeker on his unconditional submission to the bonafide spiritual Preceptor. Who alone wields the Divine Power to enable him to realise the Absolute. Assured by this method of Revelation, he had sought the shelter at the Lotus feet of His Divine Master, (Acharya) Who out of His causeless infinite mercy, had initiated him with the Holy Name (spiritual formula of invocation) of Sri Krishna. Then the incessant chanting of the Holy Name not only convinced him as to the oneness of the Name, form, attributes, entourage and amorous deeds of Krishna with Krishna Himslef but also fully intoxicated him with Divine Love.

Compared to this eternal Nectarine ocean of Krishna Prema not only the fourfold objects of human pursuits sought by the elevationists and the salvationists are as worthless as dirt, but also Brahma nanda, which is but a drop of Premananda Sindhu. Chanting Sri Krishna Name is both the means as well as the end of all genuine spiritual endeavours. The Vedant sutras are the transcendental words of Sri Krishna and therefore they are free from the four fold defects such as error, blunder, inadequacy of senses and spirit of deception. They speak of the eternally personality of the Absolute who is All Being, All Intelligence and All Bliss. He is endowed with His plenary potency which manifests itself in three fold forms.

Marginally situated the Jiva soul possesses an alternative choice between the selfless service to Sri Krishna and sensuous enjoying aptitude like Karmis or Jnanis merging themselves in Abstract Brahman of exclusive Monism. But the Jivas are the eternal servants of Sri Krishna in their unfettered state. The forgetfulness of this eternal fuction of. the soul turns the Jivas into either Karmis, Jnanis or Yogis etc. making them enslaved by the triple qualities of Maya. Both the Jivas spiritual and Mundane entities are simultaneously distinct and non–distinct from Sri Krishna. They exist in Krishna like the rays of the sun, They are not separate from Sri Krishna who exists in each of them. At the same time they are not identical with Him who is omnipotent and omniscient. This is known as the Doctrine of Achintya Bhedabheda, It is Achintya because it is inconceivable and limited to human understanding. The Vedant is full of this doctrine. Srimad Bhagavatam is the unstained authoritative commentary of the Aphorisms of the Vedanta. Sri Krishna– Dwaipayana Vedavyasa is the compiler of the Brahma Sutras and the author of Srimad Bhagavatam.

The simple and clear expositions of the Aphorisms of the Vedanta given by Sri Chaitanya make an indelible impression on the minds of His audience, who distinctly understood the ulterior motive of the monistic commentary of the Sankar Vedanta School. They welcome the pure Bhakti cult, the eternal function of the Jiva soul and joined the congregational chant of the Holy Name of Krishna, promulgated by the Lord, with the conversion of Prakasananda Saraswati. All people of Varanasi accepted the Bhagavat–cult of Naimisharanya school.

Sri Chaitanya sent Sanatan to Vrindaban with the following mission: 1. Establishment of Sambandha Tattwa– The principle of relationship of Krishna with Jiva and Maya 2. Writing a treatise on Vaishnava Smriti–rules of conduct for Vaishnavas. 3. Reclamation of the extinct Holy places of Sri Krishna's pastimes in Vrajamandal 4. Installation of Sri Murties in those places.

The pandits of Varanasi excommunicated Subudhi Roy, a Zamindar of Bengal Desh for having drunk secreted water from the hand of non–Hindu. They also prescribed for him the fatal penance of committing suicide by swallowing hot ghee Fortunately he met Sri Chaitanya who instructed him that the Holy Name, if once uttered, would wash away all his sins and offences and a second repetition of the Holy Name would gain him, Sri Krishna's Lotus feet and a third repetition of the same would establish him as the eternal servitor of Krishna in Vraja. Then He sent Subudhi Roy to Vrindaban where he led an ascetic life feeding the Vaishnavas with rice and curd and massaging their legs at the time of their taking rest.

Thus the holy Varanasi which was polluted by the Advaitins, was inundated with the Holy stream of Divine Love from Sri Krishna Chaitanya. He then returned to Puri by the same forest route of Jharkhanda.

Raghunath Das was born to Govardhan Mazumdar a rich zamindar in a village, Sri Krishnapur, near Saptagram, in Hoogly district West Bengal. Raghunath was indifferent to the world from his very boyhood. He used to hear Krishna Name from Thakur Haridas a great Devotee, When Sri Chaitanya came to Santipur after accepting Sanyasa, Raghunath fell prostrate at His feet, Sri Chaitanya touched him with His toe. After a seven days stay he was sent home on the eve of Sri Chaitanya's departure for Puri, Maddened with Love for the Lord, Raghunath, repeatedly tried to run away from his house to Puri. His father kept him bound and engaged eleven persons to guard him day and night. So he was spending the days in deep sorrow deeply meditating to see Sri Chaitanya. At last having heard of His arrival at Santipur, Raghunath went there. During his seven day's stay, Sri Chaitanya said to Raghunath. "Be patient, go home, don't turn mad, It is only by degrees men reach the shore of the world ocean, don't make a show of ape asceticism. Accept the sense objects in a spirit of renunciation. Cherish steadfast attachment for the Lord in your heart, while outwardly discharging your worldly affairs and soon Sri Krishna will deliver you. Meet me at Puri under some pretext." Reaching home Raghunath spent some years following Yukta-Vairagya, rejecting Falgu Vairagya as taught by Sri Chaitanya when Nityananda Prabhu came to Panihati with His followers, Raghunath performed Chida Dahi Mahochav, offered them gold coins and received benedictions from them and returned home. Raghunath, one day, escaped from the watchful custody of his guards, reached Puri by walking for twelve days when he fell prostrate at the Lotus Feet of Sri Chaitanya. He said, "Sri Krishna's Mercy is stronger than the strongest which has delivered you from the foul sink of worldliness." With this Sri Chaitanya entrusted Raghunath to Sri Damodar Swarupa. Since then, he was known as Swarupa's Raghu. Raghunath lived a life of severe asceticism.

Sri Chaitanya said, "He should always chant the Holy Name and live upon begging. He ceases to be a devotee who becomes a slave to his sense of taste and passions. he should subsist on green vegetables and fruits offered to the Lord. He should never indulge in idle gossips, and crave for rich dishes and luxury. An ascetic, who hankers after delicious food, is a slave to gluttony and sexual affinity. He should always chant the Holy Name giving due honour to all without coveting any for himself and should worship Sri Radha Krishna in Vraja in his unalloyed existence."

After a lapse of two years the devotees of Bengal, under the guidance of Sri Sivananda Sen, started for Puri to meet Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. A dog belonging to Sivananda, followed the retinue of devotees. One night his servant forgot to feed the dog. Next morning leaving the party, the dog went directly alone to Puri. After reaching Puri, the party members were surprised to see the dog seated before Sri Chaitanya chanting Hari Nama. Soon after it, the dog disappeared.

One day, Bhagavan Acharya a devotee of Sri Chaitanya, requested his friend Damodar Swarupa to hear Vedanta commentary from his younger brother Gopal, who returned from Varanasi, completing his studies. Swarupa warned Bhagavan to give up the company of Gopal and said. "A Vaishnava who hears Saririka Bhasya of illusory theory which declares Jiva's oneness with Abstract Brahman as the highest end, and all else including the Jiva and the world as illusion. According to them a Jiva is God illusioned and when disillusioned, he becomes Brahman. To hear all this nonsense is to kill himself." Immediately Bhagavan Acharya gave up the company of his brother Gopal.

Bhagavan Acharya invited Sri Chaitanya for lunch in his house. During the lunch, Sri Chaitanya enquired about the fine rice served to Him. Bhagavan said, that it was collected by Haridas from Madhavi Devi, sister of Sikhi Mahanti, an old female devotee of higher order. Sri Chaitanya returning to His lodge asked Govinda, His all time attendant, to close the door against Junior Haridas. When asked by devotees why Junior Haridas was debarred from His Darsan, Sri Chaitanya with an air of seriousness said, " My heart is reluctant to see a pseudo ascetic who consorts with a woman. The formidable senses are prone to enjoy sense objects. Foolish persons in the garb of a Vairagi are up to gratifying their sinful appetites with those of opposite sex. My mind is beyond my control and is repugnant to accept a Pseudoascetic." Haridas passed one year with great grief in expectation of Sri Chaitanya's mercy but He was not favoured. Haridas in utter despair went to Prayag and committed suicide in front of the Vancha Vata to serve Him.

Sanatan being instructed by Sri Chaitnya left Vrindaban and reached Puri through the Jharikhanda forest route. On the way he had an attack of itching eruption. He stayed with Thakur Haridas, his close friend residing at Siddha–Vakul whom Sri Chaitanya used to meet every day. At one time, Sri Chaitanya welcomed Sanatana and strongly embraced him with great affection though he was keeping back lest his running eruption might defile the sacred body of Sri Chaitanya. As Sri Chaitanya was often embracing his unclean body, Sanatan intended putting an end to himself by throwing under the wheel of Sri Jagannath's Chariot. But the omniscient Sri Chaitanya warned him not to commit suicide but to remember that his consecrated body did not belong to him as it was Krishna's property, which should not be claimed as his own.

Therefore, he should abandon all ideas of egotism, but hear and chant the Holy name of Sri Krishna. Neither birth nor wealth nor learning is a criterion of Krishna Prema. A high caste Brahmin is disqualified if he is non–devotional, while a low caste untouchable is qualified if he is of devotional aptitude. It is true, that a lover of Krishna who is unable to bear prema unites him with Krishna and saves him. Sri Chaitanya told Sri Sanatana not to put an end to his life, so valuable property with which he had to perform so many good things for the eternal benefit of the world. Sanatan gave up his mad project of killing himself.

Haridas Thakur embracing Sanatan said, "The height of thy fortune has reached its acme. Thy body is deemed by Sri Chaitanya as His own. Thou art the most fortunate. What He desires to do in Mathura will be fulfilled by thee. I understand that the establishment of the transcendental principles of devotional practices and of Vaishnava rules of life by the publication of a Vaishnava code, will be done by thee. Among the associates of the Lord, thou art most fortunate. You possess unfathomable qualities" to this said Sanatan "O Chitanya, Thou has appeared on earth to propagate His Name and Love all over the world and thou halt done the same through goodself Thou hast glorified and established the Supremacy of the Holy Name. Some devotees practise, some preach but Thou doeth both the functions regarding the Holy Name. Thou art the world teacher and spiritual guide."

One day santana was asked by Sri Chaitanya to call on Him at Yameswar Thota. On that hot Summer midday noon, Sanatana, to meet Him had to walk on the hot sandy path. No pain did he feel from the blisters on the sole of his feet. Sri Chaitanya praised Sanatana for the propriety of his conduct of bearing such physical torture and praised him thus, "You are the world sanctifier. You can sanctify even the gods and sages.

Sanatana was suffering from eruptions. In spite of Chaitanya was embracing him often and against his will. So Sanatana asked pandit Jagadanada how he would avoid Sri Chaitanya's embracing his body with its running eruptions. Pandit advised him to return to Vrindaban without further delay. Sri Chaitanya heard this and He warned Jagadananda for trespassing his limits of propriety in advising Sanatana to go to Vrindaban as if he were far superior to him in all respects. To this Sri Chaitanya said, being a novice boy, Jagadananda violated the rules of conduct by advising a senior scholar like Sanatana He was not praising a stranger who spent one year in the happy company of Sri Chaitanya and then returned to Vrindabana. But Santana with all humility said to Sri Chaitanya that Jagadanada was more fortunate in drinking the mellow sweetness of His hiding of close relationship than he himself whom He caused to drink the bitter Nama-rasa of glorious praise.

Pradyumna Misra once expressed his desire to hear about the Supreme Lord Krishna. Sri Chaitanya sent him to Ramananda to have his desire fulfilled. But Misra returned, as if disappointed, because he mistook him for a worldly man as he was mixing freely with Devadasis Sri Chaitanya convinced him saying, though a house holder Ramananda was a Paramahamasa who was quite unintelligible to ordinary human perspective: His heart was deeply absorbed in Krishna Prema. While teaching the devadasis the art of dancing and singing, his mind remained unconcerned and unaltered at the touch of those beautiful damsels. It is therefore, a conclusive proof that his body was purely spiritual. Having thus been enlightened Pradyumna again approached Ramananda with submissive spirit and listened to the sermons which threw both into a rapture of Divine Love.

Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu is the Absolute redeemer of the Kali Yuga, People in this age of wrangle, discord, self insufficiency and jealousy are liable to fall a victim to the five fold trap of Kali, such, as, 1. Gambling 2. Indulging in all sorts of intoxicants, 3. Consorting with women,, 4. Animal killing, and 5. Wasting money in vain pursuits. Sri Chaitanya as the Acharya or the world teacher saves and redeems the worldly people from the terrible grip of Kali Hence he is named as Kali Yuga pavanavatari and Yuga Dharma Pravartaka.

A poet from Bengal composed a drama on Sri Chaitanya (being much appreciated by His devotees) and desired to present it before Him. But no sloka or drama was acceptable to Sri Chaitanya, unless and until it had stood the acid test of devotional genuineness, i.e., the scrutiny of Sri Damodar Swarup. Hearing the drama, Damodar remarked that he committed grave errors in his book, because he did not submit himself to a genuine devotee prior to his attempt of describing the Leelas of the Lord. The pandit did as he was instructed and become one of the staunch followers of the Lord, abandoning all the vanity of empiric knowledge and mundane acquisitions.

Vallabha Bhatta, the founder of Pusti Marg came to Puri and bowed before His—feet and Sri Chaitanya embraced him. Bhatta with all humility said, "Since long I have desired to meet Three, the god in visible form, Even the very remembrance of thy person or name sanctifies a man, no wonder in it that Thy Darsan makes one blessed and swim in the ocean of Krishna Prema, "Sri Chaitanya "Replied, "Well, Bhatta, I know not what Krishna Prema or Bhakti is as I am a Mayavadi Sanyasi. The association with Advaita Acharya and Nityananda has purified my heart. From the Great learned Sarvabhauma I have learnt the philosophy of Krishna Bhakti. From Ramananda, I have learnt the Principles of prema Bhakti and Loving devotional service of Vraja. From Damodar Swarup I have learnt the transcendental knowledge of the Amorous Love of Vraja. From Thakur Haridas who chants three lakhs of Nama daily, I have learnt how to glorify the Nama. From pandit Gadadhara. Acharya Ratna, Jagadananda, Vakreswar, Vasudeva Dutta, Muxari, Mukunda and other devotees, I have learnt Krishna Bhakti and Krishna Prema." Sri Chaitanya Knew Vallabha Bhatta to be very proud of his erudition and ego that he knew well the philosophy of Bhakti and could expound the Srimad Bhagavatam better than any else. Bhatta rejoined, " I have made many interpretations to the meaning of Krishna's Nama, Would you please listen to me? But Sri Chaitanya objected, saying "No I have no regard for the many meanings of Krishna Name. I only know that He is Syama Sundara and Yasodanandan.

This only I know in reality while for other meanings I am not qualified; My dear Bhatta the Dharma of a faithful wife is to obey her husband's Command, Our eternal husband. Sri Krishna has commanded us to chant His Name without cessation. So we chant His Name and derive from it the fruit of Divine Love at His Holy feet. One who does not follow Swami (Sridhar Swami) is ranked among the unchaste women, You have refuted Sridhar and have written a separate commentary on the Bhagavatam. We understand Bhagavatam through Bhagavan Vedavyasa's grace. He is the world teacher. It will carry no meaning or weight, that you have written contrary to Sridhar Swami. None will accept it. Please relinquish your vanity and worship Sri Krishna with all humility and perform Krishna Kirtan.

Vallabha was formerly a Bala Gopal worshipper but the company of Gadadhar Pandit turned his mind and he longed to adore adolescent Krishna and begged the Pandit to initiate him with the same mantra. Sri Chaitanya too was exceedingly pleased with his tolerant nature and asked the Pandit to initiate Bhatta.

One day Pandit Jagadanda, a follower of Sri Chaitanya invited Ramachandra a disciple of Mandhavendra Puri and served him with Mahaprasad, Puri also served the pandit profusely in return and began to slander the Pandit with the following remarks, "I heard that Sri Chaitanya's followers are voracious eaters. There is no gain saying the act, as I cannot disbelieve my own eyes. By gorging, you have done a great injustice to me, a Sanyasi." Ramachandra Puri who had committed offences at the feet of his Guru Madhavendra became notorious for his universal faultfinding and back biting habit, for which the devotees of Sri Chaitanya were terribly afraid of his company. His offences against Sri Chaitanya went so far as to disparage Him with gluttony. Such an offence as said above, against the Divine Master, makes one lose all his senses of propriety and also makes him recklessly commit the gravest offence even at the Feet of the Supreme Lord Himself.

Gopinath pattanayak, brother of Ramananda was a revenue officer in the court of King Prataparudra. He embezzled some money from the royal treasury. So the Yuvaraj intended to take his life as a penalty, whereupon some followers of Sri Chaitanya came to Him and begged His intervention in the matter. Sri Chaitanya, disliking to interfere with such worldly affairs, asked them to invoke the mercy of Lord Jagannath. But Harichandan, a devotee of Sri Chaitanya taking the initiative upon himself interceded with Prataparudra for saving Gopinath's life. Prataparudra at once ordered the release of Gopinath preventing his execution. Gopinath was afterwards honoured with dignity of Governorship with twice of his former remuneration. Sri Chaitanya warned him against defalcations of king's money. Here Sri Chaitanya has given a number of teachings to the world.

1. That an ideal dispassionate Sanyasi should not interfere and entangle himself in any worldly affairs, 2. That he should not approach worldly people for any help, either for himself or for others, 3. That house holders should depend entirely on Jagannath, the Lord of the Universe, in any kind of anxiety without appealing to human beings, 4. That one should not misappropriate the master's money and lead an extravagant life, but should live on honest earnings and lead a pure life of Hari Bhaj an, 5. That one should not renounce the world out of Falgu–Vairagya; 6. That the slightest glance of grace of the Lord is enough not only to release a man from the impending death but to shower upon Him His choicest blessings.

Raghav Pandit of Panihati every year came to Puri with Bengali Devotees with many baskets full of various kinds of pure uncooked preparations, which would suffice for Sri Chaitanya, who used to accept a little quantity of it daily for one year. Sri Chaitanya did justice to those offerings of love, free from mundane merits and demerits, in as much as the qualities of things offered are judged not by the things themselves, but by the sincere love of the devotee who offers them to the Lord This basket is known by the name "Raghaver jhali".

One day Sri Chaitanya performed Sankirtan encircling the Jagannath temple with his seven groups under the leader ships of Advaita, Nityananda, Vakreswar, Achyutananda, Srivas, Satyaraj and Narahari. After sankirtan. Sri Chaitanya, accepted Mahaprasad with His followers and then repaired to Gambhira. His Lodge and stretched Himself at full length across the door. His servant, Govinda massaged Him on His left side and requested

Him to move a little, so that he could enter inside and do the rest of his regular service. But Sri Chaitanya declined saying that He was too tired to move and told him (Govinda) that he might do whatever he liked. Finding no other means to enter the room Govinda placed His legs. When Sri Chaitanya awoke and asked Govinda why he had not till then accepted Mahaprasad. Govinda replied, "How could I go out as Thou hast blocked the door why? Sir." Sri Chaitanya said, "Why didn't you go out in the same manner as you entered?" Govinda spoke within himself, "I must do my appointed service even if I have to commit any offence or go to hell for so doing. I do not hesitate to commit millions of offences for doing my appointed service. But for satisfying my personal need, I should fear, even the slightest things of offence."

One day Govinda went to Haridas with Mahaprasadam and found him lying on bed, chanting His Holy Name very slowly. He accepted respectfully only a particle of Mahaprasadam, Next Sri Chaitanya Himself came to him and enquired of his health. Haridas said physically he was well but not so well in mind since his chanting fell short of the fixed number to be counted daily. Sri Chaitanya said, "Thou art a Maha Bhagavata, perfect in thy Bhajans. Why art thou so eager for sadhana at this old age? Thou hast proclaimed the glories of the Holy Name to the world. Thou mayest reduce the number of chantings of the Holy Name." Haridas then expressed his unworthiness as a disciple, in the most humble terms and implored the Lord to grant him a boon long wished for. It was his heart felt desire of clasping the Lotus feet of the Lord in his bosom beholding His moon like face with his eyes and chanting the Holy Name, Sri Krishna Chaitanya on his tongue, he might breathe his last.

He did not like to live on earth after the disappearance of Sri Chaitanya. To grant his earnest prayer next morning Sri Chaitanya appeared before Haridas with all His close followers and started a grand Sankirtana encircling Thakur Haridas. Haridas, then turned towards the Lord, fixed his eyes at His Lotus face, Clasped the Lotus feet of the Lord, adorned his head with feet dust of the devotees, drank the nectarine sweetness of His Lotus face with tears in his eyes and chanting the Holy Name of Sri Krishna Chaitanya and departed from this world as did Bhishma Deva of Yore. Loud chant of the Names of Hari, Krishna, Rama resounded the atmosphere which sent a thrill of joy to the Lord and He began to dance round the compound with the Holy body of Haridas on His shoulder. Haridas body was carried to the sea beach amidst loud Sankirtana and bathed in the sea. Sri Chaitanya said, "From this day onwards, the sea has become a great Holy Shrine."

Sri Chaitanya performed the funeral ceremony of Haridas and entombed his body with His own hands. Sri Chaitanya then begged for the sweet Prasadas sold in the Ananda Bazar inside the Jagannath temple for performing the disappearance ceremony of Haridas. Sri Chaitanya expressed great sorrow at the sad bereavement of Haridas, His constant companion, He said, 'By Krishna's mercy I was blessed with his sweet amiable company, and by His sweet will, I have been deprived of that blessing. Haridas was a crest jewel of the Mother earth. She is now sorry for being devoid of that priceless gem.'

The devotees of Gauda went to Puri every year to see Sri Chaitanya, Sivananda Sen acted as their guide and caretaker on the way. He was favoured in one of these journeys with loving kick from Nityananda Prabhu in a fit of Loving rage owing to his delay in arranging adequate boarding and lodging for him and his followers. Greatly mortified at this, Srikanta Sen, Sivananda's nephew hastened to Puri in advance, met the Lord and bowed down before Him with his overcoat on. When prostrated with the overcoat, he was objected to by Govinda. The Lord told Govinda to let Srikanta have his own way, as he had come with a wounded heart. By the grace of Nityananda, Sen Sivananda with his whole family was blessed with the remains of the Lord's plate so long as he remained at Puri.

After the Chaturmasya (four months) had been spent at Puri, the Lord permitted the Gaudiya pilgrims to return to Bengal and on that occasion He spoke thus lovingly to them. "You are coming every year to me, undergoing all sorts of privations, troubles and tribulations on the way. I, therefore, dislike your coming here every year, but your amiable and loving company attracts my heart. I have instructed Nityananda to stay in Bengal and redeem the fallen souls but he has come in defiance of my order. As per the hoary headed Advaita Acharya himself he too undertakes a long and tedious journey to see me How can I repay the debt of your love for me? I am a poor Sanyasi. My only property is my body and this I entirely have given to you." The Lord's pathetic speech melted the hearts of His devotees and tears of love rolled down their necks and bathed them in tears. He again asked them to stay there for one more week. After this period he consoled them and gave permission to depart. None can repay the debt to His boundless love and affection for His devotees.

Pandit Jagadananda, Sri Chaitanya's intimate companion, went to Nadia to see mother Sachidevi and other devotees of Gauda and returned to Puri with a pot of scented sandal oil. He then gave that oil pot to Govinda and asked him to massage the oil on the head of the Lord to cure Him of excessive bile and gastric wind. When Govinda bent upon applying the oil, Sri Chaitanya refused to accept it saying, "A Sanyasi is forbidden to use scented oil. So it may be offered to Lord jagannath's Temple for lighting lamps. Jagadananda's labour will be fully rewarded by doing so" Hearing this the Pandit, in a fit of loving anger replied, "Who has told Thee this piece of false hood? I did not bring any oil from Bengal." So saying the Pandit brought the oil pot from the room, broke it on the floor in the presence of the Lord, went inside his room, bolted the door from within and kept himself fasting. On the third day Sri Chaitanya went to his door and said, "Pundit, you prepare food, after Jagannath Darsan. I shall come back at noon to take prasadam here." So saying He left his door.

Jagadananda cooked varieties of eatables for Him. At noon when He arrived and saw the dishes placed before Him. He was exceedingly delighted. While partaking of them He remarked "Oh How nice and delicious is the vegetable soup you cooked! I see, when one cooks ! in anger, It tastes very sweet. This is the proof of Sri Krishna's grace upon you. Pandit, you are the most fortunate devotee. Krishna, being anxious to eat your preparations, has created anger in you and has accepted this nectarine food you have offered to Him. "The Pandit served the Lord with such earnestness that He ate double His usual food in fear, lest the Pandit should fly into a rage again and start fasting. Out of love for Govinda Sri Chaitanya asked him, "Is it unwise to break your fast for My sake." Then the Pandit with other devotees, respected the remains of the Lord's plate.

The austerities of Sri Chaitanya were so severe that His devotees could not bear. Pandit Jagadananda prepared a soft and costly pillow and asked Govinda and Damodar Swarup to see that the Lord would accept it. But Sri Chaitanya refused saying, "I am a Sanyasi, I should sleep on the ground. Jagadananda, out of love for Me wants Me to enjoy the world." Then Damodar Swarupa made another pair of pillows with dry banana leaves torn into small pieces. Sri Chaitanya, hesitatingly accepted them only to please him.

Pandit Jagadananda had a long desire to visit Vrindaban. In spite of his repeated requests Sri Chaitanya refused him permission. When he appealed through Swarupa Damodar, the Lord granted him permission (but warned him) with the following instructions to be followed. "You may proceed freely upto Varanasi. Thence take the assistance of the Kshatriyas in your journey. Otherwise the dacoits will rob you of all your belongings. At Mathura keep constant company with Sanatana. Do not climb up the Govardhan Hill to see Gopal. Return to Puri as soon as possible. Tell Sanatana to arrange for me a place in Vrindaban, as I shall soon go there." Jagadananda, bowing to the Lord and his devotees set out on his long journey through the forest route. At Varanasi he met Chandrasekhara and Tapana Misra, reached Mathura and after that Gokula where he met Sanatana. The Pandit used to cook his own food, while Sanatana continued his usual way of living on Madhukari food collected from door to door every day in Gokula.

One day Sanatana appeared before the Pandit with a red turban on his head which was given to him by Mukunda Saraswati of impersonalist school. Jagadananda, hearing this, flew into a rage and was about to hit Sanatana with the rice pot. Seeing the anger of Jagadananda, Sanatana changed his attitude and disposed of that red turban to a non-vaishnava as Vaishnavas should not use red clothes. Then they embraced each other respectfully, accepted Mahaprasadam and spent their days in discourses about the Lord's Activities. Jagadananda informed Sri Sanatana of the Lord's intended visit to Vrindaban and he took the permission of Sri Sanatana and departed. Sanatana supplied him with the dust of 'Rasasthali' Govardhana Sila, ripe pilu fruit and Gunja Mala. Returning to Puri he adored His Lotus feet with the gifts from Sanatana. At Vrindaban Sanatana arranged a shrine for the Lord on the Hills of Dwadasaditya according to His order.

While going to Yameswar garden, Sri Chaitanya heard some one singing melodiously the lyrical songs of Jayadeva. "The Geet Govinda." Hearing the songs He was rushing forward to embrace the singer, through the fences careless of the thorns which pricked into His feet. Govinda ran after Him and clasped Him with His arms saying that it was a woman, who was singing, Sri Chaitanya started to hear the name of a woman, regained His consciousness and retraced His steps saying, "Govinda, thou hast saved My life today. It would have been death for Me had I touched a woman. I cannot repay this debt to thee," By this Sri Chaitanya as a world teacher, teaches us that an Acharya must always refrain from a woman not to speak of consorting or mixing with her.

Raghunath Bhatta Goswami, son of Tapan Mishra, left Varanasi to meet Sri Chaitanya at Puri. On his way, he met a Rama Bhakta, who volunteered to carry his baggage throughout the journey. Sri Chaitanya embraced Raghunath and kept him for eight months with Him. Raghunath was adept in the art of cooking. Whatever he cooked was nectarine and Sri Chaitanya tested it with great relish. Though the Rama Bhakta was with Sri Chaitanya, he was not favourable to Him since he was a salvationist at heart. After a period of eight months Sri Chaitanya permitted Raghunath to return to Varanasi with the following instructions, "Raghunath, do not marry. Serve your parents who are true Vaishnavas. Be taught Bhagavat by a genuine devotee with submission. Meet Me again after the demise of your parents." So saying, He gave His own garland. Raghunath reached Varanasi and acted accordingly. Again after the demise of his parents he came to Puri and stayed there for eight more months, when the Lord sent him to Vrindaban asking him to chant the Holy Nama, to keep constant company of Sri Rupa and Sanatana and to read Bhagavatam under their guidance. Raghunath followed all the instructions of Sri Chaitanya and acted accordingly. At Vrindaban, he surrendered himself wholeheartedly to the Lotus feet of Sri Govinda Deva, for whom he had a temple built by his disciple. He spent the whole day and night in Krishna Bhajana. He never heard slanders of Vaishnavas. Thus Raghunath was absorbed in Krishna Prema, meditation on Sri Govinda Deva with the Divine gift, the garland He encircled it round his neck with devotion.

Once due to heavy rush of pilgrims inside the Jagannath temple a woman being unable to see Lord Jagannath climbed the Garuda Sthamba and rested one of her feet on the shoulder of Sri Chaitanya who was then standing close to the Garuda Pilar. Govinda saw this and hurried to push her down away. But Sri Chaitanya prohibited him saying, "Don't disturb her, Govinda. Let her have the Darsan of Sri Jagannath to her heart's content. Jagannath is not generous enough as to inspire me as He has inspired this woman's passionate longing for seeing Him. Her mind and soul were so absorbed in Sri Jagannath that she did not notice that she had placed her foot on a devotee's or a stranger's shoulder. Oh, How blessed she is ! Let me adore her feet so that I too may have as much intensity of devotion as she has." The woman, however, got down in a hurry. On seeing the Lord she fell down at His feet. Sri Chaitanya said, "I saw in Jagannath the veritable Madan Mohan, the Lord of Vraja with flute in His lips, but now I see at this incident, Jagannath, Subhadra and Baladeva. My mind is in Kurukshetra beholding My beloved Sri Krishna, My beloved Lord of Vrindaban. I have lost my treasure. Who has taken away My Krishna? Where have I come to?" When the Lord was saying these words tears streamed from His eyes and blinded His vision. In His trance, He was overwhelmed with ecstasy and having regained consciousness, He felt that He had lost His treasure and so began to sing and dance like a madman.

Kalidas, the uncle of Raghunath, was a simple hearted Vaishnava, who often lived upon the remains of dishes of the devotees. One day he went to Jhadu Thakur, born of a sweeper class and offered him some sweet mangoes. They spent some delightful hours having discourses on Lord Krishna. Jhadu Thakur, being born in a low caste did not offer him the prasadam cooked by him. So he requested Kalidas to accept the food prepared in a Brahmin's house that he would arrange. But Kalidas showing his reluctance for food, requested him not to bother about him but to have only mercy on him by giving his feet dust. Kalidas then took leave of him Jhadu Thakur followed him a little way to see him off and returned home. When Jhadu Thakur went away then Kalidas took the feet dust from his foot prints and smeared his own body. He then hid himself with a view of securing his orts.

Jhadu Thakur offered those mangoes mentally to Sri Krishna and consuming the juice with his wife, threw off the remnants into a ditch. Kalidas went to the same pit unnoticed by Jhadu Thakur and sucked the leavings of those mangoes with joy. Thus he respected the orts of all the Gaudiya Vaishnavas. When he went to Neelachala, he was blessed with Sri Chaitanya's unprecedented mercy by allowing him to take three palm fulls of feet wash of the Lord at the Simhadwar of Sri Jagannath temple.

Once Sri Chaitanya was thrilled with joy on tasting the orts or prasadam of Jagannath. Symptoms of horripilation, ceaseless flow of tears etc. began to manifest. He thought within Himself. "Whence are these delicious taste sweet scents, and nice flavours? Surely they must have been the ambrosia of Sri Krishna. A particle of these orts is attainable only by accumulated Sukriti (devotional deeds) which begets Krishna's grace. This ort which defied even nectar is hardly obtainable by Brahma.

He distributed the Pheela, the leavings of Sri Krishna's plate, to all His devotees, who respectfully accepted it. He then made a distinction between spiritual and mundane offerings. The former is enjoyed by Sri Krishna, the enjoyer, when offered by His true devotees. While the latter is enjoyed by the fallen souls who ruin themselves for their enjoying food. The spiritual nature of Sri Krishna's orts, even their scent, not to speak of their taste makes me remember Sri Krishna. Such are the Supernatural attributes of taste and smell of Sri Krishna's orts.

Sri Krishna's orts are called Maha prasadam while those of His devotees are known as Maha-Maha-Prasadam. The following three things are the indispensable desires of a Sadhaka (novice in spiritual practices) to help him in his spiritual uplift that is: (1) feet dust of true devotees, (2) their feet wash and (3) their orts. Sastras declare that the faithful service to these triple prime factors of devotion begets Krishna Prema.

That year Sivananda came to Puri with his wife and children. He bowed down before the Lord Chaitanya and asked his son also to do so uttering Krishna Nama, but the boy did not do so. Sri Chaitanya said in astonishment. "I have made the whole world both the sentient and even the insentient, to chant the Holy Name of Sri Krishna, but this boy has baffled My attempt." Thereupon Sri Damodar Swarup rejoined. "Thou hast initiated the boy with Krishna Mantra which should not be heard by others, but should be muttered in mind only. So this young boy is muttering Krishna Nama in his mind."

On some other occasion when the Lord felt slightly indisposed owing to a rich dish offered by Sen Sivananda at Puri, his edlest son Chaitanya Das welcomed the Lord with a congenial meal composed of fine rice mixed with curd, raw lemon and ginger at which the Lord exclaimed, "How can this little chap know My heart? His dietary prescription is really wonderful. It is giving Me a good deal of delight." Late in life, Sri Chaitanya Das became the famous Annotator of Sri Krishna Karnamrita of Vilvamangal.

Sri Chaitanya considered Himself as Sri Radha and felt the separation from Krishna just as Sri Radha did after Krishna has left Vrindavana for Mathura: One night He dreamed of Sri Krishna, in Rasa Dance, with yellow garment and flower garland, playing on His flute and dancing gracefully with Radhika in the centre, while the Gopees were dancing in the circle joining their hands together. This sight inspired Sri Chaitanya with the same mood of Srimati Radhika. Sri Chaitanya felt that He was at Vrindaban agonising with separation in love for Sri Krishna. The eight fold forms of spiritual ecstasy overwhelmed Him day and night, never giving Him rest for a while. At this time, Roy Ramananda and Damodar Swarupa consoled Sri Chaitanya singing songs of Sri Krishna Leela from Jagannatha Vallabha Natak and by reciting verses of Vidyapathi, Chandidas and Geeta Govida.

One midnight Sri Damodar laid Sri Chaitanya in bed in the inner apartment and Ramananda went to his house while Govinda and Swarupa slept at the door. It was the habit of Sri Chaitanya to be wakeful all night chanting aloud Krishna Name. Noticing the silence in the room Sri Damodar Swarupa pushed the door open and found Sri Chaitanya absent in the room, the other three doors being closed from within. Greatly alarmed, they went out in search of Him. They found Him lying on the open space a little off the Jagannaths lion's gate. His body had become five or six cubits long. He was unconscious. His breathing ceased. His hands, feet, neck and waist were disjoined from the trunk and the places at the joints were covered with the bare skin. He was foaming at the mouth and His eyes were fixed in deadly stare. Then Swarupa loudly chanted Hari Nama into His ears and He was brought back to consciousness. He rose up shouting Hari, Hari, his limbs rejoining to His body as before.

One day, Sri Chaitanya, on His way to the sea, suddenly looked at the Chatak Hillock and taking it for the Govardhan Hill, ran towards it in rapture, and recited a sloka from the Bhagavatam This Govardhan Hill being the foremost of the Vaishnavas, because, overwhelmed with delight at the touch of the Lotus feet of Krishna and Balarama, renders service to Sri Radha Krishna the Gopals, Cowherds and cows with drinking water and food such as grass, eatable nuts and with caves and narrow vallies as cowpens. "Sri Chaitanya running fastly, became stiff on the way and way unable to move further. Every pore of His skin swelled like a boil. His hair stood on end, like the Kadamb flower. Blood ran out from His pores like sweat. His throat made gurgling noise. His voice choked and tears ran down His cheeks unceasingly. His colour became death pale like a conch-shell. Trembling like a tempest on the ocean He fell down unconsciously on the ground. Govinda sprinkled water on His Body and fanned Him with his upper cloth. Swarupa and other devotees came weeping and loudly chanted Hari Nama into ears.

He rose up uttering Hari, Hari and the devotees also shouted the same in delight. In half conscious state He addressed Damodar, "You brought Me here back from Goverdhan Hill. You snatched Me away from beholding Krishna Leela with Srimati Radhika and Her hand-maids on the Goverdhana Hill. Why did you bring Me thence? Only to cause Me grief?" So saying He wept and the Vaishnavas also followed suit.

Once when Sri Chaitanya was chanting the Name of Krishna till midnight in His room at Gambhira with three doors shut from inside. He suddenly heard the rapturous melody from Krishna's flute, rushed thither in transport of Love and fell down unconsciously at the south of the Lion's gate in the midst of the cows. Noticing the silence within, Govinda, who slept at the door, called Sri Chaitanya mission, They lighted the torch and went out in search of Sri Chaitanya. They found Him in the midst of cows lying unconsciously. His arms and legs went inside His body and He like a pumpkin-gourd, looked like a tortoise.

The cows surrounded His body and began to smell Him, meant not at all willing to part with Him. His body was brought back to Gambhira. After loud chanting of Krishna Nama, He regained consciousness. His arms and legs came out of His trunk and His body assumed the usual form While half-conscious, He said, "Swarupa, hearing the sound of Krishna's flute, I went to Vrindaban and saw Sri Radha and Krishna entering the bower for Love dalliance. The tinkling sound of her anklets had stolen My heart and I followed Sri Radha and Her attendants to the bower transported with delight. When Sri Krishna was engaged in His Amorous pastimes with the Gopees in their melodious songs and graceful dances sent a thrill of joy into My heart. Just then you snatched Me away from that spiritual ecstasy. Then Swarupa knowing the heart of Sri Chaitanya sang a sloka from Srimad Bhagavatam in his melodious tone.

One night Sri Chaitanya sudenly caught sight of the sea from Ai-Tota, a garden near Gundicha Mandir, The moon light silvered on the waves sparkled like the water of Yamuna. This spectacle threw Him into a rapture of Love. He rushed towards the sea and leaped into it. The waves sometimes sank Him and floated Him some times he was carried away unconsciously and was drifted towards Konark. Startled by the missing of Sri Chaitanya the devotees along with Swarupa, made a vigorous search for Him in every corner of Puri.

Overwhelmed with sorrow they concluded that He had disappeared from the world. Damodara with a party was still walking along the sea beach in search of Him. Fortunately he met a fisherman coming towards them with his net on his shoulders, weeping, laughing, dancing and singing Hari Hari Swarupa asked him, "Why are you in this mood? Have you seen any one coming this side? The fisherman replied, "I have not seen any man, but a dead-body was caught in my net and I dragged it ashore, mistaking it for a big fish. The sight of the corpse frightened me. While clearing the net, I happened to touch the body. At once the spirit of the dead body entered my body causing tremor in me, choking my voice, bristling of hair and tears in my eyes. The dead body is about six or seven cubits, the arms and the legs are three feet long. It lies stiff as a corpse with a fixed gaze in the eyes, but at times it groans. I catch fish alone at nights, no evilspirit can seize me, as I remember God Nrishimha, but strange to say, this ghost holds me with double grip when I recite Nrishimha's name. Don't go there, I tell you lest this frightful devil should possess you too." Swarupa understood every thing and said, "I know how to expel spirits." With this he uttered some mantras, laid his hand on the head of the fisherman, gave him three slaps and cried out, "The ghost has left you. So fear no more. The man whom you have mistaken for a ghost is no other than Lord Sri Chaitanya in a transport of Love He jumped into the sea. You raised Him in your net His touch has thrilled you with Krishna Prema which has been mistaken for possession of ghost. Show me where you have landed Him."

The fisherman led them to the place. They saw Sri Chaitanya lying on the ground. He became paleskinned because of long immersion in water. he was coated with sand all over His body. They removed His wet loin cloth and put on dry one instead, laid Him down on a sheet of cloth after brushing away the sand from His body. Then they began to chant Krishna Nama into His ears, which brought the Lord back to His consciousness. Then He leaped up with a roar. His limbs were reinstated to their proper places. He was half conscious. Still He looked hither and thither and said. "Beholding Nandanandana sporting with Radha and other milk-maids, in the waters of the Yamuna, my heart was filled with ecstasy at this pleasant sight. Just then you caught hold of me and brought me here. Ah! Where is Yamuna?" Where is Vrindavana? Where is Sri Krishna Where is Sri Radha with her milk- maids? Damodar Swarupa then Lord to Gambhira to the great delight of all devotees of the Lord.

After receiving the enigmatic message from Advaitacharya, Sri Chaitanya plunged into deeper trance. His love–madness at the separation from Sri Krishna increased hundred fold, He raved frantically day and night identifying Himself with Sri Radha. One evening, when all of a sudden, he thought, that Sri Krishna was leaving, Vrindavana for Mathura overwhelmed Him, in the role of Sri Radha, He was seized with Love–madness and so mourned for the separation from Sri Krishna and clasping the neck of Ramananda thus addressed Sri Damodar Swarupa as one of the sakhis of Sri Radha, "Alas ! alas ! friend, Sri Krishna has left for Mathura plunging me in the ocean of grief. How can I live without Him? Whither shall I go? Whither shall I find my Beloved? Sri Damodar And Ramananda consoled Him by singing love songs from Vidyapati, Chandidas, Geeta Govinda and Jagannath Vallabha. But the lamentation continued till midnight. Swarupa laid Him in bed in His room and they slept outside. But the Love–inseparation from Sri Krishna was tormenting His heart. He awoke and began to chant Krishna Nama. The pangs of separation convulsed His heart and He began to rub His face against the wall. His face, cheeks and nose were all lacerated and in the vehemence of ecstasy, He Knew not the blood oozing out from Him. Swarupa hearing the groaning sound from within, lighted a lamp, entered the room and found His face bleeding profusely. In great grief, Swarupa brought Him back to His bed and soothed Him in various ways. Next morning Swarupa in anxiety consulted with other devotees and made Sankara Pandit sleep in His room and nurse His feet placing them on his breast. For fear of Sankara Sri Chaitanya could not leave His room, nor knock His face against the wall. Thence forward Sankara was known as His foot pillow.

The pangs of separation from Sri Krishna grew more and more intensified. One day Sri Chaitanya's love—Torn condition reached its climax, while Sri Krishna Sankirtana was going on in the temple compound of Tota Gopinath, He rushed in the height of His love—madness—ecstasy into the temple and merged into one with the Holy image of Lord Gopinath. When His life thus had gone out of their vision the devotees, hardhit with this shock, confined themselves into seclusion with the burning fire of the pangs of separation from the Lord, awaiting their last days of departure for reunion with Him. Immediately after the disappearance of the Lord, Sri Raghunath Goswami out of unbearable mental agony left Puri for Vrindaban with a view to end his life but was dissuaded by Sri Rupa and Sanatana. It was he who served the devotees of Vrindaban with Nectarine Bliss of the last Leela enacted in Puri. He remained there as the younger brother of Sri Rupa and Sanatana Goswamis.

One after another the devotees of Gauda Mandal, Kshetra Mandal and Vraja Mandal disappeared to the great sorrow and misfortune of the world. Thus brought the brilliant world with illuminating Leela of the Lord Sri Chaitanya to an end.

hare krsna hare krsna krsna krsna hare hare
hare rama hare rama rama rama hare hare

LORD SRI JAGANNATH

All Glory to Sri Guru and Gauranga

EDITED

By

His Divine Grace

SRI SRIMAD B.V. PURI GOSWAMI MAHARAJ

Founder Acharya of the Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission

Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission

SRI BHAKTI BIGYAN NITYANANDA BOOK TRUST

Sri Bhakti Vinoda Ashram,

Ananda Nagar, Berhampur-6

GANJAM, (ORISSA)

PUBLISHED BY:

Sri Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust
Sri Bhakti Vinoda Ashram
Ananda Nagar, Berhampur-6(Gm.)

SECOND EDITION:

18, Nov. 1994
(Sri Rasa Purnima)

World Wide Web (WWW) Edition: 26, Dec. 2001
(Gita Jayanti)

TO BE HAD OF:

Sri Bhakti Vinoda Ashram
Branches SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Ananda Nagar, H.K.Road, Berhampur-6
GANJAM, Pin-760 006
and
All Branches of the Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission.

ALL RIGHTS ARE RESERVED BY:
Sri Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust

CONTENTS

Preface
Lord Sri Jagannath
Sri Kshetra or Puri (its Seven Streets)
Nandighosh, Darpadalan and Taladhwaja (Three Chariots)
Daily Bhoga
Jagannath's Special Decorations
Lord Gouranga at Puri

P R E F A C E

Utkala Desha is one of the most holiest lands. It is on the Southern seashore. The people of this State are righteous. At the time of creation of this world sacrifices or Yagnas were performed in this land. So, it is even named as Yagna Bhumi. The land is the store house of eighteen sciences (Astadasa Vidyas). Lakshmi Devi's Grace makes the land more beautiful. The people are sincere devotees of the Supreme Lord. They respect the Demigods and Goddesses. Besides they revere their parents too. They are sincere and helpful to the human society. They are not greedy, wicked or fraudulent. The women are generally gentle and generous minded. They maintain their chastity and modesty with good character and conduct.

The Brahmins, Kshatrias, Vaisyas, Sudras and Antyajas are very keen observers of their swadharma. The householders serve their guests with honour.

Utkala Bhumi is ever holy due to ever existence of the Supreme Lord, "Swayam Bhagavan."

All the jeevas of this universe can attain salvation easily having Darsan of the Lord Jagannath.

Ignorant and evil minded people being unable to understand the real nature or Swarupa of Lord Jagannath, misguide others with false statements and coining the stories of their own. Sri Vyasa Bhagavan knew the exact nature of Lord Jagannath. He wrote in Puranas about Him. To dispel the wrong notion of the reader, having collected from Sri Vyasa Deva's writings we are submitting the correct picture of Sri Kshetra or Puri, and Lord Sri Jagannath, Subhadra and Baladeva, to the faithful readers in this small book.

Tridandi Swami Sri B. V. Puri

LORD SRI JAGANNATH

In Satya–yuga there was a pious king in the solar dynasty named Indradyumna. The king born on an auspicious moment was endowed with all godly qualities such as courage, purity of heart, firm faith in divine knowledge, charity, sacrifice, inoffensiveness, truth, magnanimity, kindness to all beings, steadfastness, vigour and forgiveness. He performed a number of Rajasuya and Aswamedha sacrifices. He was a great devotee of Lord Vishnu. He ruled his kingdom remaining in the capital city, named Avanti.

One day after performing Vishnu puja the King came to his court and requested the enlightened audience to inform him about a sacred place where he can see, with his naked eyes, the Divine Lord Vishnu. Hearing this a pilgrim saint, who visited all the sacred places of Bharatvarsa told the King that there is a sacred place on the East coast known as "Purushottama Kshetra", where exists the beautiful and sacred mountain Nilagiri or Neeladri by name, surrounded by various kinds of trees. In the centre of the mountain there is a big banyan tree near a tank named Rohini Kunda. That holy tank lies to its Western end. One gets immediate salvation by touching or seeing the sacred water of the kunda. On the eastern bank of the kunda is Neela–kanta–mani Vighra of Sri Vasudeva Murty. His Darsan makes one immediately immortal and he can realise the transcendental reality. The nearby village named Sabar Deepaka is inhabited by Sabars or Adivasies. It is situated on the western bank of the Kunda. O Maharaja, I stayed there for one year as an ascetic, to please the Vishnu murty, Neelamadhav. I used to see the flowers falling from the "Kalpataru" and heard melodious prayers of Vishnu. There I heard a very old story that a crow, which drank the water of Rohini kunda attained salvation or "Sarupya Mokshya". Because of the influence of that place I am able to become a great scholar in many of the Sastras and now I see the Lord Purushottama everywhere. Listening to these words Indradyumna was convinced of the truth and gladly decided to send a devoted priest named Vidyapati to find out the correct location of the Neeladri deity at Sri Kshetra. Vidyapati drove out his chariot towards Utkal Desha. On the way he was considering himself as a most fortunate soul to see "Neela Madhav" with his own naked eyes, whom yogis and gnanis visualise in their minds. Nearing Neelachala the thick mountain, Vidyapati could not find the way to proceed further and so he got down from the chariot and sat under a tree praying for the darsan of Neela Madhav. After a while he saw some people sitting little away, discussing about "Bhagavan Vishnu" . When Vidyapati went nearer to them, a Sabara named Viswavasv welcomed him and offered him cold water, fruits and sweets to eat. The hungry Vidyapati was pleased to accept his offerings. Afterwards Vidyapati told him that he was a priest of Indradyumna Maharaja of Avanti, who hearing the glories of Neela Madhava from a pilgrim devotee sent him to find out the sacred place of Neela Madhava, anxiously awaiting His Darsan with fasting. Viswavasv knowing the pious intention of Vidyapati asked him to follow him through the thick forest.

On the way he told Vidyapati that he in his boyhood had heard about Indradyumna Maharaja perform Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas, construct a magnificent temple and instal "Daru Brahma Jagannath" with the help of Narada and Brahma in the Purushottam Kshetra. At last both of them came to Neela Madhava. Vidyapati had the Divine "Darsan" of extremely beautiful Neela Madhava with his own eyes. Out of his profoundest love to the beloved Lord, Vidyapati offered his prostrated obeisances and prayers to him. Returning to the residence of Viswavasv he accepted the fruits, sweets and various other preparations offered by him. Those precious articles and sweets after having been offered to Neela Madhava by Devendra and other demigods were coming to his house and honoured the prasada of Neela Madhava, Vidyapati was highly pleased with his generous behaviour and treatment. He promised to stay with him throughout the rest of his life. Then Viswavasv said that Indradyumna Maharaj would reach Purushottam Kshetra. Then Neel Madhava would disappear and give Darsan as Sudarsan, Jagannath, Subhadra and Baladeva.

Vidyapati wanted to inform the location of Neela Madhava to the anxiously awaiting Indradyumna Maharaja. On the next day after taking bath in the Mahodadhi and again having the "attractive darsan" of Neela Madhava he returned. At the time of Vidyapati's departure from that place Viswavasv gave him the prasadi garlands being offered by Devendra to Neela Madhava Murty, so that Vidyapati might give them to Indradyumna Maharaja. Vidyapati reached Avanti after a month and offered the ever fresh prasadi garland to the Maharaja. Indradyumna was very much delighted to accept the prasadi garlands and Mahaprasada given to him by Vidyapati. The garlands were sweet-smelling and fresh to look at as they were offered by Devendra with devotion and were borne by Neela Madhava.

Vidyapati revealed the facts to the Maharaja that a man after having the darsan of Neela Madhava with his physical eyes will definitely attain salvation. The Vighraha was made out of Neelakanta-mani and since a long time Brahma, Indra and all other gods have been worshipping Him with sacred scented beautiful flower garlands of which one was brought to him. He again said, when I reached the top of Neeladri Hill, I could smell the heavenly scent. The immortals while sprinkling sacred water over the mountain, slowly the gods approached the Lord while dancing and singing heavenly songs. The gods were invisible to human eyes and offering their thousand varieties of articles and prayers to Neela Madhava they slowly disappeared. The Neela Kanta Mani Murty is 81 (eight one) inches high, standing on the golden lotus flower. We can witness the utmost skill in the sculpture. We can not explain the glory of Sri Purushottama Kshetra in words. The people of Sri Kshetra are all devotees of Purushottama adorned with heavenly qualities. I have heard the glories of the Lord from his servitors.

Hearing the truth from Vidyapati and adorning the prasadi garland as the blessing of Lord Neela Madhava Indradyumna purified himself clearing all his sins. He attained the eligibility to have the darsan of Neela Madhava with his naked eyes. At last he decided to proceed to Sri Kshetra with royal splendour, to perform Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas with severe austerities to please the Lord Purushottama. So, with that aim Indradyumna was offering his devotional prayers daily to Lord Bhagavan. Abruptly sage Narada came there to bless the king. Welcoming the great sage, the king humbly worshipped him. Taking little rest Narada said, "Maharaja ! all your exceptional good qualities pleased Sidhas, Rishis, gods Indra and Brahma even. At Badrika Ashram also I have heard about your fame. One can attain Bhakti to Neelachalapati by virtue of one's thousands of previous births Divine service. Hari Bhakti only can destroy nescience. There are four types of Bhakti such as Tamasika, Rajasika, Satwika and Nirguna or Pure Bhakti. Through Satwika Bhakti one gets Satyaloka. Through Rajasika Bhakti one can attain Indraloka. Through Tamasika Bhakti one can get Pitrloka and through Nirguna Bhakti one attains Moksha. As you possess pure Bhakti towards Lord Purushottama, you are a most fortunate soul.

After hearing the glories of Bhakti–yoga from the sage Narada, Indradyumna requested the sage to accompany with him to Neelachala, as he was anxious to worship Neela Madhava. To that the sage Narada promised to lead him to Sri Purushottama Kshetra as he had full knowledge of Sree Kshetra and its glories. Indradyumna announced his holy desire to go to Sri Kshetra on Jyesta Sukla Panchami, Pusya Nakshatra, Friday. He asked all the people of his kingdom to proceed with him to Sri Kshetra with all their belongings. On an auspicious day, after performing sacrifice and worshipping gods and goddesses of Avanti city, the king started on a ten horsed chariot with sage Narada. The members of the Royal family, the ministers, the officers and the whole army with their respective uniforms and wealth followed the King to Sri Kshetra on chariots, elephants and horses. After travelling through a number of states at last Indradyumna reached the border of Utkal Desha. While he was taking rest with Narada on the bank of Chitrotpala river, the ruler of Utkal Desha with his followers came there to pay his respects to Indradyumna Maharaja. Indradyumna also received the Utkala King with a reverence and praised him as the most fortunate and blessed ruler of Utkal Desha, where the Supreme Lord Neela Madhava accepts his services.

To reciprocate his honour the Utkal King said, Maharaja ! by the divine grace of the Supreme Lord, you are endowed with all worshipable extraordinary qualities. As an emperor you could subdue all the wicked rulers and evil doers. Your famous activities have established religion in its full form in this world. Maharaja ! now Neelachala, the blue mountain is covered with thick forests. No one can enter into it. Even gods also cannot often go there. The sandstorm has almost covered the mountain. Due to it our country is now engulfed with drought. Maharaja ! We welcome you. Your presence in this country would bring relief to the people from their troubles."

Indradyumna hearing the story of Neela Madhava's disappearance from Utkal King, was very sad and with a melancholy mood looked at the sage. Narada consoled him saying, "Maharaja ! you being a Vaishnava, your holy desire to see the Lord will never remain unfulfilled. You will definitely have the darsan of the Supreme Lord." Then Indradyumna with his party crossing the river Mahanadi reached Ekamra Vana, the abode of Lingaraj Mahadev. Chaturmukha Brahma has installed Lingaraj there. This Kshetra is known as Viraja, where there is no influence of Rajo guna or Tama guna. Indradyumna after taking bath in the Vishnu Teertha, went to worship Anantavasudev and Lingaraj with the sage Narada and his associates. Lingaraj blessed the king saying. "O ! Indradyumna, you are a great devotee of Lord Sri Hari. He will fulfil your desires."

Mahadev Lingaraj told Narad, "Purushottama Kshetra is the super- natural body of Lord Sri Hari. The Heart of the Kshetra is known as Antarvedi, just like a conch (Sankha). I am ever there as Neelakantha. At present the Neelakanta mani Murty of Sri Hari has disappeared. So you please establish first Nrusimha Kshetra there. Let the Maharaja perform Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas. Then please show the King, the Daru Brahma, which is in the form of a very big tree. Viswakarma will make four Murties out of that tree. Brahma will descend from Satyaloka to perform the installation ceremony.

Then the royal party proceeded towards Sri Kshetra. On the second day they reached at Kapoteswara Temple. After offering prayers to Kapoteswar with Harinam Sankirtana the party advanced towards Sri Kshetra. On the way again witnessing the depressed mood of the King Indradyumna, Narada consoled him saying, "we are in Sri Kshetra the transcendental Body of Sri Vishnu. You should shun the mental weakness. Please do not become unconscious regarding your desire. Brahma has sent me informing that you are going to Neelachala to have the darsan of Neela Madhava at the request of Yama Dharmaraja, Neela Madhava has disappeared on the next day of Vidyapati's last Darsan and you need not feel sorry, for that but perform Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas. When he will bring the Lord then you can have His Darsan. Hearing these soothing words of Narada, the Maharaja was satisfied.

Indradyumna Maharaj staying near Neelakantheswar made all arrangements to perform Aswamedha Yagna for one thousand years. On the advice of Sage Narada, Indradyumna Maharaj made a Nrusimha Murty out of black stone and placed the Murty under black sandal wood tree and worshipped Him. Looking at the beautiful Nrusimha Murty he could overcome the sorrowful mood due to the disappearance of Neela Madhava. Yet he requested Narada to inform him again the location of Neela Madhava. Showing a big Banyan Tree the sage said, "Maharaj ! here is Neela Madhava or Jagannatha covered with golden sand. This tree will survive for one Kalpa i. e. the life time of Brahma. This place gives moksha to all who touch the shade of the tree. To the west of it is Nrusimha Deva and to the North of it is Neela Madhava. To bless you the Lord will appear and give darsan to all at this place."

Devarushi Narada when brought the beautiful Sri Murty of Nrushimha on a well decorated chariot, Indradyumna was highly delightful seeing the Lord. He prostrated before Him and offered his prayers to Him. Narada installed the Nrushimha Murty in a place already selected by Brahma on Jyesta Sukla Dwadasi with Swati Nakshatra.

Indradyumna to have the darsan of Lord Jagannath started the performance of Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas. The Yagna pendal was constructed by Viswakarma being four miles wide. He invited the gods of heaven, thousands of Brahmin pandits who were well versed in the Vedas, Shadanga Mimansa and Sastras, Yagna Vidya Parangatas, Karma kusals, Sabhasya Kalpa kusals, truthful personalities, all Kshatrias and Vaishnavas. Accordingly, he worshipped them with sandal paste, garlands and clothes. With folded hands in the presence of Narada, the Maharaja requested the audience to bless him to perform Sahasra Aswamedha Sacrifice without the slightest obstacle, and requested all including Devendra to remain there till the end of the Yagna.

Devendra then revealed the truth saying, "Maharaja ! you are a parama dharmika and a truthful person. Previously I knew your pious future desire," Here only Neel Madhava told us, "though I will disappear from here, again I will appear as Daru Murty (Wooden Murty) for the sake of Indradyumna. May the Lord be pleased with your Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas and bless you. Leaving our godly bodies and accepting human bodies we will remain here and render our service to Sri Vishnu."

Brahma ordered the Yagna to be started. Lord Vishnu and all the inhabitants of three Lokas were satisfied with the performance of the Yagnas. Thus he could complete 999 Yagnas without any hindrance. While performing the last yagna Indradyumna saw in a dream the Daru Murty of the Lord. In an island surrounded by Khir Sagar or Milky Ocean, he saw a Kalpa bruksha with Sankha and Chakra marks. Underneath the tree he saw a throne of Jems, on which The Lord was seated with Sankha and Chakra. To His right side was Anantadeva and in between them was Lakshmi Devi. Sudarsana Chakra was to the left of Sri Hari. Brahma and Sanakas were offering their prayers standing nearby Him.

Indradyumna was much pleased to realise that it happened as the result of Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas and so narrated the story to Devarshi Narada. The sage said, "O blessed Maharaj, on this spot the Lord will give darsan to you within ten days after the completion of the Yagna."

After the Poornahuti, the Maharaj with all his family got ready to take Avabhrita bath. All the inhabitants of three Lokas were offering their prayers to the Lord and the Maharaja for completing the Sahasra Yagnas. While Indradyumna with his party was bathing in the Sea near Bileswar Mahadev a servant informed the Maharaja that a brown coloured huge log of wood with Sankha, Chakra marks which was half visible above the water was sighted on the sea coast. It was not an ordinary wood. Devarshi said, "O ! Maharaja, the same four Murties you had seen in the dream have come now to give you darsan as a tree with four branches. Only a jeevan–mukta can see Him. Now by seeing this, you are relieved of the sorrowful and unhappy state of mind caused by the disappearance of Lord Neela Madhava." Later on the Brahmins with Veda ghosh and drum beatings brought Devendra, preserved him on a platform and were offering him their daily prayers.

The Maharaja while discussing about the making of Sri Murties with Narada, they heard someone speaking from the sky, "The Lord Jagannath Himself will arrive as an old Brahmin with tools to make the Sri Murties. He should be kept in the closed platform with the Deva Daru for fifteen days. Outside the platform different types of drum beatings with music should be played till the completion of the work."

Immediately, as a very old man, the Lord Himself, came there to make His own murties. Maharaja remembering the Daiva Vani (Divine sound) was in a happy mood. After some days he could see showering of Parijatas, heavenly flowers, and he could scent sweet smell and could hear heavenly music as well from inside the closed platform. After fifteen days the doors of the closed platform were opened. To the excitement and delight of all, the old man was not there. Sri Jagannath with Sankha, Chakra, Gada and Padma marks, Sri Baladeva with Gada, Musala, Chakra and Dhwaja marks on hands. Ananta Murty as an umbrella with seven Hoods above His Head and Subhadra Devi with Abhaya Hasta and having a Lotus in the other hand were visible. She is Lakshmi in a different form.

Again divine sound was heard which said, "The Murties should be covered with pure white silk cloth, then be painted and decorated in three colours such as Jagannath with black, Subhadra with saffron, Baladeva with white and Sudarsan with thin red colour. With the Darsan of these Sri Murties people will get their desires fulfilled. To bless all the souls desirous of Dharma, Artha, Kama and Moksha the Lord has kindly appeared before you. Near the Kalpa Vruksha is the Nrusimha Murty. On the Northern vacant site, please construct a magnificent temple. Install the Sri Murties in it. The family members of Viswavasru (Sabara Bhakta) and the family members of Vidyapati hereafter will have hereditary rights to perform Samskar, painting and other services of the Deities."

Hearing these Divine words, Indradyumna after covering, painting and decorating Sri Murties, removed the screen around the platform and allowed all the human beings to have the darsan of the Sri Murties.

The Maharaja allowed the people of the universe to see the Daru Murties in order to relieve them from imperfection and worldly bondage. He had no commercial interest. Selfish and ignorant people may think that wooden Jagannath Murty was controlled and regulated by them. Thus, today the material minded society is doing business with transcendental Sri Murties. Indradyumna Maharaja under the guidance of sage Narada with needful articles collected by the priests, performed the Puja of the Sri Murties. He worshipped with Purusha Sukta to Jagannath, with Dwadasakshara Gopal Mantra to Baladeva, with Devi Sukta to Subhadra and with Saudarsani Sukta Mantra to Sudarsan Chakra. After completing puja, Maharaja, to please all the gods, distributed several crores of coins to qualified Brahmins. The Sankhodaka offered to Brahmins became a huge tank known as Indradyumna Sarobar. If any one after taking bath in that tank performs Devarchana will gain the fruits of thousand Aswamedha Yagnas. The tank water can be compared with Gangodaka. If one offers pinda in this teertha, his twenty one ancestors can annihilate all their sins.

On an auspicious day after worshipping Lord Jagannath, Maharaja Indradyumna contemplated to construct a temple for the Sri Murties. He performed the vastu puja and Yagna and prayed the Bhudevi to stand eternally without quaking where the temple was going to be constructed by him. The blind, dumb, poor and weaker sections of the society were fully satisfied, as all their demands were fulfilled by the Maharaja. The kings of various states were delighted to have the darsan of Lord Jagannath and to witness the grand reception given to them by the Maharaja. Indradyumna brought many sculptures and stones needed for the construction of the temple from different parts of the country by spending several thousand millions of sovereigns.

At present several educated people think that our ancestors have blocked the wealth in the name of temples and so we are suffering from poverty. They being unfortunate, can not realise the significance of the service of the Supreme Lord through employing so many architects and labourers for years. So, the material and the articles belonging to the service of the Supreme Lord are being used by ignorant people of the society for the development of their gross and physical comforts.

All the Vaidic Brahmins said praising Indradyumna, "O ! Maharaj, it is a matter of great rejoicing that the cause of all the causes Lord Jagannath has appeared as Daru Brahma in Purushottama Kshetra as declared in Rig-Veda 10-155-3. So it is a revealed Vedic Truth that Daru Murty of Jagannath was not made by any human being. He is Apaurusheya. The Supreme Lord, His creation, His activities and His advent in different worlds have connecting link with Vedanta Vakya. He is known through Vedanta. Same Veda declares Him as Veda-Vedanta -Vedya-Pooran Purusha and sings His glories. So one can attain Moksha through the darsan of Daru Brahma. The Vignana Murty till now has appeared to our naked eyes. The people of Bharat Varsa including the people of Utkal Desha as well, are most fortunate to see the Lord Jagannath with their natural eyes."

Narada told the Maharaja that he was going to Satyaloka to inform Brahma about the Advent of Lord Jagannath to Sri Kshetra. He asked Indradyumna to install Nrusimha Murty after completion of the temple.

The rulers of the different parts of Bharata Varsa sent their renowned sculptures and wealth to assist the Maharaja in completing the construction of the grand temple with its final shape of splendour beauty and attraction. Thus the temple with its top most height was erected on Neeladri. Such a gigantic temple can nowhere be seen throughout this world. All the kings appreciated the beauty of the temple. Indradyumna entering into the temple, prostrated before the sage Narada and requested him to bless him so that the temple would stand long enough to serve the Lord Jagannath. Narada said, "Maharaja it is for your sake Lord Jagannath has appeared in Sri Kshetra. It is through your pure devotion, you have conquered the Omnipotent. So you have become Jeevan mukta. Let us unitedly perform His service. If you travelling to Satyaloka in person invite Brahma he will surely come here with Sapta Rishis to install Sri Murties in the new Temple. No human being except you, till now, could make an attempt to reach Satyalok with this human body. Let us both start."

So saying they went round the Sri Murties and after offering prayers theirs, both of them travelled to Satyalok in Pushpak viman through Janalok. Jeevanmukta Indradyumna with Devarshi Narada travelled to Satyalok with his human body, through Bhakti.

When their chariot reached near the Satyaloka, Narada said, "behold Maharaja ! the wide space is brighter than the light of thousand Moons. It gives satisfaction and delight like the ocean of Nectar. This is the abode of Chatur Mukha Brahma." Going slowly ahead further they heard Veda dhvani of Brahma Rishis. Then they clearly heard Itihasas, Puranas, Chandas, Kalpas and spiritual stories. When they came near the assembly gate of Brahma both of them saw many gods, pithru devatas, dikpalas, Manwanthara-dhipas who were waiting at the gate for entrance. The gate keepers allowed Narada to enter in, keeping Indradyumna at the gate. Narada went inside and offered his sastanga pranams to Brahma and informed Him about the arrival of Indradyumna. The order of Brahma, allowed the Maharaja to enter the assembly hall, where Brahma was unconscious hearing the melody of gods' Divine music. Narada also felt happy hearing the music. Devendra was astonished to see Indradyuma in Satyaloka.

When the music stopped, Brahma said, "O Indradyumna ! you are a beloved devotee of Bhagavan Vishnu. Though this abode is inaccessible to human beings, you could reach it with the blessings of Narada. The purified Munis are anxious to attain this place. Again after reaching the abode they perform penance till Mahapralaya." Knowing well the intention of the Maharaja, Brahma asked him the purpose of his arrival at Satyaloka. Then said Indradyumna, "Brahman you know well, my desire. According to your sweet will and the advice of Narada, I have performed Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas. At the closing of the last Yagna, Daru Brahma, as Jagannath, appeared at Sri Kshetra. His darsan brought me to Satyaloka. I have constructed a temple at Neelachala and I request you to instal the Lord Jagannath in it. With this request I have come here with Narada."

Meanwhile, Durvasa Muni entered the assembly hall and requested Brahma to allow a number of visitors, standing at the gate since a long time to have His darsan. Hearing this Brahma said, "Those visitors cannot compete with Indradyumna. He is a Jeevan mukta. He is my fifth descendant and a Vishnu Bhakta. He cannot be compared with those that are standing at the gate. Their penance could help them to come thus far. Now since you wanted, they can be brought inside." So, the visitors were brought in by Durvasa.

Looking at them Brahma said to Indradyumna, "You have done well by constructing a temple for Lord Jagannath. Since your arrival to Satyaloka one Manvantara or Seventy one 'Divya Yugas' has passed away. So, during this long span of time, all your children, descendants and so many Rajas are born and perished. But the temple you have constructed and the Daru Brahma are standing there without decay. Neither you can feel the change of time, nor you are influenced even by old age or physical death. Maharaja ! you go to Sri Kshetra in order to perform the Samskar of the temple and collect the needful articles required for installation."

While Indradyumna was returning to Bhuloka, the gods asked Brahma with his permission, why Neela Madhava, to whom they were worshipping beforehand, appeared as Daru Brahma after his disappearance from the Neeladri. This question is an important and secret one. None knows the answer. Hearing their honest enquiry Brahma said, "Through out my first fifty years (prathama parardha) Sri Hari as Neela-kanta-mani Murty was visible in Purushottama Kshetra. The second fifty years of my life (Dwitiya Parardha) and Sweta Varaha Kalpa begins from today morning. The first Swayambhuva Manu's time has come. So, Bhagavan Janardhana as Daru Brahma Murty appeared in Bhuloka since this morning. Till the end of my life, i. e., the next fifty years of my life time, the Lord will remain as, Daru Brahma. There is no difference between Vishnu and myself. Vishnu is my Heart and I am Vishnu's Heart. O, Devatas ! there is an island known as Sweta Dweepa in the middle of Ksheera Sagar. The cause of the universe, Sri Purushottama is in Yoganidra in that Island. The hairs of Lord Purushottama can be called as spiritual Kalpataru (Divine tree) with Sankha, Chakra marks. The tree out of its own accord has come out from the ocean and later on changed as a sole enjoyer of the universe, (Lord Jagannath). Seeing the depressed condition of Jeevas, Sri Krishna taking pity on them kindly accepted Daru Brahma form.

There are four Yugas known as, Satya, Tretaya, Dwapar and Kali. Four combined Yugas are known as Divya Yuga. According to human calendar, one Divya Yuga comes to 432,000 years. During Brahma's one daytime each of the fourteen Manus will enjoy seventy one Divya Yugas. Brahma has to survive for one hundred years according to His Calendar. Then Mahapralaya comes destroying the fourteen lokas (Worlds). Hearing this the Devatas promised Brahma to take Birth in Bhuloka to serve Lord Jagannath, remaining at Sri Kshetra. Witnessing the eagerness of the gods, Brahma told them that he was going to instal the Jagannath Murty in the temple at Sri Kshetra. So, all the gods accompanied Indradyumna came to Sri Kshetra as commanded by Brahma.

Indradyumna reaching Sri Kshetra in Bhuloka offered his prayers and prostrations to the Lord Jagannath with circumambulation. The gods also followed suit. The Maharaja was extremely happy seeing his temple in the same good condition. Padmanidhi and Viswakarma later on followed Brahma to collect the ritual articles required for the installation ceremony.

At that time an emperor named Gala was ruling the world. When he saw the splendid temple at Sri Kshetra during the absence of Indradyumna Maharaja, he wanted to instal the Madhav Murty artificially prepared by him.

Within a short period, Indradyumna made all the needful royal arrangements through Viswakarma to receive and give necessary accommodation with comforts to Brahma, Brahma Rishis, Devatas, Siddhas, Munindras, the rulers of Bhuloka and Nagarajas of Patala loka. Hearing the grand arrangements made by Indradyumna, Gala Raja with all his army came angrily to Sri Kshetra. But, to his astonishment, he saw all the Devatas and Devarishi Narada at the huge Yagna pendal of Indradyumna. His anger subsided and he immediately coming near to Indradyumna, requested him to excuse and with rapt attention heard the whole story about Daru Brahma, the appearance of the Lord, the construction of the Temple, the presence of Brahma along with all Devatas and the elaborate arrangements made for the installation of the temple. Gala Raja repented for his ignorance of the Daru Brahma. He felt sorry that he could not have His Darsan, though he was often coming to Sri Kshetra. He consoled himself thinking that Indradyumna might handover kindly the service of the Lord Jagannath after installation. Gala Raja aspired to have the vision of the great installation ceremony ever seen by anybody. Indradyumna said to Gala Maharaja that after the installation of Daru Brahma in the temple he would proceed to Brahma Loka giving the service of the temple to him. Then he should conduct the service as desired by Lord Jagannath.

The sage Narada asked Indradyumna to prepare three chariots with ornamental decorations of gold. The chariots of Vasudeva, Subhadra and Baladeva should be marked with Garuda Dhawaja, Padma Dhawaja and Tala Dhawaja symbols respectively. Sage Narada who is wellversed in ritualism performed the installation ceremony of the three chariots. Narada after worshipping Nrusimha, offered Puja to Garuda. The Murties of Jagannath, Subhadra and Baladeva were placed on their chariots. All the Brahmins, Kshatrias, Vaisyas and Sudras began to serve the Sri Murties with Chamaras, fans, flowers, fruits etc. Mahatmas and Sadhus waited with rope in their hands to drag the chariots.

Indradyumna with needful articles awaited in the pendal with all the Devatas. All of a sudden melodious heavenly music was heard allround and the Divine flash was observed. All the people of that place being unable to see the light closed their eyes. When they slowly opened their eyelids they saw Brahma sitting on a golden Vimana, being carried by hundreds of white swans. Ganga Yamuna water was sprinkled upon Him. The Sun and the Moon were standing on His both sides with white Umbrellas. Brahma Rishis were singing His glories, Apsaras were dancing when Gandharvas were playing music.

Indradyumna offered his prostrations and with folded hands praised the Lord Brahma. With Narada and Durvasa when Brahma came near the temple gate, and was overjoyed to behold the temple beauty. He then told Indradyumna, "you are most fortunate because you could bring all the inhabitants of the seven Lokas (Seven Worlds) for the installation ceremony of your temple."

Brahma going round the three chariots of Baladeva, Subhadra and Jagannath thrice, offered His prayers with ecstasy. Then He went round the Yagna pendal and saw the befitting dwelling arrangements made by the Maharaja for Devatas, Bhudharas, Brahmarishis, Brahmanas, Kshatrias, Yogis, Tapaswis and Vaishnavas.

Under the Divine guidance of Brahma, Maharshi Bharadwaja performed the needful rituals of the temple and installed Lord Jagannath in it. Then Brahma, Narada and other Maharshis standing with folded hands offered their prayers. They reached the chariots slowly and brought the Sri Murties of Baladeva, Subhadra, Jagannath and Sudarsan to the Yagna pendal. There they performed the Abhisheka with all teertha water to the four Murties, reciting Sri Sukta and Purusha Sukta mantras. Afterwards all the three Murties were brought to the inner apartment of the temple and were installed on the Ratna Simhasanas (Thrones of gems). Then Brahma offering his prayers said, "O, Lord ! You are ever existing. You are the cause of all causes. The whole universe is within you, yet you have kindly established yourself willingly in this temple. We perform this installation ceremony by your will and order." Then touching the Lotus heart of Daru Brahma, Padmayoni performed the japa of one thousand Anustup Mantras.

Indradyumna performed the installation ceremony on Vaisakha Sukla Astami, Thursday with Pushya Nakshatra. So on that auspicious day if any one has the darsan of the Lord Jagannath, definitely he attains salvation. After the ceremony, Brahma asked Indradyumna to enter into the temple to worship the Lord.

Indradyumna did accordingly. Entering in, he was astonished to see the Lord as Nrusimha Murty and informed the fact to Brahma. Jagannath out of His causeless mercy gave His first Darsan as Nrusimha, so that the people may not be misguided that He is only a Murty made of wood, concluded Brahma. Brahma offering His prayers to Nrusimha initiated Indradyumna with Nrusimha Mantra of Atharva Veda. All learned Vedantists declare only this Mantra to be the mean to attain Vaishnava Loka. Four Vedas are in this Mantra. At the beginning Swayambhuva Manu receiving this Mantra from Brahma expanded the creation of this world. Through it one can attain eight Sidhis. This Mantra only can bestow the fruits of all Yagnas, Tirtha Yatras and charities. The Divine Nrusimha Murty destroys all the sins of human beings.

Indradyumna, after receiving Nrusimha Mantra from Brahma could behold the same calm and serene Jagannath swamy instead of terrible Nrusimha Murty, so he was very happy. The Avatari Krishna gave His Darsan to Indradyumna as Nrusimha according to the Divine will of Brahma. Looking at Nrusimha he was first astonished to see how four Murties brought on three chariots could become one Nrusimha Murty with dreadful lion's face. To this Brahma replied, "Indradyumna ! Janardhana's Adi Murty is Nrusimha form. To bless me He has kindly appeared as this Nrusimha Murty. Please do not consider this as a wooden Murty. This Murty destroys all griefs and bestows fully eternal bliss. He is no other than the Supreme Lord. The Daru Brahma is visible as four Murties according to four Vedas. All the learned people know Him well that He is the creator, sustainer, and destroyer of the universe. So He is Daru Brahma in His revealed form. Transcendental sound and form are one. Thus, Rig Veda is Baladeva, Sama Veda is Lord Jagannath or Nrusimha, Yajur Veda is Subhadra and Atharva Veda is Sudarsan. So, four Vedas are visible as four Sri Murties. You should have no doubt about an Avatar because He can appear in any form, He desires. He exists at the time of universal destruction and construction in different forms. He is all pervading. Worship Jagannath fully with unalloyed devotion. If any one with any desire worships Him here with this Mantra, He is highly pleased."

When Brahma prayed to Nrusimha Murty, the four Murties as Baladev Subhadra, Jagannath and Sudarsan gave Darsan. Again Brahma worshipped Jagannath with Purusa Sukta Mantra, Baladev with Dwadasakshara Mantra, Subhadra with Sri Sukta Mantra and Sudarsan with Dwadaivna Mantra. He then prayed to the Lord, "O, Lord ! You are always merciful towards your sincere devotees. This Indradyumna after completing several births with unabated devotion could get your Darsan. Though the fruit of your Darsan is salvation, yet he is anxiously awaiting to serve you and to hear the nectarine words from your Holy lips.

To create strong faith in the Devotee Daru Brahma said, "O, Indradyumna ! I am fully pleased with your Niskama karma and Bhakti. None except you have received such wealth of devotion. I bless you. Let your devotion towards Me remain unshakeable. You have constructed the magnificent temple spending several crores of sovereigns. At a later future the temple you have constructed may require repairs or reconstruction. Even after such things are made I'll not leave this place. I will be here till the end of Brahma's life. Your name will always remain attached to this temple. Your sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas pleased Me to appear on Jyesta full moon day. So every year on that Jyesta Poornima day, arrange for My Maha Snana or great bath. People witnessing the ceremony will be purified. To the North side of Kalpa Taru, there exists a well named Sarva Teertha Mai. On Jyesta Sukta Chaturdasi you have to perform the needful rituals of the well. On the Poornima day the Brahmins with golden pots will have to bring water from the above well and have to use it for the bathing of the Trimurties. For this Snana ceremony you have to construct a Pandal to the North-east corner of the temple. Take the three Murties to the Pandal and after the ceremonial bath take back the Murties to the Temple. For, fifteen days none should be allowed to have My Darsan. After that the Gundicha Mahochave should be performed. He who sees Me on the chariot on Ashada Sukla Dwitita with which Pusya Nakshatra combines, will be redeemed of all his sins. In this way you have to celebrate My Carfestival. The place where you performed Sahasra Aswamedha Yagnas and where I appeared for the first time is Gundicha platform. You take us there every year on three chariots. It is My beloved place because you performed Yagna there for thousand years. The temple you constructed on Neelachala under the guidance of Brahma is as dear to Me as the Aswamedha Yagna Platform, the Nrusimha Kshetra. The place is more pleasing to Me as it is My birth place and I am there for so many thousands of years. Yet Brahma and yourself have installed Me in the Neelachala Temple, where I should stay eternally due to your devotional desire. I should stay for nine days every year in My native place Gundicha, which is by the side of Indradyumna tank. Those who see Me in the Adapa Mandap after taking a holy dip in your tank will reach Vaikuntha. In this way My Sayan, Parswaparivartan, Uthapana rituals in Margasirsha, Pusya snans, Dolochava in Phalguna, Chaitra month ceremony, Vaisakha Chandan Yatra and other annual ceremonies should be properly performed.

Turning towards Brahma, Lord Jagannath showered benedictions upon Him. He said, "According to your will, I have appeared in this Neelachala as Daru Brahma to satisfy all sorts of My devotees. You please return back to Satya loka and let the gods return to Devaloka. There is no doubt that I will stay here as long as you are in Satya loka." Hearing this all the gods returned to their original abodes and the Lord Jagannath remained in Neelachala Temple as Daru Murty to bless all the human beings of this universe. When Indradyumna followed Brahma for Satya loka, Brahma advised him to stay in Neelachala for the service of the Lord Jagannath. "Lord Jagannath is pleased with our services means all our desires have been fulfilled", said Brahma. According to the desire of Brahma, remaining at Neelachala Kshetra Indradyumna performed all the services of Lord Jagannath.

SRI KSHETRA OR PURI

Its seven main streets:

Though there are a number of streets and lanes, in Sri Kshetra, only seven streets and forty two lanes are prominent :

1. Gauda Bada Street—The wellknown places in it are Yameswar, Tota Gopinath, Kamakshi, Sata Lahari Math, Satasan Math, Purushottam Math, Hari Das Samadhi Math and Suna Goswami Math.
2. Harachandi Streeet—Its important places are Kapala—Mochan temple, Basali Devi, Maha Prakas Math, Naga Math, Surangi Math, Poda Math, Dukhisymbaba Math, Phalahari Math, Oriya Math, Big Oriya Math, Small Oriya Math, Khajuria Math, Kimbhira Math and Hati Guru Devi Math.
3. Bali Street—In this street there are, Old Palace of Puri Gajapati Maharaja, Asta Sambhu, Syamakali, Barahi, Sidha Bakula, Ugrasena Mandapa, Sweta Madhav, Sweta Ganga, Bata Loknath, Olden Balli Math, Sankar Math, Sankarananda Math, Gopal Teertha Math, Siva Teertha Math, Kabir Chaura, Vidura Ashram, Bauli Math, Swargadwar Math, Bada Tarala Math, Sana Tarala Math, Venkatachari Math, Giriswami Math, Radhakanta Math, Gangamata Math, Haridakhandi Math, Samadhi Math, Bada Jhadu and Sana Jhadu Math, Ramdas Math, Raghav Das Math, Kausalya Das Math, Lunia Math, Chaudhuri Math, Panjabi Math, Kunja Math, Jaipur Math, Jagatamohini Math, Bhriгу Ashram, Chikiti Math, Ranga Mahal, Govinda Kunja and Veda Vidyalaya.
4. Kalika Devi Street—Its prominent places of visit are Maha Kaleswar, Dakshina Kali, Gacha Kali, Emar Math, Narasimhachari Math, Mangu Math and Avadhuta Math.
5. Dolomandap Street—There are Radha Vallabha Math, Damapada Math, Haladia Math, Jhanjapita Math, Sidha Math, Nabal Das Math and Angira Ashram in this street.
6. Kundhaibenta Street—In this street there are Neelakantha and Ramachandi, Mausima, Hatajodi Thakurani, Jhadeswari, Sisoo Math, Pandita Math, Nua Math, Sundar Das Math, Ghumusar Math, Dagara Math, Jhanjapita Math, Bharati Math, Patara Math, Landimata Math, Puran Sabha Math, Lavani Khia Math, Rajaguru Math, Gandharva Math, Paramananda Das Math, Goswamy Math, Nidha Das Math, Bali Babaji Math, Phalahari

Math, Chaulia Math, Balagandi Math, Khelore Math, Ahalya Math, Brahmachari Math, Itota Math, Chaitanya Chandra Ashram, Sunar Gauranga Math, Jaijai Ram Math, Mahabiria Math, Maniram Math, Jaipur Math, Rani Math, Kandujher Math, Putia Rani Mandir, Nima Akhada, Hati Akhada, Bagha Akhada, Salarbag Math, Kadali Patuka Math, Dasavatar Math, Jagannath Math, Khak Akhada, Kapudia Math.

7. Markandiya Street– Markandeswar Mahadev, Bada Santha Math, Sana Santha Math, Nandini Math, Kataki Math, Kanas Math, Kalitilaka Math, Kripa Samudra Math, Balli Math, Trimali Math, Uttar Parswa Math, Bada Akhada Math, Sana Chata and Bada Chata Math, Math, Chhauni Math, Papudia Math, Languli Math, Torani Chhatra Math, Ramajee Math and Visakha Math, are the important places for pilgrims to visit.

Nandighosh, Darpadalan and Taladhwaja (Three Chariots)

The construction of the three chariots on which Baladev, Subhadra and Jagannath go to Gundicha Mandir on Ashadha Sukla Dwitita is given here. The construction of the chariots start on Vaisakha Sukla Trutita. Jagannath's chariot 'Nandighosh' is 33 cubits 5 inches high with 832 wooden parts or pieces and sixteen wheels. Its Charioteer is Garuda. Its flag symbol is marked with Hanuman, Chandra and Sankha Ayudha. The Ratha covering is coloured with red and yellow colours. The name of its four horses are Sankha, Balahaka, Sweta and Haridaswa. The name of the Sarathi is Daruka.

The name of Subhadra's Rath is "Darpadalana." It is 31 cubits high, with 593 wooden parts and twelve wheels. Its charioteer is Jaydurga. Its flag protector is Tripura Sundari with Ayudha "Lotus and Lilly." The chariot covering is coloured with black and red colours. The name of its four horses are Rochika, Mochika, Jita and Aparajita.

The name of Balabhadra's Rath is Taladhwaja. Its Rathi is Balabhadra. The height of the chariot is 32 cubits and 10 inches. It is constructed with 763 wooden parts or pieces and it has 14 wheels. The chariot keeper is Vasudeva. Its Ayudha is Hala and Musala and its Bhadraveetha is Asthadala padma. Its covering is coloured with red and blue colour. The name of the charioteer is Matali. The Guard of the chariot is Bhaskara. The names of its four horses are Teebra, Ghora, Deerga Srama and Swaran Nabha.

DAILY BHOGA

Daily 56 varieties of food stuffs are prepared to offer the Lord. In the huge kitchen hall, the Vaishnavagni or fire has been preserved since thousands of years. Daily two kinds of (Bhoga) offerings are offered to Lord Jagannath. Some Rice, Dal and vegetable preparations known as "Sankhudi" Bhoga are prepared in the main kitchen and outside the kitchen but inside the compound of the temple, 'Nisankhudi" Bhoga is prepared. Since the inauguration of Jagannath temple, the menu is strictly being maintained. Daily Bhoga is offered five times to Lord Jagannath. The same prasad becomes Mahaprasad after offering to Vimala. Dried Mahaprasad is called "'Nirmalya." The dishes daily served to Lord Jagannath are : 1) Gopalavallabha, 2) Morning Dhupa, 3) Mid-day Dhupa, 4) Sandhya Dhupa, 5) Bada Simhar Dhupa and 6)Upadhi Bhog.

Daily minimum 72 quintal Rice and proportionately dal and vegetables are cooked in earthen pots. The kitchen is always kept clean. Several vegetables, Chillies, onions and garlics are not used in any preparation. Jagannath prasad is called 'Anna Brahma'.

Jagannath's Special Decorations

In Jagannath Temple, throughout the year, we find 19 varieties of Sringar or decoration to the Deities, Jagannath, Subhadra and Balabhadra. They are as follows–

1) Chandan lagi or with Sandal paste, 2) Ganesh Decoration, 3) Golden Decoration, 4) Kalia Dalana Decoration, 5) Vana Bhojan Vesha, 6) Pralambasura Samhara Vesha, 7) Krishna Balaram Rupa, 8) Vaman Rupa, 9) Rajah Vesha or dress, 10) Radha Damodar Vesha, 11) Lakshmi Narayan Vesha, 12) Banka Chuda Vesha, 13) Trivikrama Vesha, 14) Narasimha Rupa, 15) Raja Rajeswar Dress, 16) Nagarjuna Vesha, 17) Padma Vesha 18) Gaja Udharan Vesha, 19) Chacheria Vesha.

Lord Gouranga at Puri

Sri Krishna Chaitanya after accepting Sanyas at Katwa from Keshab Bharati came to Santipur and then to Puri visiting Remuna, Balesore, Jajpur, Cuttack, Bhubaneswar and Sakshigopal with Nityananda, Jagadananda, Mukunda, Gadadhar, Govinda and Brahmananda.

On entering the lofty Temple of Sri Jagannath, Sri Chaitanya ran to embrace the Deity and out of ecstasy for the reunion after a long separation he fell in trance. Sarvabhouma carried Him in that state to his house. Later on His followers came there and chanted the Name of Sri Krishna into His ears. He came to consciousness after the trance lasting for three quarters of the day.

Sarvabhouma was the foremost logician of his time and the most erudite scholar of the Monistic school. He was the court pandit of Prataparudra, the powerful independent king of Orissa. Sarvabhouma became a staunch disciple of Sri Chaitanya. The conversion of Sarvabhouma brought the people of Orissa to the Lotus Feet of Sri Chaitanya. He went on pilgrimage to redeem the people of South India for two years. On His arrival at Puri he was given the house of Kashi Mishra to live in. At present it is in Radhakanta Math. Many devotees from different parts of India came to stay with Him during the period of four months (Chaturmasya). A nine day Car- festival takes place every year. Lord Jagannath with Subhadra and Baladeva travel to Gundicha Mandir from Neelachala with Samkirtan, devotional prayers and great enthusiasm. The Three Murties Lord Jagannath, Subhadra and Balabhadra are brought to their respective chariots Nandighos, Darpadalan and Tala Dhawaja from the main Temple. On Asadha Sukla Dwitita, Gajapati Maharaja of Puri comes with a golden Broom in hand to clean the path with his own hands for Jagannath's Ratha Yatra. He has surrendered his empire and himself with his whole family to Lord Jagannath. So, he never feels shy to do this menial service. The name of this service is called 'Cherapahara'. After Sarathi takes his place on the chariot, the horses are attached and devotees with loud voice do Samkirtan and drag the chariots.

When the chariots reach Gundicha Temple, all the Sri Murties are carried into it with Samkirtan. They remain there for nine days and start their journey on 10th day of the fortnight or Dasami. On the fifth day of their arrival at night, Goddess Lakshmi visits

Gundicha Mandir with grand procession.

On the eve of the Car-festival Chaitanya used to perform the cleaning ceremony of the Gundicha Mandir every year with all His followers teaching the underlying principle of the ceremony as Gundicha represents the heart of the devotee and if a Jeeva desires to enthrone Sri Krishna in his heart, he should first of all purify it from all foreign dirts. Under the guidance of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna, Chaitanya manifests Himself in every heart as the Indwelling guide. The seat of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna should be purged of all desires of enjoyment and renunciation and be washed with holy water of unalloyed devotion. When Baladeva, Subhadra and Lord Jagannath were travelling by their three chariots from Neelachala to Sundarachala (Gundicha) the joy of Sri Chaitanya knew no bounds. Having fixed His eyes on the beautiful face of His beloved Madan Mohan, Chaitanya began to dance in ecstasy with all His followers in seven groups being deeply absorbed in Hari Samkirtan. The melody of Namsamkirtan surcharged three worlds and drowned all other mundane sounds. At this time Lord Chaitanya manifested His Divinity. He was found present in each of the seven groups simultaneously and devotees in each group found that Lord was dancing in their party out of His grace. Raja Prataparudra was specially blessed by the Lord as he could visualise His presence in all the groups. Bowing to Lord Jagannath with folded palms Chaitanya prayed thus, "Namo Brahmanya Devaya, Gobrahmana hitayacha, Jagaddhitaya Krishnaya, Govindaya Namo Namah"

"Glory, Glory to the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna, the son of Devaki, the self-effulgent light of Vrishni race whose complexion is Deep blue like the nimbus cloud and whose limbs are tender. Glory, Glory to Sri Mukunda, the Redeemer of the world from the heavy load of its sins."

"Glory to the Transcendental Eros of Vrindavan, the refuge of the world, who is unborn, yet known as one born of Devaki. He is the chief of Yadus who killed evils by His own powerful arms. He is the Destroyer of sins of sentient and insentient beings and the stimulator of love in the hearts of His consorts in Vraja, Mathura and Dwaraka by His All beautiful sweet smiling face."

"Neither am I a Brahmin, a king, a Vaisya or a Sudra, nor a Brahmachari, a Grihastha, a Vanaprastha or a Sanyasi, but I am eternal servant of the Lotus feet of Sri Krishna, the Lord of the Gopees and the Nectarine ocean of self-effulgent eternal Bliss."

While dancing, all the eight forms of Spiritual Emotions manifested themselves in the Chaitanya's body. Leaving the dance, Chaitanya bade Sri Swarupa to sing, who knowing His heart began thus—"I have just met the Lord of my life for whose sake I had been smouldering in the fire of Spiritual Eros." When Chaitanya used to proceed dancing ahead, Jagannath car used to lag behind, Jagannath used to halt and when Chaitanya used to move slowly. In the course of dancing another mood came over Sri Chaitanya. He with uplifted arms recited aloud a sloka. As the Milkmaids of Vraja were delighted to behold their beloved Sri Krishna in Kurukshetra, so was Sri Chaitanya gratified at the sight of Lord Jagannath who is no other than His beloved Madan Mohan.

In the role of Sri Radhika, He thus prays to Sri Krishna, "Thou art the lover and I am the same consort, yet My heart represents Vrindaban. Manifest Thy lotus feet at Vrindaban again. Here (in Kurukshetra) are crowds of people and the din and bustle of elephants, horses and chariots, but there, there are only flowery bowers along with the bees, humming and the cuckoo's cooming. Here Thou art full of pomp, grandeur and ostentation with royal robe being surrounded by a retinue of warriors. There Thou art dressed as an adolescent cowboy with flute in Thy lips. Here I can't derive even a drop of bliss out of the ocean of bliss, which I used to taste in Thy company at Vrindaban. So, be Thou pleased to take Me with These to sport again at Vrindabana. Then only My heart shall be gratified."

In the ardour of His love, Chaitanya cited a sloka from the Bhagawat voicing Sri Radha's longing for Sri Krishna. Thus dancing Chaitanya came up to that place where Prataparudra stood and the king held Him up when he was about to fall down. Though He was pleased with Prataparudra for his humble service to Lord Jagannath as a sweeper, He feigned anger to warn His followers against coming in close touch with worldly minded people. Again with all humility, the king approached the Lord reciting, "Gopee Geeta" from Srimad Bhagavat received blessing with a warm embrace from Sri Chaitanya, on the spot where Sri Chaitanya Chandra Ashram stands.

Sri Krishna Chaitanya's teachings to Gaudiya Bhaktas on the eve of His departure from Puri to Bengal, His instructions to the devotees of Kulingram, His explanation on the real nature and the efficacy of the Holy name are unparalleled. The Leela of Sri Krishna Chaitanya is the unbounded Transcendental ocean of Nectar, the minutest Divine Love. Vallabhacharya the founder of 'Pusti-Marga' came to Puri and saw the Lord. In return the Lord embraced him as a devotee of Vishnu.

Sri Krishna Chaitanya stayed in Gambhira at Puri continuously for eighteen years. He felt that He was at Vrindabana agonising for separation being in love with Sri Krishna. The eight fold forms of Satwika vikaras are i) Tears of love, ii) Tremor, iii) Horripilation, iv) Perspiration, v) Dullness, vi) Paleness, vii) Choked voice, viii) Trance.

Thakur Haridas, who proclaimed the glories of the Holy Name to the world used to chant the Holy Name three lakh times daily twenty hours sitting under the shade of a 'Bakula' tree which is still existing. Due to old age being unable to chant the fixed number, Haridas requested Chaitanya Mahaprabhu to come there with His followers. Next morning the Lord appeared before Haridas with all His devotees and began to perform a grand Samkirtan encircling Haridas. Haridas then sat looking at His lotus face, elapsed the lotus feet of the Lord in his bosom, adorned his head with feet dust of the Lord's devotees, and uttered the Holy Name 'Sri Krishna Chaitanya' in his lips. He drank the nectarine sweetness of His lotus face and with the tears in his eyes, he departed from this world. Chaitanya danced with the body of Haridas in the grand Samkirtan procession. The body was bathed in the Mahodadhi, so the sea was sanctified. Samadhi was given to his body by Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. Still now the Haridas samadhi which is on the sea shore at Puri is a place of pilgrimage.

All the Great Vaishnava Acharyas, such as Sankaracharya, Ramanujacharya, Madhvacharya, Nimbadiyacharya, Vishnuswamy and Vallabhacharya visited Puri and established their Maths. Even Jesus Christ also visited Puri in his early age. Srila Bhakti Sidhanta Saraswati, the Gaudiya Math Acharya had established Purushottama Math. His disciples also established, i) Purushottama Gaudiya Math, ii) Neelachala Gaudiya Math, iii) Chaitanya Ashram, iv) Gaurogovinda Ashram, v) Chaitanya Gaudiya Math, vi) Chaitanya Chandra Ashram, and vii) Saraswata Ashram. All the great Acharyas have spread their spiritual messages from the great Puri Dham.

The manifestation of the Supreme Lord Krishna is Jagannath Swamy. He is Sachidananda Murty. Lord Krishna as Sri Gauranga taught this world how to worship Lord Jagannath. If we read the following instructions of Lord Krishna to Arjuna we can understand the Divine Nature of the Supreme Godhead.

Geeta–VII

1. The Supreme Lord Krishna said, "Listen O, Partha ! how I might be fully known with mind steadfastly attached to Me, engaged in Vignana–Yoga and enshrined in Me.
2. I shall tell you the principle of transcendental knowledge regarding My graceful personality in details, knowing which nothing more in this world will remain to be known by you.
3. Among the thousands of human beings one tries to attain perfection in eternal bliss. Among the thousands of human beings who have attained the perfect bliss, hardly one knows Me in My Prime Essence.
4. Earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence and perverted ego, these are the eight components belonging to My External Mayik Potency.
5. I have another Potency known as Jeeva–Potency, superior to My Apra–Prakriti. It is a Potency that can take the initiative of infusing the spirit of cognisance into this material world.
6. Both the sentient and insentient worlds emanate from these two Potencies. I am the Prime Cause of creation, sustenance and destruction of this world.

7. O, Dhananjaya ! There is none equal to Me or greater than I. All the universe exists in and through Me like a cluster of gems strung on a thread.

10. O, Partha ! I am the Eternal Seed of all elements, the Intelligence of the intelligentsia and the Prowess of the powerful.

12. All Satwika, Rajasa and Tamasa manifestations in the world are the results of the qualities and actions of My Mayik Potency. I am quite independent of them, yet they are under My control.

14. Extremely difficult to surmount is My Supernatural Maya consisting of the above triple qualities. But those who surrender themselves absolutely to Me and Me alone can easily cross over this ocean of Maya.

15. Those worldly-minded men who are either hedonistic or altruistic by nature, who are the vilest leading lives and are therefore, the worst among mankind, who worship Impersonal Abstract Brahman deluded by My Maya and are therefore, prone to disparage Me and My devotees owing to their demoniac temperament, are called evil Minded, ill fated persons who are not at all inclined to surrender themselves to Me.

16. Four classes of righteous people who observe Sastric rules of regulated life are eligible to worship Me. They are, fruit seekers who remember Me when afflicted with grief and sorrow, the seeker after real knowledge, the seekers after worldly amelioration and seekers after salvation.

Geeta-IX

10. O, son of Kunti, My Prakriti brings forth all things movable and immovable, in this world, under My supervision. It is for this reason that this world comes into existence.

11. Foolish persons disparage Me as I Manifest Myself in a human form, not knowing that I am the Supreme Spiritual Personality and the Supreme Lord of the universe.

13. O, Partha ! But the high-souled saints endowed with pure intelligence worship Me as the Primeval and Unchangeable Source of all beings with single-minded devotion under the guidance of their unsullied temperament.

14. Determined and firm in their vow engaging all their activities to My Service having recourse to incessant chanting of My Holy Name and submitting themselves wholly to Me with all humility and sincerity, they worship Me always in touch with My Lotus Feet.

24. I am the Enjoyer as well as Lord of all sacrifices and because they are quite ignorant of the knowledge of My Real self they degrade themselves again to the Mundane Plane.

26. Whatever is offered to Me by a devotee who is self controlled be it leaf, flower, fruit and water if offered with a loving and sincere heart is acceptable to Me as a gift of love with great pleasure.

27. O, son of Kunti ! Whatever you do, eat, sacrifice, bestow as gift and perform as austerity, consecrate them all to Me.

34. O, Arjuna ! fix your mind on Me alone, be thou always devoted unto Me, perform your duties as a matter of sacrifice for Me, bow down your head always before Me and be thou absorbed in My meditation. Thou shalt attain Me and enter into My Blissful Realm as a devout servitor.

Geeta – XVIII

55. It is by pure devotion that one can have true knowledge of 'Who I am', 'What My nature is in reality', and 'What My qualities and actions are'. Enlightened with the true knowledge regarding Me, he enters into My Blissful Abode.

64. Just listen to My confidential and highest advice. You are very dear to Me and so I shall tell you about the highest good.

65. Be My devotee, offer your mind and attention to Me, worship Me and submit to Me. Certainly you will attain Me. This is My solemn promise to you, as you are dear to Me.

66. Abandon all socio–religious duties and take absolute shelter in Me alone. Grieve not, I shall deliver you from all sins.

NAM BHAJAN

A Benevolent and Generous Publication

NAM BHAJAN

(A Translation from 6/4 chapter of "Shri–Chaitanya–Sikshamrita")
of SHRILA THAKUR BHAKTIVINODE

By Paramahansa Swami 108 Sree
SHRIMAD BHAKTI SIDDHANTA SARASWATI GOSWAMI

EDITED BY
Paribrajakacharya Tridandi Swami Sree Sreemad
BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI MAHARAJ
the beloved disciple of His Divine Grace
Om Vishnupada 108 Shri
SHRIMAD BHAKTI SIDDHANTA SARASWATI GOSWAMI

Published by:

Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust
Sree KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION (Regd.)
Sree Bhakti Vinod Ashram,
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur(G.M)
Orissa, (INDIA), Ph-208400

Second Edition-1996

WWW Edition-2002

To be had at:-

1. SRI CHAITANYA CHANDRA ASHRAM,
ITOTA, PURI-752001
Near Gundicha Mandir, Phone-24455
2. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sree RADHA VRINDABAN CHANDRA MANDIR
208, Sevakunja, P.O.-Vrindavan,
Dt.-Mathura, pin-281121, Phone-443603
3. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sree Goura Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, P.O.-Mayapur, Dt.-Nadia(W.B.)
Pin-741313, Phone-45313
4. SRI BHAKTI VINODE ASHRAM
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (G.M.)
Pin-760006, Phone-208400
5. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM
Aryapuram, Rajahmundry
Dt.-E.Godavari (A.P.), Pin-533104, Ph-79444
6. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MATH
Maharanipeta, Sreekrishna nagar
Visakhapatnam, (A.P.) Pin-530002 Ph-560549

CONTENTS

Introduction

Foreword

A Survey of NAM BHAJAN According to the Different Stages of Prem
Acceptance of the favourable and denial of the antagonistic to Prem–Bhakti

Exclusive Surrender to NAM; Krishna and Krishna–NAM identified

How to progress in Bhajan?

Krishna and Jivas

Krishna–the sun; Jivas–the rays

Krishna purely spiritual

Eternal love between Krishna and Jiva

Absolute Truth beyond human Reasonings

The Lila Of Krishna

This world a perverted reflection of the spiritual Atmosphere

Vyasa and Narada

Bhakti the very nature of soul

The remembrance of Krishna

The Company of Sadhus

Two minds–spiritual and material

NAM is spiritual–the object of pursuit

NAM is beyond time and space

A devotee should be aware of the Form of Krishna–Nam

The Processes of Nam–Bhajan

NAM–Incarnation of Krishna

The meaning of Nam

The Counting of NAM

Sadhak and Siddha

Lamenting prayer to NAM

The yoked and the free

Namabhasa

The five conditions of a Sadhak

PUBLISHER'S INTRODUCTION IN THE FIRST EDITION

(The 13th October, 1926)

"A long period of Four Hundred years is past since Shri Krishna Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, the Fountain head of Prem, last paid His Divine Visit to the blessed country of India. From the earliest days of yore, India is proud of her high fortunes, in as much as, the Incarnations of Godhead have mostly honoured this land of the East. But it is a regrettable fact that by this so short a time, a deep veil of forgetfulness of His preachings had covered the horizon of Vaishnavism and the people were steeped into the darkness of ignorance even about the name of Shri Chaitanya Deva. Who is Krishna Himself. Not only so, the time went still further when the highest philosophy of Vaishnavism was taken up by a number of characterless illiterate fellows who poured it into their mental mint and gave it a crooked shape. It was undoubtedly a sad desideratum that Vaishnavism with all its special learning and highest philosophy should never again be hoisted before the eyes of the world .

The auspicious moment was soon come, when the brightest luminary, THAKUR BHAKTIVINODE, first appeared on the Spiritual Firmament of India. On the 2nd of September, 1838 A.D. Thakur Bhaktivinode with a silver spoon in his mouth descended down to the village of Ula, in the district of Nadia, with an object to unfetter the ironclad ties of Maya which had engrossed the fallen jivas who surrendered their life to the licking of her colossal feet. Passing his early years through thousands of difficulties and tribulations, experiencing the opulence and penury, weal and woe and all sorts of vicissitudes of life, the Mighty Giant ere long stood an important figure in the notice of the British Government. Holding a responsible situation under the Government, Thakur proved himself a "friend of the poor"—a social benefactor; in the capacity of a Magistrate, he shone as a bright political thinker ; in the eyes of the world he was a strict moralist ; the elites of the country recognised him to be a great litterateur only, where as the masters of languages honoured him as a linguist ! Alas, such is the ran of this base earth !—Men more than often gaze at things with their own coloured spectacles and they accept or reject them accordingly !

But the few blessed ones only saw that, the whole life of Thakur Bhaktivinode was a fast running runnel of pure devotion—his was the life of the greatest Acharyya the world ever witnessed—his was the life full to the brim with the milk of human kindness –and his was the life to take all fallen souls to the cool feet of Godhead and bind them eternally with the silken tie of His eternal service. From the first moment when he observed the light of this wavering world, Thakur Bhaktivinode was determined to dispel the darkness from the sky of degraded so-called Vaishnavism; he girded up his loins to make his effort a success. For this purpose, Thakur, by his sheer love for Shri Krishna, expounded the deep philosophy which remained concealed in the pages of the Vedas, the Upanishads, the Puranas, the Bhagavat and Sandarvas etc., and gave it to the world by his action towards Divine service and also by his words in simple language to be easily understood by the readers in general. It is his writings and his divine unparalleled character that allow us a peep into the pure and sublime philosophy of Krishna, on which stand the precepts of Shri-Krishna Chaitanya Mahaprabhu.

Within his short stay in this world, Thakur Bhaktivinode mixed with every class of men and went from town to town, from village to village and from door to door with the tidings of the Spiritual Atmosphere in order to give them over to the world at the cost of nothing else but Sraddha only. But he knew at the same time that the utility of his best priceless fruits would not be recognised by the common folk; hence, his preachings were mostly confined to the educated society, because, the views of the ignorant are carried by the opinion of the erudite. Thus passing his prime of life in the bustle of the base earth, he, after cutting up every connection with all that we call our 'own' in this world, proved himself so spiritually mighty as to trample down the material pride of high lineage, immense opulence, uncommon erudition and cravings of youth like anything and melted the milky heart of the good. Thakur accepted a retired life in the nook of Shri Swananda Sukhada Kunja in Godroom (one of the islands of Navadwip), and passed his days in NAM– BHAJAN.

Our present purpose is not to give a glimpse into the life of Thakur Bhaktivinode—the art is too long while the space is too short. To have a clear-cut knowledge about Thakur's life, readers may pursue the Introduction of our translation of SHRI-CHAITANYA SIKSHAMRITA.

Thakur Bhaktivinode has left us his heaps of treasures in a number of invaluable books—to name them is, so to say, legion—at least this book—let is unable to supply them so much space. Of these books, SHRI-CHAITANYA SIKSHAMRITA is one, and this brochure is only a chapter of that big volume. As Thakur's SIKSHAMRITA, in which a flow of the honey of Shri Krishna Chaitanya Mahaprabhu's teachings as compared with the precepts of other religions runs all through, one of the disciples of Paramahansa Paribrajacharyya Shri Shrimat Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Thakur, the present organiser-in-chief of the Viswa-Vaishnava-Raj-Sabha, has ventured to translate it in English, so that the English-knowing public may be enriched by the treasures of Thakur Bhaktivinode.

For the technicalities of the Shastras that have not been explained in this booklet for want of space, the readers may kindly consult SHRI-CHAITANYA-SIKSHAMRITA."

FOREWORD

This brochure of "Nam–Bhajan" is only a translation of the chapter [Ch.6/4] of the big volume of Shri Chaitanya Sikshamrita" of Shrila Bhaktivinode Thakur, the pioneer of the pure devotion of the modern age. In this booklet he has described the life and teachings of Shri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, who is Krishna Himself. He has expounded the philosophy of universal Divine Love which remained concealed in the religious scriptures. As a great Acharyya, Thakur was determined to dispel the darkness of ignorance of so– called Vaishnavism and accepted a retired life in Godrumdwipa and passed his days in Nam–Bhajan.

In this booklet Thakur Bhaktivinode proves that Krishna Himself and Krishna–Nam is identical. The Absolute Name of Krishna is purely Spiritual. He also explains the process and procedure in chanting the Holy Name and the Eternal Love between Krishna and Jiva; the Lila of Krishna and the Absolute Truth are beyond human conception; the company of Sadhus; Bhakti the very nature of the soul; Exclusive surrender to Nam; Nam–the object of pursuit; Nam is beyond time and space; Nam–the Incarnation of Krishna; Lamenting prayer to Nam; Nam and Namabhas; Sadhak and Siddha; Exclusive surrender to Nam and the different stages of Prem–Bhakti etc.

In the Satya Yuga (Golden Age), people were born so highly advanced and cultured that they did not require any sort of rectification for spiritual life. They could meditate without any disturbance and realise the Lord easily. Degradation of human beings had taken place just as the beginning of Treta Yuga (Silver Age), when Vedic sacrifices and socio–religious regulations were necessary to be introduced. When Dwapar Yuga (Copper Age) entered, people lost the capacity to perform sacrifices with purity and sanctity. So the worship of the Holy Deity of the Supreme Lord was introduced for the period.

But in the Kali Yuga (Iron Age), all spiritual virtues of human beings have disappeared from them and all inabilities, defects etc. have entered in their mind. In such a critical state when meditation etc. could not be practised by the people with proper purity, the chanting of the Divine Names of the Lord Shri Krishna has been declared as the supreme means or the special dispensation for this Age

The chanting of the Holy Name i.e., this Nam–Kirtan is ever superior to all other methods for the realisation of God. For the upliftment of the people, there is no other alternative except the Divine Names of the Lord. For this reason Shri Sukadev has declared, "O Parikshit ! though Kali Yuga is the ocean of faults and vices, there is a great good quality lies in it. In this age by chanting the Divine Names of Lord Shri Krishna only, one becomes completely free from Maya and also attains the Lotus Feet of the Supreme Lord." This is the greatest efficacy of Shri Nam–Samkirtan, that without performing any other religious rites, by merely chanting the Holy Names with sincerity, one can get completely free from mundane fetters and obtain the direct service of the Holy Feet of Shri Krishna.

The Supreme Lord Shri Krishna Chaitanya for showing the efficacy and supremacy of the Divine Names, by setting an example in His Own Divine career, descended as a Spiritual Teacher and proclaimed Nam–Samkirtan. to be the special dispensation of Kali Yuga. Shri Krishna assumes the Form of Lord Gouranga as the best servitor of Himself. He Premulgated that Divine Love can be had only by chanting the Holy Name of Shri Krishna which is identical with His Supreme Personality.

He taught us there is no other way of deliverance except the loud chant of the Lord's Holy names in the company of pure devotees. The Lord Himself did not write any book except eight stanzas in Sanskrit known as "Shri Sikshastakam" in which He has taught the essence of all revealed scriptures.

The Lord also teaches us the process how to perform the chanting of the Divine Names without committing any offence against the Name. He says that the chanter must possess the four universal good qualifications, –he should be humbler than a blade of grass etc.

In the eighth Sloka, we find that the chanter gets completely drowned in the ocean of ecstatic bliss of Divine Love with his body, mind and soul. It is the highest goal of spiritual existence–the acme of Divine Love towards the Divine Couple Shri Shri Radha–Krishna.

My sincere thanks are due to Spd.Ambarish Brahmachary and Spd. Trivikram Maharaj and Sri Kali Ch. Panda for Publishing the Book within a short time . May Lord Krishna bless them.

The disappearance day of Srila Prabhupad 29–12–1996

Invoking the blessings of Srila Saraswati Goswami

Tridandi Bhikhyu Bhakti Vaibhava Puri

NAM–BHAJAN

A survey on NAM–BHAJAN according to the different stages of Prem.

Prem alone is the purpose of the life of Jivas. Bhava (soul's feeling) develops into Prem. Turning their face towards Krishna, the more Jivas progress, the more do they approach the temple of Prem. Thus in considering the rights of Prem, we meet at the out–set with two sorts of circumstances—one is an intense longing for the unattained Prem, the other is the stage when the pedestal of Prem is already reached. There is no higher stage beyond the latter one— an incessant Rasa, is an undivided unique tatwa of that region. Devotees with utter craving for Prem who are still on the way to it, are again divided into two classes according to their love of seclusion or bustle—the one are called Viviktanandis who are close followers of approved usages, the other are known as Gosthyanandis and are ever happy in preaching. Deep meditation on Godhead is the discipline of Premi–Bhaktas and glorifying or singing the Name of Krishna is their preaching.

Acceptance of the favourable and denial of the antagonistic to Prem–Bhakti

In the state when there is an intense longing for the unattained Prem, the Premi–Bhaktas are exclusively devoted to Krishna—utter self–surrender marks them out. The Shrimat Bhagavata and the Geeta have very highly eulogized such refugees. If a devotee does not take absolute shelter under the cool shade of the gracious Feet of Krishna, what to speak of Prem ? He remains quite in the dark even about Bhava. A self– surrendering devotee should accept things that are only favourable to Prem Bhakti, and should deny everything, whatever it be, that is antagonistic or unfavourable to it. Such a devotee's only belief is that Krishna is the only Protector, that nothing else or none else but Krishna can save or protect him. He has not the least doubt about the fact that Krishna alone protects all. Devotees firmly and sincerely believe themselves to be very humble and insignificant.

The faith of an earnest and exclusive devotee is that he himself can do nothing, that not even a straw moves without the will of Krishna.

Exclusive Surrender to NAM; Krishna and Krishna–NAM identified

Extremely self–surrendering devotees prefer most exclusively to embrace SHRI NAM to every other features of devotion. They have more and intense appetite for singing and meditating upon SHRI NAM than to anything else. Of all the means of Bhajan the Name of Bhagavan is most purely Spiritual. In describing the Absolute Duties, the Shri–Hari–bhaktivilas has spoken of the glories of singing and contemplating on NAM as the best—it has been given the foremost place. The Shastras declare that there is not the least difference between Krishna and KRISHNA–NAM, because the real nature of NAM is Spiritual–NAM manifests Himself as the "Chaitanya–Rasa–Vigraha" of Krishna.

How to progress in Bhajan ?

Try they must to realise their own Chit swarup who desire to realise the Form of Krishna and the Form of NAM. The practiser of Bhakti can never be dexterous in his God–adoration so long as he does not realise spiritual truth. So, how can he attain his object of pursuit ? The attainment of an absolute conception of spiritual truths causes the amelioration of Bhajan. Here we shall say something on this subject.

Krishna and Jivas

Many a time we have told before (in Chaitanya Sikshamrita) with quotations from the Shastras that every Jiva is a spirit in molecule, the residence of Krishna is a spiritual Kingdom, Krishna is the spiritual Sun, the devotion to Krishna is a spiritual inclination, and KRISHNA–NAM is " Chit–Rasa–Vigraha." Now, we venture to show the relation between Spirit and devotees who are extremely anxious for Prem, and then shall show the means to the attainment of the highest bliss of the soul. If we have spiritual merit earned in previous births transcendental felicity will be enkindled in our heart. We have no appetite (Ruchi) for the knowledge of Brahman which is restricted to realisation of mere Chit only; for, spiritual sportive pastimes have no place in it.

Krishna—the sun; Jivas—the rays

The Saviour of the Iron Age Shri–KrishnaChaitanya declares the Vedas to be the only judge and shows the nine Prameyas from it. There is a broad discussion on it in the Shrimat Bhagavata. The Vedas have proved Jivas to be spiritual atomic parts of the Deity. Jivas are like rays from the Sun, Krishna; so the spiritual form of Jivas must be identified with the spiritual form of Godhead. But the difference lies in the fact that Krishna may be compared with the full Sun, while Jivas are His innumerable rays. Krishna is Lord of Lords–Jivas are His eternal servants.

Krishna purely spiritual

There is no denying the fact that the Residential Home of Krishna is in Parabyom or Goloka, Which is all spiritual. Vaikuntha, Chit–jagat etc. all refer to that spiritual region. The Bajashaneyya Upanishad speaks of the form of Krishna to be purely spiritual; the Shwetashwatara Upanishad describes the eternal powers of Krishna, Who is superior to the best and higher than the highest; the Mundaka Upanishad shows "Bhakti" to be Chit–Rasa; and coming to conceive Krishna to be the Life of lives, the wise, after discarding all garrulity, dry wisdom and vain arguments, dive deep to see the bottom of their soul – they, after realising the Deity by dint of pure intuition, run after devotion. He who does this is a Brahmin; he who leaves this world without knowing Him is, so to say, a parsimonious fellow. But the fortunate who departs from this earth after realising Him is alone a Brahmin, i.e., a Vaishnava–devotee of Krishna. Such has been shown to be the nature of Bhakti or Devotion: O Ye Maitreya ! the soul alone is to be seen, heard, reflected and meditated upon, and realised by spiritual organs. All is then beyond any doubt known to us.

Eternal love between Krishna and Jiva

That Soul (Krishna) is dearer than the son, dearer than wealth, for He is Omniscient. Things that are sense–pleasing are never worth endearment; from the pleasure of the Great Soul all joy proceeds. Thus the eternal relation of eternal felicity between Krishna and Jive is Prem.

Absolute Truth beyond human Reasonings

What exact connection does there exist between this manifested and visible mundane world and the spiritual Sphere ? In going to search after spiritual truths, more than often we are deluded; after deep contemplation and discrimination we conclude Spirit to be something opposite of matter; pressing our wordly reasoning too far, we leave Chit–Rasa to the back–ground and are satisfied with an imaginative inarticulate and incomplete conception of spiritual Brahman. This is only an imagination of Chitswarup of Brahman; in such a stage, Brahman is in immutable, incorporeal, invisible or formless, without attributes and dry of Prem– This uncommon perception is like the 'Sky–flower!' And being enable to know the name, form, attributes and pastimes or diversions of that Chitswarup only, we turn to be inactive. Hence it is that all portents of Jivas come to pass due to this dry wisdom. This is well illustrated in the conversation between Vyasa and Narada .

The Lila Of Krishna

It is clear from the above that you never can know the spiritual sportive pastimes of Para–Brahman if you be dazzled by mere Chit–swarup of Brahman which is only a semblance of the eternal light of Chit . Brother ! look forward !! Enter into the Kingdom of Godhead after dashing through the brilliancy of Chit pure and simple–there you will be able to realise the spiritual pastimes of Godhead, then you will be able to taste the ambrosia of an incessant Brahma–Rasa No longer will your soul remain wooden–like. The name, form, attributes and Lila of the Supreme Being are manifested not by any earthly light but by a spiritual flame. The sun, the moon, stars, lightning and fire of this earth are quite unfit to give light to the other spiritual horizon. This spiritual light which is far beyond worldly lights brightens that Region.

This world a perverted reflection of the spiritual Atmosphere

A perverted reflection of that light do we think as supplying us with light; but in fact, it does not . While describing Brahmapur (the region of Brahman), the Chhandogya Upanishad gives us a comprehensive knowledge of it. The spiritual kingdom as displayed by the spiritual light is an ideal to this base earth. There is not the least tinge of baseness; while on the contrary only an all-pervading daintiness is its sweet affair. The fourteen mundane worlds are only a perverted reflection of that Sphere; the gross sun is a reflection of that light and its subtle reflection is seen in the mundane rays of dry wisdom arising from mind, conscience and consciousness. Our gross senses believe the gross sun to be a flash of lustre, and we are proud of the earthly knowledge which is gained by dint of the eight processes of Yoga that are actions of the subtle intellect, conscience and ego. All these are the seemingly natural workings of engrossed Jivas . Listening to the advice of Narada, while Dwaipayana Rishi was fully absorbed in the single and natural deep meditation of the soul, he fully and clearly saw the name, form, attributes and pastimes of the Supreme Person and also could know Maya, the shadow of Parashakti, to be shelterless to the Absolute Truth—could understand anartha of Jivas, the atomic Chit—tatwas, who are engrossed, fascinated and enslaved by Maya. And further coming to realise that such Jivas can come to perceive their own personal forms if absorbed in a profoundly meditative Bhakti—yoga, he compiled the Shrimat—Bhagavata, which describes the Spiritual pastimes of Bhagavan, The forgetfulness of his own eternal form and the Form of Krishna is the foremost anartha of a Jiva, whence arises his aversion to Krishna and as a result of which he is revolved by the wheel of Maya on the path of Karma. Thus the world is full of weal and woes. When Jivas take shelter under Bhakti, after discarding the basely—turned endeavours of the mundane wise reasonings of the eight processes of Yoga of the Karma margis (followers of Karma or fruitive acts) and of the arguments of the Sankhya school of Jnana margis (seekers of dry wisdom) which vainly try to refute things that are not God or His concerns, then alone the pure rays of spiritual intuition are enkindled in them by being naturally absorbed in Divine contemplation; the worldly pleasures then prick them like pinching thorns, and Krishna—prem is awakened in the heart. By these means only, they can be blessed by the grace of Krishna—the spiritual Sun. No second help is there but this Divine grace to wash off all scrapes of the mind and to progress forward towards the eversheeny land of Krishna.

Vyasa and Narada

A sincere faith in pure devotion is the root cause of this non—laboured restraint on the senses together with the mind, and confine the soul in a deep contemplation on Godhead. When the happy moment came, Dwaipayana Rishi became doubtful about the rules and methods of Karma—kanda and vain Jnan—kanda and in reply to the question of his spiritual preceptor, Shri Narada Goswami, he said, "O Lord ! no doubt I have realised all truths, advised by Thee, still my soul, I know not why it finds no contentment! O Thou

Son of Brahma, be kind to tell me the unimaginable and indescribable secret that lurks behind it. I beg this of Thee being greatly troubled at heart."

Then Narada Goswami replied, "O Vyas ! you have not striven to give a vivid picture of the pure Spiritual Pastimes of Bhagavan, as you have given a full description in other Puranas, Vedanta–Sutras and Mahabharata of the four main objects of human pursuit, viz., virtue, wealth, enjoyment and salvation. Thus you enjoy no contentment due to this your short–coming. Thus you have committed a great and heavy omission by giving too high an eulogy of castes and stages to be the soul's religion of Jivas . If any one, leaving aside such a conventional religion of the self, engages himself in the service of Hari, and if he slips before reaching the goal, can it for this reason be a calamity to him? If, on the contrary he strictly sticks to that conventional religion being utterly unmindful of HARI–BHAJAN, what better exalted goal does it afford ?" It is clear from the above that no second help is there but Hari–Bhajan. Jiva can attain his highest goal if he embraces NAM as a means to serve Hari.

Bhakti the very nature of soul

Vyasadeva then following up this Bhakti yoga absorbed himself in an easy meditation of Godhead. "Easy" is used here to show that devotion to Krishna is most innate in Jivatma. As it is an inherent and eternal religion of Jivas, it is called the 'easy' universal religion of every Jiva. Its workings develop in the following manner:–

The remembrance of Krishna

When Jivas come to realise that the path of Karma does not give them eternal good, whether it be the eighteen inferior Karma–Yajna or the eight subtle processes of Yoga neither can ever lead them to the highest goal–the servitude to Krishna which is their souls' religion, or again when they are fully convinced that there is not the least chance to attain perpetual felicity by mundane wisdom or limited knowledge that aims at the Spiritual Kingdom–both gained by endeavour of the subtle frame of mind, ego, etc. –finding no shore to catch, they thus, by the grace of Sadhus and Guru or Spiritual Preceptor, cry out to Krishna from the deepest recesses of their heart, "O Thou Krishna ! O Ye Restorer of the fallen ! Thine eternal servant though I am, I am cast into the deep abyss of the world and am badly dashed from shore to shore by its frowning waves of troubles and tribulations. Take me up, O my Lord ! to the shade of the cool dust of Thy Lotus Feet! O, have mercy on this wretched self!!" Then the All–merciful Lord lovingly taketh all Jivas up to His Feet.

The Company of Sadhus

When with sincere thrills of joy and tears trickling down the cheeks they constantly chant, hear and remember the Name of Krishna, they gradually reach the stage of Bhava. Appearing in the heart, Krishna erases their spots out and out from their mind, and thus cleansing their heart graciously blesseth them with His own Prem. Extreme humbleness and utter devotion are necessary to call Krishna to the heart. Then, when earthly knowledge, reasonings and strivings are completely burnt to ashes, the soul's eyes can perceive Bhagavan and His associated counterparts. If by discarding the company of Asat or dishonest fellows (Asat literally means "non-existence;" hence those who are unusually attached to the fair-sex and those who are nondevotees of Krishna both are called Asat, for things other than Krishna are transitory), one embraces the company of the good or Sat (opposite of Asat), he ere long gains a firm reliance and then through the stages of Nistha etc. reaches the ladder of Bhava. Those whose hearts are crooked will, beyond any doubt, run downstairs to Hell.

Two minds—spiritual and material

The fortunate ones who earnestly long to ascend the terrace of Prem, do sincerely and incessantly chant the Name of Krishna in the company of Sadhus. They do not have any appetite for any other feature of devotion. When in a short time by the grace of NAM the heart becomes closely attentive, the fruits of religious forbearance, control over sensual appetites, religious observances, with holding the breath by way of religious austerity, abstract religious contemplation, steady abstraction of the mind and indifference to external impressions are very easily gained without paying the least heed to all these. NAM alone is a complete suspension of the fleeting mental operations. The more the heart is pellucid, the more diverse Pastimes of the Spiritual Kingdom play in it. The flow of the milk of this felicity is so very fast running that no other means can give even the smallest drop of it. Jivas have no other wished-for-wealth than the grace of Krishna.

NAM is spiritual—the object of pursuit

NAM is spiritual. Wisdom, vows, meditation, abnegation, mental quietness, virtue, contrivance none of these can ever equal NAM. Know it for certain that NAM is the highest salvation, NAM is the highest end, NAM is the noblest final beatitude, NAM is eternally existing, NAM alone is the supermost devotion, NAM is the highest intellect, NAM is the best Priti and NAM alone is the brightest remembrance. NAM is the seed and NAM is the fruit to Jivas–NAM is their Lord and NAM alone is the supremost object of their worship. NAM is their best Preceptor.

NAM is beyond time and space

The Vedas have described the spirituality of the Name of Krishna and Nam to be the highest truth. "O Lord ! reasonably judged we have Thy Name to be higher than the highest and so do we chant Thy NAM. NAM–BHAJAN is not bound by any rule– NAM is beyond all virtuous acts–He is Spiritual–He is virility and lustre in a person. All the Vedas have been manifested from this NAM. NAM is bliss, NAM is Ananda . We can excellently be devoted to Him. NAM is worship and NAM is to be worshipped; Thy Feet are to be held in veneration. Repeatedly we fall prostrate at those. Thy lotus–feet and anoint the body with the pollen thereof. In order to lead the soul to its highest stage, devotees mutually discuss on NAM and sing His glories. They believe Thy Name to be Chaitanya in person, and always sing and hear Kirtan which is identical with Thy NAM (name)–they are purified by it. NAM alone is sat ever–existing. The essence of the Vedas is NAM, the Absolute Truth and Whose Form is Sat–Chidananda (Sat ever–existing, Chit–all–knowing, and Ananda–all–bliss). O Vishnu ! it is only by the grace of Thy Name that we are capable of offering hymns to Thee. So we should adore and pray to Thy NAM alone." In His own "Eight glorious Precepts" Shriman Mahaprabhu has spoken of the glories of NAM; He has also given a glimpse of the gradual steps of NAM– BHAJAN in those Eight precepts. His "Consider thyself humbler than the grass" shloka hints at how to adore NAM after avoiding the ten profanations; His "Man or money I want not" shloka speaks of the selflessness of NAM–BHAJAN in a devotional spirit – devotion unactuated by any lustful motive; "O Thou Son of Nanda" shloka tells us how to make a plaintive report to the Lord; the last two shlokas describe the processes of Vraja–bhajan where one loves Krishna to serve Him either in Sambhoga(union) or in Vipralamba Rasa (deeper union in separation) or in both after being completely and spontaneously attached to Shrimati(Radha). The Shastras have eulogized so highly and so often the glories of NAM that their name is legion–to describe them is to write a big volume like the Shri Hari–Bhakti–Vilas. So, we have hardly any more space in this small volume to discuss them at length. Thus here putting a stop to the glories of NAM, we attempt a very short survey of the processes of NAM–BHAJAN.

A devotee should be aware of the Form of Krishna–Nam

Devotees, who are desirous of ascending the terrace of Prem, should remember a few points even before entering the field of NAM–BHAJAN. Firstly, they should know it for certain that the form of Krishna, the form of Krishna's Name, the form of the service to Krishna and the form of Krishna's servants are eternally free—are eternally spiritual ! Krishna, His abode and His paraphernalia are all spiritual and beyond the grasp of Maya, the illusory energy. No mundane consideration exists in Seva or service. The seat, room, garden, forest, the Jamuna and every other thing of Krishna are spiritual and hence untouchable by matter. They are further aware of the fact that this their belief is not a blind worldly–faith—it is absolutely true and eternal. The exact forms of all these do not in truth manifest on this earth. Such ideas may perpetually reign in the pure heart of pure devotees. Here, the fruit of all these spiritual practices is self–realisation. Those who have realised the form of Krishna as well as of their own self, do ere long attain Vastu–Siddhi (enter the eternal pastimes of Krishna in the Spiritual Kingdom and gain personal service of Krishna). Here in this world, devotees can only get a glimpse of those immaterial things. The first stage to it is freedom from the bondage of Maya—the climax is Prem.

The Processes of Nam–Bhajan

The realisation of truths that are beyond the grasp of matter is called Swarup–Siddhi. This is a true knowledge of the relationship between Krishna and Jivas, and when this is acquired, the endeavour for Prem as a means and Prem as an object of pursuit are gained. The spiritual region of Krishna, His spiritual name, His divine attributes and spiritual pastimes—the necessary object of pursuit—come under Prem. This is delineated in the Prasnopanishad.

NAM–Incarnation of Krishna

NAM has been accepted on all hands to be an Incarnation of Krishna on this earth. A word though He looks to be, still by His unimaginable powers He is Spiritual and is a special Incarnation of Krishna. As Krishna and His Name are identical, Krishna has descended to the earth as NAM; so, KRISHNA– NAM is the first introduction to Krishna. With determination to reach Krishna, Jivas must first accept the Name of Krishna. In going to determine the significance and origin of Hari Nam, Shri Gopalguru Goswami, the dearest disciple of Shri Swarup Damodar Goswami, writes; Blessed are they no doubt who utter

'Hare Krishna Hare Krishna
Krishna Krishna Hare Hare
Hare Rama Hare Rama
Rama Rama Hare Hare'

even indifferently (from the Agni-puran); those who chant are free from every spot of sin (from the BrahmandaPuran); Shri-Krishna-Chaitanya-Mahaprabhu simply collected them together. These Hare Krishna utterings, coming out from the lips of Shri Chaitanya, inundated the whole world with the flood of Prem; Glory be to this NAM by His will !" Hence, Shriman Mahaprabhu, as mentioned in the Chaitanya Charitamrita and the Chaitanya Bhagavat, Himself sang and taught jivas to count these sixteen names of thirty-two letters in beads of Tulashi. Shri Gopalguru Goswami explains these sixteen names in the following way:-

The meaning of Nam

At the utterance of Hari, all sins are washed off from the heart of the wicked. As the flame will burn the finger even though unconsciously you thrust it into the fire, similarly even the very casually pronounced Hari Nam will burn every bit of sin in you. That Hari-Nam after bringing the Absolute Truth, whose form is Chidananda, to light, destroys Avidya or illusion and its works. All this is the work of Hari- Nam . Or as He takes off the three-fold pangs of miseries, distresses and afflictions, hence He is called Hari (lit, to steal way) . Or Hari is so called because He drives out all the three-fold distresses of every animate and inanimate being, or because the mind of the fourteen worlds is charmed by hearing and singing the Spiritual Attributes of Hari or as He, by His exceeding beauties before which the loveliness and beauty of a thousand Cupids hide their face in shame, fascinates all men and incarnations, He is called Hari ; and in the Vocative case of Hari, it is Ha-re. Or again, according to the views of the Brahma-Samhita, -She Who fascinates the mind of Hari by Her Prem-Swarup, attachments, and love is Hara or in other words Shrimati Radhika, the daughter of Brisabhanu, and in the Vocative case of Hara it is Ha-re.

The meaning of 'Krishna' according to the views of Agama is derived from Krishna and means that this Krishna Who is Ananda in Form and attracts every object is Para-Brahman. Krishna when in the case of address is also Krishna. The Agama says, "O Ye Goddess ! all guilts and sinful motives vanish from the heart at the very sound of Ra and the door in the form of Ma is attached to it in order to shut out those evils from re-entering the heart. This 'Ra' and 'Ma' together give us Rama." The Puranas have further said that Krishna, Who is cleverer than the cleverest, more witty than the greatest wit, Who is the Presiding Deity of all spiritual pastimes and Who is eternally engaged in spiritual dalliance with Shri-Radha, is termed as Rama.

The Counting of NAM

Devotees, who thirst for Prem and are on the way to it, sing and realise this Hare-Krishna-Nam by counting, While chanting and remembering the Name, incessantly they remember His spiritual characteristics by way of explaining to the mind the meanings of Nam. By this means their heart is very soon freed from every spot of scrapes and becomes pure and stainless ; and with the morning-twilight of NAM as the heart is purified by constant remembrance, NAM dawns in the horizon of the pellucid heart with full shining rays.

Sadhak and Siddha

Those who have accepted NAM are either self realised devotees or are still trotting onward to self-realisation . Of these, the latter class of devotees are divided according to their early and advanced stages. Devotees, besides these, who are eternally free, no more confound the soul with the body, never identify themselves with body and mind. Devotees in their early stage begin to chant the Name by a fixed number, and as they gradually increase the countings, they come to a stage when their tongue stops not for a moment from singing NAM. Though choler-tongued by Avidya, devotees in their first stage have no taste for NAM, still a patient and continuous utterance of the Name proves to be the only remedy; now they feel uneasy if stopped from singing the Name, and a constant and regardful chanting produces a supreme liking for Him. Zeal and earnestness to avoid sacrileges to NAM are very needful in the first stage, which can be done only by an avoidance of the wordly-minded men and in the company of devotees. Incessant chanting of NAM will, when the first flow has passed away, naturally increase a love for the Name and kindness to Jivas. In this Karma, Jnana and Yoga have nothing to do. If their workings be even then strong, they may help the devotees of NAM in maintaining their livelihood. If KRISHNA-NAM be sung with a firm inclination, it will ere long cleanse the heart and burn Avidya ; and when Avidya vanishes, the brighter illumination of a true unbiased abnegation and a sense of the relationship between Krishna and Jivas will appear in the heart. Numberless times has this been proved to be true among the wise .

Lamenting prayer to NAM

With a happy heart one should re-collect the meaning and form of NAM and should pray to Krishna with a heart-rending lamentation and this will draw the grace of Krishna which will lead him onward in the path of BHAJAN ; or else, births will pass in vain like Karmis and frustrated Jnanis .

The yoked and the free

Those who are bent on BHAJAN may be divided into two distinct classes . Some bear only the burden, others appreciate the real worth of things. Those who long for enjoyment or for self-destroying salvation and are attached to worldly affairs are only yoked to the heavy load of virtue, wealth, enjoyment and salvation—they are unaware of the fact that Prem is the best sap . So, such loadbearers fail to progress in BHAJAN inspire of their utmost strivings, whereas the essence-seekers aiming at Prem-tatwa very soon reach the longed for ultimate. They are called Prema-rurukshu (those who earnestly strive for ascending up to the region of Prem) ; they alone can in a very short time ascend up to the sphere of Prem or easily become Paramahansas. Thus when he, who so long simply did bear burdens only, learnt to love the Truth in the company of Sadhus and soon also turns to long for Prem .

Reverence and desire for service of Godhead awakened in the company of devotees

Good acts done in previous births, that look forward to devotion, invigorate reverence and a strong desire for the service of Godhead, which reverence and desire turn into an appetite for devotion in the company of devotees. BHAJAN along with true devotees awakens Sadhan bhakti that looks forward in expectation of Prem. If one adopts the processes of Sadhan as directed by true and pure devotees, he will ere long almost turn mad for ascending the stage of Prem where it can be tasted ; but again this Prem will remain far in the back-ground if he associates with half -true devotees and cannot exclusively devote himself to the service of Krishna . In this stage, (1) his strong love for the fleeting world (2) his identification of the soul with the material frame of flesh and blood and the subtle body of mind, (3) his knowledge of things other than Krishna, and (4) his extreme servile attitudes towards Maya do not at allow him to regard and love true devotees—crafty thoughts beguile his heart. In this way the practisers of devotion have to remain long confined to the early preliminary rights of a devotee in his first stage.

Reliance and faith in Krishna they have no doubt, but it is so tender, fickle and so unsteady that they may at any moment be led away by contradictory arguments of conflicting schools and accordingly they may come by the company of so-called preceptors and Sadhus. In order to make steady this their perturbed state of mind, they are to learn by the process of deduction (the path of Sruti from a true spiritual preceptor, the true process of worship). A firm faith in NAM will be awakened in the heart after worshipping the Deity in this way for a long time ; then at last they are bent on Nam-Bhajan in the company of devotees .

The case is different with those few lucky ones who have an exclusively firm faith in Krishna- NAM ; they take, by the unbounded grace of Krishna, shelter at the feet of such a spiritual guide who is an ontologist of NAM, i.e. who has realised and does see the Swarup (form) of NAM. Of the rights of such a preceptor, Shri Mahaprabhu says that though formal initiation may not be necessary still a guide is essential in NAM-Bhajan. The mere letters of NAM may be had at any place and from anybody, but the profound and unknown truth that is lurking behind those letters can only be exposed by the grace of a true preceptor who is purely devoted to Krishna ; the grace of the spiritual guide alone can pass over from the early twilight of NAM to the pure light of it and can save them from the ten sacrileges hindering the true service of NAM.

Namabhasa

Those who are devoted to Nam have already from the beginning attained the stage of the second class of devotees, because they are aware of the Swarup (form) of NAM. They are practically no longer bound to Namabhasa (utterance of name avoiding the ten profanations). Truly speaking, they earnestly desire Prem—they are true Premarurukshu. It is their religion to have Prem for Krishna ; they make friendship with true Vaishnavas, they cast kind glances at and show compassion to tender and unsteady Vaishnavas, and they are indifferent to those who being puffed up with false vanity of their erudition are malicious and inimical to the devotees and Sreemurti of Bhagavan. Failing to distinguish right from wrong, the beginners who are confined to the primary rights only sometimes fall into deplorable condition ; the middle order of Vaishnavas who are earnestly anxious for Prem, behave differently from the three classes of Vaishnavas and soon are blessed with Prem or ascend to the highest or superior order of Vaishnavas. These middle orders of Vaishnavas are best to be associated with.

These Prema-rurukshu devotees chant and tell their beads three lacs of times in twenty-four hours, and such felicity they find in NAM that a moment they cannot spare without Him ; then when no time can be kept in time of sleep, etc. They become incessant in their BHAJAN. Repeated remembrance of the meaning of NAM as explained by Shri Gopal Guru Goswami will, by degrees, drive out every scrap from the nature of man and then NAM appears in person before the spiritual eyes of the devotee. When the swarup (form) of NAM fully appears, it is identical with the spiritual form of Krishna – the appearance of the swarup of NAM is the appearance of the swarup of Krishna. The more clearly and purely is NAM visible, the more BHAJAN proceeds in the presence of His swarup, the more do the three elements of which primordial matter is said to be composed, namely satwa (The strand of goodness), Raja(the strand of activity) and Tamo(the gloom of pride, haughtiness etc. of the lowest inherent principle), disappear and there appear the spiritual attributes of Krishna in the heart of the devotee. Then again, when there is a happy union of the name, form and attributes of Krishna, and devotees in their BHAJAN see them, the lila (pastimes) of Krishna is awakened by the grace of Krishna in their pure heart as soon as they are absorbed in deep and easy natural meditation. Incessantly then does NAM dance on their tongue, the form of Krishna is then visible to their soul's eye, all the attributes of Krishna are then observed in their heart and the bud of lila blooms in their soul while they are buried in meditation. In this stage, five conditions of the practising devotee are to be noticed.

The five conditions of a Sadhak

1. Sravan–dasha. 2. Varan–dasha. 3. Smaran–dasha. 4. Aapan–dasha. 5. Prapan–dasha.

The happy mood which the devotee feels at the time of listening to the object of pursuit and the means to hear from the lips of a true Spiritual Preceptor may be called Sravan–dasha. In this stage, every bit of knowledge about how to take NAM without committing any sacrilege to Him and of the processes and fitness of taking NAM is gained ; this facilitates the continuity of NAM.

When fit to receive, the strung–together beads of NAM–PREM can be had of Shri Gurudeva, i.e. the disciple with every delight and from the deepest recesses of his heart cordially welcomes the boon of surrendering himself to the feet of Shri Guru for pure and unalloyed BHAJAN and receives invigorating strength and faculty from him ; this is Varan–dasha. (i.e. the choice of Shri Guru for Bhajan by the acceptance of NAM and strength from Him).

Remembrance, contemplation, concentration, constant meditation and trance (final beatitude) are the five processes of Smaran. From remembrance of the Nam, the devotee thinks of the form which gives him a steady conception of the attributes ; this steady conception of the attributes gives him a firm conviction pursuing the lila of Krishna and having entrance in the lila he is completely absorbed in Krishna–Rasa. This is Aapan–dasha. By these Smaran and Aapan the devotee can know and adore the eternal and daily lila of Krishna at eight different periods of the day ; and when he is deeply absorbed in it, he realises his own self and that of Krishna. These self–realised devotees are Paramahansas.

Then at the time of his departure from this world, the devotee, by the grace of Krishna, becomes an associated counterpart of ideal object of his worship in Vraja and thus attains the summum bonum of NAM–BHAJAN.

Should then all who are seekers after Prem leave the stage of a house–holder and accept Sanyas or the fourth stage ? The answer is that, be he in bustee or solitude, in palace or bower, be he in the stage of a Grihastha, or a Vanaprastha or Sanyas– in whatever stage he may be, the Prema–rurukshu should prefer to live in that stage only which will be favourable to the attainment of Prem and should at once desert the stage that is a burden or antagonistic to his BHAJAN. In this connection, the lives of Shrivasa Pandit, Shri–Pundarik Vidyanidhi, Shri Ramananda and other Personal Attendants of Krishna are worth recollection. They are all born Paramahansas. Ribhu, Janaka etc. in the days of yore are seen to be Paramahansas even though they led the lives of house–holders ; while on the contrary, finding the household–life to be detrimental and a bar to BHAJAN, Shri Ramanuj Swami, Shri Swarup Damodar Goswami, Shri Madhavendra Puri Goswami, Shri Handas Thakur, Shri Sanatan Goswami and Shri Raghunathdas Goswami, all renounced the stage of a householder and accepted Sanyas.

Krishna's loving beauty is so enamouring that even the god of lusts is charmed by Him and Krishna Himself being charmed by His own beauty and loveliness covets the pleasure enjoyed by the best of His lovers– Shri Radha, by lovingly serving such a Form as His. So anointing Himself with the lustre and complexion of Shri Radha and having been imbued with Her ardent longings of love, Krishna is ever dallying as an exemplary lover of Himself as Shri Gauranga. Shri Krishna, the essential nature of the Supreme Being– the only Real and Eternal Truth is the only Object of love and Shri Gauranga the possessor and distributor of that love. Krishna is simultaneously dallying with His dear consort in the groves of Vrindavana and tasting the extract of love–succus flowing from His consort as Shri Gauranga at Navadwip, Himself singing Krishna's name and teaching others how to love Krishna and sing His name. In so doing He distinguishes pointedly the real name, identical with the Object Himself, from the apparent or false one which is taken profanely, blasphemously or in vain. He emphasises that in this Kali yuga worldly people indulge in (1) duplicity, (2) intoxication, (3) sensuality, (4) killing of animals, (5) mercenariness and so are unable to meditate upon, or worship Vishnu and to perform Vedic sacrifices. So the chanting of Krishna's name is the only meditation, the only sacrifice, the only worship in this Kali age– Name is the means, Name is the end. But it should be noted with the utmost care that Krishna's name is not mere combination or utterance, and appearance is not identity. The fire and the glowworms though similar in appearance are not identical . The minutest spark of fire set consciously or unconsciously, seriously or play–fully will instantaneously burn an inflammable thing, whereas a thousand glow worms will not be able to do that even in a thousand years. Krishna's Name is identical with Krishna Himself and pregnant with all the properties and attributes of Krishna. So His Name, unlike all other names, is full of energy, perfect, eternal, pure, devoid of illusion and eternally free. Aurora is sufficient to dispel the darkness of night and to drive the wild animals to their lairs and thieves and dacoits to their resorts; it enables us to distinguish the various objects of senses and ushers the advent of the glowing lamp of heaven. So does Namabhasa (the utterance of name avoiding the ten profanations) stop poverty from planting our pillows with thorns, destroy our worldly hankerings and dispel the illusory gloom, so that we may see the Name face to face. When the ever-burning sun peeps out of the eastern horizon its ever-effulgent rays make us see it face to face and feel its golden rays and enable us to see all objects bathing therein. The sun is seen and felt by us with its own rays and heat and not with the help of any other glowing object. The brightest candles of the universe put together cannot make the sun visible to us. When our dreamy nights are at an end, when we shake off the torpor, open our eyes, turn them to the east, we see the Name-Sun with all his glory and beauty.

SRI KRISHNA

The Supreme God–Head

Authored by:

HIS DIVINE GRACE 108 SHRI PARAMAHAMSA BHAKTI SIDDHANTA
SARASWATI GOSWAMY THAKUR

Published by:
SRI NITYANANDA BOOK TRUST
SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION(REGD)

Founder president and Acharya
Sri Srimad Tridandiswamy
Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswamy Maharaj
Sri Krishna Chaitanya Matham, Sri Krishna Nagar, Visakhapatnam – 530 016, INDIA

Second print
2000 copies
Sri Kartik Pournami(Rasa Pournima)
14th November, 1997

WWW Edition: 2002

©All Rights Reserved

CONTENTS

Preface
The Absolute Truth – Sri Krishna
The Real Nature of Sri Krishna
The Highest Worship of Sri Krishna
Sri Krishna Chaitanya's Teachings in a Nutshell Damodarastakam
The Glory of Sri Krishna Nam
Eighteen Slokas from Srimad Bhagavad Gita
Four Prime Slokas from Srimad Bhagavatam
Brief History and Objects of the Mission
List of Temples around India
List of Publications
All Glory to Sri Sri Guru and Gauranga

PREFACE

The ever lucid presentation made by my Guru Maharaj His Divine Grace 108 Shri Paramahansa Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Thakur reminds me of his venerable loving devotion towards the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna on this auspicious event of THE KARTIK DAMODARA VRAJHAM and felt the need for publishing this book again for the Benefit of Universal Mankind in understanding the LORD through the preceptorial line of succession, which alone can bestow the pure satvik Bhakti to attain the real Goal of Life, that is to say – to realise the Supreme God head Sri Krishna and to render loving devotional service unto him. This book is of immense use for the sincere devotees. The contents in establishing the invincible and unconceivable potency of the Lord Krishna are certainly a search-light for those who read this gift of God – Sri Krishna, the Supreme God head.

One shall be on a continuous watch in eliminating the eighteen obstacles narrated through the pastimes performed by the LORD. The birds eye view of the tenth canto of Srimad Bhagavatham unfolds the supreme majesty of the Lord. The highest state of spiritual Ecstasy Mahabhava-tattva is wonderfully presented. The book is further enriched with adding Damodarastakam, Chatuslokhi Bhagavatam etc.

May the unlimited Grace of the Lord flows from him through the Sankeerthana of the Divine Name. Hare Krishna.

BV Puri Goswami
(Tridandi Swami B.V. Puri Goswami)

1.THE ABSOLUTE TRUTH –SRI KRISHNA

The Great Absolute should predominate over the crippled forms of infinitesimal absolutes who may appear at the outset as illustrations of non–absolute. If the synthetic process of all isolated entities does not go one Undeviated Object of the Absolute, it would prove to be a chaotic emporium of unassimilating difference ; so our mentalities require rectification to arrange their order in a particular line. One of our friendly co–sharers should come forward to explain before us the nature of the course that should be adopted for our methodic comprehension of the irregularities in one line. This unparalleled mercy of the One Friend and His associates is to regulate the disorderly conduct of the body and the mind. The rhetorical principle of the predominating the predominating functions in their bases of activities could give us the result of one of the four ingredients that follow when we are relieved of the worldly deformed conceptions in the pure spontaneity of a defined nature of eternal relationship that exists between the Absolute and the significatory aspects of the internal parts of the Absolute.

Whenever the specification of the Predominator is Prominent, we necessarily find the reciprocal predominated aspects, which may prove to be more than One, as distinguished from the case of the Predominator. The Predominating Agent has a singular significance over the multifarious predominated. This portion of the analysis of the Transcendental Integer has become the most conspicuous explanation offered to mankind by any of the guiding leaders to bring us towards the Transcendence. Earnest readers will no doubt find this unique explanation offered by the writer in the line of instructions received by him from the Transcendental Hero, Whose Career and accounts have been portrayed in this book, of course, in a nutshell.

The peculiar feature noticed in men (includes male and female) apart from the lower creation is this that the former can exchange thoughts and have the superiority of utilising their experience through the recollections from history and acquired branches of knowledge. They can show their felicitous mood in listening to Scriptures also. So a comparative student can easily demarcate the line of the best and full part from transitory experience of this world. The question of Eternity, Full Knowledge and Bliss cannot be dealt by other agencies of life save man ; so man need not neglect the position of the Absolute in the Ever–existence, in Full Knowledge void of all sort of ignorance and ills that flesh is heir to, and Beatific Constancy of the Fountainhead. The solution of human life should tend towards the approach of the Absolute Who is always courting us to offer His help towards the fulfilment of the inadequate speciality we have in us. And in order to gain, an approach we should require the guidance of an individual in whom we can place our reliance, instead of being credulous with the strugglers of this world.

The Supreme Lord has left in this world a band of His followings who are always helpful to mankind instead of deluding the intellectual to turn themselves idealists and evil-doers with an apparent phase of seekers for their welfare. The author will no doubt be gratified if any of the readers can see his way to Scrutinise the Subject of the Transcendence in Whom we are vitally interested by sparing his valuable time to go through this book.

All the reference set apposite to each line below are to chapters and the verses of the Tenth Skanda(CANTO) of Srimad Bhagavatam.

Sl.No. Description Reference

- 1) Krishna is possessed of unlimited intellect (88/22)
- 2) Krishna is inaccessible to sensuous knowledge (16/46).
- 3) Krishna is Lord of the infinity of worlds (69/17).
- 4) Krishna weilds the power of creating the unlimited (87/28),
- 5) Krishna carries the impress of limitless power (87/14)
- 6) Krishna is possessed of inconceivable potency (10/29).
- 7) Krishna is unborn (59/28, 74/21).
- 8) Krishna solves all heterogeneous views (74/24).
- 9) Krishna is vanquished by exclusive devotion (14/3).
- 10) Krishna is Inner Guide (1/7).
- 11) Krishna is the Withholder of the energy of the wicked (60/19)
- 12) Krishna is the Giver of salvation of jives that are free from vanity (86/48).
- 13) Krishna ordains the worldly course of conceited jivas (86/48).
- 14) Krishna is primal God (Deva) (40/1).
- 15) Krishna is primal person (purusha) (63/38).
- 16) Krishna is Overwhelming flood of bliss (83/4).
- 17) Krishna possesses fulfilled desire (47/46).
- 18) Krishna is self – delighted (60/20)
- 19) Krishna is the apponent of the sensuous (60/35)
- 20) Krishna is sung by the best of hymns (86/23).
- 21) Krishna is the dispeller of the night of pseudo-religion (14/40).
- 22) Krishna is devoid of increase and decrease (48/26).
- 23) Krishna is efficient and material cause (10/29).
- 24) Krishna is the only Truth (14/23).
- 25) Krishna is Awarder of the fruit of work (49/29)
- 26) Krishna is not subject to the consequences of work(84/17).
- 27) Krishna is the Seer of cause and effect (38/12).
- 28) Krishna is the Person who is time (Kala) (1/7).
- 29) Krishna is Time's Own Self (70/26).

- 30) Krishna is even the time of time (56/27).
- 31) Krishna is Present in the heart of every animate entity, like fire inside wood (46/36)
- 32) Krishna is Grateful (48/26).
- 33) Krishna is the Augmentor (like the Full Moon) of the ocean of earth, gods, twice-born and animals (14/40)
- 34) Krishna is is the Tormentor of cannibalistic persons(14/40).
- 35) Krishna is the Destroyer of the pride of the arrogant (60/19).
- 36) Krishna is the Root–Cause of the origin, etc., of the world (14/23).
- 37) Krishna is the Cause of the world (40/1)
- 38) Krishna is the Creator of the world (70/38)
- 39) Krishna is appears as it possessed of a body like that of mundane entitles, for the good of the world(14/55).
- 40) Krishna is the Guru (centre of gravity) of the world(80/44).
- 41) Krishna is the Refuge (Ashraya) of jivas (individual souls) who are afraid of birth and death(49/12).
- 42) Krishna is devoid of birth (46/38).
- 43) Krishna is equally the Internal Guide, Cause and Director of jivas (87/30).
- 44) Krishna is the destroyer of the miseries of persons who employ themselves in meditating upon Him (58/10)
- 45) Krishna is of the fourth dimension and self–manifest(66/38)
- 46) Krishna is worthy of being gifted (74/24).
- 47) Krishna is the Punisher of the wicked (69/17)
- 48) Krishna is the God of gods (80/44)
- 49) Krishna is rarely cognisable by the gods (48/27)
- 50) Krishna is unconcerned about body, house, etc. (60/20)
- 51) Krishna is Supreme Ruler of the Greatest gods. (73/8)
- 52) Krishna is the Exponent of Religion (69/40)
- 53) Krishna is the Eternal Son of Nanda (Ananda/Pleasure) (14/1).
- 54) Krishna is Visible to man with great difficulty (71/23).
- 55) Krishna's Presence mocks the world of man (70/40).
- 56) Krishna is the Object of palatable drink of the human eye (71/33).
- 57) Krishna is the Internal guide of all (31/4).
- 58) Krishna is Worthy of the worship of all the worlds. (69/15)
- 59) Krishna accomodates all the worlds (59/30).
- 60) Krishna is the Manifestor of all light (63/34).
- 61) Krishna is unstinted in giving Himself away to one who recollects Him (80/11)
- 62) Krishna is the efficient Cause (87/50)
- 63) Krishna, although devoid of all mundane quality, assumes mundane qualities by His Inconceivable Power for the purposes of creation, etc. (46/40).
- 64) Krishna is not subject to change (64/29)
- 65) Krishna is not capable of discrimination, by reason of being void of any extraneous covering (87/29).
- 66) Krishna is the Giver of himself to those who covet nothing (86/33).

- 67) Krishna loves those who covet nothing (60/14)
- 68) Krishna does no work (60/20)
- 69) Krishna is Human, Hidden, primal Person (Purusha)(44/13).
- 70) Krishna is Present in the hearts of jivas like the five elements (82/45).
- 71) Krishna is the Supreme Sorcerer (70/37).
- 72) Krishna is Supreme Godhead and the Internal Guide of all (56/27).
- 73) Krishna is the Crest-jewel of those whose praises are sung by the sacred lore (71/30).
- 74) Krishna is Primal Person and Ever-existing (14/23).
- 75) Krishna is the Highest among the Objects of worship (74/19).
- 76) Krishna is the Healer of the miseries of the submissive (73/16).
- 77) Krishna is the Destroyer of the sins of the submissive (31/7).
- 78) Krishna is the Destroyer of the distress of the submissive (73/8).
- 79) Krishna is the Residue after the Cataclysm (87/15).
- 80) Krishna is devoid of touch with mundane senses (87/28).
- 81) Krishna is the Soul and Friend of all animate entitles (29/32).
- 82) Krishna is devoid of distinction appertaining to an alien (63/38, 44).
- 83) Krishna is Inconceivable by His Nature (70/38).
- 84) Krishna is the Master of the Universe (70/37).
- 85) Krishna is the Nourisher of the Universe (85/5).
- 86) Krishna is the Sun that cheers the lotus of the kindred of the Vrishnis (14/40).
- 87) Krishna is the God worshipped by the Brahmanas (69/15).
- 88) Krishna is the Foremost of the Brahmanas (84/20).
- 89) Krishna is the Originator of Brahma (40/1).
- 90) Krishna is the Worshipped of Brahma (31/13).
- 91) Krishna loves His devotees (48/26).
- 92) Krishna wears Forms in accordance with the wishes of His devotee (59/25).
- 93) Krishna is eternally Present in Mathura (1/28).
- 94) Krishna is devoid of the sense of kinship and regards all in the same way (46/37).
- 95) Krishna is beyond all Measuring Potency (Maya) (63/26).
- 96) Krishna is subdued by the love of Yudhisthira (72/10).
- 97) Krishna is concealed by the screen of maya from the sight of the people (84/23).
- 99) Krishna does not follow the ways of the world (60/36).
- 100) Krishna is the destroyer of the fear of the mundane sojourn of the submissive (85/19).
- 101) Krishna is the Womb of the Scriptures (16–44, 80/45, 84/20).
- 102) Krishna is Sree Guru's own Self (80/33).
- 103) Krishna is devoid of hankering for wife, offspring, etc. (60/20).
- 104) Krishna is the ordainer of the worldly sojourn and of the summum bonum (1/7).
- 105) Krishna is the Cause of all entitles (85/4).
- 106) Krishna is th. Friend of the good (69/17).
- 107) Krishna is devoid of discrimination as of kinship(63/38, 44).
- 108) Krishna is in Existence (56/27).
- 109) Krishna possesses true desire (80/44).

- 110) Krishna is the True Entity (87/17).
- 111) Krishna is true of speech (48/26).
- 112) Krishna is true of resolve (37/12).
- 113) Krishna sees with an equal Eye (16/33).
- 114) Krishna is the Cause of all causes (14/56–57, 63/38, 87/16).
- 115) Krishna is the Originator of all (59/28),
- 116) Krishna is the Soul's own self of all jivas (individual souls) (14/55).
- 117) Krishna is Omniscient (16/48).
- 118) Krishna is All-seeing (38/18)
- 119) Krishna is the embodiment of all gods (74/19, 86/54).
- 120) Krishna is the Seer of all (16/48).
- 121) Krishna is the Lord of all (37/23).
- 122) Krishna is the Stay (Ashraya) of all entities (82/46).
- 123) Krishna is All-pervasive and Eternal (9/13).
- 124) Krishna is the Soul of all elements (86/31).
- 125) Krishna is the Knower of the minds of all elements (81/1).
- 126) Krishna is the soul's self of all elements (74/24).
- 127) Krishna is the Inner Soul of all elements (37/11).
- 128) Krishna is the internal Guide of all elements (47/29).
- 129) Krishna is the Cause of the origin of all elements (64/29).
- 130) Krishna is the Limit of all good (84/21).
- 131) Krishna is Omnipotent (37/12).
- 132) Krishna is the lord of Lakshmi, the Presiding Deity of all riches (47/46).
- 133) Krishna is the Internal guide of all (63/38, 72/6).
- 134) Krishna is the Stay (Ashraya) of all (40/15).
- 135) Krishna is Witness and Seer of Self (86/31).
- 136) Krishna is the Refuge of the good (80/9).
- 137) Krishna is most difficult to serve (88/11),
- 138) Krishna is the Friend of one's heart (48/26).
- 139) Krishna is the Withholder of Creation (82/45).
- 140) Krishna is Withholder, Creator and Preserver (63/44).
- 141) Krishna is the Master of the functions of creation, etc. (16/49, 37/12).
- 142) Krishna is devoid of distinction as of kinship (74/21).
- 143) Krishna is devoid of distinction as between kin and alien (72/6).
- 144) Krishna indwells the Universe created by Himself (48/19).
- 145) Krishna is the Destroyer of the worldly sojourn of His devotees (60/43).
- 146) Krishna is the Wearer of body according to His Wish (1/7).

2. THE REAL NATURE OF SREE KRISHNA

The historical aspect of Sree Krishna need not be considered as irrelevant or mundane. The Absolute is always no other than Himself. Antiquarian speculations regarding the historicity of Sree Krishna have thus, inconceivably to us, an intimate bearing on the question of the real Nature of the Absolute. The scheme of ancient History of India that is being worked out by the researches of learned scholars has not yet been conclusively settled in regard to the lay affairs of that remote period which may have witnessed the Great War that is reported to have been fought out on the plains of Kurukshetra between the Kurus and the Pandavas backed by their respective allies. But the time is not far distant when it will be practicable to avoid prejudices and misunderstandings that at present prevent our approaching that great event in the proper spirit. The Puranas are steadily winning the confidence of the most hostile critics and the actual occurrence of the Great War is coming to be recognised, on the authority of the Puranas, as having taken place at a period which is not very far from 3000 B.C. The narration of the Mahabharata may now be seriously accepted as providing a tentative basis for the historical career of Shree Krishna. The Harivamsa, which forms the supplement of the Great Epic, is not opposed to the Mahabharata either in the spirit or in the so-called assumptions regarding particulars of the career of Sree Krishna that do not appear in the Great Epic.

The difficulty in regard to the Bhagawatam has also become susceptible of historical handling. If that great Purana was actually composed in the ninth century A.D., as seems not very improbable, it should still be historically possible to accept its testimony regarding even the events of the Boyhood of Krishna. But from the lay point of view, this question is not of absorbing interest in as much as the politically important activities in the career of Sree Krishna belong to a later period. But from the point of view of religious history, the story of the marvellous Boyhood of Krishna is all-important and demands our most careful consideration.

The Mahabharata deals exclusively with the Doings of Krishna as King of Dwaraka and Ruler of the Yadavas. But the mighty Deeds of Krishna recorded in the Mahabharata from no part of the worship of Sree Sree Radha-Govinda, which is the subject-matter of the present work. Bhandarkar, in his anxiety to redeem the worship of Krishna from the charge of immorality, might prefer the worship of the wedded Husband of Rukmini to that of Sree Sree Radha-Krishna. But the Bhagawatam makes the Pastimes of Vrindavana the heart and kernel of the whole narrative of its deeds of Krishna as the Divinity, and it is this which supplies all the materials for the prevalent worship of Sree Sree Radha–Govinda. The political Krishna occupies but a secondary position, if even that, in the sphere of worship.

The narrative of the Bhagawatam so far as it covers the same ground as the Mahabharata does not differ materially from the story told by the Epic. But the interpretation and point of view of the Bhagawatam is throughout explicitly different from that of the Mahabharata even in its treatment of those events that are common to the two works. The later date of the appearance of the Bhagawatam, together with the new perspective adopted and the prominence given in it to the Boyhood of Krishna, has given rise to the doubts regarding the authenticity of its story of the Boyhood of Krishna, which is, however, also found in several other Puranas of an admittedly more ancient date.

Sectarian manipulation of history is assumed to be responsible for difference of version in the treatment of even historical events that are connected with the origin and growth of creeds. Theologians are supposed to be often ready to be unmindful of any version that may appear to them to be opposed to the tenets of the creed that they happen to profess. The Bhagawatam, judged by this canon, has appeared to certain scholars as being less reliable, in the considered historical sense, than the Great Epic. This view is also supposed to cut at the root of the reality of the religion itself. The issue regarding religion may be put thus: Did the Pastimes of Krishna at Vrindabana manifest themselves on the mundane plane at any period in the ordinary historical sense?

The answer should be, even from the historical point of view, partly, in the affirmative and negative. The Bhagawatam is regarded by the Absolutists as being both a work of the mediaeval period as well as the very Body of the eternally existing Truth Himself. The argument, Viz., that as it happens to belong to the mediaeval period it cannot also at the same time be eternal that is without any origin, is inapplicable to the Bhagawatam. The case is exactly the same with the Vrindabana Pastimes. They are also regarded to be eternally true. They are at the same time claimed to be historically true. But they are not claimed to be merely historical events. They are, therefore, claimed to be as being both old and new, or neither. They are not regarded as limitable by the mundane categories.

It, therefore, becomes necessary to widen the scope of the historical method itself in order to treat such a subject with any principle of consistency. The adherence to the scheme of gradual evolution of the creed has to be got rid of. The test of contemporary evidence as proof of authenticity should be found to be even more misleading for this particular purpose than it always is ordinarily.

What is the reality of the degree of validity of contemporary evidence in the ascertainment of the Truth ? I record my opinion regarding a certain phenomenon actually occurring before my very eyes. The statement is made up of the narration of the occurrence and my individual opinion regarding its nature and other particulars that I may suppose have a bearing on it. The narrative portion is separated from opinion by the critics, and is accepted in that unexplained form as historically true. If Krishna actually passed His Divine Boyhood in Vrindavana and performed at that place all the miracles before the very eyes of all the people, the older narrative of the Mahabharata, it is argued, should have also been cognizant of the same. If those miracles had been the most important of all the Activities of Krishna, Who is the Hero of the Epic, they could not have been altogether omitted by the writer of the Great Epic as they must have been actual and well-known occurrences. Such argument, although legitimate within its due limits in the case of mundane events, does not apply without a good deal of modification to the Pastimes of the Divinity.

It is an option of the servants of Krishna, which they are not loth to exercise, to divulge His Activities, or keep Them concealed from the knowledge even of contemporaries. Those activities possess the special quality of being recognised as true in the real and not merely historical sense, as soon as, and whenever, they are so divulged to the unerring consciousness of the pure individual soul. On the other hand, the reality is impossible of being ever "discovered" by the empiric historical method.

The Absolute chooses to present His deluding face to the sense-perception of man. His deluding energy is all-powerful and is able to prevent the search and discovery of the Truth, for Whose service, however, every individual soul has an imperative necessity. The tentative categories of the mundane Logicians are no other than fetters of the deluding Energy that tend to produce the strange belief that the transitory and limited are necessarily also true. It is this undoubted "fact" that vitiates the current short-sighted "historical" method at its source. The reality of the Ocean is neither proved nor disproved by the admission or denial of the ignorant dweller of the Taklamakan Desert. Such admission or such denial is equally abortive and wide of the mark if the observer has no knowledge of his subject. The issue itself as regards the Truth does not exist for the pedant of the waterless desert of the narrow and closely barriered Hinterland of Empiricism.

What value for instance are we to attach to such "historical" finding as this, viz., that the teaching of Sree Chaitanya was the cause of the political downfall of Orissa? Sree Chaitanya teaches that the Absolute is served by all conditions, beings and events, either consciously or unconsciously as regards the agents themselves. The decline as well as the rise of empires and worlds serves equally in their tiny ways the uncompassable Absolute. As soon as their relation of service to the Absolute is grasped by the agents, the real, consciousness of the Truth is produced in the humble agent. So long as the Absolute continues to be pedantically regarded as a part of Physical Nature, as cause or effect, there is no consciousness at all even of the issue itself of the real Truth. Sree Chaitanya and His Activities belong to the plane of the Absolute. The empiric historian, with his geographical and chronological apparatus of observation, can have really no proper idea of the grotesque anomaly that he unconsciously perpetrates by his pedantic effort to gauze the Absolute by the standard supplied to her victim by His deluding Energy in the form of the mundane categories that can only limit and define the, whereas the function that is required to be performed is to get rid of the necessity of having to do either.

If Srimad Bhagawatam, which professes to treat of the absolute, is considered to be an object of this phenomenal world, how can it possibly impart to a person who chooses to entertain such illogical thought, any knowledge of its contents? The recipient of the consciousness of the Absolute as well as the communicant of such consciousness must alive belong to the plane of the absolute consciousness. The empiric consciousness is not in the Absolute consciousness at all. It can only bungle and commit a deliberate blunder by attempting to limit and define the immeasurable and undefinable under the plea of a necessity that need not be supposed to exist at all.

It is possible, if the limitations of the mental equipment are remembered and allowed for, for a person desirous of treat in the subject on the plane of the Absolute to write the cautious narrative of the Activities of Godhead in the limited vocabulary, without falling wholly into the deliberate blunders of dogmatic empiricism. The revealed Scriptures belong to the class of such authentic records regarding the Absolute. They need not be produced at the time of appearance of the events on the mundane plane to be historically acceptable as conveying the direct or first-hand testimony of those occurrences. They are quite independent of the conditions which the mind of the empiric historian finds it impossible to shake off and which make it impossible for him to conceive of the possibility of spiritual occurrences.

Therefore, empiric speculations regarding the so-called "ricity" of a spiritual event instead of establishing its genuineness only serve to display the utter insufficiency of the empirical historicity method itself for the purpose of the treatment of the history of the Absolute.

For example, the complaint of the empiric scholar, that it is not possible to set forth the nature of the development of spiritual life in India for lack of definite chronology which renders a scientific classification of the original works treating of Indian religion impossible, however plausible in itself it may appear to be at first sight, is, in the light of the foregoing discussion, at once found to be after all only the result of a wholly deluded attitude towards the Absolute Himself. As if the development of spiritual life is capable of being measured by the process of so-called mundane evolution based on the chronological sequence of mundane occurrences!

Our contention is not that the Pastimes of Sree Krishna are historical events but that they are a revelation of the Truth in the form of historical events. The Pastimes of Sree Krishna are not, therefore, less true than any historical events whatsoever. They are much more. All the historical events of this world will be enabled to disclose the real elements of the Truth that they represent only when they would be set forth in their proper relationship to the only eternal Verity, viz., the Pastimes of the Krishna. It is the historical events and the canons of historical judgement that require to be brought into tune with the Truth, Who is no other than Krishna. But the empiric historian does the exact opposite of this. He assumes the truth of historical events and his canons of historical judgement as the standard to which the Pastimes of Krishna are to conform for the realisation of any element of the Truth that they may contain!

The whole difficulty is ultimately due to the muddled way of thinking favoured by the empiricists that supposes itself to be selfsufficient for the purpose of finding the Truth. It is empiricism that requires to be made properly conscious of its limitations and to be forced into a serious consideration of the nature of the Truth Whom it professes in and out of season to be so willing to serve. Once the nature of the Truth is taken into our serious consideration, the inconclusiveness of the cult of historicity should be perfectly plain to every impartial thinker. Further anxious consideration of the subject should enable the empiric method to be limited to its proper scope and by such limited employment to be enabled to serve the quest of the Unlimited.

As soon as the mind is directed to the question of the Nature of the Truth, it is enabled by Truth Himself to understand the otherwise inexplicable postulations of the spiritual Scriptures that it is necessary to obey in order to attain to the plane of the real quest of the Truth. Every circumstance even of this world will then be found to be a help in the realisation of the Truth, and nothing will be found to be a hindrance. The only hindrance, as a matter of fact, is the empiric attitude itself. By the empiric attitude one is led to launch out on the quest of the Absolute Truth with the resources of admittedly utter ignorance. This fool-hardiness must be made to cease. The method of submissive enquiry enjoined by the Scriptures should be substituted after being properly learnt from those who have themselves attained to the right knowledge of the same by the proper method of submission. It is only after one has actually obtained the vision of the Truth, Whose face is so completely hid from the sight of the empiric thinker, that one can, under the guidance of the Truth Himself, set out on the quest of the Truth with any chance of finding Him and proclaiming Him to others.

So, although the method that has been employed throughout this narrative may appear to be in consistent with the demands of the blind empiric judgement, the reader is requested for the very much more weighty reasons set forth above to lend his listening ear to an attempt to apply the methods of the revealed Scriptures for the purpose of describing the real Nature of Krishna and His Pastimes, in pursuance of the mercy of the authorised Teachers, on the ground that the method is the only one that claims to be applicable to the subject of the Absolute.

As the working knowledge of the Nature of Sree Krishna is the starting point of the search of the Truth, it is our purpose in this chapter to present the reader with a summary of the traditional account of the real Nature of Sree Krishna, which is revealed by the Scriptures of all Ages and countries in more or less explicit forms.

The outline of the history of Sree Krishna as told in the Bhagavatam, which may be accepted as the only authentic account for our purposes, is as follows. At the close of the cycle known as Dwaparayuga Krishna manifested His Appearance in Bharatavarsha. He was born at Mathura. He was the Son of Vasudeva. His mother was Devaki, the sister of King Kamsa of the race of the Bhojas. Apprehending harm to himself from the Issue of Vasudeva and Devaki, Kamsa, that unworthy scion of the Bhojas, had cast the immaculate couple into the royal prison which was most closely guarded. As they passed their days inside the prison of Kamsa six sons were born in succession to Vasudeva and Devaki. All of them were killed in their infancy by the cruel and fearful Kamsa. Sree Balarama was born as their seventh issue. He was transferred to the keeping of Rohini in Braja as foster-mother, the report being circulated that there had been miscarriage at childbirth. Godhead Himself was the eighth issue of Vasudeva and Devaki. He was conveyed by Vasudeva to the home of Nanda in Braja, whose wife Yasoda had just then given birth to a daughter. Sree Krishna was left to the care of Nanda and Yashoda in Vraja and their daughter was brought to Kamsa's prison and exhibited as the eighth issue of Devaki.

Meanwhile Sree Krishna was growing up in Braja in the company of His brother, Rama. Putana, an adept in slaughtering infants, was deputed by Kamsa to kill Krishna under the pretence of giving Him suck by the profession of motherly affection. Putana was killed by the halo of the power of the Infant Krishna. The casuistical demon Trinavarta was slain. The cart for conveyance of their baggages under which Krishna had been put to bed by His parent was smashed by the kicks of the Divine Infant. He showed his mother, by opening His mouth, that the whole world was accommodated therein. He made her see that nescience served to foster love for the power of the Truth. The Infant displayed much juvenile ignorance that was promotive of love for Himself, the True Cognition. Noting the waywardness of her child the matronly milk-maid, embodying the most exquisite degree of serving zeal, bethought of binding Krishna by means of hempencords; but in vain. But the Incompassable at last submitted to be bound by the exclusive love of the affectionate Mistress of Nanda's home. Krishna broke the twin Arjuna trees in course of His childish sports, releasing the sons of a god who had been reduced to that pitiable condition. Even the gods are liable to lapse into the senseless condition of trees by addiction to evil deeds; and even trees are enabled to regain the spiritual condition by the influence of accidental association with the pure-hearted.

Krishna goes into the forest with His chums for pasturing the calves. There He slays the demon Vatsasur who represents the offences of boyhood. It is now that religious hypocrisy in the form of Vakasur brought up by Kamsa, is also killed by Krishna of pure understanding. Aghasur also is slain. He is the embodiment of the principle of cruelty. Thereupon Krishna dined out in the open on the banks of the Yamuna in the company of His chums. The four-faced Brahma stole the calves and the cow-boys. The orderer of the phenomenal world was thereupon deluded by the power of Krishna. By this episode the complete supremacy of the immaculate Sweetness of Sree Krishna over every other principle, was demonstrated, Krishna, the Beloved of the realm of the perfect cognition, is not subject to any regulative restrictions. This also was established. The opulence of Krishna suffers no curtailment even by the total destruction of all spiritual and non-spiritual realms. No one is able to set bounds to the incompassable ocean of the Power of Krishna. The evil-minded Dhenukasura, the ass of blunt judgment, was destroyed by Baladeva, the principle of the pure individual soul. The serpent Kaliya, the self of crookedness and malice, polluted the waters of the Yamuna, the mellow liquid of the spiritual principle. This wicked demon was thereupon slain by Hari. When the wild forest-fire, the evil of internal faction within the community, burst forth in all its destructive fury, Sree Krishna in Person swallowed it up. Thus the Lord is ever solicitous of the well-being of Vraja. Then Rama killed the demon Pralamba; the thief in disguise who was sent by Kamsa for stealing the children.

And when the sky began to be surcharged with the love-laden clouds heralding the advent of the showery season, the milk-maids of Vraja, who are loved by Krishna and are by their nature of loving disposition, felt intoxicated by singing the Praises of Krishna. They were deeply stirred by the strains of Krishna's flute. They now worshipped Yogamaya, who effects the union of the individual soul with Krishna, with the desire of gaining Krishna as their Lover. Those who are possessed of a strong desire to serve Krishna find that there is no adjustment regarding themselves or their relation with others that is necessary for the purpose, of which they need feel ashamed. They are no longer disposed to conceal their minds. Krishna stole away the clothes of those milk-maids at their bath to disclose the perfectly nude state which is the immaculate sporting ground of Divine love. Sree Krishna feeling hungry begged for food that had been prepared for offering at the sacrificial ceremony by the ritualistic Brahmanas. But they did not give it to Him in the pride of their superior status. Those sacrificial Brahmanas were addicted to a variety of empirical interpretations to the Scriptures inspired by the desire of attainment of worldly prosperity or by love for barren speculation which ends in the negation of all specific forms of activity. By dint of their traditional attachment to the Scriptures and the by-gone ancestors they are apt to degenerate into the mere mechanical transmitters to the rules and taboos that are found in the Scriptures. By reason of this vain attitude they are disabled to understand that the attainment of love for Godhead is the only purpose of all those rules and regulations. How can people with such mentality be induced to serve Krishna. But the loyal wives of those sacrificial Brahmans, despite the opposition of their husbands, prepared to Sree Krishna in the forest and demonstrates the truth that neither intellectual nor hereditary equipments are the cause of love for Krishna. It also lays down the right principal of conduct of conditioned souls as consisting in regarding everything with an equal eye. The Varna and ashrama institutions of man are intended for the regulation of the society of this world. If the social order is preserved it affords scope for association with pure-hearted persons and thereby offers opportunities for discussions regarding the supreme desideratum. These tend to spiritual progress. It is the possibility of attainment of love of Krishna by their means that constitutes the value of the institutions of varna and ashrama (the system of divinely ordained division of social functions and grades). There can, therefore, be no disloyalty to the purpose of the social arrangement if one gives up the observance of the social rules for the sake of Krishna Himself. As a matter of fact, on the actual attainment of the goal itself, the further pursuit of the means of its attainment becomes unnecessary for all persons who are really desirous of obtaining the goal. It is also no infringement of the purpose of the social code to allow such a person full scope for serving Krishna. In enforcing social obligations it is, therefore, necessary to consider the actual condition of individuals to whom they are to apply. Otherwise the very object of social organisation itself will be wholly frustrated.

Krishna then forbade the people to perform the sacrifice to Indra. The people were to sacrifice to Indra to please him in order that he might send them rain which was necessary for the sustenance of themselves and their flocks. This represents the principle of utilitarian work on the basis of mutual co-operation for the safety and well-being of society. Indra, being denied his offerings, in anger tried to punish the denizens of Vraja by sending down torrential rain which flooded the fields and homesteads of the people. Hari Himself protected the residents of Gokula from this peril. No harm can come to the servants of Krishna if for the purpose of serving Him even their ordinary domestic and social duties have to be given up altogether which may result in the destruction of the world. No one can kill whom Krishna Himself protects. Even the cosmic law is not binding on them. The devotees of Krishna are free from all observance of all law except that of spiritual love for the Supreme Lord. Through the realm of faith there flows the perennial stream of the holy Yamuna. The transcendental river is the liquid essence of the pure cognitive state. Nanda was in danger of being drowned in the waters of that river of joy, but was mercifully rescued by his Son's blissful Activity. Thereafter Sree Krishna showed the cow-herds His Own Divine Majesty in the realm of the Absolute. The Divine Majesty is always latent in the Personality of Krishna. The Supreme Lord Who is the Beloved of the eternally free souls and their following then performed the Pastime of the Dance in the circle of His beloved. This Pastime manifests the principle of working of Divine love. Lord Hari, out of His mercy, danced in the Rasa circle formed by the milk-maids. He promoted the growth of their highest love by separation, by His subsequent disappearance vocabulary at our command only in terms of the sexual relationship. The reason of this is that there is a real correspondence between the two—the sexual relationship of this world being the unwholesome reflection of the spiritual process in the mirror of this material world. The analogy is, however, bound to prove misleading if due allowance is not made for the radical difference between the substantive nature and location of the two processes. The principle of mundane amour resting on that of physical sex can never be divested of its innate grossness and unwholesomeness. The grossness of worldly enjoyment as well as the sensuousness and frailties of both the object and subject of sexual passion are responsible for the imperfections of mundane amour. The Rasa Pastime is absolutely free from any touch of unwholesomeness, all the conditions being favourable for the promotion of the most perfect bliss by universal association in the rites of the most exquisite love. No apprehension of lewdness or sexuality must, therefore, be allowed to stand in the way of the exhaustive consideration of this highest and all important spiritual subject.

The stellar system may supply a poor analogy of the Rasa Pastime. Just as the Suns surrounded by their respective circling groups of satellites dance round the Polar Star in the form of a circle, in the same manner, all individual souls eternally enact their harmonious dance in their orbits round Sree Krishna as the centre of the system, sustained therein by the force of Sree Krishna's overpowering attraction for all spiritual entities. In this vast round of the Rasa dance, Sree Krishna is the only Male and all individual souls are females. In the realm of the Absolute Sree Krishna is the sole Master and Enjoyer. All the rest belong to the category of servants and objects of enjoyment that minister to His sole pleasure. The Rasa Pastime is capable of being analogically described in the

The circular amorous dance or the Rasa Pastime expresses the manifestation of Divine love in its perfectly unobscured form. The highest realisation of this process consists in this, that in it Srimati Radhika, the highest object of all reverence of all souls being that supreme blissful Power of Krishna who expresses His specifically luscious quality, appears in person in the circle of the dancers, in all her most exquisite charm encompassed by the bhavas, her suite of the most confidential female friends. At the close of the Pastime of the circular dance there follows naturally sporting in the liquid current of the Yamuna, the cognitive essence itself dissolving into liquid bliss on the full manifestation of love.

Nanda who is the personality of spiritual bliss, is swallowed up by the boa-constrictor of the joy of the liberation of merging in the Divine Essence. Krishna, the Protector of His devotees, thereupon rescues him from his peril. The stubborn demon Sankhachuda, who sets fame over every other principle is then slain in an attempt to create disturbance in Braja. Kashi, the demon of the vanity of political ambition, is next slain by Krishna, the foe of Kamsa, when the Lord finally made up His mind to return to Mathura.

Akrura, the contriver of all occurrences, then conducted Hari to Mathura. On His arrival there, the Lord killed the sturdy wrestlers and then also slew Kamsa himself with his brother. On the departure from this world of atheism in the person of Kamsa, Sree Krishna bestowed the charge of the earth on Kamsa's progenitor, Ugrasena, who embodies the principle of independence. The twin widows of Kamsa thereupon repaired to their parent, the King of Magadha, the embodiment of elevationism, and submitted to him their sorrows of the state of widowhood. On receiving this tidings, the King of Magadha set out at the head of his armies and fought seventeen mighty battles about the city of Mathura, but was every time defeated by Hari. When Jarasandha at last beleaguered Mathura for the eighteenth time, Krishna retired to His own Capital of Dwarakapuri. The real significance of this episode consists in this, that the potency of the principle of elevationism is constituted of the eighteen categories of the ten personal lustrations from birth to death, the four– fold classification according to aptitude and the four–fold division into stages of the individual life (Varnashrama). When the seat of knowledge is finally captured by these eighteen categories by fostering renunciation of the world, there is manifested the disappearance of Godhead on the consequent emergence of the longing for pseudo–liberation.

While Krishna abode in Mathura, He placed Himself under the charge of the teacher of religion, and after completing His study of all the Shastras, restored the life of His preceptor's dead son. There is no necessity in the case of the Krishna, Who is naturally perfect, to endeavour for the acquisition of knowledge. The episode indicates that the intellect of man makes progress in erudition during its stage of residence at Mathura which is the Academy of all learning.

Those who covet the fruits of their activities also cherish attachment to Krishna. Their attachment to the Lord is charged with impurity. The attachment by degrees grows into the well purified unadulterated liking for Krishna. This salutary truth is manifested in the case of Kubja's love for Krishna during His sojourn in Mathura. Uddhava went to Gokula to be acquainted fully with the loving state of Braja which is superior to all forms of devotion.

The Srutis affirm that the Pandavas represent the Branch of righteousness, while the Kauravas are the offshoots of unrighteous conduct. For this reason, Sree Krishna is verily the Friend and Preserver of the family of the Pandavas. In order to establish the well–being of righteousness and for the deliverance of sinners, the Lord deputed Akrura to Hastina as His messenger.

Jarasandha, the champion of unwholesome fruitive activity, beleaguered the beautiful city of Mathura, the abode of the knowledge of the undifferentiated Greatness and Nourishing Quality of the Divinity (Brahman). Here the point that is established is that fruitive activity itself is of two kinds. One variety is directed to the supreme desideratum itself. By such activities there is growth of knowledge and by their conjunction liking for Godhead is developed. This conjunction of activity, knowledge and the principle of Divine service, is also variously designated as the process of karma, jnana or bhakti. Those who possess real insight, call it the method of Harmony. But there is a different variety of activity which is directed to a selfish purpose. This form is known as karma–kanda, to distinguish it from the process of what is termed karmayoga. This selfish variety of fruitive activity often gives rise to apprehension regarding the existence and attainment of Godhead and promotes their union with atheism by wedding them with the latter. It is this unwholesome variety of worldly activity that in the person of Jarasandha invaded the City of Mathura.

Thereupon, Sree Krishna, of His own accord, conducted His friends, viz., the community of His devotees, to the city of Dwaraka. This is the process of the service of Godhead under the regulative principles of the Divine Dispensation. The Yavana king belonged to a society that was not regulated by the Divinely ordained principle of class and stage (Varnashrama). Being thus addicted to ignorant utilitarian activity and relying on the resources of such activity and being thereby opposed also to the path of liberation by empiric knowledge, the Yavana king scornfully kicked king Muchukunda representing aptitude for the path of liberation. The Yavana king was thereupon destroyed by the superior power of king Muchukunda. Hari then repaired to Dwaraka, the seat of the Knowledge of the Divinity in all His Majesty. There the Lord wedded Rukmini Devi, Embodiment of the Supreme Majesty of Godhead. Pradyumna, God of love, was no sooner born from the womb of Rukmini, then he was stolen away by Sambara, embodiment of the deluding Energy. The body of the god of love had formerly been burnt up by Mahadeva, representing barren asceticism. At that period Rati Devi, consort of Kama, God of love, had sought refuge in the demoniac propensity for the lust of the flesh. Kamadeva of great prowess, being now instructed by his consort, Ratidevi, killed Sambara representing the pleasures of the flesh and made his way to Dwaraka. By way of restoration of the gem, Hari now wedded the auspicious Satyabhama, who is part and parcel of Sree Radhika, the fullness of the quality of extreme loving sensitiveness. Rukmini with seven other ladies were the reflections of the Power of the most delicious and the very highest Divine love, appearing in the conditions of Splendor and Majesty. They became the chief Queens of the Royal Home of Krishna at Dwaraka. At Dwaraka Sree Krishna's off spring and relations multiplied space. This point to an essential difference that distinguishes reverential worship rendered to the Majesty of Godhead from that loving devotion. The former Naturally tends to expand by the process of division. The latter is indivisible. It is not possible to deal with this matter in greater detail at this place. But the subject requires to be most carefully treated in a separate treatise.

A certain demon proclaiming himself to be Vasudeva preached the doctrine of undifferentiated Monism, at Kashi, the abode of Hara. The lord of Roma, Who is Godhead Himself, after slaying that demon, burnt Kashidham, the seat of the corrupt opinion. The lord seated on the back of Garuda slew the demon Bhauma who was filled with the notion that the things of this material universe are Godhead. This is idolatry. The worship of the Holy Divine Archa is not to be confounded with the worship of idols. The latter consists of the two co-ordinated varieties of pseudo- worship of Nature in its positive and negative aspects. Godhead rescued the victims of idolatry by destroying the faith in the undifferentiated Brahman which is the subtle and more dangerous one of the two forms of idolatry and by accepting the worship of their quondam victims. By killing Jarasandha by the agency of Bheema, the Lord rescued many a king from the bondage of elevationism (worship of pure worldly utility). He accepted unrestricted worship at the sacrifice of Yudhisthira and cut off the head of Shishupala who was a personal enemy of Himself. At the battle of Kurukshetra, Krishna afforded relief to the Earth groaning under her burden and, having re-established the pure religion, saved spiritual society.

On His arrival at Dwaraka the sage Narada was filled with great wonder on beholding the lord appearing at one and the same time in the homes of all his different Consorts. The fact that Godhead is fully present every where and in every soul, is much more wonderful than that He is One and pervades the whole universe by His Divine Essence. The demon Dantavakra, embodiment of barbarism, was slain. The Lord bestowed on Arjuna, His brother by the religion-bond, the hand of His Own sister Subhadra in marriage. The Lord saved the city of Dwaraka by destroying the efforts of Salwa backed by the knowledge of the deceptive physical sciences. The beautiful products of material sciences are nothing in comparison with the Doings of the Lord. King Nriga was undergoing the punishment of unrighteous conduct in the form of a reptile. He was delivered from the condition of a reptile by the mercy of the Lord.

Hari ate the raw rice given Him by the Brahmana Sudama, out of love. The Lord is not so pleased with the offering of even sweetmeats that are made by the pashandas (unbelievers). The monkey Dibida representing un-Godly carnival, was killed by Baladeva embodying the essence of the pure soul full of the love of Krishna. Baladeva performed the Pastime of love in the company of milkmaids who were the different substantive aspects of the pure soul, in a great forest in which there was a city made of the cognitive principle of the pure soul.

These Divine pastimes are enacted in the hearts of the devotees. They disappear with the termination of the earthly sojourn of the devotees, just as the show ceases on the actor leaving the stage. The Will of Krishna, in the form of Time, having made the Yadavas, pure spiritual states, desist from their Pastimes, overwhelmed the Divine Abode of Dwaraka by the waves of the ocean of oblivion. The self-same will of Krishna, Who is the Source of ceaseless joy, made the devotees give up their bodies, worn out by decay, and by fomenting mutual discord, at Prabhas representing the knowledge of the Divinity. The aptitude towards Krishna that dwells in the hearts of the devotees attain to its pristine glory by its conjunction with the pure soul on his severance from the physical body. It continues its full manifestation in Goloka which is the highest portion of the realm of Vaikuntha.

These activities of Sree Krishna never cease in Goloka, which is the innermost Sphere of the realm of the Absolute and the Abode of the Supreme Lord in the manifest unobstructed enjoyment of His own pure Nature. They are available to the conditioned soul in terms of the categories of time, space and agent, in proportion to the realisation of his proper spiritual nature. This realisation may remain confirmed to the detached relationship of the individual soul to the Lord or expand into the form of a social function. It is this latter form that made its appearance in the pure consciousness of Narada and Vyasa in the cycle of the Dvapara Age. The spiritual consciousness is, therefore, susceptible of manifesting its appearance in terms of the activities of individuals and also of those of the community of pure souls. With the growth of the social instinct the second form of manifestation makes its appearance in due course.

Regarded from the point of view of the associated spiritual consciousness Hari is realised as fully manifest in Mathura, more fully in Dwaraka, and most fully of all the Vraja. The degree of purity of its blissfulness, is the measure of the Plenitude of the Divine Manifestation. Judged by this standard, the joyous activities of Vraja form the highest platform of the spiritual realisation of the individual soul. In this most blissful experience Krishna is ultimately realisable as the sweetheart of the spiritual milkmaids, the very highest point in the process being the Blissful Activities of Krishna as the Beloved consort of Sree Radhika.

Those who have been enabled to taste the sweetness of these spiritual realisations, are fully established in the eternal function of the pure soul. It is not possible to elaborate the quality of the liquid sweetness of the process by means of general terms. It is for this reason that the poetic sages have expounded the Truth of the Activities of Krishna by their detailed concrete descriptions. The Supreme bliss is obtainable only by the most solicitous service of Krishna. It is not possible to attain real and abiding satisfaction by the contemplation of Godhead as the regulator and Companion of the individual soul, or by the realisation of the Greatness of the undifferentiated Divinity by the process of empiric Knowledge, or by worshipping Godhead by the method of the Sacrifice (yajna) as the Giver of the fruits of utilitarian activities.

3. THE HIGHEST WORSHIP OF SREE KRISHNA

The Method of the worship of Krishna at Braja is the highest of all forms of worship. The worships that are practised at Mathura and Dwaraka, respectively, own their value in augmenting the exquisiteness of the Pastimes of Braja. It is our purpose, therefore, to consider the worship of Braja in some detail at this place. The discussion of the worship of Braja should not be withheld from the cognisance of the conditioned souls, as by means of this alone they can be really benefited. It is only when the conditioned soul is in the position to realise the nature of the mode of worship at Braja that he is freed from the fear of death, by obtaining the life eternal.

The subject of the worship of Vraja may be conveniently considered by the related methods of synthetic or positive and analytic or negative treatment. Synthetically regarded the worship resolves itself into a system of relationship divisible in their turn into five distinct grades. These grades are called respectively the tranquilised state, condition of the servant, that of a friends, that of parents and finally that of consorts, in the order of increasing excellence from the point of view of the detached observer.

In Vraja certain denizens always regard themselves as the servants of the Prince of Braja. Others consider themselves as His fortunate friends. Sridama, Subala, etc., possess the pure friendly disposition. Yasoda, Rohini, Nanda are actuated by undiluted parental affection. The consorts, with Sree Radhika as their head, regard themselves exclusively as the promoters of Krishna's onerous love in the dancing circle. Nowhere else except in Vrindavana can there exist these dispositions of pure exclusive relationships with Krishna. It is for this reason that pure souls feel an instinctive attraction for the charming Vrindavana. In Vrindavana the Scriptures agree in declaring the amorous disposition to be the highest of all. By the principle that Godhead happens to be the soul Enjoyer of every entity, the individual soul is proved to be eternally ministrant to the pleasure of Sree Krishna. In Braja, however, there was no dividing limitations as between Krishna and the serving individual souls like those that separate the master from the servant in this world. On the contrary there always prevails indivisible supreme bliss in the visible form of these all-loving relationships. The consideration of loving separation also finds a place there for the sole purpose of augmenting still further the happiness of loving union. This blissful disposition, which belongs only to Vraja, is realised in its gradual development by the careful preliminary service of relationships that obtain outside Braja in Mathura and Dwaraka.

The conditioned soul is eligible for service of Godhead only under the strictest regulations. At a subsequent stage, on the appearance of attachment for Krishna, the disposition of Vraja gradually manifests itself. At this latter stage Krishna is served internally with loving devotion, but outward regard is displayed towards the regulative social institutions. This duplicity of disposition and practice is known as Parakiya (relationship as to a paramour); because the condition of the devotee, resembles that of the wedded wife who may have unfortunately contracted a passion, which is not to be indulged, for a person other than her lawful husband. In these circumstances, the really loyal wife is under the painful necessity, from an innate sense of duty, of showing all outward regard that is due to her husband and of observing scrupulously the domestic and social regulations, although she can no longer feel for them any real internal attachment.

The apparently unintelligible and insincere attachment to society of the highest class of devotees can not avoid being misunderstood by those comparatively advanced pupils who are in the position to appreciate the beneficent nature of the Scriptural regulations for the promotion of the spiritual well-being of society. But the highest class of devotees do not modify their method out of deference to adverse criticisms even of such bona fide objectors. Those novices who are not well advanced on the spiritual path are still less able to understand the ways of loving devotion which actuate the best devotees.

There is a regular gradation in the growing manifestation of the pure spontaneous attachment for Krishna. The growth of such attachment is capable of being divided into three distinct stages in order of increasing excellence, viz., (1) the love of conditioned souls adulterated by endeavour to follow the Scriptural regulations, (2) Love for Krishna on the Absolute plane but wanting in the quality of intimacy, and finally (3) perfect love for Krishna free from all extraneous dross or impurities. The limit of pure love for Krishna in Sree Radhika, the Counter-Whole of Sree Krishna himself, is termed mahabhava (the loving condition major). Different from the specific nature of mahabhava, but closely approximating the same, there is found the eightfold assemblage of the bhavas in hering in the pure individual souls. They are the eight Sakhis (The Cherami) of Sree Radhika. The bhavas of worshippers adjoining those of the sakhis, are the manjaris (spray). The worshipper should in the first instance seek the protection of the manjari whose bhava corresponds to the worshipper's own nature. He is, thereafter, to offer his submission to the sakhi who is served by the manjari. It he obtains the mercy of the sakhi he will be enabled thereby to attain to the refuge of the feet of Sree Radhika. In the circle of the great Rasa-dance the worshippers, manjari, sakhi and Srimati Radhika, occupy positions that are very much analogous to those of the satellite, planet, the sun and the polar star respectively in the mundane stellar system. In the process of augmentation of bhava the promotion of the enjoyment of Krishna becomes available for jeevas who have attained to the quality of mahabhava.

There are eighteen obstacles in the way of this exquisite consummation of bhava which belongs to Vraja. Those are apt to pollute pure love and give rise to offence. It is imperatively necessary to consider the nature of these obstacles by way of the negative treatment of Vraja–bhava, which should supplement and help to prevent any grave misconception of the position exposition.

The FIRST OBSTACLE is one's encounter with the pseudo–Guru. The bad Guru is no other than the demoness Putana who offers the suck of her poisoned breast for killing new–born Krishna in the purified cognition of the soul. Worshippers who have already obtained admission to the path of loving devotion should ponder on the appearance of Putana in Braja and be thereby enabled to remove the initial obstacle, viz., the bad spiritual guide. The Guru is either the inner or outwardly manifested spiritual Guide. The soul in the state of perfect concentration in the absolute samadhi, is the Guru of the soul. In other words a person who places himself under the guidance of the reasoning faculty and learns from it the method of worship, thereby gives the direction of himself to the pseudo–Guru.

The dallings of the empiric assertive rational faculty with the eternal religion by the offer of her support for its futherance, are comparable to the artifices of Putana. Worshippers on the path of loving spiritual devotion owe it to themselves to discard all assertive help of reasoning in the attempt to realise the nature of the summum bonum, and seek instead the exclusive guidance of spiritual concentration. The human being from whom one learns about the substantive nature of worship of Godhead is the outwardly manifested Guru. The bone fide Guru is the person who after realising the true nature of the endeavour of loving devotion, instructs the submissive disciple (sishya) regarding the summum bonum, taking into due consideration the specific requirement of the latter. One who presumes to instruct others without himself realising the nature of the course of loving devotion, or who, although himself cognizant of the nature of path of devotion, instructs the disciple regarding the same without due consideration of the aptitude of the latter, is the pseudo–Guru. It is necessary by all means to renounce the guidance of such a Guru.

The SECOND OBSTACLE on the path of loving devotion, in the order of appearance, is wrong speculative controversy. In Braja, i.e., on the path of spontaneous love, it is difficult for the proper spiritual state to appear until the demon Trunavarta, embodiment of disloyal controversy, has been killed outright. All philosophical speculation, all sceptical arguments of the pseudo–buddhists and empiric rationalists, are obstructive of the growth of the disposition of Braja, in the manner of the demon Trunavarta.

The THIRD OBSTACLE is represented by the laden cart. The injunctions of the Scriptures are apt to be followed in their literal sense without due regard to their meaning. This carrying of the lumber of Scriptural learning tends to smother the infant Krishna and requires to be smashed with His help at the very outset, if the object of the novice be to realise the state of natural love for Krishna. The mechanical pedant has no access to Braja. The victims of the pseudo–Guru are liable to fall into this plight by being prematurely initiated into the process of the state of a female confidante engaged in service as of the manjari. Such victims do not realise their misfortune by reason of their mechanical aptitude which is exploited by the pseudo-Guru to their utter ruin. Those who follow the advice of such a Guru in their worship, quickly fall away from the path of devotion. The amorous mood in such cases can never attain to the depth of the truly spiritual process. But this is never realisable by the parties themselves.

The FOURTH OBSTACLE "on the path" is termed juvenile offence. Persons who are indifferent to the spiritual guide are thereby rendered subject to the inconsistencies and frailties that beset naughty children. This enemy of the infant Krishna is known as Vatsasura. The novice must beware of the guiles of this malicious demon and try to get rid of him at an early stage.

The FIFTH OBSTACLE make its appearance on the path of the theists (Vaishnavas) in the form of the demon Baka. He is an exceedingly cunning fellow embodying the principle of religious hypocrisy. It is this obstacle which is meant by the offence against the Holy Name. Those who, falling into the clutches of the pseudo-Guru by neglect of the proper exercise of their judgement, deceive themselves by consenting to adopt the higher grade of worship to which they are not entitled, fall under category of the third class of offenders described above. But those who, even after becoming aware of their unfitness, persists in practising the higher method of worship, hoping thereby to gain honor and wealth for themselves, commit the offence of religious hypocrisy. Until this defect is discarded, there can be no appearance of the principle of spontaneous liking for Krishna. These hypocrites only deceive the world by the display of the external insignia of sectarianism and pseudo-renunciation. Those persons who choose to show their regard for those arrogant persons in consideration of the external marks exhibited by them, failing to attain the favour of Krishna, only prove to be thorns in the sides of the people of this world. But it should also be borne in mind in this connection that one should be careful not to allow his caution in regard to the abuse of external signs to betray him into maligning a person wearing the respective external marks of the theistic communities, whose conduct may also embody the inner significance of those symbols. It is, therefore, the constant duty of the Vaishnavas, by being neutral as regards external marks, to seek for indications of inner love for Godhead and to associate with and serve the sadhus whom they may be fortunate enough to recognize by this test.

The SIXTH OBSTACLE has the forms of cruelty and violence. This is the demon Aghasura. It is possible for love to suffer gradual decay by the absence of kindness for all animate beings. This must be so in as much as kindness can never be a different principle from love for Krishna. There is no substantive difference between love for Krishna and kindness to individual souls.

The SEVENTH OBSTACLE assumes the form of infatuation in the shape of an apparently zealous study of the Vedas (scholasticism). Excessive and exclusive attention to the propositions of the diverse polemical schools and their conclusions and modes of argument, tend to lessen the poignancy and clearness of the vision of the truths obtained in the exclusive mood. Even Brahma himself doubted the truth of the real nature of Krishna by reason of such infatuation.

The EIGHTH OBSTACLE is offered by the demon Dhenukasura in the form of the ass, who tries to prevent the palm fruits, which he is himself unable to taste, from being enjoyed by others. The principles of Vaishnavism require for their due appreciation the most penetrating judgment. Persons possessed of a blunted understanding are exposed to this grave plight. The Vaishnava religion is indivisible. There is no scope in it for sectarian narrownesses. He is the blunt-headed fool who is liable to misconceive the true nature of the Vaishnava community by supposing it to be a sect distinct from other sects of this world. As a matter of fact thick-headed persons are themselves unable to understand the teaching of the spiritual works that have been penned by the former Acharyas of the community and they are also apt to actively prevent others from having access to those works. This is specially the case with those devotees possessed of a stunted judgment who, being mechanically addicted to the regulations, have no inclination to strive for the attainment of the status. But the Vaishnava religion holds within itself the prospect of infinite progressive advance. Those muddy-headed persons, who choose to remain confined within the literal meaning of the narrow limits of the Scriptural regulations, being thereby led to neglect the unconventional path of spontaneous love for Godhead, soon become indistinguishable from persons who are wedded to the cult of fruitive mundane activities. It is, therefore, never possible to make any progress in the Vaishnava religion till Dhenukasura in the form of the ass has been killed.

The NINTH OBSTACLE is offered by the conduct of those weak almindeed persons who take to the unconventional method of service for the purpose of gratifying their senses which it is not possible to do under the method of regulated service. This is the conduct of the demon Vrishabhasura. These persons will be killed by the burning quality of Krishna's personality. The example of such offensive conduct by no means rare among those hypocrites who make a parade of their religiosity.

The TENTH OBSTACLE is offered by the cunning serpent Kaliya, representing implacable brutality and treachery, who is apt to pour his deadly poison into the melted souls of the Vaishnavas represented by the liquid current of the Yamuna. The danger threatened by this fatal poison can be got rid of by the Grace of Krishna.

The ELEVENTH OBSTACLE has the form of intra-communal discord. It is comparable to the wild forest-fire. The disposition bred by narrow sectarianism rendering its victim unable to recognize as Vaishnava one who does to assume the external marks of the theistic community, multiplies the obstacles on the path of attainment of the bone fide Guru and the actual companionship of the true devotees. It is, therefore, obligatory on all persons to destroy the forest fire by all means.

The TWELFTH OBSTACLE on the path of loving devotion is offered by the demon Pralambasura who is prone to commit theft against one's own self. The danger is represented specifically by the theory of the Brahman of the Mayavadins who advocate merging in the Brahman as the summum bonum and declare the self-realise condition to be one that is absolutely devoid of any distinguishable feature. The system is characterized by the defect of utter absence of the principle of bliss either for the individual soul or for the Brahman who is imagined to be perfectly unconcerned about anything. Persistent reflection on those lines gives rise to doubt regarding the very existence of the Brahman and produces conviction in the non-existence of the individual soul and the elaborate concoction of a new science to account for the glaring discrepancies of the Acharyas and proving the utter futility of all human thought and activity. This mode of thinking sometimes find its way among the Vaishnavas and creates a good deal of trouble in the form of an advocacy of self-destruction.

The THIRTEENTH OBSTACLE takes the form of the worship of Indra and other lesser Devatas in the hope of gaining worldly advantages. This prevents the growth of love for Godhead and requires to be avoided with great care.

The offences of theft of another's property and telling of lies are the FOURTEENTH OBSTACLE. These are represented by the demon Byomasura. They stand in the way of one's attaining to perfect love for Krishna and give a good deal of trouble to the novice.

The FIFTEENTH OBSTACLE arises from addiction to intoxicants. In Vraja the bliss, that is experienced by the individual soul on his being freed from the troubles of mind and body, is termed Nanda. There are found persons who betake to the use of intoxicants supposing such habit to be promotive of the above form of bliss. This quickly causes the serious drawback of self-forgetfulness. The predicament is represented by Nanda's sojourn to the abode of Varuna. This grave offence must be avoided by all means. Those persons who have attained the mode of loving devotion of Vraja must, on no account, use any form of intoxicant.

The SIXTEENTH OBSTACLE has the form of a proneness to acquisition of fame and honour, and desire for sensuous enjoyment, under the plea of devotion. This is the demon Shankhachuda. Those persons who covet fame as the goal of their activities, commit thereby the offence of arrogance. It is necessary for Vaishnavas to be very careful about this matter.

The next SEVENTEENTH OBSTACLE is offered by the growing sense of the blissfulness that tends to increase by the cultivation of the habit or worship till it assumes the form of self-suppression approximating the state of merging with the Object of worship. This mood for merging with the Divinity is a species of serpent that swallows up Nanda. The novice should endeavour to be a bone fide servant of Godhead by carefully avoiding this fatal temptation.

The EIGHTEENTH OBSTACLE is the demon Kesi who have the form of the horse. As the quality of devotion of the novice undergoes swift development, the sense of one's own superiority makes its appearance. If the novice gives a free scope to the speculation regarding his own excellence, it is apt to lead him into the dire offence of disrespect for the Divinity causing his fall. It is, therefore, necessary that such wicked sentiment may never arise in the heart of the Vaishnava. Even after devotion has been fully developed the quality of sincere humility should never be absent from the conduct of the Vaishnava. As the contrary of this tends to happen, it becomes necessary for Krishna to kill the demon Kesi.

Those who are in the intellectual condition are required to free themselves from those offences which are to be found in the sphere of Mathura. Those who have a taste for fruitive activity must be on their guard against the offences that are noticeable at Dwaraka. The devotees should dive completely into love for Sree Krishna by avoiding all those obstacles as they are apt to breed trouble in Vraja.

The eternal Truth has been made manifest to this world by Sree Vyasadeva in the narrative of the Pastimes of Vraja. But the real nature of the Truth cannot be realised by means of knowledge born of the senses. The knowledge is spontaneously experienced by the pure essence of the individual soul in his exclusive state (samadhi). There are, however, pseudo-exclusive states which must not be confounded with the spiritual condition proper in which there is no presence of any mundane element. In this state the Truth becomes self-manifest by the operation of the spiritual Potency of Divinity. This phenomenal world is the distorted unwholesome reflection of the transcendental Realm. It is for this reason that there is a correspondence between phenomena of this world and the events of the spiritual plane. The substantive reality in the forms of the Name, Form, Quality, Pastimes and the distinctive personality of His Paraphernalia make their appearance to the soul in his exclusive state (samadhi).

It is necessary to keep all doubting speculations at their proper distance, if the clear vision is to be maintained in tact. The least intrusion of such disturbing element blurs and obliterates the spiritual perception. On the gradual subsidence of mundane predilections, the transcendental Truth makes His Appearance by corresponding stages, finally attaining His full concrete manifestation in the Pastimes of Sree Krishna in Sree Vrindavana. If the elimination of sensuous speculation is not attended to with scrupulous care, the progress is towards abstraction and absence of distinctive features in such realisation.

If it be our good fortune to attain to the sight of Brindabana, which is full of every object of beauty, we would be in a position, with the fullest assurance of the truth of our realisation, to describe, by means of the admittedly imperfect instrument of mundane vocabulary that we happen to possess for the purpose, the most wonderful and blissful Form of Sree Krishna in Sree Brindavana. Such description should not be supposed to be derived from our experience of this world. It is the outcome of direct perception of the Substantive Reality of Whom the rational phenomena of this world are the distorted unwholesome shadow. No realisation of the substance can be reached by the logical manipulation of confused speculation regarding His shadow whose only function is to mislead to perfection.

The Beauty of Sree Krishna, described by those who have been fortunate enough to realise the vision, is narrated below for the information of the reader; but the meaning of the description cannot be grasped except in the perfect exclusive state which is wholly free from any speculation activity born of mind.

The Figure of Godhead, fulfilling the requirements of the spiritual principle, is like that of man. His Beauty seems to be represented by the reflect correspondence of the inexpressibly cooling, soft, yellowish, blue that is noticeable in the gem known as "Indranilamani" of this world, or is like unto the impression of the first appearance of the rainbearing clouds at the close of the season of protracted drought. A certain combination of the triple potency representing respectively the principles of existence consciousness and bliss, appears to be disposed in an indivisibly oblique manner about the Beauty of Divinity. His Twin Eyes, focussing all the supremely jubilant brightness of the realm of perfect living consciousness, set forth the Beauty of His incomparable Figure. In the material world those Eyes may be found reflected in the beauty of the fresh-blown lotus. On the Head of Godhead's own Divine Form, there is observed a certain distinctive feature similar to which there is to be found nothing at all in all our previous experience. All that can be said is that tail of the peacock is probably the reflection in this world of this inexpressible peculiarity. A certain garland of flowers that have the easy perfection of the soul, sets forth the beauty of the incomparable neck of Sree Krishna. The beauty of the natural flowers of the forest seems to be a reflection of this particular feature, The Ways of Sree Krishna is encompassed by knowledge that is manifested by the spiritual cognitive principle representing the energy of the soul. It seems that the flash of lightning skirting the fringe of a massive assemblage of fresh, rain-bearing clouds, reflects the beauty of the girdle round the Waist of Sree Krishna. The kaustubha and other precious gems and ornaments appertaining to the soul disseminate the beauty of the Person of Sree Krishna. The spiritual agency by whose means the ravishing call, that has power to draw the soul, manifests itself, is observed in the figure of a flute. The flutes and other instruments of this world that serve to carry the musical notes of every variety may be the reflection of the Divine Flute. The inconceivable Figure of Sree Krishna is observed to be placed under the Kadamba tree, embodying spiritual horripilation, on the grassy woodlands sloping to the water's edge of the Yamuna of the liquid spiritual essence. It is by means of these spiritual symbols that the beloved Son of Nanda, Sree Krishna, Lord of the spiritual Realm, makes His Appearance to the view of the Vaishnavas in their exclusive state (samadhi).

But persons who are unfortunately blinded by empiric knowledge are unable to find the Form and distinctive concrete aspects of the spiritual existence even when the realm of the Absolute is actually brought before their eyes in the exclusive state.

Sree Krishnachandra, in this manner, is realised, in the exclusive state, as maddening the realm of pure souls by the strains of His Flute and attracting the minds of the milkmaids (gopees). How may those who are infatuated by the vanities of high lineage, etc., attain to Krishna? Persons who are free from all worldly vanities are alone eligible for being attracted by Krishna. Those who understand the nature of spiritual existence, know that sadhus fall into two clearly defined groups, viz., (1) Those who have attained to the state of the gopees, and (2) those who follow in the footsteps of such self-realised souls. The former are called siddhas and the latter sadhakas.

The graduated process of spiritual endeavour of those persons who have realised the state of gopees, is as follows. In the course of their sojourn in this world, the music of Krishna's Flute enters the ear of a few exceptionally fortunate persons. The sweetness of the music exercising its attraction on such persons makes them fit for the highest spiritual status. This quickly dissipates their male disposition which prompts people of this world to seek for their own sensuous enjoyment. On the complete disappearance of the male disposition there is aroused another temperament characterized by a spontaneous preference for following the guidance of those who are possessed of the mellow quality of spiritual consorhood. In this position the femininity of the soul in the form of capacity for ministering to the enjoyment of Godhead, manifests itself. The expectation of consorhood becomes so strong that the soul under its influence develops all the external symptoms of the state of madness.

The first experience arises in the form of hearing about the specific Figure (Rupa) of Krishna. This process falls into two parts. The first of these is of the nature of spontaneous realisation of Krishna's attraction in the sphere of one's ordinary cognitive activity. This event is called the hearing of the music of Krishna's Flute. This is followed by the hankering for listening to the narrative regarding Krishna from those who have had an actual sight. This form of listening to the Scriptural narratives of Krishna from the lips of sadhus, also comes under this head. The realisation of Krishna that is attainable by such hearing and study, forms the division of spiritual endeavour which is called "listening to the Quality of Krishna". The next is seeing the delineation of Krishna as in a picture. This is effected by the realisation of the Purpose and Supreme Skill of Krishna in the design of this material world. He who has been enabled to realise that the material world is the distorted perverted reflection of the realm of the Absolute, is said to have had a sight of Krishna as in a picture. In other words, the preliminary stages of the state of devotion to Vishnu, or Vaishnava, accrues in the three different ways of spontaneous realisation of its desirability, realisation of the nature of Divine worship by the study of the Scriptures and actual personal experience of the nature of Godhead from a consideration of the wonderful organisation of the material Universe.

Unadulterated faith in Krishna as the source of the loving devotion of Braja is the preliminary stage in the gradual appearance of the process of spiritual love. The appearance of this form of unalloyed faith is followed by attainment of close association with the sadhus, who are denizens of spiritual Vraja. Such association is the cause of the attainment of Krishna. Those persons who have the rare fortune of gaining the companionship of sadhus in course of their further progress on the path of spiritual endeavour, which is comparable to the stealthy approach of the sweetheart to the secret place of meeting with her lover, may perchance realise at some rare moment, their auspicious meeting with the Supreme Object of their love on the water's edge of the Yamuna, the Stream of the liquid essence of the Pure soul

By meeting with Krishna, the transcendental bliss of Divine communion (parananda) ensues which at once causes all worldly felicity previously experienced to appear as infinitesimally trivial in comparison. The supreme bliss grows apace in the heart, as the day pass, towards the most dearly loved ever-new Form of the Soul of all souls, The root of spiritual love is that attachment of the individual soul of spiritual love is that attachment of the individual soul who is constituted of the principles of pure cognition and bliss, towards the concentrated Divine Form of All-existence, All-cognition and All-bliss which is perfect in itself and natural for the soul.

This attachment (rati) under the favoring impulse of the principle of mellowness (rasa) undergoes development by taking on the form of rasa.

Rasa is of twelve kinds. The five rasas of santa (equanimity), dasya (service), sakhya (friendship), Vatsalya (parental affection) and madhura (consorhood) are the five primary varieties. These five are of the nature of substantive relationship. Veera (heroic), karuna (tender), raudra (keen), hasya (laughter), bhayanaka (terrible), bibhatsa (abnormal) and adbhuta (wonderful), are the seven secondary rasas. These arise spontaneously from the establishment of relationship. Prior to the establishment of actual relationship there is no possibility of external manifestation of attachment. These specific visible manifestation are all secondary rasas.

Even after attachment (rati) has assumed the form of rasa (liquid mellowness, (it does not attain to its full resplendence except in combination with the four samagris (ingredients), viz., (a) Vibhava (particular state), (b) anubhava (perception), (c) sattvika (natural indication of emotion), and (d) Vyabhichari (transitory feeling). Further (a) Bibhaba is of two kinds, viz . (1) alambana (cause), and (2) uddipana (aggravating agent). Alambana is again of two kinds, viz., (1) Krishna and (2) devotee of Krishna. The good qualities and distinctive natures of Krishna and His devotees constitute the division of uddipana (i.e., excitant of attachment of rati). (b) Anubhava is of three kinds, viz., (1) alankara, (2) udbhasvara and (3) vachika. Alankara, such as hava, bhava, etc., in all twenty in numbers, has been classified into the three divisions of (1) angaja (of the body), (2) ayatnaja (spontaneous), and (3) swabhavaja (of the individual nature of a person). Sighing, dancing, rolling on the ground and such other activities are called udbhasvara. Alapa, Vilapa, etc., are the twelve vachika anubhavas. Stupefaction, sweating etc., are the eight sattvika Vikaras. Nirveda, etc., are the thirty-three Vyabhichari bhavas. The rasa and all its ingredients (samagri) have a constant bearing on the development of rati till it reaches the stage of mahabhava.

The attachment (rati) for Krishna is sthayibhava (the permanent state) or the rasa (mellow liquid principle) of bhakti (devotion). In conditioned souls the principle manifests itself as bhakti or service. In the free state it appears as the principle of love in the realm of the Absolute (Vaikuntha). Attachment for Krishna develops up to the stage of Mahabhava. The process of development by the methods of identification with primary and secondary rasa and by the help of ingredients enriching the variety of its manifestations, constitutes the eternal treasure of the soul in her state of perfect spiritual freedom. It is this which is also the object of endeavour of the conditioned souls. If it be urged that there is no necessity for any attempt to attain that which is eternally inherent in the soul, the answer is that the resuscitation of the eternal principle in the conditioned state is the process of the spiritual endeavour of the conditioned neophyte.

It has been realised in their natural exclusive state by great souls such as Sree Vyasadeva, etc., as also by our gurus that attachment (rati) for Krishna is the most wholesome principle of the realised essence of the jeeva-soul. The nature of the substantive reality is in a slight measure manifested in its reflected image. It is for this reason that the principle of attraction between male and female in this world has proved to be the most charming of all mundane entities. But the attachment between male and female of this world utterly insignificant and condemnable in comparison with the principle of the transcendental reality. This is indicated by the passage in the narrative of the circular dance in the Bhagavatam, "He, who listens to or recites to others, with due reverence and faith, these Pastimes of Vishnu with the damsels of Braja, attains to the state of transcendental devotion for Godhead resulting in the simultaneous and speedy disappearance from his heart of the malady of mundane lust". It is as if, the mirage of the desert is replaced by the shining water of the magnificent lake offering the sorely-need cooling drink to the thirsty traveller led astray by the deceptive image of the life-giving liquid. I have described the limit of the love and activity of the eternally self-realised soul towards the eternally realised Personality of Sree Krishna. The limit of attachment is mahabhava, the limit of activity is maha-rasa. There is also the limit of vocabulary sprung from the material principle. That which lies beyond should be seen by means of the exclusive state (samadhi).

It is the only thing needful to be imbued with serving love for Sree Krishna, of the perfectly pure kind. It is the nature of genuine serving spiritual love to be absolutely free from all worldly dross. A person, in whom this pure impulse manifests itself, is thereby rendered perfectly pure in every detail of his conduct. Such a person is naturally disinclined to ungodly conduct, all his affinities having undergone a complete change of objective from the mundane to the Absolute. But it is necessary to bear in mind that before concluding any conduct to be blameable, the status of the person displaying such conduct, should be considered. This is the most material point. No conduct is universally good or bad. If the attempt be made to arrive at a uniform body of rules of conduct which are to be binding on all, such a procedure is sure to end in futile speculations and to frustrate all real endeavour for ethical improvement. This is the great disservice that has been done to man by speculative ethics. It has only served to blunt the edge of natural goodness of judgement by entangling it in the meshes of specious theories that are bound to be wholly wide of the mark. It is, therefore, the first and foremost duty of every individual who is sincerely anxious of not being deceived by the shadow, to avoid all barren speculative discussions, on principle..

There is also another pitfall which is avoided by a person who is really inspired by love for the substantive Truth and the desire for serving Him for the sake of promoting His pleasure. Such a person never engages in sectarian hair-splitting. He is found to maintain a discreet attitude towards sectarian disputes and in respect of external symbols which differ in different communities. These issues, as a matter of fact, derive all their values from the purpose which they are instituted to serve. Their external face need, therefore, be neither undervalued nor overestimated. The conduct of the devotee who is actuated by natural love for the service of the Absolute, in these matters, should not, therefore, be misunderstood. Such a person is neither opposed to, nor is he a supporter of, these external features as such.

Those who are servants of Hari know very well that no work is worth doing which does not please Hari ; neither is knowledge, by which attachment to Hari is not engendered, of any value. Persons, who are possessed by this truly rational insight, always engage themselves in activities that are promotive of spiritual progress and desist from every form of activity which has anything else than Hari as its objective. This consideration regulates the minutest detail of the activities of the servants of Hari. They are not deflected from this course by the breadth of an hair in life or in death, so constant is the loyalty of their judgement and so utterly incapable of being overclouded by any extraneous consideration. They are always possessed of unerring judgment, are full of the natural humility of the pure soul and are constantly engaged in doing good to all entities that exist.

They know truly that the soul is the only pure essence, that mind is a product of the principle of inertia and that the gross physical body is a thing of the earth. They are also well aware that the jiva (the individual soul) is the eternal servant of Godhead whose spiritual function is of the nature of spontaneous liking for the service of Krishna ; that he is endowed with the aptitude for the natural function of loving service even while he may be resident in this material world. Possessing the true knowledge of all this, persons, who are endowed with the spiritual disposition that is found on the plane of Vraja, realising in their souls absolute freedom from all stultifying influences of this phenomenal world, are constantly engaged in the service of Krishna, the concentrated Personal Embodiment of All–existence, All–cognition and All–Bliss. The worship is performed spontaneously in the exclusive state proper by the soul disengaged from all mundane affinities.

It is when the impulse of love cannot be compassed by the pure spiritual essence of the soul on account of its triumphant growth that it overflows its natural bounds into the subtle mental body in which it manifest itself in a mixed form. This gives rise to the mental worship consisting of the processes of manana (resolution of service), smarana (recollection), dhyana (meditation), dharana (retention, assimilation), the thought of bhutasuddhi (purification of the material cases), etc. This mental worship need not be avoided on the ground that it is of a mixed nature. This is inevitable till the dissolution of the material cases themselves. But the process that extends to the mind and body from the soul should be distinguished from the apparently similar process reached by mundane sensuous speculation by its ascending effort. This latter is idolatry proper and is categorically different from the mixed spiritual process.

These mental activities, derived from the soul, on undergoing still further expansion, overflow into the gross physical body. Coming down to the tip of the tongue it express itself as utterance of the chant of the Name, Quality, etc., of Godhead. Attaining the proximity of the ear it brings about the hearing of the same. To the eye it imparts the impulse of the vision of the beauty and Figure of Godhead. The pure spiritual moods of the soul overflow into the bodies expressions of horripilation, shedding of tears, shivering, dancing, prostrations by way of obeisance, rolling on the bare ground, acts of loving embrace, journey to the holy tirthas connected with the Doings of Godhead, etc. This overflowing of the spiritual principle into material activity, is inconceivable in its nature and is the manifestation of the causeless mercy of the Divinity intended to bring about the turning of the direction of mundane activity Godward the institution of honouring of mahaprasadam has been ordained by the Scriptures to bring about the change of the activity of indulging in the pleasure of the table in the direction of the service of Godhead. This arguments holds also in the case of other spiritual injunctions. This is the true significance of every ritual.

It is not to be supposed that persons who have realised the true nature of the spiritual function, neglect the due performance of worldly activities that are inspired by the mundane purpose. What the perfectly enlightened soul does is this : she maintains internally the attitude of unconditional feminine submissiveness towards Sree Krishna, while displaying the face of a heroic masculinity in her external conduct towards persons and duties of this world. Externally the pure devotee is found to be the most heroic among ambitious workers, a male prepared to exercise all the prerogatives of his superior sex among females, profoundly experienced in dealing with society, a good teacher of boys, the greatest of those who possess the knowledge of our material needs, but is withal skilled in turing them to the account of the summum bonum, the peace-maker in war and the purifier of the hearts of sinners. All this is found to co-exist with an opposite disposing, which is the outcome of excessive increase of the impulse of spiritual love, which leads the devotee to be averse to seeking popularity and to prefer the intimate service of his Beloved in the seclusion of retirement from this world.

The points that are emphatically brought out by the considerations penned above, are that it is not possible to serve Sree Krishna except under the direction, or, what is strictly identical with the same, by association in the service, of pure devotees who alone are in a position to distinguish the chaff from the grain. As soon as the least point of real contact with the pure devotees is established by the causeless grace of the latter, the fortunate recipient of such priceless favour of thereby endowed with the faculty that can distinguish the essential from the non-essential. The pure devotee is always accustomed to overlook all external defects and accept only the inner significance of every occurrence. This, of course, does not mean that one should continue to commit offences in the expectation of such indulgence. The deliberate offender cannot obtain the real mercy of the pure devotee by reason of such offence. It is obligatory to follow the conduct of the perfectly blameless servants of Sree Krishna if one is to realise the nature of their unbounded mercy. If the hand of the observer is placed over his eye it is bound to prevent his receiving the light of the glorious luminary, who is never chary of pouring out, unasked and in unstinted profusion and without the least reservation, his light and warmth towards everything.

Critics who are so unfortunate as to be disposed to stop their ear-holes against the expostulations of self-realised souls and persist in looking at the transcendental perfectly purifying Pastimes of Sree Krishna through the spectacles of their own malicious sensuous dispositions, are no wiser than the person who does not spare to criticise the Sun and to blame that luminary for withholding highlight from one who is determined to keep his hand tightly placed over his eyes. It is necessary to learn how to behave towards the Truth if one is to make His acquaintance at all. Malicious misrepresentations and wilful misunderstandings cannot enable so-called critics to be enlightened about the nature of the Truth nor to enlighten others regarding Him. I desire no other boon than that of being sincerely disposed to make my complete submission to the pure devotees of Sree Krishna for the sole reward of their approval. I am confident of attaining to the sight of the Truth by following the method which precludes all other desires than that of the causeless and exclusive service of all the servants of the Absolute Truth. May the pure devotees pardon the innumerable lapses of my aspiring attempt to follow in their holy footsteps in all humility.

SREE KRISHNA CHAITANYA'S TEACHINGS IN A NUTSHELL

- (1) The self–revealed Vedic truths descending from the Absolute person through the preceptorial line of succession, are known as Amnaya. They declare that –
- (2) Sree Krishna is the supreme principle without a second;
- (3) He is always vested with infinite potency:
- (4) He is the nectarine ocean of all Rasas;
- (5) The jeeva souls are his marginal or intermediate discrete parts;
- (6) Marginally situated, the jeeva souls in their fallen state are liable to be enthralled by prakriti or maya, the deluding external potency of the Lord;
- (7) Lying in between the chit (internal spiritual) and achit (external deluding cosmic) potencies of the Lord, the jeeva souls are freed from the shackles of the triple qualities of maya by the loving service to the Supreme Lord Sree Krishna:
- (8) All spiritual and mundane phenomena are simultaneously distinct and not–distinct manifestations of the Supreme Lord Sree Krishna. This is known as, the Achintya–Bheda– Abheda–prakash of the Lord. It is Achintya, i.e. inconceivable in as much as the rational attributes of human beings are quite incapable of understanding or even approaching the Divine sphere of the Lord except by His Mercy;
- (9) Suddha bhakti or unalloyed devotion, which is the eternal function of all jeeva souls, is the only means of attaining Divine Love, the summum bonum of human existence;
- (10) Krishna Prema or Divine Love is alone the final desideratum of spiritual existence.

SRI DAMODARASTAKA

(From Sri Padma Purana)

(To be chanted regularly during the Damodara Month, the Fourth month of chaturmasya by offerering a lamp)

namamisvaram sac-cid-ananda-rupam
lasat-kundalam gokule bhrajanam yasoda—bhiyolukhalad dhavamanam paramrstam atyantato drutya gopya

rudantam muhur netra-yugmam mrjantam karambhoja-yugmena satanka-netram muhuh svasa-kampa-trirekhanka-kanthasthita-graivam damodararm bhakti-baddham

itidrk sva-lilabhir ananda-kunde sva-ghosam nimajjantam akkyapayantam tadiyesita-jnesu bhaktair jitatvam punah prematas tam satavrtti vande

varam deva moksam na moksavadhim va na canyam vrne 'ham varesad apiha idam te vapur natha gopala-balam
sada me manasy avirastam kim anyaih

idam te mukhambhojam atyanta–nilair vrtam kuntalaih snigdha–raktais' ca gopya muhus cumbitam bimba–raktadharam me manasy avirastam alam laksa–labhaih

namo deva damodarananta visno prasida prabho duhkha jalabdhi–magnam krpa–drsti–vrsyati–dinam batanu– grhanesa mam ajnam edhy aksi–drsyah

kuveratmajau baddha–murtyaiva yadvat tvaya mocitau bhakti–bhajau krtau ca
tatha prema–bhaktim svakam me prayaccha na mokse graho me 'sti damodareha

names te 'stu damne sphurad–dipti–dhamne tvadiyodarayatha visvasya dhamne namo radhikayai tvadiya–priyayai namo 'nanta–lilaya devaya tubhyam

THE GLORY OF KRISHNA NAM

ABRIDGED SAHASRANAMA OF THE LORD

The conversation of Shri Bheeshma and Yudhistira in the Anusasanika Parva of Shri Mahabharat which deals in the GLORIFICATION OF THOUSAND (UNLIMITED OR ANANTA) HOLY NAMES AS REALISED BY ACHARYA BHEESMA.

The following is the short-way explained by LORD SANKARA to Godess PARVATI in a reply to her question, inquiring the short form.

Eswara Uvacha

SRI RAMA RAMETI RAMETI RAME RAME MANORAME SAHASRA
NAMABHISTULYAM RAMA NAMA VARANANE

Shri Rama Nama Varanana Om Nama iti

The Holy name of "KRISHNA" is three times as powerful as the Holy name of "RAMA"

SAHASRA-NAMNAM PUNYANAM
TRIR-AVRTYA TU YAT PHALAM
EKAVRITTYA TU KRSNASYA
NAMAIKAM TAT PRAYACCHATI (Brahmanda Purana)

The pious results derived from chanting of three times of thousand Holy Names of Vishnu can be attained by only one time chanting of the Holy name of KRISHNA

MAHAMANTRA
HARE KRISHNA HARE KRISHNA
KRISHNA KRISHNA HARE HARE
HARE RAMA HARE RAMA
RAMA RAMA HARE HARE

KRISHNA

KRISH+NA = KRISHNA

KRISH = Attractive Feature of Lord's Existence, Akarshaka

Na = Ananda or Bliss

KRISHNA = Absolute Truth, Ananda, All Attractive on too represents KRISHNA
(Bg.G.7.8)

RAMA = 'Ramante Yoginonante'spiritual Enjoyment pleasure, the all pleasing one.

HARE

HARA = Internal potency or energy of the Lord, Pleasure energy.

= HARA become Hare in vocative in addressing the LORD.

MAHA MANTRA

(MAN + TRA)

MAN = Mind

TRA = Delivers

MAHA= Great

The Only way in Kaliyuga

HARER NAMA HARER NAMA

HARER NAMAIVA KEVALAM

KALAU NASTY EVA NASTY EVA

NASTY EVA GATIRANYATHA

(Brihad–naradiya Purana)

Eighteen Important Slokas from Srimad Bhagavadgeeta

pancajanya hrsikeso
devadattam dhananjayah
paundram dadhmau maha-sankham
bhima-karma vrkodarah(Ch.1, Ver.15)

kutas tva kasmalam idam
visame samupasthitam
anarya-justam asvargyam
akirti-karam arjuna(Ch.2, Ver.2)

mayi sarvani karmani
sannyasyadhyatma-cetasa
nirasir nirmamo bhutva
yudhyasva vigata-jvarah(Ch.3, Ver.30)

paritranya sadhunam vinasaya ca duskrtam
dharma-samsthapanarthaya sambhavami yuge yuge(Ch.4, Ver.8)

yoga-yukto visuddhatma
vijitatmajitendriyah
sarva-bhutatma-bhutatma
kurvann api na lio yate(Ch.5, Ver.7)

yoginam api sarvesam
mad-gatenantar-atmana
sraddhavan bhajate yo mam
sa me yuktatamo matah(Ch.6, Ver.47)

mattah parataram nanyat
kincid asti dhananjaya
mayi sarvam idam protam
sutre mani-gana iva(Ch.7, Ver.7)

a-brahma-bhuvanal lokah
punar avartino 'rjuna
mam upetya tu kaunteya
punar janma na vidyate(Ch.8, Ver.16)

mayadhyaksena prakrtih
suyate sa-caracaram
hetunanena kaunte ya
jagad viparivartate(Ch.9, Ver.10)

aham sarvasya prabhavo
mattah sarvam pravartate
iti matva bhajante mam
budha bhava-samanvitah(Ch.10, Ver.8)

mat-karma-krn mat-paramo
mad-bhaktah sanga-varjitah
nirvairah sarva-bhutesu
yah sa mam eti pandava(Ch.11, Ver.55)

ye tu dharmamrtam idam
yathoktam paryupasate
sraddadhana mat-parama
bhaktas te 'tiva me priyah(Ch.12, Ver.20)

samam sarvesu bhutesu
tisthantam paramesvaram
vinasyatsv avinasyantam
yah pasyati sa pasyati(Ch.13, Ver.28)

sattvat sanjayate jnanam
rajaso lobha eva ca
pramada–mohau tamaso
bhavato 'jnanam eva ca(Ch.14, Ver.17)

na tad bhasayate suryo
na sasanko na pavakah
yad gatva na nivartante
tad dhama paramam mama(Ch.15, Ver.6)

aneka–citta–vibhranta
moha–jala–samavrtah
prasaktah kama–bhogesu
patanti narake 'sucan(Ch.16, Ver.16)

katv–amla–lavanaty–usna–
tikсна–rukṣa–vidahinah
ahara rajasasyesta
duhkha–sokamaya–pradah(Ch.17, Ver.9)

sarva–dharman parityajya
mam ekam saranam vraja
aham tvam sarva–papebhyo
moksayisyami ma sucā(Ch.18, Ver.66)

FOUR PRIME SLOKAS FROM SRIMAD BHAGAVATAM

(Verses 33 to 36 of Ch.9 of Canto 2)

The mere chanting of the following slokas will have their own abundant and blissful Trancendental sound vibrations to influence the mind and intelligence of the person who chants them for they have been taught by the LORD NARAYANA (KRISHNA) to the first living being in the creation, LORD BRAHMA in order to progress in our goal to understand and reach Krishna. Further, reading or chanting of the four stanzas tantamounts to reading all the 18,000 stanzas in Srimad Bhagavatam. Brahma inturn taught to Maharshi Narada who preached the same to his disciple Sri Krishna Dwaipayana Vyasa Deva and in this way they are handed our down the line. Sri Bhagavanuvacha :

aham evasam evagre
nanyad yat sad-asat param
pascad aham yad etac ca
yo 'vasisyeta so 'smy aham

rte 'rtham yat pratiyeta
na pratiyeta catmani
tad vidyad atmano mayam
yathabhaso yatha tamah

yatha mahanti bhutani
bhutesuccavacesv anu pravistany apravistani
tatha tesu na tesv aham

etavad eva jijnasyam
tattva jijnasunatmanah
anvaya-vyatirekabhyam
yat syat sarvatra sarvada

BRIEF HISTORY AND OBJECTS OF THE MISSION

India has, from time immemorial, been called the land of Bharatha or Bharathavarsha, a spiritual community of Mahatmas who follow faithfully the highest cult of Bhakti by rendering unalloyed service to the Supreme Lord Sree Krishna, instead of hankering after the fourfold pursuits of Dharma, Artha, Kama and Moksha. It is for reestablishing Sanathanadharma and protecting sadhus in their preaching work of the said Dharma, against the tyrannical oppressions of the demonic characters, that Sree Krishna or His Avatars, descend in Bharathavarsha. Hence Bharathavarsha is the cradle of religion of pure devotion to the Absolute person. Sree Krishna sometimes sends his agents to preach the people of this and other countries the transitory and miserable end of all worldly pursuits and thereby win them to a desire for salvation or moral elevation. The Vedas, the Upanishads and the Puranas boldly declare the highest Spiritual culture and civilisation of India – ancient and modern.

Sree Krishna Chaitanya spend 24 years at Nadia as a real brahmachari, as the foremost pundit and as an ideal householder. He then accepted Sannyas and came to Puri.

To preserve His revered memory and to practise and preach His divine message, a befitting institution Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission was established in 1966. Presently the mission is operating 20 branches spread through our India including PURI, BRINDAVAN and MAYAPUR, VISAKHAPATNAM AND RAJAHMUNDRI. The main object of the Mission is to spread the Divine Name of God Head Sri Krishna in the Universe.

To help mankind to realise the spiritual values of religion and follow them;

To impart, cultural, philosophical and theological education to all interested souls without any distinction of caste and creed;

To help them in order to secure their alround moral and spiritual upliftment through a right understanding and sound knowledge of sastras, thereby helping them to become useful members of the human society;

To instill a spirit of discipline, co–operation and create tolerant spirit;

To establish and maintain temples, chatuspathies, schools, libraries, medical dispensaries, dharmasalas and guest houses in relation to Godhead; and

To revive and spread Indian Theistic culture and especially to practise and propagate the gospel of Divine Love as described in the Vedas, Upanishads, Bhagavatham, Bhagavad Gita and allied revealed scriptures as propounded by Sree Krishna Chaitanya Prabhu, practised and taught by Rupanuga vaisnava Acharyas.

KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION (Regd.)

LIST OF TEMPLES AROUND INDIA

1. Sri Chaitanya Chandra Ashram
I. Thota, Puri, Orissa,
Pin 752002
Ph. 06752–24455
2. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Radha Vrindavan Chandra Mandir
208, Seva Kunj mahalla,
Vrindavan Dt., Mathura,
Pin 281122, U. P.
Ph:6565–443603
3. Sri Gaura Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, Mayapur,
Dt. Nadia, West Bengal.
Ph:03472–45313
4. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Aryapuram, Rajahmundry,
East Godavari Dt. (A.P.)
Ph:0883–79444
5. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Math
Srikrishna Nagar,
Visakhapatnam – 530 002.
Ph:0891–560549
6. Srimad Bhagvat Geetamandir
Goshpad Kshetram,
Kovvur, W.G.Dt.(A.P.)
7. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Gurukul Ashram
Sri Radha Nagar
Peda Waltair
Visakhapatnam (A.P.)
8. Sri Bhaktivinod Ashram
H.K.Road, Ananda Nagar

Berhampur–760 006(A.P.)
Ph: 0680–208400
9. Sri Goura–Vani–Vinod–Ashram
Subash Palli, Kharagapur
Dt. Midinapur(W.B.)
10. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Kotta Peta, Undi
W.G.Dt.(A.P.)
11. Sri Bhakti Sidhanta Gaudiya Math
44, Panch Rulla, Kharagpur,
West Bengal, Minapur (Dt.)
12. Sri Shyamasundar Ragunath Mandir,
Village – Chelia,
Po – Sasan padar,
Dt. Ganjam, Orissa.
13. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Near Bada Bandha
Diga – Pahedi – 761 102
Dt. Ganjam, Orissa.
14. Sri Chaitanya Reasearch
Institute (Sri K. Ch. Math)
Tara Huda, Garage Chackka
Bhubaneswar, Orissa.
15. Sri Ram Mandir
Peda Waltair,
Visakhapatnam. (A.P.)
16. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission
Sri Hari – Bhakti Prdayani
Sabha, Barabati, Balasore,
Orissa.
17. Sri Krishna Chaitanya Ashram
Khanta – Para
Dt. Balasore, Orissa
18. Sri Bhakti Vijaya Prusottam
Teerth Granthalaya
Sri Krishna Chaitanya Marga
Rajahmundry – 4, (A.P.)
19. Sri Sachinandan Granthalaya
I. tota, Puri, Orissa.

SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION

List of Publications

Books Published In English:

*Divine Name, *Six Goswamis, *Lord Gauranga, *Lord Jagannath, *Sri Mahaprabhu (His life and Precepts), *Rai Ramananda, *Nam Bhajan, *Vaishnabism, *Sri Krishna Supreme God Head, * Sri Chaitanya Bhagabat.

Books Published in Telugu:

Sri Krishna Ch. Mahaprabhu, *Sri Saraswati Goswami, *Prema Bhakti Siksyastakam, *Geetavali, *Stotra Ramavali Part I and II, *Krishna Bhajanam Gaudiya Vaishnav Sidhanta Sangraha, *Mahamantra Bhasyam, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Anrutam, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Tatparya Sahitamu, *Upadesamrutam.

Books Published in Utkala Bhasha:

Chaitanya Bhagavata, *Srimad Bhagavatam, *Hari Bhakti Vilas, *Bhakti Rasamrita Sindhu, *Bhagavatarka Marichimala, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta– Moola Mantram, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Baladeva Bhasya, *Srimad Bhagavat Geeta Sreedhar Bhasya, *Atma Dharma, *Gopal Krishna Geetavali, *Sat Sampradaya, *Brihat Bhagavatamrita, *Sri Kshetra Parichaya, *Manava Jeevena Gupta Rahasyam, * Siddhanta Monthly Magazine, *Sri Gaura Parsada Charitabali, *Ekadasimahatmya, *Sri Radharasa Sudhanidhi, *Srila Prabhupad's History, *Sahasrabali, *Bruhat Bhagabatamruta, *Sikhyastak.

Please contact any of our centres for the books in other languages of Bengali, Hindi etc.

OM TAT SAT

RAI RAMANANDA

A Benevolent and Generous Publication

By
Paramahansa Swami 108 Sree
SHRIMAD BHAKTI SIDDHANTA SARASWATI GOSWAMI

EDITED BY
Paribrajakacharya Tridandi Swami Sree Sreemad
BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI MAHARAJ
the beloved disciple of His Divine Grace
Om Vishnupada 108 Shri
SHRIMAD BHAKTI SIDDHANTA SARASWATI GOSWAMI

Published by:

Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust
Sree KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION (Regd.)
Sree Bhakti Vinod Ashram,
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur(G.M)
Orissa, (INDIA), Ph-208400

Second Edition-1996

WWW Edition-2002

To be had at:-

1. SRI CHAITANYA CHANDRA ASHRAM,
ITOTA, PURI-752001
Near Gundicha Mandir, Phone-24455
2. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sree RADHA VRINDABAN CHANDRA MANDIR
208, Sevakunja, P.O.-Vrindavan,
Dt.-Mathura, pin-281121, Phone-443603
3. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
Sree Goura Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, P.O.-Mayapur, Dt.-Nadia(W.B.)
Pin-741313, Phone-45313
4. SRI BHAKTI VINODE ASHRAM
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (G.M.)
Pin-760006, Phone-208400
5. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM
Aryapuram, Rajahmundry
Dt.-E.Godavari (A.P.), Pin-533104, Ph-79444
6. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MATH
Maharanipeta, Sreekrishna nagar
Visakhapatnam, (A.P.) Pin-530002 Ph-560549

CONTENTS

Preface

The Lord and His Beloved (Viewed by Empiricists)

The Lord and His Beloved (Viewed by Devotees)

 Their Conversazione (For the Beginners)

 Their Conversazione (For the Advanced)

Conclusion

PREFACE

In this world we can see all around that every body is busily engaged in search of and running amuck to obtain 'Ananda' or bliss. Nobody wants to die, nobody is willing to suffer pain. In the present day religion which is considered by most of the people as a third necessity in life's struggle, is day by day disowned, if not abandoned, on the plea that they have no time to think about religion when every minute of life requires to be devoted for extinguishing the blazing flame of the stomach. Religion, according to them, is a subject which is to be believed and discussed by only certain classes of people who have not much work or do not require to toil for earning bread and butter. But we observe that people who have no difficulties nor worries are equally averse towards religion and God. They say that they have also no time to think about religion. So, it is not true that the opulent are religious, and it is a known fact that neither poverty nor opulence are the causes of becoming true religious or God-believing.

In the revealed scriptures diverse ways are prescribed and directed as religions for reaching the spiritual destinations . Shrimad Bhagavatam proclaims only one universal path to be the highest religion for all sentient beings leading towards the Supreme Divinity. The supreme religion can be practised by the poor or rich, belonging to any caste, nationality and sex, sincerely following which anybody can capture the unconquerable Supreme Lord. Hence Shrimad Bhagavatam stands as a beacon light, giving the greatest hope to one and all, by declaring a very simple religion, which can be easily practised by anybody. This religion is the highest, eternal, universal and quite independent. So it must be heard, read and followed by every sincere truth-seeker under the guidance of a Spiritual Teacher.

The 'Rasas' or the Spiritual feelings are of twelve kinds. Five of them are the main of which 'Madhur Rasa' is the acme of the final goal and the rest are auxiliary. Though the Supreme Lord Shri Krishna is eternally self-contented, still He is always 'Lilamaya'—ever sportful. He disports with His own eternal potencies and associates. He delights Himself through his own Yoga Maya—Swarup Shakti or Hladini Shakti. The Supreme Lord Shri Krishna once thought within Himself, ."Among all my devotees of Vaikuntha, Dwaraka, Mathura and Golok—Vrindavan— Shri Radhika, My plenary potency is the embodiment of Mahabhav. Her matchless beauty, serving aptitude etc. make me completely mad and she is the highest and fountain source of all My Divine servitors and potencies. I will accept the mood and complexion of my best beloved Shri Radha to fulfil My threefold desires. With this object, Shri Krishna assumes the Form of Lord Shri Gouranga as the best servitor of Himself. He enacted the Divine Pastimes on this earth only for 48 years, the half of which He displayed the role of a true house-holder and then renounced the house, preached the Divine Names of Shri Krishna throughout the country embracing all without distinction of caste, creed and nationality."

He accepted initiation from Iswar Puri and thereby set an example that no one can realise God without completely surrendering to the Spiritual Master. He accepted Sannyasa from Shri Keshav Bharati and assumed the name of Shri Krishna Chaitanya and travelled throughout the country distributing Divine Love to one and all. He promulgated that Divine Love can be had only by chanting the Holy Name of Lord Shri Krishna, which is identical with His Divine Personality. The Lord Himself used to repeat Krishna-Nama, sometimes weeping, sometimes dancing, sometimes crying and sometimes remaining unconcious, in the mood of Radha at the unbearable pang of separation from His beloved Shri Krishna.

In the closing six years of His Divine career, He settled in Puri (Orissa District) near Shri Jagannath Temple and tasted the nectarine elixir of the transcendental Love-in-separation to His utmost satisfaction, with a few of His most confidential associates- like Shri Swarup Damodar, Shri Ramananda Rai etc. He attracted many pre-eminently great scholars like Sarbabhauma Bhattacharyya, Shri Rupa Goswami etc., to His Lotus Feet, Most of whom also renounced their homes and taken shelter at His Holy Feet and preached the sublime message of Divine Love under His banner.

To deliver the People from suicidal prejudices and superstitions, Shri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu proceeded His journey to the South, via Brahmagiri and Kurmachalam. He met Rai Ramananda, the then Governor of Vidyanagar, on the bank of Godavari and had a long philosophical discussion. The famous discourse was the brightest guiding star in the firmament of Vaishnava philosophy. When the Lord left Puri for the South, Sarbabhauma Bhattacharyya had requested Him to meet Rai Ramananda. After visiting many shrines at different places, He reached the banks of the Godavari which reminded Him as Yamuna and the woodlands as Vrindavana. He crossed the river, bathed, and then sat at 'Gospada Ghat' at Kavur.

While He was engaged in chanting the Holy Name of Shri Krishna, Rai Ramananda arrived there attended by many musicians and Brahmins etc., for ceremonial bath. The Lord at first sight knew him as Ramananda and He longed to meet him. Shri Ramananda after his bath came up to Him, he was filled with a great wonder. He alighted from his litter and fell prostrate before Him. The Lord embraced him and both sat on the ground with outburst of Prema. Both of them overcome with pure love, began to weep and both uttered 'Krishna Krishna' in joy.

The Brahmin attendants of Rai Ramananda were amazed at the sight, thinking that being a profound scholar he has transported with delight by the touch of a Sannyasin ! On seeing the strangers, the Lord checked Himself. The Lord said smilingly, "It is well that I could meet you so early". Rai replied, " My life is, indeed, blessed today. You are the Supreme Lord Narayana Himself and I am but a servant of the king. You have come here to deliver me. You are "Mercy personified." The hearts of the Brahmins and the other attendants have been melted by the Grace of the Lord.

While they were praising each other and enjoying the delightful company, the Lord said, "I feel a great pleasure to hear talks on Shri Krishna from your lips. I hope to meet you again." The Lord was anxiously waiting when Rai Ramananda appeared before him with a single servant. He bowed to the Lord and was received in His embrace. The two now began to converse on 'Sadhya' (the Goal) and 'Sadhana' Tattwa (the Means). Rai replied, (1) " Vishnu is pleased with those who observe the duties of Varnashram. There is no other means of pleasing Him." The Lord said, " This is off the point, tell me something more advanced." Rai answered gradually, (2) "The acme of Sadhana is to offer actions and the Fruits thereof to Shri Krishna; (3) The highest devotion requires one to give up the duties enjoined by the scriptures; (4) Faith mixed with the knowledge of the Brahma is the only means to attain the goal."

(1) Rai continuing his reply, "A person submitting unconditionally at the Divine Feet of Shri Krishna is a true devotee; pure devotion is the highest form of worship." On hearing this the Lord replied, "It is good, but higher stages may be stated." Rai answered respectively, (2) The highest form of true devotion is Prem– Bhakti or Loving devotion to Shri Krishna; (3) The Love is that of a friend is the highest form of devotion ; (4) The highest devotion is parental affection for the Lord ; (5) And the highest form of devotion is conjugal Love for the Supreme Lord Shri Krishna. Many are the means of attaining to Shri Krishna and these are degrees of such attainment.

After listening to these with rapt attention, the Lord remarked, "This is the extreme point of devotion, but please tell me if there be anything beyond it." With great astonishment Rai said that he did not know it before if there was anybody on the face of the earth who could enquire beyond this. He answered, "Of all kinds of Prema, Shri Radha's love for Shri Krishna is reputed as the highest, so say the Shastras." The Lord was very much pleased and delighted to hear the praise of Shrimati Radha from Rai. Accepting 'Madhura Rasa' is the highest form of devotion, the Lord asked Rai to describe the Love of Shri Radha. Rai described the real Form of Shrimati Radha and Shri Krishna and the chief features of Rasa' and 'Prema'. At last he said that the Leela of Shri Radha–Krishna can only be realised by submitting completely to 'Sakhis', the dearest female attendants of Shri Radha–Krishna.

The Book "Rai Ramananda" was firstly edited and published by Paramahansa Paribrajakacharyya 108 Shri Shrimat Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupad the then President–in–charge, "Shri Viswa Vaishnav Raj Sabha", on 1st July, 1932. At present it is going to be published from Sree Bhakti Bigyana Nityananda Book Trust, Sree Krishna Chaitanya Mission (Regd.) as the first edition.

My thanks are due to Tridandi Bhikshu Spd. Trivikrama Maharaj and Spd. Kapila Brahmachary for their kindly looking to the proofs and get–up of the book in its present form . May Lord Krishna bless them.

Sree Raspuṇnima Dt 25–11–1996

Invoking the blessings of Sreela Saraswati Goswami, the Divine Master, Tridandi Bhikhyu Bhakti Vaibhava Puri

ALL GLORY TO SHREE GURU AND GAURANGA

SHREE RAI RAMANANDA

CHAPTER I

THE LORD AND HIS BELOVED

(Viewed by Empiricists)

Four centuries ago, about the year 1512 A.D., the western bank of the Godavari at Kovvur, on the most memorable day in the History of the world, witnessed a remarkable march of a band of Vedic Brahmanas chanting mantrams, attended with a performing concert of numerous Indian musical instruments playing before the procession in State of the Governor of Godavari Province of the Empire of the Ganga dynasty of Utkal. This pompous procession was meant as the accompaniment for a ceremonial bath in the sacred Godavari whose sanctity is well established from time immemorial.

The bather was a no less conspicuous entity than the Governor of the mighty Emperor of Orissa, Sree Prataparudra Deva, the greatest Ruler of the famous Ganga Dynasty whose members bore the proud designation of the Gajapatis or Lords of Elephants.

The spectacle visualized the fact that the occasion was intended for seeking an accession of virtue and piety by a great Luminary of the Imperial Firmament who evidently wanted to popularize himself to be a religious personage guiding the reins of the administration of a great King.

Just before the party was approaching the holy bathing ghat of Gospada opposite to Kotilingam at Rajmundry, an Ascetic was observed to cross the river from the opposite bank to Pushkaram or Gospada. The very desire of having an ablution in the sacred stream fortunately brought One Who is the object of the eternal service of all unalloyed souls. The unbounded mercy that was hidden under the garb of the Ascetic was showing unusual aptitude to meet a man of an apparently different calibre possessed of all royal grandeur quite in contravention to conditions of life invited by a Sannyasin who deserted all earthly hopes of having any aid from busy sections of mundane meddlers.

This unusual meeting of those two extremes, as would seemingly appear before the public eye, will not reconcile the conflicting thoughts of an ordinary observer. This spot with its most precious transcendental association has at last been recovered from the dungeon of forgetfulness or oblivion by one of their humble servants after the lapse of forty decades. Naturally the present day observers will look forward to ascertain the details regarding what led the public to the preservation of the memory of the said incident. Why was the Mendicant busy to meet a man of ruling position and what led the ablest head of the administration to come in close touch with an unknown Figure void of all worldly ambition?

The Governor had everything to do with the Ascetic who also in His turn was travelling throughout the length and breadth of India in search of the Master and His comrades. Both of them found each other in the state which recalls the Shrutimantram of the Mundak as if Dva Sapurana Sayuja, etc.

Gentle readers! Perchance you may not be able to resist the natural impulse to inquire about the couple. To respond to the call of enquiry, we are furnishing the account which has a historical bearing.

This ascetic was no other than Sree Krishna–Chaitanya, identical with Sree Krishna with His Consort Barshavanabi. The principal object, the observed of all observers, was no other than Rai Ramananda, identical with the serving maid known as Sakhi Vishakha of Braja–Leela. The damsel of Braja came to serve her Lord and Consort under the garb of exhibiting an easy lucid exposition of the transcendental manifestive phase to the reach of fortunate souls. The Supreme Lord–the Fountainhead of the Predominating Aspect of the Transcendental Region–assumed the phase of a servitor, seeking as if his Lord with all ardor, as well as ready to pick up His old friend, to facilitate an easy access to the solving of an intricate problem of eternal life of felicitous knowledge of the transcendence in phenomena.

The immanence of both made the devotees alone to conceive them by their seeming features of transcendence. Their meeting disclosed Facts which were a sealed book to the frailties of human mentality. So the memory of this place would be adequately immortalized by recollecting the Greatest Boon offered to the Search of Eternity.

The nativity of our hero is alleged to be Bentapur in the District of Puri where his kinsmen are still traced as Choudhury Pattanayaks. He was descended in the Karan caste. His father's name was Bhabananda Pattanayak, who had four other sons. One of the sons, Gopeenath, was employed in the service of the king, but was found guilty of embezzling some amount of the Royal Treasury which penalized his life by the decision of the Prince. King Prataparudra, considering the defaulter a brother of Ramananda, granted mercy in sparing his life; whereas, the Supreme Lord exhibited His diffidence to grant him mercy by His devotee, the King. Another brother of his named Vaninath, used to serve faithfully the Supreme Lord in various ways, such as in conveying mahaprasadam, etc.

Rai Ramananda was in the cadre of the highest service of the Realm and he had to act as the Governor of East and West Godavari districts, being a faithful and trustworthy service-holder of the Emperor of Orissa who had extended his province to the north bank of the river Krishna. Highest reference was given of Sree Ramananda by Vasudeva Sarbabhauma Bhattacharyya, the then erudite professor of Monistic Vedanta or chinmatravada. His devotional activities together with his writings earned for him the fame of the greatest poet of the time. This trait of character was unequalled as well as his maintenance of ethical views was no less.

The Supreme Lord was hurrying up to meet him in His Journey to the South and was very eager to have his unique company of pure highest devotion. Rai Ramananda at the same time also cherished an unknown hope of coming in touch with the All-loving Transcendental Entity Sree Krishna. So they were united in the tie of love which has a serving aptitude for the One Goal—the Akhilarasamritamurty.

Rai's excellent work, Sree Jagannath-ballava-natakam, was being written with the skill of a reputed rhetorician, and later on this drama attracted the attention of the Supreme Lord in His Manifesting Devotional Rituals. The style is so very simple that a little knowledge of Grammar can help the readers of any other languages originated from Sanskrit in following the same.

Since his meeting with the Supreme Lord at Kovvur, Rai Ramananda strictly followed the counsel of his Master. He parted with his exalted position and returning to Puri awaited for the Supreme Lord in order to serve Him as a companion. During his period of retirement from the service of the Emperor Rai Ramananda lived at the Jagannathballava Garden in the town of Puri where he was busily engaged in the practices of the transcendental services of all those girls whom he considered to be identical with the Damsels of Braja.

The blind pedants could not discern his position as a true practical devotee in his swarupa or transcendental absolute position when he sincerely posed as an eternal serving maid of the paraphernalia of the Predominated Transcendental Aspect of the Absolute. The ordinary eyes cannot possibly transcend the worldly phenomena; so their vision is never proselytized by spiritual acquisition. The ordinary brain cannot possibly distinguish between the mundane and the spiritual planes. Their particular angle of vision cannot convince them of the transcendental plane where no sensuous enjoyment is feasible. The ordinary sight of an empiricist can never be expected to subscribe to Para Vidya when their funds are truly lacking in transcendental treasures. He was and is often confused as a man who was indulging in his senses for his enjoyment by lustful anthropomorphists.

But the true position of the heart of our hero was not observed by such people in the true light of a devotee. A true devotee has no other ambition to enjoy the frailties of Nature.

He is ever engaged in the service of the Master's Comrade without any attempt to have a share in the Lord's acquisition. He has been accepted by the Supreme Lord as His best friend; and, not only as a friend, but as an eternal friend in the Company of Sree Krishna and His Consort. It is stated by the biographer of the Supreme Lord that the sweet composition of the songs of Rai Ramananda acted as predominating over the Transcendental mentality of the Master. His book formed one of the five that occupied the Engagement of the Supreme Lord. He has left some songs in the maithili language which much attracted the love of his Lord. And these songs are the highest specimens of delineations of transcendental love. His integrity and sincerity were fully substantiated at the occasion of the meeting of Pradyumna Mishra who was asked by the Supreme Lord Sree Krishna– Chaitanya to learn the clue of true Devotion from the denizen of the Jagannathballava Garden who was fully occupied with the transcendental love of Braja. The Supreme Lord compared his renunciating demeanor with that of the ideal abnegation of Goswamis Sree Rupa and Sree Sanatana who have shown to the world conduct reaching the acme of deserting platform.

His time can be safely admitted from the eighth decade of the fifteenth century to the succeeding fourth decade of the Christian Era. He greatly exerted himself in securing the Favor of the Supreme Lord towards the Emperor of Orissa who was in territorial possession of Andhra. The King allowed him to remain in the Garden of Jagannathballava and granted him suitable pension during his lifetime. He was one of the two constant companions of the Lord and was the best friend of Damodar Swarup Goswami. He was treated in reverential eye by the proper followings of the Supreme Lord, viz., Sree Raghunath Das Goswami and others. He was also the bosom friend of Sree Rupa and Sree Sanatana.

The servant's story is not complete unless the Master's account is given at least in a brief compass in order to avoid a partial view of co–relation of both. So the Master's Advent before Ramananda should enlighten the account. In the first place we are to narrate the previous Activities of the Supreme Lord Who was loved by one and all, by whomsoever He met. But the Lord had a peculiar affinity for our hero. It has been told of the Supreme Lord that He assumed the platform of a World– Teacher for the upheaval of the contaminated mentality of the apathetic bound souls who preferred to have a temporal life in the clutches of Time and Space to accommodate matter.

Worldly persons are no doubt busy with the historicity of the Master and Rai Ramananda, so that they may get hold of the activities of the religious teacher in the cadre of other such instructing preachers. To satisfy their curiosity as well as to help them in their advance towards non–mundane plane the Life of the Supreme Lord may be sketched in the following lines:

Sree Krishna–Chaitanya was born at Sree Mayapur in the District of Nadia comprised in the Province of Bengal in India. Sree Mayapur is situated on the eastern bank of the sacred stream of the Ganges. He was born on the 18th of February in the year 1486 A.D. at the time when there occurred a lunar eclipse in the early evening. In accordance with the custom of the Indo-Aryans the people were seeking after accumulating virtues and expiating their sins on the occasion. They were singing the Name of Personal Godhead Vishnu instead of indulging in an abstract idea of Him, void of all nomenclatures.

Sree Krishna-Chaitanya wanted to dispel the erroneous ideas of people who are busy to target the Entity of Godhead into an impersonality. To give relief from such doubts Sree Chaitanya's Advent into this world has got the inconceivable trace of His Parents. His father was known as Jagannath Mishra who migrated from Sylhet in Assam to sacred Nadia, His anguishes were from Utkal desh washed by the sanctifying stream, the center of learning at that time but stubbornly averse to Godly associations. Once this place had been the seat of the Capital of the Kings of Bengal.

His mother Sachi Devi had several daughters born before the advent of the Supreme Lord, who had died in their infancy, and had a son before she could get Sree Chaitanya as her Boy. Sree Chaitanya's elder brother Viswaroopa renounced the company of his kinsmen by assuming the garb of a Sannyasin under the help of Advaita-Acharyya of Shantipur, which is also a town in the District of Nadia. Sreevas Pandit was an elderly citizen of Nabadwipa, Close neighbor of Jagannath Mishra and a, man of devout nature.

The parents of Sree Chaitanya regarded it as a great favor of the Supreme Lord in having Him as the Loving Darling of all their ambition. Sree Chaitanya in His Early Life had His different Names-Nimai, Gauranga, Vishwambhar, etc. He was found to speak the highest philosophy of the impersonal nature when he was an Infant. He inculcated the views of the Pantheists in dismissing purity and dirt when He betook Himself to playing with rejected earthen pots in the unclean refuse heap as well as taking earth instead of sweetmeats offered by the mother. The Boy heard with rapt attention the admonitions of His mother to the effect that in the manifestive world everything has its propriety and they need not be classed in the same category as the impersonalists view them ignoring the special utility of particular things adaptable as ingredients of the devotees.

In the Manifestive Transcendence Time, Space and the Entities need not be confused with the impersonal vague ideas of blank space which is void of all eternal attributes. Though the impersonal conception is derived from the bitter limited experience of the temporal activities and transformations, sensation of miseries, inadequacies and other unsuitable experiences, yet it is a hasty conclusion that summarily rejects the Manifestive Sight out of its preference for the void of all attributions.

His kinsmen observed many supernatural feats in Him though He was then a mere Boy busy with His Childish Activities. He lost His father in His infancy. But this does not give Him any opportunity of neglecting His Studies. His father and maternal grandfather were both Professors and men of learning. Within a short time He picked up versatile knowledge along with His training in the Sanskrit language.

He had to accost a learned Pandit who was seeking the fame of a "Conqueror" of the then learned men. Though Vishwambhar was handled in a neglecting way by that Champion of learning, the latter was compelled to submit to the Learning of the Young Grammar Pandit. This incident gave Nimai Pandit the highest platform among the erudite scholars of the then center of learning.

Vishwambhar was married in His Early Life, though He was not born in an opulent family. After the demise of His father He wanted to seek for adequate money to maintain His family by His Pedagogic Activities. So He went to the Eastern parts of Bengal to secure necessary wealth. On His return from the foreign land He found that His Wife was no longer living to enjoy His treasures thus brought from abroad. So He resorted to marrying a second time at the insinuations of His relatives and specially of His mother who required to be looked after by the Spouse of her Son. The first Wife was known by the name of Lakshmipriya and the second was Vishnupriya.

The practice of offering pinda for one's departed father was in vogue and He submitted to such conventional method of the society in taking a journey to Gaya where He met Iswara Puri, a mendicant devotee of the Madhva School. He submitted to the sage who was reputed disciple of the well-known Madhavendra Puri.

This Initiation turned the table for mundane aspirations to the love of All-loving Absolute Krishna. The transcendental operation of initiation gave Him to know that the Transcendental Word Krishna is the Fullest Entity of the Widest Comprehension of Godhead. So the exploitations of the Grammarians, in wrangling words in the fashion of Panini, with different meanings tended to one Goal Krishna when the enjoying attitude by mundane senses is withheld. Different words of different languages have got distinctive and contending impressions as between one another. He came to the conclusion that the Absolute has no deviation and He can only be had through directing the aural activity to Transcendence and Immanence.

This Transcendental Sound is cogent enough to regulate the receiving instrument of conception of mundane knowledge which has a distinctive feature from the Absolute Non-flickering Varieties.

He was found to chant the Name of Krishna night and day without any cessation on His Return to Nadia. The pupils who used to get their coaching from Nimai Pandit could not any longer avail the opportunity of aggrandizing themselves with the knowledge of Sanskrit Grammar, as they found their Teacher was absorbed in the love of Krishna. The pupils approached Nimai Pandit to induce their professor to teach them Grammar as before. But Nimai Pandit would not at all submit to the advice of Gangadas, His teacher, to pay His Attention to the entreaties of the students of Nadia. He was busy with inculcating the Transcendental message to all His friends. Advaita, Sreevas and Thakur Haridas, all were expecting Nimai to take up the cause of pure Theism by His marked unusual Talents, and by this His Conversion Nimai Pandit proved the Object of their unending joy and ecstasy. All of them, who had got a theistic tendency, now found in Him their only Leader.

The Karma-Kandins and persons who indulged in Jnana-Kanda and other denizens of the town stood against the New Propaganda of Theism headed by Vishwambhar. They could not win over this party by their talents and arguments. They were fully confident of the Unusual merits of Sree Chaitanya. So they could not find their way to put a check to the volcanic activities of this band of workers. Finding no other measures for impeding their course they resorted to the Fouzdar (Magistrate) of the town to chastise the New Religious Party who had become a nuisance and disturbers of their peace by their shouting of the Name of Krishna. The Form of the Religious Propagation of Nimai held that uttering the Name would bring all facilities of serving Krishna even better than worshipping singly which is not annoying to the neighbors and is non-interfering with the whims of the mob.

The non-Hindu community of the town headed by the Mohammedan Quazi commenced to offer opposition in various ways. The Personality of Vishwambhar attracted attention of many citizens who organized a very large party to accost the Quazi for his interference in their particular religious activities. This was successful and the propaganda went on with all propriety. Mischievous people were on the look-out for impeding the numerical expansion of the following of Vishwambhar by instigating two naughty turbulent brahmana robbers. The cementing Policy and Assurances of Nimai proselytized their vicious conduct into religious life, though Nimai's co-workers were roughly handled. The following of Vishwambhar met at the premises of Sreevas where they held their religious congregation. Some naughty opponents thought it fit to have some dirty articles placed against the doorway of the house of Sreevas to show their indignant attitude. This was also pacified by Vishwambhar taking no steps for putting a stop to such mischievous deeds.

Certain Hindus of Henotheistic culture wanted to annoy Sree Chaitanya. On a particular occasion it so happened that a few students of the community approached Nimai Pandit as He was chanting the names of the Consorts of Krishna. They were opposed to Krishna-bhakti and were specially averse to revere and offer their services to Krishna-bhaktas, considering themselves to be on a par with them. This caused Sree Krishna Chaitanya to chastise them with a cudgel. This enraged the community of those hostile atheists. The active opponents of the Theistic propaganda now made up their minds to disperse the association of the devotees by a series of disturbances. Nimai patiently observed all this and arrived at the conclusion that He would not be in a position to confer a greater boon on His neighbors unless He renounced their society. Those naughty fellows, through their ignorance had observed that Nimai being a co-sharer of their religious community had deviated from the customary course and was proving hostile to their community. So they were resolved to act in the contrary way simply to discourage His Religious Culture and Work of Propaganda.

Nimai took due note of the situation and thought that it would be wise to leave them alone in their exploits by assuming Vedic mendicancy which all are accustomed to revere and to which they accord their esteemed adoration. At the closing of His twenty-fifth year He went to Katwa, now a sub-divisional town in the District of Burdwan in Bengal, twenty-four miles from Sree Mayapur, with a few selected friends with the object of formally giving up for good the life of a householder.

Just after this Change He was found to be drawn to Vrindavan where He could meet Krishna and His Associates, the only ambition of all true souls who are repelled by the optimistic course of the worldly people. His Companions did not allow Him to hasten directly to the locality of Mathura, but diverted Him from His course by a hoax in keeping with His exclusive mood. They managed to conduct Him to Shantipur where He had to meet many of His friends of Nadia, who were anxious to have last Sight of Him on the occasion of His departure from their midst, including Sachi Devi and the bhaktas.

On the eve of His departure from Nadia He addressed His wife and mother and all friends to the effect that He was leaving their society in His Search for Krishna and the very Act would give them a better opportunity of culturing the habit of search after Krishna. The desertion was a boon to all of them and they should part with Him in all goodwill.

From Shantipur He took the track on the east bank of the Ganges, passing through Varahanagar, Calcutta, Atisara, Chattrabhoga and other villages before He entered Orissa. He visited Gopeenath at Remuna in the District of Balasore, Where His grandpreceptor Madhabendra Puri had the privilege of receiving the Special Mercy of the Lord Who purloined one of the pots full of preparation of thickened milk and rice boiled in the same which had been offered to Himself by the officiating priest, and presented it to Madhabendra Puri for his use. He went on to Jajpur and visited Sakshi Gopal in Cuttack. He reached Puri by way of Bhuvaneswar.

At Puri Sree Chaitanya met Vasudev Sarbabhauma who was a Professor of impersonal Vedantism and many other bhaktas. After the conversion of Sarbabhauma to Theism all of them recommended Him to meet Rai Ramananda in His Pilgrimage to the South. He was now bent upon strictly adhering to the rules of the life of a recluse and would not even admit the emperor of Orissa to approach Him. Before His meeting with Rai Ramananda He had visited the Shrine of Alalnath at Brahmagiri, Koormadeva at Koormachalam near Chicacole in the modern District of Ganjam, where He engaged Himself in preaching Krishna-bhakti.

Spending a few days with Ramananda on Krishna topics Sree Chaitanya in His progress through the South visited Mangalgiri in Guntur, Ahobilam in Karnul and Tirupati in Chittur Districts. He visited almost all the Shrines of Tamil country. He had been to Conjeeveram, Sree Rangam, Madura, Sheeyali, Kumbakonam, Tanjore and saw several shrines in the Tinnevely District and in the Travancore State where He saw Janardana and Ananta Padmanabha, Adikeshava and Kanya Kumari before He visited Payosvini and the western-coast Shrines.

At Sree Rangam He lived for four months in the house of a 'Sree' Vaishnava, who had migrated to that place, named Venkata Bhatta, with whom He had a comparative discussion of the principles of Majesty (aishvaryya) and Mellow Attraction (madhuryya). It resulted in the conversion of his brother Prabodhananda, a Tridandi Sannyasin, and his son Gopala Bhatta who turned out to be one of the Six principal disciples at Vrindavan. At Tiruvattar He picked up the Fifth Chapter of Brahma-Samhita which bore testimony to the Highest Excellence of Krishna and His Pastimes together with a nice delineation of the diverse conception of the Kathenotheists, He visited several places on the Western Coast including Shringeri, Udipi, Todri, Gokarna etc. At Udipi He was misunderstood as a Mayavadi Sannyasin, i.e., as being a recluse of the impersonal School; but Theistic discourses turned the table against the holders of this wrong view. It was stated by the other side that the procedure of fruitive work would lead to Salvation. But He established Bhakti to be both the Means and the End of all activities, which could not be denied by the successors of the Madhva School. He approved their Doctrine that the Object of worship and the Fountainhead of all different Aspects of Vishnu is Krishna, the Allembicing resort of all Rasas and Who is the Presiding Deity of the Madhva School.

He went to Kolahpur and visited other places on His way back to Purusottam Kshetra (Puri), including Pandharpur where His Elder Brother Vishwarupa, known as Swami Sankararanya, left His body on the bank of the river Bheema.

On returning to Puri He met His former Comrades of Nadia, including Thakur Haridas and Damodar Swarup. He rejoined Ramananda Rai and Vasudav Sarvabhauma and His Utkal followers. People from Nadia went to Puri to have a Sight of the Supreme Lord Who returned thither after visiting all the Shrines of the South, including East and West Coast, and after meeting all the then religious heads.

He now showed the people by His Acts how to serve Jagadisha in different capacities, e.g., drawing the Cars with Samkirtan in Congregations. He was now pleased to grant His Permission to see Him first to the son of the Emperor and later on to the Emperor himself. People from Nadia used to meet Him every year during the time of the Car Festival and enjoyed His Presence by strictly following the Dictates of Religion of Love. Sree Krishna-Chaitanya had always a detestation for Mayavada—that phase of Pantheism in which the eternal service is practically denied and pedantic aspersions are found to predominate over the aspects of Transcendental Manifestive Truth.

The Supreme Lord was not permitted by His devotees to proceed to Vrindavan, lest He would not return. The Lord acceded to the apprehension in curbing His Journey from Malda (Old Gauda), a northern district of the same name in Bengal, as per counsels of His admirers. He was determined to proceed to Vrindavan and this time He would accept only one Companion for His Journey to the North–western Province, through wild regions of forests. After crossing over the forest tracks and meeting the ferocious animals by associating Himself with them by chanting the Transcendental Names He reached Benares and met some two or three admirers there before He would take journey for Allahabad where He met Sree Rupa Goswami, one of the Twin Stars of the administration of Bengal whom He taught all about Bhakti—or the procedure how to secure Krishna Prema or the Final Goal of all ambitions. From Allahabad He visited all the vicinities of Vrindavan where Krishna enacted His Bhouma Leela, to enlighten those freed souls who were entitled to have the same and stayed there for some months. He retraced His footsteps to Allahabad via Soron after chalking out the Ganges route to meet Sanatan Goswami who had escaped from the prison of the then King of Bengal as the King could not spare Sanatana for his services for religious purposes. At Allahabad He taught Sanatana all about the Sambandha Jnanam (i.e., the transcendental relation of the Eternal Manifestations).

He paid a short visit to Kurukshetra and some other places which are not specifically noted in His Biography, before He again returned to Puri.

He took vigorous measures in respect of His Followers who were found to go astray from His Instructions, e.g., the renegade Pseudo–Haridas and others.

From His thirty–seventh year to the close of His Leela He did not permit outsiders to perturb Him in His Spiritual Activities except that His intimate followers had the privilege of serving Him in his Krishna–loving aptitude. Sometimes people observed Him in Full Entheasmic Trance. Sometimes He was observed to run into the waters of the Bay considering its brine to be the spiritual water of the Yamuna where Krishna used to play. In all his Spiritual Activities the followers have learnt that Separation of the Consort is estimated as helping the spiritual culture and not the enjoying association of the Absolute which cannot make any progress.

His Disappearance is traced to His Amalgamation with Gopeenath at Tota in Puri. Some are of opinion that He merged into Jagadisha at the Gundicha in Sundarachal. Foolish and unscrupulous men have surmised that His Body was mixed in waters of the Bay, but in that case the dashing wave might have returned Him to the shore. There are different spurious stories which go to show that His Disappearance came about by the activities of His opponents. But the devotees are confident of His Eternal and Spiritual Body being Inseparable from the Owner as He is not to be estimated in the light of an Incarnation or conditioned soul like the preacher who has to pay the debt to Nature.

In fact He was identical with the All–love having no mundane reference to signify His Entity in particular time and space, though He did not show to delude the, apathetic and rupturous views of a non–loving calibre. This is a short Narrative of the Supreme Lord and Rai Ramananda as gauged by mundane spectators known as hagiolaters who search about the accounts of heroes.

CHAPTER II

THE LORD AND HIS BELOVED

(Viewed by Devotees)

We have surveyed in the last Chapter the seeming conception of worldly people about Rai Ramanana. Now we are to enlighten those who are interested in the esoteric aspect of the devotee. Savants of the spiritual manifestations do not corroborate the view of the ordinary observer of mundane phenomena. Conception is carried both in worldly phenomena as well as in Transcendental Manifestive Aspects. A stricter caution may not be neglected in distinguishing the two different planes so as to rescue the true view from confusion.

Rai Ramananda was far from subscribing to the conception of a Pantheist. From what he had disclosed about the solution of the Manifestive Absolute before Sree Krishna–Chaitanya, we come to know that Krishna is the Fountainhead of all sounds, all aspects of sight, the Creator of spritual and mundane representations, the very Centre of all sensuous activities and the Object of all manifestive phenomena. He is the Efficient and Material cause of every manifestation and all noumena. Infinite Potencies are inherent in Him, and the potencies are set to work by being emanated from the sole fountainhead. He is the essence and flavor of all smelling activity of an enjoyer. He is Relishing and Tasteful Entity of all active workers who are a part and parcel of the Substratum and delegated powers.

The sentient creation is nothing but a wrapper of the transcendental senses inherent in all spiritual atoms known as jivas. They are adaptable as predominated agents of the Predominating Aspect of Krishna. Krishna is Himself SVAYAM–RUPA; and other Representative Aspects of the Eternal Fountainhead are His non–distinctive manifestations to help the atomic Spiritual Parts of His Borderland Potency, viz., the Jivas.

There are five stages which are known as acme of spontaneous function towards the All–love by His loving agents. So we do not find any ritualistic performance by Ramananda, though there was the seeming feature of ablution in the waters of the Godavari accompanied by his karmi councilors who were busy in trying to induce him to submit to the conventional customs of the fruitseekers. His conversazione with the Supreme Lord disclosed the fact of his far-off situation from the conception of the ritualists or the designs of the intellectual pedants prone to suicidal commission. The disclosure of the transcendental manifestation through the lips of an eternal devotee was calculated by the following of Sree Krishna–Chaitanya as the pioneer publication of the Transcendental Truth in various aspects. So the messenger should not be misunderstood by scrutinizing merely his outward appearance. A devotee is never recognized by his seeming feature and condition.

The Supreme Lord has taught us by His selfcomposed verse which runs thus—"naham vipro na ca nara–patir napi vaisyo na sudro naham varni na ca grha– patir no vanastho yatir va kintu prodyan–nikhila–paramananda–purnamrtabdher gopi–bhartuh pada–kamalayor dasa–dasanudasah"—The Supreme Teacher posed Himself as the Audience of the speaker of Transcendental Truth as a mere Enquirer. The adamantine mentality could not easily submit to the enlightenment by the eternal observer in his delineation of the Eternal Fact. An unalloyed observation of the soul should not be contaminated in any way to determine himself as being identical with the Oversoul. But an eternal servitor views every manifestation either to be identical with the object of his devotion or traces the eternal relationship with the Same.

The outward meeting of Sree Chaitanya with Ramananda was quite deceptive to the ordinary spectator, specially the dissimilar combination of the Two, one being a Mendicant and the other showing affinity for worldly affairs. Unless the spectator is familiar with the keen insight to penetrate into the hearts of both of them he is not expected to discern the actual subjectivity and their real goal. If the spectator is educated in the line of the salvationists he would necessarily be confused in ascertaining the compatibility of the Two. In his estimation the Mendicant should not show such affinity for a man in power busy with his pompous attempts in securing popularity and must fail as a true religious man. Ramananda was far from the misleading conceptions of an enjoying impersonalist.

The devotees are not properly seen by the non-devotees who have got a wrong education and misconception. A non-devotee often thinks himself quite conversant with all the phases of mundane existence. And this unreliable confidence in himself makes him a pedant and deaf to the inculcation of a devotee's temper. So he cannot participate in the same view with a devotee. The difference between a devotee and the following of the school of impersonalists can be traced by the bifurcate view of the former's particularizing the interest of self with that of the hazy consideration of apparently contending impressions of the latter. The devotee is busy with his person and the Personality of the Absolute. Whereas an impersonalist is found to concentrate his conflicting conceptions to an imaginary unity. His synthetic method in many cases leads him to despair.

Ramananda had one object in view and his object was Krishna and His services in order to please Him. The ordinary eye will consider him to run after different aims to satisfy his senses; but he had only one determination to fulfil. Sree Krishna–Chaitanya and His follower could determine his true position as true devotee, meant for his eternal services to Krishna.

"Though Krishna was observed by the wrestlers as the best champion like the thunder, by the people as the king of men, by the ladies as the attracting centre of love, by the cowherds as their near Relative, by the wrong–doing chieftains as their Chastiser, by the parents as their Only Child, by the Emperor (Kamsa) of Bhoja people as Destruction Incarnate, by the fools as Infinity, by the Yogins as the Final Object and by the Brishnis as their Guardians, the Eternal Brothers (Baladeva and Krishna) went up to the platform of Kamsa." Though Krishna was observed as Matsya, Koorma, Varaha, Nrisimha, Vamana, Three Ramas, Buddha and Kalki, and Brahma, Vishnu and Maheshwara, and Vasudeva, Samkarshana, Pradyumna and Aniruddha, Manwantaravatara, Yugavatara, Aveshavatara, and as the Instructor or Leader, and Brahman and Paramatman by different sights, He was the Only Object of devotion of Ramananda as Consort. When the Absolute is Consort, the reciprocal situation of the Servitor can easily be ascertained as serving–maid. When that Object is eternally served by the serving maid who has just attained towards Him, her eternal age has no variation in the rolling round of time. The very beauty and color of the eternal server is exactly dovetailing the Purpose of the Object and the eternal garments of the Pair are no longer shut off before the following of Ramananda.

The Eternal Name, Form, Color, Abode, Garments, Mentality, Ingredients of service and everything connected therewith are visible to a true devote who aspires to have a similar situation to follow his or her Leader. A hazy sight will determine him in the historicity of heroes, locate him in a particular province, and give him as the holder of a particular situation. But a devotee has little to be taught in these lines to ascertain the absolute whereabouts of Ramananda. A devotee knows Ramananda's grove on the bank of the Spiritual Stream Yamuna and particular helpful Pastimes rendered to Krishna.

CHAPTER III

THEIR CONVERSAZIONE

(For the Beginners)

The ritualists were amazed to find that the Mendicant, coming in contact with a person of lower caste though of high position, showed such ardent love which was not usual. The Supreme Lord thanked His Fortune and went on to say that He was cherishing an extraordinary desire to meet him ever since his transcendental serving mood had been spoken to Him by the erudite scholar Sarvabhouma. In response to the Mendicant's Queries, Ramananda told him that his revered Sarvabhouma has confidence in him and his well-wishing has made him fortunate to have His presence, and shouted "I am an unseeable, untouchable, so quite unworthy of You; but it is the unprecedented mercy of Sarvabhouma that has posed You to extend Your love to an unworthy object like me. I am a slave of my worldly master, whereas You are exhibiting Your Lording Potency of the Fountainhead. You are debarred by the injunctions of the Vedas to see me and to touch me and enjoined to despise me, which You have ignored, as You are kindly bent upon extending Your Mercy to me which is not approved by the society of cultured people. But I see You do not care for these. I am quite worthy of having Your Favor as Your wonted Generosity found to heave me up and this has caused You to inquire about me and brought You here. I am accompanied by tens of hundreds of Brahmanas who are all observed now showing their melted mentality and are found to chant the Name of Hari. A mortal being can never be expected to display such symptoms of Godhead."

Sree Chaitanya, overjoyed by the talk of Ramananda, addressed him as the best of the generous hearted highest class of devotees. "The conversion to mellowness of the hearts of your dependents is due to your devotional activity alone. I Myself, an illusionist and mendicant, am proselytised as a Devotee by your touch. Sarvabhouma, knowing full well My adamantine mentality, has entreated you to rectify Me and to soften My Heart."

Ramananda said to Mahaprabhu, seeing Him invited to dine at the house of Brahmana and His Strong Desire to meet him again in connection with Krishna-Topics, "I am not satisfied with Your mere Sight but want to be regulated by Your Transcendental words. I should require to cleanse my heart by Your Divine Association for a week or so." Though

The Two Eternal friends had no desire to part with Each Other still They were compelled to detach themselves with a view to meet again towards the evening.

When they met again in the evening, the Dialogue on Krishna–Topics went on. The Lord inquired, "Kindly cite the verse that deals with the Goal of our activities." Ramananda answered by citing the verse of Vishnu Purana, "Service to Vishnu is rendered by performing the respective duties of an individual. Vishnu is pleased by the actual following of ritualistic duties by a person of his particular status and of his particular condition in the four–fold classification of society. Without sticking to the duties of one's respective occupation and condition, there is no other way to please Vishnu."

In Reply to Ramananda's statement the Lord did not admit his proposition, but told him to make further progress in elucidating the topic more vividly. "The seeming sights of mundane representations are not in conformity with the actual demonstration of things. The ritualistic performances are but exoteric attempts in which the esoteric phase is simply ignored."

Having been discouraged in his voluntary citing of the beginner's direction, Ramananda added that people would be profited by surrendering the fruitive results of their performances to Krishna and that this would serve the purpose of all our actions. He quoted a verse from the Bhagavad Geeta which was told to Arjuna by his Preceptor Krishna, "Surrender every thing to Me as to whatever you want to do, whatever you want to eat, whatever you want to offer Me in your ritualistic performances, whatever you are to bestow to others and whatever privations you want to practice." A man of fruitive actions always tends to work for himself and to monopolize the fruits of his deeds depriving all others for his own personal gain. If these actions are done with a mundane reference, the position of the self is not truly determined as it has reference to the exoteric plane only. The mentality is likely to change its direction if this has reference to a witness.

With regard to this, the Lord said that a simple witness in the shape of Vishnu would not do, as this has a mundane relativity. So the object of offering has also mundane relativity. The offerer has his location in mundane relativity and in mundane perishable temporal activities and cannot possibly claim to serve the Eternal All–Blissful Knowledge Vishnu. The human scope is restricted more to limited ethical considerations, whereas the Conception of the Full need not be restricted in that line; so this is but an exoteric enterprise. He wanted him to elucidate the matter further.

Ramananda again taking up the thread said that the sojourner of Theism should leave off his mundane affinity and this will bring the desired result. He culled a sloka from the eleventh and another from the first canto of the Bhagavatam in order to amend his views to have a higher platform in his discourse: Krishna said, "He has attained the highest level who can sever his connection from worldly virtue and sin as dictated by Me to ameliorate his activity in order to serve Me." Again in the Geeta, Krishna said to Arjuna, "I call upon you to rely on Me leaving aside all sorts of virtuous activities, even so you will be relieved from the effects of sin and will not have to repent for doing so."

Persons who engage themselves in endeavors for their own gain, Ramananda classified into three division, viz., (1) enjoyment by not interfering with others will lead one to serve the Personality of Godhead indirectly; (2) surrendering all the fruits of our deeds to the Personality of Godhead; (3) attempting to serve Krishna leaving aside whatever is detrimental or lucrative to us without seeking for any other advantage from any other quarters.

The first has no mention of service but an acknowledgement of the Personality of Godhead. The second has got reference to the service of Godhead along with our deeds and needs, i.e., mixed-up service. And the third is the preference of the service without making any attempt of mixing that with mundane phenomena. In these three the worker or non-worker has direct or indirect reference as recipient. So the reference of the temporal plane is an associated factor, the question of Eternity being ignored. But as the Personality of Godhead is not rightly determined, unalloyed karma with esoteric reference has got some propriety.

The Lord now asked him to leave off the exoteric side and urged for a better level of the approaching entity for higher desirability. Ramananda went on to say that devotion should be attended not with a blind eye but with an esoteric reference of knowledge of the unadulterated. In support of his statement he culled a sloka from the eighteenth chapter of the Geeta, "When a person is set free from limited entities, he is found to be in an undisturbed mood where no want is felt, neither any passionate desire to aggrandize himself; in that case he sees equality in the phenomenal world and thereby avails the opportunity of higher standard of devotion." This has also a relative position of negation of the internal perishable phenomena along with a comparative situation of disturbance and peace. This has a tincture of devotion mixed up with the esoteric reference of phenomena.

So the Lord was observed to tell him again to go on with pointing out a higher phase, deciding this also to be an outward demonstration of devotion. Along with the Direction of the Lord, Ramananda went on to add that devotion which is free from all sorts of esoteric knowledge is considered as a very high form of devotion; and, in establishing such unalloyed devotion, he cited a passage from the fourteenth chapter of the Tenth Skandha of the Bhagavatam: "Empiric knowledge should be thoroughly rejected considering its ephemeral result, and specially as the Whole Truth can never be had by such attempt in our phenomenal scope. We should follow by the three mediums of body, mind and tongue, and audience whatever is passed from the lips of an expert in devotion concerning the Transcendental Narratives, whatever be our position. The unchallenging mood in exercising our aural receiver permits us to cross over the insurmountable altitude of ignorance by practicing a submissive aptitude." Of all these five progressive references of the desirability of approaching and serving the Personality of Godhead the Lord admitted the non-empiric fifth assertion which is free from all sorts of foreign conception mixed up with the activity of animation.

The above conversation has been summed up when the Lord spoke about Bhakti to Sree Rupa Goswami at Allahabad. These different stages tend to award dharma, artha, kama and moksha which are not considered covetable of the unalloyed soul who has the innate quality of Eternity, Knowledge and Bliss combined. By undertaking all irregular attempts we are frustrated to have a virtuous and felicitous life as the infant conception of religion has given temperaments to men of religious temper. They were denied to have the full view of unadulterated love to the Absolute as the essential eternal quality of the soul. The wrong conglomeration of our erroneous support with the true function of the unalloyed soul is not preferable in judging the comparative merits of alloyed devotion. People are often dazzled with the light of virtue and morality, when they consider the desirability of their activity in having sensuous enjoyments as altruists by their predilective mood. The consideration of the highest benefit would lead them to hesitate in regard to the adoption of elevating or setting themselves free from the disturbed atmosphere. The fruitive results are but temporal allurements; whereas desertion of the same by dispelling all ignorance due to phenomena was considered to be efficacious in dismissing the temporal manifestations. So the Lord gave His final decision of attaining unalloyed devotion by the method of driving out all passionate mixture of the active workers as well as passive indolent meditators. Determination of self should not be fixed in any of the conception of physical or astral entity, and the Object of devotion should not be restricted in any exoteric or esoteric phenomena. The uniting tie between the lover and the loved should in no case be a temporal one, a blind one and an interrupted one. Transcendental love is full manifestation of ecstatic expansion void of all discrepancies and deformities of the mundane phenomena. We will be simply bewitched by following the two temptations of phantasmagoria which will ever deprive us from having a peep into the only function of blissful devotional knowledge. The price offered to us in loving devotion has no comparison with the feeble and dying results of karma and jnanam which, when compared with Bhakti, will prove their futility and worthlessness if their respective intensity or magnitude is brought before us. The erroneous determination of our self has gained for us the two degraded attracting tracks which puzzle us in the true selection. So the Lord wanted from the devotee that he should boldly speak out the Truth for the guidance of the true inquirers.

CHAPTER IV

THEIR CONVERSAZIONE

(For the Advanced)

The enlightening hymns of Chhandyogya have impressed us that he who can surpass all conceptions of limitation knowing the Indestructible Personality of the Absolute, is alone not a Kripāna but is a Brahmanā. So the Supreme Lord asked Ramananda to explain his knowledge of transcendence in order to shake off the popular crippled view of ascertaining him by the outward phase. We have surveyed the different aspects of knowledge that are commonly known to people who draw their decision out of their present knowledge derived through the medium of senses.

The comparative merits of pious seekers of virtue against the fallen creatures who have entangled themselves in sinful acts, have been delineated as the stepping–stone of the staircase of Religion. The second step is known as maintainer of the neutrality of virtue and sin, practitioner of the neutral phase of distinctive temporal specification in dismissal of manifestation, and finally the rejector of the three aspects of observer, observation and observed against the enjoying mood of the religionist. The third step inculcates the process of devotion as the medium free from the indirect method of negation of temporary phenomena. Then comes the fourth step where the ambitious fruits targeted by elevationists and salvationists are not traceable. The Supreme Teacher admits the claim of loving devotion against the non–loving substratum of clouded and unclouded gains which are in other words rupturous and void of love. We deal here with the different perspective phases of devotional love which has very little to do with the synthetic situation of the numerous shareholders.

The Object of devotion has no co–sharer to dissuade the ambition of a true targetor. The unalloyed free soul has an innate volcanic activity known as love for the One Object and he is never to be expected to pick up anything for his own which would rouse up jealousy of birds of the same feather, but to achieve the only success of vesting all interests from their contending activities to the One. This One is not to be supposed to discourage any loved with his particular phase of loving service.

To determine the Object of eternal love by the eternal true servitor, no foreign element is to be tentatively introduced to have a distraction from the Absolute Truth. Love may be effected in the five successively different stages by the Lover to the loved. The very Embodiment of Love has the Sole Entity of inviting the eternal loved through their five different Ratis innate in them. Whenever love is attempted from a lower level it has a necessary tinge of reverence. Love is the principal entity of uniting tie between the two. In mundane phenomena love is described as ephemeral and non-eternal. But when the lover and the loved are both eternally reciprocated, such love is not to be confused with our present experience of denominating the mundane love. The subtle gaseous form, when condensed, is liquefied in the language of the Scientist, and the liquid in its turn is solidified in the gradual development. From transcendental non-relativity love is traced to change its subtle form, taking the shape of unalloyed loving service to loving friendship and then to confidential loving friendship. The love becomes purer to concentrate itself to the filial Object and reaches the acme in the Object of Consort. The tone is not changed, but the magnitude of service is augmented gradually step by step.

Ramananda, in describing the loving nature of devotion, cited a verse composed by him which showed the gradual increase of felicity in things which are eatable and drinkable as per the degree and quantity of hunger and thirst. This has analogy to adding more sauce to our serving mood of true love, which brings more enthusiasm. Ramananda went on to cite another verse which was also his composition which purported to disclose the fact that no luck arising out of our action could be compared with the intense aptitude for having a service to Krishna and this is the exchanged value to secure in return for the ripe and soft relishing quality of Krishna's Devotion and this should be secured at all costs when it could be had. Such a disposition is incomparable with earned fortunes. This is spoken of as the base of Prema Bhakti.

To this the Supreme Lord expressed His Approval and asked him to elucidate further. Service with loving temper has got a conspicuous aspect as distinct from the mere base. In this world we invite the objects to serve us and we have got the inner inclination of approving the adaptability of being served by others, as we are quite unaccustomed to find out the All-love Who has concealed Himself from us through our sensuous activities. So Ramananda exhibited the glaring phase of the Pure Service to the Personality of Godhead as the most interesting piece of function of the soul. The soul, now lying in a dormant condition, has delegated powers to the mind in order to take over the charge of meddling with the external world by lording it over mundane entities. But the temporal activity can have the permanent function if the loving aptitude is directed towards the All-love Who is the One without a second. As regards the aspects they will be dealt later on along with our ameliorating functions of love. To support his statement Ramananda culled a passage of the Bhagavatam (9 Sk., 16 ch., 16 sl.) together with a passage from the hymns of Yamunacharyya, "Nothing remains unavailable by the servitors who are purified by the aural reception of the Transcendental Name of the very Entity of Holiness". Alavandar, in his lyrics, gave vent to the expression, "When will that day come when I will be in a position to please my Master, considering myself as an eternal unswerving slave, having dispelled all sorts of designs by my innate serving mood constantly."

The Supreme Lord approved this version of unalloyed service and solicited further progressive elucidation. Ramananda's answer was to target confidential service of a friend to the Personality of Godhead being the highest aim of a devotee. The question of neutrality is amplified in concerning the Integral Absolute and the infinitesimal potency in the same line. In support of his statement Ramananda culled a passage from the tenth Skanda of the Bhagavatam (12th Chapter, 11th Shloka) which ran to disclose the comparative situation of the unexpected fortune that is received by the cowherd-friends of Krishna which have excelled that of the ordinary servitors of the Absolute, the Object of the transcendental Ecstatic Felicity realized by the sojourners of the tract of knowledge.

The Supreme Lord was showing His approval when He heard of the confidential loving service superior to menial service from the lips of Ramananda. When the normal stage is exceeded it was approved not with toleration but with definite and positive assertion. But the Supreme Lord said, "The confidential service is no doubt better than that of the service-holders. Still you are to advance a little more."

So Ramananda had to disclose his heart more in speaking out Filial love for Krishna which is higher and nobler than the confidential friendship. To bear testimony to his assertion he culled two more verses from the tenth chapter of the tenth skandha of the Bhagavatam, "The glory achieved by the parents in serving the Absolute Personality of Godhead exhibited the two incidents of comparative fortune of the parents. What led Nanda and Yasoda to avail the parental situation of the Son- God and what were the incidents that led the unparalleled luck of Yasoda which induced the Son-God to suck her breast ?" The fortune that was not available to the four-faced Brahma, five-faced Siva, the generating and the destroying entity of the Absolute, nor to His spouse Laksmi who has such unprecedented favor, was received by the milk-maid from the Dispenser of liberation. The Supreme Lord approved this disclosure with great sympathy, but asked him to proceed to the climax.

Ramananda in response to His query gave out that Love of Consort predominates over all other aspects of devotion. He recited two verses from the tenth Skandha of the Bhagavatam to espouse the glorious position of the milk-maids who are the best of His subservients. The love for the Consort excels that of all loving servitors or loving parents. The intensity of affinity is the greatest in the milk-maids serving their Consort. The ecstatic displays that are found in ladies towards their husbands, the temporal but incessant love of the goddesses towards their gods, the strongest affinity of the Laksmis towards Narayana, cannot be compared with the ecstatic enthusiasm that was enjoyed by the milk-maids at the Rasa Pastime when every one of them were in the Arms of each of variegated Entities of Krishna. When the Gopees were cast into the depths of the ocean of grief by the conspicuous absence of Sree Krishna, He suddenly appeared before them with a smiling face wearing the yellow apparel, garlanded with flowers. His beautiful appearance was so overwhelmingly attractive that the most sublime beauty completely vanquished the very Entity of aesthetic culture.

The combination of Hasya, Adbhuta, Karuna Rasas added to the delicious taste of Madhura which could not be compared with any other representation of the kind. There are various means by which the services of Krishna are attained and these variegated aspects can be judged with their respective merits. A servitor is to select, by his predilection, the acme of the function of his soul. But there is a distinctive reference of comparative study if we are not guided by a definite principle. A comparative scrutinization would certainly give us to know the additional qualities, as we find in examining ether, etc., augmented by successive additional attributes and reach the climax with the association of the five in the solid representation. The Personality of Godhead can only be had to accept our unalloyed loving service through love alone and not by reverential procedure. Sree Krishna being the very Fountain-head of all resorts of Rasa, He is ever prepared to welcome every servitor whoever he and whatever his serving procedure may be.

But if the Object is distorted like our confusing Jehova with Moloch and Moloch with Jehova, we would certainly miss the kindly feelings of Krishna. This conception in scrutinizing ourselves will lead us astray from the true object. Our eternal functions and activities if misdirected will give us troubles and if we fail to determine Krishna, Who is the Sole Attractor of the unalloyed entities of souls, we will certainly miss to apprehend the process inculcated by Ramananda. Our wrong and erroneous promulgation will never enable us to get the best benefit that can be had by us if we fail to single out loving tenor to Krishna against Dharma, Artha, Kama and Moksha, i.e., by our limited propensity of limited elevation and salvation.

Ramananda, being further asked to subjoin the Fullest Reciprocity of Madhura Rasa, advanced to delineate the Counter Reciprocal Moiety of the whole by fixing the object in Sree Radhika. The highest step of devotion is displayed to serve the Pair and to utilize the full independence of the servitor to espouse the cause of the Predominating Aspect of the counterwhole by associating oneself in Her company. Ramanananda was found to describe the situation of the Paraphernalia and the transcendental duties congenial to confidential service of attending maids of Sree Radhika which completed the full narration of the manifestive position of Amorous Pair.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

In analyzing the narrative we find that we have got an outward structure apart from the physical sight of things. We have got an inner situation as distinguished from the entire contemplative plane where meditating entities are set apart from us. A holder of the physical body and owner of the contemplating spirit has got a common Fountain-head Who or Which is asserted as the Owner of the two possessions and this Proprietor forms a part of the Spiritual Whole with Whom the person is fully associated. The spiritual tie between the Integral Spirit and fractions is roughly known as "meditation". This meditation at the very sight proves to have reference to physical and mental qualities. Both these qualities are shiftable. So the factor of Time puts them into different chambers and this location is restricted to finitudinal inadequacies. If the Spirit is detached from the Integer, the associating tie will be observed to be "meditation"; so the purport of meditation is hampered by the contamination of a different element which is known as matter, being opposite to the spiritual bearing. The very preamble of the Bhagavat School goes to signify the function of the spirit as meditation. If this is judged in the ordinary eye we get the position of the "doer" isolated and joined by a tie or deed which is an instrumental. When love acts as medium between All-love and Love, all the different aspects of Bhakti are included in the word "Dhyanam", or meditation in worldly language. The unalloyed entity will dispel all foreign matters that are included as attributes to suit the relativity of an enjoyer and an enjoyed. The pure unadulterated spiritual attempt of an unalloyed spirit should in no case be confused with the temporal association of material phenomena whether gross or subtle.

Ramananda belonged to the Bhagavat School, so all his activities were pure and instructive, if they were properly followed. The word "following" should not be confused with inadequate or improper relativities of our enjoying mood, which are but defective. The seeming features of things should not predominate over our weak reasonings. If we indulge in such feeble criticism, we would fail to have the full conception of the Object of meditation. The object has been described as "Krishna" or 'Shyama', "Blue Black" or "Dark" i.e. void of all material colors. The hasty sight will deter us to espy the accurate conception. Our bitter experience of relativity will tell us to having the upper hand to get rid of the inadequacy and will instigate our common sense to claim identity with the Whole instead of having firm determination to stick to our real position. In order to get rid of posing as an Integer, which is but a tentative adumbration of depriving ourselves from the Absolute position, Krishna's mercy was fully displayed in Ramananda; so he was constantly busy with the greatest perfection of Eternal Blissful Knowledge. His entity has been analyzed by his deeds as thoroughly associated with the Unalloyed Spiritual Manifestations. Though his deeds are not approved by the enjoying mood of observers, still a keen penetration and longer sight would surely help the people to learn the Absolute Truth from his pastimes. The Supreme Lord sent Pradyumna Mishra, a Brahmana, to pick up some instructions so as to lead him to perfection. The learner was confused to see Ramananda busy with the serving of dancing girls, paying no attention to him. The seeming features did not attract him to accurately observe the Divine Spiritual deeds of the host. The Supreme Lord gave him to understand to have patience to penetrate into the Real Absolute for which every soul is meant to equip himself for the eternal and transcendental journey.

Ramananda's trait of character is painted by the Supreme Lord in equality with Sree Rupa and Sree Sanatana who played the part of model ascetics. Ramananda had no affinity of enjoying the world, but he was always on the look-out of rendering service to Sree Krishna by inducing the serving maids for unalloyed amorous purposes pertaining to the Eternal Pastimes. Silly observations are often found to misunderstand the Whole thing, and they are observed to take the Lowest level of non-ethical principles.

Ramananda's Maithili song has disclosed startling pastimes which are hardly to come under the rationalistic scope of mundane thinkers. And this was fully participated in by the Supreme Lord in the company of His intimate friends. His own verse, "Peedabhirnavakala Kootakatubhih" is the full parade of speedy loving service to Krishna, instead of submitting to passionate feats.

The Supreme Lord has furnished the highest testimonial of the spiritual life in Ramananda. The Supreme Lord spent His last days in the close companionship of this picked-up serving temper with His most confidential associates. His drama served as one of the constant companions of the Supreme Lord's direct service to Krishna. Ramananda was recognized as one of the four Mukta Purushas of the time of the Supreme Lord and he was certified to be the only friend who had no equal among the Bhaktas He met in the South. But alas! the highest platform of a devotee is often taken advantage of by the greatest scoundrels and thereby the Providential Will is carried fully by preventing intelligent pedants to have access to the Eternal World where Knowledge is Infinity and Bliss is incessant. He was not an instructor to teach merely how to get rid of this mundane bondage but served as an advance-guide of eternally unfettered liberated souls in their incessant unalloyed service of the Pastimes of Krishna, who have no connection with or reference to the mundane relative service of the Lord.

VAISHNAVISM Real and Apparent

A Benevolent and Generous Publication

By Paramahansa Swami 108 Sri SHRIMAD BHAKTI SIDDHANTA SARASWATI GOSWAMI

EDITED BY
Paribrajakacharya Tridandi Swami Sri Srimad
BHAKTI VAIBHAVA PURI GOSWAMI MAHARAJ
the beloved disciple of His Divine Grace
Om Vishnupada 108 Shri
SHRIMAD BHAKTI SIDDHANTA SARASWATI GOSWAMI

Published by:

Bhakti Bigyan Nityananda Book Trust
SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION (Regd.)
Sri Bhakti Vinod Ashram,
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur(G.M)
Orissa, (INDIA), Ph-208400

First Edition-1986

WWW Edition-2002(Makara Sankranti)

To be had at:-

1. SRI CHAITANYA CHANDRA ASHRAM,
ITOTA, PURI-752001

Near Gundicha Mandir, Phone-24455

2. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION
SRI RADHA VRINDABAN CHANDRA MANDIR

208, Sevakunja, P.O.-Vrindavan,

Dt.-Mathura, pin-281121, Phone-443603

3. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA MISSION

Sri Goura Saraswata Ashram

Isodyan, P.O.-Mayapur, Dt.-Nadia(W.B.)

Pin-741313, Phone-45313

4. SRI BHAKTI VINODE ASHRAM

Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (G.M.)

Pin-760006, Phone-208400

5. SRI KRISHNA CHAITANYA ASHRAM

Aryapuram, Rajahmundry

Dt.-E.Godavari (A.P.), Pin-533104, Ph-79444

CONTENTS

Foreword – First Edition
Introduction
Invocation
Real Vaisnavism
Real and Apparent Jiva
The Bondage of Jiva
Daya or Kindness to Jiva
Brahmacarya of the Mind and of the Soul
The Characteristic Defects of the Mind
Two Minds – Material and Spiritual
The Supplications of the Spiritual Mind
The Advent of Shree Chaitanya Deva
Chaitanya Deva as a Gardener
Application of Real Kindness to Jivas

PUBLISHER'S FOREWORD IN THE FIRST EDITION

(The 3rd August, 1926)

"This brochure contains the essence of true Vaishnavism as revealed in the Vedas, the Upanishads, the Geeta, the Bhagavata etc, and their teachings put into practice by Shree Chaitanya Deva. Four things may stand in the way of realising the truth laid herein –the cloaks of (high or low) birth and station, (proficiency or deficiency in) worldly knowledge, and (beautiful or ugly, male or female) form. The Over–soul within Whom all individual souls are contained and to Whom all souls knowingly or unknowingly submit, confutes our tricks and talents. The words for every soul who speaks from that life must sound vain to those who do not dwell in the same thought on their own part. When the walls of time and space are taken away we lie on one side to the boundless deeps of spiritual nature and to the attributes of the Supreme Lord, find that there is another youth and another age than that which is measured from the year of our worldly birth and realise that the scale of the soul is one and the scale of the senses and understanding – the agents of the material mind – is another.

The soul in man is not the mind directing the organs of sense and action but the animation of the mind and these organs and the background of our existence. The angle of vision between these individual souls and the Over–soul is one and the same everywhere, whereas there is a distinctive variety and multiplicity of the angles of vision between the material minds and the world of the senses.

These lines will probably create a desire to know in all details the essential nature of the Eternal or Absolute Truth and prompt an honest and sincere enquiry in all who will go through them. His Divine Holiness Paramahansa Paribrajacharya Shree Shreemat Bhaktisiddhanta Saraswati Goswami Maharaj, the President–Acharya and Organiser–in–chief of the Viswa–Vaishnava–Raja Sabha is ever ready to send His associated counterparts –ideal devotees to explain at full length the said scriptures in Bengali, Hindi and English in any part of the World. He has no other work than pouring perpetual benedictions on the suffering humanity and stopping the perennial springs of triple miseries all flesh is heir to."

INTRODUCTION

The word 'Vaishnavism' indicates the normal, eternal, natural condition and devotional characteristics of all individual souls in relation to Vishnu, the All-pervading Soul. The word 'Vaishnava', which literally and naturally means one who worships Vishnu out of pure love expecting nothing from Him in return. The jiva is the part who is identical with the whole when taken qualitatively and different when taken quantitatively. This is the true and eternal relation between jiva and Vishnu. The service of the Master is the fundamental function of the servant, so every jiva is a Vaishnava.

My sincere thanks are due to Spd. Sundarananda Brahmachary and Tridandi Bhikshu Spd. Trivikram Maharaj and Sri Kalicharan Panda for publishing the Book within a short time. May Lord Krishna bless them.

Sri Nrusimha Chaturdasi (23.5.1986.)

Invoking the blessings of Srila Saraswati Goswami, the Divine Master, Tridandi Bhikhyu Bhakti Vaibhava Puri

The Triumph of

SHREE SHREE GURU AND GAURANGA

VAISHNAVISM

REAL AND APPARENT

INVOCATION

Let us bow down at full length to the Acharya or Gurudeva (the preceptor) Who is no other than the associated counterpart of the Supreme Lord Himself and Who, being kindness incarnate, is ever busy in kindly operating on the cataractous eye of ignorance of all Jivas (souls, jivatmas) with the spike of true knowledge, thus openeth their eternal spiritual eyes and anointeth them with the collyrium of pure, disinterested and unsmitten love of Krishna (The Most Pleasing Attractor), stopping further attacks and enabling them to see Him face to face in His blissful Abode.

Let us kiss over and over again the dust of the holy feet of the devotees of Krishna who like purpose-trees (Kalpataru) yield the fruition of all our devotional desires, and who are oceans of kindness and purifiers of the fallen.

Let us prostrate before Him Who is the most munificent, the free-giver of the love of Krishna –Who is Krishna Himself, Whose name is Krishna–Chaitanya, the glow of Whose body dims the lustre of liquid gold and the graceful glance of Whose lotus-eyes makes the devotees look upon annihilations (conscious and unconscious) as hellish existences, heaven as a castle in the air, the unsatiable and unconquerable organs of sense and action as venomous serpents devoid of poison– fangs and the universe as a blissful abode.

REAL VAISNAVISM

The word 'Vaishnavism' indicates the normal, eternal and natural condition, functions and devotional characteristics of all individual souls in relation to Vishnu, the Supreme, the All-pervading Soul. But such an unnatural, unpleasant and regrettable sense has been attributed to the word as to naturally make one understand by the word, Vaishnava (literally a pure and selfless worshipper of Vishnu), a human form with twelve peculiar signs (Tilak) and dress on, worshipping many gods under the garb of a particular God and hating another human form who marks himself with different signs, puts on a different dress and worships a different God in a different way as is the case with the words 'Shaiva', 'Shakta', 'Ganapatya', 'Jaina', 'Buddhist', 'Mohammedan', 'Christian' etc.

This is the most unnatural, unpleasant and regrettable sense of the word, 'Vaishnava', which literally and naturally means one who worships Vishnu out of pure love expecting nothing from Him in return.

Vishnu, the Supreme, All-pervading Soul, gives life and meaning to all that is. He is the highest unchallengeable Truth devoid of illusion everywhere and through eternity. He is Sat – ever-existing, Chit –all-knowing, Ananda –ever-blissful and fully free. He is in jivas and jivas are in Him, as are the rays in the glowing sun and the particles of water in the vast rolling ocean. As nothing but heat and light of the sun, and coldness, liquidity etc. of the sea is found in the constituents of the rays and the particles of water respectively, so nothing but Sat, Chit or free-will and Ananda is found in the jiva. The ingredients and attributes of the whole must remain in the part in a smaller degree. So the part is identical with the whole when taken qualitatively and different, when taken quantitatively. This is the true and eternal relation between jiva and Vishnu. So He always prevails over jiva who is also ever subject to Him. As the service of the master is the fundamental function of the servant, so the service of Vishnu is natural and inherent in jiva and it is called Vaishnavata or Vaishnavism and every jiva is a Vaishnava. As a person possessing immense riches is called a miser if he does not display and make proper use of them, so jivas when they do not display Vaishnavata, are called Non-Vaisnavas or A- Vaisnavas though in reality they are so.

Real and apparent jiva

Shree Chaitanya Deva once being asked who He was, replied, "I am neither a Brahmin, nor a King, nor a Vaishya, nor a Shudra, nor a Sannyasin, nor a Vanacharin, nor a Grihastha, nor a Brahmacharin, but I am the servant of all the servants of Vishnu." At another time, Shree Sanatana Prabhu asked Him, "Who am I and why tritap* –the three kinds of afflictions trouble me?" Shree Chaitanya Deva answered, "Sanatana, you are a jiva, your real self is the eternal servant of Vishnu; but you have an apparent self –your mind and body with which the real 'I' in stupor identifies himself. Tritap afflicts this apparent 'I'. The real 'I' or jiva has put on these two mortal garments, the subtle and ever-changing mind (consisting of ever-increasing unsatisfied desires) and the physical body (consisting of five elements – earth, water, fire, air and ether). The real 'I' forgets his own true self and is, in consequence, wrapped up in these two wears, inner and outer, and designates himself a Hindu, a Mohammedan, a Christian, a Brahmin, a male, a female, rich, poor and so on. These designations of creed, caste, rank etc., not only change in different births but in one and the same birth; –a Hindu becomes a Mohammedan or a Christian; a Mohammedan becomes a Hindu, a Brahmin becomes a 'Brahmo' or a Christian! A street-boy becomes a Nawab, a Nawab becomes a beggar. As changeability is the prime factor of the mind, it flies like a roaming bee on the wings of desires and changes at will its name, colour, creed, habitation etc. One frequently goes from 'Log Cabin to White House', from the seal to the crown. The sweet sixteen changes into bitter sixty –'The old order changeth yielding place to new.' Jiva in this manufactory of change, in this whirlpool of birth and death, is called enslaved (Baddha or apparent), ever engaged in forging the fetters of bondage.

The bondage of jiva

Jivas are of two kinds –(1) Nitya–Mukta (eternally free), (2) Nitya– Baddha (eternally enslaved). Free jivas are never enslaved. They are serving the Supreme God in five different functions in His eternal blissful abode, where there is no change, no destruction, no misery. Jiva, once entered there never comes back here. The inconceivably narrowest line of demarcation between land and water or the line where land and water meet is called Tata; so also the meeting line of the Chit world or the eternal abode of the Supreme Lord and the A–Chit world or the region of Maya is called Tata. The power of the Supreme Lord displayed at the Tata is known as the Tatastha (lying at the Tata) or marginal power. All the jivas being the display of this power, have the inherent oscillating tendency and capability of going to the Chit or the A–Chit world. Tata not being a resting place, jivas must go this side or that ; those preferring the A–Chit, fell into the clutches of the Octopus Maya, when these mortal costumes of mind and body were put on him as a punishment. The satanic frenzy in which the jiva dislikes the blissful and eternal service of his Master and prefers to quench his thirstful desires of enjoying matter, opens before him a perpetual spring of liquid fire and poison at which he begins to drink deep. Thus in going to lord it over Maya, jiva became enslaved by her.

Daya or kindness to jiva

One apparent jiva considers himself (mentally and physically) less distressed than another jiva, feels for his distress and does something in the shape of relief or redress. This is but stopping or diminishing the unending miseries partly, locally or temporarily. It is frequently seen that a jiva who feels aggrieved and consequently abstains from committing wrong owing to weakness or inability, recovers, at such relief, strength or ability enough to commit wrong to other jivas. So it often happens that such apparently kind services not only bring harm to the recipient but cause indirect injuries to others. This is one aspect of the thing. Let us turn to the other. As a gardener prunes a growing tree, allowing its root to grow freely and easily, as a physician treats a patient leaving the prime-disease undisturbed, so this sort of temporary kindness stops, no doubt, the growth of the present inconveniences for a while but in no way uproots the cause whence all these afflictions arise. This cause has been identified with the enslaved condition of jivas. So real and permanent kindness consists in bringing before the enslaved jivas a true and vivid picture of their natural, free and blissful existence and reinstating them in their true position. Thus real kindness is applicable to the real jiva and apparent kindness to the apparent jiva.

Brahmacharya of the mind and of the soul

Should we picture the very sad and deplorable mental and physical condition of the younger generation –the boys of schools and colleges? Ye guardians, parents and well-wishers of boys, how long will you wink at the stealthy undermining of the vitality of your dear ones and be cruel to them? While claiming a right over their mind and body for one's own enjoyment, is it not fair that one should look after their proper and natural development? There is in every soul a strong ardour of religious zeal, which, though pent up, will gush and struggle out like rain from the throat of the over-flowing spout. How will the plants grow if the preserving fences devour them? Can anybody deny that the generation is going day by day to be mental and thus physical slaves to their senses?

Mere artificial restraint and austerity on the body and the mind, a mechanical regulation of diet and living in a solitary place do not constitute Brahmacharya, for they change their sky not their mind, who scour across the sea. Then the animals in the 'zoo' would have been the best Brahmacharins. Brahmacharya is the powerhouse whence currents of Atma-jnan (knowledge of one's own self) are generated which illuminates his blinded self, withholds all his evil propensities and set the whole machinery in motion, so that this frail and rare but accidentally-got raft may get across the sea and anchor in the bay for eternity after carrying its passenger to his own home. As a barren cow looks exactly like a milch cow, but fails in giving milk to the keeper in return for his most attentive and faithful services which beget only further labour, so the so-called Brahmacharya, or a knowledge of the scriptures will, in no way, inspire Atma-jnana or real Brahmacharya in jivas. By means and ways a non-brahmacharin can never be a Brahmacharin.

In essence, the mind and the soul (the jiva) are diametrically opposite –the former being restless, impetuous, changeable and ever busy in enjoying matter, while the latter is eternal, unchangeable, stable and incapable of enjoying matter. So real Brahmacharya rests in the soul, not in the mind.

The characteristic defects of the mind

The mind and the soul are hostile to each other. There is an eternal enmity between them. In soul the four characteristic errors of the defective mind are totally wanting viz., (1) mistaking the mirage for water, the rope for the serpent; (2) misapprehensive intoxication, (3) knowing things with imperfect senses; (4) deceiving itself and others. As the horse can not hold its own reins, so the mind can not guide itself –it is ever being guided by an unending and unsatiable bundle of desires in the shape of enjoyment or indifference –of doing good or evil. Each individual mind differs from the other –no two identical minds are to be found. The proverb goes –'so many Rishis, so many minds'. A mind can more easily hold a wolf by the ears than steady itself in spiritual experience. Beware of this mind which, like a bad guide, appears before you and others in sheep's clothing with all the ferocity of a ravening wolf and like a professional running thief crying "thief, thief". In the following song of our preceptor the deceptive nature of the mind has been fully and clearly described:

Ye wicked mind! Thou art not a Vaishnava. The apparent chanting of Hari's name in a lonely house is for attaining worldly supremacy; it is nothing but pure hypocrisy!

Dost thou not know that worldly supremacy is as valueless as the dung of a boar and that it is one of the splendours of Maya or illusion? Why shouldst thou think, year in and year out, of wealth and enjoyment ? These are all fleeting and transitory!

When thou claimest wealth as thine own, it creates in thee lusts for enjoyment. Madhava –the Lord of all wealth, should only and always be served with it. Why dost thou trespass on the lusts of women whose only and eternal proprietor is Yadava –Krishna, the charmer of all enjoyers.

Ravana–lust–incarnate, fought in vain with Raghava–the Love– incarnate, for the imaginary tree of the supremacy which is but a mirage. The supremacy thou seekest is like quicksand ever receding from thy foot–hold. Thou canst never stand upon it and if thou insist on doing so, it will lead you to rack and ruin. If thou can place thyself on the steady and solid standing– ground whereon a Vaishnava ever stands, thy feet will never slip.

Why dost thou suffer under the false hope of profaning Hari's men – the devotees, and attaining their inherent spiritual eminence and boast of thy fruitless and foolish efforts? An unworldly and eternal pre-eminence spontaneously follows the holy heels of a Vaishnava.

The relation between a Vaishnava (devotee) and Vishnu (the Lord) does not smell of Maya (illusion) or worldly deceit. Knowest thou that thy seeming supremacy is as treacherous as a woman devouring a dog's flesh and thy feigning loneliness is totally hellish.

"I shall give up 'Kirtan' –chanting Lord's name, and besmear myself with supremacy – what is the good in searching for such eminence?" –if this be thy thought, knowest thou for certain that Madhavendra Puri did never deceive himself and commit theft in his own store-house of perception like thee!

Thou shouldst never compare the unsolicited eminence following Madhavendra Puri like an attending maid, with your seeming one which is like the dung of a boar. Thou hast drowned thyself out of envy in the filthy waters of enjoyment and hast abandoned the perfections of kirtan.

Ye wicked mind, bearest in mind that solitary devotion is propagated in disguise by the adopters of evil means. Thinkest thou over and over again what Supreme Lord Gauranga kindly taught us addressing Sanatana Prabhu with the utmost care. Dost not forget for a moment the two most valuable words He taught –apparent and real, apathy and sympathy, freed and enslaved –never confuse the one with the other. Singest thou the Lord's name aloud.

He is a Vaishnava who is never a victim to the tigress of wealth, beauty and fame. He is indeed apathetic and a pure devotee. The transitory world is to him as a snake is to its charmer.

He is indeed apathetic who moderately partakes of things necessary for, and in favour of devotion –neither below nor above par –avoids all enjoyments and is ever free from diseases. He looks upon every thing as his Lord as well as Madhava's, and not meant for his own enjoyment. This identity with, as well as attachment for, the things of Madhava –is real apathy. Fortunate indeed is he who is thus attached to Hari and who sees Hari's Lila or splendour in the realm of matter. He is rich in hypocrisy who sings the Lord's name to attain eminence.

Forsakers of matter out of fear or desire and enjoyers thereof are both equally Non-Vaishnavas. Shun the company of both. Thou canst neither own nor disown the things of Vishnu and thus run mad after enjoyment or renunciation.

The mind of Mayavadins can never think of Krishna and in a mood of imaginary salvation condemn a Vaishnava. Oh mind! Thou art a servant of the Vaishnavas and thou shouldst always hope for attaining devotion. Why shouldst thou hanker after solitude?

A false renouncer calls himself a forsaker –and can never be a Vaishnava, as he abandons his servitorship and drowns himself in solitude. What's the gain in acquiring that seeming good?

Ever engagest thyself in the service of Shree Radha and keepest aloof from the snaky enjoyment. Singest the Lord's name not for glory or supremacy. Why shouldst thou run after false retirement for devotion, leaving aside the worship of Shree Radha, your eternal Object of worship?

The dwellers of Braja are the real objects of preaching, and they being living agents and meant for preaching do not aspire after supremacy and are strong enough to instil life into the audience. Preaching is the symptom of vitality. Song of Krishna does not smell of any attempt for supremacy.

The Humble servant of Shree Radha and her Lover always hopes for kirtan and begs of all to sing the name of his Lord aloud. When meditation will spontaneously follow kirtana, then and then only solitary devotion and renunciation will be natural.

Two minds – material and spiritual

The mind can never sit idle. It will either create a hell out of heaven or a heaven out of hell. It is like drift-wood floating on the ebb and flow of good and evil, right and wrong, virtue and vice. As good Homer sometimes nods, it ever commits wrong in cleaving to that which seems to be evil and abhorring that which seems to be good, and vice versa. Every mind has its own way of looking at things; so what one mind establishes, the other destroys, nay the same mind rejects today what it accepted yesterday, as every life is a series of surprises or experiences. The things one now regards as fixed, shall, one by one, detach themselves, like ripe fruits, from one's experience and fall. The wind shall blow them, none knows whither the landscape, the figures, Calcutta, London, New York, the Royal Throne, the Presidential Chair –are facts as fugitive as any institution past or any whiff of mist or smoke, and so is the society and so the world. Intimately alluring and attractive was a man to you yesterday, a great hope, a sea to swim in; now you have found his shores, found it a pond and you care not if you never see it again. The proverb goes, –"Today king, tomorrow nothing." There are two minds; one, the spiritual mind or the mind of the soul or jiva, the other, the material mind which has willing, feeling and perception of the material world. The spiritual mind can neither attach itself to, nor detach itself from, the objects of this kingdom of meat and drink nor is it liable to any change or modification in this world of the senses. The tongue may stab the material mind and strike into it a cureless wound, whereas no stab can wound and kill the spiritual mind. An iron ball and the fire are two distinctly different things; but when the former is kept in an intimate touch with the latter, the former plays the role of the latter by radiating heat and light and burning other things, so the material mind, though in reality purely a matter and devoid of life and its attendant energy, having been closely in touch with the spiritual mind from eternity, exhibits its borrowed activity, like an elephant run amuck, uncontrolled by the driver, through the ten organs of action and sense in the shape of good and evil, right and wrong, virtue and vice, philanthropy and self-enjoyment, benevolence and miserliness etc. There is no waking, dreaming or sleeping in the spiritual mind, whereas the physical one wakes, sleeps and dreams; it creates, preserves and destroys and "gives to airy nothing a local habitation and a name." In doing so it sometimes busies itself with the fleeting, frivolous and despicable enjoyments of the world, sometimes it abstains from these things and chooses at will an imaginary god as the object of meditation and worshipful adoration, considers itself a meditator and plunges itself in solitary meditation or worships an idol of wood, clay or metal as a workable god –as a means of attaining (1) Salokya (the existence in the plane of God), (2) Samipya (proximity to God), (3) Sarupya (likeness to God), (4) Sarsti (equal glory of God), and (5) Sayujya (absorption in God or annihilation). It thus turns itself an idolater as a meditator or as an idol-worshipper. Like a dwarf uplifting his hands to catch at the moon it sometimes tries to taste the succulent pastimes of the Supreme Lord in His blissful abode with its passionate senses, identifying the perverted reflection with the real object. The mind, while giving the bridle to its passions and desires and being itself fully subject to affliction, grief and distress, considers itself free from these things and extends its helping hand to an equally suffering mind. Its knowledge of good and bad, happiness and misery, donor and the recipient, law and disorder regarding things other than the Supreme Lord is nothing but a series of blunders and is like jumping from the frying pan into the fire or like swimming between Scylla and Charybdis.

Its utterance, however sweet and sound, its meditation, however deep, long and undisturbed, though apparently true have no reality and are ever subject to change and destruction. Sometimes it imitates the activities of the spiritual mind and picks its own pocket. An abnormal heat in the body caused by keeping a garlic under the armpit or exposing the body to the scorching sun and the heat caused by fever, though similar in perception, are not the same thing –the former is artificial, empiric and inductive, while the latter is natural, spontaneous and deductive; the activity of the germ working within, bursts forth in the shape of feverish heat, headache etc. When the spiritual mind sets about his dormant devotional activities and his inherent love of God begins to blossom forth at the touch of the eternal, superior ecstatic Energy incarnate as his deliverer, tremor (Kampa), tears (Asru), stupefaction (Stambha), perspiration (Sveda), horripilation (Pulaka), pallor (Vaivarnya), humility (Dainya), throbbing, (Bepathu), exultation (Harsha) etc. appear on the body as spiritual changes (Sativika vikara).

Sometimes changes of this nature and appearance are noticed on the bodies of emotional persons whose minds are so supple and susceptible as to easily produce those peculiar signs at the clangour of the drum and the cymbal, sweet music or the like. These are mere effects of the cause; and the effects disappear as soon as the cause is withdrawn, as the fever-looking heat disappears from the body as soon as it is withdrawn from the burning rays or the garlic is removed from the arm-pit. As the pendulum oscillates between two extremes, so the mind oscillates between enjoyment and abstinence. When it gets tired with the meat and drink of this world, the busy strife of the dinning city, the griefs and woes of sweet home, the guilty mind seems to awake and exhibits a life of retirement, non attachment or reclusion, oftentimes vainly directing its energies to annihilate the imperishable and indestructible devotional energy of the spiritual mind –to reduce it to nothing so that it can never feel, will or perceive –it may never come across the fleeting, changeable, and afflicting things of pleasure and pain. Sometimes one male mind feels the want of a female mind, and thus a male body gets united with a female body through the bond of wedlock. No sooner is this want fulfilled than fresh wants of wealth and home and hearth arise. When it rolls in wealth and the sweet smile of wife and children cheers it, alas, the grim reaper whose name is death, reaps, with his keen sickle the bearded grain and the flowers that grow between at a breath! Then it realises that it was drinking poison from a cup of gold. Thus it happens that the spiritual mind feels that it is fallen in an ocean whose waters of deep woe are brackish with the salt of human tears, and that it is within the jaws of lusts and anger like so many sharks and crocodiles swimming therein, enchained with ardent longings, totally unfriended and shelterless. He shakes off the torpor and realises that the material mind had so long been vainly playing with the fleshy forms known as the wife, the son etc. and fleeting joys like so many unsteady limpid drops of water on a lotus-leaf.

Had satiation been in strength Myro and Ophellius would have been happy; had it been in wealth Croesus would have been happy; neither lies it in power nor in all these things together, for Nero, Sardanapalus and Agamemnon sighed and wept and tore their hair and were the slaves of circumstances and the dupes of appearances. The spiritual mind realises that he is living like a double-caged bird which identifies its own living self with the material cages, that the cages he is living in are ever subject to change and decay and though they look fresh and alive they are nothing but dust and will crumble into dust. The subtle cage of the material mind is within the gross cage of the physical body. The material mind is dancing like a jackdaw with the borrowed plumes of a peacock. He reflects –

What relish can there be in this decaying body, made up of the five decomposable elements and full of putrescence and impurity? Shall we not mind for a moment that this perishable and ever-changing body is liable to wrath, ambition, illusion, fear, grief, envy, hatred –separation from those we hold most dear and association with those we hate? What relish can there be for material enjoyments when we are exposed to hunger, thirst, disease, decrepitude, emaciation, growth, decline and death. The universe is tending to decay, –grass, trees, animals, spring up and die. Mighty men are gone leaving their joys and glories. Beings still greater than these have passed away –vast oceans have dried –mountains have been thrown down, the polar star displaced, the cords that bind the planets rent asunder, the whole earth deluged with flood –in such a world what relish can there be for fleeting enjoyments? Living in such a world are we not like frogs jumping in a dried up well?

To get rid of the deception of this false and treacherous seeming friend, we should be sincerely suppliant before the Supreme Lord and water our couch with tears; He will receive our prayers, have mercy on us and out of His naturally loving kindness, appear before us as the preceptor, with all the proficiency in the scriptures and fully free from the hankerings of the senses, to rid us from the clutch of the wicked mind, which has flame all around and death within, to cut asunder all its knots and hitches and to dispel all our darkness of the heart as an elephant runs away from the darkest recesses of the jungle at the approach of the lion and the veil of darkness is withdrawn from the surface of the earth at the advent of Aurora. Then the mind will brood over its guilty woes like a scorpion girt by fire.

The supplications of the spiritual mind

One material mind prays to another material mind (both of whom are being eternally and equally afflicted by three kinds of miseries) for relief or help. Its prayers are but hankerings after enjoyment and are always caused by want, fear and anxiety. There is no material mind –whether of a king or a tenant, a lord or a servant, a master or a pupil, the strong or the weak, the rich or the poor, the scholar or the dunce –which can ever be relieved of want or fear; whereas the spiritual mind never prays for daily bread, any sort of material relief, worldly prosperity, a life devoid of all miseries, a life in heaven dipped in celestial bliss or a peaceful existence in the kingdom of God. He has no such prayer, but is ever suppliant before the Supreme Lord and insists on the continuity of his loving service which is never at an end. As soon as he perceives the wicked and inimical activities of the material mind, he supplicates thus before a Vaishnava who has no want, fear or terrors of birth and death and is powerful enough to deliver all spiritual minds from the clutch of the material mind:–

Vaishnava Thakur, the ocean of kindness, I take shelter at thy lotus– feet. Have mercy on me, your humble servant, and purify me with the cool shade of your holy feet.

Check my proneness to pollute myself by (1) using offensive and hurtful language to others, (2) floating adrift with various frivolous and despicable passions, (3) using harsh words, (4) coveting palatable things, (5) giving loose to my appetite, (6) hankering after lasciviousness; –rid my grovelling self of the six evils of (1) putting by things in excess, (2) going against devotion by adhering to that which is forbidden and abhorring that which is favourable, (3) indulging in useless idle gossips, (4) retarding devotional progress and accelerating the contrary, (5) keeping company with the non–devotees and remaining aloof from the devotees, (6) floating with changeable views and transfuse into me the six virtues of (1) eagerness for walking in devotional ordinances, (2) firm conviction and sincere faith, (3) patience and perseverance in devotion, (4) adherence to the favourable enjoinders and abhorrence for prohibitions in devotion, (5) forsaking the company of the effeminate tied to a woman's apron–strings and the impious, (6) following the footsteps of the righteous men. I have been waiting for your company, bereft of which I am totally powerless to sing the name of the Supreme Lord (Krishna); so be kind enough to instil in me reverence and enrich me with the wealth of the Lord's (Krishna's) name as Krishna is yours and you can give Him to me –a beggar, bereft of all worldly wealth and following you chanting 'Krishna', 'Krishna'.

Vaishnavas are the wealth of this world. They who serve the Supreme Lord under his (Vaishnava's) guidance, walk in the commandments of the Lord and follow His observances, the rest live and die in vain. The best ornament of our head should be the dust of their feet, the best food, the remnants of their dish and the best drink, the water that washes their holy feet –these and only these can renew devotional love in us. Who but a Vaishnava will save our blinded selves from being led by a blind and from the onsets of ever-increasing insatiable lusts, anger, covetousness, illusion and egotism? We are groping in the dark labyrinth of this world and know not whither lies our way.

The advent of Shree Chaitanya Deva

It was in the year 1486 A.D. that Shree Chaitanya Deva appeared before us at Mayapur in Antardwip [the island at the core or centre of the nine (nava) islands (dwipa) of which Navadwip consists] on the eastern bank of the holy Ganges and lived there for the first twenty-four years of His stay here playing the part of householder. He accepted as his father, Jagannatha Misra, a respectable Brahmin Pandita of Sylhet, then settled at Navadwip, and Sachi Devi, an ideal Brahmin lady of the time as His mother. He had a human form so perfectly built, so lustrously complexed, so highly statured and so lovely as purely inconceivable in a human body, and possessed such a pleasing and overpowering intelligence before whose effulgence the brightest and sharpest human intelligences burned like glowworms. With all these superhuman gifts and possessions, He led the life of an ideal Vaishnava and with a view to establish an exemplar life of a pure and sincere devotee, extremely painful at the separation of His Divine Lover, complaisant and compliant to please Him by doing the highest good to Himself and to others by Himself adopting the life of an ideal devotee and by making others adopt a similar life. As propagation and practice or precept and example do rarely go hand in hand, He himself practised what He preached. He showed practically that devotion lies in all souls and not in the accompanying minds and bodies and that neither the delible stamp of birth, worldly knowledge and riches do in any way stand in the way of devotion nor do low birth, ignorance and poverty help or endanger devotion. The soul obliterates his individuality before the world and disclaims these designations. He knows that he is lowlier than the grass, more forbearant than a tree, himself honourless and honours other souls and that he sings the praise and glory of Hari day and night whether the material mind sleeps or wakes, the physical body busies itself or is at rest and even when he gives up for ever these two coils of the body and the mind. When the soul – not the material mind, surrenders himself to a Vaishnava and chants the name of 'Krishna' under his guidance and following his devotional enjoinders, (1) the activities of the material mind eternally prevailing over and enshrouding the soul or the spiritual mind gradually diminish, (2) the forest-fire caused by the friction of material minds is put out not to burn any more, (3) the efflorescent beams of Divine Bliss open the buds of spiritual weal, (4) transcendental wisdom bursts forth the shell of worldly knowledge, (5) the ocean of bliss swells up, (6) the soul tastes at every sip the succus of Divine Love, (7) wherein all souls are immersed casting off the impurities of the material mind.

Along with the soul's casting off the torpor of the illusory gloom reigning over him from eternity, the prayer of the material mind for worldly wealth, for dear ones, and for a proficiency in worldly knowledge diminishes and he longs for eternal devotion unborn of motive or desire in whatever situation his Lord pleases to place him.

Chaitanya Deva as a Gardener

This distinctive inherent activity of the soul, which is called devotion and wafts the spiritual mind above all sordid thoughts, was not only propagated by Shree Chaitanya Deva but He Himself was an embodiment of it and proclaimed that He was a gardener possessing and nurturing the immortal and ever-fruitful tree of Divine Love, the innumerable and succulent fruits whereof are hanging like figs on a fig-tree and that His business was to distribute these fruits to the rich and the poor, the high and the low alike without any price and consideration and thus to play the part of a most munificent giver. He renounced the world and took up the task of distributing Divine Love to all jivas who were groping after the Spiritual by describing Him as invisible or were oblivious of their own true selves as well as of the real nature of their most Pleasing and Loving Attractor. This forgetfulness on the part of jivas is the root of all evils and sufferings; so He entreated one and all to taste of this divine fruit and contribute their share in distributing the fruit of Divine Love and enjoined that the best use of their lives lay in doing the highest and eternal good to themselves and to others and in practising at all times spiritual weal to others with their life, wealth, intelligence and speech. He said, "In so doing the waves of the world will not stand in your way as your steps are ordered by the Divine Lover and He delights in your way. There may be a seeming fall but fear not nor be utterly cast down as He holds you up with His hand. If you are dumb, you will be a persuasive talker, if your legs are crippled, you will cross the Alps with ease and your words will need no bell to call people together and no constable to keep them –these will draw the children from their play, the old from their armchairs, the invalid from their warm chamber. Those who feel that their hardened necks are within the guillotine of birth and death will flow in torrents like patients to efficient doctors and will be effectually cured having received your efficacious remedy which is ever effective in its working. Your eye is on the eternal, consequently your intellect will grow and your opinions and actions will have such a beauty and strength which no learning or combined advantages of other men can rival. Know that Divine Assessors come up with us into life –now under one disguise, now under another like a police-man in a citizen's clothes –walk with us step for step through this world of senses to carry us to our ever-blissful abode."

Application of real kindness to jivas

Shree Nityananda Prabhu, Advaita-acharya Prabhu, Shree Rupa and Sanatana Goswamins and Thakur Haridasa –the dear and ever-associated generals of Shree Chaitanya Deva were deputed in rendering practical kindness to the ever-suffering humanity by:

- (1) Spending their whole time and energy in devotional activities,
- (2) Chanting aloud the Lord's name day and night,
- (3) Singing His praise and glory,
- (4) Compiling volumes of devotional works,
- (5) Reclaiming and restoring the sacred sites,
- (6) Going from door to door and begging of the sleepers and dreamers thereof to arise, awake and worship Krishna, talk about Krishna, take His name and know that He is their father, mother, wealth and life; that they have no other objects of worship save and except 'Krishna'. As the twigs, leaves, flowers, fruits and the branches of the tree –their rest –are actually fed by feeding the roots and as the limbs of the body are properly nourished by putting the food into the stomach, so the innumerable gods, sages, forefathers, kings, animals are fully and properly appeased if Krishna, wherein lie all of them together, is worshipped. As continual showers of rain cannot feed the leaves nor enliven them, unless and until the rainwater is taken up by the roots and as the limbs are unable to get any nourishment from the food unless it is put into the stomach, so none can accept any present or exact adoration directly from men, unless all presents are made over to Krishna and He is worshipped.

All souls or jivas in their true selves are related to Krishna, the Over- soul, either as (1) His mute servants, –the flute, the rod etc., (2) His servitors, His gardeners, His sweepers etc., (3) His friends, playmates, (4) His parents Nanda- Yashoda, (5) His consorts –Shree Radha and her attendants. This relation being eternally fixed is neither inter-changeable nor transferable. Krishna, the Prime Cause, the Lord of all lords, the Supreme of all Gods, is imbued fully with the six divine pre- essences –(1) Wealth, (2) Might, (3) Glory, (4) Splendour, (5) Wisdom, (6) Dispassion –dilute in His over-flowing love and all—charming beauty. He is the only Lover and the only object of love. This love, fully free from all earthly dross of lusts and passion, makes the Lover serve His beloved ones and the beloved ones their Lover —this love drowns all conceptions of Divine Sovereignty and possession of the above six pre— essences. The eyes of the beloved are always blind to notice the sovereignty or adorability of the object of love. The beloved ones, spontaneously deem themselves either equal or superior to the object of love, in consequence the former playfully ascends the shoulder of, chastises or takes to task or brings up with affectionate care, the latter. The love of Krishna is thus characterised. Krishna's loving beauty is so enamouring that even the god of lusts is charmed by Him and Krishna Himself being charmed by His own beauty and loveliness covets the pleasure enjoyed by the best of His lovers Shree Radha, by lovingly serving such Form as His. So anointing Himself with the lustre and complexion of Shree Radha and having been imbued with Her ardent longings of love, Krishna is ever dallying as an exemplary lover of Himself as Shree Gauranga. Shree Krishna, the essential nature of the Supreme Being —the only Real and Eternal Truth is the only object of love and Shree Gauranga the possessor and distributor of that love Krishna is simultaneously dallying with His dear consort in the groves of Vrindavana and tasting the extract of love—succus flowing from His consort as Gauranga at Nabadwip, Himself singing Krishna's name and teaching others how to love Krishna and sing His name. In so doing He distinguishes pointedly the real name, identical with the Object Himself, from the apparent or false one which is taken profanely, blasphemously or in vain. He emphasises that in this Kali—yuga (era) worldly people indulge in (1) duplicity, (2) intoxication, (3) sensuality, (4) killing of animals, (5) mercenariness and so are unable to meditate upon, or worship Vishnu and to perform Vedic sacrifices. So the chanting of Krishna's name is the only meditation, the only sacrifice, the only worship in this Kali—age —Name is the means, Name is the end. But it should be noted with the utmost care that Krishna's name is not mere combination or utterance of letters. A similarity in utterance and appearance is not identity. The fire and the glow—worm though similar in appearance are not identical. The minutest spark of fire set consciously or unconsciously, seriously or playfully will instantaneously burn an inflammable thing, whereas thousand glowworms will not act in thousand years. Krishna's name is identical with Krishna Himself and pregnant with all the properties and attributes of Krishna. So His name, unlike all other names, is full of energy, perfect, eternal, pure, devoid of illusion and eternally free. Aurora is sufficient to dispel the darkness of night and to drive the wild animals to their lairs and thieves and dacoits to their resorts, enables us to distinguish the various objects of senses and ushers the advent of the glowing lamp of heaven. So does Namabhasa (the utterance of name avoiding the ten profanations) stop poverty from planting our pillows with thorns, destroy our worldly hankerings and dispel the illusory gloom, so that we may see the Name face to face. When the everburning lamp peeps out of the eastern horizon, its ever—effulgent rays make us see it face to face and feel its golden rays and enable us to see all objects bathing therein. The sun is seen and felt by us with its own rays and heat and not with the help of any other glowing object. The brightest candles of the universe put together can not make the sun visible to us. When our dreamy nights are at an end —when we shake off the torpor, open our eyes, turn them to the east, we see the Name—sun with all his glory and beauty.

*Tritap –The three afflictions are three kinds of miseries known as the "Adhyatmika" i.e., those that are due to one's self; the "Adhidaivika" those that arise out of deities or are of supernatural origin, and the "Adhibhautika" those that arise out of natural causes and beings. For example, fever and other such diseases, anger, desire and other such passions form the misery known as the "Adhyatmika". Thunder, lightning etc., produce the "Adhidaivika" misery. The "Adhibhautika" misery results from other animals such as tigers, snakes etc.

As an instrument, a servant, a friend, parents and a consort.

Lectures of

Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Maharaja

Transcribed by Disciples

Tivoli, Slovenia, 24.6.1999.

punar api janmam
punar api maranam
punar api janani
jadane sayanam
samsare putra para dosa
tatha santosa

Where can we really enjoy? We are running after enjoyment. It is only deluding potency which is deluding us. Really we want happiness, we want enjoyment through our senses. We want to see and be happy. We want to hear and be happy. And we want to taste and be happy. And we also want to enjoy happiness and realize that happiness for which we are traveling since so many decades, so many centuries, so many innumerable millions of births. But, why do we take birth and die? Only for enjoyment. We could not able to have the satisfaction and enjoyment. So, dissatisfied we lose this body, enter into another body and there we enjoy, but no satisfaction.

Like this hundred, thousands, millions of births we had. But actually, nowhere we really enjoyed happiness or peace. We are without wants? No. Everybody has got some want. We are after want. Those wants have no end. If one goes, another comes. We are not satisfied with it. Whatever we have we are not satisfied. In order to improve our position we work hard. We struggle hard. We travel by train. We travel by airplane. We travel by more faster vehicles for the pleasures. And for what purpose? Only to satisfy ourselves. That is our want. There are many wants. No want actually we possess can give us real happiness. That we do not know. We are only running after temporary happiness. It is illusory. It is not really happiness. It's illusory. And that illusory happiness we are spending our valuable lives on. And when occasion comes, then we were fortunate when we could get the association of a realized vaisnava or a sadhu.

mamottamasloka janesu sakhyam
samsara–cakre bhramatah sva–karmabhih
tvan–mayayatmatmaja–dara–gehesv
asakta–cittasya na natha bhuyat

Citraketu, a great devotee of the Lord Vishnu. He praised the Lord:

"Oh Lord, I don't want anything in this world."

na naka-prstham na ca paramesthyam
na sarva-bhaumam na rasadhipatyam
na yoga-siddhir apunar-bhavam va
samanjasa tva virahayya kankse

"Oh Lord, I don't want the throne of Indra or throne of Brahma. I don't want to be the master or the ruler of the whole world. Though it is offered to me I won't accept. And all mystic siddhis also I don't want"

And:

"What do you want?"

"I don't want even freedom from birth and death."

"Then what do you want?"

"I want you. You are my wealth. You are the wealth. And if you bless me I will be happy. My happiness comes to an end when I see you, when I talk to you, when I do your service. Then you will be pleased and if you are pleased I will really enjoy the happiness for which I was traveling from one life to another life. Another life to another life. I had no satisfaction. I could not be fully satisfied. Now, when I could see you Lord, and when I approach you, and through your grace, and your pleasing look at this soul. My heart is burning. Now, the heart will become cold. Just like you see the hard day, in the night when you see the moonlight then your heart becomes cold."

Likewise, here in this world we are suffering. Always suffering, suffering, suffering. Nobody can say that I am not suffering. Suffering 1%, 200% and 1000%. There is no limit in suffering. Only we forget that suffering when the reaction comes and for a second we feel happy. But again we have to be dissatisfied. So, real satisfaction comes to us, real happiness comes to us through the association of a sadhu. Sadhus are, real sadhus, they don't want anything of this world. No luxuries they want. They never travel throughout the world to enjoy happiness or enjoy more and freely travel in air. No. What do they want? They want the link with the Supreme Power, Supreme Lord. So, those desires of the sincere devotees can be fulfilled through the association of a sadhu. Sadhus are like gems. If you touch the iron piece with that gem then the iron becomes gold. How is it? You see, the Lord says that... A story about a person, great scholar. And he approached Mahadeva at Benares and begged him. And he, without food. He was fasting. And begging to bless him. And

Mahadeva asked:

"What do you want?"

"Sir, I am suffering. You please remove my suffering."

"Yes. You can have it. You go to Vrindavan. There is a Mahatma. A great soul. And he has got a touching stone. For some money it can. Tell him that I ordered him to deliver that money—gem to you. So, all your troubles, all your sufferings will be cleared."

Then he thought that:

"Definitely that touching stone will give me multimillions of rupees. I can able to obtain and get happiness."

So, went there and requested that saint:

"Sir, you have got that gem. I was informed by Mahadeva and I have come to you, beg you. As he ordered me to reach you, and I, please, can you accept my prayers?"

Then he said:

"Yes, yes. Gem is there, but I don't remember where it is."

Then he thought:

"Yes, I am unfortunate. Though my Lord Siva gave me the gem, but I am not fortunate enough to have it my hand. What shall I do?"

Then he sat for hours. Several hours. No reply. Then he said:

"I am unfortunate. So, I will take leave and go"

When he was going away then Sanatana Goswami. He is Sanatana Goswami. He has come out.

"Yes, you go and there kilometer the 10th, there is one tree. You see on east side of the tree if you dig hard 6 inches you will get that gem there."

He went there and at a particular spot he opened and saw the gem dazzling like sun.

"Oh!?"

Now he tested. A piece of iron he touched, he touched gem. Immediately it become gold.

"Oh, that's correct. This is correct. Mahadeva's boon is correct. Now, I lost my sufferings. I have no sufferings!"

He thought:

"In exchange I will get gold and all the suffering must go." So, carefully in his cloth he kept it and walking to his village. On the way, he is thinking about:

"Such a valuable article this gem. How this saint? He has no cottage, he has no cloth. He is nakedlike with one kaupina. No, not even a glass, anything for water, no glass is there, nothing is with him. Then he is suffering. Then he is master of that gem. Why should he suffer like this? In cold wind. In cold season. No carpet. No kambl."

He asked:

"How he is suffering? Why he is suffering? Is he ignorant? Why he is suffering? When such a valuable gem is there why should he suffer?"

Then he could reconcile that:

"No. There must be some valuable, than this gem must be there with him. So, with that gem he forgot this gem which can give us happiness. He forgot that. He is more happy with that gem. Why should he take care of this material gem?"

Then he returned back to him.

"Sir , I beg you that having in possession such a valuable gem you are nakedlike. You have no cottage, no hut, nothing. You have no shelter. You are sitting under a tree. When you possess such gem which can help you to construct a skyscraper, a hundred stories building. There sufficient luxuries you can enjoy. Why, this luck was thrown? And when I asked "I don't remember where it is" he said. Now after all he gave correct information. I could get the gem, real gem. It is not a mockery. It is not. Actually I am not deceived. Mahadeva never deceived and you never deceived. You have given me that gem. But, I think that in this gem I should enjoy happiness. But in this gem you had no happiness. This gem was thrown at the shade of a tree. It is like a stone. You have treated this like a stone. And why should I kept that. You have got much more valuable stone with you. That stone you please give. We are blessed. Let me sir, give me that stone."

Then he said:

"Do you want that stone? You throw this in Yamuna."

So, immediately he threw that in Yamuna. Then, he gave:

cintamani—prakara—sadmasu kalpavrksa—
laksavrtesu surabhir abhipalayantam
laksmi—sahasra—sata—sambhrama—sevyamanam
govindam adi—purusam tam aham bhajami

He gave in his loan Krishna, Krishna. When he serve Krishna, when he served Krishna, when Krishna came totally in his hands then all his desires of this material gem, all his desires for material enjoyment, happiness, all evaporated.

"I have, I am free from the world's bondage. I am free. By your grace I am free. Because my life, thought could reach my Lord Krishna."

There is nothing superior to Lord Krishna and nothing superior to the blessing of Lord Krishna. No one can have that blessing except who unconditionally surrenders to the Lord. there to approach blessing to the Lord is to unconditionally surrender to him. If one surrenders, Lord will destroy all his sufferings. He will, every second, every moment he will enjoy.

And, Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, when he took initiation from Iswara Puri at Gaya. When he returned from there he was a great scholar, he was a teacher of several thousands students to whom he used to teach. And everybody, there are so many thousands schools, but they teach sanskrit and scholars are many, yet everybody is anxious to reach Chaitanya Prabhu. He is called Nimai pandit. His name was Nimai pandit then. So, giving up all the pundits they used to come to Nimai. And whatever they learned after ten years, Mahaprabhu used to tell them in two years. He was great because he is the Lord. Now, these students, when Mahaprabhu returned from Gaya, Mahaprabhu told all the students:

"You have studied. I am not going to teach you the same subject again. I will teach you about the Supreme Lord. That subject you have to hear."

vidya bhagavata avati

Now, you have become great devotees. Now, you must try to know the transcendental science. I will teach you that transcendental science. You should learn this. Many who are after worldly learning, they went to different pundits. And Mahaprabhu, very few with, was very eager to be with Mahaprabhu only. So Mahaprabhu he was preaching about devotion. The devotion. Because till then he was a great scholar. Everybody, he used to defeat them, questioning about philosophical and grammatical aspects, used to fight with them. But now he gave it up. He wants to reveal himself that he has come to this world to spread this devotion. Unconditional devotion and pure devotion. And the devotion, devotional gem he wants to:

krishna prema pradaya te

He distributed that devotional love to all without distinction of caste, creed or wealth or knowledge. One may have knowledge, one may have no knowledge. One may have wealth, one may have no wealth. One belongs to high class, one belongs to poor class. Whoever he may be if he comes in his view, whenever he sees him, he delivers that prema, that wealth, that spiritual wealth to all. Then after some time he looks at the world. He thought:

"The world is free from influence of kama. Now flooded with prema. They are floating on prema, Krishna prema."

So now, these people who were suffering birth after birth, birth after birth due to their ambitions, greed for happiness and wealth and enjoyment. Now, by the grace of Lord Chaitanya, they are free from greed, free from anger, free from all these qualities which distract a person from devotional thoughts. They are now happy. All these people of Navadvip, they were very happy. Because they have got transcendental love. That love is what we want. We are loving the material objects here. We are loving the nature. We are loving the trees. We are loving the valuable articles. We love golden ornaments. We love buildings. We love dogs. We love cats.

We love our social friends. But, we do not know wherefrom in this world love has come. The love is, the origin of this love is Krishna. Between Krishna and his servant. There are four stages of love. That dasya rasa, sakhya rasa, vatsalya rasa and sringara. One jiva who considers that he is eternal servant of the Lord. As a servant he serves him. Like Hanuman who served Krishna. And again, little advanced prema is sakhya prema. Sakhya prema means friendship. Friendship. When Krishna went to the forest, taking their breakfasts the boys also followed him.

(break of tape)

And this is sringara.

"And what shall we eat, Yashoda?"

One day Krishna spoiled that pot. That pot where she used to churn and prepare butter. Daily big pot is there. And daily at four o'clock morning she gets up and churns that, what you call, the milk or little curd, but we say curd, that curd is churned. From it this butter will float on the surface and they remove that butter and take it. Yashoda has hundreds of maidservants. In spite of that there are only certain cows

Krishna will drink that milk. And those cows, their milk, she herself prepares the butter. And keep that butter on her hand always. Whenever Krishna will get from the sleep. Without opening his eyes, she feeds that butter. So she was serving. Now, one day Krishna destroyed that pot. Then she grew angry:

"Why you have destroyed that pot? Tomorrow how can I prepare butter? For you. How can I prepare?"

She angry, she wanted to beat him with the cane. But he may run away. So, without beating she wanted to tie him. And to a roll when they used to prepare all with wheat and dry powder. Now, when she wanted to tie Krishna with one rope. That rope, one meter rope is sufficient to tie him. Because his body is so much. This body how much rope wants to tie? Only one yard. One meter is sufficient. But the body is not enlarged. Body is same. But she could not able to tie with that one rope. And it is two inches short. Then she thought:

"Two inches short. All right, I shall add another meter."

When another meter was tied at that, and she went to tie, that also became two inches short. Then another piece of rope. Like this the rope became ten meters, twenty meters. And the body is the same. It is not developing.

Just like in Vamana avatara. He came. The Lord, as Vamana avatara, as a dwarf, came to Bali Chakravarti. And when he asked:

"What do you want?"

"I want only three my feet. I want three feet of land."

"What will you do with this three feet of land? You take more. I am the Lord of three worlds. If you want I can give you three worlds. You have come to me. I am a great donor. You ask three feet. No, take three worlds."

"No, No. I will be happy with that."

But, in spite of it, spiritual master told him that, told to Bali:

"Don't believe that he may be dwarf. He is not a dwarf. He is Vishnu. He will take away all your belongings. He will... nothing will be left to you. Even one inch of land there will be, no. You cannot stand."

"I have promised already. So... No, he is Vishnu. Unless you give your promised article then he will forcefully take. So I want to give that."

When it was given he became Trivikrama. The one foot whole world and second foot all ether. The third foot he placed on his head. Now Vamana told Garuda to tie him with a Varuna's yantra and he was tied. Then all the family members have come. And all his friends. All his followers. All his ministers. All his supporters came to Vamana. And they challenged Vamana:

"Is it the way that you should plunder our Lord? You have plundered. You came as a small dwarf. Now you have increased your body, developed your body and became too great. Though you became great my Lord gave everything to you. His house. Then why should you tie? It is justifiable? No."

Then, Bali says:

"No, you cannot argue for me. I have surrendered my life to the Lord. My body belongs to him. Bali's Chakravarti empire come first and Bali also lost his body to the Lord. This body belongs to my Master and he should protect this body. It is his responsibility. He can protect it. He can bury it. He can do it as he likes. You have nothing to say, argue or... You should not advocate for me. You go."

Then they went away. Then the Lord the same... Then he told Bali:

"Whatever the empire that I have taken from you, it belongs to Indra. I will offer to Indra. And you have dedicated all heart and you have dedicated, submitted to me. Now, in return I will be your servant. You will be here as long as in Sutala loka... Now he is the emperor in Sutala loka. As long as you are an emperor I will be as your gatekeeper. Gatekeeper. I will be standing at the gate."

Now he is standing at the gate. Now, this is the surrender.

The thing is. There Yashoda was tying Krishna. Though the body of Krishna is not developing, the same body, but the rope become very long, yet two inches short. What are those two inches? What is the meaning of that two inches? Two inches short means when the devotee offers everything to the Lord:

"Everything's lost. I gave you everything."

Yet, he has to serve the Lord. If he won't serve the Lord then he cannot conquer the Lord. He must submit and do service. One thing is you have to submit. Second thing is you should then receive the blessings of the Lord. The blessings of the Lord one inch. The service offered by this devotee one inch. Two inches. Now if Yashoda, though she wants to tie, but she has no surrender, yes, yes surrender. Yet she considered that the Lord is my boy. I have the capacity to control him, to abuse him, to teach him, to kill him, to beat him. I have got. That is why, as long as she possesses that. Krishna:

"Mother, you want to tie me. All right, tie. But, I have no beginning, no end. How can you tie? You cannot tie."

But, inspite of that majestic conception, he, the Lord, though he possesses, but the devotee, she thinks that he is my boy.

"Unless I teach my boy, who will teach? I will teach my boy by punishing. I will punish. For his welfare I am doing this."

But when the majestic conception enters into her then she can realize:

"No, No. Who am I to control the Lord? He is Lord. He is not my boy."

So, this, she cannot exhibit prema by that. Prema means the devotee thinks that:

"I am superior to the Lord."

Unless he thinks superior and protector and savior of this Lord, then he cannot, she cannot exhibit that prema. The father can exhibit prema towards the child. If the child thinks that:

"I must obey my father, and obey my father and obey".

When he obeys his father then father will be happy. Now, the father whose or son whose conception is not here. Father whose conception is not here. He teaches supreme prema. That prema, now the devotees can control the Lord. The master cannot be controlled by his servant. But the servant has got all right to control the master. Now, Yashoda wanted to control the master by tying, but actually when Krishna reserved his opulence then though she adds more from morning till evening, bringing ropes and adds. She has no rest. Restless she is trying her best to tie him. The Lord, Krishna, to tie him. But she is unable. So now, the Lord, when he saw that:

"My mother. She is my mother. She is my mother. Mother is suffering to tie me. Mother. You have suffered. Know that. You will tie now."

kirtaya acyuta vasoti(verse ?13:13)

Then. Then he obliged to accept the bondage:

"Yes, now you can tie."

Now mother tied. And tied him to something and she went away. And Krishna thought:

"There are two trees. Yamala—arjuna, joint trees. They are standing there."

And these two trees. Who are these two trees? Nalakuvera, Manigriva. The children of Kuvera. They are trees. Narada has cursed them to become trees. Because these two fellows, when they were drinking wine and they were playing in that tank in that Ganga river. And they have no clothes, no clothes. They were dancing with damsels. And when Narada was passing that day, Narada saw that these are all the demigods and now they are reckless. They have no shame. But, the humans came to this shore and tied their clothes. But these two fellows never came. They were very arrogant. And through this wine they forgot themselves.

"Yes. You are like trees. The tree has no shame. But you are not tree. You are now behaving like tree. You have got sense, senseless, you have lost your senses. You drink lots of wine. You must become tree."

Then they said:

"Sir, how long can we be like tree?"

"As long as Krishna appears. If Krishna appears when he touches your body then you get released. Till then you must suffer."

And now Krishna went there with that load. And he was dragging that. He went inside, out, but that big one, thick one doesn't come. So, when he applied due force to these fellows; very big trees, thousands of years trees. And all of them, when they heard this sound, all of them came running to see what's happened. The boy is happy. But the bondage is there. So, mother, not, that not, Krishna cannot able to remove.

But, Krishna can remove all our bondage. But, the bondage given to Krishna by his devotees he cannot untie. Because the reciprocation. But we, if offer ourselves unconditionally to the Lord, Lord will unconditionally surrender to you. Don't think Lord is that imperial power as the Ravanasura or Hiranyakasipu who has engaged all the demigods in his service, so the Lord also is like that. No! Lord is not like that. Lord is always:

hari sevaka sevana dharma balo

When we offer our worship to the Lord in return Lord will worship you. So, this is the conception of prema. And the kama. Kama is greediness, self enjoyment. Prema is always we want to please the Lord. Kama is we want to please ourself. The difference between kama and prema: kama is darkness, darkness. In the dark new moon light, amavasya there. There is no moon. On that day is very dark. So, like that our desires.

As long as we possess our desires, with the desires our heart will be impure, become impure. And if we give up the desires. Then we offer everything to the Lord. Then we will be happy. Lord will accept our service. And in return Lord will surrender to us. If we surrender to him, reciprocation is that he will surrender to us. You can command your son, but you cannot command the Lord. He is the commander. But when he is born here, appeared in this Vrindavan as the son of Nanda, he must obey the orders of Nanda. He carries the sandals of Nanda.

"Krishna, bring those sandals."

Can you order Krishna? Can you order? Who can order? A loving devotee can order. It is said:

aham iha nandam vande
yasyalinde param brahma

He says, this scholar, the scholar. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, when he was going to Vrindavan, on the way he met this scholar. He asked this scholar to whom you worship? To whom you worship? He says:

srutim apare smrtim itare bharatam anye bhajantu bhava-bhitah
aham iha nandam vande yasyalinde param brahma

"Rest people follow the dictations of vedas and upanishads or dharma shastras or bhagavat-gita. And I am not going to follow that. So, according to them the Lord may be different, but according to me I want to worship Nanda."

"Nanda is the Lord?"

"No. But he is the father of the Lord. He obeys the command of Nanda, the father. A son, a devoted son always obeys the command of the father."

(verse ?20:45 gurva chetasya arjam)

Ramacandra went to the forest. Who has commanded him? His father. Father said:

"You go."

No, father never said that. Yet, this was told by Kaikeyi. He loved more Kaikeyi. So, he was then, this boon was asked by Kaikeyi. Then Dasaratha Maharaj senseless. He fell unconscious. When Ramacandra went on the day of incarnation to get his blessings, father is in unconscious stage and Kaikeyi informed:

"Boy, you are a true son of Dasharatha Maharaja. I have helped him. Long, long ago he has promised me two boons. Now he has promised those two boons. I ask."

"What do you want?"

"Now, you must give those two boons."

Then, the one boon Rama should go to forest for fourteen years and Bharata should control, rule this Ayodya for fourteen years. When he heard this he become senseless and he has died that ...(?). But now, he went. The moment he received the blessing to sit on the throne, that blessing has gone, and the blessing is now the mother told:

"It is why father is now unconscious. Don't wake him up. And this is, you are a truthful boy. You please obey this."

Yes..... though Bharata came from ... and requested Rama He said:

"No, I won't return back."

"My father has asked you to rule for fourteen years. You must rule. And she has asked me to be in the forest for fourteen years. I must go to forest. Now, father is no more. Who can cancel that order? Nobody can cancel it, father's order. Even the government's order can be canceled but father's orders can not be canceled. Who can cancel this?"

So he went.

(verse ?23:15) gurva chetasya arjam

So, Lord is so kind. He teaches us in various ways that these instruction for only to awake us from this slumber. We are sleeping. We are in ignorance. We are sleeping. We do not know all these things. So, Lord himself came as a devotee. That devotee is Chaitanya. He went to home. He went teaching. This boy took his hand, took his hand. And he danced. He was beating the drum. He was dancing. Throughout the night dancing. Sankirtan. Sankirtan till three. Through sankirtan you can understand this subject.

This love. The love you can understand through sankirtan. If you repeat namam without offense. Without offense if you go on repeating namam then you can clear your heart. Now it is enveloped by all this ignorance and all that dirt. Now we must surrender to the Lord and repeat their namam and repeat. After surrender we repeat the namam through his blessings. Then he will bless you to destroy your ignorance. Then you will be free from influence of maya. Your heart will be pure. In that pure heart. In that pure mirror you can see who am I. I am eternal servant of my Lord Krishna. You can see your face. Now, your face is glooming. Because it is not wrong thing. Because the mirror through which you see your reflection. It is covered with all dirt. Now, our mind, if it is in pure state, if I am in the pure state then I will be always happy. And to make my heart purified, to make my heart mirror purified I must perform sankirtan. Mahaprabhu says, Krishna:

"You do kirtan. If the kirtan... You must perform kirtan."

ceto darpanam marjanam bhava maha davagni nirvapanam
sreyah kairava candrika-vitaranam vidya vadhu jivanam
anandambudhi vardanam prati-padam purnamrtasvadanam
sarvatma-snapanam param vijayate sri krsna sankirtanam

We will be drown in the ocean of sankirtan. We'll forget ourself, forget the world, forget our kits and kins, forget the enjoyment for we are day and night struggling to have that enjoyment. Purified through sankirtan. Hari kirtan, hari kirtan, hari kirtan. So you give up all your offenses and repeat sankirtan. Today we are happy to be with you. You are all Vaisnavas.

(verse27:00 ?) vaisnava sangete mor anande ..sada hoi krishna para sanga

The Vaisnava doesn't want anything of this world. Luxuries or opulence. They want only Lord Krishna. They want always to sing the Lord. They want the Absolute Truth. Worldly attachment, worldly enjoyment, this is not Absolute Truth. Not that thing. It is only dazzling like. But actually the glitters, all that glitters is not gold. The gold is not. Always we seek. Seeing the glitter, we cannot accept it it is gold. You are all fortunate. All the Vaisnavas have come here and you saw them. You have heard sankirtan. Now you perform sankirtan. After sankirtan you will be given prasad. You go. And we have brought very fine books. And these books were written by our scholars.

Tivoli, Slovenia 24.6.1999.

But we are moving in this world (verse?) punar api janmam punar api maranam punar api janani jadane sayanam samsare putra para dosa tatha santosa

Where can we really enjoy? We are running after enjoyment. It is only deluding potency which is deluding us. Really we want happiness, we want enjoyment through our senses. We want to see and be happy. We want to hear and be happy. And we want to taste and be happy. And we also want to enjoy happiness and realize that happiness for which we are traveling since so many decades, so many centuries, so many innumerable millions of births. But, why do we take birth and die? Only for enjoyment. We could not able to have the satisfaction and enjoyment. So, dissatisfied we lose this body, enter into another body and there we enjoy, but no satisfaction.

Like this hundred, thousands, millions of births we had. But actually, nowhere we really enjoyed happiness or peace. We are without wants? No. Everybody has got some want. We are after want. Those wants have no end. If one goes, another comes. We are not satisfied with it. Whatever we have we are not satisfied. In order to improve our position we work hard. We struggle hard. We travel by train. We travel by airplane. We travel by more faster vehicles for the pleasures. And for what purpose? Only to satisfy ourselves. That is our want. There are many wants. No want actually we posses can give us real happiness. That we do not know.

We are only running after temporary happiness. It is illusory. It is not really happiness. It's illusory. And that illusory happiness we are spending our valuable lives on. And when occasion comes, then we were fortunate when we could get the association of a realized vaisnava or a sadhu.

mamottamasloka janesu sakhyam
samsara-cakre bhramatah sva-karmabhih
tvan-mayayatmatmaja-dara-gehesv
asakta-cittasya na natha bhuyat

Citraketu, a great devotee of the Lord Vishnu. He praised the Lord:

"Oh Lord, I don't want anything in this world."

na naka-prstham na ca paramesthyam
na sarva-bhaumam na rasadhipatyam
na yoga-siddhir apunar-bhavam va
samanjasa tva virahayya kankse

"Oh Lord, I don't want the throne of Indra or throne of Brahma. I don't want to be the master or the ruler of the whole world. Though it is offered to me I won't accept. And all mystic siddhis also I don't want"

And:

"What do you want?"

"I don't want even freedom from birth and death."

"Then what do you want?"

"I want you. You are my wealth. You are the wealth. And if you bless me I will be happy. My happiness comes to an end when I see you, when I talk to you, when I do your service. Then you will be pleased and if you are pleased I will really enjoy the happiness for which I was traveling from one life to another life. Another life to another life. I had no satisfaction. I could not be fully satisfied. Now, when I could see you Lord, and when I approach you, and through your grace, and your pleasing look at this soul. My heart is burning. Now, the heart will become cold. Just like you see the hard day, in the night when you see the moonlight then your heart becomes cold."

Likewise, here in this world we are suffering. Always suffering, suffering, suffering. Nobody can say that I am not suffering. Suffering 1%, 200% and 1000%. There is no limit in suffering. Only we forget that suffering when the reaction comes and for a second we feel happy. But again we have to be dissatisfied. So, real satisfaction comes to us, real happiness comes to us through the association of a sadhu. Sadhus are, real sadhus, they don't want anything of this world. No luxuries they want. They never travel throughout the world to enjoy happiness or enjoy more and freely travel in air. No. What do they want? They want the link with the Supreme Power, Supreme Lord. So, those desires of the sincere devotees can be fulfilled through the association of a sadhu. Sadhus are like gems. If you touch the iron piece with that gem then the iron becomes gold. How is it? You see, the Lord says that... A story about a person, great scholar. And he approached Mahadeva at Benares and begged him. And he, without food. He was fasting. And begging to bless him. And Mahadeva asked:

"What do you want?"

"Sir, I am suffering. You please remove my suffering."

"Yes. You can have it. You go to Vrindavan. There is a Mahatma. A great soul. And he has got a touching stone. For some money it can. Tell him that I ordered him to deliver that money-gem to you. So, all your troubles, all your sufferings will be cleared."

Then he thought that:

"Definitely that touching stone will give me multimillions of rupees. I can be able to obtain and get happiness."

So, he went there and requested that saint:

"Sir, you have got that gem. I was informed by Mahadeva and I have come to you, beg you. As he ordered me to reach you, and I, please, can you accept my prayers?"

Then he said:

"Yes, yes. Gem is there, but I don't remember where it is."

Then he thought:

"Yes, I am unfortunate. Though my Lord Siva gave me the gem, but I am not fortunate enough to have it in my hand. What shall I do?"

Then he sat for hours. Several hours. No reply. Then he said:

"I am unfortunate. So, I will take leave and go"

When he was going away then Sanatana Goswami. He is Sanatana Goswami. He has come out.

"Yes, you go and there is 10 kilometers, there is one tree. You see on east side of the tree if you dig hard 6 inches you will get that gem there."

He went there and at a particular spot he opened and saw the gem dazzling like sun.

"Oh!?"

Now he tested. A piece of iron he touched, he touched gem. Immediately it became gold.

"Oh, that's correct. This is correct. Mahadeva's boon is correct. Now, I lost my sufferings. I have no sufferings!"

He thought:

"In exchange I will get gold and all the suffering must go." So, carefully in his cloth he kept it and walking to his village. On the way, he is thinking about:

"Such a valuable article this gem. How this saint? He has no cottage, he has no cloth. He is nakedlike with one kaupina. No, not even a glass, anything for water, no glass is there, nothing is with him. Then he is suffering. Then he is master of that gem. Why should he suffer like this? In cold wind. In cold season. No carpet. No kambl."

He asked:

"How he is suffering? Why he is suffering? Is he ignorant? Why he is suffering? When such a valuable gem is there why should he suffer?"

Then he could reconcile that:

"No. There must be some valuable, than this gem must be there with him. So, with that gem he forgot this gem which can give us happiness. He forgot that. He is more happy with that gem. Why should he take care of this material gem?"

Then he returned back to him.

"Sir , I beg you that having in possession such a valuable gem you are nakedlike. You have no cottage, no hut, nothing. You have no shelter. You are sitting under a tree. When you possess such gem which can help you to construct a skyscraper, a hundred stories building. There sufficient luxuries you can enjoy. Why, this luck was thrown? And when I asked "I don't remember where it is" he said. Now after all he gave correct information. I could get the gem, real gem. It is not a mockery. It is not. Actually I am not deceived. Mahadeva never deceived and you never deceived. You have given me that gem. But, I think that in this gem I should enjoy happiness. But in this gem you had no happiness. This gem was thrown at the shade of a tree. It is like a stone. You have treated this like a stone. And why should I kept that. You have got much more valuable stone with you. That stone you please give. We are blessed. Let me sir, give me that stone."

Then he said:

"Do you want that stone? You throw this in Yamuna."

So, immediately he threw that in Yamuna. Then, he gave:

cintamani–prakara–sadmasu kalpavrksa–
laksavrtesu surabhir abhipalayantam
laksmi–sahasra–sata–sambhrama–sevyamanam
govindam adi–purusam tam aham bhajami

He gave in his loan Krishna, Krishna. When he serve Krishna, when he served Krishna, when Krishna came totally in his hands then all his desires of this material gem, all his desires for material enjoyment, happiness, all evaporated.

"I have, I am free from the world's bondage. I am free. By your grace I am free. Because my life, thought could reach my Lord Krishna."

There is nothing superior to Lord Krishna and nothing superior to the blessing of Lord Krishna. No one can have that blessing except who unconditionally surrenders to the Lord. there to approach blessing to the Lord is to unconditionally surrender to him. If one surrenders, Lord will destroy all his sufferings. He will, every second, every moment he will enjoy.

And, Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, when he took initiation from Iswara Puri at Gaya. When he returned from there he was a great scholar, he was a teacher of several thousands students to whom he used to teach. And everybody, there are so many thousands schools, but they teach sanskrit and scholars are many, yet everybody is anxious to reach Chaitanya Prabhu. He is called Nimai pandit. His name was Nimai pandit then. So, giving up all the pundits they used to come to Nimai. And whatever they learned after ten years, Mahaprabhu used to tell them in two years. He was great because he is the Lord. Now, these students, when Mahaprabhu returned from Gaya, Mahaprabhu told all the students:

"You have studied. I am not going to teach you the same subject again. I will teach you about the Supreme Lord. That subject you have to hear."

vidya bhagavata avati

Now, you have become great devotees. Now, you must try to know the transcendental science. I will teach you that transcendental science. You should learn this. Many who are after worldly learning, they went to different pundits. And Mahaprabhu, very few with, was very eager to be with Mahaprabhu only. So Mahaprabhu he was preaching about devotion. The devotion. Because till then he was a great scholar. Everybody, he used to defeat them, questioning about philosophical and grammatical aspects, used to fight with them. But now he gave it up. He wants to reveal himself that he has come to this world to spread this devotion. Unconditional devotion and pure devotion. And the devotion, devotional gem he wants to:

krishna prema pradaya te

He distributed that devotional love to all without distinction of caste, creed or wealth or knowledge. One may have knowledge, one may have no knowledge. One may have wealth, one may have no wealth. One belongs to high class, one belongs to poor class. Whoever he may be if he comes in his view, whenever he sees him, he delivers that prema, that wealth, that spiritual wealth to all. Then after some time he looks at the world. He thought:

"The world is free from influence of kama. Now flooded with prema. They are floating on prema, Krishna prema."

So now, these people who were suffering birth after birth, birth after birth due to their ambitions, greed for happiness and wealth and enjoyment. Now, by the grace of Lord Chaitanya, they are free from greed, free from anger, free from all these qualities which distract a person from devotional thoughts. They are now happy. All these people of Navadvip, they were very happy. Because they have got transcendental love. That love is what we want. We are loving the material objects here. We are loving the nature. We are loving the trees. We are loving the valuable articles. We love golden ornaments. We love buildings. We love dogs. We love cats.

We love our social friends. But, we do not know wherefrom in this world love has come. The love is, the origin of this love is Krishna. Between Krishna and his servant. There are four stages of love. That dasya rasa, sakhya rasa, vatsalya rasa and sringara. One jiva who considers that he is eternal servant of the Lord. As a servant he serves him. Like Hanuman who served Krishna. And again, little advanced prema is sakhya prema. Sakhya prema means friendship. Friendship. When Krishna went to the forest, taking their breakfasts the boys also followed him.

(break of tape)

And this is sringara.

"And what shall we eat, Yashoda?"

One day Krishna spoiled that pot. That pot where she used to churn and prepare butter. Daily big pot is there. And daily at four o'clock morning she gets up and churns that, what you call, the milk or little curd, but we say curd, that curd is churned. From it this butter will float on the surface and they remove that butter and take it. Yashoda has hundreds of maidservants. In spite of that there are only certain cowsKrishna will drink that milk. And those cows, their milk, she herself prepares the butter. And keep that butter on her hand always. Whenever Krishna will get from the sleep. Without opening his eyes, she feeds that butter. So she was serving. Now, one day Krishna destroyed that pot. Then she grew angry:

"Why you have destroyed that pot? Tomorrow how can I prepare butter? For you. How can I prepare?"

She angry, she wanted to beat him with the cane. But he may run away. So, without beating she wanted to tie him. And to a roll when they used to prepare all with wheat and dry powder. Now, when she wanted to tie Krishna with one rope. That rope, one meter rope is sufficient to tie him. Because his body is so much. This body how much rope wants to tie? Only one yard. One meter is sufficient. But the body is not enlarged. Body is same. But she could not able to tie with that one rope. And it is two inches short. Then she thought:

"Two inches short. All right, I shall add another meter."

When another meter was tied at that, and she went to tie, that also became two inches short. Then another piece of rope. Like this the rope became ten meters, twenty meters. And the body is the same. It is not developing.

Just like in Vamana avatara. He came. The Lord, as Vamana avatara, as a dwarf, came to Bali Chakravarti. And when he asked:

"What do you want?"

"I want only three my feet. I want three feet of land."

"What will you do with this three feet of land? You take more. I am the Lord of three worlds. If you want I can give you three worlds. You have come to me. I am a great donor. You ask three feet. No, take three worlds."

"No, No. I will be happy with that."

But, inspite of it, spiritual master told him that, told to Bali:

"Don't believe that he may be dwarf. He is not a dwarf. He is Vishnu. He will take away all your belongings. He will... nothing will be left to you. Even one inch of land there will be, no. You cannot stand."

"I have promised already. So... No, he is Vishnu. Unless you give your promised article then he will forcefully take. So I want to give that."

When it was given he became Trivikrama. The one foot whole world and second foot all ether. The third foot he placed on his head. Now Vamana told Garuda to tie him with a Varuna's yantra and he was tied. Then all the family members have come. And all his friends. All his followers. All his ministers. All his supporters came to Vamana. And they challenged Vamana:

"Is it the way that you should plunder our Lord? You have plundered. You came as a small dwarf. Now you have increased your body, developed your body and became too great. Though you became great my Lord gave everything to you. His house. Then why should you tie? It is justifiable? No."

Then, Bali says:

"No, you cannot argue for me. I have surrendered my life to the Lord. My body belongs to him. Bali's Chakravarti empire come first and Bali also lost his body to the Lord. This body belongs to my Master and he should protect this body. It is his responsibility. He can protect it. He can bury it. He can do it as he likes. You have nothing to say, argue or... You should not advocate for me. You go."

Then they went away. Then the Lord the same... Then he told Bali:

"Whatever the empire that I have taken from you, it belongs to Indra. I will offer to Indra. And you have dedicated all heart and you have dedicated, submitted to me. Now, in return I will be your servant. You will be here as long as in Sutala loka... Now he is the emperor in Sutala loka. As long as you are an emperor I will be as your gatekeeper. Gatekeeper. I will be standing at the gate."

Now he is standing at the gate. Now, this is the surrender.

The thing is. There Yashoda was tying Krishna. Though the body of Krishna is not developing, the same body, but the rope become very long, yet two inches short. What are those two inches? What is the meaning of that two inches? Two inches short means when the devotee offers everything to the Lord:

"Everything's lost. I gave you everything."

Yet, he has to serve the Lord. If he won't serve the Lord then he cannot conquer the Lord. He must submit and do service. One thing is you have to submit. Second thing is you should then receive the blessings of the Lord. The blessings of the Lord one inch. The service offered by this devotee one inch. Two inches. Now if Yashoda, though she wants to tie, but she has no surrender, yes, yes surrender. Yet she considered that the Lord is my boy. I have the capacity to control him, to abuse him, to teach him, to kill him, to beat him. I have got. That is why, as long as she possesses that. Krishna:

"Mother, you want to tie me. All right, tie. But, I have no beginning, no end. How can you tie? You cannot tie."

But, inspite of that majestic conception, he, the Lord, though he possesses, but the devotee, she thinks that he is my boy.

"Unless I teach my boy, who will teach? I will teach my boy by punishing. I will punish. For his welfare I am doing this."

But when the majestic conception enters into her then she can realize:

"No, No. Who am I to control the Lord? He is Lord. He is not my boy."

So, this, she cannot exhibit prema by that. Prema means the devotee thinks that:

"I am superior to the Lord."

Unless he thinks superior and protector and savior of this Lord, then he cannot, she cannot exhibit that prema. The father can exhibit prema towards the child. If the child thinks that:

"I must obey my father, and obey my father and obey".

When he obeys his father then father will be happy. Now, the father whose or son whose conception is not here. Father whose conception is not here. He teaches supreme prema. That prema, now the devotees can control the Lord. The master cannot be controlled by his servant. But the servant has got all right to control the master. Now, Yashoda wanted to control the master by tying, but actually when Krishna reserved his opulence then though she adds more from morning till evening, bringing ropes and adds. She has no rest. Restless she is trying her best to tie him. The Lord, Krishna, to tie him. But she is unable. So now, the Lord, when he saw that:

"My mother. She is my mother. She is my mother. Mother is suffering to tie me. Mother. You have suffered. Know that. You will tie now."

kirtaya acyuta vasoti(verse ?13:13)

Then. Then he obliged to accept the bondage:

"Yes, now you can tie."

Now mother tied. And tied him to something and she went away. And Krishna thought:

"There are two trees. Yamala—arjuna, joint trees. They are standing there."

And these two trees. Who are these two trees? Nalakuvera, Manigriva. The children of Kuvera. They are trees. Narada has cursed them to become trees. Because these two fellows, when they were drinking wine and they were playing in that tank in that Ganga river. And they have no clothes, no clothes. They were dancing with damsels. And when Narada was passing that day, Narada saw that these are all the demigods and now they are reckless. They have no shame. But, the humans came to this shore and tied their clothes. But these two fellows never came. They were very arrogant. And through this wine they forgot themselves.

"Yes. You are like trees. The tree has no shame. But you are not tree. You are now behaving like tree. You have got sense, senseless, you have lost your senses. You drink lots of wine. You must become tree."

Then they said:

"Sir, how long can we be like tree?"

"As long as Krishna appears. If Krishna appears when he touches your body then you get released. Till then you must suffer."

And now Krishna went there with that load. And he was dragging that. He went inside, out, but that big one, thick one doesn't come. So, when he applied due force to these fellows; very big trees, thousands of years trees. And all of them, when they heard this sound, all of them came running to see what's happened. The boy is happy. But the bondage is there. So, mother, not, that not, Krishna cannot able to remove. But, Krishna can remove all our bondage. But, the bondage given to Krishna by his devotees he cannot untie. Because the reciprocation. But we, if offer ourselves unconditionally to the Lord, Lord will unconditionally surrender to you. Don't think Lord is that imperial power as the Ravana-sura or Hiranyakasipu who has engaged all the demigods in his service, so the Lord also is like that. No! Lord is not like that. Lord is always:

hari sevaka sevana dharma balo

When we offer our worship to the Lord in return Lord will worship you. So, this is the conception of prema. And the kama. Kama is greediness, self enjoyment. Prema is always we want to please the Lord. Kama is we want to please ourself. The difference between kama and prema: kama is darkness, darkness. In the dark new moon light, amavasya there. There is no moon. On that day is very dark. So, like that our desires. As long as we possess our desires, with the desires our heart will be impure, become impure. And if we give up the desires. Then we offer everything to the Lord. Then we will be happy. Lord will accept our service. And in return Lord will surrender to us. If we surrender to him, reciprocation is that he will surrender to us. You can command your son, but you cannot command the Lord. He is the commander. But when he is born here, appeared in this Vrindavan as the son of Nanda, he must obey the orders of Nanda. He carries the sandals of Nanda.

"Krishna, bring those sandals."

Can you order Krishna? Can you order? Who can order? A loving devotee can order. It is said:

aham iha nandam vande
yasyalinde param brahma

He says, this scholar, the scholar. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, when he was going to Vrindavan, on the way he met this scholar. He asked this scholar to whom you worship? To whom you worship? He says:

srutim apare smrtim itare bharatam anye bhajantu bhava-bhitah
aham iha nandam vande yasyalinde param brahma

"Rest people follow the dictations of vedas and upanishads or dharma shastras or bhagavat-gita. And I am not going to follow that. So, according to them the Lord may be different, but according to me I want to worship Nanda."

"Nanda is the Lord?"

"No. But he is the father of the Lord. He obeys the command of Nanda, the father. A son, a devoted son always obeys the command of the father."

(verse 20:45 gurva chetasya arjam)

Ramacandra went to the forest. Who has commanded him? His father. Father said:

"You go."

No, father never said that. Yet, this was told by Kaikeyi. He loved more Kaikeyi. So, he was then, this boon was asked by Kaikeyi. Then Dasaratha Maharaj senseless. He fell unconscious. When Ramacandra went on the day of incarnation to get his blessings, father is in unconscious stage and Kaikeyi informed:

"Boy, you are a true son of Dasharatha Maharaja. I have helped him. Long, long ago he has promised me two boons. Now he has promised those two boons. I ask."

"What do you want?"

"Now, you must give those two boons."

Then, the one boon Rama should go to forest for fourteen years and Bharata should control, rule this Ayodya for fourteen years. When he heard this he become senseless and he has died that ...(?). But now, he went. The moment he received the blessing to sit on the throne, that blessing has gone, and the blessing is now the mother told:

"It is why father is now unconscious. Don't wake him up. And this is, you are a truthful boy. You please obey this."

Yes..... though Bharata came from ... and requested Rama He said:

"No, I won't return back."

"My father has asked you to rule for fourteen years. You must rule. And she has asked me to be in the forest for fourteen years. I must go to forest. Now, father is no more. Who can cancel that order? Nobody can cancel it, father's order. Even the government's order can be canceled but father's orders can not be canceled. Who can cancel this?"

So he went.

(verse 23:15) gurva chetasya arjam

So, Lord is so kind. He teaches us in various ways that these instruction for only to awake us from this slumber. We are sleeping. We are in ignorance. We are sleeping. We do not know all these things. So, Lord himself came as a devotee. That devotee is Chaitanya. He went to home. He went teaching. This boy took his hand, took his hand. And he danced. He was beating the drum. He was dancing. Throughout the night dancing. Sankirtan. Sankirtan till three. Through sankirtan you can understand this subject. This love. The love you can understand through sankirtan. If you repeat namam without offense. Without offense if you go on repeating namam then you can clear your heart. Now it is enveloped by all this ignorance and all that dirt.

Now we must surrender to the Lord and repeat their namam and repeat. After surrender we repeat the namam through his blessings. Then he will bless you to destroy your ignorance. Then you will be free from influence of maya. Your heart will be pure. In that pure heart. In that pure mirror you can see who am I. I am eternal servant of my Lord Krishna. You can see your face. Now, your face is glooming. Because it is not wrong thing. Because the mirror through which you see your reflection. It is covered with all dirt. Now, our mind, if it is in pure state, if I am in the pure state then I will be always happy. And to make my heart purified, to make my heart mirror purified I must perform sankirtan. Mahaprabhu says, Krishna:

"You do kirtan. If the kirtan... You must perform kirtan."

ceto darpanam marjanam bhava maha davagni nirvapanam
sreyah kairava candrika-vitaranam vidya vadhu jivanam
anandambudhi vardanam prati-padam purnamrtasvadanam
sarvatma-snapanam param vijayate sri krsna sankirtanam

We will be drown in the ocean of sankirtan. We'll forget ourself, forget the world, forget our kits and kins, forget the enjoyment for we are day and night struggling to have that enjoyment. Purified through sankirtan. Hari kirtan, hari kirtan, hari kirtan. So you give up all your offenses and repeat sankirtan. Today we are happy to be with you. You are all Vaisnavas.

(verse27:00 ?) vaisnava sangete mor anande ..sada hoi krishna para sanga

The Vaisnava doesn't want anything of this world. Luxuries or opulence. They want only Lord Krishna. They want always to sing the Lord. They want the Absolute Truth. Worldly attachment, worldly enjoyment, this is not Absolute Truth. Not that thing. It is only dazzling like. But actually the glitters, all that glitters is not gold. The gold is not. Always we seek. Seeing the glitter, we cannot accept it it is gold. You are all fortunate. All the Vaisnavas have come here and you saw them. You have heard sankirtan. Now you perform sankirtan. After sankirtan you will be given prasad. You go. And we have brought very fine books. And these books were written by our scholars.

Ljubljana, Slovenia 26.6.1999.

satam prasangan mama virya-samvido
bhavanti hrt-karna-rasayanah kathah taj-josanad asv apavarga-vartmani sraddha ratir bhaktir anukramisyati

Once Narada was walking by the side of a forest. He saw in the forest two big animals. One is a boar and another is a deer. These big animals were shot by some hunter. But they are not completely killed but are suffering. Now they were coming that way, and the hunter, he has already killed two animals and again he wants to kill another animal and he was pointing his arrow..

He was Narada. Narada was coming and then he saw; some saint is coming, he diverted. Then he told: "Narada, why you are coming this way? This is not the way. Way is that side. You go that side. Then Narada said that : "I want something from you"

"What do you want? If you want any skin of tiger skin or deer skin you come to my home. Here I have no." He thought that "he is a sadhu, he, what does he want? He wants to sit and sleep." Then Narada said "No, no, no, no." He has come, then his anger, when he talks to Narada his anger ... and gradually it is going down. It has come to 30%, and again it has come to 25%. When Narada came here completely he lost his anger. How? Narada said: "I have seen two animals. They are suffering. Who killed them? One who has killed them he should kill them on the start, immediately."

Than he says: "I have killed them."

"Good. You are a hunter. It is your profession to kill animals and sell it, get money and maintain your family. Thereby you are committing less sin."

Then he said: "This is my duty. Everyday I kill two or three animals and my father used to do that, my grandfather used to do that."

"Yes. Your position is that you can kill, but why don't you kill them totally? Why did you allow them to suffer?"

"Then what is the difference? Killing. Killing is one. One may suffer for half an hour and die and one may die in the moments, we kill them. You don't find any difference. On the other hand I feel happy. I feel very much happy to see killing, thereby they are suffering. If I see them suffering I will be happy."

Then Narada was talking and he said truth: "What you see, that you kill the animal like that, suffering, allow it to suffer, and at the time of your death you have to undergo this suffering ."

Then, an electric shock, was astonished to hear this. Now that word is penetrating into his heart and he said: "I have committed sin and daily I do this. And daily so many animals after suffering for 10 minutes, 20 minutes or 30 minutes they die. So, after my death I also have to suffer." That word acted in his... Then he said: "What is the remedy, sir? That I have done so much sin." Then he asked for remedy because it is the spiritual stance of Narada that has converted him by talking in minutes. Within minutes he was completely changed. Now he said:

"What shall I do? How can I come out from this sin, so much sin that I have committed? At the time of my death, I have to suffer."

And that suffering now he can visualize as if it is happening now.

Because Narada's words acted like an injection.

Now he says: "What is the remedy, what shall I do?"

"If you want remedy, you break that bow and throw it."

"If I break that, then who will maintain my family? Daily I do this business and whatever income, I maintain my family."

"I will maintain!"

"Then immediately he broke it and threw it."

"Then what shall I do?"

"You sit here and do Hare Krishna, Hare Rama. And daily food I will send to you."

So, he threw. Within minute such a cruel animal like he who used to kill two big animals. No heart. Such a cruel fellow, hunter. Now he became a devotee. Repentance has come to him. Then he followed his guru what he said he'd do it, and said, and began to repeat Hare Krishna, Hare Rama. And it is, sunset time has come. This fellow never returned home. And all of their family members were anxious. The villagers all anxious.

.....

So, they came to this spot where he is and he came.

He was doing: "Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare"

They asked: "Why? What is this? What is this?"

"This is the mantra given by my Guru. Now I follow him and do that mantra."

"Have you taken food?"

"No, I don't want food. He said he will send me food."

And what they will do.

"I am not going to do this business again. I will never hunt. I will never kill, and kill animals."

Then they argued him.

"No argument I am going to hear. My guru has said. I have to. Because I want to save myself. By killing animals I protect you. That is a great sin that I commit. Who is responsible to destroy my sin? My guru is responsible. He has told me that you break it and throw it and sit here, do namam. So I am doing namam." Chants in their presence.

Then said: "Oh, he is our villager and let us once in a week, one house should give food to him."

And they have distributed themselves throughout thirty days.

he could get food daily and do his namam.

He said: "Not more. This must be you off bring. I don't want any more food. Only vegetable food. Little."

So, he was doing namam.

And after one year passed Narada with a rishi was coming. And that rishi, Narada's.

This fellow saw Narada from a long distance. When he saw that my divine Master has come, he ran and threw his upper cloth on the ground and he offered his prostrations to him. Then the Parvata Muni asked Narada:

"What is this? Why should he throw a cloth on the ground and after it sashtang dandavats?"

Narada said "Daily he used to kill big animals. Small not. Big animals. Now he is feeling for the destruction of small animals, of small creatures. Even ants or any small creature maybe walking or moving on the ground. So if he's fallen then they will die. He is afraid of their death. Small insects. Now to throw a cloth upon it nobody will die."

So, this is ahimsa.

"Now, he doesn't want to commit anything for harm to even a small insect. This is."

"How could he get this knowledge?"

Then they said: "Lord Krishna has given that knowledge. Who used to kill, kill heartless, kill big animals, now he is afraid of a death of a small insect."

So, this is the blessings of Narada.

And he said, Parvata Muni: "It is a blessings of you, oh Narada, your blessings. Otherwise how such a ferocious, how such a cruel and who has very cruel heart. He has no sympathy, nothing. But now he could get that sympathy by your grace."

It is only the Namam, Divine Name can change them. If the Divine Name is in the proper process obtained from a realized soul. And if he contemplates and determines: "I am with full vigor, with full faith I will do namam." Then he will do no harm to anybody. So, a devotee means; the harmless creature. He will do no harm to human beings, no birds, no beasts, no insects, none else. He is always following: ahimsa paramo dharma. That is ahimsa: one should not harm any animal, any beast, any bird, physically or mentally and wordily also never harms. Because he follows trinad api sunicena. Because he considers himself that I am the humbler than blade of grass. I must not harm anybody.

Samoham sarva bhutesu.

Now he says:

sukhe—dukhe same krtva
labhalabhau jayajayau

He is not happy receiving profit and he is not unhappy when there going to any loss. So, he has no profit and no loss. He doesn't treat difference between good and bad. The good and bad; they follow him. Whatever we see in this world; the wealth. The wealth will follow him. The knowledge will follow him. The beauty will follow him. Everything should follow. Because a devotee who can able to control the Supreme Lord through his devotion. The whole world is in the Lords belly. So, he is the mother. As the mother carries the child in her womb the Lord Krishna carries the whole world in his body, in his mouth. Yashoda asked Krishna:

"Did you take earth? Eat earth?"

"No, no. Why should I eat earth?"

"And all the boys said. They speak like. Even Balaram. He also. Everybody."

"If I have taken see my mouth."

What did she see? Whole universe in a globe in his mouth. That is:

tam eva mata stapitatman eva

For my mother means, what is that mother? Mother who carries the child in her womb is called mother. And the Lord carries the whole world in his womb. So he is the mother, and the father and who protects me is the father. So like that, a devotee who has submitted to the Lord:

sarva dharman parityajya
mam ekam saranam vraja

Gita says, give up all you religions and dharmas and surrender to me. Surrender means:

"Oh Lord, I am yours. I have surrendered to you my body, my mind, my friends, my relations, my kitten, kids, my wealth. Whatever is mine is yours. I have nothing mine. This body also yours, my cloth also yours, the flower garland yours, the chair is yours, everything yours. I know you, nothing else."

The devotee when completely surrenders and says:

Amita tomar sunita amar...apara dhane(18:32 verse?)

"I am yours and you are mine. Lord, nothing else I want in this world. I have no concern with anything except you. I know you. You are my father, you are my wealth, you are my brother, you are my knowledge, you are my body. Everything you are. I belong to you, and you belong to me. I am yours and you are mine."

sadhavo hrdayam mahyam

sadhunam hrdayam tv aham
mad—anyat te na jananti

naham tebhyo manag api

When Durvasa could not get any shelter throughout fourteen worlds he went to Vishnu and requested the Lord, falled flattened.

"Oh Lord, your Sudarsan Chakra. That Sudarsan Chakra is coming after me, wants to kill me. You please save. I am traveling for one year. Take shelter. Nobody is accepting me. And nobody is helping me. Everybody says: "We cannot help, you go to Vishnu." I have come to you. It is your disk. And now you can help me, you can save me." Then Vishnu said:

"I cannot save you."

"What is this, sir? If you do this, if you say this, to whom I can go and appeal? You are the supreme authority and the weapon belongs to you. If you don't help then who will help me? You must help. So please help me."

"No, I cannot help you, but I will advise you. I advise you; where you have committed offense you please go there and offer your prayers to him. Then you will be saved."

So, now he went to Ambarisha. Ambarisha Maharaja who was performing ekadasi vrata for one year. Ekadasi without taking the water. Even one drop of water. And dasami once in a day, and dvadasi once in a day. And he spends his whole time, daily also, though he was the emperor. Emperor to see the empire he has established a congress committee who will look after the administration. And he was performing yagya on the border of Yamuna river. All these risis, sages; they perform yagna. Now his duty is from morning till night always serving the Lord Krishna. Feeding, washing and garland preparing or doing pujas.

He is engaged in kirtan. All his senses. He was looking the Lord with his eyes, hearing the glories of the Lord through ears, and smelling the flowers and tulasi offered at the feet of the Lord. Smelling. And taking prasad, vegetable prasad offered to Him. Those prasad he prepares. Though he was an emperor he is the servant to the Lord. "I will offer." So, he, and he walks straight to the Lord and no chapals, no sandals. And held that namaskar. Everything. All his organs are engaged in the service of the Lord. Nine types of sravana, kirtana, smarana, arcana, vandana, padasevana and dasya, sakhya, atma nivedana. These nine types of devotion he only performs.

One devotee performs nine types of devotion. He is called Ambarisa. Now Ambarisha was performing ekadasi vrata for one year. He completed that one year vrata in Mathura.

Now you go to Mathura, on the banks of the river Yamuna. And on dvadasi day, before that dvadasi is, he distributed all food and cloth and cows, everything he distributed. Now at last only five minutes more. That dvadasi tithi should not, you should not go beyond the limit of dvadasi. When dvadasi goes trayodasi comes. If he takes anything that will be an offense at the feet of the Lord Vishnu. Now, within this five minutes the Durvasa came. And he said:

"Sir, you have come. I am fortunate. You please take bath and take prasad. I'm waiting for the time. Only five minutes".

But he went to take bath, never returned timely.

Then he thought: "What shall I do now? If five minutes passes I have to commit offense at the feet of Lord Vishnu. And now if I take something without offering the guest to whom I have invited he will say that: "You have committed offense. I will curse you." Now what shall I do?"

Now he is in danger. Nobody, the counsel, so many great scholars, to tell what you can do. Then nobody could give any suggestion.

"By talking to you five minutes will be passed."

Now he says:

"I will take one drop of water and just put it on my tongue. That is parana. That drop of water will never destroy my hunger. And it is not the food. And my thirst can not be destroyed by the water. Now niyamaraksa, that is I have kept the timely some parana. If he is late half an hour, no matter."

Now immediately Durvasa came and Durvasa said:

"Maharaja! You are a ksatriya, you are a grihasta, whereas I am a yogi, I am a jnani and I am a great scholar. I had been to Brahma in this body. You could not recognize me. You have committed offense. You promised to me food. You did not give me food and you took."

He said: "Sir, I have not taken any food. Because you are coming late, now I should not commit offense at the feet of this vrata, Vishnu vrata. So I have taken one drop of water and just I put it on my tongue. It is absorbed on the tongue only. It never entered inside the throat. Now you could excuse me."

"No excuse. I will punish you."

So saying he removed one jata and threw it on the ground and there came a burning devil with a sword in hand. He wanted to kill Ambarisa. Going towards Ambarisa. Ambarisa with folded hands. Though he is the emperor. He has got military force. Everything he has got. He can do anything. But as if he has done a great offense he was with folded hands. He was waiting there. And that devil when he came nearer, immediately Sudarsana also came down. Sudarsana the disk. Shanka, chakra, gada, padma. Four arms. One is chakra. It is like a wheel. And that the powerful chakra, it can destroy the whole world. Now, because Lord Vishnu has given, asked that chakra:

"You must save Ambarisa. So that none can able to do any harm to him. Not only to him. You must look after his empire. You must go round his empire. If anybody attacks his empire you should save them."

Now this Sudarsana has come and when Sudarsana came it destroyed this devil. And when the devil was destroyed then it came towards this fellow who has created this devil. And now he is running afraid of death, he is running. Durvasa was running, running after Bhurloka, Bhuvārloka, Svarloka, Maharloka, Janaloka, Tapaloka, Satyaloka, then came to Brahma. Nobody could give him shelter. He came to Brahma:

"Please save me sir."

Brahma said:

"I cannot save you. This weapon belongs to Vishnu. We are to carry the orders of Vishnu. Through the orders of Vishnu I create the world."

And when he rejected, he went to Mahadeva and requested him to save him.

"Mahadeva. sir..."

"I cannot help. I am only his servant. I follow him, his advice and destroy the world whenever he wants."

And so when he was rejected by them he went to Vishnu. Now Vishnu said:

"You go to Ambarisha. You have committed offense. He was a king. He was an emperor. He can kill you. He would have killed you. But he never did it. Because he is a devotee. He is a devotee. He always wants to give respect to all. He never harms to anyone. So he did not harm you. Though emperor, he has got his ammunitions, he has got his military force and they can do any harm to you, but he never likes it. Now, he himself to suffer, but he never allows other to suffer. Never wants to take revenge."

If anything, one will commit wrong: "I want to take revenge. Oh, you have done this, I will do this. You have done this harm to me, I will do the harm to you." This is revenging attitude. The devotee has no revenging attitude. He always forgets, forgives. He forgets that. And Ambarish Maharaja forgave, forgave this yogi.

Now he said: "You have committed offense. He has done no harm to you. You came late. And that also, he preserved his promise; without giving you food he never took. Now, he is waiting, already one year he is waiting for food. Without giving you food he cannot take food. He wants to keep that promise. Now it is already one year you are traveling. Now, you go there and offer your prostrations to him. And beg him to excuse you. Then he will excuse. Then Sudarsan chakra will go. Till then sudarsan chakra will never go. I cannot alter sudarsan chakra. Because in my heart Ambarisa is there."

sadhavo hrdayam mahyam
sadhunam hrdayam tv aham

"My heart is Ambarisha. I am the heart of Ambarisa. Ambarisha is my heart."

"So, what I have to do?"

"Ambarisha must give the key. He has got the key to open the door. The heart will be opened to you if he gives the key. So, he is my heart, I am his heart. Now you go to him."

"Oh?"

Then he went and saw Ambarisha waiting with folded hands.

"Sir, I am waiting for you. You have come. You take my food."

Food was prepared and he took food. And then he said:

"Yes, now I could recognize, I could realize the extent of a vaisnava, a sadhu, a saint, what the power you posses. I thought I am more powerful than you. You are a ksatriya and a grihasta. But I am not a grihasta, I am a brahmana, I am a brahmacari. My power, now, completely my power was defeated before yours, before devotion. So, I could now understand devotion of the Lord. And devotees posses such capacity. I could now understand. So I offer my prostrations to you."

"No", he says, "Don't offer your prostrations. I am a grihasta, I must prostrate to you."

So saying he prostrated. So, such is the character of a sadhu. One must be a sadhu. Sadhu means who finds no fault with anybody. No fault. He says:

"I am the person who commit faults, but the sadhus will never commit fault. They are not, they never commit wrong. I am the person, I will commit wrong, I will commit fault, I am the sinner, but the sadhus are all pure."

So, this is the correct conception. Correct conception. Perfect conception. That the Lord, he is isvara sarva bhutanam. He is dwelling in each and every object. He is the movement. He drives the whole universe. All are being moved by him. Because he is there. He is there. The Lord is there. That atma is there. Without that atma. Sat. He is sat, cit and ananda. That ananda, that happiness you realize, it is due to his existence here. Because he is in this body you can have that knowledge and you can attain that bliss, happiness. Who is that happiness giving you? That Lord, who is dwelling in you. When he leaves you, this will be a corpse taken to the ground and buried or fired. It is finished.

This body has no value. I am without God – I am that body. Now, I am a body. This life. What is that life? The Lord is life. If the Lord has vacated this body then I am a corpse. This corpse if they touch it they must take bath. Now this body, if anybody touches, then he must go and take bath. And if it is kept for one day, then all germs will come out from that body. It must be buried immediately. And it must be burned to ashes. If you keep this body, how long will you keep. In the ice they keep. No, it cannot be kept for a long time. It will be destroyed. Because the life has gone. Life, what is that life? Nobody can perceive, nobody can understand, nobody can say anything.

Even the greatest scientist cannot say. Only a transcendental scientist can say that this is atma. That atma is invincible. And more powerful, and he is not visible. You cannot see with your eyes and hear about, and take everything. When he blesses you. Now, he is everywhere. If he blesses you then you can know everything. You can taste everything. And without his blessing nothing can be done.

Now, our great effort, our going,, or distributing prasadam or accepting vegetable food and offering to the Lord. All these difficulties, all this penance we perform only for the mercy of the Lord. If the aim is not there; mercy of the Lord, we can do anything we will take birth again. Again and again we'll take birth, again and again we'll die and

(39:15 verse ?)

punar api jananam
punar api maranam
punar api janani
jatare sayanam
iti samsare ... para dosa
tathami manava (?)santosa

Where is? Where is? Where do you think that you have got happiness? How can you be happy? You are in this circle of birth and death. Always. How can you be happy? It is happiness like very, the big wheel, big wheel. Like this: it has four feet down, four feet on other side. Diameter, this diameter 1, 2, 3, 4. Four diameters, four dangers are there, four boys can sit. And now the wheel turns, wheel turns. When these 4 boys, ghosa, adeha. Where are you going? And, they cannot laugh for a long time, again this .. it will move. They will come down. And when they come down they are not happy.

And they are anxious again to go up. So the wheel will give you one turn, two turns, three turns, four turns or five turns or ten turns and stops. And they have to get down and go. Whatever they have paid it is time. Now, like that. Sukha, dukha. What is happiness, unhappiness? They are like, in this, in the wheel. Time—wheel. We only feel happy, we only feel unhappy, the moment what we want can be achieved, then if they say that such comes up: "Oh, you have come up. Oh, you see everything." But when they come down. "Oh, I have come down again." Again you go. Day and night. Daytime, some animals, some creatures will be happy. At night some other creatures will be happy. So, day and night. They are side by side. And profit and loss, side by side.

And happiness and unhappiness, side by side. And praising and abusing, side by side. One may praise you, you will be happy. One may ridicule you, you will be unhappy. One will do help to you, you will be accepting. One who wants to take help from you, he is now, he is not feeling well. Like this. Happy, healthy, unhealthy. Day and night. And the punya loka and the papa loka. Punya loka is svarga and papa loka is naraka. So, hell and heaven, side by side. If you go to heaven you will enjoy. If you come to hell you'll suffer. The side by side. You cannot stay in this world in one position. Now, both you Now if you want to come, dvandva. Dvandvatito vimatsarah. If you want to cross this dvandva then you will never suffer, you will never be unhappy.

You always accept your service to the Supreme Truth, Supreme Lord, the Absolute Truth. Lord Krishna's abode where there is no darkness, always light. But here, day and night. In the day we see, in the night, in the dark we cannot see. But there, all, every moment, every second is with the light, with knowledge, with light. They serve the Lord. It is the Lord.

na tad bhasayate suryo
na sasanko na pavakah

The sun gives light in the daytime. The moon gives light in the nighttime. But that light is a more superior than this sunlight and moonlight and firelight. These lights are inferior. The light, the light, divine light which helps the sun, moon, source, and the fire god. It is through the help only they give light to you. But he is more light.

That light we can have through his mercy. So, let us try for that light. He is that Lord Krishna who is blowing the flute. Let us hear that flute. If we concentrate our mind on the flute we cannot move. We will stick up. Our body will become movementless. Because if that the light we have, stambha, sarira becomes ..., my body become stiff, doesn't move. Mahaprabhu, when he sees Jagannatha he cannot utter Jagannatha out of ecstasy. He says:

"Jaga, Jaga! Jaga, Jaga! Jaga..."

That is the superstage of rejoice. That ananda. We enjoy that ananda. And that ananda, due to ecstasy, he cannot ..., body was trembling. It falled down on the ground senseless. His eyes become very, very big. And his hand hundred people cannot bend it. And the color changes. And the water coming out from his eyes. He was exhibiting this scenery for 18 years in that room, small room in Gambhira at Puri. Mahaprabhu. No food. Little food when awake.

Whole body is skeleton and he is always weeping, weeping for the separation. And Radha. Radha was separated from Krishna. Krishna went to Mathura and Dvaraka. Radha must not move from Vrindavan. But when she realizes that Krishna isn't in Vrindavan. But actually she is feeling unhappy and feeling sorry and for the separation she is weeping. Always. She remembers Krishna always. And all the pastimes were done when Krishna was in Vrindavan for twelve years. Now, after twelve years Krishna went away. From Mathura he went, said he will come, he never came. He said:

"I will come on the 4th day."

Every morning they get up and count:

"4th day he said, he promised us to come on the 4th day."

So, from that day they left, they count 4th day. If today, today is Saturday. From Saturday four days: Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Wednesday he will come."

He did not come. Saturday passed. Then we entered to Sunday. From Sunday he counts, Sunday, four days, and Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

"At Thursday he will come."

So when he did not come. Again this Sunday has gone to Monday and from Monday four days. And again he did not keep his promise. So from Tuesday till 4th day. Always, the four days. They remember only his words, "Four days". Every day counting four days.

"After 4 days he will come."

But he never comes. Never comes. So, they are weeping, day and night, weeping, weeping. Haribol. Haribol.

vancha–kalpa tarubhyas ca
krpa–sindhubhya eva ca
patitanam pavanebhyo
vaianavebhyo namo namah

Novo Mesto, Slovenia 26.6.1999.

We are happy today in your Novo Mesto city. And we heard that you have performed the independence day celebration. And entered independence day celebration. We brought tons of blessings to the people of Slovenia. And may Lord Krishna bless you. All of you may be happy. And we have brought the very good news on this day of rejoicement. That is: the transcendental sound, the nectar. If you hear of the nectar, if you repeat the nectar, if you remember the nectar you will become eternal. The devotee – extraordinary qualities. And you will be happy eternally. You will never suffer. Now, this is the world of suffering. We are all present in this prison. The world is a prison of suffering. Who will be sent to prison? Those who do any crime. They were sent to prison to suffer. So in this world we have come to suffer. We are suffering.

Because we have got three sources of affliction. One is adhyatmika, second is adhibhautika, and the third is adhidaivika. That is, physically we have got number of diseases. Daily we are suffering from physical sufferings and mental sufferings. Mentally, that we want repeated not away. Then my mind will be disturbed. Mind will suffer, mind. Which the mind doesn't like if comes nearer then the mind will suffer. This is called adhyatmika way of suffering. And the second one is we are suffering due to people of this universe, all the universe. And due to beasts and birds and animals or any, any poisonous insect we suffer. And because suffering is knowing..... and always we suffer due to war, due to sufferings of humanity and all the beasts and birds, due to congregational suffering. We are unhappy.

Now, if we want to be happy eternally, we have to repeat in Kali yuga. It is the age of wrangling. There are 4 yugas. One is Krita yuga, Satya yuga and 2nd is Treta yuga, 3rd is Dvapara yuga and 4th is Kali yuga. This is Kali yuga. Here, people are not pure. Their minds are not clear. They are suffering physically, mentally and..... financially they are suffering. And without suffering, if we want every men rid here wherefrom we think not come back to this world of suffering. It is called the heavens, Vaikuntha. In Bhagavad Gita taught by Sri Krishna to Arjuna.

"Arjuna this world is full of suffering and one who surrenders to me, he will be free from suffering."

If you understand:

daivi hy esa guna—mayi
mama maya duratyaya
mam eva ye prapadyante
mayam etam taranti te

This world is full of suffering due to the deluding potency maya.

"It is my potency"

and that potency deprives all ours due to fight with that nectarian thought. To cultivate nectarian thought, it is the price of it. So we are mourning, we take birth, we die, take birth

punar api janma
punar api maranam

Again and again we take birth. Again and again we die. So again and again we enter into the womb of mother. And so we are not happy. As long as we are unhappy we never try to give up how to achieve happiness. It is told: if we surrender to the Supreme Lord Krishna, he is the Supreme Lord, and we surrender to him, then he will save us from suffering. He will save us. And how to surrender? Surrender is easy.

"Oh Lord. You are the master of the universe. You are the creator of this universe. You are the protector of this universe. You are the savior of the universe."

Not only human beings. Even the birds, even the beasts, even the insects. Those who are under water. Those who are in the air, ether, and those who are on life from this earth or this air. All of them. None in this world of suffering, none can say that I am happy warrior, I am, don't suffer. Any of you? Can you declare that I am happy? Any of you? Is there anybody in this world who is a happy warrior? Who can say that I am happy warrior? Wars were, will return. Who is the happy warrior? Who is he? Who is that happy warrior? One who can enjoy the happiness, he should be a devotee. He should be a surrendered soul. Because if we surrender, definitely Krishna will protect us. In Gita the Lord says:

sarva dharman parityajya
mam ekam saranam vraja

Give up all your readiness and directly come to me, surrender to me. And you will be free from all the sins you have committed. Why we are suffering? Because we have done such deeds in our past lives. The results of those deeds we now suffer in this life. It is called prarabdha karma. And here in this life these are our debt. We will follow the dictations of our past life, the results of past life. Now if we want to destroy our prarabdha, we cannot destroy. We have to suffer. Even the great sage, even the great yogi, even the great, the charity or donators, donators, they are also suffering. But if one (verse 11:28) prithivite api abhai..... prarabdha karmeti virodhe ...

A person who surrenders to the Lord, the Divine name, and repeats that name often and often, then he can be able to conquer the prarabdha. He should not undergo prarabdha. There will be no prarabdha for him. Because he has surrendered. The moment he surrenders and repeats the namam then he will be free from suffering. Suffering eternally. Not for the present only. Eternally he will be free from the suffering. And he will go to a place wherefrom he need not come back.

yad gatva na nivartante
tad dhama paramam mama

If you reach that stage once, it is not forgone. We have, we are We are falling down on this earth. This earth is transitory. It is moving. It is moving. Everything is moving. Culture is moving. Seasons moving. Day and night are moving. And suffering and enjoyment moving. Everything. The dignitary, this is a building, and the nations and their governments and their countries. They are moving, they are shaking. The definition of the world is:

(verse ? 13:30).....vasotithi jagat

It is moving. You are all moving. Relatively you say I am sitting. But actually you are moving. You are sitting on there, earth is moving around the sun. Both moving, not sitting. Jagat's moving. And you sit in airplane, it is (break of tape)

So many qualifications. We can meet a man worldly great. But he cannot understand: one who surrenders to me, devotee, then the Lord who has the supreme power. That supreme power will deliver this power to the devotees. And if the devotees surrender then we can be able to understand about the truth, absolute truth.

yasmin vijnate sarvam evam vijnatam bhavati

Now if we know that, if we know that absolute truth we can know the whole sight, the whole sight regarding this world or other worlds, and he begets Brahma being in this, we call, in this world. So that, if we want to know that, we then we have to repeat the Divine name often and often. Divine name will purify you. We have got number of things. Our heart is not pure. We are following our past dictations, the past karma. The result of our past karma now we are following. Though we know the truth, but our past karma. If we'd ... (?) that, then we can move it. If we reject that then we cannot follow. So, he knows that truth, yet he depends upon the blessings of the God. If the God blesses you then you can have the faith. The Lord must bless you. That faith, the strong faith, that strong faith can be achieved only through the unconditional surrender to the Lord and the causeless mercy of the Lord. If the Lord wants to take me, I have no such qualifications that I can achieve, only the Lord must bless me and give me sufficient faith. The required faith also you must give me. He must be ...(?). Then only I can practice, I can repeat the namam. Without his blessings I can not. Then you may ask:

"What is the qualifications to have God?"

Then I must say the truth. I have no qualifications. I am quality less. I have no qualifications. But:

(verse 17:15) aho hi guna ...suka kori...abhicar

If you take me. I have no qualities. Which is, which quality can make me approach you? No quality. I do not know that: everything. I am ignorant. I am ignorant. Now I am helpless. As the mother looks after the helpless child. The child's cannot get it. The child cannot clean his body. And he cannot do any service to this body, though it has got limbs, it has got hands. Then if he ...(?) it cannot ...(?). He pass urine, he cannot clean the cloth. He pass dung he cannot do it. Others must help. The mother must help. The mother serves the child because child has no other. Helpless. It is helpless. Nobody will help it if we cannot rid (?) him and go to the superior authority and appeal.

Rijeka, Croatia 30.6.1999.

In the meantime the sadhus also came back and they saw this boy, young boy. He has attachment. He doesn't understand. He doesn't know what we speak, but yet he comes. What we discuss he doesn't know, but he has got an attachment to us. Always. From morning till night he'd serve. And they used to ask him to do some little service. And they used to give him some roti or something. That also he used to eat. When four months completed then the sadhus declared:

"Now, we have completed four months. Our vrata completed. Now we are going. We will go tomorrow."

The boy heard. Then he cried:

"You take me with you!"

Then, they said:

"No. Boy. You are the single boy of your mother and if you go away, who will look after you. And mother will die. Don't come with us. Live with your mother who gives you food, lodging, everything. Then, now who will look after you, if you come with us? We cannot look after you. And your mother? Now you stay."

Then weeping, weeping, he wept. It so happened after some time his mother got bit by a snake. Early in the morning she was coming to milk a cow and snake bite her. When the mother was killed the boy taught:

"Yes, my mother, I lost my mother. Then who will feed me? Who will look after me? Who will give me food? Who will take care of me? In this village nobody will look after me. Why should I stay here? I lost my mother."

So, "Its OK", he thought. He walked, walked to the northern side of Himalayas, and on the way a big Pippal tree and he came under that tree. Now, he was very hungry. He thought:

"All right. I will sit here and repeat there mantra. It was mantra they chose to repeat, do bhajan. I will do it."

So started bhajan. And then he practiced that. Then he heard a voice from the sky. Somebody's informing voice:

"You don't try, in this life you cannot reach Vaikuntha, sublime stage. In this life you repeat namam. And gradually throughout the life death comes to you naturally. Then you cannot commit suicide. Naturally death must come to you. After 50, 60, 80 years or 100 years it must come. Death must come naturally. And then you will come to my abode."

Now, after

namany anantasya hata-trapah pathan guhyani bhadrani krtani ca smaran gam paryatams tusta-mana gata-sprhah
kalam pratiksan vimado vimatsarah

Now, he was traveling throughout the world. Always singing loudly the name of the Lord. Hare Krishna Hare Krishna. And thinking in his mind about pastimes of Lord Krishna, and Matsya avatara, Kurma avatara, Varaha avatara, Nrsimha avatara, Vamana avatara. All these incarnations. The pastimes of those incarnations. And those, the confidential, or lilas or pastimes you should remember, you should remember. And you should eagerly utter namam. He did Krishna namam while traveling. While traveling the death has come. When the death has come then he, after death he reached Vaikuntha. Now, he is the associate of Vaikuntha, Narayana. Yes. Always there singing the glories of the Lord. He is alive. He is alive. If you want to see Narada you can see. Then if you practice Harinam then you can see Narada. Narada is alive, Narada. And Narada is preacher to demons and demigods alike. Demigods respect him, and the demons also respect him. Because, he tells the truth. Falsehood never says. Now, those who repeat namam have no enemy. If there anybody commits any mischief with them, they will suffer. But if a devotee who's always repeating namam, day and night, incessantly, and, he has no enemy, all are his friends; the beasts and birds, animals, the animals, cruel animals never do any harm to him. And this repetition of namam.

Now, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu, when he was going to Vrindavan through Chotanagpur, Jharikhand. It is a forest track, thick forest. Now, we saw, yes, it is not thick, yet it is thick. We have traveled all this track.....and coming from morning we saw the forest. And many, though no beast is there. But the trees are there. No man is there. Then Mahaprabhu has to walk from Puri to Vrindavan. More than 2000 miles he should walk. And while walking, long forest, Mahaprabhu was singing Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare, loudly. There is no man. Because there is no man he repeats happy. If the man are there he will never repeat so loudly. When there is no man. No man's land. All the beasts and birds and the trees. And is repeating loudly. And all the trees also they reach out Hare Krishna, they say Hare Krishna. When you go through the thick forest and repeat namam whatever sound you utter, the tree sound, the trees will be sounding. So, all the beasts, all the birds, all the animals. All cruel animals. All gathered around Mahaprabhu hearing Hare Krishna. Elephants. They are coming to drink water. Mahaprabhu throughout water Hare Krishna, Hare Krishna. They also utter Hare Krishna in their language. Even the tigers, cruel animals. They also. Making that And the whale and they also sing. Even the lions. Even the serpents. And even the cruel animals. And the beast. And the goat. They also come. They also follow hari namam. No enmity in them. No enmity. The tiger when sees a goat immediately he will devour it. But now, the goat is kissing the tiger. Because that namam, through that namam, through the power of the namam the enemy will become your friend. And no enemy in this forest.

And Haridas Thakur who was non-Hindu, who was chanting daily three lakhs namam, three lakhs. Your such three lakhs would require 24 hours. Now, whether we have got 24 hours? We sleep, we eat. No time. No time. He used to repeat namam till he lost day. At the age of 90 he become weak. One day, daily Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was there in Puri. And he used to send prasad, Jagannath prasad, through Govinda. And one day when Govinda brought prasad, he asked:

"Haridas. Prasad? Jagannath?"

No, I offer my obeisances. Then he took one parcel of that prasad. Was lying on the ground repeating namam. Next day Chaitanya Mahaprabhu came and asked:

"Haridas."

verse 10:39 ?

Haridas said:

"All well. I am well physically. But mentally I am suffering. What is that disease? The disease is: till now I completed three lakhs namam daily without stop. Now, due to old age I am unable to complete three lakhs namam. So when I am unable to complete three lakhs namam why should I survive? I should not take prasad. I am determined to leave this world tomorrow. Tomorrow by ten o'clock I will leave this world."

And, Mahaprabhu is astonished. He said:

"With whom I will stay if you go away?"

"No. There are thousands of devotees. You can stay."

"No. No. No. You don't go."

"No. I will go away. I will go tomorrow. And early in the morning you please bring all the devotees, two hundred, three hundred, four hundred devotees. All of them will come here. And feet dust on my head and they may stand all around me and do bhajan. By 10 everything for me, if I will look at your face and repeat namam by correct ten I will leave."

So, on the next day Mahaprabhu carried the order of Haridas and brought all the devotees. And then feet dust was given to Haridas and they started bhajan. They were standing doing bhajan. And Mahaprabhu was sitting. By 10 when its right, 10 right, his life has gone. He said: "Krishna Chaitanya!" and passed. Then Mahaprabhu was weeping. Mahaprabhu carries that body and took that body to the ocean. They washed it. After washing Mahaprabhu performed Samadhi. Now you see at Puri Haridas samadhi at the banks of the sea. So, he is lost. And he begged all devotees to feed them all. I want to feed 500 devotees today. It is the disappearance day of Haridas. All of you come. He never asked anybody to ... When he asked all are giving. And with it he asked all vaisnavas to sit and he himself distributed it. But, unless Mahaprabhu eats, nobody will eat. So he sat. Mahaprabhu, he was feeling happy and feeling sorry. Because he cannot have the association of Haridas Thakur. And now happy because Haridas wanted to go and he has gone. What can be done? Now, here the namam, Nama Acarya, he was Nama Acarya. Nobody can be acarya unless he practices. The meaning of acarya

verse ? 14:43

So, that those who discuss and practice and realize, they are called acaryas. By writing Nama Acarya on paper one cannot become acarya. Acarya must practice day to day. He will be an acarya. Now, this namam we could able to explain you. Because time is short. We are happy to see you all.

(end of lecture)

And the risis, sages, they have got different views. Now, how can you follow one path? That one path how can you know and how can you follow? Then it is told: mahajano yena gata sa pantha. The margam, the path who's traveled by mahajanas. Who are those mahajanas? Svayambhu, Brahma, Narada, Sambu, Siva, Kumara, Sanaka, Sanatana, Sanandana, Sanat-kumara, Kapila, Kapilacarya, Manu, Svayambhuva Manu, Prahlada, Janaka, Bhisma, Bali cakravarti, Sukadeva and Yama dharmaraja. These twelve mahajanas. They are the authorities of dharma. If we want to know dharma then we have to follow them. Then only we can reach our spontaneous or our sublime stage or Vaikuntha wherefrom if we reach that place we never return from there.

yad gatva na nivartante
tad dhama paramam mama

So, to know that. The mahajanas. These mahajanas. One of them is sukajo sukendra; Sukadeva gosvami. What did he say? He said only Srimad Bhagavatam. No other. No other text. No other sastras. He told:

srimad-bhagavatam puranam amalam yad vaisnavanam priyam yasmin paramahamsyam ekam amalam jnanam param giyate yatra jnana-viraga-bhakti-sahitam naiskarmyam aviskrtam tac chrnvan supathan vicarana-paro bhaktya vimucyen narah

Now, if you practice bhagavata. If we read, study bhagavata and study Vaisnava, truth there taught by a vaisnava, through the mercy of a vaisnava. The conclusion of bhagavata is the last end. pramanam amalam. It is amala pramana. It is nothing impurity. It is pure. Sudha, pure. And that pure without having the association of gunas; rajo guna, tamo guna or satva guna. It is nirguna. The Lord is nirguna and if we want to know the Lord we must be nirguna. That nirguna is to be properly understood. If we read bhagavata under the guide of a Vaisnava then we can realize the truth. Now, Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu appeared 500 years back and he says:

aradhyo bhagavan vrajesa-tanayas

He says to all:

"All of you worship Vrajendra nandana. Nanda-nandana. He is the son of Nanda."

"He was born to Vasudeva. How can you say Nanda?"

"Yes, he is. Nanda has more devotional love towards Krishna then Vasudeva. So Nanda-nandana Krishna. Who is Krishna? One meaning of Krishna, hundred meanings, thousand meanings, I don't know,"

Chaitanya Mahaprabhu replied to one acarya, Vallabha Acarya. He wrote that I have written in detail the names of Krishna, his meaning. Then he said:

"I have no time to listen."

He gently avoided it, saying that:

"I know only one. That Krishna is Nanda-nandana. Nanda-nandan Krishna."

Nanda has got so much affection towards Krishna that Krishna has become his son, became his slave.

aham iha nandam vande

yasyalinde param brahma

Chaitanya Mahaprabhu asked one scholar:

"To whom you worship?"

He said that:

"Others worship vedas or smriti sastra. I don't worship. I don't even worship bhagavad-gita or mahabharata."

"Then what do you worship?"

aham iha nandam vande

"I worship only Nanda."

"Is he God?"

"Yes. If I worship Nanda. When the Nanda is pleased I can easily see his son. If anybody... The Krishna is playing in the yard of Nanda. Always playing. And now, if I go and request Nanda maharaja:

"I have come to see your boy."

Then he will say:

"Boy! Somebody has come to see you.""

But, if we directly approach, Krishna will never respond to you. If you say:

"Directly I will approach. I have got tongue. I have got all senses. I am intelligent. I have studied everything and I have got penance or austerity or renunciation. Everything I have got. I will approach directly."

Krishna will close the door. He will never allow to come in and see him. But, if he approach through his devotees. Devotee, supreme devotee is Nanda maharaja. There is no other devotee so much greater than Nanda maharaja. Because, Nanda maharaja, whenever Krishna was playing with his playmates, Nanda maharaja says:

"Krishna!"

Krishna hearing this he told all his playmates:

"You boys, you go home. Father is calling. I am going home."

Now, he ran to father. Then father:

"Just take your bath and take food and you then eat and go to forest."

So,

aham iha nandam vande.

Nanda has more affection towards Krishna than Vasudeva. More affection. So, the vatsalya rasa you can find from Nanda. So, Nanda could control Krishna through his devotion. If Nanda maharaja says to bring those sandals:

"You bring the sandals. You bring the pot. You bring that cloth."

Anything you say the boy do.

Can you command the Lord? You cannot command the Lord. Who can command? A devotee like Nanda maharaja can command. You cannot command. So,

aham iha nandam vande
yasyalinde param brahma

Where is parabrahma? Parabrahma is not in Vaikuntha. Parabrahma is not in all the scriptures. Parabrahma is not in the heart of a yogi. Parabrahma is not with other rishis. Where is he? He is playing in the yard of Nanda maharaja. Now, if you want Krishna, if you want Krishna you must pray to Nanda Maharaja. Mahaprabhu says:

aradhyo bhagavan vrajesa–tanayas

There also he says, Chaitanya Mahaprabhu:

"All of you should worship Krishna."

Who is that Krishna? Vrajesa. Vraja. Vrindavan. The master of Vrindavan is Nanda. vrajesa–tanayas Nanda's son, Krishna. You must worship Nanda's son Krishna. And how to worship:

vrajavadhu–vargena ya kalpita vrajavadhu – Gopis. As they have performed their devotion towards Krishna, that way you have to follow. And what is the authority?

"You are saying this. Shall we to accept you? Or is there another authority?"

Though Krishna is the Supreme authority yet he obliges. He says:

"There is authority."

"What is that authority?"

"Srimad–bhagavatam. Srimad–bhagavat is authority."

Now, we have to admit that bhagavat is the authority. Without authority whatever we say it may not be approved. Appreciated by all. As when you go ahead in the court head, an advocate. Now, he is arguing at some case. By arguing he must quote the authority, the section and authority. Unless he quotes the superior authority judge will never approve him, argument. So Mahaprabhu said:

"There is shastra, the authority. I am not saying this, but the authority."

srīmad bhagavatam pramanam amalam. It is the pure puranam. It is the authority. And it has nothing material. Everything is spiritual. And bhagavatam pramanam amalam yad vaisnavanam priyam or pancam purushartha pramanam for prayojana, prema. prema pumartha mahan. Now, you practice devotion. That devotion at a ripe stage is prema. Just like sadhan–bhakti, bhava–bhakti and prema– bhakti. Bhakti is the supreme dharma. That bhakti... But we have to practice sadhan. What ... are those sadhan? sravanam kirtanam visnoh smaranam pada–sevanam arcanam vandanam dasyam sakhyam atma–nivedanam These are the nine types of bhakti taught by Srimad bhagavatam which says that every one should... (break of tape)

Pula, Croatia 1.7.1999.

Then you will be free. If not, by the time, he might have left this world. Now, you have to weep, weep. Repeat namam and weep, weep. Because the Lord will say that I have committed offense. But he is not available to may go and beg to excuse me. Don't think nama:

verse ? krsna nama aparadher koroye vicar

If you repeat krishna namam these offenses must be counted. You must, without offense you must repeat. And if you commit offense, then whatever you have practiced it will go away. So, you must be very careful repeating namam. And then this namam is very merciful. Merciful. Very merciful. It is told:

(verse ?)

jayatu jayatu devo devaki–nandano 'yam jayatu jayatu krishno vrishni–vamsa–pradipah jayatu jayatu megha–syamalah komalango jayatu jayatu prithvi–bhara–naso mukundah

srinvata satata krsna gunatasya sate tirtham nati dirghena kalena
bhagavan visate rupam

If you repeat Krishna, if you hear Krishna. And now you are repeating but incessantly you repeat without offense then, very soon, Lord will enter into your heart. And he will occupy your heart. Your heart will be the throne of the Lord. He won't to go from that throne. And then the Lord will be yours. And if I am his:

(verse ?)amita tomar sunita amar apara dhane

"O Lord, I belong to you. I have surrendered to you. I am yours and you are mine. I know you. I never know anybody except you. I am none. I am helpless. You are my father, you are my mother, you are my wealth, you are my knowledge. Everything you are. I have surrendered to you. I don't know anybody. I know you."

By saying that, if I surrender, then the Lord in return will surrender to you. As Nanda Maharaja surrenders, surrenders. Now Krishna has surrendered to Nanda. As Yashoda surrenders to Krishna, now Krishna surrenders to Yashoda. Yashoda wanted to tie Krishna with a rope. But Krishna is anadi. He has no beginning and no end. How can you tie him with a rope which has beginning and end. And Krishna's body is normal. It is not increasing like Vamana avatara.

Vamana, when he came to Bali Chakravarti, a dwarf. Very beautiful. Charming. And when Bali saw:

"Oh, I am very fortunate. I am very fortunate. I am fully fortunate. And by your arrival to our place all are fortunate and all are happy. Now, what do you want? If you want three worlds I will give you."

He said:

"No. I don't want three worlds. I want only three feet. Three feet. According to my feet, measure three feet. And that three feet you give. One foot, one foot."

"What is this? I am the master of three worlds. You want three feet."

"Yes, we will be happy to receive that."

Then his guru, his spiritual master came: "You fellow. You do not know what is the harm waiting for you. You are doing the harmful action. The moment you give three feet then he will expand his body throughout three worlds. You cannot give him three feet."

And, he said:

"Sir, I have already promised. If I promise I have promised. I am afraid of deceiving the brahmin boy. He asked. I have said already: "Yes, I will give you." Now, how can I withdraw it?"

The Guru said:

"You fellow, you suffer. You suffer."

He went away. Now, Vamana became very, very big. With one foot he took all the earthen phase, all, one foot. Next foot. Oh, that mastered whole ether, all air. Then, where is the other foot? Then he asked Bali:

"You have promised me three feet. Now two you have given. Where shall I put? Because everything I have already taken in these two foot. Their whole empire I have taken. Yes.

Where is three feet? Third foot where shall I put?"

He said:

"Please place it on my head."

Then he placed. Now, when he did this, Vamana asked Garuda to tie him with varuna–pasha. So he was tied by the rope. The knowledge emerits, all his servants, ministers they all came and abused Vamana:

"What is this? Our Lord has given you three feet. Promised you three feet. You received. Why should you tie him?"

Then Bali said:

"No, you have no power. You are, you can not."

"Why?"

"For my... because I have surrendered to him. My body I have surrendered. First empire I have surrendered. Now, the body I have surrendered. So, I am not here. Your king is not here. Bali is not here. I am his. So, there is no question of arguing for me. You go."

Then the Lord said:

"Oh, you have surrendered. Though you have given, promised me three feet, I have tied you. Yet, you never revolted against it, decision. And you have accepted. Now, I shall give you, that in return, I will be always at your palace, gate to see me always. I surrender to you. You have surrendered. I surrender."

Now, Sutala loka, Bali is there. The empire is Sutala loka. Now Vishnu stands. Vamana stands at his gate. Daily you will see. And this is called atma– nivedana, surrender. The result of surrender is: the Lord will fully surrender to you. If you surrender to the Lord, Lord will be yours. You can control the Lord. You ask Lord to do this, he will do that. "Lord, don't do this". He will not do. He will carry out your orders. So, like that. The devotion. People say:

"What devotion? What devotion? What?"

They, this sublime stage and the nectar that can be enjoyed, devotee can enjoy and nondevotee cannot understand. Who can understand? mad bhakto

man–mana bhava mad–bhakto

mad–yaji mam namaskuru

Gita conclusion, 18th chapter. Krishna says the summum bonum. Says: man–mana bhava – always remember me, mad bhakto bhava – be my devotee and serve me. Devotee without service; no devotee. He must do service. What service? Service means his body

hrisikena hrisikesa sevanam bhaktir ucyate

These are our organs, body, limbs, organs or senses. All our limbs we must surrender to the Lord. If... What is that surrender? With our eyes we will see only the figure of Lord Krishna. With our ears we will hear all his glories. With tongue we will always take his food, prasada, whatever we offer. And always we repeat the glories of the Lord, always. Sing the glories, hear the glories and head to prostrate before the Lord Krishna. And the body embrace the murtis and the Vaisnavas. So, his every limb, every organ, every sense was engaged in the service of the Lord. Who is that? He is Ambarisha Maharaja. So, we must become Ambarisha Maharaja. Then Krishna will be pleased. But, if we want to be a Vaisnava first we have to surrender to the Lord. And without surrender if we want to be a Vaisnava it is only like a person in the theater. Theater, stand up with... he'd dance away Vaisnava Narada or some Vaisnava. He will be action. Going action. But that is actually he is not a Vaisnava. Though they maintain formalities, but their inside, inner heart is not a Vaisnava. They show outside. They picture one outside picture. No inside picture. Internally we must become servant of the Lord, internally. If we internally and externally, we follow and serve the Lord:

sevonmukhe hi jihvadau svayam eva sphuraty adah

If we become surrendered, complete surrender, then Lord's name, Lord's form and Lord's beauty or Lord's pastimes, everything will dance upon the tongue of a devotee. So, devotee wants to control the tongue. The tongue only speak wise.

tunde tandavini ratim vitanute
tundavali–labdhaye

The devotee, the devotee! Who is that devotee? The gopi. They, all, all the gopis are followers of Radhika devi. Now, this stage Madhisvari(? 13:50). Who says isvari. Now, if the blessings of isvari, one can be a true follower of Radhika devi, then she will serve Krsna. She will be allowed to serve Krsna and she knows how to serve Krsna. And he will repeat the namam always, day and night, repeat namam. Incessantly repeat namam. He becomes so pure. And in the pure heart, pure tongue he wanted to control repetition namam. So steadily he repeats namam. Though you tie the tongue, the tongue will repeat.

And Haridas Thakur was repeating three lakhs namam daily. Now, the Muslim government ordered him not to repeat Krishna namam. Then he said:

"You cannot say so. I am repeating! It is my will! I am repeating. You cannot stop it. If you kill this body, destroy this body, if the tongue is there, tongue will repeat nonstop."

So, such a determination, such attachment with namam one must have. If not, everything is at false. All our activities are false activities. Our strain, mental strain or physical strain in the name of devotion or devotee, everything is hopeless. No use. We must be determined to follow the Vaisnavas. Always. Without the association of a Vaisnava, without the blessing of a Vaisnava I can not able to follow this path or repeat namam. Chaitanya Mahaprabhu when he was repeating namam daily, sankirtan daily, always, only devotees, those who are pure devotees, they were allowed, no others were allowed. Others are out of the gate. When they want to hear the sankirtan and see sankirtan: "No." Mahaprabhu never allowed. Who? Only devotees. Nondevotion nonallowed. One day, Srivas Pandit's house it is. Now, Srivas Pandit's son suddenly died. And Mahaprabhu was performing sankirtan in the front room. Now, Mahaprabhu asked:

"Srivas. Anything happened? Misfortune? Anything happened?"

He said:

"No sir! When you are in my house I am all... nothing, no damage to me. No harm to me. No suffering to me. No loss to me. I am happy."

After half an hour again Mahaprabhu said:

"Srivas. Anything? Anything happened? Any accidents?"

"Nothing. Nothing."

Then other Vaisnavas, they told:

"Srivas lost his son."

When they were crying Srivas went inside and said:

"Why you are crying" "Your boy died."

"Let him die but if you now weep then Mahaprabhu will stop his sankirtan. So don't weep now. Early morning you'll weep when Mahaprabhu stops his sankirtan."

Through the night he will be doing sankirtan; dancing, singing, beating. Not sitting. This is not sankirtan. Sankirtan, sankirtan's dancing, singing and with instruments and mridanga. Now our sankirtan not even a drop of it, a drop. What is drop? What is that?

Sweating. Our body doesn't sweat even a drop of water. Because we never feel it, sankirtan. They used to feel throughout the night. Throughout the night they will be dancing in. We cannot do sankirtan sitting for five minutes, ten minutes, half an hour. Half an hour. "Go, go ..." One should no. Now Mahaprabhu, when he heard Srivas's son died, then Mahaprabhu says:

"How is your heart? There is no, this sorrow. A man only feels sorry... The extension of sorry is to the son's death. Now, the extreme suffering, extreme suffering that your son died. And you are dancing with us, singing with us. I have never seen, I have never heard about such a devotee who is able to maintain his, keep his heart still and he is dancing and singing. Though he lost his son. Is there any devotee in this world like Srivas?"

No. No one. Such a devotee. Such devotees are allowed to sing with Chaitanya Mahaprabhu at our sankirtan. This is not sankirtan. But, yet we are not fortunate enough to see such sankirtan. Now, we hear in the scriptures: Chaitanya— caritamrita, Anupadyavali or different Vaisnavas wrote several songs. In this we can know how they performed sankirtan. So, that sankirtan must be an automatic sankirtan. Mahaprabhu was weeping. Mahaprabhu went there and touched the boy and told the boy:

"Boy, where are you going?"

Then the boy said:

"Sir, I am fortunate. I see you. I heard your nama sankirtan. I was born in the house of Srivas Pandit. Now, according to my past karma I was here for twelve years, thirteen years. Now I have to go to other place. That I have no hand to control. I cannot stay. Though you say I cannot stay."

The boy went away. And he also:

verse(? 21:55) tekasa pati putradya mohe vai karanam

Srivas also thought:

"Who is my boy? I am not his father. He is not my son."

But, though we know this, whatever affection towards the son is always there. And that son, whether he will respond to the love of the father? No, guarant. Today a father loves his boy and maintains with hardship and he protects the boy, educates the boy. And boy, when grown up, he never cares for father. And moves as he likes. And he becomes a drunkard. He will have sex. Father cannot control. But yet the father has an affection towards that child. But here, though he was a great Vaisnava and he could not able to follow this matter. Certainly a vaisnava will follow. Mahaprabhu was keeping namam.

We cannot say anything. No words come out from my or your mouth and how he is brave enough to do sankirtan. This is how the tolerance a Vaisnava has is inaccessible to others. And:

trnad api sunicena
taror api sahisnuna

The devotee is like a tree. If you cut the tree it will never take reaction. Never deny. Or if you want to cut the branches, take away leaves or don't pour water and let it die it does no harm. It only stands there to serve others. So also a sadhu, a devotee is living only to serve others. Not only his family members or kit and kin but all. Not doing only human, humanity. Even the beasts and birds also he serves. They, the birds sit upon his body because they know: "The man will never harm." So, the other animals or other birds and beasts they never harm to a sadhu. Why sadhu should remain in forest?

(verse 25:05)vanam tu sattvika vacam

This is a vanam. No human is there. No human, humanity, man and woman is there. But here, this is not a vanam. This is not such a vana. Not such a forest. This is a playing forest for or this people. In the summer they want to play. They have got their wagons, their homes, houses, a car, or moving that house. And they dance, they sing, they take bath in the sea. And all enjoyment. It is all enjoyment. Nothing but enjoyment. But actually in India we see many sacred forests are there where all the emperors, those who ruled country for fifty, sixty, seventy, eighty years and at last they resign and give the power to their children and go to the forest. Going there not to enjoy. They never have, one cloth only. Nothing. Not even a glass. Nothing water for. Nothing. No place. No chair. No asanas. Nothing. Like a beast roaming in the forest he also roams. When he feels hungry only he will take the leaves of the tree and drink the water of the river. And no asanas, no pillows, no cart. Nothing enjoyment. Though he is an emperor. He can arrange and sit and leave the forest? No. That is not the forest life. Forest life is forest life. In the forest no cooking. Who will cook? Where is the pot for cooking? So, no cooking it. Only roots, flowers and fruits. Ripe fruits or unripe fruits or some leaves, soft leaves they eat. That is their food. They have enjoyed all this food. But we, though we have enjoyed throughout our life. But in the old days also we take a car and see that: lines of them. Cottages. That is not a cottage. That is a heavenlike cottage there. They will be happy. Happily sleep, happily eat and dishes, all dishes they enjoy. For enjoyment they come here. So, this is not forest life. Forest life is we must be; always equality he has. He treats all alike. Even a serpent does him no thing. Serpent will not come. He will see serpent is passing. It doesn't do any harm. The tiger is coming and going. Because, tiger knows that he will never harm him, never harm him. So, they treat all alike. They all called:

(? 28:34) vanandu sattvika vaca

Almost all the sages, they used to remain in the forest. They won't shave. And they have all their beards, mustaches and the hair grown up. That is called jata, big, big. They won't take oil bath. They won't take. Even in cool time also, only they rub this ashes of this wood. They burn the wood. The ash will be there. That they will rub. But this only to protect cold. That depends on fire. But they are happy. They never take anybody's reward. Never anxious to take from anybody for enjoyment. They don't want enjoyment. They've already enjoyed throughout their life. Now, renunciation.

(? 29:40) praprtiresa buhutanam nivritasya maha para

They have enjoyed. Now they must to suffer. They suffer. And they will die. Prithu Cakravarti, Maharaja. He was adi, beginning emperor. Prithu. And he has lot of service. In the country there was no water, no food. Trees no leaves. No fertile country, no water. Due to that all cereals, rice, or wheat or fruits...(end of tape)

Pula, Croatia 2.7.1999.

All the trees. They will perform sankirtan and they will be purified. And the sea will be purified. And air will be purified. And the people who have come here enjoying sea shore, they will be purified. And all the animals can be purified. Those who are here, they cannot repeat, they're here, they will be sublime, they can become sanctified, they also will be sanctified, they also will be purified. Now we are doing great service to the whole nature. Not only human beings; the beasts, birds, the animals and the trees and the leaves. All will become.It is transcendental namam. It can make them alive. Now, when they hear the namam, they can stand still, hearing your namam..... they are all fortunate. We make them fortunate, we make them happy. They will never have to come in tree life. All the people, who here stand for namam, sing with us, repeat the namam, they will, definitely will be changed. We have done greatest service to the nation. All of us. They never heard, they have never heard sadhus, mahatmas, vaisnavas repeating namam. They never heard. Now they have heard. And the birds also. All this sea and the fish and the sea, and life that lives in the water, they also will be sanctified. How will anybody be sanctified?

Hare Krishna Hare Krishna
Krishna Krishna Hare Hare
Hare Rama Hare Rama
Rama Rama Hare Hare

It is the greatest service to the humanity. Those who are going down and down, going to hell and those who are ignorant, he doesn't know what the life is. They think life is only to eat and drink and sleep and mate. No. No. Life is not like that. Life is to know the Supreme Lord, see the Supreme Lord, hear the Supreme Lord, sing the glories of the Lord, sing the glories of the sage. Then you will be happy. Then you will be satisfied. Then you can enjoy peace. Peace cannot be enjoyed without the association of a sadhu. Without the blessings of the sadhu, without the blessings of the sage we cannot enjoy peace, we cannot enjoy happiness. Only if you will be repeating of Divine Name you could become happy. All throughout the life you will be happy. You will be happy. If we hear one, we are chanting so many times namam, Hare Krishna, Hare Krishna. They will be purified. They will never born again. They will enjoy the internal nectar. And we will be happy. You have done great service to all the trees and birds. They are standing still, listening your namam, seeing your dancing. They cannot talk, but they can hear. They cannot talk, but they can hear. They have got ears, they have got ears. No mouth to speak.

Also we have got mouth. We can speak. We can repeat namam. Same merit. Same merit. Many people will come hear to enjoy. Now, when they are enjoying, when they hear suddenly the Divine Name, the transcendental name now touching their ears, then they will get some change in them that cannot be realized in years now. And it will come them to be devotee, be humble and to be peaceful and to be happy.

Ljubljana, Slovenia 7.6.2000. morning

Now, guru puja. Guru puja is, our Visvanatha Cakravarti says that Guru engages all his disciples in the service of the Lord and the service of offering prayers, and service of making garlands or preparations for the deity. The guru with the help of all disciples will do this and teach them. To teach them he personally does the duties. And he teaches that. Daily, what we have to do. That Gurvastaka first is samsara–davanala–lidha–loka–tranaya karunya ghana–ghanatvam

He's very kindly, has come to this world to purify all the ignorant jivas by teaching them the service of the Supreme Godhead. Samsara dava nala We are in this world. We are burning. Fire, this, like a forest fire. In the forest, the fire cannot be subsided by watering. You cannot get water there. Vast area is attached with fire. Only by water pipes you cannot subside it. It requires the clouds. So, guru is compared with the clouds, clouds, raining clouds. The clouds are there, it is raining.

But no raining, no rain, only clouds, they come and go. That is not actual comfort. It is compassion towards the jivas. So, ghana–ghanatvam, he says ghana–ghanatvam. He is compared to the clouds and that to raining clouds. When it rains then the world will be perfectly free from the burning. So, all of jivas are always burning in tapatrayas; adhyatmika, adhibhautika and adhidaivika tapa. They are burning. With the help of, with the blessings of guru, he will distribute the rains, or teaches that devotion. And among all the devotion, it is, hari–nama–sankirtana is the supreme. He always teaches us sankirtan. Through sankirtan we can subside our burnings and we will be happy.

Then he teaches us how to make a garland, how to worship the Lord, how to do arcana. Arcana. This will be taught by the guru. The guru teaches us that arcana. And he accepts that arcana not for himself. Only to pass it away to his beloved Lord. Guru is not the enjoyer. He is unlimited person. Whatever you give, he is not accepting for his own self. He accepts it only to serve the Lord. Like a postpion.

Whatever you give the post, letter, he will carry to the office and send to the address. So also like in banks he takes and he gives. And he is not the enjoyer. Whatever amount you want to stock there he will accept. And whatever amount he has order to be distributed to you that will be given by that. That is the guru's function. Though guru is called Baladeva, Nityananda and at higher stage manjari and at higher stage is Radhika. So,

guru is called:

saksad–dharitvena samasta–sastrair uktas tatha

In all our scriptures, it is mentioned that guru is equal to Hari, the Lord, Supreme Lord. At the same time they say same to:

saksad–dharitvena samasta–sastrair uktas tatha bhavyata eva sadbhih kintu prabhor yah priya eva tasya

And actually he is the beloved confidential devotee of the Supreme Lord. In various stages he accepts the service of all others and offers this to beloved Lord. He will never enjoy. People who say:

gurur brahma guru visnu guru deva mahesvara guru saksad parabrahma tasmai sri gurave namah

The guru is considered to be Brahma or considered to be Mahadeva and considered to be Visnu. There is no difference between guru and Visnu. So I will offer my prayers to guru. If I offer my prayers to guru, the guru will, if he is satisfied, then all the demigods and Lord, Supreme Lord will be satisfied. He is Supreme Lord. He is Brahma(laughs). Of course, yes, it is also admitted in our scriptures that if we serve guru we are serving Visnu, we are serving Mahadeva or Brahma. It is also there. But, according to Vaisnava philosophy, Vaisnavas only offer to guru because guru is the beloved devotee of the Lord and is equal to Lord. Because there can be no difference between your guru and the Lord, yet he says this:

saksad–dharitvena samasta–sastrair uktas tatha,
yet

kintu prabhor yah priya eva tasya

He is the beloved confidential servant of the Lord. Though the Lord enjoys through him, yet God also reciprocation to it. That he also serves.

aham bhakta–paradhino
hy asvatantra iva dvija
mad–bhaktanam ca ye bhaktas te me bhaktatama matah

He says that: "To worship me, the bhakta who worships me is not great. But one who worships my devotee, he is great." So, devotee's position is higher. But the devotee doesn't accept it leaving away the Supreme God. No. He says yes. He may think that, he may think

na me bhakta pranasyati

and Supreme Lord is Supreme. We find in this Vaisnava philosophy, they treat Lord Krishna or Narayana or Govinda or other names such as Vishnu. So, if we worship Vishnu, he says

yasya prasada bhagavat prasado yasya aprasadat na gati kuto 'pi

If guru is satisfied, pleased, then Lord will be pleased. If the Guru is not pleased, Lord is not pleased. So we must always try to please our Guru. It is there. But he accepts only to encourage the devotee and not for his enjoyment. He accepts it to please his devotee and such sort of devotion is a process adopted by Vaisnavas. Vaisnavas.

This is in Ramanuja sampradaya: one day, Ramanuja's guru, Gosthipurna asked Ramanuja to come to certain place as he also will be coming there. So it was summer, hot summer. The land was very hot. The terrain will be very hot. And Govinda, a follower of Ramanuja, following Ramanuja. And Ramanuja walked a distance in that hot summer, no pada riksa. No. No pada riksa, no slippers, no sandals, nothing. Walked. Because he asked him, he asked for darshana of guru, guru asked him to come. Then when he saw guru from a long distance he falled flat on the sand. Sand is very hot. There is, the steel is burning. Guru has come very near, but guru never asked Ramanuja to get up. No. He never asked.

Then Govinda, the follower of Ramanuja. He boldly lifted Guru's body and said: "My master's body is burned. Get up! You get up!" So he got up. Thereby Goshtipurna was very much pleased. He said: "There are so many disciples. Ramanuja's. He has. None could dare to lift him without my orders. Because not to, not for himself. If he has committed anything wrong he is liable to punishment. "I am ready, but I must see my guru's body is burned. So I cannot tolerate."" Then he said:

"You are only the person, confidential servant who can save Ramanuja. Because people are trying to kill Ramanuja. So, you must serve him always. You must be always with him." Like that, guru's order, one must carry guru's order.

(16:17?)guro raghnya abhicaraniyam

Whatever guru says you have to do it. Though it is wrong, ; Parashuram's father. He is Jamadagni. Jamadagni, his wife went for water and it was puja time. Now it is late so she is not coming. After fixed hour she came, then he was very angry. Now he said: "Why are you so late?" She was straying when she went to bring water but she was seeing the dancing of Gandharvas and Apsaras, dances. She forgot that she has come to take water for the puja. Then, these three sons are there.

He ordered three sons to kill your mother. But three boys never accepted it. When he called Parashuram who was in penance, he called him, Parashurama came running and he says: "What shall I do?" "You take your ax and kill your mother first and then kill brothers." Without any word he removed that ax, killed these four. Then he is very much pleased. "You have followed sacred guru's order. What will I give to you? What do you want?" Then he says: "Let my brothers and mother think they're never killed by me. Just they were sleeping and also they should not remember that." Yes. Like that, immediately boys stood and wife also stood. There he says:

(19:00?)guro raghnay abhicaraniyam

Parashurama says: "It is order of the guru."

You cannot speak to guru that it is wrong. It is not your business. So whatever guru said you do it first. Then you will get the result. But this is, such a daring action, others cannot do that. Parashurama knows the capacity of his father. So he did this. Because he is an avatar. So he did it. All cannot do that. Anyhow, guru's service, guru's service means service of the Lord. Guru doesn't want service from anybody. Doesn't want a flower from anybody.

Whatever they do, they offer, he should offer to guru and gradually in the channel, this guru's channel is there: Sri Krishna, Brahma, Devarishi Narada and then comes Vyasa and then Madhvacarya, gradually it comes to Madhavendra Puri and Iswara Puri, like that, and till the present guru. Now, if I act according to the order of my guru, that should have touch with the guru's activities. Because all the gurus in guru parampara, they all follow one principle. Dvadash mahajans, he says, mahajano, dvadash mahajans, who are those 12 mahajanas? Svayambhu, Narada, Shambu, Kumara, Kapila, Manu, Prahlada, Janaka, Bhisma, Bali, Sukadeva and Yama— dharmaraja. These 12 mahajanas.

mahajano yena gata sa pantha

Then he says:

dharmasya tattvam nihitam guhayam mahajano yena gatah sa panthah

We should follow the mahajanas or the path they have practiced and ... to others. Now that we have to follow our guru's pranali, guru parampara's teachings. All their teachings they combine. Everybody will say like this. Because one who will want to, becomes a guru and he says: "You all must follow me." Whether he follows his guru or not this is different question. Nobody asks him. It is not necessary. Yet, this is parampara. That parampara must be maintained.

There he says, that will reach Krishna through parampara. Guru, whatever you give to guru, guru, he gives his guru, guru, parama guru, parameshti guru and all, one by one, they accept. This is not a physical or material question. It is only spiritual, spiritual. One must lead the spiritual life dictated by his guru. And his guru also follows his guru. Like that his guru parampara comes. There are first four vaisnava paramparas: Sri, Brahma, Rudra, Sanaka. Sri – Laksmi, from Laksmi. And Rudra from Mahadeva. And Brahma, from Brahma. And from Sanaka, Sanatana, Sanat, Sanandan, Brahma's four children, manasa–putras. And these are Sri, Brahma, Rudra, Sanak, Sanatana, Sanak, Sanak–sampradaya – Nimbarka sampradaya, Vishnuswami's and Ramanuja's and Madhva's. These are the four sampradayas

sampradaya vihinas ye mantras te nisphala matah

Every sampradaya has mantra, but different mantras. Vishnu mantra may differ. And first Ramanuja, he says Narayanaya namah but we say Krishna. So, their ashtakshari and we may utter ashtadasakshari, mantras differ. Yet, all of them according to circumstances and the time, all they appear in this world and they teach this mantra to all, so that all may reach the Lord. There, summum bonum is, that we say, our is Krishna prema. But almost all the vaisnava acaryas they say only moksa.

To follow varnasrama dharma and moksa prayojan. They want moksa. Ramanuja says so, Madhva says so. And Baladeva Vidyabushan he said, Vallabha Acarya he also says this and Visnuswami, Nimbarka. Nimbarka also same. But here:

varnasramacaravata purusena para puman, visnur aradhyate pumsam nanyat tat–tosa karanam

Mahaprabhu first heard of this philosophy from Ramananda. At the banks of Godavari when he was, after sannyas when he was traveling he met this Ramananda who was then the Governor of southern empire of Orissa under Gajapati Prataparudra. And he asked: "Ramananda, what is sadhan, what is sadhan and what is sadhya, tell me?" He says

varnasramacara va ta, varnasramacara va ta

Those who follow varnasrama dharma aradhyate vishnur, they worship Vishnu. Because they follow the principles of Varnasrama. Brahmins, Ksatriyas, Vaisyas and Sudras and brahmacari, grihasta, vanaprastha and sannyasi. This Varnasrama dharma they have to follow. To follow varnasrama is sadhan, sadhya is vishnu–priti. Vishnu will be pleased if everybody follows varnasrama dharma. But Mahaprabhu says : "No, you please go ahead. It is not the proper answer to my question. I say, go beyond that." Then he said: "Whatever you do, this is karma, whatever you do

yat karosi yad asnasi
yaj juhosi dadasi yat
yat tapasyasi kaunteya
tat kurusva mad–arpanam

you give it to me, offer to me. Then the result you may not enjoy because result is given to me. So, when you never enjoy you will have no birth." A man without having that link with the God, whatever act it is he does, he is liable to follow the result. The fruit he has to follow. And he will get that fruit. But, if it is properly offered to the Lord then he is not responsible to follow the fruit and have birth again. That also Mahaprabhu says: "No. You have to go further." Then he says:

sarva–dharman parityajya
mam ekam saranam vraja
aham tvam sarva–papebhyo
moksaisyami ma sucah

All dharmas you practice you leave them and surrender to me. By that, all the sins that you have committed, I will relieve you from all sins, sins and here results of outrage. Then, Mahaprabhu says: "Still go ahead." Then he says:

brahma–bhutah prasannatma
na socati na kanksati
samah sarvesu bhutesu
mad–bhaktim labhate param

Then he says, prasanatma na socati na kanksati. One who attains brahma– bhuta stage, brahma bhuta stage then that stage when he attains he has no demands and nothing to feel for this loss of anything na socati na kanksati. Samah he feels all equal. samah sarvesu bhutesu mad–bhaktim Then he is eligible to have bhakti, devotion. Now Mahaprabhu said: "Yes, now I accept." Then he thought, he said: "You still go ahead." Then he says:

jnane prayasam udapasya namanta eva jivanti san–mukharitam bhavadiya–vartam sthane sthitah sruti–gatam tanu–van–manobhir ye prayaso jita jito'py asi tais tri–lokyam

Now, that bhakti mixed with. Now, pure bhakti he says, one must listen, submit and search a guru or a realized pure soul, vaisnava and from him he must hear the glories of the Lord. And then devotion, pure devotion. And then he says: "Yes, now it is completely (but little ?) about dasya bhakti." Now, five rasas. One shanta rasa, dasya rasa, sakhya rasa, vatsalya rasa, sringara rasa. adi eva paro rasa sringara is five, five. And when he came to sringara rasa he told about Radha–Krishna and their all pastimes and the conjugal or this confidential matters which cannot be disclosed.

Then they come and then Mahaprabhu says: "Yes, yes. Now avati, you have come to the end. Now tell me about the glories of Krishna and Radha, these glories." Then, what is the last one, lila? There he says: "There is none in this world who will ask such a question. Now you are asking. I tell you don't talk. Keep your mouth closed. If you ask everyone will let it go." Then Ramananda said: "There is none in this world who can come to this point. Now, you speak through me and you are questioning." So through Ramananda he came full contact of this bhakti rasa. Till then bhakti was a bhava. Now he, Mahaprabhu followed it. They were practicing,

Mahaprabhu was in that closed door for 18 years, day and night he was weeping for Lord Krishna. He taught this that Radha when she was left alone. From Vrindavan Krishna went away to Mathura and then he came to Dvaraka. He never returned to Vrindavan. Who promised that I will return in four days. Every day the gopis, every morning they say four days. So years are passing ... till they count four days. Fourth. He said they will come fourth day. Today is first day, Tuesday, Wednesday and tomorrow, he said at fourth day, Friday they were get up in

.....fourth day. He said they will come in four days. So they are counting four days, months and years all are passing away. And this separation made Radha uneasy. So if you go to Vrindavan; they say Radha must Because Radha was there always weeping for Krishna. So they want their Radha. All the Vrijabasis are on the side of Radha. They worship Radha through, the worship there taught by, this is Radha was doing, following that and Mahaprabhu followed that.

? (36:00) radha bhava.....chuvalitam

There were thousands of devotees. None can able to go nearer to Mahaprabhu in those days. Because, everybody must be far away from him. Only you should offer your prostrations and go. Prior to that Mahaprabhu used to ask: "How are you?" keeping dance. But now Mahaprabhu never talks. Nobody should go near because he's always in his mood. Where he, he may be in, near Radha-kunda or at Govardhana or some place where Krishna is with Radhika. And now, he used to say to Svarupa Damodara who was Lalita and Visakha is Ramananda. And another, Madhavi mata and Madhavi mata He is Sikhi Mahantu. Three and half people. What? Only the associates of Mahaprabhu. Nobody is allowed. No others are allowed to come. Nobody can understand him. Ragunatha das Goswami was, but Ragunath das Goswami had no power to talk to Mahaprabhu.

Only whatever the action was going on they ask, he will remember it in his heart, perfect. No writing. No, these people, all the great, there was Svarupa Damodara, a great scholar. And this Ramananda was also great scholar. They never kept anything and write. Because writing is not necessary. It must come from his, from inspiration it will come. They were not... But now we publish so many thousands and millions of books. We read that million. Can we get a spark of that inspiration? It don't come. It is not possible.

Only the Lord's blessings. According to blessing the gradation will be there.... But now there are so many contradictions, one writing another, writing another. (Laughs) Another writes. And there Kaviraja Goswami, when he, when all the Vaisnavas requested Kaviraj Goswami to complete Chaitanya Bhagavat. Chaitanya Bhagavata was written by Vrindavan das Thakur. And now they said: "Vrindavan das Thakur could not complete the life of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu." Because, every chapter is also Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and most towards Nityananda. So, he sings always glories of Nityananda." Then he says: "I cannot able to complete.

The Vyasadeva must come and he will complete." Now, Kaviraj Goswami, he came to Vrindavan and he was doing bhajan. He was old. More than 80. Now, all the devotees requested him that he should write complete life. He said: "No. I will never do that. It will be a competition. I will be committing offense at the feet of Vrindavan das Thakur. Why should I write? Why should I write?" So, he never accepted the proposal by all Vaisnavas. And then all Vaisnavas took him to Madan– Gopal. And they offered their prayers to Madan–Gopal. And after the offering, Madan–Gopal's garland from his neck, it fell down automatically. Then all of them said: "You please take this as the blessings of Madan–Gopal and write." He says:

ami vrddha jaratura, likhite kanpaye kara,
mane kichu smarana na haya

"I am old. I cannot write. My hand's shaking. I have no remembrance. How can I write?" Then he says:

ei grantha lekhaya more `madana–mohana'

Madan–Mohan writes. I am not writing. Madan–Mohan writes. I am like a parrot. Whatever Madan–Mohan dictates I write. I am out of, upon grace – I cannot write." That he wrote. So, he says: "What is my identification." He says: "I am inferior than human stools and insect of that stool."

purisera kita haite muni se laghistha

Purisa means stools of man. In the stools there will be germs. "I am inferior than those germs." Did you ever hear anybody, any author, such a lucid translation he has done that every word is alive? Krishna Chaitanya katha. If you hear Chaitanya caritamrita though you don't know the language but this, this is written, you will develop; water will come from your eyes. You do not know the language yet it will come. Because it has got life.

He says: "I am not writing. This is written by Madan– Gopal.

He is writing." Now, we are writing many books, thousands of books only to create heterodynes and malice and misunderstanding. Nobody can understand him. He says: "I am right.", he says: "I am right." You must establish. Everybody wants their own caritamrita. No. He is a writer. He is a writer. "If anybody says Krishnadas all the sin will come to him. If anybody hears my name Krishnadas then all the sins that he is doing. He should not hear my name. Nobody should hear my name."

emana nirghrta more keba kṛpā kare eka nityananda vinu jagat bhitarē

"Who can help this wretched fellow? Who can help? Only my help it is Lord Chaitanya and Nityananda. Because Nityananda, by Nityananda's blessing only I could write this, I could survive." Now, one must feel that. Now also, if you read Chaitanya–caritamrita ... now it is, Narottama Thakura says:

verse ? 44:34 jaho hoilo chaitanya ...gaura–govinda lila ... mahajana hoilo mulo siddha

"Now, who reads Chaitanya–caritamritam, though his heart is like a stone it will be melted. But, inspite of that though I am a human being my heart is more strong than steel so it cannot be melted", he says. He is weeping for that. That he cannot understand it. This is how those devotees, they felt for. In those days, they were only about devotion. Always devotion. They are free from malice. Pure heart.

They were pure heart. In Vrindavan the devotees never stay in one place. Never. In one cottage. No. Everybody was at different place. Some were staying... (break of tape) But now we think that we are preaching namam. How many people do hear namam? What is the population of the whole world? And what was, he will display? How many people? They know Chaitanya, they know the Divine Name, they practice Divine Name? How many? It is only the will of the Lord. When the Lord wants to be, to be, but Lord has said:

prithivite ache yato nagaradi grama
sarvatra pracara hoibe mora nama

So, in this world, every corner of the world, every corner, village of the world will be nama–sankirtan, he said. Now, this was done by Swami Maharaja. We are grateful to him that he went, he went, alone he went. He never took amount, nothing with him. He went alone. Only Harinam. By the grace of guru and Gauranga and the harinam he was sitting like this in the park. It is american park, they do all nuisance. They are like dogs. They embrace each other, they kiss each other, love each other in the park, yet he was sitting and doing namam Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare Hare Rama Hare Rama Rama Rama Hare Hare. For one week there nobody is coming to him.

Nobody asked: "What are you doing?"

Nobody. For two hours he sits and do namam and go. One week. Then he contacted the steamer. Is it returning to India? Because he can do that, but I will never stay here, nobody will hear namam, nobody will hear. It only can you ask some, was given some day. Then he said let me try another week. Now he tried. That week also nobody comes. And at the end of that week one fellow has come. And he heard and on the next day he brought another friend. And gradually the number increased. And then they said:

"We will have a fixed place where we can announce the time. But also he did, they were in there, they have taken, some they were in there. Yes, five thirty, five sankirtan, five thirty. Five thirty will go to six. And six, six thirty prasad.

Now he has to prepare the ground, now he must clean it and cook and prepare prasadam and get it ready and now mridanga, bhajan. Only one person doing bhajan, will do bhajan. Then he will give the lecture in half an hour. Then after half an hour prasad distribution. That prasad he has prepared he only will distribute. This is from the grass root he has troubled hard to establish nama-sankirtana in western countries. But your country is not so richer. In richest country in the world, America. They never think that there are any human beings in other places, only in America.

Those people gradually, they surrendered and they shaved their heads and they were doing, taken cloth and going around sing bhajan. Now, the time, of course, he has established Krishna consciousness. He has done this throughout the world. Everybody came to know what Chaitanya Mahaprabhu is, about the philosophy of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu. He has written bhagavata, 65 volumes. Nobody can compete it and he has done. And Bhagavad-gita and Chaitanya-caritamrita 22 volumes he wrote. Now it is translated to 60 or 70 languages. People are reading. People are knowing this. And we also, we also, he has shown the way to come to western countries.

He said, when we are talking, used to say: "Why you don't come to western?" I said: "I am doing service. I was there in Ramananda Gaudiya Math and doing service. I cannot come. You go and we shall meet." So, again 71 he returned from America and I requested him to open our temple at Godavari bank. One temple outside, that side and this side also. And he came there in June 71 and all the senior, any senior sannyasi ISKCON has come. He was for 7 days. Then he went to Bombay, from Bombay came to Madras, and from Madras he said: "I am going with 20 members." All seniors.

They were staying twenty days in our Vishakhapatnam temple. And they were well treated. Because ... to India there all preparations are made. And after that he said: "You come to Navadvip. We will give foundation of temple there. So, I with four others, Bhakti Tirtha Maharaj, Ananda prabhu, Nityananda prabhu. Us four went and we performed the festival there and foundation was given. And then they left. I returned with them. I returned.

Of course, I could not able to come out from the institution. It will be coming after– And whenever they do want something for you to take there(?). That was old ... good days. Now, at the time of 77 also he came and before his departure, because we were going on to Badrinath, with 120 passengers, devotees were there. Devotees. They are not so... I went there. He asked me to come.

He was in this temple, Vrindavan temple. Lying on the bed. He was very glad to see us all. And asked the devotees to prepare prasad for them. The feast. Was talking about a cheat, a cheat; Dr.Kovuru. He wrote some article against Vaisnavism. And then he said: "No sir, he is not doctor, the con doctor." A story and he laughed. Now, he was quite well, quite well. So he was sitting, lying in the bed. At last moment we could not able to come. We were at Rajamundhry. Long distance. Anyhow, their, our, that, there ISKCON people must now maintain that, keeping Krsna consciousness with Swami Maharaja Hare Krishna. Now, we must, we should not forget the Guru

cakhu dana dilo yei janme janme prabhu sei

So who has opened my eyes, darkness, I was in ignorance, dark, and he has given me the eyes to see, to understand and through his blessings we are standing in the field now. And how can we forget that? Their kindness or compassion towards all the jivas? Can we forget? We cannot forget. But we always must follow the dictations and the teachings and we will be blessed and if we follow the teachings thereby we will be benefited, spiritually benefited. Without guru one cannot spiritually be benefited. So, now we must... What is that benefit? Developing devotion. If we commit offense at the real Vaisnava then our Namam cannot develop.

yadi vaisnava–aparadha uthe hati mata
upade va chinde, tara sukhi' yaya pata

So, one must be very careful not to commit Vaisnava aparadha and practice namam. By that he will receive, receive, by that you can reach Goloka. And if not this will be a hard path. One if he commits offense it will break. Break is there, it will never survive. It will go away, the little devotion that we have possessed. So we must be very careful not to commit Vaisnava aparadha. We do little Vaisnava aparadha, that will destroy our accumulated devotion, that that we have, that will go away. So always we must avoid Vaisnava aparadha and do Hari namam. Hari namam.

narada vinoj–jivana! sudhormi–niryasa–madhuri–pura

What is that? He was singing in tambura, vina, in that vina, that of the nectarian waves, waves of sound that comes out from the vina. narada vinoj–jivana So now, this name, the Nama, Divine Name gives life to the vina of Narada. Gives life that vina. Because when he sings devotional name of Vishnu and the wave, the currently wave, just the wave, taranga, it is bhava taranga or chara taranga, udhana, arohana, avarohana. That thrill, the thrill just like wave and come and it will then disappear. This is called arohana and that is called avarohana. The scientists music knows that how to develop this and gradually ... And this vina, the life has vina, and if there's no life but when Narada sings about Narayana, Krishna, Krishna's pastimes or Krishna namam

narada vinoj-jivana! sudhormi-niryasa-madhuri-pura

This nectarian waves will develop. So that namam is so... Our Rupa Goswami in his namastaka wrote

ayi-mukta-kulair-upasyamanam

Mukta-kulair. Those who are free from the bondage they perfectly do namam, they worship. Brahma with four heads, Shiva with five heads, Narada with Vina and sahasra sirsa purusha, thousands of heads, he also sings, Ananta, he also sings glories of the Namam. Those mukta purushas, those mukta purushas are not like us. We are under the influence of maya. We are badha jivas. We are bound souls. We have no knowledge, nothing. We do not know anything. Our mukta purushas, philosophy is clear to them. So they are very clear, their understanding. Those mukta- purushas also, they cannot sit quite, always they sing namam, ayi-mukta-kulair-upasyamanam, paritas-tvam harinama! samsrayami

So, all mukta purushas they are always repeating namam. But unfortunately we are not repeating namam. We have no voice. We can, but now in this year, generations, I have seen generations, 50 years back, generations, the same people, ISKCON people, they were coming and play "Hare Krishna Hare Krishna!" loudly they speak. No mike was there. There was no mike. Nothing. Only voice. Yes. Voice. Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna. And when I see them sitting in the ashrama, everybody is repeating Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare Hare Rama Hare Rama Rama Rama Hare Hare.

The same people are now, but I don't hear even one namam from them. It is, time for us changed, changed because everybody is changing. Or this instruments were not then. There was nothing, only .. these was very rare. But now it developed, time developed. Nobody opens mouth. Hare Krishna. Everybody doing namam, opens no mouth. That is there is no, nobody says Hare Krishna Hare Krishna. With the great difficulty, with the help of instruments and harmonium and all this they say Hare Krishna Hare Krishna. As if the whole body or the whole energy will be spoiled if we repeat namam. That is "don't talk", no talk is necessary, as yogi or mauna, mauna always. As the finger is doing. So finger only doing namam. Not the tongue, not the tongue. Because he thinks it is difficult to repeat namam now. Because it can only dance upon the tongue of

sevon mukhe hi jihvadau svayam eva spurathy adha

Those who are at service, who want to do service, inwardly and outwardly all their senses, organs, they will dance. They will dance. When that namam appears on the tongue the tongue will dance, eyes will dance, hands will dance, the legs will dance. They cannot sit quite like a figure. Now, everybody is like a photo. They want to become a photo. Lifeless photo. They are not repeating namam. You can see at their is no meditation, no meditation. How can you meditate? They have no control upon their mind. Mind is active. Now everybody's mind is active. Though your tongue is not active, mind is active. You cannot control. No science can control that mind. Very difficult. Now, the problem increases. Because if they utilize their organs in the sankirtan; dancing, singing, beating mridanga, beating karatals their mind will be controlled easily. Easily will be controlled. The mind will never go this way, this way.

Because they have to sing and they have to beat karatals in life. If not he will be His attention will be there with the sankirtan dancing. And just like the one who sings. He sings, he should sing and all the musical instruments should help it. Because he controls the mind. Great singers, they have control over mind. They have got name and fame. They have got name and fame. . . . in South india Purandar das.....There will be increasing voice, gradually developing voice, and increasing voice, There is one Now he is 85 or 86. Now he cannot sing, world famous, he cannot sing. And now in India he is also very, very good. All our songs, Gita Govinda songs and the songs of all great poets.

So, Nama sankirtan then it has a charm when Mahaprabhu was there. The Mahaprabhu was dancing. Narottama Thakur if you beat the mridanga he They were ideal persons. You cannot see such an ideal person. Not giving lectures. No. This boy has become lecturer. What is use doing that? Nama sankirtan. Nama sankirtan. Sankirtan, they will, their minds, their feelings, and their organs, they all are engaged in sankirtan. We cannot see such an ideal person, ideal. Or Mahaprabhu used to do sankirtan when mridangas were five parties, five parties. Every party one sings and one will dance and others would follow. There were five parties. There was in front of Jagannath, side of Jagannatha, two sides, back three and in the front two.

And every party, in one Svarupa Damodar, one is Haridas, one is from Shantipur, Advaita Acarya, they will be singing, and one Vakresvara Pandit and he also will be dancing throughout. And Mahaprabhu when he wants to dance he used to dance in five. He goes and dances there and at other four he dances. And just like the whole body like a circle, body moves in circles there. So, sankirtan you cannot see. We are not fortunate enough to see that sankirtan now. There is no sankirtan at all. Where is sankirtan? No voice.

Sankirtan means dance. According to ... there must be dance. But where is? Nobody knows. And if you say or request all to do sankirtan they won't open their mouth. No police repeating Hare Krishna. And they are afraid.

Hare Krishna Hare Krishna
Krishna Krishna Hare Hare
Hare Rama Hare Rama

Rama Rama Hare Hare! Now, if I say you say. But when you take your Harinama do you say like that? No. You will never. You will never open your mouth. In the mind you'll do. That will never help you. Because mind is very strong. Mind doesn't want to accept it. And now it is, as this is, one generation has gone. In our younger generation we used to see that.

We used to see that. Our Keshav Maharaj he used to beat mridanga. At the beginning I was there. I used to sing, Maharaj mridanga and Haridas Thakur dance with karatals. We were three and four. And there were none, Now, so many people have come. (Laughs) Remember. There in the Sridhara Maharaja's I was only young person. It was only one who used to cook and he used to clean and..... Now building, everything has come. He was there. And we'll be singing. We repeat Nama sankirtana.(?) Maharaja and Sridhar Maharaja and our Keshava Maharaj. They are not, they are gone away. And now nobody ..., nobody has nothing to do. Anyhow, you must do Nama Sankirtan. Nama Sankirtan. Nama Sankirtan. Hari namam. All of you do Nama Sankirtan.

Nava Vrindavan, Slovenia 10.6.2000. morning

Animal life. If we don't worship the Lord we are animals. We are animals. We will be called animals. To get there. Now, attentively you must hear. Don't. These are rituals. These are all rituals. You must hear Hari Katha. You must attentively hear. And remember. Because our religion is sanatana religion. From the creation of the world religion is there and parampara is there. And Lord Krishna is our Supreme Lord. And his incarnations, his expansions are many. And mahajano yena gata sa pantha. We have to follow the path of mahajanas. Who are mahajanas? Svayambhu. Narada, Sambu, Kumara, Kapila, Manu, Prahlada, Janaka, Bhisma, Bali Cakravarti, Sukadeva Goswami and Yama Dharmaraja. These are 12 mahajanas. So, anybody ask you "what dharma you are following?": you are following bhakti dharma. Culture, developed and, and delivered to all the jivas, is bhakti yoga and bhakti sastra only.

And in this Kali yuga as arcana or puja or yagya or other items of worship are not important. You have to do that, but only namam is important. You must: vishnu sahasra nama is there and krishna sahasra nama is there and radha sahasra nama is there, gauranga mahaprabhu sahasra nama is there. All these names, divine names, we have to repeat. If we have no time, we will do few names and if no time at least: Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare Hare Rama Hare Rama Rama Rama Hare Hare. Only one namam. Hare Krishna namam. That Hare Krishna 16 times we'll repeat. The meaning of Hare Krishna, meaning of Hare Rama, one must, no difference. No difference. Hare Krishna – Radhe Shyam, Radha Krishna. Hare Rama – Radha Krishna. But some say, in Treta yuga Rama appeared so we say Hare Rama. In Dvapara yuga Krishna appeared, we say Hare Krishna. Not that. Because, like days. Every week has 7 days. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, again Sunday. And months, 12 months in a year.

Again and again they come and go. And there are seasons, 6 seasons. One after another they come and they go. So which season, which yuga, which millennium, we cannot definitely point out that in this millennium Krishna appeared. Now if you say 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, again say 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, the one week, and one week, that week, you cannot point out which week. Unless you mention year and the month. Then only you can say that. But regarding yugas you cannot say. Regarding yugas you say kalpa. The kalpa is a day time of... The day, 12 hours day of Brahma is called one kalpa. And night 12 hours one kalpa. And morning 12 hours one kalpa. In that one kalpa 7000 of yugas passes away. Because every day 14 Manus, they rule the country and go. Vaisvata

Manu, Svayambhuva Manu, and Caksusa Manu. Like that 14 Manus. And each Manu 71 millenniums they enjoy. 71 millenniums, not yugam. 4 yugas combined one millennium, divya yuga. Like that 71 divya yugas one Manu enjoys. Like that 14 Manus rule, 14 and 2, 71 and 2 they, each, thousand, thousand yugas, thousand yugas and one thousand. And in that one thousand yugas one is Kali yuga. So now to find out which Kali and which Dvapara and which Treta or Satya? You cannot find out. Because if there is Brahma's one day, several thousands yugas pass, millenniums pass. How can you find out? So, that is, of course Sunday, Monday again go on and go on, repeating same Sunday, Monday. If you say Sunday and after Sunday you say Monday and again now you turn it, you say Sunday, Monday and one day Sunday so other Sundays at beginning and Sundays later... no, you can not distinguish it. So, in Kali yuga. You talk of this Kali yuga. We are talking of the present Kali yuga. Why should you talk about all the yugas? We are talking of this yuga. And in this yuga these sastras, we find sastras. In previous yugas you can not have find sastras, because, because when the annihilation comes, total annihilation comes, everything will be destroyed. No man, no beast, no bird, no tree, nothing. No elements. That is the ...(?). All the water and the fire or air or ether. These elements are not there. They will be dissolved. So they become prakriti. Prakriti is avyakta. Avyakta is not visible. From not visible visible.

avyaktadini bhutani
vyakta–madhyani bharata

These bhutas, pancha bhutas ksitir ap teja marut vyoma. Five elements. The 5 elements we see now, but they disappear. When they disappear the earth becomes water, water becomes fire, fire becomes air, air becomes ether, ether enters into prakriti. Nothing visible. Nothing visible. Then prakriti, it enters into the Supreme. Finished. Now, when he thinks that bahu shyam: "I will be many forms", then again, from this desire the prakriti now shakes. Avyakta prakriti, it is invisible. Invisible prakriti suddenly it shakes. And from that shaking borns mahat tattva. And from that mahat tattva expands and it becomes ether, akash. That, it expands and becomes air and it expands and it becomes fire and then it expands and becomes water and water expands, becomes earth. This is anuloma and that is viloma. Now, from subtle to gross. And from gross to subtle. When the world is completely annihilated there is nothing in it, nothing. Nobody to seek, nobody. No man, no beast, no tree, nothing. Then Brahma who came out from the navel of, of Vishnu, Garbhodakasayi Vishnu. He came out from the navel. Lotus flower has come and that lotus flower, in it, there is Brahma. Then Brahma sees the flower and the continuation from where the flower has come. This is fourteen worlds. And he travels. Goes up, goes down. But he could not understand wherefrom he has come. Who is his father? And there is nothing visible. To whom he belongs? He doesn't know. Then he heard in the words, in water, all waters, water. Tapa, tapa, tap, tap. This sound. Then he realized: "I must meditate". Now, he sat in meditation. And when meditation was final, then, after, the Lord appeared before him. Lord appeared and Lord explained:

aham evasam evagre
nanyad yat sad—asat param
pascad aham yad etac ca
yo 'vasisyeta so 'smy aham

"I was at the beginning of the creation. There is none, nothing, sat or asat." Sat is truth. Asat is untruth. "There is no truth and the no asat. I was there."

aham evasam evagre
nanyad yat sad—asat param
pascad aham yad etac ca
yo 'vasisyeta so 'smy aham

"And after that I am. Now, after the annihilation of this world I will go, I am one." So from him:

yato va imani bhutani jayante yena jatani jivanti yat prayanty abhisam— visanti tad
brahma tad vijijnasasva

It has the whole universe. What we see now, visible and invisible. Everything has come from him. And again he will contract it. Everything will go in and receive kaivalya and is mixed in. From prakriti avyakta prakriti, prakriti, visible prakriti. And that visible prakriti will disappear and avyakta prakriti. And that avyakta prakriti when is fired by the Lord:

mayadhyaksena prakriti
suyate sa caracaram

Krishna says:

"It is through my energy, or through my will this avyakta prakriti now creates".

Whatever you see, sthula, sukshma, subtle form, gross form, this is, we see, everything is only from him. And at last everything will enter into him. That is; this world no will see. So this world. Now, in two ways we can realize. Now as we are ignorant jivas we think that we are born. Then we perceive that my father gave birth to. My father survived. He has done this, this, that, that, work automatically he has done and there is something that I have not completed. I will complete it. I will do the same with it. And his father, grandfather also did it. So for all are doing that same thing. I also doing it. Now we follow.

balas tavad kriyasaktas tarunas tavat taruni— raktah vrddhas tavat cinta— magnah parame
brahmani ko'pi na lagnah

Now, in early age, boyhood, we play, others play. We see every house in western countries, I see, so many, a cart load of dogs will be there, for playing with children. Dogs. Cats and dogs. All dogs. ...(?). And they, they are engaged in always playing. And after that they attend to school. They get some education. And, they attain some age, at 14, 15, 16, 17. Now, there in set, set up some sort of engagement.

And they end, the ...(?) ends. And after that they have to marry. They marry. And after marriage they have sons, children. And those children, they will be brought up by the parents. And after that, when old age comes they will, most. But he is not bothering about Parabrahma. My duty has come. I have never thought even once about Parabrahma, the master of the whole universe, from whom this world has come out. I have not think. Not even the student, even the professor, even the western savants, savants even the greatest scholars. They also never think that everything is unreal. Always. ...(?). You are proud of your wealth, proud of your knowledge, proud of your health, and proud of your name and fame. Everything will, in a second will go away.

ma kuru dhana dhana yauvana garbham ...nimesa kalav sarvam.....(17:30 verse ?).

The kala, the death will be, the death, the death comes, everything will go to graveyard. And your name, your activities, everything will be in graveyard. What you have done. Anything you have done regarding, regarding the Supreme Master, regarding the iswara, regarding the Lord, Supreme Lord, who is pervading in each and every soul. In the tree, in the house, in a building, in a messing, in me, in him, in him, all.

isvarah sarva-bhutanam
hrd-dese 'rjuna tisthati
bhramayan sarva-bhutani
yantra rudhani mayaya

We think that we move. We think that we see. We think that we hear. We thought. We do. We have done. We can make or we can break. Nothing will be done independent of the Lord. When Lord vacates this body, than this will become... What you say? If you take in a box, and put in a burial ground? And, why? The same organs, the same head, the same face, same legs, same eyes, same hands. One minute free on fires, everything all right. After one minute, they go out: "Father, father, father, father." No father. Now we ask: "Father, who am I?" So, father is there. We say father, that Lord is the father. The presiding deity is the father! Not this body is the father! So we are having this conception. We say: "Atma, this is atma." But this is not atma. This is a body constructed by 5 elements. Earth and water and fire and air and ether. All 5 elements are there. When they are combined the body is formed. This is called the human body. The 5 will be there. The beast is. See the body of a beast? We say it is a dog or a cat or a goat or a mouse or a camel. Only 5 elements. Always. Everywhere 5 elements. Without 5 elements no world. And these lifeless 5 elements. Because when iswara enters, these 5 elements will combine and act. It is as srīngara attacked by paralysis or the body, half of this body attacked by paralysis. Why, why? There is some, in organization, there is a physical body, some sort of wrong. Because it is not properly functioning. Now, by the help of some medicine you can be able to have the body properly functioning. Then the paralysis is gone. But if the Paramatma, the presiding deity in the body is gone, you can not apply any medicine. No medicine will help you. You will die. You are born to die. The object which was born it will die. This atma, the iswara, paramatma which dwells in my body, it has no birth, and no growth, no death. It is always the same. Millions of years have passed the atma will be there but you will not be there

kaumaram yauvanam jara
tatha dehantara—praptir

Now, from boyhood you have become youth, from youth you have become earning member and scientist or so and so. And after old age has come. And when old age comes you are unfit. The government says: "Now you are 60, you are unfit. You go up, you go up from the office". And we say: "No, sir, I have got capacity, I will do." "No. Though you have capacity you should go away". So he has to go. Rejected by the government. Yet he came aloud, says: "No, no. I can create children, I can purchase the house, I can do this, I can do that". Then the service goes. "I will do private." And now the burden was very little then. Now the burden is very, very heavy. He carries that burden. He carries that burden. Tomorrow will die, yet he thinks: "I am doing my duty". No duty. It is not duty. Now you will die. Whatever you have done throughout your life, 70 years or 80 years, that will be, in the subtle form, will follow you. This atma then leaves that body this decision will be held.

That, like computer. It will give, at the time of death, it will give the result. And that result will dictate you have to go to this body. You will be born as a dog. Because, you have got too much attachment towards the dog. At the time of death you always remember that dog. The affection towards a dog has made you dog.

yam yam vapi smaran bhavam
tyajaty ante kalevaram
tam tam evaiti kaunteya
sada tad—bhava—bhavitah

Because, now before the death of this fellow, the dog likes, "Many things have gone and so much the dog has served me. He is my life. Now he has gone I also go." So, out of last affection, now, he leaves this body. When leaves body, he remembers the dog only, nothing. God is not there. He never thinks of God. He thinks of that dog.

yam yam vapi smaran bhavam

At the time of death whatever you remember you will become that. If you remember a dog, you remember a cat, or you remember a donkey, or you remember a camel, or you remember a cow, or you remember a horse you will become the same. It is truth. As the body, you will never get It. The body, you have got attachment to this body, towards this body. So, you serve that body. You are serving your body.

You have to wash it daily, bathroom, hot water, wash it. With a soap, without a right soap... I see in your... what is that? Apartment house, that you go there... toilet, toilet. There many, many, many bottles are there. Take it, take bath. So many. Yes. They put little, they put little, they put little... So, they are serving whom? They are serving their body. And timely they must food, give food to the body. And timely rest to the body. And whatever the body wants they must give. So, throughout the life he is serving the whole body, none else. His body he serves. Unless you serve this body that body will decay. It will be useless. So we must be very careful. So he is very careful to preserve the body. But any such service will never allow this body to remain eternal. It will go. It will go. Though he embrace it, he does love touch, it will go away. That we are so much entangled with maya and this world, fanciful world.

Every moment we are thinking new, new, new, new, new so and so. But we never think of eternal atman. Never. In the schools and colleges nobody teaches them. In the house. And father and mother and grandfather they never teach. Because they never realized it. They never thought of it. What is? They teach only how could you earn after meal? You must do this, do that, do that. The ... yes. You have to form person in this society or you have to earn, you have to do this. But you never think of that atman.

(verse? 27:54 atmava hare drishtabhya, srotabhya, mantrabhya, nivritatitabhya)

But. All our vedic culture and all the vedas and ours religious scriptures. They say atmava hare drishtabhya. So wake up. You are sleeping. He says: "One month sleeping I want daily 18 hours." 18 hours. For whom? For none. For none. The result you will enjoy. Not in this birth. Next birth is ready. You will come to it. They never think. So if we tell this to faithful and simpleminded and ready and (?) person; he will hear. But now who has got fear complex and who has got strength, who has got capacity to earn and who has got capacity to enjoy. Those fellows say: "Sir, I have no time. Excuse, no time. We can not talk to you. No time. I have to go to the office now. Now it is already 7:30. I should leave thereby." We cannot teach. They don't time. Go. And he will do sometime, he will come. "I will ... no time for you." On Sunday. Sunday will be many, many. What? All this dance, (?) dance, picturework.

On sunday many young, strong, many work double or triple work. No time. He has no time to die. He will say: "I have no time to die." What he has done till now or what he will do he never thinks. Nothing. Nothing. Very busy for nothing. He is very busy for nothing. Nobody to teach them in schools and colleges. They must be thought by a renunciated soul. A sannyasi who is roaming in this world and whose duty he thinks, to teach about the glories of the Lord, Supreme Lord. Others don't feel, time. They say: "No time." Ever we do our duty. What is your duty? What is your duty? He thinks: "I have got so much to, time, even short. Heart is long. I am always young. I cannot sick, die." But when the death doors commencing warrant, issues warrant: "You come." Then you can not appeal: "Sir, I have so money like. I could not able to complete then. Please allow me to one hour and towards." "No. No another second would be given. Come immediately!" He has to go. No appeal. But if you ask the person: "You come to the temple. Come to hear the subject from our saint has come." "Yes, I have desire, but no time, what shall I do? No time." This is the world.

They think that only intelligent people. Very intelligent people. What intelligence you have got? Yours intelligence is the death. And intelligence is lost, lost, (?) intelligence he will weep. Graveyard. You're marching towards graveyard.

So, now you are all fortunate. And, to have come here and two days he was enjoying mahaprasad and this mahaprasad and the Lord's glories, and with prasada also glories they have enjoyed. But we think that wherever we go, we think that we are responsible to teach the people. They may think that: "We are intelligent". But according to our sastras they are not intelligent. They are all ignorant. They do not know what is what. They do not know. So, just if they give from their busy, busy work. If they give us one, one hour we request, in that hour as far as possible we can able to explain them. And this is our duty. Unless we do that we are, we are not doing our duty. We sink. Because the sannyasi must go door to door. Mahaprabhu said to these westerners. One Haridas and another, another. Haridas Thakur and Nityananda

suno suno nityananda suno haridas sarvatra amara agya koroha prakas prati ghare ghare giya koro ei bhiksha bolo krishna bhajo krishna koro krishna siksa

Now Mahaprabhu said: "My dear Nityananda and Haridasa, you go to every door and beg them: "Sir, we have come to take alms from you."" What is alms? Alms is biksya. "We want. We have come to beg you alms." "What alms do you want? You want money, or roti, or cloth? What do you want?" "We don't want anything. We have come to beg you to repeat namam." Bolo Krishna. "All of you kindly repeat namam."

What is that namam? Hare Krishna Govinda Acyuta Vamana Nrsimha. All the, all the names are, names are there. Many names, thousands of names are there. And out of it he said bolo Krishna. "You say Krishna." Bhajo Krishna. "You worship Krishna." Koro krishna siksa "You follow the teachings of Krishna. If you do this we will go to next door. That we have received alms. In kinds we don't want anything from you. We request you to repeat namam, and practice namam, and do service of the Lord, and follow the teachings of the Lord Krishna. Then if you say: "Yes we will do it." So, many people, good people they said: "Good, I will do it". And those types of people are there. And they say: "You fellows you have no work. You have no work and you have come. Go! Don't disturb everyone. You are deceiving everyone." And some others said: "You fellows you have no food to eat. And it is late. We have no food. Close. Go!" Now Mahaprabhu has asked: "You go to every door and you will beg them. And the result in the evening you report to me, what the response was." So they had to report. One day Nityananda saw two big fellows. Very stout and strong fellows. They are the brothers. Madyhopadyaya(?), in the high class brahmin family.

They always drink full and they eat everything. Even the beast also they eat. And they will be fighting, wrestling on the road. With influence of that intoxication. They will be playing, they will be (?), they will be fighting. No other will come to them. If anybody comes, they take their heads and throw it in the rest. Because they were wonderful, wonderful, very strong. They never care for police, never care for the government. Now Nityananda told Haridas: "Haridas, why not we tell the message of our Lord Gauranga to these two fellows?" And Haridas says: "If you want to die, you do that. I will never go. These are drunkards. Why should you go? Are there no other people to whom you teach? They will never take your teachings. And doesn't have, they will kill you, either." Then they reported both matters to Chaitanya Mahaprabhu.

Chaitanya Mahaprabhu said: "No, No! Haridas! When Nityananda is anxious to refine those fellows, they will be refined within two or three days, within a week!" Actually, after three days, by this time when Nityananda was returning in one road. And he never expected these fellows are there. He has to pass very near to them. He was alone. So, when he was passing they said: "Who are you?" Then Nityananda said. What will you say? That I am a sadhu. "I'm a sadhu." So, they pick up that liqueur pot, very strong pot. Always they're drinking liqueur. And that pot, liqueur pot hits the head of Nityananda. Then Lord came out. And the news was, went to Mahaprabhu. Mahaprabhu was running. And after, Sudarsana has come to kill this fellow. And he has committed offense at the feet of Nityananda. He should be killed. But Nityananda Prabhu said: "No, you cannot kill. He is ignorant. We must excuse him."

And to fellow who has hit him, he said. "Boy, whatever you have done it is not your mistake. You are under the influence of this wine. So, now I cannot blame you though blood is coming. You repeat one Krishna namam." He embraced him and said: "Repeat Krishna namam, once!". When he said that, immediately, by his touch, repentance came to him. He got hold of his two feet of Nityananda. "You please excuse me. I have committed great offense. How can I be freed from this great offense, my dear sir?" And he was, he was crying, crying. He said that: "Not only I have done the sin, my brother also." So that brother. He got hold of the legs of Chaitanya Mahaprabhu and begged him, begged that: "My brother was helped by Nityananda, you please help." So, Mahaprabhu blessed him. He told that: "If you never repeat the sin, till now what you have done, we have destroyed all your sins.

But you should not repeat." Then they said: "No! No sir. We will never." Then Mahaprabhu asked Nityananda Prabhu to: "Take these fellows to my house where we will do sankirtan." There they performed sankirtan for three hours. After three hours Mahaprabhu's color was changing. When he embraced, Nityananda's color, bodily form was changed. They became dark. Now, after three hours bhajan the original color has come to them. And they say: "You fellows, you should not go anywhere. You have to clean these ghats." Very big, very big ghats. Those who have gone to Navadvip parikrama might have seen. This Jagai ghat and Madhai ghat.

"There you... And to every man who comes there, daily thousands and thousands of people come to take bath. You have to prostrate before them: "Sir, we have committed offense at your feet. We never remember. But we have committed. Excuse us."". And food. Mahaprabhu used to send food daily. So, when this was done, the whole of Bengal and Nadia, all the people came to understand that Nityananda and Gauranga are not human beings. Otherwise who can take such fellows. They are demons. And those demons are changed in the minute. So it is not the human deed(?). So, they now become ideal vaisnavas, ideal vaisnavas.

So, that actually we are souls. We have got attraction, we have got affection, we have got devotion towards Paramatma. Atma and Paramatma. There are two birds. One is Paramatma, one is Atma. And this body is a tree. In this body, in the tree there are two birds. One bird is a paramatma. He never eats. Never does any action. Only he looks. He is a witness to the action of this atma. This atma enjoys the fruit. One is happiness and another is unhappiness. Two fruits. One is happiness; he will love, unhappiness; he will weep. (break of tape) Though he is dwelling here. He is here in me. I cannot see him. Because I always see the world of enjoyment. I never look back. If I see back, where there I can see this Paramatma. And he will see me. I will see him. Then all this suffering will go. I will be happy. Now atmava harer dristabhya You see atma in you. srotabhya To hear his glories. mantrabhya To remember him in your mind. nivritatitabhya You concentrate (?). And this:

nayam atma pravacanena labhyo
na medhaya na bahuna srutena yam evaisa vrnute tena labhyas
tasyaisa atma vivrnute tanum svam

This atma cannot be understood through argument. No argument can help it. Argument has no end. One says yes, other says no. Other says yes, he says no. So always there, under contrast. There will be fights, there will be no end. tarka pratishtanam, the logic has no end. So, through logic we cannot able to understand that paramatma. Then, na medhaya, if we have got intellect and through that intellect also we cannot understand.

Extraordinary intellect. Or a lingit or who has the knowledge of eastern and western philosophies. The philosopher? No. Then who can understand? One who surrenders. One who feels that through my knowledge, through my mind, or thorough my mental efforts, through my empiric knowledge, or through my ascending actions I cannot able to understand. I can understand him only through his blessings.

One is ascending, one is descending. Arohavada and avarohavada. Now if I surrender to him then he will bless me. And through his blessings I can understand. No other way. No other way. Because we are in the well. Suppose unfortunately you fall into well. How can you come out from the well? There must be some help to you from outside. Somebody must give a rope, or a ladder. Help you with the ladder and he will tie the ladder there and to some tree, and you get that ladder and climb and come out. If not... A rope is present from outside. Throws a rope. That rope you must tie your body or your waist, or your hands. Then he will lift. You will go. With the help of the outsider you can come up. But, through your own efforts you cannot come up. You come up to certain point, again you will fall down. And if from outside help comes then definitely you will catch it, you will go out. So, both are necessary. One must receive it. One must accept it. Receive it and accept it. Now you have to receive this truth explained in our revealed scriptures, revealed.

tad viddhi pranipatena
pariprasnena sevaya
upadeksyanti te jnanam
jnaninas tattva-darsinah

Now, you have to surrender to your spiritual master.

tad viddhi pranipatena pariprasna

Then you'd clear your doubts. And those doubts which are cleared. Why you ask? Only to serve. Not to argue sake you have put question. Because to serve you, to satisfy you, to please you. If any question is there, you can help. By renouncing the subject he cannot be proficient. Only he accepts it. But he is unable to follow it. There the spiritual master will help him and bless him so that through his blessings, yasya prasada bhagavat prasado, through his blessings he can understand the matter and he can follow. So, now:

tad viddhi pranipatena
pariprasnena sevaya
upadeksyanti te jnanam
jnaninas tattva-darsinah

Who knows tattva. Who knows the subject perfectly well. And if we surrender to him, he will explain us how to practice. How to clear our doubts. How to proceed in the path.

mahajano yena gantha sa pantha. He says: "It is not my discovery. This is the path which my ancestors have followed. So, you also follow this. You will be happy." Now, Hare Krishna.

Darshan with Gopal Prema after class, Janche, 18.8.2001.

Guru Maharaja: You took harinam. You are a disciple of somebody here in ISKCON(Harikesa) and you came to me.

Gopal Prema: Yes, I came to you.

GM: Do you remember?

GP: Yes I remember.

GM: And, now it seems. I saw your letter that you address, "I ,so and so, mahatma, om vishnupad, paramahamsa", so and so, long letter.

GP: Yes, because...

GM: I do not understand your language and your sadhana. Even these paramahamsas also never write like that. Haridas paramahamsa, our Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati, Swami Maharaja never write, paramahamsas, that "I vishnupad paramahamsa", they never write like in that letter.

GP: Yes, I understand what you are talking. The paramahamsa...

GM: Because, if it may be out of ignorance you have written this, but anyhow, no offence. If not it is the offence at the feet of all these vaisnavas, our paramahamsas. You should not write like that.

GP: Yes, but this is normal for a vaisnava. Because every vaisnava is paramahamsa who have contact with Krishna, because he can divide the milk from the water, and nectar from the, you know, from the something which is not nectar. This actually, is the meaning of paramahamsa, and that is normal stage for everybody who have contact with Krishna.

Vishnu Maharaja: Who told you this? How you say, parmahamsa means, what is the meaning?

GP: Swan. You know.

VM: Swan?

GP: High swan.

VM: And high swan means, ... only compared it to swan. There is four, sannyas ashram, four kinds. One kuticaka, bahudaka, hamsa, paramahamsa. Four types. First, bahudaka, kuticaka. What is bahudaki? Kuticaki? Who is only taking only one time for one man. They never go out. That is see, kuticaka. Another they are taking madhukari.....taking, everywhere going to get little, they take like this, madukari, they are see kuticaka and other see bahudaka. And hamsa who is free from material conflict. Then paramahamsa he is the topmost left. Tapas, but you don't compare like, it is ... swan. This is meaning of hamsa, paramahamsa, 4 kinds of sannyasis.

GM: Your face doesn't seem so cruel, yet heart....

VM: This is the meaning. You don't compare to this starting, you know.

GP: Because, since ten years, you know, I'm speaking all day, night with Lord Krishna VM: OK, we are, I am 35(?25) years. I am brahmacari. I am also.

GP: No. I am speaking with Lord Krishna all the time.

VM: Yes. I also, we are also. I am also speaking but this is not...

GP: So, the goal, the goal of life is...

VM: The goal of life OK but..

GM: You are a vaisnava, so they offer you dandavats. Forgive and forget. Now, all of you be happy and do bhajan.

GP What you say? Didn't understand?

GM: I requested...

VM: All you are vaisnavas. We are offering to all, everybody respects. And don't you do like this and do bhajan and you don't pose one like this.

GM: At your letter. Don't talk like that.

GP: Yeah, I know what you mean. But when you have contact with Krishna, personally, you don't have to follow any material dharma from this material world.

VM: Therefore, we should not pose. Some pose.

GP: What means pose?

VM: Like some hamsa, paramahamsa, like this. This is not, maharaja which he's mentioned you, you should not pose like this. We write like this maybe after disappear, these disciples they are glorifying like this, but in presence nobody or no one demanding like this. This is, if you do, after day, tomorrow, anothers they will do also. You see it will be like this.

GP: But, what is the use of this worldly etiquette, you know, because I personally...

VM: This is spiritual, not worldly.

GP: But this is worldly etiquette.

Somebody: No see if it is worldly why you are making.. Maharaja see Krishna for last 90 years. You have experience? Then you ought to go up again? Why?

VM: Yes.

GP: I understand what he is talking. But you know, what I want to say, when you are speaking with Krishna all the time, you know, and I for example. These my disciples here...

GM: (laughs)

VM: No one is speaking with Krishna.

GP: No one? Than what are you thinking bhakti yoga?

GM: I have no, when he is asking...

Somebody: Ghost, the ghost, you are speaking with ghost.

GP: What is the meaning of bhakti–yoga if you don't speak with Krishna?

VM: No. No. Krishna's spoke in scriptures.

GP: Yes? What?

VM: To do. To follow.

GP: What?

VM: What he is, see. What he said in scriptures. Only scripture is the evidence. Sadhu, guru and sastra.

GP: Sastra. And Krishna. But Krishna spoke all that.

VM: No. Krishna already spoken. Not he is necessary to speak now. He's spoken in scriptures.

GP: But. Do you have contact with Krishna?

VM: I repeat your "Krishna is saying like this, Krishna is saying like this" according to my speculation. This is not proper. Krishna spoke in the scriptures. Scripture is the evidence full of our religion.

GM: They talk like this?

VM: I am talking with Krishna he says.

Somebody: For 10 years.

VM: Not 10 years, I am talking with Krishna he is saying like this.

GP: Since the beginning of life, but ten years I am talking with Krishna all the time, day and night.

GM: One who talks with Krishna will never reveal it to others. Others: Yes! Haribol! Bhakti vaibhava puri maharaja ki – jay!

GP: What he says?

GM: Who saw Krishna.....Krishna. They never explain it to others.

Somebody: It is very personal.

GM: I tell you that when Chaitanya Mahaprabhu was at Vrindavan, Akrura ghat he was staying, and there thousands of people were coming to Vrindavan. And all of them, to all of them he asked "where are you going?" "Now we are going to Kaliya ghat where Krishna gives darsan night, at twelve o'clock".

GP: Then you think,...

VM: This is in Chaitanya Caritamrita.

GM: See, after hearing this, his attendant, Balabhadra Bhattacharya, he now said: "Mahaprabhu please bless me, please allow me to go and see Krishna." And then he put a slap on his cheeks. He said: "You are a fool. Krishna is giving darsan? You go tomorrow." Then tomorrow morning all of them returning. Everybody he asked: "Have you seen Krishna?" "No. No." Everybody says: "How can you see? We saw in the boat, at the end of that boat a lamp is there and that is, he is a fisherman, he has a fish net catching fish in it. And that boat dancing, it is Kaliya, and the boat is like this and it is hood and above his hood is a lamp." They imagined that. So, they are all fools. So, they offered that person. But throughout the night they had no sleep. They returned back early morning. Mahaprabhu asked: "Did you see Krishna?" They said: "No. I have never seen Krishna. None has seen Krishna." That is, ...: "In Kali-yuga Krishna giving darsan is impossible", my dear son.

GP: Impossible?

GM: And if Krishna talks to you and Krishna darsan gives to, very good, very good. We never. If you are actually, you have the vision of Krishna, then you are great soul. But Kali-yuga. What can we say? That we are not denying it, we are not denying it.

GP: Sorry, the teachings of bhakti-yoga is to meet Krishna...(end of recording)

Zagreb, Croatia 18.5.2003. evening

om ajnana–timirandhasya jnananjana–salakaya
caksur unmilitam yena tasmai sri–gurave namah

The meaning can be explained.

nama om vishnupadaya krsna–presthaya bhutale
srimate bhakti–siddhanta–sarasvatiti–namine
nama om vishnupadaya krsna–presthaya bhutale
srimate bhaktivedanta svami iti namine

vancha–kalpatarubhyas ca krpa–sindhubhya eva ca patitanam pavanebhyo vaisnavebhyo namo namah namo maha–vadanyaya krsna–prema–pradaya te krsnaya krsna–chaitanya–namne gaura–twise namah

Respected vaisnavas and gentlemen, ladies. Today I feel happiness to be with you and talk to you. You are the devotees of Lord Gauranga who appeared in 15th century in India on the banks of Ganga. Travelled extensively throughout India and preached the gospel of devotion, devotional love.

Sorry we cannot speak to you in your language. So you have to excuse us. Anyhow our Gopikantha, great devotee of yours place and he is a scholar and he translates to you in your language.

Now, how to attain the devotional love? What is the meaning of love? Ordinarily, we know in this world love is in self entertainment. For self satisfaction we love. But regarding the love towards the Supreme Godhead. Should be dedicated first. We must dedicate ourselves to the Lord. And from whom we got the instructions and through the help of those instructions, if we follow the matter taught by Gauranga, Krishna Chaitanya. We have come here from India. Our Mission is Krishna Chaitanya Mission. Throughout India we have got our institution. And in Europe also we have got every state. Now Chaitanya Mahaprabhu says, to understand the reality and truthfulness of Godhead. What is God? And what can he do? And who is eligible to know it? These are the problems. Questions to be solved. Now, it is very good if people are anxious to know the truth. What is truth? Truth is truth. What is truth? Truth is truth! Truth has no future.

Truth has no past. It has only presence. No three tenses are there. Only present. Always present. And which has no future. The rest you see, all are material, transitory. And they are only for a moment. Just our bodies were born so much, now grown up six feet, seven feet high. So much weight.

And gradually we decay and we will perish. That is not our motto. Our motto is: we want that one should be eternal. There is the Creator. One who creates this whole universe. Under whose guidance we are now sitting here and talking to you. So, who is that? It is the truth. It is the most powerful. It cannot be understood to our puppy brain. Our knowledge is also limited knowledge. Strength, physical strength, limited. Mental strength, Intellectual strength, limited. Truth is limited sense. We cannot understand the truth. To understand the truth we have to surrender. Complete surrender. Our Bhagavat Gita, my dear friend says:

sarva dharman parityajya mam ekam saranam vraja
aham tvam sarva papebhyo moksaisyami ma sucah

"You give up the so called religion taught by human beings and you surrender to me. And surrender to me." If you are surrendered without no aim without no desires. If you follow the matter, the Lord will expose Himself. Then, when the truth is revealed to you, then you can understand what is truth. And for revealing purpose we require to submit. What is that submission? My body, my mind, my physical strength or intellectual strength – not competent to know the truth. To know the truth it is only that we should surrender. Dedicate. This body is not mine. I am not this body. Whatever organs I belong, they are not mine. And who are they? They are created. And that creation has got beginning and end. Young boy kaumaram yauvanam jara. Young boy becomes youth, and old, and gradually it decays and leaves off this world, disappears. This is the situation of the world. Whatever you think that must be: the building, the science development, lights. These were not here thousand years back. And we were not there and this cannot be there. Suppose any bombing comes. You will be lost. And we can not declare that we are permanent. We are not permanent. We are under the will of the Supreme Power. And that only through submission, nothing else. If you submit then it will be revealed.

How Sri Chaitanya Mahaprabhu says in Kali yuga harer nama harer nama harer namaiva kevalam kalau nasty eva nasty eva nasty eva gatih anyatha. In Kali yuga the only process is to repeat Namam. This Nama, Divine Name, why it is called Divine Name? That divinity you find in the Name. It is eternal. There is no difference between the sound and the person. Now we are person. As long as the person is speaking he cannot identify himself with the sound. Sound is different, and he is different. So, if you want to see the truth, then the sound as well as the person, both are one. If you repeat the Divine Sound: Krishna, Rama, Hari, Govinda. These are the divinity. Divine Names, you go on repeating the moment will come to you that it will be revealed to you.

The sound perfectly revealed to you. In person. As a person he will give you darshan. You will see that. Then. Not before. The intelligent giants, they may discover everything of the nature. What is in the nature it can be discovered. And the greatest scientists say that there are so many things still to be revealed. It will take its own course. But those who are ignorant of science. Very little knowledge which they possess. They say no, no, no, no... What is no, no..? There is no, ever yes. The scientist will never say no. He will say yes. And if one can discover the divinity then you will find there is no difference between the sound as well as the person. It is small time or we can say that everybody says: "What is this?" "This is my hand." "Your hand? How long will you say it is your hand?" "As long as I am alive." When the life goes away there will be none to say "Oh, it is". So, that is only the ignorance. Out of ignorance and the power of the Lord, deluding potency.

That deluding potency deludes this fellow. So he is great scientist, he can not understand the truth. The truth is eternal. It has no beginning and no end. Truth is always truth. I am always here, in this world. As you see that we are sitting, but the scientist will say: "No, no. You are not sitting. You are sitting on this world globe and it is moving around the Sun, fast. So you are also moving around the sun. How can you sit? How can you sit without motion?" So that should be understood properly. So, if deeply you think then you can understand the truths. You can know the truths. Wait and see. And follow the dictations of our scriptures. Or Vaidhi culture. And people who practice it to realize it.

Therefore, through penance, through concentrating upon the subject. But it has got personality. That personality is not a dead one. Alive. It is always alive. We may pass away. One may go away. That personality will be always there. It has no beginning, no end. No young, no youth, no old. Always truth, truth, truth. Which has a beginning it has end. Our realized scholars of truth have established that this truth should be, should not be allowed to discuss it. With surrender, if we surrender the Lord will reveal himself. Whenever you go to a temple you see the stones or wood or a gle(?).

A form of a man or a woman. How can you believe it? That it is eternal? Somebody has constructed it. How can you say that it is eternal? Yes. But if we enforce all these things to surrenders, to submit ourselves at feet of the Lord. "Oh, Lord! Oh Lord! I am the blind boy. I am helpless boy. I have no ears to hear. And I have ears – I cannot hear. I have eyes – I cannot see. So, to see, to know, to hear – Yours blessing required." When the Lord blesses you then you can understand it, and realize it. Now to understand it they have selected some mantras. Some mantras. That is, they say in vedas

om tad vishnuh paramam padam sada pashyanti suraya

All the great devotees they see always the eternity of the Supreme Power, Supreme Godhead. They always, because when their heart is pure, clean, when they have no desire except to survive.

Or to enjoy, ought to give up all the, what they are not necessary.

This sort of conception, it is the conception of the mind. It is not the conception of the divinity, the spirit. That conception is Krishna. About it is told that Krishna is the Supreme Power. Krishna is the Supreme Godhead. Krishna is so powerful. He can do, and he can undo. It is through his guide persons of this world, they do hard penance and when they control their mind, control their anger, control their malice, and control the forgetfulness, and control I and mine. Everybody says I.

Who are you? I am. What are you? I am an astrologer. I am a scholar. I am the judge. So what is your duty? To give judgment? What judgment? Only it is not permanent judgment. It is only material judgment. Because in the matter you can. So, but he doesn't realize it, that I and mine. These are the two things. These are the two things. Always they deprive us to submit. Through them we never submit. No submission – no realization. Only where is submit. Helpless child, it is crying in the cradle. It has passed urine and stools. Now, there must be somebody. It cannot help.

Somebody must come and help it. If somebody comes it is alright. So, that one must always think that helpless. Even the great scientists, even the great warriors and who has conquered half of this world, like Alexander the great of Macedonia. Very near to your place. When he came to India he came to know that there are so many sincere and high ranked sadhus and there "I should go and see them. And if they when anything we can help them." But when he went there, swamiji asked "Who are you?" He said: "I am, people call me Alexander the Great". "What for you have come to this part of India? What for?" "Sir, I had a desire to conquer India." "When you could not able to satisfy yourself, your desires you could not fulfill, then how can you fulfill my desire? 'What the saint wants I will see.' Then what will you give?" 'Nothing I give.' The saint says that "You could not able to fulfill your desire. How can you fulfill others desires?" There he could not understand. "I taught everything you."

Because so many saints we find on the banks of Ganga, Yamuna, Sarasvati, Narmada, Sindhu, Kaveri. "Sindhu nadi, the Sindhu nadi river and you are sitting here, so anything wanted?" "I don't want anything." "You are standing before the Sun!. You please move the sunlight may fall upon me." "It is cold, cold period. Now I feel cold. The sunlight must come direct. Sun rays must right fall upon. You move little!" Then he was astonished. "I am Great. Alexander the Great. What greatness I possess? Greatness?" He went home. He gave up the desire of conquering any more.

And at the time of his death he stretched his hands. Two hands and two legs. And he told "Which is the Great here? When I was born I was born with two legs and two hands. And what is the greatness now I could gather? People call me Great. What is that Great? The same two legs, same two arms. If I die I will die with the same, I came with the same, so what I possess? Nothing. It is only ignorance. Ignorance."

Now, if we really sit and devotee our time and life to a realized sadhu, a saint. Then he can inform me about my goal. About my cultivation – what shall I do – and what will he get. He must sit there, he must do the service and try to learn. It is not in one day or one month or one year he can understand. If he is sincere he must stay there as long as possible and try to learn it. So then, if the Alexander the Great in your country, he belongs to Europe. He got this name – nobody in the world could posses Great, except Alexander. But actually, he said "What is greatness in me? I don't feel." Yes. "No greatness."

Now, we are blind, we are blind of power. Power. Power. And blind. Everybody wants to be politician. Nobody wants religion. Politicians. But what happens after? Politicians, they cannot establish peace. No country you see now ever enjoys peace. In future one can not. They must come to sadhus. You will not fight sadhus who have no material desires. Who has only desire to know the spiritual. "What is that spirit? And how can I know it? And till I know it I must serve mahatma.

Or a saint. As long as I get a glimpse of the light." So, if we do that then we can understand. Our Chaitanya Mahaprabhu he says all of us to repeat Namam. It is maha–mantra. Not a mantra. Mantra with om beginning, bijam – root and svaha. At the beginning, at the end: om, svaha. It is mantra. But om – svaha, no. It is called maha–mantra Hare Krishna Hare Krishna Krishna Krishna Hare Hare Hare Rama Hare Rama Rama Rama Hare Hare. This is the transcendental sound. This transcendental sound can be realized by one who submits to that Divine Name. Who submits. What is the submission? That "I am helpless. Oh, Lord everything belongs to you. I don't want anything.

I never want power, I never want wealth, never want women and anything of this material world I don't want. I want only your blessing. Please bless me. I do not know what I can get or what will satisfy me. Really, tell the truth, what is that?" That truth is, I told you first, it is eternal. It is eternal. Truth is one. Untruth is many. Many, many. Many people, many sects, many. Ever they will, collectively, individually, they want to establish themselves. So saying they will go to wars. What the war brought us? Nothing. Now we see the war is going on. What result? Nothing. Nothing. So, we must try ourselves best to be in the ashram. In a place secluded from the havoc of this world where no, nothing of noise, you observe peace, silence, and you repeat Namam.

And, it was, after submission only you can understand. Hare Krishna, Hare Rama. So it is, this is a long subject. It has no end. Our subject has no end and no beginning. It is always there. Those who submit to it they get it. Those who doesn't submit they can not get it. Understand. So it is not necessary to speak these subjects elaborately, unless they demand it. Science, from the beginning till the end you please explain. Where is your time and where is our m(?) time. But you cannot understand. Slowly. You have to believe first. You must have faith first. And then only you can cultivate it. And if you cultivate it you will get it. If not, there is no God. "You are a God, I am a God." Oh. Feelings. "But, if you say God, can you show me God?" Who can show them God? Who can show? It is not possible to show. None can show it, the God. God is not visible to all. God is visible to only to some who submits, surrenders. None else. I don't want to speak more about this subject. Our Maharaj may speak little. Our Vishnu Maharaj.

Vrindavan, India, 19 November 2001 – Krisna Balaram Mandir

Lecture given by His Divine Grace Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaja on Bhaktivedanta swami tirubhava

Vande ham sri guru sri yuta adakamalam sri gurum vaisnavam ca
Sri rupam sahagrajatam saha gana raghunatamvitams tam sa jivam
Sadvaita savadutam parijana sahitam Caitanya deam
Sri radha Krishna padam saha gana lalita sri vishakamvitams ca

I offer my satastang–dandavat to Srila Bhaktivedanta Swami Maharaja, the founder of this mission, Iskcon, then I offer my satastang–dandavat to Srila Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati Goswami who is the founder of this Gaudiya Mission.

Acaryas come to this world only to carry the message of their predecessor. In the slow process they will attract the public and make them Krishna conscious. Now the process of approaching a Vaisnava is that, there are different grades of Vaisnavas: kanishta, madhyama e uttama. We have to serve the uttama bhagavata. What for? For their mercy. What for their mercy? Only for devotion. What is that devotion? Devotion is eternal service. A person who is under the influence of maya, he serve only ordinary materially advanced people.

Suddha bhakata carana renu bajana anukula

Bhaktivinoda Thakur says that we must accept the dust of the Suddha Vaisnava, a pure Vaisnava. And how to get a pure Vaisnava? We must surrender to the Lord, then He will show the path as vartma pradarsaka, and again He will lead to perfection. Now, to know the subject, what is the subject we want? We want to know what? We want to know dadami buddhi yogam tam yena mam upayanti te. If you will surrender to the supreme Lord, He will dictate us that buddhi yoga, that perfect buddhi will lead us always to perfection, and gradually to the process to reach the supreme Lord, through the blessings of a mahatma, or a suddha bhakta. Then we will follow suddha bhakata carana renu bajana anukula, bhakata seva parama siddhi prema latikara mula. To get prema we must do bhakta seva. We may say: "How can we know a bhakta to whom we can dedicate ourselves? If I am sincere, if I am honest, if I want to be pure, the Lord will show us the path.

If I am mischievous, if I don't follow the path of devotion, because our Bhagavatam says "dharma projito kaitava'tra paramo nirmat saranam satam vedyam". Who can understand the Absolute truth, the service to the Absolute truth? "Nirmat saranam". The sadhu must be "nirmat saranam", without malice. If he has got malice in him, he can not lead others, nor he can proceed in the proper way; he is cheated, he is deceived and he will deceive others. Dharma projito, what is our dharma? Dharma must be pure, and that purity will lead to devotion. That devotion can be had through the blessing of a mahatma. Dharma projito... a sadhu who is without malice, he can lead others. This is the beginning of the bhagavata, nirmat Saranam satam. Vaisnavas, they don't have malice, no matsarya; only those who are karmis and jnani, those who depend upon action, those who depend upon knowledge, they are of that category. That category will never give you purity. Devotion is pure and that pure devotion is that one does not want anything in return from the Lord, the Guru and the Vaisnavas.

This is the devotion of our Bhagavatam. We read Bhagavatam, we understand Bhagavatam, we practice bhakti, but without purita, we can not practice bhakti. Dharma projito kaitava'tra, What is Kaitava? It is cheating (kapatasaha); everybody want dharma, artha, kama, moksa. Kapatasaha, he will be deceived; if he stays in the wrong process, he can not have a glimpse of bhakti. Though he has the fortune of serving a great Vaisnava, a pure Vaisnava but his heart is not pure, he has malice and with that malice he can not understand the teaching of Bhagavatam or the teaching of the Guru and the Vaisnavas. If the Guru speak with malice, his teaching has no value. It may have some value for jnani or karmi, not for the bhaktas. The bhakta does not want anything from the beginning to the end. Nothing he wants, though the Lord wants to give him some boon, he says: "I'm not going to accept your boon" Who says this? Praladha, he was a pure bhakta. Though the Lord wanted to give some boon, he says: "No, I don't want". He never accepted. There are so many bhaktas in the Bhagavatam like Vrtasura. He says:

"Na naka prstham na ca paramestyam
Na sarva bhaumam na rasadhi patyam
Na yoga siddhir apunar bhavam va
Saman yasya tva virahayya kankse".

I want You, Sir, I don't want anything except devotion. I want your service. Once Hanuman was presented with a necklace of pearls. Now Hanuman starts to check and crush every pearl and then threw it. Our Sitadevi thought: "It is a monkey, it is doing monkey action". Then he could understand: "Mother this is not a monkey action. I must test all the pearls whether in each pearl there is a view of Rama, Laksmana and Sita. If there is no Sita–Rama in that pearl, I give no value.. I don't want this necklace, I don't want, I don't want pearl, I want devotion. You can test me. Then he opened his chest and showed Sita Rama Laksmana. Then everybody could understand "he's not a monkey, but a great devotee of the Lord". What a devotee wants, he wants only devotion. Unless one wants devotion, he will fight, because he does not want devotion.

This institution, Iskcon, Sri Krishna–Caitanya philosophy is pure devotion. Nothing mixed, not even one per cent mixed. Pure. Pure devotion should be taught to others, pure devotion should be practiced, thereby we can be benefited. I come here every year by the mercy of all the Vaisnavas, not to speak but to have darsana of all the devotees. No, I can not speak. This gatherings is the cream. I want to see you all and take your blessings. Svami Maharaja Prabhupada, he blessed me; he was very kind toward me, and that can not be exposed, it is our matter. He is an ideal personality. He went to America, and I saw there in New York those places where he was sitting and doing bajans. We went to Los Angeles, very big palace.

We were very much fortunate to see that opulent place. Lokanath Swami was there to guide us. I'm glad how they are keeping Mahaprabhu and Prabhupada names nicely. Yes, Prabhupada is great, nobody can compete with him. He is great, nobody can become great like him. He is a mahatma, a single person went there without a single penny. He has published so many volumes of books. Thousand of volumes, and you see everywhere Iskcon can be maintained with a income of the books; so much service he has done. Wherever you go, everywhere there are books. Wherever we go, they ask "You are from Iskcon. Are you from Iskcon?" "Yes, we tell, afterward we may explain it." Now, he had the great ideal that all the people in the world should follow the message of Lord Gauranga. With that aim he has travelled all over the world at that old age.

He travelled all over the world. Now wherever we go everybody says "Hare Krishna". Everybody says "Hare Krishna", he does not know what is Hare Krishna. Yes, "Hare Krishna, Hare Krishna", everybody laughs. Now we also ask to them to stand and to repeat Hare Krishna. If one does not repeat Hare Krishna , then we ask again to repeat. On the end he will repeat definitely. Then we say: "You go!" Now they are purified and they will go. Since I am an old person, they will not speak or punish me. They can not punish me, they like to repeat nama.

That nama was preached by Swami Maharaja Prabhupada. He has single hand done. By the blessing of his Guru Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati Thakur and Gauranga he was able to do that. With their blessings he could do wonder in this world. Wherever you go, everybody knows Prabhupada and Harinama sankirtan. But we must be alert. See how it was the time of Prabhupada and how far it is grown up. That we have to see. Because the first and second meeting I came here, there were hundreds of dandas. But gradually it is reducing, it is going down. Now you have to bring the message of Prabhupada door to door with bigger effort. This is necessary. As Nityananda Mahaprabhu says:

Suno suno nityanada suno haridasa
Sarvatra amara ajnaya koro he prakas
Prati ghare ghare ghiya koroye ei biksa
Bolo Krishna baja Krishna karo Krishna sikkha.

You go to every house and beg the householder "Sir we have come to you to beg you. You don't know. This western people does not know begging. But begging is a part of vedic culture. A brahmachary should beg and a Vaisnava also must beg. He must do to the householder "Sir, we have come to beg you" "What do you want?" Rice, clothes, money? What do you want?" "No, no, no, bolo Krishna baja Krishna karo Krishna sikkha. You repeat Krishna nama and baja Krishna, you serve Krishna and follow the teaching of Krishna. If you say that you will follow, we will go to the next door." This is how they were ordered by Mahaprabhu, Nityananda said to Haridasa "Mahaprabhu has ordered us just like a governor or a police officer", "you go, carry My command. If we go everywhere, some will say "yes, yes we will do". Others will say "you yellow, you have no money, nothing to eat, this is the way that you earn. No, you go!" In the evening Nityananda and Haridas were reporting to Mahaprabhu. Once Nityananda saw two great robbers, Jagai and Madhai. They were the terror. Now terrorists are the enemies of the world. At that time also terrorists were there.

So He thought (Nityananda): "Let me purify these two terrorists, they are brahmin brothers." And Haridasa said "From tomorrow I don't want to go with Nityananda to preach. He goes to the drunkards to make them repeat Harinama. They will never hear, instead today they could have taken away our lives. My Lord, You are here to save us. From tomorrow I will not go with him, let him go". But Mahaprabhu said: "Nityananda is determined to purify them. It will be done in three or four days. Just on the third day, in the evening, when he was coming alone on the way, He saw these two brothers, Jagai e Madhai, they were drunk and they were fighting. They asked Nityananda "Who are you?" Nityananda replied "I am avadhuta" "Ahhh!! Avadhuta!!". And with both hands they throw a pot full of liquor, that was like a coconut and broke the head of Nityananda. Then Mahaprabhu was coming running to punish this fellow, because he has committed offences at the feet of the Vaisnavas. "I must kill him" said Mahaprabhu and called the Sudarsana Cakra to come.

But Nityananda said: "In this yuga you can not call the Sudarsana, only nama sankirtana. You teach them nama sankirtana, they will be purified". So Mahaprabhu said "All right, you have beaten Nityananda. But I request you to repeat Krishna nama at least once." Then they immediately say "Krishna!" And all their sins were gone. Then they catch hold the feet of Mahaprabhu requesting Him to bless them. And Mahaprabhu blessed them. Then they were brought to the house of Mahaprabhu. And these two and other Vaisnavas, they started sankirtana for three hours, dancing and singing for three hours. After three hours the colour of Mahaprabhu and Nityananda changed. Now Jagai and Madhai became pure. Then Mahaprabhu ordered to them that they should clean the ghat, Jagai ghat and Madhai ghat, and "food will be given to you daily. Clean the ghat and those who will come to take bath, you raise your hand and beg for excuse to those that you have committed offences."

So saying they did this service and this message was scattered through the world and all the people was coming there. Now sarvatra mara ajnaya koro he prakasa, Mahaprabhu says: "You carry to all the corners of the world my message." Swami Maharaja Prabhupada has done this and now we can not forget him. You must sing his glories, you must remember him, think of him always and speak of him always, then only you will be able to conquer maya. Daivi esa guna may mama maya duratiayah.

I have taken much of your valuable time, I beg to excuse me for anything wrong that I have committed. Vancha kalpa tarubhias ca.... (applause)

Dedication to Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupada

On February 12th 2001, in occasion of the latest Vyasa–Puja of his gurudeva Srila Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Prabhupada, Srila B. V. Puri Maharaj wrote the following dedication.

Let's reflect on these words, so that we may also understand the great value of a Spiritual Master.

"We believe that there is a personality of Godhead and that we are persons. We require our troublous situations to stop and to get a peaceful position where we can freely move and have everything. Whatever we are in need of and this has given a direction to the Absolute, who is represented as a personality.

But the Absolute reserves the right of not being exposed to human senses. The human senses are all prisoners. They are all blind fellows.

Thus there is nothing in this world, spiritual or material, which a human being can understand without the help of a guide. The importance of a guide is conspicuously felt in every field of knowledge.

The voice of Lord Sri Krishna has described in the Gita:

"Learn that Divine truth with submissive spirit, sincere inquiries and obedient services from those great persons who are not only erudite scholars, but Absolute realised souls."

This necessity of acceptance of Sad Guru is described in Hari Bhakti Bilasa that:

Kripasindhu susampumah sarva satvopakarah
nisprhah sarvatah siddhah sarva vidya visaradah
sarva samsaya sanccheta nalso gurur ahrtah

Such person is called Guru who is an ocean of mercy. Who feels pain on seeing the unhappiness of others, who is always satisfied and who works for the welfare of others, who does not desire sense gratification, who is perfect in all respect, who is expert in all scriptural knowledge, who removes the doubts of his followers and who is always busy in serving the Lord.

Sri Gurudeva is a window through which we can see Krishna and the spiritual world. He is the only nearest sweetness messenger of Lord Sri Krishna that is landing us home ... back to Godhead."

By Srila Bhakti Vaibhava Puri Goswami Maharaja – Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission, Sri Mayapur

All Glory to Sri Guru and Gauranga

SRIMAD BHAGAVAD–GITA

Edited and Translated

By

the beloved disciple of Jagad–guru

Om Visnupada Astottara–sata–sri Srimad Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati
Goswami Prabhupada

Om Visnupada Paramahansa Parivrajakacarya–varya Astottara–sata–sri–
Srimad Bhakti Vaibhav Puri Goswami Maharaj

Published by

Bhakti Vigyan Nityananda Book Trust
Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mission (Regd.)
Sri Bhakti Vinod Ashram
Berhampur – 6 (Gm)
Orissa, India

First Edition:

3rd July 2000, Sri Gundica

WWW Edition:

12th March 2002, Siva–ratri

To be had at:

1. Sri Bhakti Vinod Ashram
Ananda Nagar, H.K. Road, Berhampur (Gm.)
Pin – 760 006, Phone – 208400
2. Sri Chaitanya Chandra Ashram,
Itota, Near Gundicha Mandir
Puri–752 002, Phone–24455
3. Sri Radha Vrindaban Chandra Mandir
208, Sevakunja, P.O.–Vrindavan,
Dist.–Mathura(U.P.)
Pin–281121, Phone–443603
4. Sri Gaura – Saraswata Ashram
Isodyan, P.O.–Mayapur, Dt.–Nadia(W.B.)
Pin–741 313, Phone–79444
5. New Nilacala Dham
S.S. 125 Kw. 19,600
GRUXI LILLIUS, QUARTUCCI
CAGLIARI, ITALY
TEL: 0337 815553

CONTENTS

Invocation
Preface
Arjuna's grief (Ch.1)
Distinction between soul and body (Ch.2)
The principle of action (Ch.3)
The path of divine knowledge (Ch.4) Desireless action dedicated to the Supreme Lord (Ch.5)
The principle of meditation (Ch.6)
The transcendental knowledge of the Absolute (Ch.7) Attaining the Supreme Lord (Ch.8)
The supreme secret knowledge (Ch.9)
The opulence of the Supreme Lord (Ch.10)
The universal form of the Supreme Lord (Ch.11)
The principle of devotion (Ch.12)
Nature, the Enjoyer and the Spirit (Ch.13) Triple qualities of the material nature (Ch.14)
The Yoga of the Supreme Person (Ch.15) Godly and demoniac qualities (Ch.16)
Division of threefold faiths (Ch.17)
The principle of salvation (Ch.18)
The glory of the Gita (Sri Gita Mahatmyam)

Invocation

Mangalacaranam

om parthaya pratibodhitam bhagavata narayanena svayam vyasena grathitam purana munina madhye maha-bharate advaitamrta-varsinim bhagavatim astadasadhyayinim
amba ! tvam anusandadhami bhagavad-gite bhavad-vesinim

namo 'stu te vyasa visala-buddhe phull-aravindayata-patra-netra
yena tvaya bharata-taila-purnah projvalito jnana-mayah pradipah

prapanna parijataya
totra-vetraika-panaye
jnana-mudraya krsnaya
gitamrta-duhe namah

sarvopanisado gavo
dogdha gopala-nandanah
partho vatsah sudhir bhokta
dugdham gitamrtam mahat

vasudeva–sutam devam
kamsa canura–mardanam
devaki–paramanandam
krsnam vande jagad–gurum

bhisma–drona–tata jayadratha–jala gandhara nilotpala salya–grahavati krpena–vahani karnena–velakula asvatthama–vikarna–ghora–makara duryodhanavartini sottirna khalu pandavai rana–nadi kaivartakah kesavah

parasarya–vacah sarojam–amalam gitartha–gandhotkatam nanakhyanaka kesaram hari–katha sambodhanabodhitam
loke sajjana sat–padair ahar–ahah pepiyamanam muda bhuyad bharata pankajam kali–mala pradhvamsi nah sreyase

yam brahmavarunendra–rudra–maruta stuvanti divyaih stavair vedaih sanga pada–kramopanisadair gayanti yah samagah dhyanavasthita tad gatena manasa pasyanti yam yogino yasyantam na viduh surasura–gana devaya tasmai namah

narayanam namaskrtya
naram caiva narottamam
devim sarasvatim vyasam
tato jayam udirayet

PREFACE

The Vedas are eulogised as "the breath of the Supreme Being" as they are eternal in nature and have not been created by anyone. The Bhagavad Gita refers to the vedas as 'Sastra'. When the Vedas are nurtured properly there will be all round wellbeing just as all parts of a tree get nourishment when the roots are watered.

All our revealed scriptures mentioned Karmayoga, Jnanayoga and Bhaktiyoga. The three types of yogas. Bhagavat Gita teaches us the above three yogas. From chapter one to chapter six Karmayoga, chapter seven to twelfth Bhaktiyoga and from thirteenth to eighteenth chapter Jnanayoga.

gita sugita kartavya
kim anyaih sastra vistaraih
ya swayam padmanabhasya
mukha–padmad vinihsrta

If one repeats Gita often and often there is no need of repeating other scriptures, as Gita was taught by the Supreme Lord Krishna to Arjuna in the battle field of Kurukshetra. Krishna in Bhagavata Gita 18th Chapter told Arjuna –

sarva–guhyatamam bhuyah
srnu me paramam vacah
isto 'si me drdham iti
tato vaksyami te hitam (Gita 18/64)

The most important confidential knowledge I am speaking to You as you are my dear friend. Here this from me for your real benefit.

man–mana bhava mad–bhakto
mad–yaji mam namaskuru
mam evaisyasi satyam te pratijane priyo 'si me (Gita 18/65)

Always think of Me and become My devotee, worship Me and offer your homage unto Me. Thus you will come to Me without fail. I promise you this because you are My dear friend.

sarva–dharman parityajya
mam ekam saranam vraja
aham tvam sarva–papebhyo
moksayisyami ma sucah (Gita 18/66)

Give up all varieties of religion and surrender unto Me, I shall deliver you from all sinful reactions, so do not fear.

Lord Krishna spoke to Uddhava even in Srimad Bhagavatam about complete surrender. O Uddhava! for the reason already explained to you, take absolute shelter in Me (pointing to Himself with His own finger) alone, the soul of all beings, with your heart and soul, discarding everything that the Srutis and Smritis expect one to perform and to reject and giving up the attachment to and the discontinuance of worldly affairs and be clean forgetting everything that you have so far heard, and giving up entirely any inclination to hear whatever yet remains to be heard. Be fearless as I am your protector. (Bh.11/12/14–15)

Surrender to Sri Krishna is the safest path. All our Sastras repeatedly insist on this course. Any observance devoid of the spirit of surrender fails to invoke Divine Mercy. Surrender should be pure and genuine, as it melts the heart of the Supreme Lord. It makes Him restless and He rushes to the rescue of a surrendered devotee.

Let us try to follow what Bhagavan Sri Krishna has mentioned in the Gita. "Learn that Divine Truth with a submissive spirit, sincere inquiries and obedient services from those great persons who are not only erudite scholars, but Absolute realised souls."

May the Jagat Guru Om Vishnupad Paramahansa Sreela Bhakti Siddhanta Saraswati Goswami Thakur and Lord Sri Krishna Chaitanya Mahaprabhu (Guru and Gauranga) bless the sincere reader of this Bhagavat Gita to destroy his ignorance and nescience.

CHAPTER ONE

Arjuna–Visada–Yoga

Arjuna's grief

TEXT 1

dhrtarastra uvaca
dharma–ksetre kuru–ksetre
samaveta yuyutsavah
mamakah pandavas caiva
kim akurvata sanjaya

Dhrutarastra said: O Sanjaya, assembled on the sacred place at Kurukshetra with an intention to fight, what did my sons and the Pandavas do?

TEXT 2

sanjaya uvaca
drstva tu pandavanikam
vyudham duryodhanas tada
acaryam upasangamya
raja vacanam abravat

Sanjaya said: Having seen the Pandava army drawn up to the battle array, king Duryodhana approached his preceptor Dronacharya and said the following words

TEXT 3

pasyaitam pandu–putranam
acarya mahatim camum
vyudham drupada–putrena
tava sisyyena dhimata

O Master, behold this great army of the sons of Pandu, arrayed by your intelligent disciple, the son of Drupada.

TEXT 4

atra sura mahesv-asa
bhimarjuna-sama yudhi
yuyudhano viratas ca
drupadas ca maha-rathah

Here in this army, there are great heroes and mighty archers who are equal in fighting to Bhima and Arjuna, such as Satyaki, Virata and Drupada.

TEXT 5

dhrstaketus cekitanah
kasirajas ca viryavan
purujit kuntibhojas ca
saibyas ca nara-pungavah

There are also powerful fighters like Dhrustaketu, Chekitana, the brave king of Kashi, Purujit, Kuntibhoja and the great Saivya.

TEXT 6

yudhamanyus ca vikranta
uttamaujas ca viryavan
saubhadro draupadeyas ca
sarva eva maha-rathah

There are the brave Yudhamanyu, the heroic Uttamauja, the son of Subhadra and the sons of Draupadi. All of them are great chariot fighters.

TEXT 7

asmakam tu visista ye
tan nibodha dvijottama
nayaka mama sainyasya
samjnartham tan bravimi te

O best among Brahmanas, I shall now mention the names of the most distinguished leaders of my army, for your information.

TEXT 8

bhavan bhismas ca karnas ca
krpas ca samitim–jayah
asvatthama vikarnas ca
saumadattis tathaiva ca

There are great invincible personalities like yourself, Bhisma, Karna, ever victorious Krupa, Asvatthama, Vikarna and the son of Somadatta.

TEXT 9

anye ca bahavah sura
mad–arthe tyakta–jivitah
nana–sastra–praharanah
sarve yuddha–visaradah

There are many other heroes who are ready to sacrifice their lives for me. All of them are armed with various weapons and well experienced in military operation.

TEXT 10

aparyaptam tad asmakam
balam bhismaabhiraksitam
paryaptam tv idam etesam
balam bhimaabhiraksitam

And yet, our army protected by Bhisma appears to be inadequate and their army protected by Bhima appears to be adequate.

TEXT 11

ayanesu ca sarvesu
yatha–bhagam avasthitah
bhisma eva abhiraksantu
bhavantah sarva eva hi

Now all of you support grandfather Bhisma, standing at your respective positions in the phalanx of the army.

TEXT 12

tasya sanjanayan harsam
kuru–vrddhah pitamahah
simha–nadam vinadyoccaiḥ
sankham dadhmau pratapavan

In order to encourage Duryodhana, the great Bhisma, the aged grandfather of Kurus roared like a lion and blew his conchshell.

TEXT 13

tataḥ sankhaś ca bheryaś ca panavanaka–gomukhaḥ sahasāivabhyahanyanta
sa śabdāś tumulo 'bhavat

Then, all at once, conchshells, bugles, drums, cow–horns, etc. combinedly blared forth and the sound was the most tumultuous.

TEXT 14

tataḥ śvetair hayair yukte
mahatī śyandane śthitau madhavah paṇḍavaś caiva
divyau sankhau pradaḍhmau

Thereupon Sri Krishna and Arjuna seated on an excellent chariot drawn by white horses, blew on their transcendental conchshells.

TEXT 15

pañcājanyaḥ hrīḥ
devadattam dhananjayaḥ
paṇḍram dadhmau mahā–sankham
bhīma–karma vrkoḍarah

Hrushikesa blew His conchshell, the Panchajanya; Dhananjaya blew his, the Devadatta and Vrukodara (Bhima, the performer of Herculean deeds) blew his mighty conchshell, the Paundra.

TEXT 16

anantavijayaḥ rāja
kuntī–putro yudhisṭhiraḥ

nakulah sahadevas ca
sughosa–manipuspakau

King Yudhisthira, the son of Kunti, blew his conchshell, the Anantavijaya; Nakula and Sahadeva blew their conchshells, the Sughosa and Manipuspaka respectively.

TEXT 17

kasyas ca paramesv–asah
sikhandi ca maha–rathah
dhrstadyumno viratas ca
satyakis caparajitah

The king of Kashi, the great archer, Sikhandi, the great chariot fighter, Dhrustadyumna, Virata and the unconquerable Satyaki blew their respective conchshells.

TEXT 18

drupado draupadeyas ca
sarvasah prthivi–pate
saubhadras ca maha–bahuh
sankhan dadhmuh prthak prthak

Drupada, the sons of Draupadi and the mighty armed son of Subhadra, all together blew their respective conchshells.

TEXT 19

sa ghoso dhartarastranam
hrdayani vyadarayat
nabhas ca prthivim caiva
tumulo 'bhyanunadayan

The terrible sounds from these conchshells echoed on the earth and in the sky and began to shatter the hearts of the sons of Dhritarastra.

TEXT 20

atha vyavasthitan drstva
dhartarastran kapi–dhvajah
pravrtte sastra–sampate
dhanur udyamya pandavah
hrsikesam tada vakyam

idam aha mahi–pate

Seeing the sons of Dhrutarastra in the battle array and when discharge of arrows was about to begin, Arjuna, the son of Pandu, who has the Hanuman–bannered chariot, took up his bow for shooting arrows and spoke to Hrushikesa the following words.

TEXT 21–22

arjuna uvaca
senayor ubhayor madhye
ratham sthapaya me 'cyuta
yavad etan nirikse 'ham
yoddhu–kaman avasthitan

kair maya saha yoddhavyam
asmin rana–samudyame

Arjuna said: O Achyuta (the infallible one), please place my chariot in between the two armies. I want to behold who is present here, who is desirous of fighting and with whom I have to fight in this battle which is about to begin.

TEXT 23

yotsyamanan avekse 'ham
ya ete 'tra samagatah
dhartarastrasya durbuddher
yuddhe priya–cikirsavah

I want to see the wicked persons who have assembled here to fight for and to please the son of Dhrutarastra.

TEXT 24

sanjaya uvaca
evam ukto hrsikeso
gudakesena bharata
senayor ubhayor madhye
sthapayitva rathottamam

Sanjaya said: O scion of Bharat, thus spoken by Gudakesa (Arjuna), Hrushikesa (Krishna) placed that excellent chariot in the midst of the two armies.

TEXT 25

bhisma–drona–pramukhatah
sarvesam ca mahi–ksitam
uvaca partha pasyaitan
samavetan kurun iti

Placing it in front of Bhisma, Drona and all other chieftains of the world, Krishna said to Arjuna, O Partha, just behold all the Kurus – who are assembled here.

TEXT 26

tatrapasyat sthitan parthah
pitrn atha pitamahan
acaryan matulan bhratr
putran pauTRAN sakhims tatha
svasuran suhrdas caiva
senayor ubhayor api

In the midst of both the armies Partha saw his fathers, grandfathers, teachers, maternal uncles, brothers, sons, grandsons, friends, fathers–in–law and well wishers.

TEXT 27

tan samiksya sa kaunteyah
sarvan bandhun avasthitan
krpaya parayavisto
visidann idam abravat

Seeing all the friends and relatives present in the battle field, Arjuna, the son of Kunti become overwhelmed with great compassion and spoke thus.

TEXT 28

arjuna uvaca
drstvemam sva–janam krsna
yuyutsum samupasthitam
sidanti mama gatrani
mukham ca parisusyati

Arjuna said: O Krishna, seeing all these friends and relatives present here with fighting spirit, my whole body is trembling and my mouth is parching too.

TEXT 29

vepathus ca sarire me
roma–harsas ca jayate
gandivam sramsate hastat
tvak caiva paridahyate

The hair of my trembling body stands upon end. The Gandiva (Arjuna's bow) slips away from my hand and the skin on my body is burning too.

TEXT 30

na ca saknomy avasthatum
bhramativa ca me manah
nimittani ca pasyami
viparitani kesava

I am unable to stand up and my mind is all in a whirl too. O Killer of the Kesi demon (Krishna), I also see the causes for adverse omens.

TEXT 31

na ca sreya 'nupasyami
hatva sva–janam ahave
na kankse vijayam krsna
na ca rajyam sukhani ca

I don't see any good in killing these people of mine. O Krishna, I don't desire the victory nor have any ambition for pleasure or kingdom.

TEXT 32

kim no rajyena govinda
kim bhogair jivitena va yesam arthe kanksitam no
rajyam bhogah sukhani ca

O Govinda, what is the use of kingdom, pleasure and even the life itself, if the people be not in life for whom we are desiring a kingdom and happiness.

TEXT 33

ta ime 'vasthita yuddhe
pranams tyaktva dhanani ca
acaryah pitarah putras

tathaiva ca pitamahah

Those for whose sake we desire dominion, enjoyment, and pleasure are arrayed in the battle here and are ready to sacrifice their lives and riches. There are preceptors, fathers, sons, grandfathers in the battle.

TEXT 34

matulah svasurah pautrah
syalah sambandhinas tatha
etan na hantum icchami
ghnato 'pi madhusudana

O Madhusudana, I am unwilling to kill my maternal uncles, fathers-in-law, grandsons, brothers-in-law and all other relatives even if I may be killed.

TEXT 35

api trailokya-rajyasya
hetoh kim nu mahi-krte
nihatya dhartarastran nah
ka priti syaj janardana

O Janardana, there is no pleasure in killing the sons of Dhrutarastra, even in exchange of the three worlds, let alone this earth.

TEXT 36

papam evasrayed asman
hatvaitan atatayinah
tasman narha vayam hantum
dhartarastran sa-bandhavan
sva-janam hi katham hatva
sukhinah syama madhava

Sin must overcome us if we kill felons thus. O Madhava, we cannot become happy by slaying the sons of Dhrutarastra along with their friends and kinsmen, though they deserve killing.

TEXT 37

yady apy ete na pasyanti
lobhopahata-cetasah

kula–ksaya–krtam dosam
mitra–drohe ca patakam

As their minds are overpowered by greed, they feel no sin in ruining their own relatives and families, and no sin in treachery to friends too.

TEXT 38

katham na jneyam asmabhih
papad asman nivartitum
kula–ksaya–krtam dosam
prapasyadbhir janardana

O Janardan, why should we not refrain from such a sin though we know clearly the evil effects arising from the ruin of a dynasty?

TEXT 39

kula–ksaye pranasyanti
kula–dharmah sanatanah
dharme naste kulam krtsnam
adharmo 'bhibhavaty uta

Being a dynasty ruined, its eternal moral code dies out. When this moral code perishes the family succumbs to unrighteousness

TEXT 40

adharmabhibhavat krsna
pradusyanti kula–striyah
strisu dustasu varsneya
jayate varna–sankarah

O Krishna, when unrighteousness prevails, our family women become corrupt and there arises caste–confusion, O Varsneya.

TEXT 41

sankaro narakayaiva
kula–ghnanam kulasya ca
patanti pitaro hy esam
lupta–pindodaka–kriyah

This caste confusion leads into hell the members of the family as well as those who ruin the family. Because of such people, ancestors are deprived of their offerings of food and water.

TEXT 42

dosair etaih kula–ghnanam
varna–sankara–karakaih
utsadyante jati–dharmah
kula–dharmaś ca sasvatah

By these irreligious deeds of the destroyers of families, which causes confusion of castes, the eternal moral codes of caste and families will be destroyed.

TEXT 43

utsanna–kula–dharmanam
manusyanam janardana
narake niyatam vaso
bhavatity anususruma

O Janardana, I have heard by disciplic succession that the men of the families whose moral codes are subverted must dwell in hell.

TEXT 44

aho bata mahat papam
kartum vyavasita vayam
yad rajya–sukha–lobhena
hantum sva–janam udyatah

Alas, we are about to commit a great sin in trying to kill our own people by becoming greedy for the pleasure of ruling a kingdom.

TEXT 45

yadi mam apratikaram
asastram sastra–panayah
dhartarastra rane hanyus
tan me ksemataram bhavet

It would be far better if the sons of Dhrutarastra being well armed slay me in this battle when I am unarmed and unresting.

TEXT 46

sanjaya uvaca
evam uktvarjunah sankhye
rathopastha upavisat
visrjya sa-saram capam
soka-samvigna-manasah

Sanjaya said: Speaking thus Arjuna sat down on his chariot in the midst of the battle field, casting aside his bow and arrows, being overwhelmed with lamentation and distress.

om tatsditi srimalad-bhagavad-gitasupanisatsu
brahma-vidyayam yoga-sastre sri-krsnarjuna-samvade arjuna-visada-yogo
nama prathamam 'dhyayah

Thus ends the First Chapter entitled, "Arjuna's grief" in the Upanisad of Srimad-Bhagavad-Gita, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER TWO

Sankhya–Yoga

Distinction between soul and body

TEXT 1

sanjaya uvaca
tam tatha kṛpayavistam
asru–purnakuleksanam
visidantam idam vakyam
uvaca madhusudanah

Sanjaya: Seeing Arjuna, who was thus greatly dejected, overwhelmed with pity and sorrow, and whose eyes were filled with tears, Madhusudana spoke as follows.

TEXT 2

sri–bhagavan uvaca
kutas tva kasmalam idam
visame samupasthitam
anarya–justam asvargyam
akirti–karam arjuna

The Blessed Lord said: O Arjuna, whence has this despicable weakness, ignoble, infamous, debarring from heaven and disgraceful come upon you at this moment of peril?

TEXT 3

klaibyam ma sma gamah partha
naitat tvayy upapadyate
ksudram hrdaya–daurbalyam
tyaktvottistha parantapa

O Parantapa, don't yield to this impotence, O Partha, it does not befit you. Get rid of this sort of feeble heartdness and rise up to fight.

TEXT 4

arjuna uvaca
katham bhisam aham sankhye
dronam ca madhusudana
isubhih pratiyotsyami
pujarhav ari-sudana

Arjuna said: But, how can I fight with Bhisma and Drona with arrows, O slayer of Madhu? Worthy of worship are they, O slayer of foes.

TEXT 5

gurun ahatva hi mahanubhavan
sreyo bhoktum bhaiksyam apiha loke
hatvartha-kamams tu gurun ihaiva
bhunjiya bhogan rudhira-pradigdhan

For it is better indeed to live as a beggar in this world, slaying not these venerable teachers, though they are only out for their personal gains, yet they are my teachers, if I should slay them, I should feel all my jobs in life to be sullied with their blood.

TEXT 6

na caitad vidmah kataran no gariyo
yad va jayema yadi va no jayeyuh
yan eva hatva na jijivisamas
te 'vasthitah pramukhe dhartarastrah

We don't know which is better for us, nor do we know whether we shall conquer them or they will conquer us, here stand in battle army, against us, Dhritarastra's sons, and if we slay them, we should not care to live.

TEXT 7

karpanya-dosopahata-svabhavah
prcchami tvam dharma-sammudha-cetah yac chreyah syan niscitam bruhi tan me
sisyas te 'ham sadhi mam tvam prapannam

My heart is stricken by the fault of weak compassion, my mind is perplexed, it does not know where my duty lies, and so, I ask you. Tell me for certainty which is better. Teach me, for I am Your disciple and surrendered unto You.

TEXT 8

na hi prapasyami mamapanudyad
yac chokam ucchosanam indriyanam
avapya bhumav asapatnam rddham
rajyam suranam api cadhipatyam

For even if I should obtain unrivaled sovereignty over this wide world, and the Lordship of the gods in heaven, I do not see anything that will dispel the grief that withers up my senses.

TEXT 9

sanjaya uvaca
evam uktva hrsikesam
gudakesah parantapah
na yotsya iti govindam
uktva tusnim babhuva ha

Sanjaya said: Having told Hrusikesa this, Gudakesa (the conqueror of sleep) said to Govinda, "I will not fight", and became silent.

TEXT 10

tam uvaca hrsikesah
prahasann iva bharata
senayor ubhayor madhye
visidantam idam vacah

Seeing Arjuna, thus stricken with grief and despair in between the two armies, Hrushikesa smilingly spoke these words.

TEXT 11

sri-bhagavan uvaca
asocyān anvasocas tvam
prajna-vadams ca bhasase
gatasun agatasums ca
nanusocanti panditah

The Blessed Lord said: You grieve for those who should not be grieved for by you, and yet you speak words of apparent wisdom. The truly wise lament neither for the dead nor for the living.

TEXT 12

na tv evaham jatu nasam
na tvam neme janadhipah
na caiva na bhavisyamah
sarve vayam atah param

Never was there a time when I did not exist, nor you, nor these kings of men. Never will there be a time hereafter when any of us shall cease to be.

TEXT 13

dehino 'smin yatha dehe
kaumaram yauvanam jara
tatha dehantara-praptir
dhiras tatra na muhyati

As the embodied soul in this body passes through childhood, youth and old age, even so does it pass to another body. A man of pure intelligence does not deplore these things.

TEXT 14

matra-sparsas tu kaunteya
sitosna-sukha-duhkha-dah
agamapayino 'nityas
tams titikshasva bharata

It is the senses, and their contact with objects, which give rise to heat and cold, pleasure and pain, O son of Kunti, these appear and disappear temporarily like winter and summer seasons. Endure them, O Bharata.

TEXT 15

yam hi na vyathayanty ete
purusam purusarsabha
sama-duhkha-sukham dhiram
so 'mrtatvaya kalpate

The man who is not affected by these, O chief among man, and who remains undisturbed in pleasure and pain is said to be the man of steadfast wisdom and is fit for immortality.

TEXT 16

nasato vidyate bhavo
nabhavo vidyate satah
ubhayor api drsto 'ntas
tv anayos tattva–darsibhih

There is no eternal existence of ephemeral things and there is no cessation of the eternal substance. So the knowers of the truth consider both of them separately.

TEXT 17

avinasi tu tad viddhi
yena sarvam idam tatam
vinasam avyayasyasya
na kascit kartum arhati

Know that the Jiva–soul which pervades the whole body is indestructible. No one is able to destroy this immortal soul.

TEXT 18

antavanta ime deha
nityasyoktah saririnah
anasino prameyasya
tasmad yudhyasva bharata

The material body of the eternal, indestructible and immeasurable soul is transient. Therefore, O scion of Bharata, get up to fight.

TEXT 19

ya enam vetti hantaram
yas cainam manyate hatam
ubhau tau na vijanito
nayam hanti na hanyate

He who thinks the (soul) slays, and who thinks he is slain, both of them know nothing at all, because the soul neither kills anybody nor is killed by anybody.

TEXT 20

na jayate mriyate va kadacin
nayam bhutva bhavita va na bhuyah
ajo nityah sasvato 'yam purano
na hanyate hanyamane sarire

The soul has neither birth nor death. He was present in the past, he is present now and he will remain in the future. He is unborn, eternal, undying, ancient but ever fresh. He is not destroyed even if the body is killed.

TEXT 21

vedavinasinam nityam
ya enam ajam avyayam
katham sa purusah partha
kam ghatayati hanti kam

O Partha, how can a person kill anyone or cause to kill anyone who knows that the soul is eternal, unborn, unchangeable and indestructible?

TEXT 22

vasamsi jirnani yatha vihaya
navani grhnati naro 'parani
tatha sarirani vihaya jirnany
anyani samyati navani dehi

As a man casts off worn-out garments and puts on new ones, similarly the embodied soul casts off worn-out bodies and puts on new ones.

TEXT 23

nainam chindanti sastrani
nainam dahati pavakah
na cainam kledayanty apo
na sosayati marutah

The soul cannot be cut into pieces by any weapon, nor can be burnt by fire, nor can be wet by water and nor can be dried by air.

TEXT 24

acchedyo 'yam adahyo 'yam
akledyo 'sosya eva ca

nityah sarva–gatah sthanur
acalo 'yam sanatanah

The soul cannot be cleft, he cannot be burnt, he can not be wetted, and he cannot be dried. He is eternal, all pervading, unchangeable, immovable and ever lasting.

TEXT 25

avyakto 'yam acintyo 'yam
avikaryo 'yam ucyate
tasmad evam viditvainam
nanusocitum arhasi

The soul is inexpressible, inconceivable and immutable. Therefore, knowing the soul to be such, you should not grieve for the body.

TEXT 26–27

atha cainam nitya–jatam
nityam va manyase mrtam
tathapi tvam maha–baho
nainam socitum arhasi

jatasya hi dhruvo mrtyur
dhruvam janma mrtasya ca
tasmad apariharye 'rthe
na tvam socitum arhasi

And even if you deem him to be ever born and everdying, yet, O mighty armed, you should not grieve for him. For whoever is born is sure to die and whoever dies is sure to be born again, and you should not grieve for the inevitable.

TEXT 28

avyaktadini bhutani
vyakta–madhyani bharata
avyakta–nidhanany eva
tatra ka paridevana

Beings are unmanifested in the beginning, O Bharata, they become manifest in the middle and are unmanifested again in their final state. So there is nothing for lamentation.

TEXT 29

ascarya—vat pasyati kascid enam
ascarya—vad vadati tathaiva canyah.
ascarya—vac cainam anyah srnoti
srutvapy enam veda na caiva kascit

But marvelous is one who sees him, marvelous likewise is one who speaks about him and even though one hears of him does not know him. For one sees him as a wonder, one speaks of him as a wonder, one hears of him as a wonder and though hearing, none understands him at all.

TEXT 30

dehi nityam avadhyo 'yam
dehe sarvasya bharata
tasmāt sarvāni bhūtāni
na tvam socitum arhasi

O Bharata, the soul which dwells in the body is eternal and can never be killed. So you should not lament for any living being.

TEXT 31

sva—dharmam api caveksya
na vikāpitum arhasi
dharmyad dhi yuddhac chreya 'nyat
ksatriyasya na vidyate

Further, if you consider your own duty, you should not waver because for a Kshatriya there is nothing nobler than fighting a righteous war.

TEXT 32

yadrcchaya copapannam
svarga—dvaram apavrtam
sukhinah ksatriyah partha
labhante yuddham idrsam

Happy are the Ksatriyas, O Partha, who find a righteous war on hand like this, which comes to them without their seeking and it opens the doors of the heavenly planets.

TEXT 33

atha cet tvam imam dharmyam
sangramam na karisyasi
tatah sva–dharmam kirtim ca
hitva papam avapsyasi

But if you do not wage this war, as your duty dictates, than you will be abandoning your duty and forfeiting your fame and will incur sins.

TEXT 34

akirtim capi bhutani
kathayisyanti te 'vyayam
sambhavitasya cakirtir
maranad atiricyate

People will always speak of your infamy and for a man of dignity, dishonour is worse than death.

TEXT 35

bhayad ranad uparatam
mamsyante tvam maha–rathah
yesam ca tvam bahu–mato
bhutva yasyasi laghavam

The great warriors will think that you withdrew from the battle out of fear, and those that held you in esteem, will think you a coward.

TEXT 36

avacya–vadams ca bahun
vadisyaniti tavahitah
nindantas tava samarthyam
tato duhkhataram nu kim

And many a vile word will your enemies speak, belittling your strength, to mock your prowess and to hurt you, what can be more painful than that?

TEXT 37

hato va prapsyasi svargam
jitva va bhoksyase mahim
tasmad uttistha kaunteya

yuddhaya kṛta–niscayah

If you are defeated and slain, you will go to heaven and if you come out victorious, you will enjoy the earth. Therefore, O son of Kunti, arise and determine to fight.

TEXT 38

sukha–duhkhe same kṛtvā
labhalabhau jayajayau
tato yuddhaya yujyasva
naivam papam avapsyasi

Consider pleasure and pain, gain and loss, victory and defeat to be equal and prepare yourself for the battle. Thus you will not incur sin.

TEXT 39

esa te 'bhihita sankhye
buddhir yoge tv imam srnu
buddhya yukto yaya partha
karma–bandham prahasyasi

O Partha, so far I have described to you about the true knowledge of self. Now listen to the knowledge of Bhakti–yoga i.e. the loving service to the Supreme Lord, with the help of which you will be able to free yourself completely from the bondage of action.

TEXT 40

nehabhikrama–naso 'sti
pratyavayo na vidyate
sv–alpam apy asya dharmasya
trayate mahato bhayat

In this Bhakti–yoga, no effort is ever lost and no harm is ever done. Even a little of this devotional service delivers a man from great fear.

TEXT 41

vyavasayatmika buddhir
ekeha kuru–nandana
bahu–sakha hy anantas ca
buddhayo 'vyavasayinam

O descendant of Kuru, those who have chosen this path of loving service, their intelligence is steadfast and their aim is one. But those who are irresolute, their intelligence is manifold.

TEXT 42–43

yam imam puspitam vacam
pravadanty avipascitah
veda–vada–ratah partha
nanyad astiti vadinah

kamatmanah svarga–para
janma–karma–phala–pradam
kriya–visesa–bahulam
bhogaisvarya–gatim prati

O Partha, the flowery words of the Vedas which promises various fruitive activities like elevation to heavenly planets, higher birth, power, etc. attract the less intelligent persons. Being desirous of sense gratification and opulence they say that there is nothing more than this in this world.

TEXT 44

bhogaisvarya–prasaktanam
ta yapahrta–cetasam
vyavasayatmika buddhih
samadhau na vidhiyate

The foolish persons, who are very much attached to sense gratification and opulence, are deluded by those things, and due to lack of control over their mind, can never develop steadfast devotion to the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 45

traī–gunya–visaya veda
nistrai–gunyo bhavarjuna
nirdvandvo nitya–sattva–sthō
niryoga–ksema atmavan

O Arjuna, the Vedas mainly deal with the three modes of Maya (material nature). Be free from their influence and being freed from all sorts of dualities, be established in the self.

TEXT 46

yavan artha udapane
sarvatah samplutodake
tavan sarvesu vedesu
brahmanasya vijanatah

All the purposes served by the pools, are fully served by the great reservoir of water. Similarly, all the purposes of Vedas can be served by one who knows the real meaning behind them.

TEXT 47

karmany evadhikaras te
ma phalesu kadacana
ma karma-phala-hetur bhur
ma te sango 'stv akarmani

Your concern is with work and not with its fruits. So never hanker after the fruit or desist from work.

TEXT 48

yoga-sthah kuru karmani
sangam tyaktva dhananjaya
siddhy-asiddhyoh samo bhutva
samatvam yoga ucyate

O Dhananjaya, being steadfast in devotional service discharge your ordained duties and cast aside all attachment for the fruits thereof. The evenness of mind in success or failure is called Yoga.

TEXT 49

durena hy avaram karma
buddhi-yogad dhananjaya
buddhau saranam anviccha
krpanah phala-hetavah

O Dhananjaya, give up all fruitive activities and follow the principle of unalloyed devotional service. Those who desire to enjoy the result of their deeds are misers.

TEXT 50

buddhi–yukto jahatiha
ubhe sukrta–duskrte
tasmad yogaya yujyasva
yogah karmasu kausalam

He who is engaged in devotional service gets rid of the fruits of both good and bad deeds in this life. Hence try to perform yoga (devotional service), which is the art of performing duties.

TEXT 51

karma–jam buddhi–yukta hi
phalam tyaktva manisinah
janma–bandha–vinirmuktah
padam gacchanty anamayam

So, the truly wise abandon the fruits of actions with the help of the knowledge of devotional service, take refuge in the Lord, and being freed from the cycle of birth and death attain the supreme position, which is free from all afflictions.

TEXT 52

yada te moha–kalilam
buddhir vyatitarisyati
tada gantasi nirvedam
srotavyasya srutasya ca

When your mind has crossed quagmire of delusion, you will become indifferent to what has been heard till now and what will be heard hereafter.

TEXT 53

sruti–vipratipanna te
yada sthasyati niscala
samadhav acala buddhis
tada yogam avapsyasi

When your mind, which is distracted by the Vedic texts rests on unmoved meditation on the Supreme Lord you will attain true devotion.

TEXT 54

arjuna uvaca
sthita–prajnasya ka bhasa
samadhi–sthasya kesava
sthita–dhih kim prabhaseta
kim asita vrajeta kim

Arjuna said: O Keshava, what are the symptoms of one who is fully established in perfect knowledge and deeply absorbed in transcendence? What does such a person say and what is his language? What does he do? How does he walk and how does he sit?

TEXT 55

sri–bhagavan uvaca
prajahati yada kaman
sarvan partha mano–gatan
atmany evatmana tustah.
sthita–prajnas tadocyate

The Supreme Lord Sri Krishna said: O Partha, when a man gives up all sorts of mental desires and becomes contented in self with the realisation of the soul, he is said to be well–founded in wisdom.

TEXT 56

duhkhesv anudvigna–manah
sukhesu vigata–sprhah
vita–raga–bhaya–krodhah
sthita–dhir munir ucyate

A Jiva who is not perturbed in mind by calamities, who is in pleasure devoid of longing and from whom desire, fear and anger have departed is called a sage of steadfast wisdom.

TEXT 57

yah sarvatranabhisnehas
tat tat prapya subhasubham
nabhinandati na dvesti
tasya prajna pratisthita

He who has no attachments to anything and who does not rejoice nor hate, whether he finds good or evil is fixed in perfect knowledge.

TEXT 58

yada samharate cayam
kurmo 'nganiva sarvasah
indriyanindriyarthebhyas
tasya prajna pratisthita

When the wise man fully controls his senses from their objects as the tortoise withdraws its limbs, his knowledge is well-founded.

TEXT 59

visaya vinivartante
niraharasya dehinah
rasa-varjam raso 'py asya
param drstva nivartate

The sense-objects fall from the embodied soul when it ceases to feed on them, but the taste for them is left behind. Even the taste disappears when the Supreme Lord is seen.

TEXT 60

yatato hy api kaunteya
purusasya vipascitah
indriyani pramathini
haranti prasabham manah

O son of Kunti, the senses are so powerful and violent that they forcibly overpower the mind of even a wise man who strives to control them.

TEXT 61

tani sarvani samyamya
yukta asita mat-parah
vase hi yasyendriyani
tasya prajna pratisthita

A man who has full control over his senses and has fixed his mind and knowledge upon Me, is known as a man of steadfast intelligence.

TEXT 62

dhyayato visayan pumsah
sangas tesupajayate
sangat sanjayate kamah
kamat krodho 'bhijayate

When a man dwells in his mind on the sense objects, an attachment for them arises. Desire is born of that attachment. From desire anger is born.

TEXT 63

krodhad bhavati sammohah
sammohat smrti-vibhramah
smrti-bhramsad buddhi-naso
buddhi-nasat pranasyati

From anger comes delusion, from delusion springs failure of memory. From wrecked memory results the ruin of the understanding and then he perishes.

TEXT 64

raga-dvesa-vimuktais tu
visayan indriyais caran
atma-vasyair vidheyatma
prasadam adhigacchati

A man who controls his senses by following the regulated principles of freedom, obtains complete mercy of the Supreme Lord and thus becomes free from all attachment and hatred.

TEXT 65

prasade sarva-duhkhanam
hanir asyopajayate
prasanna-cetaso hy asu
buddhih paryavatisthate

When that serenity and peace come, there is the end of all sorrows. For, when the mind has become serene and peaceful. He gets the steadfast wisdom.

TEXT 66

nasti buddhir ayuktasya
na cayuktasya bhavana

na cabhavayatah santir
asantasya kutah sukham

A man who has no self control has no comprehension. Nor can he have any power of contemplation and without contemplation he can have no peace. When he has no peace, how can he be happy?

TEXT 67

indriyanam hi caratam
yan mano 'nuvidhiyate
tad asya harati prajnam
vayur navam ivambhasi

For, when a man's mind is governed by his roving senses, it carries away his wisdom as a gale carries away a ship on the water.

TEXT 68

tasmad yasya maha-baho
nigrhitani sarvasah
indriyanindriyarthebhyas
tasya prajna pratisthita

Therefore, O mighty armed, whose senses are restrained from their objects, his wisdom is firmly set.

TEXT 69

ya nisa sarva-bhutanam
tasyam jagarti samyami
yasyam jagrati bhutani
sa nisa pasyato muneh

What is night for all beings is the time of awakening for the self-controlled and the period of awakening of general people is night for the sage.

TEXT 70

apuryamanam acala-pratistham
samudram apah pravisanti yadvat
tadvat kama yam pravisanti sarve
sa santim apnoti na kama-kami

He whom all desires enter as the waters enter the ocean, which though ever full, remains firmly established within its bounds, wins peace, not so the desirer of desires.

TEXT 71

vihaya kaman yah sarvan
pumams carati nihsprhah
nirmamo nirahankarah
sa santim adhigacchati

Only he who has given up all desires and lives quite indifferent to mundane affinities, regards nothing as his own and is devoid of egoism, attains bliss.

TEXT 72

esa brahmi sthitih partha
nainam prapya vimuhyati
sthitvASYAM anta-kale 'pi
brahma-nirvanam rcchati

O Partha (Arjuna), this is the way of transcendental life. Having attained this one does not get bewildered. Realizing this even at the time of death, one can enter into the abode of the Supreme Lord.

om tatsditi srīmad-bhagavad-gītasūpaniṣatsu brahma-vidyāyam yoga-sāstre śrī-kṛṣṇarjuna-samvade sankhya-yogo nama dvitīyo 'dhyāyah

Thus ends the Second Chapter entitled, "Distinction Between Soul and Body" in the Upanisad of Śrīmad-Bhagavad-Gīta, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

Chapter THREE

Karma–Yoga

The Principle of action

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
jyayasi cet karmanas te
mata buddhir janardana
tat kim karmani ghore mam
niyodayasi kesava

Arjuna said : O Janardana, O Keshava, if devotional intelligence is more excellent than fruitive action in Your opinion, then why do You urge me to engage in this horrible deed?

TEXT 2

vyamisreneva vakyena
buddhim mohayasiva me
tad ekam vada niscitya
yena sreya 'ham apnuyam

With such conflicting words, I think you confuse my mind, therefore, tell me clearly that single course by which I can win the highest good.

TEXT 3

sri–bhagavan uvaca
loke 'smin dvi–vidha nistha
pura prokta mayanagha
jnana–yogena sankhyanam
karma–yogena yoginam

The Supreme Lord said: O sinless Arjuna, I have already told that in this world there are two groups of men who realise the self. Some are trying to know Him through mental speculation and others are interested to understand Him through devotional service.

TEXT 4

na karmanam anarambhan
naiskarmyam puruso 'snute na ca sannyasanad eva siddhim samadhigacchati

No man can ever be free from Karma (action) and a life of action by merely avoiding work and no man can attain perfection by mere renunciation.

TEXT 5

na hi kascit ksanam api
jatu tisthaty akarma-krt karyate hy avasah karma
sarvah prakrti-jair gunaih

None can refrain from doing something even for a moment, everyone is forced by the qualities of material nature to perform work.

TEXT 6

karmendriyani samyamya
ya aste manasa smaran
indriyarthan vimudhatma
mithyacarah sa ucyate

He who restrains his organs of action but sits brooding in his mind over the objects of sense, deludes himself and is called a hypocrite.

TEXT 7

yas tv indriyani manasa
niyamyarabhate 'rjuna
karmendriyaih karma-yogam
asaktah sa visisyate

But, he who controls his senses, along with his mind, O Arjuna, and directs his organs of action to work without attachment, is indeed a superior.

TEXT 8

niyatam kuru karma tvam
karma jyayo hy akarmanah
sarira—yatrapi ca te
na prasiddhyed akarmanah

Perform your daily duties, because action is better than inaction. Even the maintenance of your body is not possible without action.

TEXT 9

yajnarthat karmano 'nyatra
loko 'yam karma—bandhanah
tad—artham karma kaunteya
mukta—sangah samacara

Work performed for satisfaction of the Supreme Lord is known as sacrifice. All other activities are bondages of action. Therefore, O son of Kunti, perform your works for the satisfaction of the Supreme Lord without any desire for fruits and thus you will remain unattached and free from the bondages of action.

TEXT 10

saha—yajnah prajah srstva
purovaca prajapatih
anena prasavisyadhvam
esa vo 'stv ista—kama—dhuk

In the beginning, the creator created men along with sacrifice and said, 'By this shall you multiply. This shall be the Kamadhenu which will yield you the milk of your desires.'

TEXT 11

devan bhavayatanena
te deva bhavayantu vah
parasparam bhavayantah
sreyah param avapsyatha

With this shall you cherish the gods, and the gods will cherish you. Thus cherishing one another you will obtain the highest good.

TEXT 12

istan bhogan hi vo deva
dasyante yajna–bhavitah
tair dattan apradayaibhyo
yo bhunkte stena eva sah

Being cherished by the sacrifice, the demigods will grant you the pleasures you desire. He is verily a thief who enjoys the gifts of the demigods without offering them anything in return.

TEXT 13

yajna–sistasinah santo
mucyante sarva–kilbisaih
bhunjate te tv agham papa
ye pacanty atma–karanat

Righteous persons who eat the remnants of sacrifices are freed from all sorts of sins. But those are sinners and eat sin, who cook for their ownself.

TEXT 14

annad bhavanti bhutani
parjanyaad anna–sambhavah
yajnad bhavati parjanyo
yajnah karma–samudbhavah

All living entities subsist on food, food is produced from rain, rain comes from sacrifice and sacrifice is sprung of work.

TEXT 15

karma brahmodbhavam viddhi
brahmaksara–samudbhavam
tasmāt sarva–gatam brahma
nityam yajne pratisthitam

Know that work is enjoined in the Vedas and the Vedas spring from the Absolute. Hence the All–pervading Absolute is eternally situated in sacrificial acts.

TEXT 16

evam pravartitam cakram
nanuvartayatiha yah
aghayur indriyaramo
mogham partha sa jivati

O Arjuna, a man who does not adhere to the prescribed vedic system of sacrifice leads a sinful life. As he gets pleasure only from sense gratification, he lives in vain.

TEXT 17

yas tv atma–ratir eva syad atma–trptas ca manavah
atmany eva ca santustas
tasya karyam na vidyate

One who loves his soul, remains fully satisfied and contented with the soul only, he has no duty to perform.

TEXT 18

naiva tasya krtenartho
nakrteneha kascana
na casya sarva–bhutesu
kascid artha–vyapasrayah

For him there is nothing to be gained by things done or left undone in this world. Nor has he to depend on any created being for attainment of his goal.

TEXT 19

tasmad asaktah satatam
karyam karma samacara
asakto hy acaran karma
param apnoti purusah

Always perform your duties without being attached to the results thereof, for the person who performs his duties without any attachment attains the Supreme.

TEXT 20

karmanaiva hi samsiddhim
asthita janakadayah
loka-sangraham evapi
sampasyan kartum arhasi

The great souls like Janaka attained the highest goal, i.e. devotion, by performance of prescribed duties. Therefore, you should perform your duty in order to educate the people.

TEXT 21

yad yad acarati sresthas
tat tad evetaro janah
sa yat pramanam kurute
lokas tad anuvartate

Common people follow the work of a great man. They pursue what he accepts as standard of action.

TEXT 22

na me parthasti kartavyam
trisu lokesu kincana
nanavaptam avaptavyam
varta eva ca karmani

There is nothing at all in the three worlds, O Partha, for Me to achieve, nor is there anything to gain which I have not gained. Yet I continue to work.

TEXT 23

yadi hy aham na varteyam
jatu karmany atandritah
mama vartmanuvartante
manusyah partha sarvasah

O Partha, being idle, if I do not perform any work, then people will imitate My ways and abandon their duties.

TEXT 24

utsideyur ime loka
na kuryam karma ced aham

sankarasya ca karta syam
upahanyam imah prajah

If I do not perform work, then all these worlds will be ruined and I would be the cause of confusion of castes and thereby peace will be disturbed.

TEXT 25

saktah karmany avidvamso
yatha kurvanti bharata
kuryad vidvams tathasaktas
cikirsur loka-sangraham

As the ignorant act with attachment for their work, O scion of Bharata, the wise perform their duties without attachment in order to do good for the world.

TEXT 26

na buddhi-bhedam janayed
ajnanam karma-sanginam
josayet sarva-karmani
vidvan yuktah samacaran

The wise man should not disrupt the minds of the ignorant, who are attached to fruitive actions, but engage them in work, himself acting without any attachment.

TEXT 27

prakrteh kriyamanani
gunaih karmani sarvasah
ahankara- vimudhatma
kartaham iti manyate

Works are fully influenced by the triple qualities of material nature, but a person bewildered by false egoism, thinks himself as the sole performer.

TEXT 28

tattva-vit tu maha-baho
guna-karma- vibhagayoh
guna gunesu vartanta
iti matva na sajjate

But, O Mighty armed Arjuna, he who possessed knowledge about the Absolute Truth, does not work for sense gratification as he is well aware of the difference between fruitive activities for sense gratification and devotional service to the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 29

prakrter guna–sammudhah
sajjante guna–karmasu
tan akrtsna–vido mandan
krtsna–vin na vicalayet

Ignorant persons being bewildered by the modes of material nature become attached to the senses and their objects. But the wise should not disturb these unfortunate ignorant people.

TEXT 30

mayi sarvani karmani
sannyasyadhyatma–cetasa
nirasir nirmamo bhutva
yudhyasva vigata–jvarah

Free from all anxieties, direct the mind towards the soul and surrendering all your actions unto Me, go on fighting without hankering for the results thereof and shaking off all sorts of egoism.

TEXT 31

ye me matam idam nityam
anutisthanti manavah
sraddhavanto 'nasuyanto
mucyante te 'pi karmabhih

One who performs his duties as per My instructions and follows My teachings faithfully, without malice, becomes free from the bondage of action.

TEXT 32

ye tv etad abhyasuyanto
nanutisthanti me matam
sarva–jnana–vimudhams tan
viddhi nastan acetasah

Those who do not follow these teachings, out of malice, are to be known as bereft of all knowledge, ruined and ignorant.

TEXT 33

sadrsam cestate svasyah
prakrter jnanavan api
prakrtim yanti bhutani
nigraha kim karisyati

Even a learned man acts according to his own nature, because all living beings follow their natural inclinations. What can restraining of the senses do?

TEXT 34

indriyasyendriyasyarthe
raga—dvesau vyavasthitau
tayo na vasam agacchet
tau hy asya paripanthinau

Love and hatred naturally arises towards the objects of each sense. But one should not fall under their sway for they are his enemies.

TEXT 35

sreyan sva—dharmo vigunah
para—dharma sv—anusthitat
sva—dharma nidhanam sreyah
para—dharmo bhayavahah

One should perform his own duties, though they may be defective, than the well performed duties of others. It is better to die for one's own duties, while the performance of duties prescribed for others is dangerous.

TEXT 36

arjuna uvaca
atha kena prayukto 'yam
papam carati purusah
anicchann api varsneya
balad iva ni yojitah

Arjuna said: O Krishna, why does a living entity commit sin, even unwillingly, as if impelled by force?

TEXT 37

sri-bhagavan uvaca
kama esa krodha esa
rajo-guna-samudbhavah
mahasano maha-papma
viddhy enam iha vairinam

The Supreme Lord said: It is lust which emanates from the material modes of passion and transforms into anger, and that is the all-devouring, formidable and sinful enemy of the living entity.

TEXT 38

dhumenavriyate vahnir
yathadarso malena ca
yatholbenavrto garbhas
tatha tenedam avrtam

As fire is covered by smoke, mirror is covered by dust, and as the embryo is enwrapped by the uterus, so also the living entity is enshrouded by different degrees of this lust.

TEXT 39

avrtam jnanam etena
jnanino nitya-vairina
kama-rupena kaunteya
duspurenanalena ca

O son of Kunti, the true knowledge is enveloped by the insatiable fire of desire, which is the constant foe of the wise.

TEXT 40

indriyani mano buddhir
asyadhisthanam ucyate
etair vimohayaty esa
jnanam avrtya dehinam

The senses, the mind and intelligence are the abode of lust. This lust enwraps the real knowledge of the living entity and deludes him.

TEXT 41

tasmat tvam indriyany adau
niyamyā bharatarsabha
papmanam prajahi hy enam
jnana– vijnana–nasanam

Therefore, O scion of Bharata, having controlled the senses from the very beginning, you should conquer this lust, the destroyer of real knowledge.

TEXT 42

indriyani parany ahur
indriyebhyah param manah
manasas tu para buddhir
yo buddheh paratas tu sah

The sense organs are said to be superior to matter, the mind is superior to the sense organs, intelligence is superior to the mind and he (the soul) is even superior to intelligence.

TEXT 43

evam buddheh param buddhva
samstabhyatmanam atmana
jahi satrum maha–baho
kama–rupam durasadam

O mighty armed Arjuna, thus knowing the soul to be superior to intelligence and making the mind steady with the knowledge of true self, conquer the invincible enemy known as lust.

om tatsditi srīmad.bhagavad–gītasūpaniṣatsu
brahma–vidyāyāṁ yoga–sāstre śrī–kṛṣṇārjuna–
samvade karma–yogo
nāma tṛtīyo 'dhyāyāḥ

Thus ends the Third Chapter entitled, "The Principle of Action" in the Upanisad of Śrīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER FOUR

Jnana–Yoga

The path of divine knowledge

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca
imam vivasvate yogam
proktavan aham avyayam
vivasvan manave praha
manur iksvakave 'bravit

The Supreme Lord said: I taught this eternal Yoga to the Sun–god, Vivaswan. Vivaswan told it to Manu, the father of mankind, and Manu told it to Ikshwaku.

TEXT 2

evam parampara–praptam
imam rajarsayo viduh
sa kaleneha mahata
yogo nastah parantapa

O Parantapa, the royal saints received this supreme knowledge thus handed down in disciplic succession. This knowledge is lost in this world through long ages

TEXT 3

sa evayam maya te 'dya
yogah proktah puratanah
bhakto 'si me sakha ceti
rahasyam hy etad uttamam

Today I am telling you that ancient supreme knowledge, as you are my devotee and friend.

TEXT 4

arjuna uvaca
aparam bhavato janma
param janma vivasvatah
katham etad vijaniyam
tvam adau proktavan iti

Arjuna said: O Krishna, the birth of Vivaswan(Sun-god) was much earlier than Your birth. How can I believe that You instructed this Yoga to him at first?

TEXT 5

sri-bhagavan uvaca
bahuni me vyatitani
janmani tava carjuna
tany aham veda sarvani
na tvam vettha parantapa

The Supreme Lord said: O Arjuna, many many births of both you and I have passed. I can remember them all, but you can not.

TEXT 6

ajo 'pi sann avyayatma
bhutanam isvaro 'pi san
prakrtim svam adhisthaya
sambhavamy atma-mayaya

Although I am unborn and unchangeable and although I am the Lord of all the universe, still then I appear in this world through the help of My own potency.

TEXT 7

yada yada hi dharmasya
glanir bhavati bharata
abhyutthanam adharmasya
tadatmanam srjamy aham

O descendant of Bharata, whenever there is decline of religion and rise of irreligion, I manifest Myself.

TEXT 8

paritrānaya sadhunam
vīnāsaya ca duskṛtam
dharma-samsthāpanārthaya
sambhavamī yuge yuge

I descend Myself in all ages to deliver the devotees, to annihilate the miscreants and to re-establish the principles of religion.

TEXT 9

janma karma ca me divyam
evam yo vetti tattvataḥ
tyaktva deham punar janma
naiti mam eti so 'rjuna

O Arjuna, one who knows the transcendental nature of My birth and deeds does not take birth in this material world after his death and attains My eternal abode.

TEXT 10

vita-raga-bhaya-krodha
man-māya mam upasritāḥ
bahavo jnana-tapasa
puta mad-bhavam agataḥ

Being freed from passion, fear and anger, steadfastly attached to and having taken absolute shelter in Me, may a person be purified by My transcendental knowledge and thus attains My divine love.

TEXT 11

ye yatha mam prapadyante
tams tathaiva bhajamy aham
mama vartmanuvartante
manusyaḥ partha sarvasaḥ

O Partha, I reciprocate the worship of persons according to their submission unto Me. Everyone follows My path in all possible ways.

TEXT 12

kanksantāḥ karmanam siddhim
yajanta iha devataḥ

ksipram hi manuse loke
siddhir bhavati karma-ja

Those who desire success in their fruitive activities worship the demigods in this world, for success in fruitive actions is achieved very quickly.

TEXT 13

catur-varnyam maya srstam
guna-karma-vibhagasah
tasya kartaram api mam
viddhy akartaram avyayam

The system of fourfold caste is introduced by Me according to qualification and action. Though I am the creator of this system, know Me that I am the non-doer being unchangeable.

TEXT 14

na mam karmani limpanti
na me karma-phale sprha
iti mam yo 'bhijanati
karmabhir na sa badhyate

I am not bound by any action of this world nor do I desire to enjoy any fruit thereof. He who really knows Me as such, is also not entangled in the reactions of his worldly deed.

TEXT 15

evam jnatva krtam karma
purvair api mumuksubhih
kuru karmaiva tasmāt tvam
purvaih purvataram krtam

All the liberated souls of the past, knowing this truth performed desireless actions. Therefore, you should follow such actions which were done by the sages of ancient times.

TEXT 16

kim karma kim akarmeti
kavayo 'py atra mohitah
tat te karma pravaksyami

yaj jnatva moksyase 'subhat

Even the intelligent find it perplexing to determine what is action and what is inaction. Now I shall tell you about action, knowing which you will be liberated from all sins.

TEXT 17

karmano hy api boddhavyam
boddhavyam ca vikarmanah
akarmanas ca boddhavyam
gahana karmano gatih

It is very difficult to fathom the intricacies of action. So one has to clearly understand the distinctive characteristics of action, forbidden action and inaction.

TEXT 18

karmany akarma yah pasyed
akarmani ca karma yah
sa buddhiman manusyesu
sa yuktah krtsna-karma-krt

One who sees action in inaction and inaction in action, is intelligent among mankind. He is in the divine stage, though he is engaged in all types of activities.

TEXT 19

yasya sarve samarambhah
kama-sankalpa- varjitah
jnanagni-dagdha-karmanam
tam ahuh panditam budhah

The wise call him most knowledgeable whose desire for fruitive action has been burnt by the fire of spiritual knowledge and all whose actions are devoid of any desire for sense gratification.

TEXT 20

tyaktva karma-phalasangam
nitya-trpto nirasrayah
karmany abhipravrtto 'pi
naiva kincit karoti sah

Abandoning all attachments to the fruits of work, always contented and independent, he is ever engaged in action and yet he does not work at all.

TEXT 21

nirasir yata–cittatma
tyakta–sarva–parigraha
sariram kevalam karma
kurvan napnoti kilbisam

One who performs action for the maintenance of his livelihood, keeping his body, mind and senses under control of his intelligence, without desire for the fruits of his actions and hoping for nothing in this world, is free from all virtue and vice accruing from action.

TEXT 22

yadrccha–labha–santusto
dvandvatito vimatsarah
samah siddhav asiddhau ca
krtvapi na nibadhyate

He is quite satisfied with whatever he gets without trying for it, has transcended the pairs of opposites, is free from malice or hatred and is steady both in success and failure. Hence his actions, although he is completely engaged in them, do not entangle him in bondage.

TEXT 23

gata–sangasya muktasya
jnanavasthita–cetasah yajnayacaratah karma
samagram praviliyate

One who is unattached to the triple qualities of material nature and is situated in divine knowledge his actions completely merge into transcendence.

TEXT 24

brahmarpanam brahma havir
brahmagnau brahmana hutam
brahmaiva tena gantavyam
brahma–karma–samadhina

One who is completely absorbed in spiritual activities will definitely attain the spiritual kingdom, for he is fully surrendered to spiritual activities, where there is complete sacrifice and which is offered is also of same divine nature.

TEXT 25

daivam evapare yajnam
yoginah paryupasate
brahmagnav apare yajnam
yajnenaivopajuhvati

Some yogis offer sacrifices to the demigods and some of them offer sacrifices to the fire of the Supreme Brahman.

TEXT 26

srotradinindriyany anye
samyamagnisu juhvati
sabdadin visayan anya
indriyagnisu juhvati

Some of them perform sacrifice by offering their senses as sacrificial ghee to the fire of self-control, while others perform sacrifice by offering the objects of their senses, such as sound, to the fire of their senses.

TEXT 27

sarvanindriya-karmani
prana-karmani capare
atma-samyama-yogagnau
juhvati jnana-dipite

Those who are interested in self-realisation in terms of mind and sense control, offer the actions of the ten senses as well as the vital airs (breath), as sacrifices to the fire of the controlled mind.

TEXT 28

dravya-yajnas tapo-yajna
yoga-yajnas tathapare
svadhyaya-jnana-yajnas ca
yatayah samsita-vratah

All these sacrifices may be divided into four kinds, such as Dravya Yajna, Japa Yajna, Yoga Yajna and Swadhyaya Yajna. One who performs such yajnas are called ascetics of severe vows.

TEXT 29

apane juhvati pranam
prane 'panam tathapare
pranapana–gati ruddhva
pranayama–parayanah
apare niyataharah
pranan pranesu juhvati

Some people who advocate Hatha yoga, practice Pranayam by stopping the movement of Prana into Apana and vice versa, and gradually stop the movements of both by practicing Kumbhaka (stopping all breathing). Some others curtailing their eating, perform sacrifice offering their Pranas to the fire of Pranas.

TEXT 30

sarve 'py ete yajna–vido
yajna–ksapita–kalmasah
yajna–sistamrta–bhujo
yanti brahma sanatnam

All these performers are well versed in the principle of sacrifice and having destroyed their sins by performance of sacrifice, ultimately attain the eternal Brahman by testing the nectarine remnants of such sacrifice.

TEXT 31

nayam loko 'sty ayajnyasya
kuto 'nyah kuru–sattama

O Arjuna, the scion of Kuru, why speak of the next world, even this world is denied to the non–performers of sacrifice.

TEXT 32

evam bahu–vidha yajna
vitata brahmano mukhe
karma–jan viddhi tan sarvan
evam jnatva vimoksyase

Thus manifold are the sacrifices, which are described in the Vedas, and all of them spring from active work, know this clearly and you will be liberated.

TEXT 33

sreyan dravya–mayad yajnaj
jnana–yajnah parantapa
sarvam karmakhilam partha
jnane parisamapyate

O Parantapa (Arjuna), knowledge, as a sacrifice, is superior to all material sacrifice. Every work without exception, O Partha, culminates in transcendental knowledge.

TEXT 34

tad viddhi pranipatena
pariprasnena sevaya
upadeksyanti te jnanam
jnaninas tatt va–darsinah

Accept a spiritual master in order to know the truth. Enquire from him about the truth by humble submission and obedient temperament. He can enlighten you with that knowledge.

TEXT 35

yaj jnatva na punar moham
evam yasyasi pandava
yena bhutany asesani
draksyasy atmany atho mayi

Being enlightened with divine knowledge you will know that all living entities are part of Me, they are in Me and they are mine.

TEXT 36

api ced asi papebhyah
sarvebhyah papa–krt–tamah
sarvam jnana–plavenaiva
vrjinam santarisyasi

Even if you are considered as the most sinful of all sinners, still then you will cross over this ocean of miseries with the help of the boat of transcendental knowledge.

TEXT 37

yathaidhamsi samiddho 'gnir
bhasma—sat kurute 'rjuna
jnanagnih sarva—karmani
bhasma—sat kurute tatha

As blazing fire burns firewood to ashes, O Arjuna, similarly the fire of transcendental knowledge burns up all fruits of action.

TEXT 38

na hi jnanena sadrsam
pavitram iha vidyate
tat svayam yoga—samsiddhah
kalenatmani vindati

There is nothing as pure as transcendental knowledge in this world. This knowledge is the ripe fruit of all yogas. One who has attained success in Karma—yoga realises that knowledge in his own real self in due course.

TEXT 39

sraddhaval labhate jnanam
tat—parah samyatendriyah
jnanam labdhva param santim
acirenadhigacchati

A man who has firm faith and has subdued his senses, attains transcendental knowledge. By performing Niskama—Karma—Yoga, he quickly attains eternal bliss.

TEXT 40

ajnas casraddadhanas ca
samsayatma vinasyati
nayam loko sti na paro
na sukham samsayatmanah

But the man who is ignorant, has no faith in Niskama—Karma—Yoga and is full of doubts, perishes. Neither in this world nor in the next, there is happiness for the man who always doubts.

TEXT 41

yoga–sannyasta–karmanam
jnana–sanchinna–samsayam
atmavantam na karmani
nibadhnanti dhananjaya

O Dhananjaya, who has renounced the fruits of his action, whose doubts are expelled by divine knowledge and who is firmly situated in the self, is not bound by any work.

TEXT 42

tasmad ajnana–sambhutam
hrt–stham jnanasinatmanah
chittvainam samsayam yogam
atisthottistha bharata

Therefore, O Bharata, due to ignorance this scepticism has arisen in your mind. Slash it with the sword of transcendental knowledge and fight the battle, by following Niskama–Karma–Yoga.

om tatsditi srimad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu brahma–
vidyayam yoga–sastre sri krsnarjuna–samvade
jnana–yogo nama caturtho 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Fourth Chapter entitled, "The Path of Divine Knowledge" in the Upanisad of Srīmad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER FIVE

Karma–Sannyasa–Yoga

Desireless action dedicated to the Supreme Lord

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
sannyasam karmanam krsna
punar yogam ca samsasi
yac chreya etayor ekam
tan me bruhi su–niscitam

Arjuna said: O Krishna, first of all You told me to renounce work, then You advised me to work with devotion. Now please tell me definitely which of these two paths is better for me.

TEXT 2

sri–bhagavan uvaca
sannyasah karma–yogas ca
nihsreyasa–karav ubhau
tayos tu karma–sannyasat
karma–yogo visisyate

The Supreme Lord said: Both the paths are beneficial for mankind. Out of these two, work in devotional service is better than abandonment of work.

TEXT 3

jneyah sa nitya–sannyasi
yo na dvesti na kanksati
nirdvandvo hi maha–baho
sukham bandhat pramucyate

He who has neither love nor hatred for the fruits of his deeds and is steady and free from the pairs of opposites of the relative world, is really renounced and having given up all, is easily released from all bonds of action.

TEXT 4

sankhya–yogau prthag balah
pravadanti na panditah
ekam apy asthitah samyag
ubhayor vindate phalam

It is only the child and not the wise men, that speak of action and their renunciation as different paths. He, who is firmly established in one, reaches the end of both.

TEXT 5

yat sankhyaiah prapyate sthanam
tad yogair api gamyate
ekam sankhyam ca yogam ca
yah pasyati sa pasyati

That goal which is attained by mere renunciation is also attainable by devotional service. He who recognises both renunciation and devotional service as one, sees things as they are.

TEXT 6

sannyasas tu maha–baho
duhkham aptum ayogatah
yoga–yukto munir brahma
na cirenadhigacchati

One cannot become happy only by renouncing his activities unless he is engaged in the devotional service of the Lord. Being engaged in the service of the Lord, the sages become pure and attain the Supreme Lord forthwith

TEXT 7

yoga–yukto visuddhatma
vijitatmajitendriyah
sarva–bhutatma–bhutatma
kurvann api na lipyate

A wise man engaged in devotional service of the Supreme Lord possesses pure intelligence, pure mind and self control, and is dear to all and all are dear to him. Even performing various activities, he is not entangled in them.

TEXT 8–9

naiva kincit karomiti
yukto manyeta tattva–vit
pasyan srnvan sprsanjighrann
asnan gacchan svapan svasan

pralapan visrjan grhnann
unmisan nimisann api
indriyanindriyarthesu
vartanta iti dharayan

"I do nothing at all" thinks the man of unattached action, knowing the truth, for in seeing, hearing, touching, smelling, tasting, walking, breathing and sleeping, speaking, grasping, releasing, in opening and closing his eyes, he is convinced that it is the action of the senses.

TEXT 10

brahmany adhaya karmani
sangam tyaktva karoti yah
lipyate na sa papena
padma–patram ivambhasa

He who acts without attachment, dedicating his actions to the Supreme Lord is untouched by sin, like a lotus leaf untouched by water.

TEXT 11

kayena manasa buddhya
kevalair indriyair api
yoginah karma kurvanti
sangam tyaktvatma–suddhaye

In order to purify themselves, those who are engaged in devotional service, perform their duties, with body, mind and intelligence and even with their senses, abandoning all attachments.

TEXT 12

yuktah karma–phalam tyaktva
santim apnoti naisthikim
ayuktah kama–karena
phale sakto nibadhyate

A wise man who has renounced the fruit of his actions, attains unadulterated peace.
But a fool is compelled by desire and attached to the fruit and is therefore entangled.

TEXT 13

sarva–karmani manasa
sannyasyaste sukham vasi
nava–dvare pure dehi
naiva kurvan na karayan

The wise man who has renounced all actions with a discerning mind dwells at ease, self–subdued in the city of nine gates, neither working nor causing work to be done.

TEXT 14

na kartrtvam na karmani
lokasya srjati prabhuh
na karma–phala–samyogam
svabhas tu pravartate

The lord of this material body, i.e. Soul, is not responsible for any action, nor for the fruits thereof. But all this emanates from ignorance of the living entity.

TEXT 15

nadatte kasyacit papam
na caiva sukrtam vibhuh
ajnanenavrtam jnanam
tena muhyantijantavah

The Supreme Lord does not accept anybody's virtue or vice. Since pure intelligence is enveloped by nescience, people are apt to be bewildered by the triple qualities of material nature.

TEXT 16

jnanena tu tad ajnanam
yesam nasitam atmanah

tesam aditya–vajjnanam
prakasayati tat param

But when one is enlightened with divine knowledge his ignorance disappears with sun rise, and this knowledge reveals everything to him.

TEXT 17

tad–buddhayas tad–atmanas
tan–nisthas tat–parayanah
gacchanty apunar–avrttim
jnana–nirdhuta–kalmasah

When one's intelligence, mind and steadfastness have focussed on the Supreme Lord, then one becomes cleaned of all sins through transcendental knowledge and attains the blissful realm from where there is no return. Those who develops divine relationship with Me, never enamours of material benefits.

TEXT 18

vidya–vinaya–sampanne
brahmane gavi hastini
suni caiva sva–pake ca
panditah sama–darsinah

Sages look upon all with an equal eye, whether it be a learned Brahmin endowed with humility or a cow or an elephant or a dog–eating outcaste.

TEXT 19

ihaiva tairjitah sargo
yesam samye sthitam manah
nirdosam hi samam brahma
tasmad brahmani te sthitah

Those whose minds are thus established in equality have even in this world, overcome their nature. They are being stainless on the same level with Brahman are established in Brahman.

TEXT 20

na prahrsyet priyam prapya
nodvijet prapya capriyam

sthira–buddhir asammudho
brahma–vid brahmani sthitah

He who knows Brahman and is established in Him, is not deluded and is firm in mind. He neither rejoices at what is pleasant, nor grieves at what is unpleasant.

TEXT 21

bahya–sparsesv asaktatma
vindaty atmani yat sukham
sa brahma–yoga–yuktatma
sukham aksayam asnute

Being unattached to external objects, he finds eternal happiness in his own real self and of Me as Brahman owing to his steadfast attachment for Me.

TEXT 22

ye hi samsparsa–ja bhoga
duhkha–yonaya eva te
ady–antavantah kaunteya
na tesu ramate budhah

An intelligent person never desires sensual pleasures which are the source of miseries. Human sufferings spring from association of the senses with the material world. They have their beginning and end, and are, therefore, not eternal.

TEXT 23

saknotihaiva yah sodhum
prak sarira–vimoksanat
kama–krodhodbhavam vegam
sa yuktah sa sukhi narah

He who is able to resist the force of desire and anger even here before quitting his body, is a wise man and he enjoys bliss.

TEXT 24

yo 'ntah–sukho 'ntar–aramas
tathantar–jyotir eva yah
sa yogi brahma–nirvanam
brahma–bhuto 'dhigacchati

He who is sincere aspirant for inner spiritual happiness, inner harmony and inner enlightenment is really in touch with Brahman, is a real Yogi and attains the Supreme.

TEXT 25

labhante brahma–nirvanam
rsayah ksina–kalmasah
chinna–dvaidha yatatmanah
sarva–bhuta–hite ratah

The sages who are free from all sins and doubts, are self–controlled and are busy for the betterment of everybody attain transcendental bliss.

TEXT 26

kama–krodha–vimuktanam
yatinam yata–cetasam
abhito brahma–nirvanam
vartate viditatmanam

Those sages who are free from all passions and wrath, are self–restrained and well–versed in the true knowledge of their real self and Me, will definitely be liberated in the near future.

TEXT 27–28

sparsan krtva bahir bahyams
caksus caivantare bhruvoh pranapanau samau krtva
nasabhyantara–carinau

yatendriya–mano–buddhir
munir moksa–parayanah
vigateccha–bhaya–krodho
yah sada mukta eva sah

Avoiding all external sense objects, fixing his vision between the eyebrows, balancing the inward and outward breaths within the nostrils, controlling the mind, senses and intelligence, the transcendentalist becomes free from desire, fear and anger. One who always remains in this stage, is certainly liberated.

TEXT 29

bhoktaram yajna–tapasam
sarva–loka–mahesvaram
suhrdam sarva–bhutanam
jnatva mam santim rcchati

Know Me as the enjoyer of the fruits of all sacrifices, the worshipable Lord of all sages and the benefactor of all living entities. Knowing Me as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the sages attain liberation.

om tatsditi srimad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu brahma–
vidyayam yoga–sastre sri–krsnarjuna–samvade
karma–sannyasa–yogo nama pancamo 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Fifth Chapter entitled, "Desireless Action Dedicated to the Supreme Lord" in the Upanisad of Srimad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER SIX

Dhyana–Yoga

The principle of meditation

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca
anasritah karma–phalam
karyam karma karoti yah
sa sannyasi ca yogi ca
na niragnir na cakriyah

The Supreme Lord said: He who performs his prescribed duties without attachment for fruits is a Sannyasi and a Yogi too, not he who has given up the sacrificial fire or has abandoned all works.

TEXT 2

yam sannyasam iti prahur
yogam tam viddhi pandava
na hy asannyasta–sankalpo
yogi bhavati kascana

O Pandava, know that, which is called sannyasa (renunciation) is verily the same as Yoga (self–less work). O son of Pandu, for no one who has not fully renounced his desire can ever become a Yogi.

TEXT 3

aruruksor muner yogam
karma karanam ucyate
yogarudhasya tasyaiva
samah karanam ucyate

For the neophytes, performance of action for spiritual purification is the only aim and for those who have already attained yoga, attainment of eternal peace is the only aim.

TEXT 4

yada hi nendriyarthesu
na karmasv anusajiate
sarva–sankalpa–sannyasi
yogarudhas tadocyate

When one has no attachment for the objects of the senses and their actions, and when he has completely surrendered his will, he is said to have attained Yoga.

TEXT 5

uddhared atmanatmanam
natmanam avasadayet
atmaiva hy atmano bandhur
atmaiva ripur atmanah

A living entity, who is fallen into the well of worldliness can be liberated by a mind which is free from all sorts of material attachment. A living entity should not be depressed by worldly attractions. The mind is the friend as well as foe of a living entity at different circumstances.

TEXT 6

bandhur atmatmanas tasya
yenatmaivatmana jitah
anatmanas tu satrutve
vartetatmaiva satru–vat

The mind is a friend to a living entity who has full control of self and an enemy to him who has no control over it.

TEXT 7

jitatmanah prasantasya
paramatma samahitah
sitosna–sukha–duhkhesu
tatha manapamanayoh

One who is established in yoga, has conquered his mind, he is never perturbed by heat and cold, happiness and distress, honour and dishonour, and is deeply absorbed in meditation on the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 8

jnana–vijnana–trptatma
kuta–stho vijitendriyah
yukta ity ucyate yogi
sama–lostrasma–kancanah

He is self–content with acquired knowledge and transcendental self–realisation, and is self controlled. He considers everything whether it be clay, stone or gold – as the same.

TEXT 9

suhṛn–mītrāry–udāsina–
madhyastha–dvesya–bandhusu
sādhusv api ca pāpesu
sama–buddhir viśisyate

He is greatly honoured as he regards his well–wishers, friends, enemies, neutrals, mediators, the envious, relatives, the pious and the sinners alike.

TEXT 10

yogi yunjita satatam
atmanam rahasi sthitah
ekaki yata–cittatma
nirasir aparigrahaḥ

A transcendentalist remaining at a secluded place will concentrate his mind on the Supreme Lord and will try to become free from desires for fruitive actions.

TEXT 11–12

succau dese pratisthāpya
sthīram āsanam atmanah
naty–ucchritam nati–nicam
cailājina–kusottaram

tatraikāgram manah kṛtvā
yata–cittendriya–kriyāḥ

upavisyasane yunjyad
yogam atma–visuddhaye

In order to practice yoga, one should go to a secluded place and prepare a seat with kusa–grass (one type of grass) covering it with a deer–skin and a soft cloth, and place it in a sanctified place, neither too high nor too low. Then he has to sit on it and practice yoga for purification of his heart, by controlling his mind.

TEXT 13–14

samam kaya–siro–grivam
dharayann acalam sthirah
sampreksya nasikagram svam
disas canavalokayan

prasantatma vigata–bhir
brahmacari–vrate sthitah
manah samyamya mac–citto
yukta asitamat–parah

While practicing yoga, one should keep his body, neck and head in a straight line, fix his vision at the tip of his nose and meditate on the four–armed form of Vishnu, with a subdued mind, devoid of fear and being established in Brahmacharya.

TEXT 15

yunjann evam sadatmanam
yogi niyata–manasah
santim nirvana–paramam
mat–samstham adhigacchati

By constant and steadfast practice of yoga, a transcendentalist attains to the abode of the Lord by cessation of material existence.

TEXT 16

naty–asnatas tu yogo 'sti
na caikantam anasnatah
na cati–svapna–silasya
jagrato naiva carjuna

Yoga is not for him who eats too much, or too little, O Arjuna, nor is it for him who sleeps too much or who keeps too long a vigil.

TEXT 17

yuktahara–viharasya
yukta–cestasya karmasu
yukta–svapnavabodhasya
yogo bhavati duhkha–ha

One who is moderate in eating, sleeping, working and waking, and self–restrained in his enterprises can become free from all sorts of afflictions by practicing yoga.

TEXT 18

yada viniyatam cittam
atmany evavatisthate
nisprah sarva–kamebhyo
yukta ity ucyate tada

A yogi becomes situated in transcendence, when he is detached from all material desires and affinities and his thoughts are controlled and are fixed on the self and Godhead.

TEXT 19

yatha diyo nivata–stho
nengate sopama smṛta
yogino yata–cittasya
yunjato yogam atmanah

The mind of a yogi who is situated in transcendence is as steady and true as the unwavering flame of a lamp in a windless house.

TEXT 20

yatroparamate cittam
niruddham yoga–sevaya
yatra caivatmanatmanam
pasyann atmani tusyati

When one's mind becomes completely detached from material activities by practice of yoga, he is said to be situated in samadhi or trance. At this stage he is able to see the self by pure intelligence and feels pleasure within his own self.

TEXT 21

sukham atyantikam yat tad
buddhi–grahyam atindriyam
vetti yatra na caivayam
sthitā calati tattvataḥ

In that blissful state, he gets tremendous transcendental happiness and enjoys himself through divine senses. Being established in such a state he never departs from truth.

TEXT 22–23

yam labdhvā caparam labham
manyate nadhikam tataḥ
yasmin sthito na duḥkheṇa
gurunapi vicālyate

tam vidyād duḥkha–samyoga–
viyogam yoga–samjñitam
sa niscayena yoktavyo
yogo 'nirvinna–cetasa

When he attains such bliss, he thinks that nothing is superior to it and being established in that bliss, he is never shaken by any of the tribulations of the world, how great that may be. This is the real freedom from all sorts of miseries arising out of material contact.

TEXT 24–25

sankalpa–prabhavaṁ kāmāṁś
tyaktvā sarvaṁ aśeṣataḥ
manasaivendriya–grāmam
viniyamya samantataḥ

śanaiḥ śanair uparameḍ
buddhya dhṛti–grhita ya
atma–samsthām manāḥ kṛtvā
na kiñcid api cintayet

He completely abandons all his desires born of false ego, controls all his senses by mind, attains complete dispassion from sense–percepts, by virtue of his pure intelligence and ultimately realises his own self fully isolated from all worldly relatives.

TEXT 26

yato yato niscalati
manas cancaiam asthiram
tatas tato niyamyaitad
atmany eva vasam nayet

Mind is flickering and unsteady by nature. Although it inclines to wander unrestrained, one should carefully strive to bring it under control.

TEXT 27

prasanta—manasam hy enam
yoginam sukham uttamam
upaiti santa—rajasam
brahma—bhutam akalmasam

Overcoming all hurdles by such practice whose mind is fixed on Me, attains the highest bliss. He is liberated, peaceful and free from all sins.

TEXT 28

yunjann evam sadatmanam
yogi vigata—kalmasah
sukhena brahma—samsparsam
atyantam sukham asnute

Thus making the self ever steadfast, the yogi whose sins have disappeared, easily experiences the infinite joy of union with Godhead.

TEXT 29

sarva—bhuta—stham atmanam
sarva—bhutani catmani
iksate yoga—yuktatma
sarvatra sama—darsanah

A true yogi beholds the Supreme Lord in all beings and also sees all beings in Him, and thus realises the Supreme Lord everywhere.

TEXT 30

yo mam pasyati sarvatra
sarvam ca mayi pasyati
tasyaham na pranasyami

sa ca me na pranasyati

He who sees Me everywhere and everything in Me, I am never lost from him and he is never lost from Me.

TEXT 31

sarva—bhuta—sthitam yo mam
bhajaty ekatvam asthitah
sarvatha vartamano 'pi
sa yogi mayi vartate

The yogi, who knows Me as the All Pervading Super Soul, worships Me. He always dwells in Me in all circumstances.

TEXT 32

atmaupamyena sarvatra
samam pasyati yo 'rjuna
sukham va yadi va duhkham
sa yogi paramo matah

O Arjuna, one who considers all beings as dear as his own self, and shares their happiness and distress as his own, is a great yogi.

TEXT 33

arjuna uvaca
yo 'yam yogas tvaya proktah
samyena madhusudana
etasyaham na pasyami
cancalatvat sthitim sthiram

Arjuna said: O Madhusudana, I am unable to understand the principle of yoga system which you have just advised me. It appears impracticable and unbearable due to fickleness of mind.

TEXT 34

cancalam hi manah krsna
pramathi balavad drdham
tasyaham nigraham manye
vayor iva su—duskaram

O Krishna, the mind is restless, turbulent, obstinate and very strong, and I think to keep that mind under control is, as difficult as to control the wind.

TEXT 35

sri-bhagavan uvaca
asamsayam maha-baho
mano durnigraham calam
abhyasena tu kaunteya
vairagyena ca grhyate

The Supreme Lord said: O mighty-armed, no doubt the mind is fickle and hard to curb. But by constant practice and by detachment it can be controlled.

TEXT 36

asamyatatmana yogo
dusprapa iti me matih
vasyatmana tu yatata
sakyo 'vaptum upayatah

He who does not strive to control his mind through constant practice and asceticism, it is impossible on his part to practice yoga. But he, whose mind is controlled through proper means, attains perfection in that yoga system.

TEXT 37

arjuna uvaca
ayatih sraddhayopeto
yogac calita-manasah
aprapya yoga-samsiddhim
kam gatim krsna gacchati

Arjuna said: O Krishna, a man who has faith, but who is not steadfast and whose mind wanders away from yoga and fails to accomplish it, what is his fate?

TEXT 38

kaccin nobhaya-vibhrastas
chinnabhram iva nasyati
apratistho maha-baho
vimudho brahmanah pathi

O Mighty—armed Krishna, does he not perish like a riven cloud fallen from both and without any support, deluded in the path of Brahman?

TEXT 39

etan me samsayam krsna
chettum arhasy asesatah
tvad—anyah samsayasyasya
chetta na hy upapadyate

You should dispel this doubt of mine completely, O Krishna, for no one other than You can possibly dispel this doubt.

TEXT 40

sri—bhagavan uvaca
partha naiveha namutra
vinasas tasya vidyate
na hi kalyana—krt kascid
durgatim tata gacchati

The Supreme Lord said: O Partha, one who practices yoga never meets with destruction either in this world or in the next. One who does good for all, never overcomes by evil.

TEXT 41

prapya punya—krtam lokan
usitva sasvatih samah
sucinam srimatam gehe
yoga—bhrasto 'bhijayate

The defaulters of Astanga yoga are of two kinds, viz. (i) those of short timed practice, and (ii) those of long timed practice. Those who have fallen from short time practice of Astanga yoga, after enjoying heavenly bliss for a very long period take birth either in the family of a righteous Brahmin or in the family of a wealthy person.

TEXT 42

atha va yoginam eva
kule bhavati dhimatam
etad dhi durlabhataram—
loke janma yad idrsam

But those who have fallen after a long practice of Astanga yoga, take birth in the family of wise yogis. A birth in such a pious family is very rare.

TEXT 43

tatra tam buddhi–samyogam
labhate paurva–dehikam
yatate ca tato bhuyah
samsiddhau kuru–nandana

O son of Kuru, taking birth in such a family, he regains his previous divine intelligence and again strives to achieve perfection in that yoga.

TEXT 44

purvabhyasena tenaiva
hriyate hy avaso 'pi sah
jijnasur api yogasya
sabda–brahmativartate

Due to divine intelligence of his previous life, an inquisitive yogi easily overcomes the ritualistic principles prescribed in the Vedas.

TEXT 45

prayatnad yatamanas tu
yogi samsuddha–kilbisah
aneka–janma–samsiddhas
tato yati param gatim

Through constant and careful practice, the yogi gradually becomes free from all contaminations and after practicing this yoga for many, many births, he attains the supreme perfection.

TEXT 46

tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogi
jnanibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikah
karmibhyas cadhiko yogi
tasmad yogi bhavarjuna

A yogi is superior to an ascetic, superior even to a wiseman and is therefore far superior to a fruitive worker. Hence, O Arjuna, be a yogi.

TEXT 47

yoginam api sarvesam
mad–gatenantar–atmana
sraddhavan bhajate yo mam
sa me yuktatamo matah

The yogi who follows the path of unalloyed devotion, who worships Me with great faith, and is firmly attached to Me, is the best of all yogis.

om tatsditi srimad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu brahma–
vidyayam yoga–sastre sri–krsnarjuna–samvade
dhyana–yogo nama sastho 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Sixth Chapter entitled, "The Principle of Meditation" in the Upanisad of Srimad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER SEVEN

Jnana–Vijnana–Yoga

The transcendental knowledge of the Absolute

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca
mayy asakta–manah partha
yogam yunjan mad–asrayah
asamsayam samagram mam–
yatha jnasyasi tac chrnu

The Supreme Lord said: O Partha, now listen how you can know Me completely by practicing yoga with mind steadfastly attached to Me.

TEXT 2

jnanam te 'ham sa–vijnanam
idam vaksyamy asesatah
yaj jnatva neha bhuyo 'nyaj
jnatavyam avasisyate

Now I shall tell you in detail, the principle of transcendental knowledge about My graceful personality, knowing which there shall remain nothing more in this world to be known by you.

TEXT 3

manusyanam sahasresu
kascid yatati siddhaye
yatatam api siddhanam
kascin mam vetti tattvatah

Out of hundreds and thousands of human beings one strives to attain perfection in eternal bliss and out of those who have attained perfection, hardly one knows Me in My

TEXT 4

bhumir apo 'nalo vayuh
kham mano buddhir eva ca
ahankara itiyam me
bhinna prakrtir astadha

Earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence and perverted ego these are the eight components of My external energy.

TEXT 5

apareyam itas tv anyam
prakrtim viddhi me param
jiva-bhutam maha-baho
yayedam dharyate jagat

O Mighty-armed Arjuna, besides My external energy (Apara Prakruti), I have another energy known as Jiva-potency which is superior to My external energy. All living entities come of this superior potency.

TEXT 6

etad-yonini bhutani
sarvanity upadharaya
aham krtsnas ya jagatah
prabhavah pralayas tatha

All the sentient and insentient worlds emanate from these two potencies of Mine. Hence, I am the root cause of creation and destruction of this world.

TEXT 7

mattah parataram nanyat
kincid asti dhananjaya
mayi sarvam idam protam
sutre mani-gana iva

O Dhananjaya, there is none greater than I. All the universes exist in Me, as gems are strung on a thread.

TEXT 8

raso 'ham apsu kaunteya
prabhasmi sasi—suryayoh
pranavah sarva—vedesu
sabdah khe paurusam nrsu

O son of Kunti, I am the taste of water, the light of the Sun and the Moon, the syllable 'Om' of all Vedas, the sound in the ether and the virility in mankind.

TEXT 9

punyo gandhah prthivya ca
tejas casmi vibhavasau
jivanam sarva—bhutesu
tapas casmi tapasvisu

I am the sanctified fragrance of the earth, the heat of the Sun and fire, the life of all living entities and the penances of the ascetics.

TEXT 10

bijam mam sarva—bhutanam
viddhi partha sanatana
buddhir buddhimatam asmi
tejas tejasvinam aham

O Partha, know Me that I am the eternal seed of all elements, the intelligence of the intelligent and the prowess of the powerful.

TEXT 11

balam balavatam caham
kama—raga—vivarjitam
dharmaviruddho bhutesu
kamo 'smi bharatarsabha

O Bharatarsabha(Arjuna), I am the strength of the strong, devoid of passion and wrath. I am the sex in the animals, not opposed to scriptural injunctions.

TEXT 12

ye caiva sattvika bhava
rajasas tamasas ca ye
matta eveti tan viddhi
na tv aham tesu te mayi

All Sattwika, Rajasa and Tamasa manifestations in the world are the results of the qualities and actions of My illusory potency. Hence, they are under My control but I am quite independent of them.

TEXT 13

tribhir guna–mayair bhavair
ebhih sarvam idam jagat
mohitam nabhijanati
mam ebhyah param avyayam

The whole world is deluded by the triple qualities(Sattwa, Raja and Tama) of My illusory potency. Therefore, people do not know Me, as I am inexhaustible, unchangeable and independent of these triple qualities.

TEXT 14

daivi hy esa guna–mayi
mama maya duratyaya
mam eva ye prapadyante
mayam etam taranti te

It is extremely difficult to surmount My supernatural Maya consisting of the triple qualities. but those who surrender unto Me alone, can easily cross it.

TEXT 15

na mam duskrutino mudhah
prapadyante naradhamah
mayayapahrta–jnana
asuram bhavam asritah

The foolish miscreants, the lowest among mankind, those whose intelligence is stolen by illusion and those who are demoniac in nature, do not surrender unto Me.

TEXT 16

catur-vidha bhajante mam
janah sukrino 'rjuna
arto jijnasur arthartha
jnani ca bharatarsabha

O Arjuna, O best among the Bharatas, four kinds of righteous people worship Me. They are (i) the distressed, (ii) the inquisitive, (iii) the desirer of wealth, and (iv) the seekers of knowledge.

TEXT 17

tesam jnani nitya-yukta
eka-bhaktir visisyate
priyo hi jnanino 'tyartham
aham sa ca mama priyah

Among them, the wise becomes the best by obtaining pure knowledge through devotional service unto Me. He is very dear to Me and I am also very dear to him.

TEXT 18

udarah sarva evaite
jnani tv atmaiva me matam
asthitah sa hi yuktatma
mam evanuttamam gatim

The above four classes of devotees are all magnanimous souls. But one who is situated in My transcendental knowledge, he lives in Me. He is very dear to Me.

TEXT 19

bahunam janmanam ante
jnanavan mam prapadyate
vasudevah sarvam iti
sa mahatma su-durlabhah

After many births, the wise surrenders unto Me, knowing Me as the cause of all causes. Such a great devotee is indeed very rare.

TEXT 20

kamais tais tair hrta-jnanah
prapadyante 'nya-devatah

tam tam niyamam asthaya
prakrtya niyatah svaya

The fruitive workers being deprived of My transcendental knowledge, worship the demigods for fulfilment of their material desires and follow different rules and regulations akin to their own nature.

TEXT 21

yo yo yam yam tanum bhaktah
sraddhayarcitum icchati
tasya tasyacalam sraddham
tam eva vidadhamy aham

As an indwelling guide of all living entities, I make their faith more steadfast in that particular god, whom they worship according to their choice.

TEXT 22

sa taya sraddhaya yuktas
tasyaradhanam ihate
labhate ca tatah kaman
mayaiva vihitan hi tan

By worshipping a particular demigod with firm faith, one fulfils his desires. But actually all benefits are granted by Me alone.

TEXT 23

antavat tu phalam tesam
tad bhavaty alpa-medhasam
devan deva-yajo yanti
mad-bhakta yanti mam api

Less intelligent people worship the demigods and the fruits they obtain from such worship are limited and transitory. The worshippers of demigods go to the planets of demigods, but My devotees ultimately attain Me.

TEXT 24

avyaktam vyaktim apannam
manyante mam abuddhayah
param bhavam ajananto

mamavyayam anuttamam

People who consider Me as unmanifest, are ignorant even studying the Vedic scriptures, as they do not know about My supreme, unchangeable and eternal form.

TEXT 25

naham prakasah sarvasya
yoga–maya–samavrtah
mudho 'yam nabhijanati
loko mam ajam avyayam

My Shyamasundar human form is eternal. As it is enveloped by My creative potency(Yoga–Maya), it is unmanifest to the fallen souls. Therefore, the foolish and ignorant people do not know about My unchangeable form.

TEXT 26

vedaham samatitani
vartamanani carjuna
bhavisyani ca bhutani
mam tu veda na kascana

O Arjuna, as the Supreme Lord, I know everything about the past, the present and the future. I also know all living entities, but due to their bewilderment, people do not know My eternal Shyamasundar form.

TEXT 27

iccha–dvesa–samutthena
dvandva–mohena bharata
sarva–bhutani sammoham
sarge yanti parantapa

O Parantapa(Arjuna), all living entities, when they come into this material world, are deluded by its dualities like pleasure and pain etc., born of love and hatred.

TEXT 28

yesam tv anta–gatam papam
jananam punya–karmanam
te dvandva–moha–nirmukta
bhajante mam drdha–vratah

Those who are purged of all sins by dint of their pious deeds, worship Me with steadfast determination, freed from the worldly opposites and delusion.

TEXT 29

jara–marana–moksaya
mam asritya yatanti ye te brahma tad viduh krtsnam
adhyatmam karma cakham

Those who strive for liberation from old age and death, surrender unto Me in devotional service. They know everything about transcendental deeds and fruitive activities.

TEXT 30

sadhibhutadhidaivam mam
sadhiyajnam ca ye viduh
prayana–kale 'pi ca mam
te vidur yukta–cetasah

Those who know Me as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, as the governing principle of the material manifestation, as the controller of all the demigods and as the sustainer of all sacrifices, can know Me, even at the time of death.

om tatsditi srīmad–bhagavad–gītasūpaniṣatsu
brahma–vidyāyam yoga–sāstre śrī–kṛṣṇarjuna–
samvade jñāna–vijñāna–yogo
nama saptaṁ dhyāyah

Thus ends the Seventh Chapter entitled, "The Transcendental Knowledge of the Absolute" in the Upaniṣad of Śrīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Taraka–Brahma–Yoga

Attaining the Supreme Lord

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
kim tad brahma kim adhyatmam
kim karma purusottama
adhibhutam ca kim proktam
adhidaivam kim ucyate

Arjuna said: O Purushottama, what is meant by each of the terms ‘Brahman’, ‘Adhyatma’, ‘Karma’, ‘Adhibhuta’, and ‘Adhidaiva’?

TEXT 2

adhiyajnah katham ko 'tra
dehe 'smin madhusudana
prayana–kale ca katham
jneyo 'si niyatatmabhih

O Madhusudana, what is Adhiyajna(Lord of sacrifice) in this body? How do the persons engaged in devotional service know You at the time of their death?

TEXT 3

sri–bhagavan uvaca
aksaram brahma paramam
svabhavo 'dhyatmam ucyate
bhuta–bhavodbhava–karo
visargah karma–samjnitah

The Supreme Lord said: the eternal, indestructible and unchangeable living entity is called Brahman, and his eternal nature is called Adhyatma. Activities performed for the development of these material bodies are called karma.

TEXT 4

adhibhutam ksaro bhavah
purusas cadhidaivatam
adhiyajno 'ham evatra
dehe deha-bhrtam vara

The changeable and perishable is called Adhibhuta. Adhidaiba means the Universal Virata Purusa who is the Presiding Deity of the demigods and of the senses. I am known as Adhiyajna, the indwelling Super-soul in the heart of all living entities.

TEXT 5

anta-kale ca mam eva
smaran muktva kalevaram
yah prayati sa mad-bhavam
yati nasty atra samsayah

He who recalls Me, at the time of death, is undoubtedly blessed with My divine knowledge and attains My nature.

TEXT 6

yam yam vapi smaran bhavam
tyajaty ante kalevaram
tam tam evaiti kaunteya
sada tad-bhava-bhavitah

Whatever state of being one remembers when he passes away, definitely he will attain that state.

TEXT 7

tasmat sarvesu kalesu
mam anusmara yudhya ca
mayy arpita-mano-buddhir
mam evaisyasy asamsayah

Therefore, always think of Me and fight the battle. When you will perform your duties by fixing your mind and intelligence on Me, definitely you will attain Me.

TEXT 8

abhyasa–yoga–yuktena
cetasa nanya–gamina
paramam purusam divyam
yati parthanucintayan

O Partha, the Supreme Lord is attainable by remembering Him with undeviated attention and constant practice of Yoga.

TEXT 9

kavim puranam anusasitaram
anor aniyamsam anusmared yah
sarvasya dhataram acintya–rupam
aditya– varnam tamasah parastat

The Supreme Lord is omniscient, eternal, the supreme controller, the smallest, the sustainer of all, eternally adolescent, inconceivable, self–revealed like the self–luminous Sun and beyond material conception.

TEXT 10

prayana–kale manasacalena
bhaktya yuktoyoga–balena caiva
bhruvor madhye pranam avesya samyak
sa tam param purusam upaiti divyam

One who remembers the Supreme Lord in devotion, at the time of death, by fixing his prana (vital air) between the two eyebrows due to previous practice of yoga, will definitely attain the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 11

yad aksaram veda–vido vadanti
visanti yad yatayo vita–ragah
yad icchanto brahmacaryam caranti
tat te padam sangraheṇa pravaksye

Now I shall tell you the process for attaining the ultimate goal, designated Akshara(Parama Purusa) by the vedic scholars, in Whom dwell the great sages detached from all worldly affinities and for Whom the Brahmacharis practise celibacy.

TEXT 12–13

sarva–dvarani samyamyā
mano hr̥di nirudhya ca
murdhny adhayatmanah pranam
asthito yoga–dharanam

om ity ekaksaram brahma
vyaharan mam anusmaran
yah prayati tyajan deham
sa yati paramam gatim

Controlling all senses through practice of yoga, fixing the mind on the heart and the prana (vital air) between the two eyebrows and uttering the sacred syllable 'Om', if one quits his body, he will definitely attain My eternally blissful realm.

TEXT 14

ananya–cetah satatam yo mam smarati nityasah
tasyaham sulabhah partha
nitya–yuktasya yoginah

O Partha (Arjuna), I am easily accessible to him who remembers Me without deviation.

TEXT 15

mam upetya punar janma
duhkhalayam asasvatam
napnuvanti mahatmanah
samsiddhim paramam gatah

Pure devotees are not subject to rebirth which is transitory and full of miseries, because they have attained the highest perfection.

TEXT 16

a–brahma–bhuvanal lokah
punar avartino 'rjuna
mam upetya tu kaunteya
punar janma na vidyate

O Arjuna, beginning from the lowest planets to the highest planet in the material world (i.e. up to Brahmaloaka) all are subject to rebirth. But, O son of Kunti, one who takes shelter in Me through devotional service, is not liable to be reborn.

TEXT 17

sahasra-yuga-paryantam
ahar yad brahmano viduh
ratrim yuga-sahasrantam
te 'ho-ratra-vido janah

As per human calculation, a period of thousand four-ages is the duration of a day of Brahma and such a period is also the duration of his night.

TEXT 18

avyaktad vyaktayah sarvah
prabhavanty ahar-agame
ratry-agame praliyante
tatraivavyakta-samjnake

All living entities are made manifest with the dawn of Brahma's day and they are annihilated with the beginning of Brahma's night.

TEXT 19

bhuta-gramah sa evayam
bhutva bhutva praliyate
ratry-agame 'vasah partha
prabhavaty ahar-agame

Time and again, this multitude of living entities come into being at the dawn of the day of Brahma and dissolve at the beginning of the night of Brahma.

TEXT 20

paras tasmad tu bhavo 'nyo
'vyakto 'vyaktat sanatana
yah sa sarvesu bhutesu
nasyatsu na vinasyati

But there is another nature, which is eternal and superior to material nature. It is so excellent and eternal that when all in this world is destroyed, it remains as it is.

TEXT 21

avyakto 'ksara ity uktas
tam ahuh paramam gatim
yam prapya na nivartante
tad dhama paramam mama

My supreme abode is the ultimate destination of all living entities, which is unmanifested and infallible. When one attains it, he never comes back.

TEXT 22

purusah sa parah partha
bhaktya labhyas tv ananyaya yasyantah—sthani bhutani
yena sarvam idam tatam

O Partha, that Supreme Personality of Godhead is the greatest of all and is attainable by unalloyed devotion. He is all pervading and everything exists in Him.

TEXT 23

yatra kale tv anavrttim
avrttim caiva yoginah prayata yanti tam kalam
vaksyami bharatarsabha

O Bharatarsabha (Arjuna), now I shall tell you about the time when the yogis passing away from this world, will come back to this material world or not.

TEXT 24

agnir jyotir ahah suklah
san masa uttarayanam
tatra prayata gacchanti
brahma brahma—vido janah

Those who know the Supreme Brahman, breathe their last at the time of influence of Fire—god, in light, in an auspicious day, in the bright fortnight and during the six months period when the sun moves to the northern side of the equator.

TEXT 25

dhumo ratris tatha krsnah san—masa daksinayanam
tatra candramasam jyotir
yogi prapya nivartate

Karma—yogis who pass away during smoke, night, dark fortnight, the six months when the sun moves to the southern side of the equator, or attain the moon planet, again come to this world.

TEXT 26

sukla—krsne gati hy ete
jagatah sasvate mate
ekaya yaty anavrttim
anyayavartate punah

There are two eternal paths for passing away from this world. One is the path of light and the other is darkness. Those who pass away during the path of light are not liable to come back but those who pass away during the path of darkness are bound to return.

TEXT 27

naite srti partha janan
yogi muhyati kascana
tasmāt sarvesu kalesu
yoga—yukto bhavarjuna

O Partha, a devotee knowing these two eternal paths of light and darkness is never bewildered by the triple qualities of material nature. Therefore, O Arjuna, always follow the cult of unalloyed devotion.

TEXT 28

vedesu yajnesu tapahsu caiva
danesu yat punya—phalam pradistam atyeti tat sarvam idam viditva
yogi param sthanam upaiti cadyam

A pure devotee is not deprived of all the good results accruing from the study of the Vedas, the performance of sacrifices, austerities, giving charity and all other types of activities. Obtaining all those things through devotional service he attains the supreme blissful realm.

om tatsditi srīmad-bhagavad-gītasūpaniṣatsu
brahma-vidyayam yoga-sāstre śrī-kṛṣṇarjunasamvade taraka-brahma-yogo
namastamo 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Eight Chapter entitled, "Attaining the Supreme Lord" in the Upanishad of Śrīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER NINE

Raja-guhya-Yoga

The supreme secret knowledge

TEXT 1

sri-bhagavan uvaca
idam tu te guhyatamam
pravaksyamy anasuyave
jnanam vijnana-sahitam
yajjnatva moksyase 'subhat

The Supreme Lord said: O Arjuna, as you are free from malice, I will expound to you this profound secret knowledge and experience by understanding which you will be released from evil and cycle of births and deaths.

TEXT 2

raja-vidya raja-guhyam
pavitram idam uttamam
pratyaksavagamam dharmyam
su-sukham kartum avyayam

It is a royal science, a sovereign secret, a supreme purifier. It is perceived by direct experience, it is the perfection of religion, it is easy to practise and it is eternal and imperishable.

TEXT 3

asraddadhanah purusa
dharmasyasya parantapa
aprapya mam nivartante
mrtyu-samsara-vartmani

O Parantap(Arjuna), those who have no faith in Me, are unable to acquire the supreme knowledge of devotional service and hence are hurled into the vortex of birth and death in this material world.

TEXT 4

maya tatam idam sarvam
jagad avyakta–murtina
mat–sthani sarva–bhutani
na caham tesv avasthitah

The whole universe is pervaded by My unmanifested form. All beings exist in Me but I do not exist in them.

TEXT 5

na ca mat–sthani bhutani
pasya me yogam aisvaram
bhuta–bhrn na ca bhuta–stho
mamatma bhuta–bhavanah

And yet the beings do not really abide in Me. Behold, that is My divine mystery. My spirit which is the source of all beings sustains all things, but it does not abide in them.

TEXT 6

yathakasa–sthito nit yam
vayuh sarvatra–go mahan
tatha sarvani bhutani
mat–sthan ity upadhara ya

As air, which is all–pervading, ever exists in ether, similarly know that all beings exist in Me.

TEXT 7

sarva–bhutani kaunteya
prakrtim yanti mamikam
kalpa–ksaye punas tani
kalpadau visrjamy aham

O son of Kunti, every material manifestation enters into My nature at the end of the millennium and again I create them by My nature at the beginning of another millennium.

TEXT 8

prakrtim svam avastabhya
visrjami punah punah
bhuta—gramam imam krtsnam
avasam prakrter vasat

This material world is under My control. Therefore, it is manifested time and again by My will.

TEXT 9

na ca mam tani karmani
nibadhnanti dhananjaya
udasina—vad asinam
asaktam tesu karmasu

O Dhananjaya, those actions can not bind Me and I remain completely detached from those actions. But in reality I am not detached, I am always attached to eternal bliss.

TEXT 10

ma yadh yaksena prakrtih
su yate sa—caracaram
hetunanena kaunte ya
jagad viparivartate

O son of Kunti, the material nature produces all movable and immovable things in this world under My supervision. Thus, this manifestation comes into existence time and again.

TEXT 11

avajananti mam mudha
manusim tanum asritam
param bhavam ajananto
mama bhuta—mahesvaram

Foolish persons deride Me when I manifest Myself in a human form. They do not know that I am the Supreme Lord of the universe.

TEXT 12

moghasa mogha–karmano
mogha–jnana vicetasah
raksasim asurim caiva
prakrtim mohinim sritah

Those who are thus deluded, are attracted by demoniac and atheistic temperament. In that bewildered condition, their desire for liberation, fruitive action and to acquire knowledge are all defeated.

TEXT 13

mahatmanas tu mam partha
daivim prakrtim asritah
bhajanty ananya–manaso
jnatva bhutadim avyayam

O Partha, the great souls being protected by divine nature worship Me, as the primeaval and inexhaustible source of everything, with unalloyed devotion.

TEXT 14

satatam kirtayanto mam
yatantas ca drdha–vratah
namasyantas ca mam bhaktya
nit ya–yukta upasate

Those great devotees always chant My divine Name, Form, Qualities and Pastimes. They worship Me with great determination in order to become My eternal servant.

TEXT 15

jnana–yajnena capy an ye yajanto mam upasate
ekatvena prthaktvena
bahudha visvato–mukham

Others who are busy in acquiring knowledge, worship Me as the Supreme Lord, in different forms and as the Lord of the universe.

TEXT 16–19

aham kratu aham yajnah
svadhaham aham ausadham

mantra 'ham aham evajyam
aham agnir aham hutam

pitaham asya jagato
mata dhata pitamahah
vedyam pavitram omkara
rk sama yajur eva ca

gatir bharta prabhuh sakai
nivasah saranam suhrt
prabhavah pralayah sthanam
nidhanam bijam avyayam

tapamy aham aham varsam
nigrhnamy utsrjami ca
amrtam caiva mrtyus ca
sad asac caham arjuna

O Arjuna, I am the ritual, the sacrifice, the oblation, the medicine, the incantation, the ghee, the fire, the offering, the father of this universe, the mother, the supporter, and the grandfather; the knowable and the syllable 'Om', the Vedas viz., the Rig, the Sama and the Yajur; the highest goal of all, the sustainer, the master, the witness, the abode, the refuge, the friend, the creation, the annihilation, the cause of existence, the eternal seed; the heat in summer, the cold in winter, the rain in rainy season. I am the nectar, the death and the eternal truth. Such meditation is one type of worship of My universal form.

TEXT 20

traī-vidya mam soma-pah puta-papa
yajnair istva svar-gatim prarthayante te punyam asadya surendra-lokam
asnanti divyan divi deva-bhogan

Those who perform fruitive actions become purged of all sins, by study of the Vedas and by drinking soma-juice. Gradually they implore for heavenly planets by worshipping Me through sacrifices and after taking birth in the heaven, they enjoy celestial pleasures.

TEXT 21

te tam bhuktva svarga-lokam visalam
ksine punye martya-lokam visanti

evam trayi–dharmam anuprapanna gatagatam kama–kama labhante

After enjoying celestial pleasures in the heaven, they return to this material world on the expiry of their virtue. Thus, the fruitive workers being loyal to the vedic injunctions, are thrown to the cycle of birth and death.

TEXT 22

anan yas cintayanto mam
ye janah paryupasate
tesam nit yabhi yuktanam
yoga–ksemam vahamy aham

But those who accept the path of devotional service and meditate on Me, they offer Me everything devoid of any desire and steadfastly attached to Me. I fulfil their requirements and preserve what they possess.

TEXT 23

ye 'py anya–devata–bhakta
yajante sraddhayanvitah
te 'pi mam eva kaunteya
yajanty avidhi–purvakam

O son of Kunti, whatever one offers to the demigods, is actually meant for Me. But due to lack of proper knowledge he offers it to them, which is contrary to prescribed rules.

TEXT 24

aham hi sarva–yajnanam
bhokta ca prabhur eva ca na tu mam abhijananti tattvenatas cyavanti te

I am the sole enjoyer and Lord of all sacrifices. Those who are quite ignorant of My real transcendental nature, are bound to fall down.

TEXT 25

yanti deva–vrata devan
pitrn yanti pitr–vratah

bhutani yanti bhuteiya
yanti mad–yajino 'pi mam

The worshippers of demigods, of ancestors and of the ghosts and spirits take birth among them respectively; and My devotees attain Me.

TEXT 26

patram puspam phalam to yam yo me bhakt ya prayacchati tad aham bhakt y–upahrtam
asnami prayatatmanah

If a person offers Me even a leaf, a flower, a fruit or a drop of water with love, affection and devotion, I accept it.

TEXT 27

yat karosi yad asnasi
yajjuhosi dadasi yat
yat tapas yasi kaunteya
tat kurusva mad–arpanam

O son of Kunti, whatever you do, whatever you eat, whatever you sacrifice, whatever you donate and austerities that you perform, consecrate them all unto Me.

TEXT 28

subhasubha–phalair evam
moksya karma–bandhanaih
sann yasa–yoga–yuktatma
vimukto mam upaisyasi

O Arjuna, thus you will be freed from the good and evil impacts of fighting and by accepting this principle of renunciation you will be liberated and attain Me.

TEXT 29

samo ham sarva–bhutesu
na me dvesyo 'sti na priyah ye bhajanti tu mam bhakt ya
mayi te tesu capy aham

I behave equally and in an impartial manner to all living entities. I have neither enemy nor friend. But those who worship Me in devotion, they dwell in Me and I dwell in them. This is My distinctive principle.

TEXT 30

api cet su—duracaro bhajate mam ananya—bhak
sadhur eva sa mantavyah
samyag vyavasito hi sah

If a person is engaged in the devotional service of the Lord, even after committing the most heinous actions, he will be considered as a saint as he is properly situated.

TEXT 31

ksipram bhavati dharmatma
sasvac—chantim nigacchati kaunteya pratijanihi
na me bhaktah pranasyati

O son of Kunti, My devotee quickly becomes a righteous person and attains lasting peace. I proclaim it boldly that My devotee never perishes.

TEXT 32

mam hi partha vyapasrit ya
ye 'pi syuh papa—yonayah
striyo vaisyas tatha sudras
te 'pi yanti param gatim

O Partha, those who take absolute shelter in Me, though they be born of lower births women including the prostitutes, Vaisyas(Merchants) and Sudras(Lower class people), the untouchables attain the supreme destination. My devotees are not confined to a particular caste, creed, gender, colour, sect or community.

TEXT 33

kim punar brahmanah punya
bhakta rajarsayas tatha
anityam asukham lokam
imam prapya bhajasva mam

When the lowest class people become purged of all sins through devotional service, there is no doubt that the miseries of the pious Brahmins and Kshatriyas (Ruling/warrior class) will disappear quickly through devotional service.

TEXT 34

man–mana bhava mad–bhakto
mad–yaji mam namaskuru
mam evaisyasi yuktvaivam
atmamam mat–parayanah

O Arjuna, always think of Me, become My devotee, offer obeisances to Me and worship Me alone. Being totally absorbed in Me, you will definitely attain Me.

om tatsditi srimad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu
brahma–vidyayam yoga–sastre sri–krsnarjuna–
samvade raja–guhya–yogo
navamo 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Ninth Chapter entitled, "The Supreme Secret Knowledge" in the Upanisad of Srimad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER TEN

Vibhuti–Yoga

The opulence of the Supreme Lord

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca
bhuya eva maha–baho
srnu me paramam vacah
yat te 'ham priyamanaya
vaks yami hita–kamyaya

The Supreme Lord said: O mighty armed Arjuna, hear My Supreme words once again which I am now going to impart you for your betterment, as you are very dear to Me and it will give you immense pleasure.

TEXT 2

ne me viduh sura–ganah
prabhavam na maharsayah
aham adir hi devanam
maharsinam ca sarvasah

I am the source of all the demigods and the great sages. Therefore, they do not know My transcendental deeds which I perform in a human form in this material world.

TEXT 3

yo mam ajam anadim ca
vetti loka–mahesvaram
asammudhah sa martyesu
sarva–papaih pramucyate

He who knows Me as unborn, beginningless and the Supreme Lord of all planets, is freed from delusion and is purged of all sins.

TEXT 4–5

buddhir jnanam asammohah
ksama satyam damah samah
sukham duhkham bhavo 'bhavo bhayam cabhayam eva ca

ahimsa samata tustis
tapo danam yaso 'yasah
bhavanti bhava bhutanam
matta eva prthag–vidhah

Intelligence, knowledge, non–delusion, forgiveness, truth, control of internal and external senses, pleasure and pain, birth and death, fear and courage, non–violence, equality, contentment, austerity, charity, fame, infamy – all these diverse qualities of human beings are created by Me.

TEXT 6

maharsayah sapta purve
catvaro manavas tatha
mad–bhava manasajata
yesam loka imah prajah

The seven sages, the four Brahmacharis and the fourteen Manus are all born of Me. All living entities in these worlds descend from them.

TEXT 7

etam vibhutim yogam ca
mama yo vetti tattvatah
so vikalpena yogena
yujyate natra samsayah

There is no doubt that he who knows about My opulence and power, engages in devotional service.

TEXT 8

aham sarvasya prabhavo
mattah sarvam pravartate
iti matva bhajante mam
budha bhava–samanvitah

I am the fountain head of all spiritual and material worlds. Everything emanates from Me. The wise man who know it perfectly well, they engage in My devotional service and worship Me with love and with great attention.

TEXT 9

mac-citta mad-gata-prana bodhayantah parasparam
kathayantas ca mam nityam
tusyanti ca ramanti ca

With minds fixed on Me, with lives consecrated to Me, My pure devotees fully absorbed in Me, and they derive great pleasure enlightening one another and conversing on My glorious attributes and deeds.

TEXT 10

tesam satata-yuktanam
bhajatam priti-purvakam
dadami buddhi-yogam tam
yena mam upayanti te

Those who worship Me with love and devotion, I give them unadulterated love born of pure intelligence, which enables them to attain My blissful realm.

TEXT 11

tesam evanukampartham
aham ajnana-jam tamah
nasayamy atma-bhava-stho
jnana-dipena bhasvata

Out of My causeless mercy for them, I dwelling in their hearts, destroy their darkness born of ignorance, with the lamp of pure knowledge.

TEXT 12-13

arjuna uvaca
param brahma param dhama
pavitram paramam bhavan
purusam sasvatam divyam
adi-devam ajam vibhum

ahus tvam rsayah sarve
devarsir naradas tatha
asito devalo vyasah
svayam caiva bravisi me

Arjuna said: O Lord, all great sages such as Narada, Asita, Devala and Vyasa have all declared that you are the Supreme Brahman, the supreme abode, the Holiest, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, eternal divine person, unborn and sublime. Now You are declaring the same thing to me.

TEXT 14

sarvam etad rtam manye
yan mam vadasi kesava
na hi te bhagavan vyaktim
vidur deva na danavah

O Kesava, all that You narrated to me, I believe that as true. Neither the demigods nor the demons can know You or Your divine personality.

TEXT 15

svayam evatmanatmanam
vettha tvam purusottama
bhuta–bhavana bhutesa
deva–deva jagat–pate

O Purushottama, the source of all living beings, the Lord of all elements, the Lord of all lords, the Lord of the universe, You know Yourself through Your own potency.

TEXT 16

vaktum arhasy asesena
divya hy atma–vibhutayah
yabhir vibhutibhir lokan
imams tvam vyapya tisthasi

Only You are competent to describe about Your divine powers by which You pervade all these universes. Please tell me all this in detail.

TEXT 17

katham vidyam aham yogims
tvam sada paricintayan
kesu kesu ca bhavesu
cintyo 'si bhagavan maya

O Lord of yoga, how shall I know You by constant contemplation? What are you different aspects in which I am to meditate?

TEXT 18

vistarenatmano yogam
vibhutim ca janardana
bhuyah kathaya trptir hi
srnvato nasti me 'mrtam

O Janardana(Krishna), please tell me again in detail about Your mighty potency and glory. Hearing your glories my thirst for listening Your ambrosial words increases instead of being quenched.

TEXT 19

sri–bhagavan uvaca
hanta te kathayisyami
divya hy atma–vibhutayah
pradhanyatah kuru–srestha
nasty anto vistarasya me

The Supreme Lord said: O best of Kurus, My opulences are limitless. Out of them I will tell you some prominent divine extensions.

TEXT 20

aham atma gudakesa
sarva–bhutasaya–sthitah
aham adis ca madhyam ca
bhutanam anta eva ca

O Gudakesa(Arjuna), I am the soul – the indwelling guide of all living entities. I am the beginning, the middle and the end of al beings.

TEXT 21

adityanam aham visnur
jyotisam ravir amsuman
maricir marutam asmi
naksatranam aham sasi

Of the twelve Adityas, I am Vishnu; of the luminaries, I am the radiant Sun; of the Maruts, I am Marichi; and among the stars, I am the Moon.

TEXT 22

vedanam sama–vedo 'smi
devanam asmi vasavah
indriyanam manas casmi
bhutanam asmi cetana

Of the Vedas, I am the Sama Veda; of the gods, I am Indra; of all senses, I am the mind; and among the living beings, I am knowledge.

TEXT 23

rudranam sankaras casmi
vitteso yaksa–raksasam
vasunam pavakas casmi
meruh sikharinam aham

Of Rudras, I am Sankara(Siva); of the Yakshas and Rakshasas, I am Kubera (the lord of wealth); of the Vasus, I am pavaka (fire); and of the mountains, I am Sumeru.

TEXT 24

purodhasam ca mukhyam mam
viddhi partha brhaspatim
senaninam aham skandah
sarasam asmi sagarah

O Arjuna, of priests I am Bruhaspati; of generals, I am Kartikeya, the Lord of battle; and among the water bodies, I am the ocean.

TEXT 25

maharsinam bhrigur aham
giram asmy ekam aksaram
yajnanam japa–yajno 'smi

sthavaranam himalayah

Of great sages, I am Bhrugu; of all words, I am the syllable 'Om'; of sacrifices, I am the Japa Yajna or the Nama yajna(chanting of the holy names); of immovable things I am the Himalayas.

TEXT 26

asvatthah sarva-vrksanam
devarsinam ca naradah
gandharvanam citrarathah siddhanam kapilo munih

Of trees, I am the Aswattha; of sages and demigods, I am Narada; of Gandharvas, I am Chitraratha; and among enlightened persons, I am the sage Kapila.

TEXT 27

uccaihsravasam asvanam
viddhi mam amrtodbhavam
airavatam gajendranam
naranam ca naradhipam

Of horses, know Me to be Uchaishrava; of elephants, know Me as Airavata; I am the king among mankind.

TEXT 28

ayudhanam aham vajram
dhenunam asmi kamadhuk
prajanas casmi kandarpah
sarpanam asmi vasukih

Of weapons, I am the thunderbolt; of cows, I am the Kamadhenu; I am the Cupid, source of all creations; among serpents, I am Vasuki.

TEXT 29

anantas casmi naganam
varuno yadasam aham
pitnam aryama casmi
yamah samyamamatam aham

Of the Nagas, I am Ananta; among the aquatic creatures, I am Varuna; of ancestors, I am Aryama; and among the dispensers of justice, I am Yama, the Lord of death.

TEXT 30

prahladas casmi daityanam
kalah kalayatam aham
mrganam ca mrgendro 'ham
vainateyas ca paksinam

Of demons, know Me as the devoted Prahlada; of subduers, I am Time; of brutes, I am the forest king Lion; of birds, I am Garuda, the feathered carrier of Vishnu.

TEXT 31

pavanah pavatam asmi
ramah sastra–bhrtam aham
jhasanam makaras casmi
srotasam asmi jahnavi

Of purifiers, I am the wind; of armed warriors, I am Rama; of aquatic animals, I am Makara; and of rivers, I am the Ganges.

TEXT 32

sarganam adir antas ca
madhyam caivaham arjuna
adh yatma–vidya vidyanam
vadah pravadatam aham

O Arjuna, I am the beginning, the middle, and the end of all creations. Of all sciences, I am spiritual science or the self embodied knowledge; and of logicians I am the conclusive truth.

TEXT 33

aksaranam a–karo 'smi
dvandvah samasikasya ca
aham evaksayah kalo
dhataham visvato–mukhah

Of alphabets, I am the first vowel; of compound words, I am the dual–word; of the destructive agents, I am the Mahakala Rudra; and among creators, I am Brahma.

TEXT 34

mrtyuh sarva–haras caham
udbhavas ca bhavisyatam kirtih srir vak ca narinam
smrtir medha dhrtih ksama

I am the all–devouring death, I am the source of all that is to come. Among women, I am fame, beauty, speech, memory, intelligence, faithfulness and forbearance.

TEXT 35

brhat–sama tatha samnam
gayatri chandasam aham
masanam marga–sirso 'ham
rtunam kusumakarah

Of hymns, I am the great Sama; of meters, I am the Gayatri; of months, I am Margashira(corresponding to November and December); and among seasons, I am Spring season.

TEXT 36

dyutam chalayatam asmi
teias teiasvinam aham
jayo 'smi vyavasayo 'smi
sattvam sattvavatam aham

Among the cheats, I am the gambling; among the splendid, I am the splendor; among the enterprising people, I am victory and adventure; and I am the strength of the strong.

TEXT 37

vrsninam vasudevo 'smi
pandavanam dhananjayah
muninam apy aham vyasah
kavinam usana kavih

Among the Vrusnis, I am Vasudeva; among the Pandavas, I am Dhananjaya (Arjuna); of sages, I am Vyasa; and among the poets, I am Sukracharya (the preceptor of the demons).

TEXT 38

dando damayatam asmi
nitir asmijigisatam
maunam caivasmi guhyanam
jnanam jnanavatam aham

Of punishments, I am the rod of chastisement; I am principle among those who seek victory; I am silence among secret things; and knowledge among the wise.

TEXT 39

yac capi sarva–bhutanam
bijam tad aham ariuna
na tad asti vina yat syan
maya bhutam caracaram

O Arjuna, I am the seed of all things. Nothing moving or inert can exist without Me.

TEXT 40

nanto 'sti mama divyanam
vibhutinam parantapa
esa tuddesatah prokto
vibhuter vistaro maya

O Parantapa (Arjuna), there is no end to My divine manifestations. What I have told you is a mere indication of My infinite opulences.

TEXT 41

yad yad vibhutimat sattvam
srimad urjitam eva va
tat tad evavagaccha tvam
mama tejo–'msa–sambhavam

Know, O Arjuna, that all beautiful, glorious, sublime and mighty creations emanate from Me and are a spark of My divine splendour.

TEXT 42

atha va bahunaitena
kim jnatena tavarjuna
vistabhyaham idam krtsnam
ekamsena sthito jagat

But what need is there to know all these details, O Arjuna? I pervade and support the entire universe only with a single fragment of Myself.

om tatsditi srinad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu brahma–vidyayam yoga–sastre sri–krshnarjuna– samvade vibhuti–yogo
nama dasamo 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Tenth Chapter entitled, "The Opulence of the Supreme Lord" in the Upanisad of Srimad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Visva-rupa-darsana-Yoga

The universal form of the Supreme Lord

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
mad-anugrahaya paramam
guhyam adhyatma-samjnitam
yat tvayoktam vacas tena
moho 'yam vigato mama

Arjuna said: O Lord, now my delusion is dispelled by hearing Your most confidential transcendental advice, which You have delivered out of compassion for me.

TEXT 2

bhavapyayau hi bhutanam
srutau vistaraso maya tvattah kamala-patraksa
mahatmyam api cavyayam

O Lotus-eyed, I have heard from You in detail about the creation and destruction of all living entities and also regarding Your inexhaustible glories.

TEXT 3

evam etad yathattha tvam
atmanam paramesvara
drastum icchami te rupam
aisvaram purusottama

O Best of beings, O Supreme Lord, though I am seeing Your actual position, still then I wish to see how You have entered into this cosmic manifestation. I want to behold that Universal Form of You.

TEXT 4

manyase yadi tac chakyam
maya drastum iti prabho
yogesvara tato me tvam—
darsayatmanam avyayam

O my Lord, O Lord of all mystic power, if you think that I am fit to visualise that Universal Form, then kindly show me that divine form.

TEXT 5

sri—bhagavan uvaca
pasya me partha rupani
sataso 'tha sahasrasah
nana—vidhani divyani
nana—varnakrtini ca

The Supreme Lord said; O Partha, behold My opulences, in hundreds of thousands of different divine forms and also in different colours and shapes.

TEXT 6

pasyadityan vasun rudran
asvinau marutas tatha
bahuny adrsta—purvani
pasyascaryani bharata

O Bharata, see the twelve Adityas, the eight Vasus, the eleven Rudras, the twin Aswins and the forty nine Maruts along with something which no one has ever seen or heard before.

TEXT 7

ihaika—stham jagat krtsnam
pasyadya sa—caracaram mama dehe gudakesa
yac canyad drastum icchasi

The entire universe and whatever you want to behold, all are My opulences. Therefore, O Gudakesa, behold all those things in My body.

TEXT 8

na tu mam sakyase drastum
anenaiva sva-caksusa
divyam dadami te caksuh
pasya me yogam aisvaram

But you cannot behold My glorious form with your human eyes. Therefore, I give you divine vision by which you can behold My mystic opulence.

TEXT 9-11

sanjaya uvaca
evam uktva tato rajan
maha-yogesvaro harih
darsayam asa parthaya
paramam rupam aisvaram

aneka-vaktra-nayanam
anekadbhuta-darsanam
aneka-divyabharanam
divyanekodyatayudham

divya-malyambara-dharam
divya-gandhanulepanam
sarvascarya-mayam devam
anantam visvato-mukham

Sanjaya said: O king, saying thus, Hari, the Lord of Supreme Yoga displayed His Universal Form to Arjuna. That universal form was very wondrous, with many mouths and eyes, with many divine ornaments and with many divine weapons, decorated with divine garlands and garments and with sweet scented divine perfumes smeared all over His body, all wonderful, resplendent, unlimited and with faces all the world over.

TEXT 12

divi surya-sahasrasya
bhaved yugapad utthita
yadi bhah sadrsi sa syad
bhasas tasya mahatmanah

If hundreds of thousands of suns rise in the sky at once, they might slightly resemble the effulgence of that Mighty Form, Viswa-Rupa.

TEXT 13

tatraika—stham jagat krtsnam
pravibhaktam anekadha
apasyad deva—devasya
sarire pandavas tada

Arjuna beheld the unlimited universes although divided into many parts situated in one place in the body of the universal form of the Lord.

TEXT 14

tatah sa vismayavisto
hrsta—roma dhananjayah
pranamya sirasa devam
krtanjali abhasata

Then, Dhananjaya (Arjuna) became astonished and imotional, his hairs stood on end in ecstasy, offering obeisances to the Supreme Lord, he prayed the Lord with folded hands.

TEXT 15

arjuna uvaca
pasyami devams tava deva dehe
sarvams tatha bhuta-visesa-sanghan brahmanam isam kamalasana-stham
rsims ca sarvan uragams ca divyan

Arjuna said: O Lord, in Your divine body, I behold all the demigods, all living entities, the Lord Brahma seated on lotus flower, Lord Siva, all the sages and all the divine serpents.

TEXT 16

aneka-bahudara-vaktra-netram
pasyami tvam sarvato 'nanta-rupam nantam na madhyam na punas tavadim pasyami visvesvara visva-rupa

O Lord of the universe, O Viswa-Rupa (Universal Form), in Your divine body I behold innumerable arms, bellies, mouths and eyes. I find no beginning, middle or end to all this.

TEXT 17

kiritinam gadinam cakrinam ca
tejo-rasim sarvato diptimantam pasyami tvam durniriksyam samantad diptanalarka-dyutim aprameyam

Your All-pervading Divine Form adorned with crowns, mace and discs, is difficult to behold for its resplendent as the radiant sun.

TEXT 18

tvam aksaram paramam veditavyam
tvam asya visvasya param nidhanam
tvam avyayah sasvata-dharma-gopta sanatanas tvam puruso mato me

You are inexhaustible, the Supreme Being, worthy to be known, the best in all the universes; You are unchangeable, the maintainer of religion and the eternal personality of Godhead.

TEXT 19

anadi–madhyantam ananta–viryam
ananta–bahum sasi–surya–netram pasyami tvam diota–hutasa–vaktram
sva–tejasa visvam idam tapantam

You have no beginning, middle or end. There is no end to Your glories. You have countless arms and the sun and the moon are Your eyes. You are illuminating this entire universe by Your own effulgence.

TEXT 20

dyav a–prthivyor idam antaram hi
vyaptam tvayaikena disas ca sarvah drstvadbhutam rupam ugram tavedam
loka–trayam pravyathitam mahatman

The earth, the sky and the space in between are all pervaded by You alone. O Lord, I am seeing Your terrible and wonderful form. I see that all planets are perplexed.

TEXT 21

ami hi tvam sura–sangha visanti
kecid bhitah pranjalayo grnanti svastity uktva maharsi–siddha–sanghah
stuvanti tvam stutibhih puskalabhih

The demigods are entering in Your divine frame; some are praying You in fear with folded hands. The great sages are beholding You by singing doxologies.

TEXT 22

rudraditya vasavo ye ca sadhya
visve 'svinau marutas cosmapas ca gandharva–yaksasura–siddha–sangha
viksante tvam vismitas caiva sarve

The Rudras, the Adityas, the Vasus, the Sadhyas, the Viswadevas, the twin Aswinikumaras, the Maruts, the ancestors, the Gandharvas, the Yakshas, the demons and the siddhas – all are beholding You in wonder.

TEXT 23

rupam mahat te bahu–vaktra–netram
maha–baho bahu–bahuru–padam bahudaram bahu–damstra–karalam
drstva lokah pravyathitas tathaham

O Mighty–Armed, just like me, all the planets with their inhabitants are perturbed by beholding You with innumerable faces, eyes, arms, thighs, feet, bellies and the dreadful teeth.

TEXT 24

nabhah–sprsam diptam aneka–varnam
vyattananam dipta–visala–netram drstva hi tvam pravyathitantar–atma
dhrtim na vindami samam ca visno

O Lord Visnu, I am not getting peace and tranquillity by beholding You in this body which touches the sky, which is multicoloured, resplendent, with opened mouths and extensive eyes.

TEXT 25

damstra–karalani ca te mukhani
drstvaiva kalanala–sannibhani diso najane na labhe ca sarma
prasida devesa jagan–nivasa

I am bewildered by seeing Your deathlike faces with terrible teeth. I am losing equilibrium. O Lord, O refuge of the universe, please be merciful to me.

TEXT 26–27

ami ca tvam dhrtarastrasya putrah
sarve sahaivavani pala–sanghaih bhismo dronah suta–putras tathasau sahasmadiyair api yodha–mukhyaih

vaktrani te tvaramana visanti damstra–karalani bhayanakani
kecid vilagna dasanantaresu
sandrsyante curnitair uttamangaih

The sons of Dhrutarastra along with all the kings, Bhishma, Drona, Karna, and all the warriors on our side are rushing into Your mouths of terrible tooth. It is seen that some are smashed within the gaps of teeth for their heads crushed to powder.

TEXT 28

yatha nadinam bahavo 'mbu–vegah
samudram evabhimnukha dravanti
tatha tavami nara–loka–vira
visanti vaktrany abhivijvalanti

As the many torrents of rivers rush towards the ocean so do these heroes of the mortal world rush into Your flaming Mouths.

TEXT 29

yatha pradiptam jvalanam patanga
visanti nasaya samrddha–vegah tathaiva nasaya visanti lokas
tavapi vaktrani samrddha–vegah

As mouths rush swiftly into a blazing fire to perish there, so do these men rush into Your Mouths with tremendous speed to their own destruction.

TEXT 30

lelihyase grasamanah samantal
lokan samagran vadanair jvaladbhih tejobhir apuryajagat samagram
bhasas tavograh pratapanti visno

O Lord Vishnu, You are devouring all people from all directions through Your flaming mouths. You are manifested by covering all the universes with Your effulgence and terrible heat.

TEXT 31

akhyahi me ko bhavan ugra-rupo
namo 'stu te deva-vara prasida vijnatum icchami bhavantam adyam
na hi prajanami tava pravrttim

O Lord, tell me who are You with this terrible form? I offer my obeisances unto You, have mercy on me. I am not aware of Your nature, and I wish to know You.

TEXT 32

sri-bhagavan uvaca
kalo 'smi loka-ksaya-krt pravrdhho
lokan samahartum iha pravrttah rte 'pi tvam na bhavisyanti sarve
ye 'vasthitah pratyanyikesu yodhah

The Supreme Lord said: O Arjuna, I am time, that destroys the world and which is made manifest to destroy these enormous multitude of men. Except you (the Pandavas) all the warriors present here will be slain.

TEXT 33

tasmat tvam uttistha yaso labhasva
jitva satrun bhunksva rajyam samrddham mayaivaite nihatah purvam eva nimitta-matram bhava savya-sacin

Therefore, get up and prepare to fight, subdue your enemies and enjoy a flourishing kingdom. They have already been slain by Me. O Savyasachin (Arjuna), you are merely an instrument in this fight.

TEXT 34

dronam ca bhisam cajayadratham ca
karnam tathanyan api yodha-viran maya hatams tvam jahi ma vyathistha
yudhyasva jetasi rane sapatnan

Fearlessly kill Drona, Bhishma, Jayadratha, Karna and all other great warriors who have been doomed by Me. Just fight and you shall conquer your enemies in the battle.

TEXT 35

sanjaya uvaca
etac chrutva vacanam kesavasya
krtanjalir vepamanah kiriti namaskrtva bhuya evaha krsnam
sa-gadgadam bhita-bhitah pranamya

Sanjaya said: Having heard these words of Keshava (Krishna), Kiriti (Arjuna) trembled, folded his hands and prostrated himself, overwhelmed with fear, he then addressed Krishna again with a faltering voice.

TEXT 36

arjuna uvaca
sthane hrsikesa tava prakirtya
jagat prahrasyaty anurajyate ca
raksamsi bhitani diso dravanti sarve namasyanti ca siddha-sanghah

Arjuna said: O Hrusikesha, the world rightly rejoices in Your glory. The demons fly in all quarters in fear and the enlightened persons offer their obeisances to You. Everything is going on perfectly.

TEXT 37

kasmac ca te na nameran mahatman
gariyase brahmano 'py adi-kartre ananta devesa jagan-nivasa
tvam aksaram sad-asat tat param yat

O Lord, why should they not pay their homage to You, greater than Brahma's self, O limitless one, the God of all gods i.e. how could they act otherwise, O the primordial Cause, the Refuge of the universe, the Eternal, the Infallible, transcendental to this material manifestation.

TEXT 38

tvam adi-devah purusah puranas
tvam asya visvasya param nidhanam
vettasi vedyam ca param ca dhama
tvaya tatam visvam ananta-rupa

You are the primal personality, the most ancient Man, You are the Final Abode of all that lives, You are the Knower and the knowable, You are the Blissful Realm, O limitless Lord, You have pervaded this whole cosmic manifestation.

TEXT 39

vayur yamo 'gnir varunah sasankah prajapatis tvam prapitamahas ca
namo namas te 'stu sahasra-krtvah punas ca bhuyo 'pi namo namas te

You are air, Yama (God of death), fire, Varuna (God of water), Moon, Prajapati (Lord of creation), and Prapitamaha (Grand-grand sire—Brahma). Therefore, I offer my devoted obeisances unto You a thousand times also time and again.

TEXT 40

namah purastad atha prsthatas te namo 'stu te sarvata eva sarva ananta-viryamita-vikramas tvam sarvam samapnosi tato 'si sarvah

I prostrate, O Lord, from front, from behind, and from all sides to You. You are the most powerful. You are all pervading, hence You are everything.

TEXT 41–42

sakheti matva prasabham yad uktam
he krsna he yadava he sakheti
ajanata mahimanam tavedam
maya pramadat pranayena vapi

yac cavahasartham asat-krto 'si vihara-sayyasana-bh ojanesu
eko 'tha vapy acyuta tat-samaksam tat ksamaye tvam aham aprameyam

Being unaware of Your glories I have addressed You in the past as 'O Krishna', 'O Yadava', 'O my friend'. If due to madness or love for You, I showed irreverence to You at play, at rest, sitting and at meals, either alone or in the midst of friends, forgive me, O Lord, Thou Limitless.

TEXT 43

pitasi lokasya caracarasya
tvam asya pujyas ca gurur gariyan na tvat-samo 'sty abhyadhikah kuto 'nyo
loka-traye 'py apratima-prabhava

You are the father of this universe, movable and immovable, the worshipable and the spiritual master. There is none equal or superior to You. Your power is immeasurable in all the three worlds.

TEXT 44

tasmat pranamya pranidhaya kayam
prasadaye tvam aham isam idyam piteva putrasya sakheva sakhyuh
priyah priyayarhasi deva sodhum

In reality You are the Supreme Lord. I, therefore, offer my prostrated obeisances to You and implore Your mercy. Bless me as a father blesses his son, as a friend does his friend, and as a lover does his beloved.

TEXT 45

adrsta-purvam hrsito 'smi drstva bhayena ca pravyathitam mano me tad eva me darsaya deva rupam
prasida devesa jagan-nivasa

Here I saw Your Universal Form, which none had ever seen before. I am extremely happy, yet I am frightened out of fear. Hence, show me, O Lord, Your normal Form. Have mercy on me, O Lord of lords, O abode of the universe.

TEXT 46

kiritinam gadinam cakra-hastam
icchami tvam drastum aham tathaiva tenaiva rupena catur-bhujena
sahasra-baho bhava visva-murte

Now I wish to behold Your four-armed form as before, with crown on head, mace and disc in hands, (from which your Universal Form is made manifest in the cosmic region). O Thousand-Armed, O Universal Form, assume again Your four-armed Vasudeva form.

TEXT 47

sri-bhagavan uvaca
maya prasannena tavarionedam
rupam param darsitam atma-yogat tejo-mayam visvam anantam adyam
yan me tvad anyena na drsta-purvam

The Supreme Lord said: O Arjuna, you have seen this Superhuman Immanent Form made manifest in this mundane plane, by My internal potency. None has seen before you, this radiant, glorious and limitless form.

TEXT 48

na veda-yajnadhyayanair na danair
na ca kriyabhir na tapobhir ugraih evam-rupah sakya aham nr-loke
drastum tvad anyena kuru-pravira

O greatest warrior among the Kurus, no amount of study of the Vedas, sacrifices, charities, works or even severe austerities can enable one to behold this Universal Form of Mine. None before you has ever seen this universal form, which, only you have seen.

TEXT 49

ma te vyatha ma ca vimudha-bhavo drstva rupam ghoram idrn mamedam vyapeta-bhiih prita-manah punas tvam
tad eva me rupam idam prapasya

Don't be afraid of or perturbed at this terrible form. Be free from all fear and let your heart rejoice and see again My eternal normal form.

TEXT 50

sanjaya uvaca
ity arjunam vasudevas tathoktva
svakam rupam darsayam asa bhuyah asvasayam asa ca bhitam enam bhutva punah saumya-vapur mahatma

Sanjaya said: O King (Dhrutarashtra), having thus said to Arjuna, the Supreme Lord Vasudeva showed him first His four-armed human form and then He showed His two-armed human form (Krishna) to encourage the frightened Arjuna.

TEXT 51

arjuna uvaca
drstvedam manusam rupam
tava saumyam janardana
idanim asmi samvrttah
sa-cetah prakrtim gatah

Arjuna said: O Janardana (Krishna), beholding Your gentle human form my mind become balanced and I regained my original nature.

TEXT 52

sri-bhagavan uvaca
su-durdarsam idam rupam
drstavan asi yan mama
deva apy asya rupasya
nityam darsana-kanksinah

The Supreme Lord said: My eternal beautiful human form which you have seen is scarcely visible to anyone. Even the demigods like Brahma, Siva and others ever long for a glance of this beautiful human form.

TEXT 53

naham vedair na tapasa
na danena na cejyaya
sakya evam-vidho drastum
drstavan asi mam yatha

No amount of the study of the Vedas, performance of austerities, charities or sacrifices is of any avail in seeing this eternal beautiful human form of Mine, which You have seen.

TEXT 54

bhaktya tv ananyaya sakya
aham evam-vidho 'rjuna
jnatum drastum ca tattvena
pravestum ca parantapa

O Arjuna, O Parantapa, only by unalloyed devotional service one can perceive, observe and realise Me. Only true devotees can enter into My blissful realm.

TEXT 55

mat-karma-kṛn mat-paramo
mad-bhaktah sanga-varjitah
nirvairah sarva-bhutesu
yah sa mam eti pandava

O Pandava, he, who performs all actions for My sake, looks upon Me as the only supreme goal, cultivates unalloyed devotional service, avoids evil company by all means and is always compassionate to all living entities, attains to My Sri Krishna form.

om tatsditi śrīmad-bhagavad-gītasūpaniṣatsu
brahma-vidyayam yoga-sāstre śrī-kṛṣṇarjunasamvade viśva-rūpa-darsana-yogo namaikadaśo 'dhyāyah

Thus ends the Eleventh Chapter entitled, "The Universal Form of the Supreme Lord" in the Upaniṣad of Śrīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER TWELVE

Bhakti–Yoga

The principle of devotion

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
evam satata–yukta ye bhaktas tvam paryupasate
ye capy aksaram avyaktam
tesam ke yoga–vittamah

Arjuna inquired: O Lord, who among the Yogis, whether those who are engaged in Your devotional service or those who worship the unmanifested Brahman are the better?

TEXT 2

sri–bhagavan uvaca
mayy avesya mano ye mam
nitya–yukta upasate
sraddhaya parayopetas
te me yuktatama matah

The Supreme Lord said: Those who fix their minds on Me with great affection, being engaged in unalloyed devotional service, are the best of all yogis.

TEXT 3–4

ye tv aksaram anirdesyam
avyaktam paryupasate sarvatra–gam acintyam ca
kuta–stham acalam dhruvam

sanniyamyendriya–gramam
sarvatra sama–buddhayah

te prapnuvanti mam eva
sarva–bhuta–hite ratah

Those who worship Me as the impersonal Brahman, the unmanifest, the all–pervading, inconceivable, unchangeable, immovable and eternal one, keeping the senses under control, and being equally disposed to everyone, engaged in the welfare of all beings, no doubt achieve Me but with much difficulty.

TEXT 5

kleso 'dhikataras tesam
avyaktasakta–cetasam
avyakta hi gatih duhkham
dehavadbhir avapyate

Advancement is very difficult for them whose minds are attached to the unmanifested and impersonal Brahman. It is very difficult on the part of the embodied souls to make advancement in that process.

TEXT 6–7

ye tu sarvani karmani
mayi sannyasya mat–parah
ananyenaiva yogena
mam dhyayanta upasate

tesam aham samuddharta
mrtyu–samsara–sagarat
bhavami na cirat partha
mayy avesita–cetasam

Those who worship Me consecrating all their actions unto Me through the process of devotional service and meditate upon me without deviation, are in no time, O Partha, delivered by Me from the ocean of birth and death.

TEXT 8

mayy eva mana adhatva
mayi buddhim nivesaya nivasisyasi mayy eva
ata urdhvam na samsayah

Concentrate, then your mind on My eternal beautiful human form. Fix your pure intelligence in My service. Then, undoubtedly you will live in Me for all times.

TEXT 9

atha cittam samadhatum
na saknosi mayi sthiram
abhyasa-yogena tato
mam icchaptum dhananjaya

But if you, O Dhananjaya, cannot concentrate on Me without deviation, then practice the principles of Bhakti-yoga, by which you can develop a desire to attain Me.

TEXT 10

abhyase 'py asamartho 'si
mat-karma-paramo bhava mad-artham api karmani
kurvan siddhim avapsyasi

Even if you are unable to follow Bhakti-yoga, then dedicate all your actions to me because by working for the gratification of My senses you will certainly gain perfection.

TEXT 11

athaitad apy asakto 'si
kartum mad-yogam asritah
sarva-karma-phala-tyagam
tatah kuru yatatmavan

If you are unable to act in this consciousness, then try to give up all fruits of your actions and try to be self-situated.

TEXT 12

sreyo hijnanam abhyasaj
jnanad dhyanam visisyate
dhyanat karma-phala-tyagas
tyagac chantir anantaram

If you are unable to follow this practice, then try to acquire knowledge. Certainly meditation is better than knowledge, and renunciation of the fruits of action is better than meditation, because by such renunciation one attains peace.

TEXT 13–14

advesta sarva–bhutanam
maitrah karuna eva ca
nirmamo nirahankarah
sama–duhkha–sukhah ksami

santustah satatam yogi
yatatma drdha–niscayah
mayy arpita–mano–buddhir
yo mad–bhaktah sa me priyah

One who is free from malice, who is kind towards all living entities, who does not think himself a proprietor, who is free from false ego, who is equal in pleasure and pain, who is forbearing and forgiving, who is always content and engaged in devotional service with strong determination and whose mind and intelligence are attached to Me – he is very dear to Me.

TEXT 15

yasman nodvijate loko
lokan nodvijate ca yah
harsamarsa–bhayodvegair
mukto yah sa ca me priyah

One who does not put anybody in trouble and who is not disturbed by anxiety, who is equal in pleasure and pain, and who is free from wrath, fear and anxieties – he is very dear to Me.

TEXT 16

anapeksah sucir dakṣa
udasino gata–vyathah
sarvarambha–parityagi
yo mad–bhaktah sa me priyah

A devotee who is neutral, pure, efficient, indifferent, free from pain and who is not anxious for the fruits of his actions, is very dear to Me.

TEXT 17

yo na hrsyati na dvesti
na socati na kanksati

subhasubha–parityagi
bhaktiman yah sa me priyah

A devotee who neither becomes happy nor unhappy, who neither grieves nor desires anything, and who avoids auspicious and inauspicious things, is very dear to Me.

TEXT 18–19

samah satrau ca mitre ca
tatha manapamanayoh
sitosna–sukha–duhkhesu
samah sanga–vivarjitah

tulya–ninda–stutir mauni
santusto yena kenacit aniketah sthira–matir
bhaktiman me priyo narah

One who is equal to friends and foes, who is equipoised in honour and dishonour, heat and cold, pleasure and pain, who avoids evil company, who is indifferent to praise and blame, who is silent and always satisfied, who is not attached to home, who is fixed in knowledge and engaged in devotional service, is very dear to me.

TEXT 20

ye tu dharmamrtam idam
yathoktam paryupasate
sraddadhana mat–parama
bhaktas te 'tiva me priyah

Those who follow the path of devotional service with firm faith, by accepting Me as the Supreme goal, are very dear to Me.

om tatsditi srimad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu
brahma–vidyayam yoga–sastre sri–krsnarjuna–
samvade bhakti–yogo
nama dvadaso 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Twelfth Chapter entitled, "The Principle of Devotion" in the Upanisad of Srīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Prakṛti–Puruṣa–Viveka–Yoga

Nature, the Enjoyer and the Spirit

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
prakṛtim puruṣam caiva
kṣetram kṣetra–jñam eva ca
etaḍ veditum icchami
jñanam jñeyam ca keśava

Arjuna said: O Keshava, I wish to know about Prakṛti (nature), Puruṣa (the Enjoyer), Kṣetra (the field), Kṣetrajña (the Knower of the field), Jñana (Knowledge), and Jñeya (the object of knowledge).

TEXT 2

sri–bhagavan uvaca
idam sariram kaunteya
kṣetram ity abhidhiyate
etaḍ yo vetti tam prahuh
kṣetra–jña iti tad–vidah

The Supreme Lord said: O son of Kuntī, the human body is called the field and he who knows this truth, is called the knower of the field.

TEXT 3

kṣetra–jñam capi mam viddhi sarva–kṣetresu bharata
kṣetra–kṣetrajñayor jñanam
yat taj jñanam matam mama

O Bharata, know Me as the knower of the field in all the fields. True knowledge is that which relates to the field as well as to the knower thereof. This is My opinion.

TEXT 4

tat ksetram yac ca yadrk ca
yad–vikari yatas ca yat sa ca yo yat–prabhavas ca
tat samasena me srnu

What that field is, what it is like, how it is constituted, whence it is produced, and who that Knower of the field is and what His Power is – all these, O Arjuna, now hear from Me in brief.

TEXT 5

rsibhir bahudha gitam
chandobhir vividhaih prthak brahma–sutra–padais caiva
hetumadbhir viniscitaih

The principle of Kshetra has been described in diverse ways by various sages in various Vedic writings and established as conclusive truth with perfect reasoning in the Brahma–Sutras.

TEXT 6–7

maha–bhutany ahankaro
buddhir avyaktam eva ca
indriyani dasaikam ca
panca cendriya–gocarah

iccha dvesah sukham duhkham
sanghatas cetana dhrtih
etat ksetram samasena
sa–vikaram udahrtam

The five great elements, perverted ego, intelligence, the unmanifested, the ten organs of sense, mind and the five objects of senses, desire, hatred, pleasure, pain, the aggregate, consciousness and firmness – all these, in brief, are considered to be the field of activities and its interactions.

TEXT 8–12

amanitvam adambhitvam
ahimsa ksantir arjavam
acaryopasanam saucam
sthairyam atma–vinigraha

indriyarthesu vairagyam anahankara eva ca
janma–mrtyu jara–vyadhi–
duhkha–dosanudarsanam

asaktir anabhisvanga
putra–dara–grhadisu
nityam ca sama–cittatvam istanistopapattisu

mayi cananya–yogena
bhaktir avyabhicarini
vivikta–desa–sevitvam
aratir jana–samsadi

adhyatma–jnana–nityatvam
tattva–jnanartha–darsanam etajjnanam iti proktam
ajnanam yad ato 'nyatha

Humility, absence of arrogance, non–violence, forgiveness, simplicity, service to spiritual master, cleanliness, steadfastness, self–restraint, dispassion for sense objects, absence of egotism, perception of the evils of birth, death, decrepitude and diseases, non–attachment to children, wife, house and the rest, constant balance of mind at the approach of favourable and unfavourable events, unalloyed and constant devotion to Me, resort to a secluded place, detachment from general public, emphasis on knowledge of the self, and search for the Absolute Truth – all these are to be regarded as true knowledge and all else as ignorance.

TEXT 13

jneyam yat tat pravaksyami
yajjnatvamrtam asnute anadi mat–param brahma
na sat tan nasad ucyate

Now I tell you what is the principle of Jneya i.e., what ought to be known in full, knowing which a living entity can obtain immortal life. That knowable principle is without a beginning, is subject to Me, is Brahman and is said to be beyond the region of cause and effect of this material world.

TEXT 14

sarvatah pani–padam tat
sarvato 'ksi–siro–mukham
sarvatah srutimal loke
sarvam avrtya tisthati

Everywhere are His hands, legs, eyes and faces, and He exists in the universe encompassing all that exists.

TEXT 15

sarvendriya–gunabhasam
sarvendriya–vivariitam
asaktam sarva–bhrc caiva
nirgunam guna–bhoktr ca

The Super soul manifests all the functions of the senses, is devoid of all mundane sense ever detached, is the main support of the universe, is Nirguna (i.e. devoid of all mundane qualities), and is the Enjoyer of all the six Supreme Qualities. (Vide Swetaswatar Upanisad III, 19, Apanipado Javano Grahita, etc.)

TEXT 16

bahir antas ca bhutanam
acaram caram eva ca
suksmatvat tad avijneyam
dura–stham cantike ca tat

The Supreme Truth dwells both within and without all beings, is both movable and immovable, by reason of His subtlety, is unintelligible and is simultaneously far and near. (Vide Isopanisd, 'Tat Dure Tadantike' etc.).

TEXT 17

avibhaktam ca bhutesu
vibhaktam iva ca sthitam
bhuta–bhartr ca tajjneyam
grasisnu prabhavisnu ca

Though undivided, yet He exists in all living entities distributed. he is known as the Prop of all, and at the same time is the creator and destroyer of all that exists in the world.

TEXT 18

jyotisam api tajjyotis
tamasah param ucyate
jnanam jneyam jnana–gamyam
hrdi sarvasya vishthitam

He is the source of light of all luminous objects. He transcends all darkness. He is knowledge, He is the goal of knowledge, and He is the indweller in everyone's heart.

TEXT 19

iti ksetram tatha jnanam
jneyam cuktam samasatah
mad–bhakta etad vijnaya
mad–bhavayopapadyate

O Arjuna, I have summarily described the principles of Kshetra, Jnana, Jneya, and Jnanagamyā beginning with 'Anadi' and ending in 'Adhithitam'. This is known as Jnana based on Vijnana. My devotees attain Nirguna–Prema by means of this science.

TEXT 20

prakrtim purusam caiva
viddhy anadi ubhav api
vikarams ca gunams caiva
viddhi prakrti–sambhavan

O Arjuna, know that material nature and the living entities are both beginningless and know also that their perversions and qualities are alike born of material nature.

TEXT 21

karya–karana–karttve
hetuh prakrtir ucyate
purusah sukha–duhkhanam
bhoktve hetur ucyate

Nature is the source of all mundane causes and effects, while the living entity is the prime principle of experiencing pleasure and pain.

TEXT 22

purusah prakrti–stho hi
bhunkte prakrti–jan gunan karanam guna–sango 'sya sad–asad–yoni–janmasu

A living entity enthralled in material nature enjoys the triple qualities born of nature. Attachment for those qualities is the cause of all his good and evil births.

TEXT 23

upadrastanumanta ca
bharta bhokta mahesvarah
paramatmeti capy ukto
dehe 'smin purusah parah

Krishna as Paramatman is the Knower, Monitor, Enjoyer etc. of our hearts. The Parama–Purusa or the Supreme self that dwells in this body is known as the Indwelling Monitor, the Looker–on, the Knower, Supporter, the Enjoyer and the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 24

ya evam vetti purusam
prakrtim ca gunaih saha
sarvatha vartamano 'pi
na sa bhuyo 'bhijayate

He who is thus conversant with the knowledge of the principle of the living entity and material nature with her qualities, shall never be born again, in whatever circumstances he may be placed in this world.

TEXT 25

dhyananatmani pasyanti
kecid atmanam atmana
anye sankhyena yogena
karma–yogena capare

Some behold the Supersoul with the help of harmonised intelligence, others find Him by practising Sankhya–Yoga and others by the Yoga of action.

TEXT 26

anye tv evam ajanantah
srutvanyebhya upasate
te 'pi catitaranty eva mrtyum sruti–parayanah

Others, who, being ignorant of this transcendental knowledge, worship the Supreme Lord by hearing of Him from others, can cross over the region of death by adhering to what they have heard.

TEXT 27

yavat sanjayate kincit
sattvam sthavara–jangamam
ksetra–ksetrajna–samyogat
tad viddhi bharatarsabha

Know thou, O chief of the Bharatas, that the whole creation, movable or immovable, results from the combination of both Purusa and Prakruti, i.e. the field of activities and the knower of the field.

TEXT 28

samam sarvesu bhutesu
tisthantam paramesvaram
vinasyatsv avinasyantam
yah pasyati sa pasyati

He who knows the Supreme Lord, Paramatman as seated alike in all things that be, and as ever–existing in all things that are liable to perish is a seer, i.e. a jnani who knows the transcendental truth.

TEXT 29

samam pasyan hi sarvatra
samavasthitam isvaram
na hinasty atmanatmanam
tato yati param gatim

He who actually realises that the Supreme Lord dwells everywhere in all things alike, does not degrade himself by his mind. On the contrary, he approaches the transcendental destination.

TEXT 30

prakṛtyaiva ca karmani
kriyamanani sarvasah
yah paśyati tathatmanam
akartaram sa paśyati

He is a real knower, who deems himself as non-doer or unconcerned in his actions and realises that it is Prakṛiti that performs all actions.

TEXT 31

yada bhūta-prthag-bhavam
eka-stham anupaśyati
tata eva ca viśtaram
brahma sampadyate tada

He reaches the Supreme Goal Brahman who does really perceive that all living entities have their roots in nature and that from that nature have proceeded all the emanations of the world.

TEXT 32

anaditvan nirgunatvat
paramatmayam avyayah
sarira-stho 'pi kaunteya
na karoti na lipyate

Paramatma—Iswara who is without a beginning, and devoid of all mundane qualities, is imperishable, does nothing and is not affected by anything, though seated in the human heart.

TEXT 33

yatha sarva-gatam sauksmyad
akasaṁ nopaliṣyate
sarvatra va sthito dehe
tathatma nopaliṣyate

Just as ether, though all-pervasive, is not affected due to its subtle nature, so also seated everywhere in the human body, a Jiva (soul) is not affected by the triple qualities of material nature.

TEXT 34

yatha prakasayaty ekah
krtsnam lokam imam ravih
ksetram ksetri tatha krtsnam
prakasayati bharata

Just as the sun's light illumines the whole world so does, O son of Bharata, the living entity, one within the body, illuminate the whole body by consciousness.

TEXT 35

ksetra–ksetrajnayor evam
antaram jnana–caksusa
bhuta–prakrti–moksam ca
ye vidur yanti te param

Those who visualize this difference between the body and the owner of the body and can understand the process of liberation from this bondage, will certainly attain the Lotus Feet of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna in His Blissful Abode.

om tatsditi srimad–bhagavad–gitasupanisatsu
brahma–vidyayam yoga–sastre sri–krsnarjuna–
samvade prakrti–purusa–viveka–yogo
nama trayodaso 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Thirteenth Chapter entitled, "Nature, the Enjoyer and the Spirit" in the Upanisad of Srīmad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Gunatraya–vibhaga–Yoga

Triple qualities of material nature

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca
param bhuyah pravaksyami
jnananam jnanam uttamam
yaj jnatva munayah sarve
param siddhimn ito gatah

The Supreme Lord said: Now I shall again tell you about the best of all knowledge, knowing which the sages have attained supreme perfection.

TEXT 2

idam jnanam upasritya
mama sadharmyam agatah
sarge 'pi nopajayante
pralaye na vyathanti ca

Being firm in that supreme knowledge, the devotees attain the transcendental stage like that of Me. They are no longer born on earth, nor are they perturbed by the final cataclysm.

TEXT 3

mama yonir mahad brahma
tasmin garbham dadhamy aham
sam bhavah sarva–bhutanam
tato bhavati bharata

The material nature called the great Brahman is the womb in which I impregnate the seed of all and thence, O scion of Bharata, is the birth of all living beings.

TEXT 4

sarva–yonisu kaunteya
murtayah sambhavanti yah
tasam brahma mahad yonir
aham biia–pradah pita

In whatever womb they are born, O son of Kunti, material nature is their real womb, and being the impregnator of seed in the material nature, I am the father of all.

TEXT 5

sattvam rajas tama iti
gunah prakrti–sambhavah
nibadhnanti maha–baho
dehe dehinam avyayam

Goodness, passion and ignorance are the triple qualities of material nature. When the living entity comes in contact with this material nature, he becomes entangled by these qualities.

TEXT 6

tatra sattvam nirmalatvat
prakasakam anamayam
sukha–sangena badhnati
jnana–sangena canagha

O sinless Arjuna, out of these three qualities, goodness owing to its purity is illuminating and harmless. Hence it binds a living entity with attachment for mundane knowledge and happiness.

TEXT 7

rajo ragatmakam viddhi
trsna–sanga–samudbhavam
tan nibadhnati kaunteya
karma–sangena dehinam

O son of Kunti, passion emanates from unlimited desires and longings, and that's why a living entity becomes entangled t the fruitive actions of material nature.

TEXT 8

tamas tv ajnana—jam viddhi mohanam sarva—dehinam
pramadalasya—nidrabhis
tan nibadhnati bharata

The mode of ignorance (Tamo—guna) causes infatuation in all living entities. It binds the living entity, O son of Bharata, with madness, indolence and sleep.

TEXT 9

sattvam sukhe sanjayati
rajah karmani bharata
jnanam avrtya tu tamah
pramade sanjayaty uta

The mode of goodness binds the living entity to attachment for happiness, passion binds him to the fruits of action, and ignorance binds him to madness, O scion of Bharata.

TEXT 10

rajas tamas cabhibhuya
sattvam bhavati bharata rajah sattvam tamas caiva
tamah sattvam rajas tatha

O son of Bharata, sometimes the mode of goodness (Satwa—guna) prevails over the mode of passion and ignorance. Sometimes passion predominates over the mode of goodness and ignorance, and sometimes the mode of ignorance becomes prominent by defeating the mode of goodness and passion. This is the relationship with these three qualities and they always compete with each other for supremacy.

TEXT 11

sarva—dvaresu dehe 'smin
prakasa upajayate
jnanam yada tada vidyad
vivrdham sattvam ity uta

Increase of the mode of goodness is noticed when all the sense—organs of the body are enlightened by knowledge.

TEXT 12

lobhah pravrttir arambhah
karmanam asamah sprha
rajasy etanijayante
viv addeddhe bharatarsabha

O chief of the Bharatas, increase in the mode of passion is noticeable from the symptoms of greed, unlimited desire and intense endeavour.

TEXT 13

aprakaso 'pravrttis ca
pramado moha eva ca
tamasy etanijayante
viv addeddhe kuru–nandana

O son of Kuru, increase in the mode of ignorance can be noticeable from darkness, inertia, delusion and madness.

TEXT 14

yada sattve prav addeddhe tu
pralayam yati deha–bhrt
tadottama–vidam lokan
amalan pratipadyate

If one passes away in the mode of goodness, he attains to the blissful realm of the great sages.

TEXT 15

rajasi pralayam gatva
karma–sangisu jayate
tatha pralinas tamasi
mudha–yonisu jayate

If anybody dies in the mode of passion, he takes birth among those who are engaged in fruitive action. But if he dies in the mode of ignorance, he takes birth among the animals.

TEXT 16

karmanah sukrtasyahuh
sattvikam nirmalam phalam

rajasas tu phalam duhkham
ajnanam tamasah phalam

One becomes pure if he acts in the mode of goodness. Grief is the ultimate result of the mode of passion and foolishness is the result of the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 17

sattvat sanjayate jnanam
rajaso lobha eva ca
pramada–mohau tamaso
bhavato 'jnanam eva ca

Knowledge emanates from the mode of goodness, greed develops from the mode of passion and madness, delusion and foolishness are born of the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 18

urdhvam gacchanti sattva–stha
madhye tisthanti rajasah jaghanya–guna–vrtti stha
adho gacchanti tamasah

Those who dwell in the mode of goodness rise upto Satyaloka, those in the mode of passion stay in the middle planets, and those in the mode of ignorance are doomed to hell.

TEXT 19

nanyam gunebhyah kartaram
yada drastanupasyati
gunebhyas ca param vetti
mad–bhavam so 'dhigacchati

When the seer finds nothing other than the triple qualities of material nature in all activities and the Supreme Lord is above all these qualities, then he can know My transcendental nature.

TEXT 20

gunan etan atitya trin
dehi deha–samudbhavan
janma–mrtyu jara–dukkhair
vimukto 'mrtam asnute

When the living entity embodied in human frame transcends these triple qualities of material nature, he is released from birth, death, decrepitude, diseases and other sorts of sufferings, and he enjoys nectar even in this birth.

TEXT 21

arjuna uvaca
kair lingais trin gunan etan
atito bhavati prabho kim acarah katham caitams
trin gunan ativartate

Arjuna inquired: O Lord, what are his characteristic features, who has transcended the triple qualities? How does he behave and how does he get rid of these triple qualities?

TEXT 22

sri-bhagavan uvaca
prakasam ca pravrttim ca
moham eva ca pandava
na dvesti sampravrttani
na nivrttani kanksati

The Supreme Lord said: O son of Pandu, he is said to transcend the triple qualities who does not hate illumination, attachment and ignorance, when they appear; nor hankers after them, when they disappear.

TEXT 23

udasina-vad asino
gunair yo na vicalyate
guna vartanta ity evam
yo 'vatisthati nengate

One is said to transcend the triple qualities of material nature, who remains indifferent and unconcerned, knowing that only these three qualities are at work.

TEXT 24

sama-duhkha-sukhah sva-sthah
sama-lostasma-kancanah
tulya-priyapriyo dhiras
tulya-nindatma-samstutih

He is undisturbed in pleasure and pain, he looks with equal eye upon clod, stone and gold, and being equipoised in his spiritual essence, he remains calm in praise and blame.

TEXT 25

manapamanayos tulyas
tulyo mitrari-paksayoh
sarvarambha-parityagi
gunatitah sa ucyate

He is said to transcend the triple qualities of material nature who looks upon honour and dishonour, friend and foe alike. He has abandoned all fruitive activities.

TEXT 26

mam ca yo 'vyabhicarena
bhakti-yogena sevate
sa gunan samatityaitan
brahma-bhuyaya kalpate

He who is engaged in unflinching devotional service to Me, overcomes these three qualities of material nature and comes to the level of Brahman.

TEXT 27

brahmano hi pratisthaham
amrtasyavyayasya ca
sasvatasya ca dharmasya
sukhasyaikantikasya ca

I am the Mainstay of Brahman, which is the final state of everlasting happiness, and which is immortal, infallible and eternal.

om tatsditi srimad-bhagavad-gitasupanisatsu
brahma-vidyayam yoga-sastre sri-krsnarjuna-samvade gunatraya-vibhaga-yogo
nama caturdaso 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Fourteenth Chapter entitled, "Triple Qualities of Material Nature" in the Upanisad of Srīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Krishna and Arjuna.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Purusottama–Yoga

The Yoga of the Supreme Person

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca
urdhva–mulam adhah–sakham
asvattham prahur avyayam
chandamsi yasya parnani
yas tam veda sa veda–vit

The Supreme Lord said: There is a banyan tree with roots upward and branches down and its leaves are Vedic incantations. One who knows this tree is the knower of the Vedas.

TEXT 2

adhas cordhvam prasrtas tasya sakha
guna–pravrdha visaya–pravalah
adhas ca mulany anusantatani karmanubandhini manusya–loke

Being nurtured by the triple qualities of material nature the branches of this tree are spread upwards and downwards. Sense objects are its twigs. Some roots of this tree are extended downwards and these are bound to the fruitive actions.

TEXT 3

na rupam asyeha tathopalabhyate
nanto na cadir na ca sampratistha asvattham enam su–virudha–mulam
asanga–sastrena drdhena chittva

The real for of this tree is very difficult to perceive in this world. It has no beginning, no end and no support. This deep-rooted tree should be cut down by the sharp weapon of detachment.

TEXT 4

tatah padam tat parimargitavyam
yasmin gata na nivartanti bhuyah tam eva cadyam purusam prapadye
yatah pravrttih prasrta purani

So, one should search for the Absolute Truth, having realised Whom people do not return back to this world. One should surrender himself to the Supreme Lord there, who is the source of everything and since time immemorial all are abiding in Him.

TEXT 5

nirmana-mohajita-sanga-dosa
adhyatma-nitya vinivrtta-kamah
dvandvair vimuktah sukha-duhkha-samjnair
gacchanty amudhah padam avyayam tat

That eternal state of bliss is attained by those who are free from false prestige, illusion and false association, who have conquered attachment for fruits of actions, who are purged of all desires and are unaffected by the dualities of pleasure and pain.

TEXT 6

na tad bhasayate suryo
na sasanko na pavakah
yad gatva na nivartante
tad dhama paramam mama

Neither the sun nor the moon, nor the fire can illuminate that Blissful Abode of Mine. One who attains My abode never returns to this mundane planet.

TEXT 7

mamaivamso jiva-loke
jiva-bhutah sanatanah
manah-sasthanindriyani
prakrti sthani karsati

In this material world all living entities are My eternal fragmental parts. Due to their entanglement, they are struggling hard with the six senses including the mind.

TEXT 8

sariram yad avapnoti
yac capy utkramatisvarah
grh itvaitani sam yati
vayur gandhan ivasayat

When the living entity gets into another body he carries with him the senses and their desires, as the air carries fragrance from the flowers.

TEXT 9

srotram caksuh sparsanam ca
rasanam ghranam eva ca
adhisthaya manas cayam
visayan upasevate

The living entity, after getting another body, enjoys the sense objects with the help of the ear, eye, tongue, nose, sense of touch and the mind.

TEXT 10

utkramantam sthitam vapi
bhunjanam va gunanvitam
vimudha nanupasyanti
pasyantijnana—caksusah

The deluded cannot perceive this living entity leaving a body, or dwelling in one, or enjoying with the aim of the senses or swayed away by the triple qualities; but the wise can perceive him with the eye of pure knowledge.

TEXT 11

yatanto yoginas cainam
pasyanty atmany avasthitam
yatanto 'py akrtatmano
nainam pasyanty acetasah

The enlightened transcendentalists can clearly perceive this plight through their endeavour but those who are not situated in self–realisation state cannot perceive it, though they strive hard.

TEXT 12

yad aditya–gatam tejo
jagad bhasayate 'khilam
yac candramasi yac cagnau
tat tejo viddhi mamakam

The splendor of the sun which illumines the whole world, the grandeur of the moon and that of fire, comes from Me.

TEXT 13

gam avisya ca bhutani
dharayamy aham ojasa
pusnami causadhih sarvah
somo bhutva rasatmakah

I am the Supporter of all living entities on earth by infusing My sovereign strength into the soil, and having become sapful moon, I nourish all the planets, crops and vegetables.

TEXT 14

aham vaisvanaro bhutva
praninam deham asritah
pranapana–samayuktah
pacamy annam catur–vidham

Transformed into the fire of life, I enter into the body of all living entities and with the help of the vital airs, I digest the fourfold food.

TEXT 15

sarvasya caham hrđi sannivisto
mattah smrtirjnanam apohanam ca vedais ca sarvair aham eva vedyo vedanta–krd veda–vid eva caham

I am seated in the hearts of everyone. memory, knowledge and forgetfulness emanate from Me. I am the one to be known in the Vedas, indeed I am the Author of Vedanta and the knower of it as well.

TEXT 16

dvav imau purusau loke
ksaras caksara eva ca
ksarah sarvani bhutani
kuta–stho 'ksara ucyate

There are two types of living entities in the world. One is fallible (Kshara) and the other is infallible(Akshara). All living entities of this material world are fallible and all living entities of the spiritual world are infallible.

TEXT 17

uttamah purusas tv anyah
paramatmety udahrtah yo loka–trayam avisya
bibharty avyaya isvarah

Besides these two types of living entities, there is the Supreme Lord. He is maintaining all the worlds being present in the,.

TEXT 18

yasmat ksaram atito 'ham
aksarad api cottamah
ato 'mi loke vede ca
prathitah purusottamah

As I am situated above both the fallible and infallible and as I am the greatest, I am famous as the Supreme Lord both in the material world and in the Vedas.

TEXT 19

yo mam evam asammudho
janati purusottamam
sa sarva–vid bhajati mam
sarva–bhavena bharata

Being free from delusion, he who knows Me as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, knows everything. O scion of Bharata, he, therefore, engages himself in My devotional service, whole heartedly.

TEXT 20

iti guhyatamam sastram
idam uktam mayanagha
etad buddhva buddhimnan syat
krta-kṛtyas ca bharata

O guileless one, I have revealed this most secret truth of the Vedic scriptures. One becomes at once illumined and blessed, when he fully understands this.

om tatsditi śrīmad-bhagavad-gītāsūpāniṣatsu
brahma-vidyāyāṁ yoga-sāstre śrī-kṛṣṇārjuna-
sāmvade puruṣottama-yogo
nāma pañcadaso 'dhyāyāḥ

Thus ends the Fifteenth Chapter entitled, "The Yoga of the Supreme Person" in the Upaniṣad of Śrīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scriptures of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

Daivasura–sampad–vibhaga–Yoga

Godly and demoniac qualities

TEXT 1–3

sri–bhagavan uvaca
abhayam sattva–samsuddhir
jnana–yoga–vyavasthitih
danam damas ca yajnas ca
svadhyayas tapa arjavam

ahimsa satyam akrodhas
tyagah santir apaisunam
daya bhutesv aloluptvam
mardavam hrir acapalam

tejah ksama dhrtih saucam
adroho nati–manita
bhavanti sampadam daivim
abhijatasya bharata

The Supreme Lord said: Fearlessness, purity of heart, spiritual knowledge, charity, sense control, sacrifice, austerity, study of the Vedas, simplicity, nonviolence, truthfulness, absence of anger, non–attachment to mundane relations, tranquility, magnanimity, kindness to animals, absence of avarice, mildness, bashfulness, steadfastness, forgiveness, vigour, forbearance, sanctity, compassion and humility – O Bharata, a man born in an auspicious moment is endowed with these godly qualities.

TEXT 4

dambho darpo 'bhimanas ca
krodhah parusyam eva ca
ajnanam cabhijatasya
partha sampadam asurim

O son of Prutha, Men born in an inauspicious moment have arrogance, pride, egotism, wrath, cruelty and ignorance. These are called demoniac qualities.

TEXT 5

daivi sampad vimoksaya
nibandhayasuri mata
ma sucah sampadam daivim
abhijato 'si pandava

The godly qualities are considered as leading to salvation while the demoniac qualities lead to worldly bondage. O Arjuna, you are born with godly qualities, therefore, do not mourn.

TEXT 6

dvau bhuta—sargau loke 'smin
daiva asura eva ca
daivo vistarasah prokta
asuram partha me srnu

O Partha, there are two kinds of creations in this world. One is godly and the other is demoniac. I have explained you in detail about the godly qualities. Now hear from Me about the demoniac qualities.

TEXT 7

pravrttim ca nivrttim ca
jana na vidur asurah
na saucam napi cacaro
na satyam tesu vidyate

The demoniac persons do not know what should be done and what should not be done. They have neither cleanliness nor good behaviour nor truthfulness.

TEXT 8

asatyam apratistham te jagad ahur anisvaram
aparaspara—sambhutam
kim anyat kama—haitukam

The demoniac characters say that this world is unreal, baseless and there is no controlling Lord. It is produced from lust only and except lust there is no other reason behind it.

TEXT 9

etam drstim avastabhya
nastatmano 'lpa–buddhayah
prabhavanty ugra–karmanah
ksayaya jagato 'hitah

With such mentality, the demoniac, who have little intelligence and violent temper, live only for the destruction of the world.

TEXT 10

kamam asritya duspuram
dambha–mana–madanvitah
mohad grhitvasad–grahan
pravartante 'suci–vratah

Actuated by insatiable lust, these arrogant, boastful and self–assertive persons are engaged in heinous activities and due to their bewilderment they are attracted towards transient objects.

TEXT 11–12

cintam aparimeyam ca
pralayantam upasritah
kamopabhoga–parama
etavad iti niscitah

asa–pasa–satair baddhah
kama–krodha–parayanah
ihante kama–bhogartham
anyayenartha–sancayan

They believe that sense gratification is the prime necessity of human society till its end. There is no limit to their speculation. Being bound by hundreds and thousands of desires, lust and wrath, they accumulate money by illegal means for their sense gratification.

TEXT 13

idam adya maya labdham
imam prapsye manoratham
idam astidam api me
bhavisyati punar dhanam

They think that I have accumulated this wealth now and my hopes are fulfilled. I have this wealth and I shall get more in the future.

TEXT 14

asau maya hatah satrur
hanisye caparan api isvaro 'ham aham bhogi
siddho 'ham balavan sukhi

I have killed this enemy, others shall be killed soon, I am the lord, I am the enjoyer, I am perfect, strong and happy.

TEXT 15

adhyo 'bhijanavan asmi
ko 'nyo 'ti sadrso maya yaksye dasyami modisya
ity ajnana–vimohitah

I am the richest, I have many followers; who is as great as I? I shall perform the sacrifice, I shall offer charity and I shall enjoy. Such are the sayings of persons who are deluded by ignorance.

TEXT 16

aneka–citta–vibhranta
moha–jala–samavrtah
prasaktah kama–bhogesu
patanti narake 'sucrau

Addicted to sense gratification, they – within their minds distracted and enthralled by the shackles of allurements – are doomed to perdition.

TEXT 17

atma–sambhavitah stabdha
dhana–mana–madanvitah

yajante nama–yajnais te dambhenavidhi–purvakam

Self–glorified, insolent, illusioned by wealth and false prestige, they pompously perform sacrifices only in name, without conforming to scriptural injunctions.

TEXT 18

ahankaram balam darpam
kamam krodham ca samsritah mam atma–para–dehesu
pradvisanto 'bhyasuyakah

Deluded by false prestige, proud of their strenght and enslaved by lust and wrath, they are malicious against Me, the Supreme Lord, dwelling in their hearts of them as well as of others, and envy the saints.

TEXT 19

tan aham dvisatah kruran
samsaresu naradhaman
ksioamy ajasram asubhan
asurisv eva yonisu

Those who are envious, cruel and worsened human beings are always thrown by Me into the most ominous and abject devilish births in this world.

TEXT 20

asurim yonim apanna
mudha janmani janmani
mam aprapyaiva kaunteya
tato yanty adhamam gatim

Born in ignominious rank, these persons are quite incompetent to attain Me, and are destined to lower births.

TEXT 21

tri–vidham narakasyedam
dvaram nasanam atmanah
kamah krodhas tatha lobhas
tasmad etat trayam tyajet

There are three fatal doors leading to hell, viz.(i) lust, (ii) wrath, and (iii) greed. Therefore, every sane person should abandon these three, as they lead to the degradation of the soul.

TEXT 22

etair vimuktah kaunteya
tamo—dvarais tribhir narah
acaraty atmanah sreyas
tato yati param gatim

O son of Kunti, delivered from these three gates of hell, a man searches after his own eternal good and he will gradually attain eternal bliss, the supreme destination.

TEXT 23

yah sastra—vidhim utsrjya
vartate kama—karatah
na sa siddhim avapnoti
na sukham na param gatim

A person who does not follow the scriptural injunctions and acts according to his own will, he cannot attain perfection or happiness.

TEXT 24

tasmac chastram pramanam te karyakarya—vyavasthitau
jnatva sastra—vidhanoktam
karma kartum iharhasi

Hence, scriptures are the guiding principles of duty and non-duty. Knowing devotional service to the Supreme Lord to be the purport of all scriptures, you should lead an active devotional life.

om tatsditi srimad—bhagavad—gitasupanisatsu
brahma vidyayam yoga—sastre sri—krsnarjuna—
samvade daivasura—sampad—vibhaga—yogo
nama sodaso 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Sixteenth Chapter entitled, "Godly and Demonic Qualities" in the Upanisad of Srīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Sraddhatraya–vibhaga–Yoga

Division of threefold faiths

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
ye sastra–vidhim utsrjya
yajante sraddhayanvitah
tesam nistha tu ka krsna
sattvam aho rajas tamah

Arjuna said: O Krishna, what is the situation of those who transgress the laws of scriptures but worship according to their own will? Are they in goodness, in passion or in ignorance?

TEXT 2

sri–bhagavan uvaca
tri–vidha bhavati sraddha
dehinam sa svabhava–ja
sattviki rajasi caiva
tamasi ceti tam srnu

The Supreme Lord said: There are three kinds of faith according to the nature of the living entity. These are goodness(Satwika), passion(Rajasa), and ignorance(Tamas). Now listen in detail about these faiths.

TEXT 3

sattvanurupa sarvasya
sraddha bhavati bharata
sraddha–mayo 'yam puruso yo yac–chraddhah sa eva sah

O Bharat, the faith of all living entities are according to their nature. Every living entity has some kind of faith. A person is determined by the kind of faith he has.

TEXT 4

yajante sattvika devan
yaksa–raksamsi rajasah
pretan bhuta–ganams canye
yajante tamasajanah

Men in the mode of goodness worship the demigods, those in the mode of passion worship the demons and those in the mode of ignorance worship the spirits and devils.

TEXT 5–6

asastra–vihitam ghoram
tapyante ye tapo janah
dambhahankara–samyuktah
kama–raga–balanvitah

karsayantah sarira–stham
bhuta–gramam acetasah
mam caivantah sarira–stham
tan viddhy asura–niscayan

Know them to be possessed by demoniac faith who are unconscientious, self–conceited, proud, desirous of lust, attachment and power and who practice severe austerities not prescribed in the scriptures by tormenting the elements of the body and the inner–self which is My part.

TEXT 7

aharas tv api sarvasya
tri–vidho bhavati priyah
yajnas tapas tatha danam
tesam bhedom imam srnu

There are three kinds of foods according to the three modes of material nature. Similarly, there are three kinds of sacrifices, austerities and charity. Listen about the distinction among them.

TEXT 8

ayuh–sattva–balarogya–
sukha–priti vivardhanah
rasyah snigdhah sthira hrdaya
aharah sattvika–priyah

Food which enhances longevity, cheerful spirit, strength, health, happiness and delight are dear to a person who is in the mode of goodness. Such foods are sweet, juicy, fattening and palatable.

TEXT 9

katv–amla–lavanaty–usna–
tikсна–rukṣa–vidahinah
ahara rajasasyesta
duhkha–sokamaya–pradah

Foods that are too bitter, too sour, salty, very hot, very pungent and very dry; which causes sorrow, grief and disease, are dear to the persons who are in the mode of passion.

TEXT 10

yata–yamam gata–rasam
puti paryusitam ca yat
ucchistam api camedhyam
bhojanam tamasa–priyam

Foods which are cooked more than three hours before being eaten, tasteless, stale, remnants of others, decomposed, unclean and unholy (such as onion, garlic, fish, meat and intoxicants like liquor, opium, tobacco, hemp, tea, coffee etc.) are dear to the persons in the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 11

aphalakanksibhir yajno
vidhi–disto ya iḡyate
yastavyam eveti manah
samadhaya sa sattvikah

The sacrifice, which is performed with a sense of duty by one without any desire for fruit and in adherence to the scriptures, is of the nature of goodness.

TEXT 12

abhisandhaya tu phalam
dambhartham api caiva yat ijyate bharata–srestha
tam yajnam viddhi rajasam

O chief of Bharata’s sons, that sacrifice which is performed with an ulterior motive and for some material benefit, is of the nature of passion.

TEXT 13

vidhi–hinam asrstannam
mantra–hinam adaksinam
sraddha–virahitam yajnam
tamasam paricaksate

A sacrifice which is done without following the scriptural injunctions, without offering of food, without any incantation, without any offering to the priest or without any faith, is of the nature of ignorance.

TEXT 14

deva–dvija–guru–prajna–
pujanam saucam ariavam
brahmacaryam ahimsa ca
sariram tapa ucyate

Worship of the Lord, Brahmanas, preceptors and superiors, the truly wise, purity, simplicity, chastity, and non–violence are said to be austerities of the body.

TEXT 15

anudvega–karam vakyam
satyam priya–hitam ca yat svadhyayabhyasanam caiva
van–mayam tapa ucyate

Austerities that are not unpleasant to anybody, that are truthful, dear and full of beneficial words and conduct, and that include constant study and practice of the Vedas, relate to the austerities of speech.

TEXT 16

manah–prasadah saumyatvam
maunam atma–vinigraha
bhava–samsuddhir ity etat
tapo manasam ucyate

Serenity, placidity, silence, self–control and purification of heart are known as mental austerities.

TEXT 17

sraddhaya paraya taptam
tapas tat tri–vidham naraiḥ aphalakanksibhir yuktaiḥ
sattvikam paricakṣate

These three kinds of austerities, performed by persons with devotional faith and without any desire for fruits thereof are of the nature of goodness.

TEXT 18

satkara–mana–pujārtham
tapo dambhena caiva yat kriyate tad iha proktam
rajasam calam adhruvam

The austerities that are performed with great pomp for glory, honour and applause are transitory, uncertain and are said to be in the mode of passion.

TEXT 19

mudha–grāhenatmano yat
pidaya kriyate tapah
parasyotsadanārtham va
tat tamasam udahrtam

The austerities which are performed foolishly by torturing one's own–self or for the destruction of others are said to be in the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 20

datavyam iti yad danam
diyate 'nupakarine
dese kale ca patre ca

tad danam sattvikam smrtam

A gift given to a deserving person, at appropriate time, at appropriate place and without expecting anything in return, is considered charity in the mode of goodness.

TEXT 21

yat tu Pratyupakarartham
phalam uddisya va punah
diyate ca pariklistam
tad danam rajasam smrtam

A gift which is bestowed in anticipation of something in return or in a hesitant mood, is called charity in the mode of passion.

TEXT 22

adesa—kale yad danam
apatrebhyas ca diyate
asat—krtam avajnatam—
tat tamasam udahrta

That gift which is conferred in an improper place, time and on an undeserving person without respect and with hatred is said to be charity in the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 23

om tat sad iti nirdeso
brahmanas tri—vidhah smrtah
brahmanas tena vedas ca
yajnas ca vihitah pura

The three words ‘Om, Tat and Sat’ are mentioned in the scriptures to indicate Brahman, since the inception of this creation. Brahmins utter these words to chant Vedic hymns and while perform sacrifices, in order to please the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 24

tasmad om ity udahrtya
yajna—dana—tapah—kriyah
pravartante vidhanoktah
satatam brahma—vadinam

Therefore, in order to attain the Supreme Lord, the transcendentalists perform their sacrifices, charities and austerities with utterance of the word 'Om'.

TEXT 25

tad ity anabhisandhaya
phalam yajna–tapah–kriyah
dana–kriyas ca vividhah
kriyante moksa–kanksibhih

Various rites of sacrifices, austerities and charities should be performed with utterance of the word 'Tat'. The purpose of these pious activities is to become free from the bondage of material nature.

TEXT 26

sad–bhave sadhu–bhave ca
sad ity etat prayujyate
prasaste karmani tatha
sac–chabdah partha yujyate

O son of Prutha, the word 'Sat' (eternity) refers to Brahman, to the worshippers of Brahman, and also to the divine activities done in honour of them.

TEXT 27

yajne tapasi dane ca
sthitih sad iti cocyate
karma caiva tad–arthiyam
sad ity evabhidhiyate

Stability in the performance of sacrifices, austerities and charities is also called 'Sat'. And the activities performed for their sake are also called 'Sat'.

TEXT 28

asraddhaya hutam dattam
tapas taptam krtam ca yat asad ity ucyate partha
na ca tat pretya no iha

O son of Prutha, the sacrifice which is performed, the charity that is given, the austerity that is observed and the deeds that are performed without any faith are all Asat, i.e. not Sat. They neither yield any good in this birth nor in the next.

om tatsditi srīmad-bhagavad-gītāsupanīśatsu
brahma-vidyāyam yoga-sāstre śrī-kṛṣṇarjunasamvade śraddhātṛaya-vibhāga-yogo
nama sapta-daso 'dhyāyah

Thus ends the Seventeenth Chapter entitled, "Division of Threefold Faiths" in the Upanisad of Śrīmad Bhagavad Gītā, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Śrī Kṛṣṇa and Arjuna.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Moksa–Yoga

The principle of salvation

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca
sannyasasya maha–baho
tattvam icchami veditum
tyagasya ca hrsikesa
prthak kesi–nisudana

Arjuna said: O Mighty–armed one, O Hrusikesa, O Keshinisudana, I am eager to know the distinction between the terms Sannyasa (renounced order of life) and Tyaga (renunciation).

TEXT 2

sri–bhagavan uvaca
kamyanam karmanam nyasam
sannyasam kavayo viduh
sarva–karma–phala–tyagam
prahus tyagam vicaksanah

The Supreme Lord said: Wise men know the renunciation of obligatory and occasional duties as Sannyasa. They call the abandonment of the results of all fruitive activities as Tyaga.

TEXT 3

tyajyam dosa–vad ity eke
karma prahur manisinah
yajna–dana–tapah–karma
na tyajyam iti capare

The Sankhya pandits maintain that in view of its defective selfish nature, Karma must be avoided (by all means); while the Mimamsakas uphold that actions such as Yajna (sacrifice), Dana (gift), Tapasya (austerity) etc. must by no means be shunned.

TEXT 4

niscayam srnu me tatra
tyage bharata—sattama
tyago hi purusa—vyaghra
tri—vidhah samprakirtitah

O best of the Bharatas, listen from Me about renunciation (Tyaga). There are three kinds of renunciation mentioned in the scriptures.

TEXT 5

yajna—dana—tapah—karma
na tyajyam karyam eva tat yajno danam tapas caiva
pavanani manisinam

Performance of sacrifice, charity, penance etc., should by no means be shunned. They are the duties of all conditioned souls and therefore should certainly be performed. Even these activities purify the great souls.

TEXT 6

etany api tu karmani
sangam tyaktva phalani ca
kartavyaniti me partha
niscitam matam uttamam

O son of Prutha, even these duties should be performed without attachment and desire for fruits thereof. This is My final opinion.

TEXT 7

niyatasya tu sannyasah
karmano nopapadyate
mohat tasya parityagas
tamasah parikirtitah

Renouncement of prescribed duties is undesirable. If some people renounce them out of delusion, then that renunciation is said to be in the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 8

duhkham ity eva yat karma
kaya–klesa–bhayat tyajyt
sa krtva rajasam tyagam
naiva tyaga–phalam labhet

He, who abandons the daily duties, considering them troublesome and out of fear, his renunciation is said to be in the mode of passion. This sort of renunciation yields no result.

TEXT 9

karyam ity eva yat karma
niyatam kriyate 'rjuna
sangam tyaktva phalam caiva
sa tyagah sattviko matah

O Arjuna, that renunciation is called Satwika (in the mode of goodness) when the prescribed duties are performed out of a sense of duty, by giving up all attachment and also the desire for fruits thereof.

TEXT 10

na dvesty akusalam karma
kusale nanusajjate
tyagi sattva–samavisto
medhavi chinna–samsayah

Those who are endowed with the mode of goodness, have no doubts about action. They do not deride at unpleasant actions nor are attached to pleasant actions.

TEXT 11

na hi deha–bhrta sakyam
tyaktum karmany asesatah
yas tu karma–phala–tyagi
sa tyagity abhidhiyate

It is not possible on the part of a conditioned soul to give up all sorts of duties. So, who has abandoned all fruits of his actions, is indeed renounced.

TEXT 12

anistam istam misram ca
tri-vidham karmanah phalam bhavaty atyaginam pretya
na tu sannyasinam kvacit

Those who have not abandoned the fruits of their actions have to get the triple results of their actions after death viz. undesirable, desirable and mixture of them. But those who are in the renounced order, are immune from these results.

TEXT 13

pancaitan maha-baho
karanani nibodha me
sankhye krtante proktani
siddhaye sarva-karmanam

O Mighty-armed, listen from Me about the five causes of success of all actions as mentioned in the Vedic scriptures.

TEXT 14

adhithanam tatha karta
karanam ca prthag-vidham
vividhas ca prthak cesta
daivam caivatra pancamam

The causes of success of actions are (i) Adhithana (body), (ii) Karta (subjective agent), (iii) five senses, (iv) cesta (various activities), and (v) the super soul.

TEXT 15

sarira-van-manobhir yat
karma prarabhate narah
nyayyam va viparitam va
pancaite tasya hetavah

Whatever a man does with his body, mind and speech; whether it be right or wrong, the above five are its causes.

TEXT 16

tatraivam sati kartaram
atmanam kevalam tu yah
pasyaty akṛta–buddhitvan
na sa pasyati durmatih

Such being the case, the evil–minded person, who out of uncultured intelligence, considers his own self to be the only subjective agent, is blind and ignorant.

TEXT 17

yasya nahankṛto bhavo
buddhir yasya na lipyate
hatvapi sa imal lokan
na hanti na nibadhyate

He who has no spirit of egotism and whose mind has no attachment for the fruits of actions, does not kill anybody; although, he kills all, is not bound by his actions.

TEXT 18

jñanam jñeyam pariñnata
tri–vidha karma–codana
karanam karma karteti
tri–vidhah karma–sangrahaḥ

Knowledge, knowable and the knower are the three factors that motivate action, while the instrumentality of the senses for doing, the deed and the doer are the three basic instruments of action.

TEXT 19

jñanam karma ca karta ca
triḍhaiva guṇa–bhedaḥ
procyate guṇa–sankhyāṇa
yathavac chrnu tany api

Knowledge, action and performers of action are of three kinds, as per the triple qualities of material nature. Listen from Me about them.

TEXT 20

sarva–bhutesu yenaikam
bhavam avyayam iksate
avibhaktam vibhaktesu
taj jnanam viddhi sattvikam

Know that knowledge to be in the mode of goodness by which one unified eternal principle is realised in all divergent beings.

TEXT 21

prthaktvena tu yaj jnanam
nana–bhavan prthag–vidhan
vetti sarvesu bhutesu
taj jnanam viddhi rajasam

Know that knowledge to be in the mode of passion by which, being characteristically different, sees divergent principles in different beings.

TEXT 22

yat tu krtsna–vad ekasmin
karye saktam ahaitukam
atattvartha–vad alpam ca
tat tamasam udahrtam

That knowledge is known to be in the mode of ignorance which is attracted to a particular ephemeral object as to the perfect Eternal Being and is irrational, delusive, non–real and insignificant.

TEXT 23

niyatam sanga–rahitam
araga–dvesatah krtam
aphala–prepsuna karma
yat tat sattvikamn ucyate

That action is called Satwika which is eternal and is performed without any attachment, love or hatred by one who has no selfish desire.

TEXT 24

yat tu kamepsuna karma
sahankarena va punah

kriyate bahulayasam
tad rajasam udahrtam

While that action is known as Rajas which is performed with great exertion out of arrogance and selfish desires.

TEXT 25

anubandham ksayam himsam
anapeksya ca paurusam
mohad arabhyate karma
yat tat tamasam ucyate

That action is called Tamas, which is performed blindly without any consideration of consequences, loss, malice or might.

TEXT 26

mukta-sango 'naham-vadi
dhrty-utsaha-samanvitah
siddhy-asiddhyor nirvikarah
karta sattvika ucyate

One who is free from all material attachments, devoid of pride, full of patience and enthusiasm, and indifferent to success or failure, is a worker in the mode of goodness.

TEXT 27

ragi karma-phala-prepsur
lubdho himsatmako 'sucih
harsa-sokanvitah karta
rajasah parikirtitah

One who is given to passions, who hanker after the fruits of his actions, addicted to worldliness and fond of malice, and who is unholy and is subject to pleasure, pain and grief, is a worker in the mode of passion.

TEXT 28

ayuktah prakrtah stabdhah
satho naiskrtiko 'lasah visadi dirgha-sutri ca
karta tamasa ucyate

One who is fond of unrighteous and improper acts, prone to mundane activities, whimsical and fraudulent, who speaks disparagingly of others and is indolent, always sulky or sullen and dilatory in habit, is a worker in the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 29

buddher bhedam dhrtes caiva
gunatas tri-vidham srnu procyamanam asesena
prthaktvena dhananjaya

O Dhananjaya, now I explain you elaborately about the three kinds of intelligence and fortitude, according to the triple qualities of material nature.

TEXT 30

pravrttim ca nivrttim ca
karyakarye bhayabhaye
bandham moksam ca ya vetti
buddhih sa partha sattviki

That intelligence by which one can make clear distinction between inclination and disinclination, duty and non-duty, fear and safety, and bondage and freedom, is established in the mode of goodness.

TEXT 31

yaya dharmam adharmam ca
karyam cakaryam eva ca
ayathavat prajanati
buddhih sa partha rajasi

O Partha, the intelligence by which perfect distinction cannot be made between virtue and vice, duty and non-duty, etc. is in the mode of passion.

TEXT 32

adharmam dharmam iti ya
manyate tamasavrtta
sarvarthan viparitams ca
buddhih sa partha tamasi

O Partha, the intelligence which enveloped in foolishness confounds irreligion with religion and forms opposite idea about things, is in the mode of ignorance.

TEXT 33

dhṛtya yaya dharayate
manah—pranendriya—kriyah yogenavyabhicarinya
dhṛtiḥ sa partha sattviki

O Partha, the fortitude in the mode of goodness is that which upholds the functions of mind, life, senses and actions with steadfast concentration.

TEXT 34

yaya tu dharma—kamarthan
dhṛtya dharayate 'rjuna prasangena phalakankṣi
dhṛtiḥ sa partha rajasi

O Partha, the fortitude in the mode of passion is that which upholds religion, wealth and sense gratification with their fruitive desires.

TEXT 35

yaya svapnam bhayam sokam
visadam madam eva ca na vimuncati durmedha
dhṛtiḥ sa partha tamasi

O Partha, the fortitude in the mode of ignorance is that which foolishly adheres to dream, fear, grief, sadness and inclination.

TEXT 36

sukham tv idanim tri—vidham
srnu me bharatarsabha
abhyasad ramate yatra
duḥkhantam ca nigacchati

O best of the Bharatas, hear Me now about the three kinds of happiness by repeated cultivation of which one finds pleasure in it and attains the end of misery.

TEXT 37

yat tad agre visam iva
pariname 'mrtopamam
tat sukham sattvikam proktam
atma–buddhi–prasada–jam

Satwika happiness is that which is born of selfapprobation or realisation, and which, though difficult and unpleasant at the beginning, is yet nectarine and wholesome in the end.

TEXT 38

visayendriya–samyogad
yat tad agre 'mrtopamam
pariname visam iva
tat sukham rajasam smrtam

Rajas happiness is that which arising from the union of the senses and the phenomenal objects appears to be ambrosial at the beginning, but is really poisonous in the long run.

TEXT 39

yad agre canubandhe ca
sukham mohanam atmanah
nidralasya–pramadottham
tat tamasam udahrtam

That happiness is mentioned a Tamasa which in the beginning as well as in the end causes infatuation of the soul and is born of sleep, indolence and inebriation.

TEXT 40

na tad asti prthivyam va
divi devesu va punah
sattvam prakrti–jair muktam
yad ebhih syat tribhir gunaih

There is no such being in the world, or demigods in the heaven that are possibly free from these triple qualities of material nature.

TEXT 41

brahmana–ksatriya–visam
sudranam ca parantapa
karmani pravibhaktani
svabhava–prabhavair gunaih

O Arjuna, the tormentor of enemies, the duties of Brahmanas, Kshatriyas, Vaisyas and Sudras are divided according to qualities innate in them.

TEXT 42

samo damas tapah saucam
ksantir arjavam eva ca jnanam vijnanam astikyam
brahma–karma svabhava–jam

Control of internal and external organs of senses, austerity, purity, forbearance, simplicity, knowledge of the self and of Godhead as interpreted in the scriptures, and firm conviction, or faith in the real interpretation of the self, Godhead and matter are the characteristic qualities and duties of a Brahmana.

TEXT 43

sauryam tejo dhrtir daksyam
yuddhe capy apalayanam
danam isvara–bhavas ca
ksatram karma svabhava–jam

Heroism, pomp, patience, dexterity, not to turn away from the battle field, charity, governing the state, are the characteristic qualities and duties of a Kshatriya.

TEXT 44

krsti–go–raksya–vanijyam
vaisya–karma svabhava–jam paricaryatmakam karma
sudrasyapi svabhava–jam

Farming, tending herds of cattle, and business are the characteristic occupations of a Vaisya, and servitude of the above three classes is the duty of a Sudra.

TEXT 45

sve sve karmany abhiratah
samsiddhim labhate narah
sva-karma-niratah siddhim
yatha vindati tac chrnu

A person who remains engaged in his prescribed duties attains success. Now listen how a person can attain success in life, by performing his ordained duties.

TEXT 46

yatah pravrttir bhutanam
yena sarvam idam tatam
sva-karmana tam abhyarcya
siddhim vindati manavah

By worshipping the Supreme Lord, who is the source of all beings and who is all pervading, through the performance of his prescribed duty, one can attain success.

TEXT 47

sreyan sva-dharmo vigunah
para-dharmat sv-anusthitat
svabhava-niyatam karma
kurvan napnoti kilbisam

Incomplete performance of one's own occupation is better than another's occupation though nicely performed. One does not commit any sin by performing the duties assigned to him, according to his innate nature.

TEXT 48

saha-jam karma kaunteya
sa-dosam api na tyajet
sarvarambha hi dosena
dhumenagnir ivavrtah

O Kaunteya, duties assigned according to nature and qualification, though faulty, should by no means be abandoned. Just as fire, though faulty, should by no means be abandoned. Just as fire, though sometimes, is enveloped by smoke, so also all enterprises are more or less tinged with shortcomings.

TEXT 49

asakta–buddhih sarvatra
jitatma vigata–sprhah
naiskarmya–siddhim paramam
sannyasenadhigacchati

A person, being detached from material things and happiness and by self control can obtain the results of renunciation. That is the last stage of renunciation.

TEXT 50

siddhim prapto yatha brahma
tathapnoti nibodha me samasenaiva kaunteya
nistha jnanasya ya para

O son of Kunti, let Me now brief you, how the living entity attains Brahman, the highest perfectional stage.

TEXT 51–53

buddhya visuddhaya yukto
dhrtyatmanam niyamy ca
sabdadin visayams tyaktva
raga–dvesau vyudasya ca

vivikta–sevi laghv–asi
yata–vak–kaya–manasah
dhyana–yoga–paro nityam
vairagyam samupasritah

ahankaram balam darpam
kamam krodham parigraham
vimucya nirmamah santo
brahma–bhuyaya kalpate

A person who is purified by his intelligence, controlled his mind, completely detached from all sensual enjoyments, freed from attachment and hatred, who has aptitude for solitude, is temperate in diet, restrained in action, word and mind, is meditative, and is completely absolved from egotism, pomp, might, lust and wrath – he is a genuine ascetic and he can easily realise Brahman.

TEXT 54

brahma–bhutah prasannatma
na socati na kanksati
samah sarvesu bhutesu
mad–bhaktim labhate param

A person, who is situated in such a divine state at once realises Brahman. He never laments or desires to acquire anything. He sees every living entity equally and in such a state he attains unalloyed devotion unto Me.

TEXT 55

bhaktya mam abhijanati
yavan yas casmi tattvatah
tato mam tattvato jnatva
visate tad–anantaram

Only through unalloyed devotional service one can understand the Supreme Lord and when one attains full consciousness in devotional service, then he can enter into the abode of the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 56

sarva–karmany api sada
kurvano mad–vyapasrayah
mat–prasadam avapnoti
sasvatam padam avyayam

My devotee, though engaged in all types of activities, attains the eternal and unchangeable realm, due to My mercy and protection.

TEXT 57

cetasa sarva–karmani
mayi sannyasya mat–parah
buddhi–yogam upasritya
mac–cittah satatam bhava

By consecrating all the duties to Me with all your heart and by submitting your intelligence to Me, apply always your mind and attention to Me.

TEXT 58

mac-cittah sarva-durgani
mat-prasadat tarisyasi
atha cet tvam ahankaran
na srosyasi vinanksyasi

If you pay your whole-hearted attention to Me, you will be able to surmount all the impediments by My mercy. If on the other hand, you do not hear Me out of false prestige, you will perish.

TEXT 59

yad ahankaram asritya
na yotsya iti manyase mithyaisa vyavasayas te prakrtis tvam niyoksyati

If you won't fight being influenced by that egotism, you will simply be a pretender. Your Kshatriya nature will surely give you an impetus to fight.

TEXT 60

svabhava-jena kaunteya
nibaddhah svena karmana
kartum necchasi yan mohat
karisyasy avaso 'pi tat

O son of Kunti, due to illusion you are unwilling to act according to My direction. But your nature will force you to do so.

TEXT 61

isvarah sarva-bhutanam
hrd-dese 'rjuna tisthati
bhamayan sarva-bhutani
yantrarudhani mayaya

O Arjuna, the Supreme Lord is situated in the heart of every living entity. He is directing all living entities just like a puppeteer directs his puppets.

TEXT 62

tam eva saranam gaccha
sarva-bhavena bharata

tat–prasadat param santim
sthanam prapsyasi sasvatam

O scion of Bharata, take complete shelter in Him alone. You will attain transcendental peace, and the eternal and blissful abode by His mercy.

TEXT 63

iti te jnanam akhyatam
guhyad guhyataram maya vimnrsyaitad asesena
yathecchasi tatha kuru

Thus I have told you the most confidential knowledge. By pondering over this minutely, do as you wish.

TEXT 64

sarva–guhyatamam bhuyah
srnu me paramam vacah
isto 'si me drdham iti
tato vaksyami te hitam

Just hear from Me the most confidential knowledge. As you are very dear to Me, I am imparting this most confidential knowledge to you for your betterment.

TEXT 65

man–mana bhava mad–bhakto
mad–yaji mam namaskuru
mam evaisyasi satyam te
pratijane priyo 'si me

Think of Me, be My devotee, worship Me and offer homage to Me. Thus definitely you will attain Me. This is My solemn promise to you, as you are very dear to Me.

TEXT 66

sarva–dharman parityajya
mam ekam saranam vraja
aham tvam sarva–papebhyo
moksayisyami ma sucah

Abandon all religious practices and surrender completely unto Me alone. Don't fear, I shall deliver you from all sins.

TEXT 67

idam te natapaskaya
nabhaktaya kadacana
na casusrusave vacyam
na ca mam yo 'bhyasuyati

This secret knowledge may not be imparted to an irreligious person, or to a non-devotee or to one who is unwilling to serve the Supreme Lord or to him who is envious of Me.

TEXT 68

ya idam paramam guhyam
mad-bhaktessv abhidhasyati
bhaktim mayi param krtva
mam evaisyaty asamsayah

Who imparts such confidential knowledge to My devotees definitely attains Me by pure devotion.

TEXT 69

na ca tasman manusyesu
kascin me priya-krttamah
bhavita na ca me tasmad
anyah priyataro bhuvi

In this world, none is or will be more dear and more serviceable to Me than he.

TEXT 70

adhyesyate ca ya imam
dharma-yam samvadam avayoh
jnana-yajnena tenaham
istah syam iti me matih

I declare that he who studies this sacred discourse between us, worships Me through intelligence.

TEXT 71

sraddhavan anasuyas ca
srnuyad api yo narah
so 'pi muktah subhal lokan
prapnuyat punya–karmanam

He too, who listens this conversation attentively, with interest and faith and without envy, attains the abode of pious beings, being freed from the reactions of all sins.

TEXT 72

kaccid etac chrutam partha
tvayaikagrena cetasa kaccid ajnana–sammohah
pranastas te dhananjaya

O Dhananjaya, have you listened this with undivided attention? Have you been disillusioned from your ignorance?

TEXT 73

arjuna uvaca
nasto mohah smrtir labdha
tvat–prasadan mayacyuta
sthito 'mi gata–sandehah
karisye vacanam tava

Arjuna said: O Achyuta, by Your mercy, my illusion is disappeared, I have regained my memory, I am settled, my doubts are removed, and now I am ready to act according to Your directions.

TEXT 74

sanjaya uvaca
ity aham vasudevasya
parthasya ca mahatmanah
samvadam imam asrausam
adbhutam roma–harsanam

Sanjaya said: O king, thus I have heard this wonderful soul–stirring conversation between Arjuna and Krishna.

TEXT 75

vyasa–prasadaḥ chrutavan
etaḍ guhyam aham param
yogam yogesvarat kṛṣṇat
sakṣat kathayataḥ svayam

I have directly heard this most confidential knowledge expounded by Sri Krishna, the veritable Lord of all Yogas, by the mercy of Vyasadeva.

TEXT 76

rajan samsmṛtya samsmṛtya
samvadam imam adbhutam keśavariuṇayoh puṇyam
hr̥ṣyami ca muhur muhuh

O king, whenever I recall this wonderful dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna, I take great pleasure.

TEXT 77

tac ca samsmṛtya samsmṛtya
rūpam aty–adbhutam hareḥ viśmayo me mahān rajan
hr̥ṣyami ca punaḥ punaḥ

O King, I am astounded and overwhelmed with joy time and again when I recall the wonderful form of the Supreme Lord Sri Krishna.

TEXT 78

yatra yogesvarah kṛṣṇo
yatra partho dhanur–dharah tatra śrīr vijayo bhutir
dhruva nitir matir mama

Where there is Sri Krishna, the Lord of Yoga, and where there is Arjuna, the great archer, there must be opulence, victory, power, success and morality. This is my opinion.

om tatsditi śrīmad–bhagavad–gītāsūpāniṣatsu
brahma–vidyayam yoga–sāstre śrī–kṛṣṇarjuna–
samvade mokṣa–yogo

namastadaso 'dhyayah

Thus ends the Eighteenth Chapter entitled, "The Principle of Salvation" in the Upanisad of Srimad Bhagavad Gita, the science of God, the scripture of Yoga and the divine dialogue between Sri Krishna and Arjuna.

THE GLORY OF THE GITA

gita sastram idam punyam
yah pathet prayatah puman
visnoh padam avapnoti
bhaya sokadi varjitah

gitadhyayana–silasya
pranayama parasya ca
naiva santi hi papani
purva janma krtani ca

malanir mocanam pumsam
jala–snanam dine dine sakrd–gitambhasi snanam
samsara–mala–nasanam

gita sugita kartavya
kim anyaih sastra vistaraih
ya svayam padmanabhasya
mukha–padmad vinihsrta

bharatamrta sarvasvam
visnor vaktrad–vinihsrtam
gita–gangodakam pitva
punar janma na vidyate

sarvopanisado gavo
dogdha gopala–nandanah
partho vatsah sudhir bhokta
dugdham gitamrtam mahat

ekam sastram devaki–putra–gitam
eko devo devaki–putra eva eko mantras tasya namani yani karmapy ekam tasya devasya seva

Bhagavad-gita As It Is

COMPLETE EDITION

with original Sanskrit text
Roman transliteration, English equivalents, translation and elaborate purports

by
His Divine Grace A.C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupada
Founder-Acarya of the Hare Krishna Movement

Foreword

by Professor Edward C. Dimock Jr.

The Bhagavad-gita is the best known and the most frequently translated of Vedic religious texts. Why it should be so appealing to the Western mind is an interesting question. It has drama, for its setting is a scene of two great armies, banners flying, drawn up opposite one another on the field, poised for battle. It has ambiguity, and the fact that Arjuna and his charioteer Krsna are carrying on their dialogue between the two armies suggests the indecision of Arjuna about the basic question; should he enter battle against and kill those who are friends and kinsmen? It has mystery, as Krsna demonstrates to Arjuna His cosmic form, It has a properly complicated view of the ways of the religious life and treats of the paths of knowledge, works, discipline and faith and their inter-relationships, problems that have bothered adherents of other religions in other times and places. The devotion spoken of is a deliberate means of religious satisfaction, not a mere outpouring of poetic emotion. Next to the Bhagavata-purana, a long work from South India, the Gita is the text most frequently quoted in the philosophical writings of the Gaudiya Vaisnava school, the school represented by Swami Bhaktivedanta as the latest in a long succession of teachers. It can be said that this school of Vaisnavism was founded, or revived, by Sri Krsna-Caitanya Mahaprabhu (1486-1533) in Bengal, and that it is currently the strongest single religious force in the eastern part of the Indian subcontinent. The Gaudiya Vaisnava school, for whom Krsna is Himself the Supreme God, and not merely an incarnation of another deity, sees bhakti as an immediate and powerful religious force, consisting of love between man and God. Its discipline consists of devoting all one's actions to the Deity, and one listens to the stories of Krsna from the sacred texts, one chants Krsna's name, washes, bathes and dresses the murti of Krsna, feeds Him and takes the remains of food offered to Him, thus absorbing His grace; one does these things and many more, until one has been changed: the devotee has become transformed into one close to Krsna, and sees the Lord face to face.

Swami Bhaktivedanta comments upon the Gita from this point of view, and that is legitimate. More than that, in this translation the Western reader has the unique opportunity of seeing how a Kṛṣṇa devotee interprets his own texts. It is the Vedic exegetical tradition, justly famous, in action. This book is then a welcome addition from many points of view. It can serve as a valuable textbook for the college student. It allows us to listen to a skilled interpreter explicating a text which has profound religious meaning. It gives us insights into the original and highly convincing ideas of the Gaudiya Vaisnava school. In providing the Sanskrit in both Devanagari and transliteration, it offers the Sanskrit specialist the opportunity to re-interpret, or debate particular Sanskrit meanings—although I think there will be little disagreement about the quality of the Swami's Sanskrit scholarship. And finally, for the nonspecialist, there is readable English and a devotional attitude which cannot help but move the sensitive reader. And there are the paintings, which, incredibly as it may seem to those familiar with contemporary Indian religious art, were done by American devotees.

The scholar, the student of Gaudiya Vaisnavism, and the increasing number of Western readers interested in classical Vedic thought have been done a service by Swami Bhaktivedanta. By bringing us a new and living interpretation of a text already known to many, he has increased our understanding manifold; and arguments for understanding, in these days of estrangement, need not be made.

Professor Edward C. Dimock, Jr.

Department of South Asian Languages and Civilization

University of Chicago

To

SRILA BALADEVA VIDYABHUSANA

who presented so nicely

the "Govinda–bhasya" commentary

on

Vedanta philosophy

Preface

Originally I wrote Bhagavad-gita As It Is in the form in which it is presented now. When this book was first published, the original manuscript was, unfortunately, cut short to less than 400 pages, without illustrations and without explanations for most of the original verses of the Srimad Bhagavad-gita. In all of my other books—Srimad-Bhagavatam, Sri Isopanisad, etc.—the system is that I give the original verse, its English transliteration, word-for-word Sanskrit-English equivalents, translations and purports. This makes the book very authentic and scholarly and makes the meaning self-evident. I was not very happy, therefore, when I had to minimize my original manuscript. But later on, when the demand for Bhagavad-gita As It Is considerably increased, I was requested by many scholars and devotees to present the book in its original form, and Messrs. Macmillan and Co. agreed to publish the complete edition. Thus the present attempt is to offer the original manuscript of this great book of knowledge with full parampara explanation in order to establish the Krsna consciousness movement more soundly and progressively.

Our Krsna consciousness movement is genuine, historically authorized, natural and transcendental due to its being based on Bhagavad-gita As It Is. It is gradually becoming the most popular movement in the entire world, especially amongst the younger generation. It is becoming more and more interesting to the older generation also. Older gentlemen are becoming interested, so much so that the fathers and grandfathers of my disciples are encouraging us by becoming life members of our great society, the International Society for Krishna Consciousness. In Los Angeles many fathers and mothers used to come to see me to express their feelings of gratitude for my leading the Krsna consciousness movement throughout the entire world. Some of them said that it is greatly fortunate for the Americans that I have started the Krsna consciousness movement in America. But actually the original father of this movement is Lord Krsna Himself, since it was started a very long time ago but is coming down to human society by disciplic succession. If I have any credit in this connection, it does not belong to me personally, but it is due to my eternal spiritual master, His Divine Grace Om Visnupada Paramahansa Parivrajakacarya 108 Sri Srimad Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati Gosvami Maharaja Prabhupada.

If personally I have any credit in this matter, it is only that I have tried to present Bhagavad-gita as it is, without adulteration. Before my presentation of Bhagavad-gita As It Is, almost all the English editions of Bhagavad-gita were introduced to fulfill someone's personal ambition. But our attempt, in presenting Bhagavad-gita As It Is, is to present the mission of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa. Our business is to present the will of Kṛṣṇa, not that of any mundane speculator like the politician, philosopher or scientist, for they have very little knowledge of Kṛṣṇa, despite all their other knowledge. When Kṛṣṇa says, man–mana bhava mad–bhakto mad–yaji mam namaskuru, etc., we, unlike the so–called scholars, do not say that Kṛṣṇa and His inner spirit are different. Kṛṣṇa is absolute, and there is no difference between Kṛṣṇa's name, Kṛṣṇa's form, Kṛṣṇa's qualities, Kṛṣṇa's pastimes, etc. This absolute position of Kṛṣṇa is difficult to understand for any person who is not a devotee of Kṛṣṇa in the parampara (disciplic succession). Generally the so–called scholars, politicians, philosophers, and svamis, without perfect knowledge of Kṛṣṇa, try to banish or kill Kṛṣṇa when writing commentary on Bhagavad–gita. Such unauthorized commentary upon Bhagavad–gita is known as Mayavada–bhāṣya, and Lord Caitanya has warned us about these unauthorized men. Lord Caitanya clearly says that anyone who tries to understand Bhagavad–gita from the Mayavadi point of view will commit a great blunder. The result of such a blunder will be that the misguided student of Bhagavad–gita will certainly be bewildered on the path of spiritual guidance and will not be able to go back to home, back to Godhead.

Our only purpose is to present this Bhagavad–gita As It Is in order to guide the conditioned student to the same purpose for which Kṛṣṇa descends to this planet once in a day of Brahma, or every 8,600,000,000 years. This purpose is stated in Bhagavad–gita, and we have to accept it as it is; otherwise there is no point in trying to understand the Bhagavad–gita and its speaker, Lord Kṛṣṇa. Lord Kṛṣṇa first spoke Bhagavad–gita to the sun–god some hundreds of millions of years ago. We have to accept this fact and thus understand the historical significance of Bhagavad–gita, without misinterpretation, on the authority of Kṛṣṇa. To interpret Bhagavad–gita without any reference to the will of Kṛṣṇa is the greatest offense. In order to save oneself from this offense, one has to understand the Lord as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, as He was directly understood by Arjuna, Lord Kṛṣṇa's first disciple. Such understanding of Bhagavad–gita is really profitable and authorized for the welfare of human society in fulfilling the mission of life.

The Kṛṣṇa consciousness movement is essential in human society, for it offers the highest perfection of life. How this is so is explained fully in the Bhagavad–gita. Unfortunately, mundane wranglers have taken advantage of Bhagavad–gita to push forward their demonic propensities and mislead people regarding right understanding of the simple principles of life. Everyone should know how God, or Kṛṣṇa, is great, and everyone should know the factual position of the living entities. Everyone should know that a living entity is eternally a servant and that unless one serves Kṛṣṇa one has to serve illusion in different varieties of the three modes of material nature, and thus perpetually one has to wander within the cycle of birth and death; even the so–called liberated Mayavadi speculator has to undergo this process. This knowledge constitutes a great science, and each and every living being has to hear it for his own interest.

People in general, especially in this Age of Kali, are enamored by the external energy of Krsna, and they wrongly think that by advancement of material comforts every man will be happy. They have no knowledge that the material or external nature is very strong, for everyone is strongly bound by the stringent laws of material nature. A living entity is happily the part and parcel of the Lord, and thus his natural function is to render immediate service to the Lord. By the spell of illusion one tries to be happy by serving his personal sense gratification in different forms which will never make him happy. Instead of satisfying his own personal material senses, he has to satisfy the senses of the Lord. That is the highest perfection of life. The Lord wants this, and He demands it. One has to understand this central point of Bhagavad-gita. Our Krsna consciousness movement is teaching the whole world this central point, and because we are not polluting the theme of Bhagavad-gita As It Is, anyone seriously interested in deriving benefit by studying the Bhagavad-gita must take help from the Krsna consciousness movement for practical understanding of Bhagavad-gita under the direct guidance of the Lord. We hope, therefore, that people will derive the greatest benefit by studying Bhagavad-gita As It Is as we have presented it here, and if even one man becomes a pure devotee of the Lord, we shall consider our attempt a success.

A. C. Bhaktivedanta Swami

12 May, 1971

Sydney, Australia

Introduction

om ajnana–timirandhasya

jnananjana–salakaya

caksur unmilitam yena

tasmai sri–gurave namah

sri–caitanya–mano–'bhistam

sthapitam yena bhu–tale

svayam rupah kada mahyam

dadati sva–padantikam

I was born in the darkest ignorance, and my spiritual master opened my eyes with the torch of knowledge. I offer my respectful obeisances unto him.

When will Srila Rupa Gosvami Prabhupada, who has established within this material world the mission to fulfill the desire of Lord Caitanya, give me shelter under his lotus feet?

vande 'ham sri–guroh sri–yuta–pada–kamalam sri–gurun vaisnavams ca

sri–rupam sagrajatam saha–gana–raghunathanvitam tam sa–jivam

sadvaitam savadhutam parijana–sahitam krsna–caitanya–devam

sri–radha–krsna–padan saha–gana–lalita–sri–visakhanvitams ca

I offer my respectful obeisances unto the lotus feet of my spiritual master and unto the feet of all Vaisnavas. I offer my respectful obeisances unto the lotus feet of Srila Rupa Gosvami along with his elder brother Sanatana Gosvami, as well as Raghunatha Dasa and Raghunatha Bhatta, Gopala Bhatta, and Srila Jiva Gosvami. I offer my respectful obeisances to Lord Krsna Caitanya and Lord Nityananda along with Advaita Acarya, Gadadhara, Srivasa, and other associates. I offer my respectful obeisances to Srimati Radharani and Sri Krsna along with Their associates, Sri Lalita and Visakha.

he krsna karuna-sindho

dina-bandho jagat-pate

gopesa gopika-kanta

radha-kanta namo 'stu te

O my dear Krsna, You are the friend of the distressed and the source of creation. You are the master of the gopis and the lover of Radharani. I offer my respectful obeisances unto You.

tapta-kancana-gaurangi

radhe vrndavanesvari

vrsabhanu-sute devi

pranamami hari-priye

I offer my respects to Radharani whose bodily complexion is like molten gold and who is the Queen of Vrndavana. You are the daughter of King Vrsabhanu, and You are very dear to Lord Krsna.

vancha-kalpatarubhyas ca

krpa-sindhubhya eva ca

patitanam pavanebhyo

vaisnavebhyo namo namah

I offer my respectful obeisances unto all the Vaisnava devotees of the Lord who can fulfill the desires of everyone, just like desire trees, and who are full of compassion for the fallen souls.

sri-krsna-caitanya

prabhu-nityananda

sri-advaita gadadhara

srivasadi-gaura-bhakta-vrnda

I offer my obeisances to Sri Krsna Caitanya, Prabhu Nityananda, Sri Advaita, Gadadhara, Srivasa and all others in the line of devotion.

hare krsna hare krsna

krsna krsna hare hare

hare rama hare rama

rama rama hare hare

Bhagavad-gita is also known as Gitopanisad. It is the essence of Vedic knowledge and one of the most important Upanisads in Vedic literature. Of course there are many commentaries in English on the Bhagavad-gita, and one may question the necessity for another one. This present edition can be explained in the following way. Recently an American lady asked me to recommend an English translation of Bhagavad-gita. Of course in America there are so many editions of Bhagavad-gita available in English, but as far as I have seen, not only in America but also in India, none of them can be strictly said to be authoritative because in almost every one of them the commentator has expressed his own opinions without touching the spirit of Bhagavad-gita as it is.

The spirit of Bhagavad-gita is mentioned in Bhagavad-gita itself. It is just like this: If we want to take a particular medicine, then we have to follow the directions written on the label. We cannot take the medicine according to our own whim or the direction of a friend. It must be taken according to the directions on the label or the directions given by a physician. Similarly, Bhagavad-gita should be taken or accepted as it is directed by the speaker Himself. The speaker of Bhagavad-gita is Lord Sri Krsna. He is mentioned on every page of Bhagavad-gita as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Bhagavan. Of course the word bhagavan sometimes refers to any powerful person or any powerful demigod, and certainly here bhagavan designates Lord Sri Krsna as a great personality, but at the same time we should know that Lord Sri Krsna is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, as is confirmed by all great acaryas (spiritual masters) like Sankaracarya, Ramanujacarya, Madhvacarya, Nimbarka Svami, Sri Caitanya Mahaprabhu and many other authorities of Vedic knowledge in India. The Lord Himself also establishes Himself as the Supreme Personality of Godhead in the Bhagavad-gita, and He is accepted as such in the Brahma-samhita and all the Puranas, especially the Srimad-Bhagavatam, known as the Bhagavata Purana (krsnas tu bhagavan svayam). Therefore we should take Bhagavad-gita as it is directed by the Personality of Godhead Himself. In the Fourth Chapter of the Gita (4.1-3) the Lord says:

imam vivasvate yogam

proktavan aham avyayam

vivasvan manave praha

manur iksvakave 'bravit

evam parampara-praptam

imam rajarsayo viduh

sa kaleneha mahata

yogo nastah parantapa

sa evayam maya te 'dya

yogah proktah puratanah

bhakto 'si me sakha ceti

rahasyam hy etad uttamam

Here the Lord informs Arjuna that this system of yoga, the Bhagavad-gita, was first spoken to the sun-god, and the sun-god explained it to Manu, and Manu explained it to Iksvaku, and in that way, by disciplic succession, one speaker after another, this yoga system has been coming down. But in the course of time it has become lost. Consequently the Lord has to speak it again, this time to Arjuna on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra.

He tells Arjuna that He is relating this supreme secret to him because he is His devotee and His friend. The purport of this is that Bhagavad-gita is a treatise which is especially meant for the devotee of the Lord. There are three classes of transcendentalists, namely the jnani, the yogi and the bhakta, or the impersonalist, the meditator and the devotee. Here the Lord clearly tells Arjuna that He is making him the first receiver of a new parampara (disciplic succession) because the old succession was broken. It was the Lord's wish, therefore, to establish another parampara in the same line of thought that was coming down from the sun-god to others, and it was His wish that His teaching be distributed anew by Arjuna. He wanted Arjuna to become the authority in understanding the Bhagavad-gita. So we see that Bhagavad-gita is instructed to Arjuna especially because Arjuna was a devotee of the Lord, a direct student of Krsna, and His intimate friend. Therefore Bhagavad-gita is best understood by a person who has qualities similar to Arjuna's. That is to say he must be a devotee in a direct relationship with the Lord. That is a very elaborate subject matter, but briefly it can be stated that a devotee is in a relationship with the Supreme Personality of Godhead in one of five different ways:

1. One may be a devotee in a passive state;
2. One may be a devotee in an active state;
3. One may be a devotee as a friend;
4. One may be a devotee as a parent;
5. One may be a devotee as a conjugal lover.

Arjuna was in a relationship with the Lord as friend. Of course there is a gulf of difference between this friendship and the friendship found in the material world. This is transcendental friendship which cannot be had by everyone. Of course everyone has a particular relationship with the Lord, and that relationship is evoked by the perfection of devotional service. But in the present status of our life, we have not only forgotten the Supreme Lord, but we have forgotten our eternal relationship with the Lord. Every living being, out of the many, many billions and trillions of living beings, has a particular relationship with the Lord eternally. That is called svarupa. By the process of devotional service, one can revive that svarupa, and that stage is called svarupa-siddhi—perfection of one's constitutional position. So Arjuna was a devotee, and he was in touch with the Supreme Lord in friendship.

How Arjuna accepted this Bhagavad-gita should be noted. His manner of acceptance is given in the Tenth Chapter (10.12–14):

arjuna uvaca

param brahma param dhama

pavitram paramam bhavan

purusam sasvatam divyam

adi-devam ajam vibhum

ahus tvam rsayah sarve

devarsir naradas tatha

asito devalo vyasah

svayam caiva bravisi me

sarvam etad rtam manye

yan mam vadasi kesava

na hi te bhagavan vyaktim

vidur deva na danavah

"Arjuna said: You are the Supreme Brahman, the ultimate, the supreme abode and purifier, the Absolute Truth and the eternal Divine Person. You are the primal God, transcendental and original, and you are the unborn and all-pervading beauty. All the great sages like Narada, Asita, Devala, and Vyasa proclaim this of You, and now You Yourself are declaring it to me. O Krsna, I totally accept as truth all that You have told me. Neither the gods nor the demons, O Lord, know Thy personality."

After hearing Bhagavad-gita from the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Arjuna accepted Krsna as param brahma, the Supreme Brahman. Every living being is Brahman, but the supreme living being, or the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is the Supreme Brahman. Param dhama means that He is the supreme rest or abode of everything; pavitram means that He is pure, untainted by material contamination; purusam means that He is the supreme enjoyer; sasvatam, original; divyam, transcendental; adi-devam, the Supreme Personality of Godhead; ajam, the unborn; and vibhum, the greatest, the all-pervading.

Now one may think that because Krsna was the friend of Arjuna, Arjuna was telling Him all this by way of flattery, but Arjuna, just to drive out this kind of doubt from the minds of the readers of Bhagavad-gita, substantiates these praises in the next verse when he says that Krsna is accepted as the Supreme Personality of Godhead not only by himself but by authorities like the sage Narada, Asita, Devala, Vyasadeva and so on. These are great personalities who distribute the Vedic knowledge as it is accepted by all acaryas. Therefore Arjuna tells Krsna that he accepts whatever He says to be completely perfect. Sarvam etad rtam manye: "I accept everything You say to be true." Arjuna also says that the personality of the Lord is very difficult to understand and that He cannot be known even by the great demigods. This means that the Lord cannot even be known by personalities greater than human beings. So how can a human being understand Sri Krsna without becoming His devotee?

Therefore Bhagavad-gita should be taken up in a spirit of devotion. One should not think that he is equal to Krsna, nor should he think that Krsna is an ordinary personality or even a very great personality. Lord Sri Krsna is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, at least theoretically, according to the statements of Bhagavad-gita or the statements of Arjuna, the person who is trying to understand the Bhagavad-gita. We should therefore at least theoretically accept Sri Krsna as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and with that submissive spirit we can understand the Bhagavad-gita. Unless one reads the Bhagavad-gita in a submissive spirit, it is very difficult to understand Bhagavad-gita because it is a great mystery.

Just what is the Bhagavad-gita? The purpose of Bhagavad-gita is to deliver mankind from the nescience of material existence. Every man is in difficulty in so many ways, as Arjuna also was in difficulty in having to fight the Battle of Kuruksetra. Arjuna surrendered unto Sri Krsna, and consequently this Bhagavad-gita was spoken. Not only Arjuna, but every one of us is full of anxieties because of this material existence. Our very existence is in the atmosphere of nonexistence. Actually we are not meant to be threatened by nonexistence. Our existence is eternal. But somehow or other we are put into asat. Asat refers to that which does not exist.

Out of so many human beings who are suffering, there are a few who are actually inquiring about their position, as to what they are, why they are put into this awkward position and so on. Unless one is awakened to this position of questioning his suffering, unless he realizes that he doesn't want suffering but rather wants to make a solution to all suffering, then one is not to be considered a perfect human being. Humanity begins when this sort of inquiry is awakened in one's mind. In the Brahma-sutra this inquiry is called brahma jijnasa. Every activity of the human being is to be considered a failure unless he inquires about the nature of the Absolute. Therefore those who begin to question why they are suffering or where they came from and where they shall go after death are proper students for understanding Bhagavad-gita. The sincere student should also have a firm respect for the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Such a student was Arjuna.

Lord Krsna descends specifically to reestablish the real purpose of life when man forgets that purpose. Even then, out of many, many human beings who awaken, there may be one who actually enters the spirit of understanding his position, and for him this Bhagavad-gita is spoken. Actually we are all followed by the tigress of nescience, but the Lord is very merciful upon living entities, especially human beings. To this end He spoke the Bhagavad-gita, making His friend Arjuna His student.

Being an associate of Lord Krsna, Arjuna was above all ignorance, but Arjuna was put into ignorance on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra just to question Lord Krsna about the problems of life so that the Lord could explain them for the benefit of future generations of human beings and chalk out the plan of life. Then man could act accordingly and perfect the mission of human life.

The subject of the Bhagavad-gita entails the comprehension of five basic truths. First of all, the science of God is explained and then the constitutional position of the living entities, jivas. There is isvara, which means controller, and there are jivas, the living entities which are controlled. If a living entity says that he is not controlled but that he is free, then he is insane. The living being is controlled in every respect, at least in his conditioned life. So in the Bhagavad-gita the subject matter deals with the isvara, the supreme controller, and the jivas, the controlled living entities. Prakrti (material nature) and time (the duration of existence of the whole universe or the manifestation of material nature) and karma (activity) are also discussed. The cosmic manifestation is full of different activities. All living entities are engaged in different activities. From Bhagavad-gita we must learn what God is, what the living entities are, what prakrti is, what the cosmic manifestation is, how it is controlled by time, and what the activities of the living entities are.

Out of these five basic subject matters in Bhagavad-gita it is established that the Supreme Godhead, or Krsna, or Brahman, or the supreme controller, or Paramatma—you may use whatever name you like—is the greatest of all. The living beings are in quality like the supreme controller. For instance, the Lord has control over the universal affairs, over material nature, as will be explained in the later chapters of Bhagavad-gita. Material nature is not independent. She is acting under the directions of the Supreme Lord. As Lord Krsna says, mayadhyaksena prakrtih suyate sa-caracaram: "This material nature is working under My direction." When we see wonderful things happening in the cosmic nature, we should know that behind this cosmic manifestation there is a controller. Nothing could be manifested without being controlled. It is childish not to consider the controller. For instance, a child may think that an automobile is quite wonderful to be able to run without a horse or other animal pulling it, but a sane man knows the nature of the automobile's engineering arrangement. He always knows that behind the machinery there is a man, a driver. Similarly, the Supreme Lord is a driver under whose direction everything is working. Now the jivas, or the living entities, have been accepted by the Lord, as we will note in the later chapters, as His parts and parcels. A particle of gold is also gold, a drop of water from the ocean is also salty, and similarly, we the living entities, being part and parcel of the supreme controller, isvara, or Bhagavan, Lord Sri Krsna, have all the qualities of the Supreme Lord in minute quantity because we are minute isvaras, subordinate isvaras. We are trying to control nature, as presently we are trying to control space or planets, and this tendency to control is there because it is in Krsna. But although we have a tendency to lord it over material nature, we should know that we are not the supreme controller. This is explained in Bhagavad-gita.

What is material nature? This is also explained in Gita as inferior prakrti, inferior nature. The living entity is explained as the superior prakrti. Prakrti is always under control, whether inferior or superior. Prakrti is female, and she is controlled by the Lord just as the activities of a wife are controlled by the husband. Prakrti is always subordinate, predominated by the Lord, who is the predominator. The living entities and material nature are both predominated, controlled by the Supreme Lord. According to the Gita, the living entities, although parts and parcels of the Supreme Lord, are to be considered prakrti. This is clearly mentioned in the Seventh Chapter, Fifth Verse of Bhagavad-gita: Apareyam itas tv anyam, "This prakrti is My lower nature," prakrtim viddhi me param jiva-bhutam maha-baho yayedam dharyate jagat. And beyond this there is another prakrti: jiva-bhutam, the living entity.

Prakrti itself is constituted by three qualities: the mode of goodness, the mode of passion and the mode of ignorance. Above these modes there is eternal time, and by a combination of these modes of nature and under the control and purview of eternal time there are activities which are called karma. These activities are being carried out from time immemorial, and we are suffering or enjoying the fruits of our activities. For instance, suppose I am a businessman and have worked very hard with intelligence and have amassed a great bank balance. Then I am an enjoyer. But then say I have lost all my money in business; then I am a sufferer. Similarly, in every field of life we enjoy the results of our work, or we suffer the results. This is called karma.

Isvara (the Supreme Lord), jiva (the living entity), prakrti (nature), eternal time and karma (activity) are all explained in the Bhagavad-gita. Out of these five, the Lord, the living entities, material nature and time are eternal. The manifestation of prakrti may be temporary, but it is not false. Some philosophers say that the manifestation of material nature is false, but according to the philosophy of Bhagavad-gita or according to the philosophy of the Vaisnavas, this is not so. The manifestation of the world is not accepted as false; it is accepted as real, but temporary. It is likened unto a cloud which moves across the sky, or the coming of the rainy season which nourishes grains. As soon as the rainy season is over and as soon as the cloud goes away, all the crops which were nourished by the rain dry up. Similarly, this material manifestation takes place at a certain interval, stays for a while and then disappears. Such are the workings of prakrti. But this cycle is working eternally. Therefore prakrti is eternal; it is not false. The Lord refers to this as "My prakrti." This material nature is the separated energy of the Supreme Lord, and similarly the living entities are also the energy of the Supreme Lord, but they are not separated. They are eternally related. So the Lord, the living entity, material nature and time are all interrelated and are all eternal. However, the other item, karma, is not eternal. The effects of karma may be very old indeed. We are suffering or enjoying the results of our activities from time immemorial, but we can change the results of our karma, or our activity, and this change depends on the perfection of our knowledge. We are engaged in various activities. Undoubtedly we do not know what sort of activities we should adopt to gain relief from the actions and reactions of all these activities, but this is also explained in the Bhagavad-gita.

The position of isvara is that of supreme consciousness. The jivas, or the living entities, being parts and parcels of the Supreme Lord, are also conscious. Both the living entity and material nature are explained as prakrti, the energy of the Supreme Lord, but one of the two, the jiva, is conscious. The other prakrti is not conscious. That is the difference. Therefore the jiva-prakrti is called superior because the jiva has consciousness which is similar to the Lord's. The Lord's is supreme consciousness, however, and one should not claim that the jiva, the living entity, is also supremely conscious. The living being cannot be supremely conscious at any stage of his perfection, and the theory that he can be so is a misleading theory. Conscious he may be, but he is not perfectly or supremely conscious.

The distinction between the jiva and the isvara will be explained in the Thirteenth Chapter of Bhagavad-gita. The Lord is ksetra-jna, conscious, as is the living being, but the living being is conscious of his particular body, whereas the Lord is conscious of all bodies. Because He lives in the heart of every living being, He is conscious of the psychic movements of the particular jivas. We should not forget this. It is also explained that the Paramatma, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is living in everyone's heart as isvara, as the controller, and that He is giving directions for the living entity to act as he desires. The living entity forgets what to do. First of all he makes a determination to act in a certain way, and then he is entangled in the actions and reactions of his own karma. After giving up one type of body, he enters another type of body, as we put on and take off old clothes. As the soul thus migrates, he suffers the actions and reactions of his past activities. These activities can be changed when the living being is in the mode of goodness, in sanity, and understands what sort of activities he should adopt. If he does so, then all the actions and reactions of his past activities can be changed. Consequently, karma is not eternal. Therefore we stated that of the five items (isvara, jiva, prakrti, time and karma) four are eternal, whereas karma is not eternal.

The supreme conscious isvara is similar to the living entity in this way: both the consciousness of the Lord and that of the living entity are transcendental. It is not that consciousness is generated by the association of matter. That is a mistaken idea. The theory that consciousness develops under certain circumstances of material combination is not accepted in the Bhagavad-gita. Consciousness may be pervertedly reflected by the covering of material circumstances, just as light reflected through colored glass may appear to be a certain color, but the consciousness of the Lord is not materially affected. Lord Krsna says, mayadhyaksena prakrtih. When He descends into the material universe, His consciousness is not materially affected. If He were so affected, He would be unfit to speak on transcendental matters as He does in the Bhagavad-gita. One cannot say anything about the transcendental world without being free from materially contaminated consciousness. So the Lord is not materially contaminated. Our consciousness, at the present moment, however, is materially contaminated. The Bhagavad-gita teaches that we have to purify this materially contaminated consciousness. In pure consciousness, our actions will be dovetailed to the will of isvara, and that will make us happy. It is not that we have to cease all activities. Rather, our activities are to be purified, and purified activities are called bhakti. Activities in bhakti appear to be like ordinary activities, but they are not contaminated. An ignorant person may see that a devotee is acting or working like an ordinary man, but such a person with a poor fund of knowledge does not know that the activities of the devotee or of the Lord are not contaminated by impure consciousness or matter. They are transcendental to the three modes of nature. We should know, however, that at this point our consciousness is contaminated.

When we are materially contaminated, we are called conditioned. False consciousness is exhibited under the impression that I am a product of material nature. This is called false ego. One who is absorbed in the thought of bodily conceptions cannot understand his situation. Bhagavad-gita was spoken to liberate one from the bodily conception of life, and Arjuna put himself in this position in order to receive this information from the Lord. One must become free from the bodily conception of life; that is the preliminary activity for the transcendentalist. One who wants to become free, who wants to become liberated, must first of all learn that he is not this material body. Mukti or liberation means freedom from material consciousness. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam also the definition of liberation is given. Mukti hitvanyatha-rupam svarupena vyavasthitiḥ: mukti means liberation from the contaminated consciousness of this material world and situation in pure consciousness. All the instructions of Bhagavad-gita are intended to awaken this pure consciousness, and therefore we find at the last stage of the Gita's instructions that Kṛṣṇa is asking Arjuna whether he is now in purified consciousness. Purified consciousness means acting in accordance with the instructions of the Lord. This is the whole sum and substance of purified consciousness. Consciousness is already there because we are part and parcel of the Lord, but for us there is the affinity of being affected by the inferior modes. But the Lord, being the Supreme, is never affected. That is the difference between the Supreme Lord and the conditioned souls.

What is this consciousness? This consciousness is "I am." Then what am I? In contaminated consciousness "I am" means "I am the lord of all I survey. I am the enjoyer." The world revolves because every living being thinks that he is the lord and creator of the material world. Material consciousness has two psychic divisions. One is that I am the creator, and the other is that I am the enjoyer. But actually the Supreme Lord is both the creator and the enjoyer, and the living entity, being part and parcel of the Supreme Lord, is neither the creator nor the enjoyer, but a cooperator. He is the created and the enjoyed. For instance, a part of a machine cooperates with the whole machine; a part of the body cooperates with the whole body. The hands, feet, eyes, legs and so on are all parts of the body, but they are not actually the enjoyers. The stomach is the enjoyer. The legs move, the hands supply food, the teeth chew, and all parts of the body are engaged in satisfying the stomach because the stomach is the principal factor that nourishes the body's organization. Therefore everything is given to the stomach. One nourishes the tree by watering its root, and one nourishes the body by feeding the stomach, for if the body is to be kept in a healthy state, then the parts of the body must cooperate to feed the stomach. Similarly, the Supreme Lord is the enjoyer and the creator, and we, as subordinate living beings, are meant to cooperate to satisfy Him. This cooperation will actually help us, just as food taken by the stomach will help all other parts of the body. If the fingers of the hand think that they should take the food themselves instead of giving it to the stomach, then they will be frustrated. The central figure of creation and of enjoyment is the Supreme Lord, and the living entities are cooperators. By cooperation they enjoy. The relation is also like that of the master and the servant. If the master is fully satisfied, then the servant is satisfied. Similarly, the Supreme Lord should be satisfied, although the tendency to become the creator and the tendency to enjoy the material world are there also in the living entities because these tendencies are there in the Supreme Lord who has created the manifested cosmic world.

We shall find, therefore, in this Bhagavad-gita that the complete whole is comprised of the supreme controller, the controlled living entities, the cosmic manifestation, eternal time and karma, or activities, and all of these are explained in this text. All of these taken completely form the complete whole, and the complete whole is called the Supreme Absolute Truth. The complete whole and the complete Absolute Truth are the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Sri Kṛṣṇa. All manifestations are due to His different energies. He is the complete whole.

It is also explained in the Gita that impersonal Brahman is also subordinate to the complete (brahmano hi pratishthaham). Brahman is more explicitly explained in the Brahma-sūtra to be like the rays of the sunshine. The impersonal Brahman is the shining rays of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Impersonal Brahman is incomplete realization of the absolute whole, and so also is the conception of Paramatma in the Twelfth Chapter. There it shall be seen that the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Puruṣottama, is above both impersonal Brahman and the partial realization of Paramatma. The Supreme Personality of Godhead is called sac-cid-ananda-vigraha. The Brahma-saṁhita begins in this way: isvarah paramah kṛṣṇah sac-cid-ananda-vigrahaḥ. anadir adir govindah sarva-karana-karanam. "Kṛṣṇa, is the cause of all causes. He is the primal cause, and He is the very form of eternity, knowledge and bliss." Impersonal Brahman realization is the realization of His sat (being) feature. Paramatma realization is the realization of cit (eternal knowledge). But realization of the Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, is realization of all the transcendental features: sat, cit and ananda (being, knowledge, bliss) in complete vigraha (form).

People with less intelligence consider the Supreme Truth to be impersonal, but He is a transcendental person, and this is confirmed in all Vedic literatures. Nityo nityanam cetanas cetananam. (Katha Upanisad 2.2.13) As we are all individual living beings and have our individuality, the Supreme Absolute Truth is also, in the ultimate issue, a person, and realization of the Personality of Godhead is realization of all of the transcendental features. The complete whole is not formless. If He is formless, or if He is less than any other thing, then He cannot be the complete whole. The complete whole must have everything within our experience and beyond our experience, otherwise it cannot be complete. The complete whole, Personality of Godhead, has immense potencies (parasya saktir vividhaiva sruyate).

How Kṛṣṇa is acting in different potencies is also explained in Bhagavad-gita. This phenomenal world or material world in which we are placed is also complete in itself because the twenty-four elements of which this material universe is a temporary manifestation, according to Sāṅkhya philosophy, are completely adjusted to produce complete resources which are necessary for the maintenance and subsistence of this universe. There is nothing extraneous; nor is there anything needed. This manifestation has its own time fixed by the energy of the supreme whole, and when its time is complete, these temporary manifestations will be annihilated by the complete arrangement of the complete. There is complete facility for the small complete units, namely the living entities, to realize the complete, and all sorts of incompleteness are experienced due to incomplete knowledge of the complete. So Bhagavad-gita contains the complete knowledge of Vedic wisdom.

All Vedic knowledge is infallible, and Hindus accept Vedic knowledge to be complete and infallible. For example, cow dung is the stool of an animal, and according to smṛti, or Vedic injunction, if one touches the stool of an animal he has to take a bath to purify himself. But in the Vedic scriptures cow dung is considered to be a purifying agent. One might consider this to be contradictory, but it is accepted because it is Vedic injunction, and indeed by accepting this, one will not commit a mistake; subsequently it has been proved by modern science that cow dung contains all antiseptic properties. So Vedic knowledge is complete because it is above all doubts and mistakes, and Bhagavad-gīta is the essence of all Vedic knowledge.

Vedic knowledge is not a question of research. Our research work is imperfect because we are researching things with imperfect senses. We have to accept perfect knowledge which comes down, as is stated in Bhagavad-gīta, by the parampara (disciplic succession). We have to receive knowledge from the proper source in disciplic succession beginning with the supreme spiritual master, the Lord Himself, and handed down to a succession of spiritual masters. Arjuna, the student who took lessons from Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa, accepts everything that He says without contradicting Him. One is not allowed to accept one portion of Bhagavad-gīta and not another. No. We must accept Bhagavad-gīta without interpretation, without deletion and without our own whimsical participation in the matter. The Gīta should be taken as the most perfect presentation of Vedic knowledge. Vedic knowledge is received from transcendental sources, and the first words were spoken by the Lord Himself. The words spoken by the Lord are called apauruṣeya, meaning that they are different from words spoken by a person of the mundane world who is infected with four defects. A mundaner is 1) is sure to commit mistakes, 2) is invariably illusioned, 3) has the tendency to cheat others and 4) is limited by imperfect senses. With these four imperfections, one cannot deliver perfect information of all-pervading knowledge.

Vedic knowledge is not imparted by such defective living entities. It was imparted unto the heart of Brahma, the first created living being, and Brahma in his turn disseminated this knowledge to his sons and disciples, as he originally received it from the Lord. The Lord is purnam, all-perfect, and there is no possibility of His becoming subjected to the laws of material nature. One should therefore be intelligent enough to know that the Lord is the only proprietor of everything in the universe and that He is the original creator, the creator of Brahma. In the Eleventh Chapter the Lord is addressed as prapitamaha because Brahma is addressed as pitamaha, the grandfather, and He is the creator of the grandfather. So no one should claim to be the proprietor of anything; one should accept only things which are set aside for him by the Lord as his quota for his maintenance.

There are many examples given of how we are to utilize those things which are set aside for us by the Lord. This is also explained in Bhagavad-gīta. In the beginning, Arjuna decided that he should not fight in the Battle of Kuruksetra. This was his own decision. Arjuna told the Lord that it was not possible for him to enjoy the kingdom after killing his own kinsmen. This decision was based on the body because he was thinking that the body was himself and that his bodily relations or expansions were his brothers, nephews, brothers-in-law, grandfathers and so on. He was thinking in this way to satisfy his bodily demands. Bhagavad-gita was spoken by the Lord just to change this view, and at the end Arjuna decides to fight under the directions of the Lord when he says, karisye vacanam tava: "I shall act according to Thy word."

In this world man is not meant to toil like hogs. He must be intelligent to realize the importance of human life and refuse to act like an ordinary animal. A human being should realize the aim of his life, and this direction is given in all Vedic literatures, and the essence is given in Bhagavad-gita. Vedic literature is meant for human beings, not for animals. Animals can kill other living animals, and there is no question of sin on their part, but if a man kills an animal for the satisfaction of his uncontrolled taste, he must be responsible for breaking the laws of nature. In the Bhagavad-gita it is clearly explained that there are three kinds of activities according to the different modes of nature: the activities of goodness, of passion and of ignorance. Similarly, there are three kinds of eatables also: eatables in goodness, passion and ignorance. All of this is clearly described, and if we properly utilize the instructions of Bhagavad-gita, then our whole life will become purified, and ultimately we will be able to reach the destination which is beyond this material sky.

That destination is called the sanatana sky, the eternal spiritual sky. In this material world we find that everything is temporary. It comes into being, stays for some time, produces some by-products, dwindles and then vanishes. That is the law of the material world, whether we use as an example this body, or a piece of fruit or anything. But beyond this temporary world there is another world of which we have information. This world consists of another nature, which is sanatana, eternal. Jiva is also described as sanatana, eternal, and the Lord is also described as sanatana in the Eleventh Chapter. We have an intimate relationship with the Lord, and because we are all qualitatively one—the sanatana-dhama, or sky, the sanatana Supreme Personality and the sanatana living entities—the whole purpose of Bhagavad-gita is to revive our sanatana occupation, or sanatana-dharma, which is the eternal occupation of the living entity. We are temporarily engaged in different activities, but all of these activities can be purified when we give up all these temporary activities and take up the activities which are prescribed by the Supreme Lord. That is called our pure life.

The Supreme Lord and His transcendental abode are both sanatana, as are the living entities, and the combined association of the Supreme Lord and the living entities in the sanatana abode is the perfection of human life. The Lord is very kind to the living entities because they are His sons. Lord Krsna declares in Bhagavad-gita, sarva-yonisu... aham bija-pradah pita: "I am the father of all." Of course there are all types of living entities

according to their various karmas, but here the Lord claims that He is the father of all of them. Therefore the Lord descends to reclaim all of these fallen, conditioned souls to call them back to the sanatana eternal sky so that the sanatana living entities may regain their eternal sanatana positions in eternal association with the Lord. The Lord comes Himself in different incarnations, or He sends His confidential servants as sons or His associates or acaryas to reclaim the conditioned souls.

Therefore, sanatana–dharma does not refer to any sectarian process of religion. It is the eternal function of the eternal living entities in relationship with the eternal Supreme Lord. Sanatana–dharma refers, as stated previously, to the eternal occupation of the living entity. Ramanujacarya has explained the word sanatana as "that which has neither beginning nor end," so when we speak of sanatana–dharma, we must take it for granted on the authority of Sri Ramanujacarya that it has neither beginning nor end.

The English world religion is a little different from sanatana–dharma. Religion conveys the idea of faith, and faith may change. One may have faith in a particular process, and he may change this faith and adopt another, but sanatana–dharma refers to that activity which cannot be changed. For instance, liquidity cannot be taken from water, nor can heat be taken from fire. Similarly, the eternal function of the eternal living entity cannot be taken from the living entity. Sanatana–dharma is eternally integral with the living entity. When we speak of sanatana–dharma, therefore, we must take it for granted on the authority of Sri Ramanujacarya that it has neither beginning nor end. That which has neither end nor beginning must not be sectarian, for it cannot be limited by any boundaries. Those belonging to some sectarian faith will wrongly consider that sanatana–dharma is also sectarian, but if we go deeply into the matter and consider it in the light of modern science, it is possible for us to see that sanatana–dharma is the business of all the people of the world—nay, of all the living entities of the universe.

Non–sanatana religious faith may have some beginning in the annals of human history, but there is no beginning to the history of sanatana–dharma because it remains eternally with the living entities. Insofar as the living entities are concerned, the authoritative sastras state that the living entity has neither birth nor death. In the Gita it is stated that the living entity is never born, and he never dies. He is eternal and indestructible, and he continues to live after the destruction of his temporary material body. In reference to the concept of sanatana–dharma, we must try to understand the concept of religion from the Sanskrit root meaning of the word. Dharma refers to that which is constantly existing with a particular object. We conclude that there is heat and light along with the fire; without heat and light, there is no meaning to the word fire. Similarly, we must discover the essential part of the living being, that part which is his constant companion. That constant companion is his eternal quality, and that eternal quality is his eternal religion.

When Sanatana Gosvami asked Sri Caitanya Mahaprabhu about the svarupa of every living being, the Lord replied that the svarupa or constitutional position of the living being is the rendering of service to the Supreme Personality of Godhead. If we analyze this statement of Lord Caitanya's, we can easily see that every living being is constantly engaged in rendering service to another living being. A living being serves other living beings in two capacities. By doing so, the living entity enjoys life. The lower animals serve human beings as servants serve their master. A serves B master, B serves C master and C serves D master and so on. Under these circumstances, we can see that one friend serves another friend, the mother serves the son, the wife serves the husband, the husband serves the wife and so on. If we go on searching in this spirit, it will be seen that there is no exception in the society of living beings to the activity of service. The politician presents his manifesto for the public to convince them of his capacity for service. The voters therefore give the politician their valuable votes, thinking that he will render valuable service to society. The shopkeeper serves the customer, and the artisan serves the capitalist. The capitalist serves the family, and the family serves the state in the terms of the eternal capacity of the eternal living being. In this way we can see that no living being is exempt from rendering service to other living beings, and therefore we can safely conclude that service is the constant companion of the living being and that the rendering of service is the eternal religion of the living being.

Yet man professes to belong to a particular type of faith with reference to particular time and circumstance and thus claims to be a Hindu, Muslim, Christian, Buddhist or any other sect. Such designations are non-sanatana-dharma. A Hindu may change his faith to become a Muslim, or a Muslim may change his faith to become a Hindu, or a Christian may change his faith and so on. But in all circumstances the change of religious faith does not affect the eternal occupation of rendering service to others. The Hindu, Muslim or Christian in all circumstances is servant of someone. Thus, to profess a particular type of sect is not to profess one's sanatana-dharma. The rendering of service is sanatana-dharma.

Factually we are related to the Supreme Lord in service. The Supreme Lord is the supreme enjoyer, and we living entities are His servitors. We are created for His enjoyment, and if we participate in that eternal enjoyment with the Supreme Personality of Godhead, we become happy. We cannot become happy otherwise. It is not possible to be happy independently, just as no one part of the body can be happy without cooperating with the stomach. It is not possible for the living entity to be happy without rendering transcendental loving service unto the Supreme Lord.

In the Bhagavad-gita, worship of different demigods or rendering service to them is not approved. It is stated in the Seventh Chapter, twentieth verse:

kamais tais tair hrta-jnanah

prapadyante 'nya-devatah

tam tam niyamam asthaya

prakṛtya niyatah svaya

"Those whose minds are distorted by material desires surrender unto demigods and follow the particular rules and regulations of worship according to their own natures." Here it is plainly said that those who are directed by lust worship the demigods and not the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa. When we mention the name Kṛṣṇa, we do not refer to any sectarian name. Kṛṣṇa means the highest pleasure, and it is confirmed that the Supreme Lord is the reservoir or storehouse of all pleasure. We are all hankering after pleasure. Ananda-mayo 'bhyasat (Vedānta-sūtra 1.1.12). The living entities, like the Lord, are full of consciousness, and they are after happiness. The Lord is perpetually happy, and if the living entities associate with the Lord, cooperate with Him and take part in His association, then they also become happy.

The Lord descends to this mortal world to show His pastimes in Vṛndāvana, which are full of happiness. When Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa was in Vṛndāvana, His activities with His cowherd boyfriends, with His damsel friends, with the inhabitants of Vṛndāvana and with the cows were all full of happiness. The total population of Vṛndāvana knew nothing but Kṛṣṇa. But Lord Kṛṣṇa even discouraged His father Nanda Mahārāja from worshipping the demigod Indra because He wanted to establish the fact that people need not worship any demigod. They need only worship the Supreme Lord because their ultimate goal is to return to His abode.

The abode of Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa is described in the Bhagavad-gītā, Fifteenth Chapter, sixth verse:

na tad bhasayate suryo

na sasanko na pavakah

yad gatva na nivartante

tad dhama paramam mama

"That abode of Mine is not illumined by the sun or moon, nor by electricity and anyone who reaches it never comes back to this material world."

This verse gives a description of that eternal sky. Of course we have a material conception of the sky, and we think of it in relationship to the sun, moon, stars and so on, but in this verse the Lord states that in the eternal sky there is no need for the sun nor for the moon nor fire of any kind because the spiritual sky is already illuminated by the brahmajyoti, the rays emanating from the Supreme Lord. We are trying with difficulty to reach other planets, but it is not difficult to understand the abode of the Supreme Lord. This abode is referred to as Goloka. In the Brahma-samhita (5.37) it is beautifully described: goloka eva nivasaty akhilatma-bhuta. The Lord resides eternally in His abode Goloka, yet He can be approached from this world, and to this end the Lord comes to manifest His real form, sac-cid-ananda-vigraha. When He manifests this form, there is no need for our imagining what He looks like. To discourage such imaginative speculation, He descends and exhibits Himself as He is, as Syamasundara. Unfortunately, the less intelligent deride Him because He comes as one of us and plays with us as a human being. But because of this we should not consider that the Lord is one of us. It is by His omnipotency that He presents Himself in His real form before us and displays His pastimes, which are prototypes of those pastimes found in His abode.

In the effulgent rays of the spiritual sky there are innumerable planets floating. The brahmajyoti emanates from the supreme abode, Krsnaloka, and the anandamaya-cinmaya planets, which are not material, float in those rays. The Lord says, na tad bhasayate suryo na sasanko na pavakah. yad gatva na nivartante tad dhama paramam mama. One who can approach that spiritual sky is not required to descend again to the material sky. In the material sky, even if we approach the highest planet (Brahmaloka), what to speak of the moon, we will find the same conditions of life, namely birth, death, disease and old age. No planet in the material universe is free from these four principles of material existence. Therefore the Lord says in Bhagavad-gita, abrahma-bhuvanal lokah punar avartino 'rjuna. The living entities are traveling from one planet to another, not by a mechanical arrangement but by a spiritual process. This is also mentioned: yanti deva-vrata devan pitrn yanti pitr-vratah. No mechanical arrangement is necessary if we want interplanetary travel. The Gita instructs: yanti deva-vrata devan. The moon, the sun and higher planets are called Svargaloka. There are three different statuses of planets: higher, middle and lower planetary systems. The earth belongs to the middle planetary system. Bhagavad-gita informs us how to travel to the higher planetary systems (Devaloka) with a very simple formula: yanti deva-vrata devan. One need only worship the particular demigod of that particular planet and in that way go to the moon, the sun or any of the higher planetary systems.

Yet Bhagavad-gita does not advise us to go to any of the planets in this material world because even if we go to Brahmaloka, the highest planet, through some sort of mechanical contrivance by maybe traveling for forty thousand years (and who would live that long?), we will still find the material inconveniences of birth, death, disease and old age. But one who wants to approach the supreme planet, Krsnaloka, or any of the other planets within the spiritual sky, will not meet with these material inconveniences.

Amongst all of the planets in the spiritual sky there is one supreme planet called Goloka Vrndavana, which is the original planet in the abode of the original Personality of Godhead Sri Krsna. All of this information is given in Bhagavad-gita, and we are given through its instruction information how to leave the material world and begin a truly blissful life in the spiritual sky.

In the Fifteenth Chapter of the Bhagavad-gita, the real picture of the material world is given. It is said there:

urdhva-mulam adhah-sakham

asvattham prahur avyayam

chandamsi yasya parnani

yas tam veda sa veda-vit

"The Supreme Lord said: There is a banyan tree which has its roots upward and its branches down, and the Vedic hymns are its leaves. One who knows this tree is the knower of the Vedas." (Bg 15.1) Here the material world is described as a tree whose roots are upwards and branches are below. We have experience of a tree whose roots are upward: if one stands on the bank of a river or any reservoir of water, he can see that the trees reflected in the water are upside down. The branches go downward and the roots upward. Similarly, this material world is a reflection of the spiritual world. The material world is but a shadow of reality. In the shadow there is no reality or substantiality, but from the shadow we can understand that there is substance and reality. In the desert there is no water, but the mirage suggests that there is such a thing as water. In the material world there is no water, there is no happiness, but the real water of actual happiness is there in the spiritual world.

The Lord suggests that we attain the spiritual world in the following manner (Bg. 15.5):

nirmana-moha jita-sanga-dosa

adhyatma-nitya vinivrtta-kamah

dvandvair vimuktah sukha-duhkha-samjnair

gacchanty amudhah padam avyayam tat

That padam avyayam or eternal kingdom can be reached by one who is nirmana–moha. What does this mean? We are after designations. Someone wants to become "sir," someone wants to become "lord," someone wants to become the president or a rich man or a king or something else. As long as we are attached to these designations, we are attached to the body because designations belong to the body. But we are not these bodies, and realizing this is the first stage in spiritual realization. We are associated with the three modes of material nature, but we must become detached through devotional service to the Lord. If we are not attached to devotional service to the Lord, then we cannot become detached from the modes of material nature. Designations and attachments are due to our lust and desire, our wanting to lord it over the material nature. As long as we do not give up this propensity of lording it over material nature, there is no possibility of returning to the kingdom of the Supreme, the sanatana–dhama. That eternal kingdom, which is never destroyed, can be approached by one who is not bewildered by the attractions of false material enjoyments, who is situated in the service of the Supreme Lord. One so situated can easily approach that supreme abode.

Elsewhere in the Gita (8.21) it is stated:

avyakto 'ksara ity uktas

tam ahuh paramam gatim

yam prapya na nivartante

tad dhama paramam mama

Avyakta means unmanifested. Not even all of the material world is manifested before us. Our senses are so imperfect that we cannot even see all of the stars within this material universe. In Vedic literature we can receive much information about all the planets, and we can believe it or not believe it. All of the important planets are described in Vedic literatures, especially Srimad–Bhagavatam, and the spiritual world, which is beyond this material sky, is described as avyakta, unmanifested. One should desire and hanker after that supreme kingdom, for when one attains that kingdom, he does not have to return to this material world.

Next, one may raise the question of how one goes about approaching that abode of the Supreme Lord. Information of this is given in the Eighth Chapter. It is said there:

anta–kale ca mam eva

smaran muktva kalevaram

yah prayati sa mad-bhavam

yati nasy atra samsayah

"Anyone who quits his body, at the end of life, remembering Me, attains immediately to My nature; and there is no doubt of this." (Bg. 8.5) One who thinks of Krsna at the time of his death goes to Krsna. One must remember the form of Krsna; if he quits his body thinking of this form, he approaches the spiritual kingdom. Mad-bhavam refers to the supreme nature of the Supreme Being. The Supreme Being is sac-cid-ananda-vigraha—eternal, full of knowledge and bliss. Our present body is not sac-cid-ananda. It is asat, not sat. It is not eternal; it is perishable. It is not cit, full of knowledge, but it is full of ignorance. We have no knowledge of the spiritual kingdom, nor do we even have perfect knowledge of this material world where there are so many things unknown to us. The body is also nirananda; instead of being full of bliss it is full of misery. All of the miseries we experience in the material world arise from the body, but one who leaves this body thinking of the Supreme Personality of Godhead at once attains a sac-cid-ananda body, as is promised in the fifth verse of the Eight Chapter where Lord Krsna says, "He attains My nature."

The process of quitting this body and getting another body in the material world is also organized. A man dies after it has been decided what form of body he will have in the next life. Higher authorities, not the living entity himself, make this decision. According to our activities in this life, we either rise or sink. This life is a preparation for the next life. If we can prepare, therefore, in this life to get promotion to the kingdom of God, then surely, after quitting this material body, we will attain a spiritual body just like the Lord's.

As explained before, there are different kinds of transcendentalists, the brahma-vadi, paramatma-vadi, and the devotee, and, as mentioned, in the brahmajyoti (spiritual sky) there are innumerable spiritual planets. The number of these planets is far, far greater than all of the planets of this material world. This material world has been approximated as only one quarter of the creation (ekamsena sthito jagat). In this material segment there are millions and billions of universes with trillions of planets and suns, stars and moons. But this whole material creation is only a fragment of the total creation. Most of the creation is in the spiritual sky. One who desires to merge into the existence of the Supreme Brahman is at once transferred to the brahmajyoti of the Supreme Lord and thus attains the spiritual sky. The devotee, who wants to enjoy the association of the Lord, enters into the Vaikuntha planets, which are innumerable, and the Supreme Lord by His plenary expansions as Narayana with four hands and with different names like Pradyumna, Aniruddha, Govinda, etc., associates with him there. Therefore at the end of life the transcendentalists either think of the brahmajyoti, the Paramatma or the Supreme Personality of Godhead Sri Krsna. In all cases they enter into the spiritual sky, but only the devotee, or he who is in personal touch with the Supreme Lord, enters into the Vaikuntha planets. The Lord further adds that of this "there is no doubt." This must be believed firmly. We should not reject that which does not tally with our imagination; our attitude should be that of Arjuna: "I believe everything that You have said." Therefore when the Lord says that at the time of death whoever thinks of Him as Brahman or Paramatma or as the Personality of Godhead certainly enters into the spiritual sky, there is no doubt about it. There is no question of disbelieving it.

The information on how to think of the Supreme Being at the time of death is also given in the Gita (8.6):

yam yam vapi smaran bhavam

tyajaty ante kalevaram

tam tam evaiti kaunteya

sada tad–bhava–bhavitah

"In whatever condition one quits his present body, in his next life he will attain to that state of being without fail." Material nature is a display of one of the energies of the Supreme Lord. In the Visnu Purana (6.7.61) the total energies of the Supreme Lord are delineated:

visnu–saktih para prokta

ksetra–jnakhya tatha para

avidya–karma–samjnanya

trtiya saktir isyate

The Supreme Lord has diverse and innumerable energies which are beyond our conception; however, great learned sages or liberated souls have studied these energies and have analyzed them into three parts. All of the energies are of visnu–sakti, that is to say they are different potencies of Lord Visnu. That energy is para, transcendental. Living entities also belong to the superior energy, as has already been explained. The other energies, or material energies, are in the mode of ignorance. At the time of death we can either remain in the inferior energy of this material world, or we can transfer to the energy of the spiritual world.

In life we are accustomed to thinking either of the material or the spiritual energy. There are so many literatures which fill our thoughts with the material energy—newspapers, magazines, novels, etc. Our thinking, which is now absorbed in these literatures, must be transferred to the Vedic literatures. The great sages, therefore, have written so many Vedic literatures such as the Puranas, etc. The Puranas are not imaginative; they are historical records. In the Caitanya-caritamṛta (Madhya 20.122) there is the following verse:

maya-mugdha jivera nahi svataḥ kṛṣṇa-jñāna

jivera kṛpaya kaila kṛṣṇa veda-purāṇa

The forgetful living entities or conditioned souls have forgotten their relationship with the Supreme Lord, and they are engrossed in thinking of material activities. Just to transfer their thinking power to the spiritual sky, Kṛṣṇa-dvaipayana Vyasa has given a great number of Vedic literatures. First he divided the Vedas into four, then he explained them in the Puranas, and for less capable people he wrote the Mahabharata. In the Mahabharata there is given the Bhagavad-gītā. Then all Vedic literature is summarized in the Vedānta-sūtra, and for future guidance he gave a natural commentary on the Vedānta-sūtra, called Śrīmad-Bhagavatam. We must always engage our minds in reading these Vedic literatures. Just as materialists engage their minds in reading newspapers, magazines and so many materialistic literatures, we must transfer our reading to these literatures which are given to us by Vyāsadeva; in that way it will be possible for us to remember the Supreme Lord at the time of death. That is the only way suggested by the Lord, and He guarantees the result: "There is no doubt."

tasmat sarvesu kalesu

mam anusmara yudhya ca

mayy arpita-mano-buddhir

mam evaisyasy asamsayah

"Therefore, Arjuna, you should always think of Me, and at the same time you should continue your prescribed duty and fight. With your mind and activities always fixed on Me and everything engaged in Me, you will attain to Me without any doubt." (Bg. 8.7)

He does not advise Arjuna to simply remember Him and give up his occupation. No, the Lord never suggests anything impractical. In this material world, in order to maintain the body one has to work. Human society is divided, according to work, into four divisions of social order—brahmana, ksatriya, vaisya, sudra. The brahmana class or intelligent class is working in one way, the ksatriya or administrative class is working in another way, and the mercantile class and the laborers are all tending to their specific duties. In the human society, whether one is a laborer, merchant, warrior, administrator, or farmer, or even if one belongs to the highest class and is a literary man, a scientist or a theologian, he has to work in order to maintain his existence. The Lord therefore tells Arjuna that he need not give up his occupation, but while he is engaged in his occupation he should remember Krsna (mam anusmara). If he doesn't practice remembering Krsna while he is struggling for existence, then it will not be possible for him to remember Krsna at the time of death. Lord Caitanya also advises this. He says, kirtaniyah sada harih: one should practice remembering the Lord by chanting the names of the Lord always. The names of the Lord and the Lord are nondifferent. So Lord Krsna's instructions to Arjuna to "remember Me" and Lord Caitanya's injunction to "always chant the names of Lord Krsna" are the same instruction. There is no difference, because Krsna and Krsna's name are nondifferent. In the absolute status there is no difference between reference and referent. Therefore we have to practice remembering the Lord always, twenty-four hours a day, by chanting His names and molding our life's activities in such a way that we can remember Him always.

How is this possible? The acaryas give the following example. If a married woman is attached to another man, or if a man has an attachment for a woman other than his wife, then the attachment is to be considered very strong. One with such an attachment is always thinking of the loved one. The wife who is thinking of her lover is always thinking of meeting him, even while she is carrying out her household chores. In fact, she carries out her household work even more carefully so her husband will not suspect her attachment. Similarly, we should always remember the supreme lover, Sri Krsna, and at the same time perform our material duties very nicely. A strong sense of love is required here. If we have a strong sense of love for the Supreme Lord, then we can discharge our duty and at the same time remember Him. But we have to develop that sense of love. Arjuna, for instance, was always thinking of Krsna; he was the constant companion of Krsna, and at the same time he was a warrior. Krsna did not advise him to give up fighting and go to the forest to meditate. When Lord Krsna delineates the yoga system to Arjuna, Arjuna says that the practice of this system is not possible for him.

arjuna uvaca

yo 'yam yogas tvaya proktah

samyena madhusudana

etasyaham na pasyami

"Arjuna said, O Madhusudana, the system of yoga which You have summarized appears impractical and unendurable to me, for the mind is restless and unsteady." (Bg. 6.33)

But the Lord says:

yoginam api sarvesam

mad-gatenantaratmana

sraddhavan bhajate yo mam

sa me yuktatamo matah

"Of all yogis, he who always abides in Me with great faith, worshiping Me in transcendental loving service, is most intimately united with Me in yoga, and is the highest of all." (Bg. 6.47) So one who thinks of the Supreme Lord always is the greatest yogi, the supermost jnani, and the greatest devotee at the same time. The Lord further tells Arjuna that as a ksatriya he cannot give up his fighting, but if Arjuna fights remembering Krsna, then he will be able to remember Him at the time of death. But one must be completely surrendered in the transcendental loving service of the Lord.

We work not with our body, actually, but with our mind and intelligence. So if the intelligence and the mind are always engaged in the thought of the Supreme Lord, then naturally the senses are also engaged in His service. Superficially, at least, the activities of the senses remain the same, but the consciousness is changed. The Bhagavad-gita teaches one how to absorb the mind and intelligence in the thought of the Lord. Such absorption will enable one to transfer himself to the kingdom of the Lord. If the mind is engaged in Krsna's service, then the senses are automatically engaged in His service. This is the art, and this is also the secret of Bhagavad-gita: total absorption in the thought of Sri Krsna.

Modern man has struggled very hard to reach the moon, but he has not tried very hard to elevate himself spiritually. If one has fifty years of life ahead of him, he should engage that brief time in cultivating this practice of remembering the Supreme Personality of Godhead. This practice is the devotional process of:

sravanam kirtanam visnoh

smaranam pada–sevanam

arcanam vandanam dasyam

sakhyam atma–nivedanam

(Srimad–Bhagavatam 7.5.23)

These nine processes, of which the easiest is sravanam, hearing Bhagavad–gita from the realized person, will turn one to the thought of the Supreme Being. This will lead to nisala, remembering the Supreme Lord, and will enable one, upon leaving the body, to attain a spiritual body which is just fit for association with the Supreme Lord.

The Lord further says:

abhyasa–yoga–yuktena

cetasa nanya–gamina

paramam purusam divyam

yati parthanucintayan

"By practicing this remembering, without being deviated, thinking ever of the Supreme Godhead, one is sure to achieve the planet of the Divine, the Supreme Personality, O son of Kunti." (Bg. 8.8)

This is not a very difficult process. However, one must learn it from an experienced person, from one who is already in the practice. The mind is always flying to this and that, but one must always practice concentrating the mind on the form of the Supreme Lord, Sri Krsna, or on the sound of His name. The mind is naturally restless, going hither and thither, but it can rest in the sound vibration of Krsna. One must thus meditate on paramam purusam, the Supreme Person, and thus attain Him. The ways and the means for ultimate realization, ultimate attainment, are stated in the Bhagavad–gita, and the doors of this knowledge are open for everyone. No one is barred out. All classes of men can approach the Lord by thinking of Him, for hearing and thinking of Him is possible for everyone.

The Lord further says (Bg. 9.32–33):

mam hi partha vyapasritya

ye 'pi syuh papa–yonayah

striyo vaisyas tatha sudras

te 'pi yanti param gatim

kim punar brahmanah punya

bhakta rajarsayas tatha

anityam asukham lokam

imam prapya bhajasva mam

"O son of Prtha, anyone who will take shelter in Me, whether a woman, or a merchant, or one born in a low family, can yet approach the supreme destination. How much greater then are the brahmanas, the righteous, the devotees, and saintly Kings! In this miserable world, these are fixed in devotional service to the Lord."

Human beings even in the lower statuses of life (a merchant, a woman or a laborer) can attain the Supreme. One does not need highly developed intelligence. The point is that anyone who accepts the principle of bhakti–yoga and accepts the Supreme Lord as the summum bonum of life, as the highest target, the ultimate goal, can approach the Lord in the spiritual sky. If one adopts the principles enunciated in Bhagavad–gita, he can make his life perfect and make a perfect solution to all the problems of life which arise out of the transient nature of material existence. This is the sum and substance of the entire Bhagavad–gita.

In conclusion, Bhagavad–gita is a transcendental literature which one should read very carefully. It is capable of saving one from all fear.

nehabhikrama–naso 'sti pratyavayo na vidyate

svalpam apy asya dharmasya trayate mahato bhayat

"In this endeavor there is no loss or diminution, and a little advancement on this path can protect one from the most dangerous type of fear." (Bg. 2.40) If one reads Bhagavad-gita sincerely and seriously, then all of the reactions of his past misdeeds will not react upon him. In the last portion of Bhagavad-gita (18.66), Lord Sri Krsna proclaims:

sarva-dharman parityajya

mam ekam saranam vraja

aham tvam sarva-papebhyo

moksayisyami ma sucah

"Give up all varieties of religiousness, and just surrender unto Me; and in return I shall protect you from all sinful reactions. Therefore, you have nothing to fear." Thus the Lord takes all responsibility for one who surrenders unto Him, and He indemnifies all the reactions of sin.

One cleanses himself daily by taking a bath in water, but one who takes his bath only once in the sacred Ganges water of the Bhagavad-gita cleanses away all the dirt of material life. Because Bhagavad-gita is spoken by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, one need not read any other Vedic literature. One need only attentively and regularly hear and read Bhagavad-gita. In the present age, mankind is so absorbed with mundane activities that it is not possible to read all of the Vedic literatures. But this is not necessary. This one book, Bhagavad-gita, will suffice because it is the essence of all Vedic literatures and because it is spoken by the Supreme Personality of Godhead. It is said that one who drinks the water of the Ganges certainly gets salvation, but what to speak of one who drinks the waters of Bhagavad-gita? Gita is the very nectar of the Mahabharata spoken by Visnu Himself, for Lord Krsna is the original Visnu. It is nectar emanating from the mouth of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and the Ganges is said to be emanating from the lotus feet of the Lord. Of course there is no difference between the mouth and the feet of the Supreme Lord, but in our position we can appreciate that the Bhagavad-gita is even more important than the Ganges.

The Bhagavad-gita is just like a cow, and Lord Krsna, who is a cowherd boy, is milking this cow. The milk is the essence of the Vedas, and Arjuna is just like a calf. The wise men, the great sages and pure devotees, are to drink the nectarean milk of Bhagavad-gita.

In this present day, man is very eager to have one scripture, one God, one religion, and one occupation. So let there be one common scripture for the whole world—Bhagavad-gita. And let there be one God only for the whole world—Sri Krsna. And one mantra only—Hare Krsna, Hare Krsna, Krsna Krsna, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare. And let there be one work only—the service of the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

THE DISCIPLIC SUCCESSION

Evam parampara—praptam imam rajarsayo viduh (Bhagavad—gita 4.2). This Bhagavad—gita As It Is is received through this disciplic succession:

- | | |
|-----------------|--|
| 1. Krsna | 17. Brahmanya Tirtha |
| 2. Brahma | 18. Vyasa Tirtha |
| 3. Narada | 19. Laksmipati |
| 4. Vyasa | 20. Madhavendra Puri |
| 5. Madhva | 21. Isvara Puri, (Nityananda, Advaita) |
| 6. Padmanabha | 22. Lord Caitanya |
| 7. Nrhari | 23. Rupa, (Svarupa, Sanatana) |
| 8. Madhava | 24. Raghunatha, Jiva |
| 9. Aksobhya | 25. Krsnadasa |
| 10. Jaya Tirtha | 26. Narottama |
| 11. Jnanasindhu | 27. Visvanatha |
| 12. Dayanidhi | 28. (Baladeva) Jagannatha |
| 13. Vidyanidhi | 29. Bhaktivinoda |
| 14. Rajendra | 30. Gaurakisora |
| 15. Jayadharma | 31. Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati |
| 16. Purusottama | 32. His Divine Grace A. C. |

Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupada

Chapter 1

Observing the Armies on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra

TEXT 1

dhrtarastra uvaca

dharma-ksetre kuru-ksetre

samaveta yuyutsavah

mamakah pandavas caiva

kim akurvata sanjaya

SYNONYMS

dhrtarastrah—King Dhrtarastra; uvaca—said; dharma-ksetre—in the place of pilgrimage; kuru-ksetre—in the place named Kuruksetra; samavetah—assembled; yuyutsavah—desiring to fight; mamakah—my party (sons); pandavah—the sons of Pandu; ca—and; eva—certainly; kim—what; akurvata—did they do; sanjaya—O Sanjaya.

TRANSLATION

Dhrtarastra said: O Sanjaya, after assembling in the place of pilgrimage at Kuruksetra, what did my sons and the sons of Pandu do, being desirous to fight?

PURPORT

Bhagavad-gita is the widely read theistic science summarized in the Gita-mahatmya (Glorification of the Gita). There it says that one should read Bhagavad-gita very scrutinizingly with the help of a person who is a devotee of Sri Kṛṣṇa and try to understand it without personally motivated interpretations. The example of clear understanding is there in the Bhagavad-gita itself, in the way the teaching is understood by Arjuna, who heard the Gita directly from the Lord. If someone is fortunate enough to understand Bhagavad-gita in that line of disciplic succession, without motivated interpretation, then he surpasses all studies of Vedic wisdom, and all scriptures of the world. One will find in the Bhagavad-gita all that is contained in other scriptures, but the reader will also find things which are not to be found elsewhere. That is the specific standard of the Gita. It is the perfect theistic science because it is directly spoken by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Sri Kṛṣṇa.

The topics discussed by Dhṛtarāṣṭra and Sanjaya, as described in the Mahabharata, form the basic principle for this great philosophy. It is understood that this philosophy evolved on the Battlefield of Kurukṣetra, which is a sacred place of pilgrimage from the immemorial time of the Vedic age. It was spoken by the Lord when He was present personally on this planet for the guidance of mankind.

The word dharma-kṣetra (a place where religious rituals are performed) is significant because, on the Battlefield of Kurukṣetra, the Supreme Personality of Godhead was present on the side of Arjuna. Dhṛtarāṣṭra, the father of the Kurus, was highly doubtful about the possibility of his sons' ultimate victory. In his doubt, he inquired from his secretary Sanjaya, "What did my sons and the sons of Pandu do?" He was confident that both his sons and the sons of his younger brother Pandu were assembled in that Field of Kurukṣetra for a determined engagement of war. Still, his inquiry is significant. He did not want a compromise between the cousins and brothers, and he wanted to be sure of the fate of his sons on the battlefield. Because the battle was arranged to be fought at Kurukṣetra, which is mentioned elsewhere in the Vedas as a place of worship—even for the denizens of heaven—Dhṛtarāṣṭra became very fearful about the influence of the holy place on the outcome of the battle. He knew very well that this would influence Arjuna and the sons of Pandu favorably, because by nature they were all virtuous. Sanjaya was a student of Vyasa, and therefore, by the mercy of Vyasa, Sanjaya was able to envision the Battlefield of Kurukṣetra even while he was in the room of Dhṛtarāṣṭra. And so, Dhṛtarāṣṭra asked him about the situation on the battlefield.

Both the Pandavas and the sons of Dhrtarastra belong to the same family, but Dhrtarastra's mind is disclosed herein. He deliberately claimed only his sons as Kurus, and he separated the sons of Pandu from the family heritage. One can thus understand the specific position of Dhrtarastra in his relationship with his nephews, the sons of Pandu. As in the paddy field the unnecessary plants are taken out, so it is expected from the very beginning of these topics that in the religious field of Kuruksetra where the father of religion, Sri Krsna, was present, the unwanted plants like Dhrtarastra's son Duryodhana and others would be wiped out and the thoroughly religious persons, headed by Yudhisthira, would be established by the Lord. This is the significance of the words dharma-ksetre and kuru-ksetre, apart from their historical and Vedic importance.

TEXT 2

sanjaya uvaca

drstva tu pandavanikam

vyudham duryodhanas tada

acaryam upasangamya

raja vacanam abravat

SYNONYMS

sanjaya—Sanjaya; uvaca—said; drstva—after seeing; tu—but; pandava-anikam—the soldiers of the Pandavas; vyudham—arranged in military phalanx; duryodhanah—King Duryodhana; tada—at that time; acaryam—the teacher; upasangamya—approaching nearby; raja—the king; vacanam—words; abravat—spoke.

TRANSLATION

Sanjaya said: O King, after looking over the army gathered by the sons of Pandu, King Duryodhana went to his teacher and began to speak the following words:

PURPORT

Dhrtarastra was blind from birth. Unfortunately, he was also bereft of spiritual vision. He knew very well that his sons were equally blind in the matter of religion, and he was sure that they could never reach an understanding with the Pandavas, who were all pious since birth. Still he was doubtful about the influence of the place of pilgrimage, and Sanjaya could understand his motive in asking about the situation on the battlefield. He wanted, therefore, to encourage the despondent king, and thus he warned him that his sons were not going to make any sort of compromise under the influence of the holy place. Sanjaya therefore informed the king that his son, Duryodhana, after seeing the military force of the Pandavas, at once went to the commander in chief, Dronacarya, to inform him of the real position. Although Duryodhana is mentioned as the king, he still had to go to the commander on account of the seriousness of the situation. He was therefore quite fit to be a politician. But Duryodhana's diplomatic veneer could not disguise the fear he felt when he saw the military arrangement of the Pandavas.

TEXT 3

pasyaitam pandu-putranam

acarya mahatim camum

vyudham drupada-putrena

tava sisyena dhimata

SYNONYMS

pasya—behold; etam—this; pandu—putranam—of the sons of Pandu; acarya—O teacher; mahatim—great; camum—military force; vyudham—arranged; drupada—putrena—by the son of Drupada; tava—your; sisyyena—disciple; dhi—mata—very intelligent.

TRANSLATION

O my teacher, behold the great army of the sons of Pandu, so expertly arranged by your intelligent disciple, the son of Drupada.

PURPORT

Duryodhana, a great diplomat, wanted to point out the defects of Dronacarya, the great brahmana commander in chief. Dronacarya had some political quarrel with King Drupada, the father of Draupadi, who was Arjuna's wife. As a result of this quarrel, Drupada performed a great sacrifice, by which he received the benediction of having a son who would be able to kill Dronacarya. Dronacarya knew this perfectly well, and yet, as a liberal brahmana, he did not hesitate to impart all his military secrets when the son of Drupada, Dhrstadyumna, was entrusted to him for military education. Now, on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra, Dhrstadyumna took the side of the Pandavas, and it was he who arranged for their military phalanx, after having learned the art from Dronacarya. Duryodhana pointed out this mistake of Dronacarya's so that he might be alert and uncompromising in the fighting. By this he wanted to point out also that he should not be similarly lenient in battle against the Pandavas, who were also Dronacarya's affectionate students. Arjuna, especially, was his most affectionate and brilliant student. Duryodhana also warned that such leniency in the fight would lead to defeat.

TEXT 4

atra sura mahesvasa

bhimarjuna—sama yudhi

yuyudhano viratas ca

drupadas ca maha—rathah

SYNONYMS

atra—here; surah—heroes; maha—isu—asah—mighty bowmen; bhima—arjuna—Bhima and Arjuna; samah—equal; yudhi—in the fight; yuyudhanah—Yuyudhana; viratah—Virata; ca—also; drupadah—Drupada; ca—also; maha—rathah—great fighter.

TRANSLATION

Here in this army there are many heroic bowmen equal in fighting to Bhima and Arjuna; there are also great fighters like Yuyudhana, Virata and Drupada.

PURPORT

Even though Dhrstadyumna was not a very important obstacle in the face of Dronacarya's very great power in the military art, there were many others who were the cause of fear. They are mentioned by Duryodhana as great stumbling blocks on the path of victory because each and every one of them was as formidable as Bhima and Arjuna. He knew the strength of Bhima and Arjuna, and thus he compared the others with them.

TEXT 5

dhrstaketus cekitanah

kasirajas ca viryavan

purujit kuntibhojas ca

saibyas ca nara–pungavah

SYNONYMS

dhrstaketuh—Dhrstaketu; cekitanah—Cekitana; kasirajah—Kasiraja; ca—also; virya–van—very powerful; purujit—Purujit; kuntibhojah—Kuntibhoja; ca—and; saibyah—Saibya; ca—and; nara–pungavah—heroes in human society.

TRANSLATION

There are also great, heroic, powerful fighters like Dhrstaketu, Cekitana, Kasiraja, Purujit, Kuntibhoja and Saibya.

TEXT 6

yudhamanyus ca vikranta

uttamaujas ca viryavan

saubhadro draupadeyas ca

sarva eva maha–rathah

SYNONYMS

yudhamanyuh—Yudhamanyu; ca—and; vikrantah—mighty; uttamaudah—Uttamaudah;
ca—and; virya—van—very powerful; saubhadrah—the son of Subhadra;
draupadeyah—the sons of Draupadi; ca—and; sarve—all; eva—certainly;
maha—rathah—great chariot fighters.

TRANSLATION

There are the mighty Yudhamanyu, the very powerful Uttamaudah, the son of Subhadra and the sons of Draupadi. All these warriors are great chariot fighters.

TEXT 7

asmakam tu visista ye

tan nibodha dvijottama

nayaka mama sainya

samjnartham tan bravimi te

SYNONYMS

asmakam—our; tu—but; visistah—especially powerful; ye—those; tan—them;
nibodha—just take note, be informed; dvija—uttama—the best of the brahmanas;
nayakah—captains; mama—my; sainya—of the soldiers; samjna—artham—for information; tan—them; bravimi—I am speaking; te—your.

TRANSLATION

O best of the brahmanas, for your information, let me tell you about the captains who are especially qualified to lead my military force.

TEXT 8

bhavan bhismas ca karnas ca

krpas ca samitim-jayah

asvatthama vikarnas ca

saumadattis tathaiva ca

SYNONYMS

bhavan—your self; bhisma—Grandfather Bhishma; ca—also; karnah—Karna; ca—and; krpah—Krupa; ca—and; samitim-jayah—always victorious in battle; asvatthama—Asvatthama; vikarnah—Vikarna; ca—as well as; saumadattih—the son of Somadatta; tatha—and as; eva—certainly; ca—and.

TRANSLATION

There are personalities like yourself, Bhishma, Karna, Krpa, Asvatthama, Vikarna and the son of Somadatta called Bhurishrava, who are always victorious in battle.

PURPORT

Duryodhana mentions the exceptional heroes in the battle, all of whom are ever victorious. Vikarna is the brother of Duryodhana, Asvatthama is the son of Dronacarya, and Saumadatti, or Bhurisrava, is the son of the King of the Bahlikas. Karna is the half brother of Arjuna, as he was born of Kunti before her marriage with King Pandu. Kṛpacarya's twin sister married Dronacarya.

TEXT 9

anye ca bahavah sura

mat-arthe tyakta-jivitaḥ

nana-sastra-praharaṇaḥ

sarve yuddha-visaradāḥ

SYNONYMS

anye—many others; ca—also; bahavah—in great numbers; sura—heroes; mat-arthe—for my sake; tyakta-jivitaḥ—prepared to risk life; nana—many; sastra—weapons; praharaṇaḥ—equipped with; sarve—all of them; yuddha—battle; visaradāḥ—experienced in military science.

TRANSLATION

There are many other heroes who are prepared to lay down their lives for my sake. All of them are well equipped with different kinds of weapons, and all are experienced in military science.

PURPORT

As far as the others are concerned—like Jayadratha, Krtavarma, Salya, etc.—all are determined to lay down their lives for Duryodhana's sake. In other words, it is already concluded that all of them would die in the Battle of Kuruksetra for joining the party of the sinful Duryodhana. Duryodhana was, of course, confident of his victory on account of the above-mentioned combined strength of his friends.

TEXT 10

aparyaptam tad asmakam

balam bhismaabhiraksitam

paryaptam tv idam etesam

balam bhimaabhiraksitam

SYNONYMS

aparyaptam—immeasurable; tat—that; asmakam—of ours; balam—strength;
bhisma—by Grandfather Bhishma; abhiraksitam—perfectly protected;
paryaptam—limited; tu—but; idam—all this; etesam—of the Pandavas;
balam—strength; bhima—by Bhima; abhiraksitam—carefully protected.

TRANSLATION

Our strength is immeasurable, and we are perfectly protected by Grandfather Bhishma, whereas the strength of the Pandavas, carefully protected by Bhima, is limited.

PURPORT

Herein an estimation of comparative strength is made by Duryodhana. He thinks that the strength of his armed forces is immeasurable, being specifically protected by the most experienced general, Grandfather Bhishma. On the other hand, the forces of the Pandavas are limited, being protected by a less experienced general, Bhima, who is like a fig in the presence of Bhishma. Duryodhana was always envious of Bhima because he knew perfectly well that if he should die at all, he would only be killed by Bhima. But at the same time, he was confident of his victory on account of the presence of Bhishma, who was a far superior general. His conclusion that he would come out of the battle victorious was well ascertained.

TEXT 11

ayanesu ca sarvesu

yatha–bhagam avasthitah

bhismam evabhiraksantu

bhavantah sarva eva hi

SYNONYMS

ayanesu—in the strategic points; ca—also; sarvesu—everywhere; yatha—bhagam—as they are differently arranged; avasthitah—situated; bhisam—unto Grandfather Bhishma; eva—certainly; abhiraksantu—support may be given; bhavantah—all of you; sarve—respectively; eva—certainly; hi—and exactly.

TRANSLATION

Now all of you must give full support to Grandfather Bhishma, standing at your respective strategic points in the phalanx of the army.

PURPORT

Duryodhana, after praising the prowess of Bhishma, further considered that others might think that they had been considered less important, so in his usual diplomatic way, he tried to adjust the situation in the above words. He emphasized that Bhismadeva was undoubtedly the greatest hero, but he was an old man, so everyone must especially think of his protection from all sides. He might become engaged in the fight, and the enemy might take advantage of his full engagement on one side. Therefore, it was important that other heroes would not leave their strategic positions and allow the enemy to break the phalanx. Duryodhana clearly felt that the victory of the Kurus depended on the presence of Bhismadeva. He was confident of the full support of Bhismadeva and Dronacarya in the battle because he well knew that they did not even speak a word when Arjuna's wife Draupadi, in her helpless condition, had appealed to them for justice while she was being forced to appear naked in the presence of all the great generals in the assembly. Although he knew that the two generals had some sort of affection for the Pandavas, he hoped that all such affection would now be completely given up by them, as was customary during the gambling performances.

TEXT 12

tasya sanjanayan harsam

kuru—vrddhah pitamahah

simha—nadam vinadyoccaiḥ

sankham dadhmau pratapavan

SYNONYMS

tasya—his; sanjanayan—increasing; harsam—cheerfulness; kuru—vrddhah—the grandsire of the Kuru dynasty (Bhisma); pitamahah—the grandfather; simha—nadam—roaring sound, like a lion; vinadya—vibrating; uccaiḥ—very loudly; sankham—conchshell; dadhmau—blew; pratapa—van—the valiant.

TRANSLATION

Then Bhisma, the great valiant grandsire of the Kuru dynasty, the grandfather of the fighters, blew his conchshell very loudly, like the sound of a lion, giving Duryodhana joy.

PURPORT

The grandsire of the Kuru dynasty could understand the inner meaning of the heart of his grandson Duryodhana, and out of his natural compassion for him he tried to cheer him by blowing his conchshell very loudly, befitting his position as a lion. Indirectly, by the symbolism of the conchshell, he informed his depressed grandson Duryodhana that he had no chance of victory in the battle, because the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa was on the other side. But still, it was his duty to conduct the fight, and no pains would be spared in that connection.

TEXT 13

tatah sankhas ca bheryas ca

panavanaka—gomukhah

sahasaivabhyahanyanta

sa sabdas tumulo 'bhavat

SYNONYMS

tatah—thereafter; sankhah—conchshells; ca—also; bheryah—bugles; ca—and; panava—anaka—trumpets and drums; go—mukhah—horns; sahasa—all of a sudden; eva—certainly; abhyahanyanta—being simultaneously sounded; sah—that; sabdah—combined sound; tumulah—tumultuous; abhavat—became.

TRANSLATION

After that, the conchshells, bugles, trumpets, drums and horns were all suddenly sounded, and the combined sound was tumultuous.

TEXT 14

tatah svetair hayair yukte

mahati syandane sthitau

madhavah pandavas caiva

divyau sankhau pradadhmatuh

SYNONYMS

tatah—thereafter; svetaih—by white; hayaih—horses; yukte—being yoked; mahati—in a great; syandane—chariot; sthitau—so situated; madhavah—Krsna (the husband of the goddess of fortune); pandavah—Arjuna (the son of Pandu); ca—also; eva—certainly; divyau—transcendental; sankhau—conchshells; pradadhmauh—sounded.

TRANSLATION

On the other side, both Lord Krsna and Arjuna, stationed on a great chariot drawn by white horses, sounded their transcendental conchshells.

PURPORT

In contrast with the conchshell blown by Bhismadeva, the conchshells in the hands of Krsna and Arjuna are described as transcendental. The sounding of the transcendental conchshells indicated that there was no hope of victory for the other side because Krsna was on the side of the Pandavas. Jayas tu pandu-putranam yesam pakse janardanah. Victory is always with persons like the sons of Pandu because Lord Krsna is associated with them. And whenever and wherever the Lord is present, the goddess of fortune is also there because the goddess of fortune never lives alone without her husband. Therefore, victory and fortune were awaiting Arjuna, as indicated by the transcendental sound produced by the conchshell of Visnu, or Lord Krsna. Besides that, the chariot on which both the friends were seated was donated by Agni (the fire-god) to Arjuna, and this indicated that this chariot was capable of conquering all sides, wherever it was drawn over the three worlds.

TEXT 15

pancajanyam hrsikeso

devadattam dhananjayah

paundram dadhmau maha-sankham

bhima-karma vrkodarah

SYNONYMS

pancajanyam—the conchshell named Pancajanya; hrsika—isah—Hrsikesa (Krsna, the Lord who directs the senses of the devotees); devadattam—the conchshell named Devadatta; dhanam-jayah—Dhananjaya (Arjuna, the winner of wealth); paundram—the conch named Paundra; dadhmau—blew; maha-sankham—the terrific conchshell; bhima-karma—one who performs herculean tasks; vrka-udarah—the voracious eater (Bhima).

TRANSLATION

Then, Lord Krsna blew His conchshell, called Pancajanya; Arjuna blew his, the Devadatta; and Bhima, the voracious eater and performer of herculean tasks, blew his terrific conchshell called Paundra.

PURPORT

Lord Krsna is referred to as Hrsikesa in this verse because He is the owner of all senses. The living entities are part and parcel of Him, and, therefore the senses of the living entities are also part and parcel of His senses. The impersonalists cannot account for the senses of the living entities, and therefore they are always anxious to describe all living entities as sense-less, or impersonal. The Lord, situated in the hearts of all living entities, directs their senses. But, He directs in terms of the surrender of the living entity, and in the case of a pure devotee He directly controls the senses. Here on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra the Lord directly controls the transcendental senses of Arjuna, and thus His particular name of Hrsikesa. The Lord has different names according to His different activities. For example, His name is Madhusudana because He killed the demon of the name Madhu; His name is Govinda because He gives pleasure to the cows and to the senses; His name is Vasudeva because He appeared as the son of Vasudeva; His name is Devaki-nandana because He accepted Devaki as His mother; His name is Yasoda-nandana because He awarded His childhood pastimes to Yasoda at Vrndavana; His name is Partha-sarathi because He worked as charioteer of His friend Arjuna. Similarly, His name is Hrsikesa because He gave direction to Arjuna on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra.

Arjuna is referred to as Dhananjaya in this verse because he helped his elder brother in fetching wealth when it was required by the king to make expenditures for different sacrifices. Similarly, Bhima is known as Vrkodara because he could eat as voraciously as he could perform herculean tasks, such as killing the demon Hidimba. So, the particular types of conchshell blown by the different personalities on the side of the Pandavas, beginning with the Lord's, were all very encouraging to the fighting soldiers. On the other side there were no such credits, nor the presence of Lord Krsna, the supreme director, nor that of the goddess of fortune. So, they were predestined to lose the battle—and that was the message announced by the sounds of the conchshells.

TEXTS 16–18

anantavijayam raja

kunti-putro yudhisthirah

nakulah sahadevas ca

sughosa-manipuspakau

kasyas ca paramesv-asah

sikhandi ca maha-rathah

dhrstadyumno viratas ca

satyakis caparajitah

drupado draupadeyas ca

sarvasah prthivi-pate

saubhadras ca maha-bahuh

sankhan dadhmuh prthak prthak

SYNONYMS

ananta-vijayam—the conch named Ananta-vijaya; raja—the king; kunti-putrah—the son of Kunti; yudhisthirah—Yudhisthira; nakulah—Nakula; sahadevah—Sahadeva; ca—and; sughosa-manipuspakau—the conches named Sughosa and Manipuspaka; kasyah—the King of Kasi (Varanasi); ca—and; parama-isu-asah—the great archer; sikhandi—Sikhandi; ca—also; maha-rathah—one who can fight alone against thousands; dhrstadyumnah—Dhrstadyumna (the son of King Drupada); viratah—Virata (the prince who gave shelter to the Pandavas while they were in disguise); ca—also; satyaki—Satyaki (the same as Yuyudhana, the charioteer of Lord Krsna); ca—and; aparajitah—who were never vanquished before; drupadah—Drupada, the King of Pancala; draupadeyah—the sons of Draupadi; ca—also; sarvasah—all; prthivi-pate—O King; saubhadrah—the son of Subhadra (Abhimanyu); ca—also; maha-bahuh—mighty-armed; sankhan—conchshells; dadhmuh—blew; prthak prthak—each separately.

TRANSLATION

King Yudhisthira, the son of Kunti, blew his conchshell, the Ananta-vijaya, and Nakula and Sahadeva blew the Sughosa and Manipuspaka. That great archer the King of Kasi, the great fighter Sikhandi, Dhrstadyumna, Virata and the unconquerable Satyaki, Drupada, the sons of Draupadi, and the others, O King, such as the mighty—armed son of Subhadra, all blew their respective conchshells.

PURPORT

Sanjaya informed King Dhrtarastra very tactfully that his unwise policy of deceiving the sons of Pandu and endeavoring to enthrone his own sons on the seat of the kingdom was not very laudable. The signs already clearly indicated that the whole Kuru dynasty would be killed in that great battle. Beginning with the grandsire, Bhishma, down to the grandsons like Abhimanyu and others—including kings from many states of the world—all were present there, and all were doomed. The whole catastrophe was due to King Dhrtarastra, because he encouraged the policy followed by his sons.

TEXT 19

sa ghoso dhartarastranam

hrdayani vyadarayat

nabhas ca prthivim caiva

tumulo 'bhyanunadayan

SYNONYMS

sah—that; ghosah—vibration; dhartarastranam—of the sons of Dhrtarastra; hrdayani—hearts; vyadarayat—shattered; nabhas—the sky; ca—also; prthivim—the surface of the earth; ca—also; eva—certainly; tumulah—uproarious;
abhyanunadayan—by resounding.

TRANSLATION

The blowing of these different conchshells became uproarious, and thus, vibrating both in the sky and on the earth, it shattered the hearts of the sons of Dhrtarastra.

PURPORT

When Bhisma and the others on the side of Duryodhana blew their respective conchshells, there was no heart-breaking on the part of the Pandavas. Such occurrences are not mentioned, but in this particular verse it is mentioned that the hearts of the sons of Dhrtarastra were shattered by the sounds vibrated by the Pandavas' party. This is due to the Pandavas and their confidence in Lord Krsna. One who takes shelter of the Supreme Lord has nothing to fear, even in the midst of the greatest calamity.

TEXT 20

atha vyavasthitan drstva

dhartarastran kapi-dhvajah

pravrtte sastra-sampate

dhanur udyamya pandavah

hrsikesam tada vakyam

idam aha mahi-pate

SYNONYMS

atha—thereupon; vyavasthitan—situated; drstva—looking upon; dhartarastran—the sons of Dhrtarastra; kapi—dhvajah—one whose flag is marked with Hanuman; pravrtte—while about to engage; sastra—sarpate—the arrows released; dhanuh—bow; udyamya—after taking up; pandavah—the son of Pandu (Arjuna); hrsikesam—unto Lord Krsna; tada—at that time; vakyam—words; idam—these; aha—said; mahi—pate—O King.

TRANSLATION

O King, at that time Arjuna, the son of Pandu, who was seated in his chariot, bearing the flag marked with Hanuman, took up his bow and prepared to shoot his arrows, looking at the sons of Dhrtarastra. O King, Arjuna then spoke to Hrsikesa [Krsna] these words:

PURPORT

The battle was just about to begin. It is understood from the above statement that the sons of Dhrtarastra were more or less disheartened by the unexpected arrangement of military force by the Pandavas, who were guided by the direct instructions of Lord Krsna on the battlefield. The emblem of Hanuman on the flag of Arjuna is another sign of victory because Hanuman cooperated with Lord Rama in the battle between Rama and Ravana, and Lord Rama emerged victorious. Now both Rama and Hanuman were present on the chariot of Arjuna to help him. Lord Krsna is Rama Himself, and wherever Lord Rama is, His eternal servitor Hanuman and His eternal consort Sita, the goddess of fortune, are present. Therefore, Arjuna had no cause to fear any enemies whatsoever. And above all, the Lord of the senses, Lord Krsna, was personally present to give him direction. Thus, all good counsel was available to Arjuna in the matter of executing the battle. In such auspicious conditions, arranged by the Lord for His eternal devotee, lay the signs of assured victory.

TEXTS 21–22

arjuna uvaca

senayor ubhayor madhye

ratham sthapaya me 'cyuta

yavad etan nirikse 'ham

yoddhu—kaman avasthitan

kair maya saha yoddhavyam

asmin rana—samudyame

SYNONYMS

arjunah—Arjuna; uvaca—said; senayoh—of the armies; ubhayoh—of both the parties; madhye—in between them; ratham—the chariot; sthapaya—please keep; me—my; acyuta—O infallible one; yavat—as long as; etan—all these; nirikse—may look; aham—I; yoddhu—kaman—desiring to fight; avasthitan—arrayed on the battlefield; kaih—with whom; maya—by me; saha—with; yoddhavyam—to fight with; asmin—in this; rana—strife; samudyame—in the attempt.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O infallible one, please draw my chariot between the two armies so that I may see who is present here, who is desirous of fighting, and with whom I must contend in this great battle attempt.

PURPORT

Although Lord Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, out of His causeless mercy He was engaged in the service of His friend. He never fails in His affection for His devotees, and thus He is addressed herein as infallible. As charioteer, He had to carry out the orders of Arjuna, and since He did not hesitate to do so, He is addressed as infallible. Although He had accepted the position of a charioteer for His devotee, His supreme position was not challenged. In all circumstances, He is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Hṛṣīkeśa, the Lord of the total senses. The relationship between the Lord and His servitor is very sweet and transcendental. The servitor is always ready to render service to the Lord, and, similarly, the Lord is always seeking an opportunity to render some service to the devotee. He takes greater pleasure in His pure devotee's assuming the advantageous position of ordering Him than He does in being the giver of orders. As master, everyone is under His orders, and no one is above Him to order Him. But when He finds that a pure devotee is ordering Him, He obtains transcendental pleasure, although He is the infallible master of all circumstances.

As a pure devotee of the Lord, Arjuna had no desire to fight with his cousins and brothers, but he was forced to come onto the battlefield by the obstinacy of Duryodhana, who was never agreeable to any peaceful negotiation. Therefore, he was very anxious to see who the leading persons present on the battlefield were. Although there was no question of a peacemaking endeavor on the battlefield, he wanted to see them again and to see how much they were bent upon demanding an unwanted war.

TEXT 23

yotsyamanan avekse 'ham

ya ete 'tra samagatah

dhartarastrasya durbuddher

yuddhe priya—cikirsavah

SYNONYMS

yotsyamanan—those who will be fighting; avekse—let me see; aham—I; ye—who; ete—those; atra—here; samagatah—assembled; dhartarastrasya—the son of Dhrtarastra; durbuddheh—evil-minded; yuddhe—in the fight; priya—well; cikirsavah—wishing.

TRANSLATION

Let me see those who have come here to fight, wishing to please the evil-minded son of Dhrtarastra.

PURPORT

It was an open secret that Duryodhana wanted to usurp the kingdom of the Pandavas by evil plans, in collaboration with his father, Dhrtarastra. Therefore, all persons who had joined the side of Duryodhana must have been birds of the same feather. Arjuna wanted to see them in the battlefield before the fight was begun, just to learn who they were, but he had no intention of proposing peace negotiations with them. It was also a fact that he wanted to see them to make an estimate of the strength which he had to face, although he was quite confident of victory because Krsna was sitting by his side.

TEXT 24

sanjaya uvaca

evam ukto hrsikeso

gudakesena bharata

senayor ubhayor madhye

sthapayitva rathottamam

SYNONYMS

sanjaya—Sanjaya; uvaca—said; evam—thus; uktah—addressed; hrsikesah—Lord Krsna; gudakesena—by Arjuna; bharata—O descendant of Bharata; senayoh—of armies; ubhayoh—of both; madhye—in the midst of; sthapayitva—by placing; ratha—uttamam—the finest chariot.

TRANSLATION

Sanjaya said: O descendant of Bharata, being thus addressed by Arjuna, Lord Krsna drew up the fine chariot in the midst of the armies of both parties.

PURPORT

In this verse Arjuna is referred to as Gudakesa. Gudaka means sleep, and one who conquers sleep is called gudakesa. Sleep also means ignorance. So Arjuna conquered both sleep and ignorance because of his friendship with Krsna. As a great devotee of Krsna, he could not forget Krsna even for a moment, because that is the nature of a devotee. Either in waking or in sleep, a devotee of the Lord can never be free from thinking of Krsna's name, form, qualities and pastimes. Thus a devotee of Krsna can conquer both sleep and ignorance simply by thinking of Krsna constantly. This is called Krsna consciousness, or samadhi. As Hrsikesa, or the director of the senses and mind of every living entity, Krsna could understand Arjuna's purpose in placing the chariot in the midst of the armies. Thus He did so, and spoke as follows.

TEXT 25

bhisma—drona—pramukhatah

sarvesam ca mahi—ksitam

uvaca partha pasyaitan

samavetan kurun iti

SYNONYMS

bhisma—Grandfather Bhisma; drona—the teacher Drona; pramukhatah—in front of; sarvesam—all; ca—also; mahi—ksitam—chiefs of the world; uvaca—said; partha—O Partha (son of Prtha); pasya—just behold; etan—all of them; samavetan—assembled; kurun—all the members of the Kuru dynasty; iti—thus.

TRANSLATION

In the presence of Bhisma, Drona and all other chieftains of the world, Hrsikesa, the Lord, said, Just behold, Partha, all the Kurus who are assembled here.

PURPORT

As the Supersoul of all living entities, Lord Krsna could understand what was going on in the mind of Arjuna. The use of the word Hrsikesa in this connection indicates that He knew everything. And the word Partha, or the son of Kunti or Prtha, is also similarly significant in reference to Arjuna. As a friend, He wanted to inform Arjuna that because Arjuna was the son of Prtha, the sister of His own father Vasudeva, He had agreed to be the charioteer of Arjuna. Now what did Krsna mean when He told Arjuna to "behold the Kurus"? Did Arjuna want to stop there and not fight? Krsna never expected such things from the son of His aunt Prtha. The mind of Arjuna was thus predicted by the Lord in friendly joking.

TEXT 26

tatrapasyat sthitan parthah

pitrn atha pitamahan

acaryan matulan bhratrñ

putran pautran sakhims tatha

svasuran suhrdas caiva

senayor ubhayor api

SYNONYMS

tatra—there; apasyat—he could see; sthitan—standing; parthah—Arjuna; pitrn—fathers; atha—also; pitamahan—grandfathers; acaryan—teachers; matulan—maternal uncles; bhratrñ—brothers; putran—sons; pautran—grandsons; sakhin—friends; tatha—too; svasuran—fathers-in-law; suhrdah—well-wishers; ca—also; eva—certainly; senayoh—of the armies; ubhayoh—of both parties; api—including.

TRANSLATION

There Arjuna could see, within the midst of the armies of both parties, his fathers, grandfathers, teachers, maternal uncles, brothers, sons, grandsons, friends, and also his father-in-law and well-wishers—all present there.

PURPORT

On the battlefield Arjuna could see all kinds of relatives. He could see persons like Bhurisrava, who were his father's contemporaries, grandfathers Bhisma and Somadatta, teachers like Dronacarya and Krpacarya, maternal uncles like Salya and Sakuni, brothers like Duryodhana, sons like Laksmāna, friends like Asvatthama, well-wishers like Krtavarma, etc. He could see also the armies which contained many of his friends.

TEXT 27

tan samiksya sa kaunteyah

sarvan bandhun avasthitan

krpaya parayavisto

visidann idam abravīt

SYNONYMS

tan—all of them; samiksya—after seeing; sah—he; kaunteyah—the son of Kuntī; sarvan—all kinds of; bandhun—relatives; avasthitan—situated; krpaya—by compassion; paraya—of a high grade; avistah—overwhelmed by; visidan—while lamenting; idam—thus; abravīt—spoke.

TRANSLATION

When the son of Kuntī, Arjuna, saw all these different grades of friends and relatives, he became overwhelmed with compassion and spoke thus:

TEXT 28

arjuna uvaca

drstvemam sva-janam krsna

yuyutsum samupasthitam

sidanti mama gatrani

mukham ca parisusyati

SYNONYMS

arjunah—Arjuna; uvaca—said; drstva—after seeing; imam—all these; sva-janam—kinsmen; krsna—O Krsna; yuyutsum—all in fighting spirit; samupasthitam—all present; sidanti—quivering; mama—my; gatrani—limbs of the body; mukham—mouth; ca—also; parisusyati—drying up.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: My dear Krsna, seeing my friends and relatives present before me in such a fighting spirit, I feel the limbs of my body quivering and my mouth drying up.

PURPORT

Any man who has genuine devotion to the Lord has all the good qualities which are found in godly persons or in the demigods, whereas the nondevotee, however advanced he may be in material qualifications by education and culture, lacks in godly qualities. As such, Arjuna, just after seeing his kinsmen, friends and relatives on the battlefield, was at once overwhelmed by compassion for them who had so decided to fight amongst themselves. As far as his soldiers were concerned, he was sympathetic from the beginning, but he felt compassion even for the soldiers of the opposite party, foreseeing their imminent death. And so thinking, the limbs of his body began to quiver, and his mouth became dry. He was more or less astonished to see their fighting spirit. Practically the whole community, all blood relatives of Arjuna, had come to fight with him. This overwhelmed a kind devotee like Arjuna. Although it is not mentioned here, still one can easily imagine that not only were Arjuna's bodily limbs quivering and his mouth drying up, but that he was also crying out of compassion. Such symptoms in Arjuna were not due to weakness but to his softheartedness, a characteristic of a pure devotee of the Lord. It is said therefore:

yasyasti bhaktir bhagavaty akincana

sarvair gunais tatra samasate surah

harav abhaktasya kuto mahad-guna

mano-rathenasati dhavato bahih

"One who has unflinching devotion for the Personality of Godhead has all the good qualities of the demigods. But one who is not a devotee of the Lord has only material qualifications that are of little value. This is because he is hovering on the mental plane and is certain to be attracted by the glaring material energy." (Bhag. 5.18.12)

TEXT 29

vepathus ca sarire me

roma-harsas ca jayate

gandivam sramsate hastat

tvak caiva paridahyate

SYNONYMS

vepathuh—trembling of the body; ca—also; sarire—on the body; me—my; roma—harsah—standing of the hair on end; ca—also; jayate—is taking place; gandivam—the bow of Arjuna; sramsate—is slipping; hastat—from the hands; tvak—skin; ca—also; eva—certainly; paridahyate—burning.

TRANSLATION

My whole body is trembling, and my hair is standing on end. My bow Gandiva is slipping from my hand, and my skin is burning.

PURPORT

There are two kinds of trembling of the body, and two kinds of standings of the hair on end. Such phenomena occur either in great spiritual ecstasy or out of great fear under material conditions. There is no fear in transcendental realization. Arjuna's symptoms in this situation are out of material fear—namely, loss of life. This is evident from other symptoms also; he became so impatient that his famous bow Gandiva was slipping from his hands, and, because his heart was burning within him, he was feeling a burning sensation of the skin. All these are due to a material conception of life.

TEXT 30

na ca saknomy avasthatum

bhramativa ca me manah

nimittani ca pasyami

viparitani kesava

SYNONYMS

na—nor; ca—also; saknomi—am I able; avasthatum—to stay; bhramati—forgetting; iva—as; ca—and; me—my; manah—mind; nimittani—causes; ca—also; pasyami—I foresee; viparitani—just the opposite; kesava—O killer of the demon Kesi (Krsna).

TRANSLATION

I am now unable to stand here any longer. I am forgetting myself, and my mind is reeling. I foresee only evil, O killer of the Kesi demon.

PURPORT

Due to his impatience, Arjuna was unable to stay on the battlefield, and he was forgetting himself on account of the weakness of his mind. Excessive attachment for material things puts a man in a bewildering condition of existence. Bhayam dvitiyabhinivesatah syat (Bhag. 11.2.37): such fearfulness and loss of mental equilibrium take place in persons who are too affected by material conditions. Arjuna envisioned only unhappiness in the battlefield—he would not be happy even by gaining victory over the foe. The word nimitta is significant. When a man sees only frustration in his expectations, he thinks, "Why am I here?" Everyone is interested in himself and his own welfare. No one is interested in the Supreme Self. Arjuna is supposed to show disregard for self-interest by submission to the will of Krsna, who is everyone's real self-interest. The conditioned soul forgets this, and therefore suffers material pains. Arjuna thought that his victory in the battle would only be a cause of lamentation for him.

TEXT 31

na ca sreya 'nupasyami

hatva sva-janam ahave

na kankse vijayam krsna

na ca rajyam sukhani ca

SYNONYMS

na—nor; ca—also; sreya—good; anupasyami—do I foresee; hatva—by killing; sva-janam—own kinsmen; ahave—in the fight; na—nor; kankse—do I desire; vijayam—victory; krsna—O Krsna; na—nor; ca—also; rajyam—kingdom; sukhani—happiness thereof; ca—also.

TRANSLATION

I do not see how any good can come from killing my own kinsmen in this battle, nor can I, my dear Krsna, desire any subsequent victory, kingdom, or happiness.

PURPORT

Without knowing that one's self-interest is in Visnu (or Krsna), conditioned souls are attracted by bodily relationships, hoping to be happy in such situations. Under delusion, they forget that Krsna is also the cause of material happiness. Arjuna appears to have even forgotten the moral codes for a ksatriya. It is said that two kinds of men, namely the ksatriya who dies directly in front of the battlefield under Krsna's personal orders and the person in the renounced order of life who is absolutely devoted to spiritual culture, are eligible to enter into the sun globe, which is so powerful and dazzling. Arjuna is reluctant even to kill his enemies, let alone his relatives. He thought that by killing his kinsmen there would be no happiness in his life, and therefore he was not willing to fight, just as a person who does not feel hunger is not inclined to cook. He has now decided to go into the forest and live a secluded life in frustration. But as a ksatriya, he requires a kingdom for his subsistence, because the ksatriyas cannot engage themselves in any other occupation. But Arjuna has no kingdom. Arjuna's sole opportunity for gaining a kingdom lay in fighting with his cousins and brothers and reclaiming the kingdom inherited from his father, which he does not like to do. Therefore he considers himself fit to go to the forest to live a secluded life of frustration.

TEXTS 32–35

kim no rajyena govinda

kim bhogair jivitena va

yesam arthe kanksitam no

rajyam bhogah sukhani ca

ta ime 'vasthita yuddhe

pranams tyaktva dhanani ca

acaryah pitarah putras

tathaiva ca pitamahah

matulah svasurah pautrah

syalah sambandhinas tatha

etan na hantum icchami

ghnato 'pi madhusudana

api trailokya-rajyasya

hetoh kim nu mahi-krte

nihatya dhartarastran nah

ka pritih syaj janardana

SYNONYMS

kim—what use; nah—to us; rajyena—is the kingdom; govinda—O Krsna; kim—what; bhogaih—enjoyment; jivitena—by living; va—either; yesam—for whom; arthe—for the matter of; kanksitam—desired; nah—our; rajyam—kingdom; bhogah—material enjoyment; sukhani—all happiness; ca—also; te—all of them; ime—these; avasthitah—situated; yuddhe—in this battlefield; pranan—lives; tyaktva—giving up; dhanani—riches; ca—also; acaryah—teachers; pitarah—fathers; putrah—sons; tatha—as well as; eva—certainly; ca—also; pitamahah—grandfathers; matulah—maternal uncles; svasurah—fathers-in-law; pautrah—grandsons; syalah—brothers-in-law; sambandhinah—relatives; tatha—as well as; etan—all these; na—never; hantum—for killing; icchami—do I wish; ghnatah—being killed; api—even; madhusudana—O killer of the demon Madhu (Krsna); api—even if; trai-lokya—of the three worlds; rajyasya—of the kingdoms; hetoh—in exchange; kim—what to speak of; nu—only; mahi-krte—for the sake of the earth; nihatya—by killing; dhartarastran—the sons of Dhrtarastra; nah—our; ka—what; pritih—pleasure; syat—will there be; janardana—O maintainer of all living entities.

TRANSLATION

O Govinda, of what avail to us are kingdoms, happiness or even life itself when all those for whom we may desire them are now arrayed in this battlefield? O Madhusudana, when teachers, fathers, sons, grandfathers, maternal uncles, fathers-in-law, grandsons, brothers-in-law and all relatives are ready to give up their lives and properties and are standing before me, then why should I wish to kill them, though I may survive? O maintainer of all creatures, I am not prepared to fight with them even in exchange for the three worlds, let alone this earth.

PURPORT

Arjuna has addressed Lord Kṛṣṇa as Govinda because Kṛṣṇa is the object of all pleasures for cows and the senses. By using this significant word, Arjuna indicates what will satisfy his senses. Although Govinda is not meant for satisfying our senses, if we try to satisfy the senses of Govinda then automatically our own senses are satisfied. Materially, everyone wants to satisfy his senses, and he wants God to be the order supplier for such satisfaction. The Lord will satisfy the senses of the living entities as much as they deserve, but not to the extent that they may covet. But when one takes the opposite way—namely, when one tries to satisfy the senses of Govinda without desiring to satisfy one's own senses—then by the grace of Govinda all desires of the living entity are satisfied. Arjuna's deep affection for community and family members is exhibited here partly due to his natural compassion for them. He is therefore not prepared to fight. Everyone wants to show his opulence to friends and relatives, but Arjuna fears that all his relatives and friends will be killed in the battlefield, and he will be unable to share his opulence after victory. This is a typical calculation of material life. The transcendental life is, however, different. Since a devotee wants to satisfy the desires of the Lord, he can, Lord willing, accept all kinds of opulence for the service of the Lord, and if the Lord is not willing, he should not accept a farthing. Arjuna did not want to kill his relatives, and if there were any need to kill them, he desired that Kṛṣṇa kill them personally. At this point he did not know that Kṛṣṇa had already killed them before their coming into the battlefield and that he was only to become an instrument for Kṛṣṇa. This fact is disclosed in the following chapters. As a natural devotee of the Lord, Arjuna did not like to retaliate against his miscreant cousins and brothers, but it was the Lord's plan that they should all be killed. The devotee of the Lord does not retaliate against the wrongdoer, but the Lord does not tolerate any mischief done to the devotee by the miscreants. The Lord can excuse a person on His own account, but He excuses no one who has done harm to His devotees. Therefore the Lord was determined to kill the miscreants, although Arjuna wanted to excuse them.

TEXT 36

papam evasrayed asman

hatvaitan atatayinah

tasman narha vayam hantum

dhartarastran sa-bandhavan

sva-janam hi katham hatva

sukhinah syama madhava

SYNONYMS

papam—vices; eva—certainly; asrayet—must take upon; asman—us; hatva—by killing; etan—all these; atatayinah—aggressors; tasmāt—therefore; na—never; arhah—deserving; vayam—we; hantum—to kill; dhartarastran—the sons of Dhrtarastra; sa-bandhavan—along with friends; sva-janam—kinsmen; hi—certainly; katham—how; hatva—by killing; sukhinah—happy; syama—become; madhava—O Kṛṣṇa, husband of the goddess of fortune.

TRANSLATION

Sin will overcome us if we slay such aggressors. Therefore it is not proper for us to kill the sons of Dhṛtarāstra and our friends. What should we gain, O Kṛṣṇa, husband of the goddess of fortune, and how could we be happy by killing our own kinsmen?

PURPORT

According to Vedic injunctions there are six kinds of aggressors: 1) a poison giver, 2) one who sets fire to the house, 3) one who attacks with deadly weapons, 4) one who plunders riches, 5) one who occupies another's land, and 6) one who kidnaps a wife. Such aggressors are at once to be killed, and no sin is incurred by killing such aggressors. Such killing of aggressors is quite befitting any ordinary man, but Arjuna was not an ordinary person. He was saintly by character, and therefore he wanted to deal with them in saintliness. This kind of saintliness, however, is not for a ksatriya. Although a responsible man in the administration of a state is required to be saintly, he should not be cowardly. For example, Lord Rama was so saintly that people were anxious to live in His kingdom (rama-rajya), but Lord Rama never showed any cowardice. Ravana was an aggressor against Rama because He kidnapped Rama's wife, Sita, but Lord Rama gave him sufficient lessons, unparalleled in the history of the world. In Arjuna's case, however, one should consider the special type of aggressors, namely his own grandfather, own teacher, friends, sons, grandsons, etc. Because of them, Arjuna thought that he should not take the severe steps necessary against ordinary aggressors. Besides that, saintly persons are advised to forgive. Such injunctions for saintly persons are more important than any political emergency. Arjuna considered that rather than kill his own kinsmen for political reasons, it would be better to forgive them on grounds of religion and saintly behavior. He did not, therefore, consider such killing profitable simply for the matter of temporary bodily happiness. After all, kingdoms and pleasures derived therefrom are not permanent, so why should he risk his life and eternal salvation by killing his own kinsmen? Arjuna's addressing of Krsna as "Madhava," or the husband of the goddess of fortune, is also significant in this connection. He wanted to point out to Krsna that, as husband of the goddess of fortune, He should not induce Arjuna to take up a matter which would ultimately bring about misfortune. Krsna, however, never brings misfortune to anyone, to say nothing of His devotees.

TEXTS 37–38

yady apy ete na pasyanti

lobhopahata–cetasah

kula–ksaya–krtam dosam

mitra–drohe ca patakam

katham na jneyam asmabhih

papad asman nivartitum

kula-ksaya-krtam dosam

prapasyadbhir janardana

SYNONYMS

yadi—if; api—certainly; ete—they; na—do not; pasyanti—see; lobha—greed; upahata—overpowered; cetasaḥ—the hearts; kula-ksaya—in killing the family; krtam—done; dosam—fault; mitra-drohe—quarreling with friends; ca—also; patakam—sinful reactions; katham—why; na—shall not; jneyam—know this; asmabhiḥ—by us; papat—from sins; asmat—ourselves; nivartitum—to cease; kula-ksaya—the destruction of a dynasty; krtam—by so doing; dosam—crime; prapasyadbhiḥ—by those who can see; janardana—O Kṛṣṇa.

TRANSLATION

O Janardana, although these men, overtaken by greed, see no fault in killing one's family or quarreling with friends, why should we, with knowledge of the sin, engage in these acts?

PURPORT

A ksatriya is not supposed to refuse to battle or gamble when he is so invited by some rival party. Under such obligation, Arjuna could not refuse to fight because he was challenged by the party of Duryodhana. In this connection, Arjuna considered that the other party might be blind to the effects of such a challenge. Arjuna, however, could see the evil consequences and could not accept the challenge. Obligation is actually binding when the effect is good, but when the effect is otherwise, then no one can be bound. Considering all these pros and cons, Arjuna decided not to fight.

TEXT 39

kula—ksaye pranasyanti

kula—dharmah sanatanah

dharme naste kulam krtsnam

adharmo 'bhibhavaty uta

SYNONYMS

kula—ksaye—in destroying the family; pranasyanti—becomes vanquished;
kula—dharmah—the family traditions; sanatanah—eternal; dharme—in religion;
naste—being destroyed; kulam—family; krtsnam—wholesale; adharmah—irreligious;
abhibhavati—transforms; uta—it is said.

TRANSLATION

With the destruction of dynasty, the eternal family tradition is vanquished, and thus the rest of the family becomes involved in irreligious practice.

PURPORT

In the system of the varnasrama institution there are many principles of religious traditions to help members of the family grow properly and attain spiritual values. The elder members are responsible for such purifying processes in the family, beginning from birth to death. But on the death of the elder members, such family traditions of purification may stop, and the remaining younger family members may develop irreligious habits and thereby lose their chance for spiritual salvation. Therefore, for no purpose should the elder members of the family be slain.

TEXT 40

adharmabhibhavat krsna

pradusyanti kula–striyah

strisu dustasu varsneya

jayate varna–sankarah

SYNONYMS

adharma—irreligion; abhibhavat—having become predominant; krsna—O Krsna; pradusyanti—become polluted; kula–striyah—family ladies; strisu—of the womanhood; dustasu—being so polluted; varsneya—O descendant of Vrsni; jayate—it so becomes; varna–sankarah—unwanted progeny.

TRANSLATION

When irreligion is prominent in the family, O Krsna, the women of the family become corrupt, and from the degradation of womanhood, O descendant of Vrsni, comes unwanted progeny.

PURPORT

Good population in human society is the basic principle for peace, prosperity and spiritual progress in life. The varnasrama religion's principles were so designed that the good population would prevail in society for the general spiritual progress of state and community. Such population depends on the chastity and faithfulness of its womanhood. As children are very prone to be misled, women are similarly very prone to degradation. Therefore, both children and women require protection by the elder members of the family. By being engaged in various religious practices, women will not be misled into adultery. According to Canakya Pandita, women are generally not very intelligent and therefore not trustworthy. So, the different family traditions of religious activities should always engage them, and thus their chastity and devotion will give birth to a good population eligible for participating in the varnasrama system. On the failure of such varnasrama–dharma, naturally the women become free to act and mix with men, and thus adultery is indulged in at the risk of unwanted population. Irresponsible men also provoke adultery in society, and thus unwanted children flood the human race at the risk of war and pestilence.

TEXT 41

sankaro narakayaiva

kula–ghnanam kulasya ca

patanti pitaro hy esam

lupta–pindodaka–kriyah

SYNONYMS

sankarah—such unwanted children; narakaya—for hellish life; eva—certainly; kula-ghnanam—of those who are killers of the family; kulasya—of the family; ca—also; patanti—fall down; pitarah—forefathers; hi—certainly; esam—of them; lupta—stopped; pinda—offerings; udaka—water; kriyah—performances.

TRANSLATION

When there is increase of unwanted population, a hellish situation is created both for the family and for those who destroy the family tradition. In such corrupt families, there is no offering of oblations of food and water to the ancestors.

PURPORT

According to the rules and regulations of fruitive activities, there is a need to offer periodical food and water to the forefathers of the family. This offering is performed by worship of Visnu, because eating the remnants of food offered to Visnu can deliver one from all kinds of sinful actions. Sometimes the forefathers may be suffering from various types of sinful reactions, and sometimes some of them cannot even acquire a gross material body and are forced to remain in subtle bodies as ghosts. Thus, when remnants of prasadam food are offered to forefathers by descendants, the forefathers are released from ghostly or other kinds of miserable life. Such help rendered to forefathers is a family tradition, and those who are not in devotional life are required to perform such rituals. One who is engaged in the devotional life is not required to perform such actions. Simply by performing devotional service, one can deliver hundreds and thousands of forefathers from all kinds of misery. It is stated in the Bhagavatam (11.5.41):

devarsi-bhutapta-nrnam pitrnam

na kinkaro nayam rni ca rajan

sarvatmana yah saranam saranyam

gato mukundam parihrtya kartam

"Anyone who has taken shelter of the lotus feet of Mukunda, the giver of liberation, giving up all kinds of obligation, and has taken to the path in all seriousness, owes neither duties nor obligations to the demigods, sages, general living entities, family members, humankind or forefathers." Such obligations are automatically fulfilled by performance of devotional service to the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 42

dosair etaih kula-ghnanam

varna-sankara-karakaih

utsadyante jati-dharmah

kula-dharmas ca sasvatah

SYNONYMS

dosaih—by such faults; etaih—all these; kula-ghnanam—of the destroyer of the family; varna-sankara—unwanted children; karakaih—by the doers; utsadyante—causes devastation; jati-dharmah—community projects; kula-dharmah—family traditions; ca—also; sasvatah—eternal.

TRANSLATION

Due to the evil deeds of the destroyers of family tradition, all kinds of community projects and family welfare activities are devastated.

PURPORT

The four orders of human society, combined with family welfare activities as they are set forth by the institution of the sanatana-dharma or varnasrama-dharma, are designed to enable the human being to attain his ultimate salvation. Therefore, the breaking of the sanatana-dharma tradition by irresponsible leaders of society brings about chaos in that society, and consequently people forget the aim of life—Visnu. Such leaders are called blind, and persons who follow such leaders are sure to be led into chaos.

TEXT 43

utsanna-kula-dharmanam

manusyanam janardana

narake niyatam vaso

bhavatity anususruma

SYNONYMS

utsanna—spoiled; kula-dharmanam—of those who have the family traditions; manusyanam—of such men; janardana—O Krsna; narake—in hell; niyatam—always; vasah—residence; bhavati—it so becomes; iti—thus; anususruma—I have heard by disciplic succession.

TRANSLATION

O Krsna, maintainer of the people, I have heard by disciplic succession that those who destroy family traditions dwell always in hell.

PURPORT

Arjuna bases his argument not on his own personal experience, but on what he has heard from the authorities. That is the way of receiving real knowledge. One cannot reach the real point of factual knowledge without being helped by the right person who is already established in that knowledge. There is a system in the varnasrama institution by which one has to undergo the process of atonement before death for his sinful activities. One who is always engaged in sinful activities must utilize the process of atonement called the prayascitta. Without doing so, one surely will be transferred to hellish planets to undergo miserable lives as the result of sinful activities.

TEXT 44

aho bata mahat papam

kartum vyavasita vayam

yad rajya-sukha-lobhena

hantum sva-janam udyatah

SYNONYMS

aho—alas; bata—how strange it is; mahat—great; papam—sins; kartum—to perform; vyavasitah—decided; vayam—we; yat—so that; rajya—kingdom; sukha-lobhena—driven by greed for royal happiness; hantum—to kill; sva-janam—kinsmen; udyatah—trying for.

TRANSLATION

Alas, how strange it is that we are preparing to commit greatly sinful acts, driven by the desire to enjoy royal happiness.

PURPORT

Driven by selfish motives, one may be inclined to such sinful acts as the killing of one's own brother, father or mother. There are many such instances in the history of the world. But Arjuna, being a saintly devotee of the Lord, is always conscious of moral principles and therefore takes care to avoid such activities.

TEXT 45

yadi mam apratikaram

asastram sastra-panayah

dhartarastra rane hanyus

tan me ksemataram bhavet

SYNONYMS

yadi—even if; mam—unto me; apratikaram—without being resistant;
asastram—without being fully equipped; sastra-panayah—those with weapons in hand;
dhartarastrah—the sons of Dhrtarastra; rane—in the battlefield; hanyuh—may kill;

tat—that; me—mine; ksema—taram—better; bhavet—become.

TRANSLATION

I would consider it better for the sons of Dhrtarastra to kill me unarmed and unresisting, rather than to fight with them.

PURPORT

It is the custom—according to ksatriya fighting principles—that an unarmed and unwilling foe should not be attacked. Arjuna, however, in such an enigmatic position, decided he would not fight if he were attacked by the enemy. He did not consider how much the other party was bent upon fighting. All these symptoms are due to soft-heartedness resulting from his being a great devotee of the Lord.

TEXT 46

sanjaya uvaca

evam uktvarjunah sankhye

rathopastha upavisat

vistrjya sa—saram capam

soka—samvigna—manasah

SYNONYMS

sanjayah—Sanjaya; uvaca—said; evam—thus; uktva—saying; arjunah—Arjuna; sankhye—in the battlefield; ratha—chariot; upasthe—situated on; upavisat—sat down again; visrjya—keeping aside; sa-saram—along with arrows; capam—the bow; soka—by lamentation; samvigna—distressed; manasah—within the mind.

TRANSLATION

Sanjaya said: Arjuna, having thus spoken on the battlefield, cast aside his bow and arrows and sat down on the chariot, his mind overwhelmed with grief.

PURPORT

While observing the situation of his enemy, Arjuna stood up on the chariot, but he was so afflicted with lamentation that he sat down again, setting aside his bow and arrows. Such a kind and soft-hearted person, in the devotional service of the Lord, is fit to receive self-knowledge.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the First Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad-gita in the matter of Observing the Armies on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra.

Chapter 2

Contents of the Gita Summarized

TEXT 1

sanjaya uvaca

tam tatha krpayavistam

asru-purnakuleksanam

visidantam idam vakyam

uvaca madhusudanah

SYNONYMS

sanjaya uvaca—Sanjaya said; tam—unto Arjuna; tatha—thus; krpayā—by compassion; avistam—overwhelmed; asru-purna—full of tears; akula—depressed; iksanam—eyes; visidantam—lamenting; idam—this; vakyam—words; uvaca—said; madhu-sudanah—the killer of Madhu.

TRANSLATION

Sanjaya said: Seeing Arjuna full of compassion and very sorrowful, his eyes brimming with tears, Madhusudana, Kṛṣṇa, spoke the following words.

PURPORT

Material compassion, lamentation and tears are all signs of ignorance of the real self. Compassion for the eternal soul is self-realization. The word "Madhusudana" is significant in this verse. Lord Kṛṣṇa killed the demon Madhu, and now Arjuna wanted Kṛṣṇa to kill the demon of misunderstanding that had overtaken him in the discharge of his duty. No one knows where compassion should be applied. Compassion for the dress of a drowning man is senseless. A man fallen in the ocean of nescience cannot be saved simply by rescuing his outward dress—the gross material body. One who does not know this and laments for the outward dress is called a sudra, or one who laments unnecessarily. Arjuna was a ksatriya, and this conduct was not expected from him. Lord Kṛṣṇa, however, can dissipate the lamentation of the ignorant man, and for this purpose the Bhagavad-gīta was sung by Him. This chapter instructs us in self-realization by an analytical study of the material body and the spirit soul, as explained by the supreme authority, Lord Sri Kṛṣṇa. This realization is made possible by working with the fruitive being situated in the fixed conception of the real self.

TEXT 2

sri-bhagavan uvaca

kutas tva kasmalam idam

visame samupasthitam

anarya-justam asvargyam

akirti-karam arjuna

SYNONYMS

sri—bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; kutah—wherefrom; tva—unto you; kasmalam—dirtiness; idam—this lamentation; visame—in this hour of crisis; samupasthitam—arrived; anarya—persons who do not know the value of life; justam—practiced by; asvargyam—that which does not lead to higher planets; akirti—infamy; karam—the cause of; arjuna—O Arjuna.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Person [Bhagavan] said: My dear Arjuna, how have these impurities come upon you? They are not at all befitting a man who knows the progressive values of life. They lead not to higher planets, but to infamy.

PURPORT

Krsna and the Supreme Personality of Godhead are identical. Therefore Lord Krsna is referred to as "Bhagavan" throughout the Gita. Bhagavan is the ultimate in Absolute Truth. Absolute Truth is realized in three phases of understanding, namely Brahman, or the impersonal all-pervasive spirit; Paramatma, or the localized aspect of the Supreme within the heart of all living entities; and Bhagavan, or the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Krsna. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam (1.2.11) this conception of the Absolute Truth is explained thus:

vadanti tat tattva—vidas

tattvam yaj jnanam advayam

brahmeti paramatmeti

bhagavan iti sabdyate

"The Absolute Truth is realized in three phases of understanding by the knower of the Absolute Truth, and all of them are identical. Such phases of the Absolute Truth are expressed as Brahman, Paramatma, and Bhagavan."

These three divine aspects can be explained by the example of the sun, which also has three different aspects, namely the sunshine, the sun's surface and the sun planet itself. One who studies the sunshine only is the preliminary student. One who understands the sun's surface is further advanced. And one who can enter into the sun planet is the highest. Ordinary students who are satisfied simply by understanding the sunshine—its universal pervasiveness and the glaring effulgence of its impersonal nature—may be compared to those who can realize only the Brahman feature of the Absolute Truth. The student who has advanced still further can know the sun disc, which is compared to knowledge of the Paramatma feature of the Absolute Truth. And the student who can enter into the heart of the sun planet is compared to those who realize the personal features of the Supreme Absolute Truth. Therefore, the bhaktas, or the transcendentalists who have realized the Bhagavan feature of the Absolute Truth, are the topmost transcendentalists, although all students who are engaged in the study of the Absolute Truth are engaged in the same subject matter. The sunshine, the sun disc and the inner affairs of the sun planet cannot be separated from one another, and yet the students of the three different phases are not in the same category.

The Sanskrit word bhagavan is explained by the great authority, Parasara Muni, the father of Vyasadeva. The Supreme Personality who possesses all riches, all strength, all fame, all beauty, all knowledge and all renunciation is called Bhagavan. There are many persons who are very rich, very powerful, very beautiful, very famous, very learned, and very much detached, but no one can claim that he possesses all riches, all strength, etc., entirely. Only Krsna can claim this because He is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. No living entity, including Brahma, Lord Siva, or Narayana, can possess opulences as fully as Krsna. Therefore it is concluded in the Brahma-samhita by Lord Brahma himself that Lord Krsna is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. No one is equal to or above Him. He is the primeval Lord, or Bhagavan, known as Govinda, and He is the supreme cause of all causes:

isvarah paramah krsnah

sac-cid-ananda-vigraha

anadir adir govindah

sarva-karana-karanam

"There are many personalities possessing the qualities of Bhagavan, but Kṛṣṇa is the supreme because none can excel Him. He is the Supreme Person, and His body is eternal, full of knowledge and bliss. He is the primeval Lord Govinda and the cause of all causes." (Brahma-saṁhita 5.1)

In the Bhagavatam also there is a list of many incarnations of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, but Kṛṣṇa is described as the original Personality of Godhead, from whom many, many incarnations and Personalities of Godhead expand:

ete cāṁsa-kālāḥ pūṁsah

kṛṣṇas tu bhagavan svayam

īndrari-vyākūlam lokam

mṛdayanti yuge yuge

"All the lists of the incarnations of Godhead submitted herewith are either plenary expansions or parts of the plenary expansions of the Supreme Godhead, but Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself." (Bhag. 1.3.28)

Therefore, Kṛṣṇa is the original Supreme Personality of Godhead, the Absolute Truth, the source of both the Supersoul and the impersonal Brahman.

In the presence of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Arjuna's lamentation for his kinsmen is certainly unbecoming, and therefore Kṛṣṇa expressed His surprise with the word kutas, "wherefrom." Such unmanly sentiments were never expected from a person belonging to the civilized class of men known as Aryans. The word Aryan is applicable to persons who know the value of life and have a civilization based on spiritual realization. Persons who are led by the material conception of life do not know that the aim of life is realization of the Absolute Truth, Viṣṇu, or Bhagavan, and they are captivated by the external features of the material world, and therefore they do not know what liberation is. Persons who have no knowledge of liberation from material bondage are called non-Aryans. Although Arjuna was a ksatriya, he was deviating from his prescribed duties by declining to fight. This act of cowardice is described as befitting the non-Aryans. Such deviation from duty does not help one in the progress of spiritual life, nor does it even give one the opportunity to become famous in this world. Lord Kṛṣṇa did not approve of the so-called compassion of Arjuna for his kinsmen.

TEXT 3

klaibyam ma sma gamah partha

naitat tvayy upadyate

ksudram hrdaya—daurbalyam

tyaktvottistha parantapa

SYNONYMS

klaibyam—impotence; ma—do not; sma—take it; gamah—go in; partha—O son of Prtha; na—never; etat—like this; tvayi—unto you; upadyate—is befitting; ksudram—very little; hrdaya—heart; daurbalyam—weakness; tyaktva—giving up; uttistha—get up; param—tapa—O chastiser of the enemies.

TRANSLATION

O son of Prtha, do not yield to this degrading impotence. It does not become you. Give up such petty weakness of heart and arise, O chastiser of the enemy.

PURPORT

Arjuna was addressed as "the son of Prtha," who happened to be the sister of Kṛṣṇa's father Vasudeva. Therefore Arjuna had a blood relationship with Kṛṣṇa. If the son of a ksatriya declines to fight, he is a ksatriya in name only, and if the son of a brahmana acts impiously, he is a brahmana in name only. Such ksatriyas and brahmanas are unworthy sons of their fathers; therefore, Kṛṣṇa did not want Arjuna to become an unworthy son of a ksatriya. Arjuna was the most intimate friend of Kṛṣṇa, and Kṛṣṇa was directly guiding him on the chariot; but in spite of all these credits, if Arjuna abandoned the battle, he would be committing an infamous act; therefore Kṛṣṇa said that such an attitude in Arjuna did not fit his personality. Arjuna might argue that he would give up the battle on the grounds of his magnanimous attitude for the most respectable Bhīṣma and his relatives, but Kṛṣṇa considered that sort of magnanimity not approved by authority. Therefore, such magnanimity or so-called nonviolence should be given up by persons like Arjuna under the direct guidance of Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 4

arjuna uvaca

katham bhisam aham sankhye

dronam ca madhusudana

isubhiḥ pratiyotsyami

pujarhav ari-sudana

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; katham—how; bhisam—unto Bhīṣma; aham—I; sankhye—in the fight; dronam—unto Drona; ca—also; madhu-sudana—O killer of Madhu; isubhiḥ—with arrows; pratiyotsyami—shall counterattack; puja-arhau—those who are worshipable; ari-sudana—O killer of the enemies.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O killer of Madhu [Kṛṣṇa], how can I counterattack with arrows in battle men like Bhīṣma and Drona, who are worthy of my worship?

PURPORT

Respectable superiors like Bhīṣma the grandfather and Droṇācārya the teacher are always worshipable. Even if they attack, they should not be counterattacked. It is general etiquette that superiors are not to be offered even a verbal fight. Even if they are sometimes harsh in behavior, they should not be harshly treated. Then, how is it possible for Arjuna to counterattack them? Would Kṛṣṇa ever attack His own grandfather, Ugrasena, or His teacher, Sandipani Muni? These were some of the arguments by Arjuna to Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 5

gurun ahatva hi mahanubhavan

sreyo bhoktum bhaiksyam apiha loke

hatvartha-kāmāṁs tu gurun ihaiva

bhunjiya bhogan rudhira-pradigdhan

SYNONYMS

gurun—the superiors; ahatva—not killing; hi—certainly; maha-anubhavan—great souls; sreyah—it is better; bhoktum—to enjoy life; bhaiksyam—begging; api—even;

iha—in this life; loke—in this world; hatva—killing; artha—gain; kaman—so desiring; tu—but; gurun—superiors; iha—in this world; eva—certainly; bhunjiya—has to enjoy; bhogan—enjoyable things; rudhira—blood; pradigdhan—tainted with.

TRANSLATION

It is better to live in this world by begging than to live at the cost of the lives of great souls who are my teachers. Even though they are avaricious, they are nonetheless superiors. If they are killed, our spoils will be tainted with blood.

PURPORT

According to scriptural codes, a teacher who engages in an abominable action and has lost his sense of discrimination is fit to be abandoned. Bhishma and Drona were obliged to take the side of Duryodhana because of his financial assistance, although they should not have accepted such a position simply on financial considerations. Under the circumstances, they have lost the respectability of teachers. But Arjuna thinks that nevertheless they remain his superiors, and therefore to enjoy material profits after killing them would mean to enjoy spoils tainted with blood.

TEXT 6

na caitad vidmah kataran no gariyo

yad va jayema yadi va no jayeyuh

yan eva hatva na jijivisamas

te 'vasthitah pramukhe dhartarastrah

SYNONYMS

na—nor; ca—also; etat—this; vidmah—do know; katarat—which; nah—us; gariyah—better; yat—what; va—either; jayema—conquer us; yadi—if; va—or; nah—us; jayeyuh—conquer; yan—those; eva—certainly; hatva—by killing; na—never; jijivisamah—want to live; te—all of them; avasthitah—are situated; pramukhe—in the front; dhartarastrah—the sons of Dhrtarastra.

TRANSLATION

Nor do we know which is better—conquering them or being conquered by them. The sons of Dhrtarastra, whom if we kill we should not care to live, are now standing before us on this battlefield.

PURPORT

Arjuna did not know whether he should fight and risk unnecessary violence, although fighting is the duty of the ksatriyas, or whether he should refrain and live by begging. If he did not conquer the enemy, begging would be his only means of subsistence. Nor was there certainty of victory, because either side might emerge victorious. Even if victory awaited them (and their cause was justified), still, if the sons of Dhrtarastra died in battle, it would be very difficult to live in their absence. Under the circumstances, that would be another kind of defeat for them. All these considerations by Arjuna definitely proved that he was not only a great devotee of the Lord but he was also highly enlightened and had complete control over his mind and senses. His desire to live by begging, although he was born in the royal household, is another sign of detachment. He was truly virtuous, as these qualities, combined with his faith in the words of instruction of Sri Krsna (his spiritual master), indicate. It is concluded that Arjuna was quite fit for liberation. Unless the senses are controlled, there is no chance of elevation to the platform of knowledge, and without knowledge and devotion there is no chance of liberation. Arjuna was competent in all these attributes, over and above his enormous attributes in his material relationships.

TEXT 7

karpanya—dosopahata—svabhavah

prcchami tvam dharma—sammudha—cetaḥ

yac chreyaḥ syaṁ niscitam bruhi taṁ me

sisyaḥ te 'ham sadhi maṁ tvam praṇaṁ

SYNONYMS

karpanya—miserly; dosa—weakness; upahata—being inflicted by;
sva—bhavah—characteristics; prcchami—I am asking; tvam—unto You;
dharma—religion; sammudha—bewildered; cetaḥ—in heart; yat—what;
sreyaḥ—all-good; syat—may be; niscitam—confidently; bruhi—tell; tat—that;
me—unto me; sisyaḥ—disciple; te—Your; aham—I am; sadhi—just instruct;
maṁ—me; tvam—unto You; praṇaṁ—surrendered.

TRANSLATION

Now I am confused about my duty and have lost all composure because of weakness. In this condition I am asking You to tell me clearly what is best for me. Now I am Your disciple, and a soul surrendered unto You. Please instruct me.

PURPORT

By nature's own way the complete system of material activities is a source of perplexity for everyone. In every step there is perplexity, and therefore it behooves one to approach a bona fide spiritual master who can give one proper guidance for executing the purpose of life. All Vedic literatures advise us to approach a bona fide spiritual master to get free from the perplexities of life which happen without our desire. They are like a forest fire that somehow blazes without being set by anyone. Similarly, the world situation is such that perplexities of life automatically appear, without our wanting such confusion. No one wants fire, and yet it takes place, and we become perplexed. The Vedic wisdom therefore advises that in order to solve the perplexities of life and to understand the science of the solution, one must approach a spiritual master who is in the disciplic succession. A person with a bona fide spiritual master is supposed to know everything. One should not, therefore, remain in material perplexities but should approach a spiritual master. This is the purport of this verse.

Who is the man in material perplexities? It is he who does not understand the problems of life. In the Garga Upanisad the perplexed man is described as follows: yo va etad aksaram gargy aviditvasmal lokat praiti sa krpanah. "He is a miserly man who does not solve the problems of life as a human and who thus quits this world like the cats and dogs, without understanding the science of self-realization." This human form of life is a most valuable asset for the living entity who can utilize it for solving the problems of life; therefore, one who does not utilize this opportunity properly is a miser. On the other hand, there is the brahmana, or he who is intelligent enough to utilize this body to solve all the problems of life.

The krpanas, or miserly persons, waste their time in being overly affectionate for family, society, country, etc., in the material conception of life. One is often attached to family life, namely to wife, children and other members, on the basis of "skin disease." The krpana thinks that he is able to protect his family members from death; or the krpana thinks that his family or society can save him from the verge of death. Such family attachment can be found even in the lower animals who take care of children also. Being intelligent, Arjuna could understand that his affection for family members and his wish to protect them from death were the causes of his perplexities. Although he could understand that his duty to fight was awaiting him, still, on account of miserly weakness, he could not discharge the duties. He is therefore asking Lord Kṛṣṇa, the supreme spiritual master, to make a definite solution. He offers himself to Kṛṣṇa as a disciple. He wants to stop friendly talks. Talks between the master and the disciple are serious, and now Arjuna wants to talk very seriously before the recognized spiritual master. Kṛṣṇa is therefore the original spiritual master of the science of Bhagavad-gītā, and Arjuna is the first disciple for understanding the Gītā. How Arjuna understands the Bhagavad-gītā is stated in the Gītā itself. And yet foolish mundane scholars explain that one need not submit to Kṛṣṇa as a person, but to "the unborn within Kṛṣṇa." There is no difference between Kṛṣṇa's within and without. And one who has no sense of this understanding is the greatest fool in trying to understand Bhagavad-gītā.

TEXT 8

na hi prapasyami mamapanudyad
yac chokam ucchosanam indriyanam
avapya bhumav asapatnam rddham
rajyam suranam api cadhipatyam

SYNONYMS

na—do not; hi—certainly; prapasyami—I see; mama—my; apanudyat—can drive away; yat—that; sokam—lamentation; ucchosanam—drying up; indriyanam—of the senses; avapya—achieving; bhumau—on the earth; asapatnam—without rival; rddham—prosperous; rajyam—kingdom; suranam—of the demigods; api—even; ca—also; adhipatyam—supremacy.

TRANSLATION

I can find no means to drive away this grief which is drying up my senses. I will not be able to destroy it even if I win an unrivaled kingdom on earth with sovereignty like the demigods in heaven.

PURPORT

Although Arjuna was putting forward so many arguments based on knowledge of the principles of religion and moral codes, it appears that he was unable to solve his real problem without the help of the spiritual master, Lord Sri Krsna. He could understand that his so-called knowledge was useless in driving away his problems, which were drying up his whole existence; and it was impossible for him to solve such perplexities without the help of a spiritual master like Lord Kṛṣṇa. Academic knowledge, scholarship, high position, etc., are all useless in solving the problems of life; help can only be given by a spiritual master like Kṛṣṇa. Therefore, the conclusion is that a spiritual master who is one hundred percent Kṛṣṇa conscious is the bona fide spiritual master, for he can solve the problems of life. Lord Caitanya said that one who is master in the science of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, regardless of his social position, is the real spiritual master.

kiba vipra, kiba nyasi, sudra kene naya

yei kṛṣṇa-tattva-vetta, sei 'guru' haya

"It does not matter whether a person is a vipra [learned scholar in Vedic wisdom] or is born in a lower family, or is in the renounced order of life—if he is master in the science of Kṛṣṇa, he is the perfect and bona fide spiritual master." (Caitanya-caritamṛta, Mādhya 8.128) So without being a master in the science of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no one is a bona fide spiritual master. It is also said in the Vedic literatures:

sat-karma-nipuno vipro

mantra-tantra-visaradah

avaishnavo gurur na syad

vaiṣṇavaḥ sva-pāco guruḥ

"A scholarly brahmana, expert in all subjects of Vedic knowledge, is unfit to become a spiritual master without being a Vaiṣṇava, or expert in the science of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But a person born in a family of a lower caste can become a spiritual master if he is a Vaiṣṇava, or Kṛṣṇa conscious." (Padma Purāṇa)

The problems of material existence—birth, old age, disease and death—cannot be counteracted by accumulation of wealth and economic development. In many parts of the world there are states which are replete with all facilities of life, which are full of wealth and economically developed, yet the problems of material existence are still present. They are seeking peace in different ways, but they can achieve real happiness only if they consult Kṛṣṇa, or the Bhagavad-gīta and Srimad-Bhagavatam—which constitute the science of Kṛṣṇa—or the bona fide representative of Kṛṣṇa, the man in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

If economic development and material comforts could drive away one's lamentations for family, social, national or international inebrieties, then Arjuna would not have said that even an unrivaled kingdom on earth or supremacy like that of the demigods in the heavenly planets would not be able to drive away his lamentations. He sought, therefore, refuge in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and that is the right path for peace and harmony. Economic development or supremacy over the world can be finished at any moment by the cataclysms of material nature. Even elevation into a higher planetary situation, as men are now seeking a place on the moon planet, can also be finished at one stroke. The Bhagavad-gīta confirms this: ksine punye martya-lokam visanti. "When the results of pious activities are finished, one falls down again from the peak of happiness to the lowest status of life." Many politicians of the world have fallen down in that way. Such downfalls only constitute more causes for lamentation.

Therefore, if we want to curb lamentation for good, then we have to take shelter of Kṛṣṇa, as Arjuna is seeking to do. So Arjuna asked Kṛṣṇa to solve his problem definitely, and that is the way of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 9

sanjaya uvaca

evam uktva hrsikesam

gudakesah parantapah

na yotsya iti govindam

uktva tusnim babhuva ha

SYNONYMS

sanjayah uvaca—Sanjaya said; evam—thus; uktva—speaking; hrsikesam—unto Krsna, the master of the senses; gudakesah—Arjuna, the master at curbing ignorance; parantapah—the chastiser of the enemies; na yotsye—I shall not fight; iti—thus; govindam—unto Krsna, the giver of pleasure; uktva—saying; tusnim—silent; babhuva—became; ha—certainly.

TRANSLATION

Sanjaya said: Having spoken thus, Arjuna, chastiser of enemies, told Krsna, "Govinda, I shall not fight," and fell silent.

PURPORT

Dhrtarastra must have been very glad to understand that Arjuna was not going to fight and was instead leaving the battlefield for the begging profession. But Sanjaya disappointed him again in relating that Arjuna was competent to kill his enemies (parantapah). Although Arjuna was, for the time being, overwhelmed with false grief due to family affection, he surrendered unto Krsna, the supreme spiritual master, as a disciple. This indicated that he would soon be free from the false lamentation resulting from family affection and would be enlightened with perfect knowledge of self-realization, or Krsna consciousness, and would then surely fight. Thus Dhrtarastra's joy would be frustrated, since Arjuna would be enlightened by Krsna and would fight to the end.

TEXT 10

tam uvaca hrsikesah

prahasann iva bharata

senayor ubhayor madhye

visidantam, idam vacah

SYNONYMS

tam—unto him; uvaca—said; hrsikesah—the master of the senses, Krsna; prahasan—smiling; iva—like that; bharata—O Dhrtarastra, descendant of Bharata; senayoh—of the armies; ubhayoh—of both parties; madhye—between; visidantam—unto the lamenting one; idam—the following; vacah—words.

TRANSLATION

O descendant of Bharata, at that time Krsna, smiling, in the midst of both the armies, spoke the following words to the grief-stricken Arjuna.

PURPORT

The talk was going on between intimate friends, namely the Hrsikesa and the Gudakesa. As friends, both of them were on the same level, but one of them voluntarily became a student of the other. Krsna was smiling because a friend had chosen to become a disciple. As Lord of all, He is always in the superior position as the master of everyone, and yet the Lord accepts one who wishes to be a friend, a son, a lover or a devotee, or who wants Him in such a role. But when He was accepted as the master, He at once assumed the role and talked with the disciple like the master—with gravity, as it is required. It appears that the talk between the master and the disciple was openly exchanged in the presence of both armies so that all were benefited. So the talks of Bhagavad-gita are not for any particular person, society, or community, but they are for all, and friends or enemies are equally entitled to hear them.

TEXT 11

sri-bhagavan uvaca

asocyan anvasocas tvam

prajna-vadams ca bhasase

gatasun agatasums ca

nanusocanti panditah

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; asocyan—that which is not worthy of lamentation; anvasocah—you are lamenting; tvam—you; prajna-vadan—learned talks; ca—also; bhasase—speaking; gata—lost; asun—life; agata—not past; asun—life; ca—also; na—never; anusocanti—lament; panditah—the learned.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: While speaking learned words, you are mourning for what is not worthy of grief. Those who are wise lament neither for the living nor the dead.

PURPORT

The Lord at once took the position of the teacher and chastised the student, calling him, indirectly, a fool. The Lord said, "You are talking like a learned man, but you do not know that one who is learned—one who knows what is body and what is soul—does not lament for any stage of the body, neither in the living nor in the dead condition." As it will be explained in later chapters, it will be clear that knowledge means to know matter and spirit and the controller of both. Arjuna argued that religious principles should be given more importance than politics or sociology, but he did not know that knowledge of matter, soul and the Supreme is even more important than religious formularies. And, because he was lacking in that knowledge, he should not have posed himself as a very learned man. As he did not happen to be a very learned man, he was consequently lamenting for something which was unworthy of lamentation. The body is born and is destined to be vanquished today or tomorrow; therefore the body is not as important as the soul. One who knows this is actually learned, and for him there is no cause for lamentation, regardless of the condition of the material body.

TEXT 12

na tv evaḥam jatu naśam

na tvam neme janadhipaḥ

na caiva na bhaviśyamah

sarve vāyam atah param

SYNONYMS

na—never; tu—but; eva—certainly; aham—I; jatu—become; na—never; aśam—existed; na—it is not so; tvam—yourself; na—not; ime—all these; jana—adhipaḥ—kings; na—never; ca—also; eva—certainly; na—not like that; bhaviśyamah—shall exist; sarve—all of us; vāyam—we; atah param—hereafter.

TRANSLATION

Never was there a time when I did not exist, nor you, nor all these kings; nor in the future shall any of us cease to be.

PURPORT

In the Vedas, in the Katha Upanisad as well as in the Svetasvatara Upanisad, it is said that the Supreme Personality of Godhead is the maintainer of innumerable living entities, in terms of their different situations according to individual work and reaction of work. That Supreme Personality of Godhead is also, by His plenary portions, alive in the heart of every living entity. Only saintly persons who can see, within and without, the same Supreme Lord, can actually attain to perfect and eternal peace.

nityo nityanam cetanas cetananam

eko bahunam yo vidadhati kaman

tam atma–stham ye 'nupasyanti dhiras

tesam santih sasvati netaresam

The same Vedic truth given to Arjuna is given to all persons in the world who pose themselves as very learned but factually have but a poor fund of knowledge. The Lord says clearly that He Himself, Arjuna, and all the kings who are assembled on the battlefield, are eternally individual beings and that the Lord is eternally the maintainer of the individual living entities both in their conditioned as well as in their liberated situations. The Supreme Personality of Godhead is the supreme individual person, and Arjuna, the Lord's eternal associate, and all the kings assembled there are individual, eternal persons. It is not that they did not exist as individuals in the past, and it is not that they will not remain eternal persons. Their individuality existed in the past, and their individuality will continue in the future without interruption. Therefore, there is no cause for lamentation for anyone.

The Mayavadi theory that after liberation the individual soul, separated by the covering of maya or illusion, will merge into the impersonal Brahman and lose its individual existence is not supported herein by Lord Kṛṣṇa, the supreme authority. Nor is the theory that we only think of individuality in the conditioned state supported herein. Krsna clearly says herein that in the future also the individuality of the Lord and others, as it is confirmed in the Upanisads, will continue eternally. This statement of Krsna is authoritative because Krsna cannot be subject to illusion. If individuality is not a fact, then Krsna would not have stressed it so much—even for the future. The Mayavadi may argue that the individuality spoken of by Krsna is not spiritual, but material. Even accepting the argument that the individuality is material, then how can one distinguish Krsna's individuality? Krsna affirms His individuality in the past and confirms His individuality in the future also. He has confirmed His individuality in many ways, and impersonal Brahman has been declared to be subordinate to Him. Krsna has maintained spiritual individuality all along; if He is accepted as an ordinary conditioned soul in individual consciousness, then His Bhagavad-gita has no value as authoritative scripture. A common man with all the four defects of human frailty is unable to teach that which is worth hearing. The Gita is above such literature. No mundane book compares with the Bhagavad-gita. When one accepts Krsna as an ordinary man, the Gita loses all importance. The Mayavadi argues that the plurality mentioned in this verse is conventional and that it refers to the body. But previous to this verse such a bodily conception is already condemned. After condemning the bodily conception of the living entities, how was it possible for Krsna to place a conventional proposition on the body again? Therefore, individuality is maintained on spiritual grounds and is thus confirmed by great acaryas like Sri Ramanuja and others. It is clearly mentioned in many places in the Gita that this spiritual individuality is understood by those who are devotees of the Lord. Those who are envious of Krsna as the Supreme Personality of Godhead have no bona fide access to this great literature. The nondevotee's approach to the teachings of the Gita is something like bees licking on a bottle of honey. One cannot have a taste of honey unless one opens the bottle. Similarly, the mysticism of the Bhagavad-gita can be understood only by devotees, and no one else can taste it, as it is stated in the Fourth Chapter of the book. Nor can the Gita be touched by persons who envy the very existence of the Lord. Therefore, the Mayavadi explanation of the Gita is a most misleading presentation of the whole truth. Lord Caitanya has forbidden us to read commentations made by the Mayavadis and warns that one who takes to such an understanding of the Mayavadi philosophy loses all power to understand the real mystery of the Gita. If individuality refers to the empirical universe, then there is no need of teaching by the Lord. The plurality of the individual soul and of the Lord is an eternal fact, and it is confirmed by the Vedas as above mentioned.

TEXT 13

dehino 'smin yatha dehe

kaumaram yauvanam jara

tatha dehantara—praptir

dhiras tatra na muhyati

SYNONYMS

dehinah—of the embodied; asmin—in this; yatha—as; dehe—in the body;
kaumaram—boyhood; yauvanam—youth; jara—old age; tatha—similarly;
deha—antara—transference of the body; praptih—achievement; dhirah—the sober;
tatra—thereupon; na—never; muhyati—deluded.

TRANSLATION

As the embodied soul continuously passes, in this body, from boyhood to youth to old age, the soul similarly passes into another body at death. A self-realized soul is not bewildered by such a change.

PURPORT

Since every living entity is an individual soul, each is changing his body every moment, manifesting sometimes as a child, sometimes as a youth, and sometimes as an old man. Yet the same spirit soul is there and does not undergo any change. This individual soul finally changes the body at death and transmigrates to another body; and since it is sure to have another body in the next birth—either material or spiritual—there was no cause for lamentation by Arjuna on account of death, neither for Bhishma nor for Drona, for whom he was so much concerned. Rather, he should rejoice for their changing bodies from old to new ones, thereby rejuvenating their energy. Such changes of body account for varieties of enjoyment or suffering, according to one's work in life. So Bhishma and Drona, being noble souls, were surely going to have either spiritual bodies in the next life, or at least life in heavenly bodies for superior enjoyment of material existence. So, in either case, there was no cause of lamentation.

Any man who has perfect knowledge of the constitution of the individual soul, the Supersoul and nature—both material and spiritual—is called a dhira or a most sober man. Such a man is never deluded by the change of bodies. The Mayavadi theory of oneness of the spirit soul cannot be entertained on the ground that the spirit soul cannot be cut into pieces as a fragmental portion. Such cutting into different individual souls would make the Supreme cleavable or changeable, against the principle of the Supreme Soul being unchangeable. As confirmed in the Gita, the fragmental portions of the Supreme exist eternally (sanatana) and are called ksara; that is, they have a tendency to fall down into material nature. These fragmental portions are eternally so, and even after liberation, the individual soul remains the same—fragmental. But once liberated, he lives an eternal life in bliss and knowledge with the Personality of Godhead. The theory of reflection can be applied to the Supersoul, who is present in each and every individual body and is known as the Paramatma, who is different from the individual living entity. When the sky is reflected in water, the reflections represent both the sun and the moon and the stars also. The stars can be compared to the living entities and the sun or the moon to the Supreme Lord. The individual fragmental spirit soul is represented by Arjuna, and the Supreme Soul is the Personality of Godhead Sri Krsna. They are not on the same level, as it will be apparent in the beginning of the Fourth Chapter. If Arjuna is on the same level with Krsna, and Krsna is not superior to Arjuna, then their relationship of instructor and instructed becomes meaningless. If both of them are deluded by the illusory energy (maya), then there is no need of one being the instructor and the other the instructed. Such instruction would be useless because, in the clutches of maya, no one can be an authoritative instructor. Under the circumstances, it is admitted that Lord Krsna is the Supreme Lord, superior in position to the living entity, Arjuna, who is a forgetful soul deluded by maya.

TEXT 14

matra—sparsas tu kaunteya

sitosna—sukha—duhkha—dah

agamapayino 'nityas

tams titiksasva bharata

SYNONYMS

matra—sensuous; sparsah—perception; tu—only; kaunteya—O son of Kunti; sita—winter; usna—summer; sukha—happiness; duhkha-dah—giving pain; agama—appearing; apayinah—disappearing; anityah—nonpermanent; tan—all of them; titikshasva—just try to tolerate; bharata—O descendant of the Bharata dynasty.

TRANSLATION

O son of Kunti, the nonpermanent appearance of happiness and distress, and their disappearance in due course, are like the appearance and disappearance of winter and summer seasons. They arise from sense perception, O scion of Bharata, and one must learn to tolerate them without being disturbed.

PURPORT

In the proper discharge of duty, one has to learn to tolerate nonpermanent appearances and disappearances of happiness and distress. According to Vedic injunction, one has to take his bath early in the morning even during the month of Magha (January–February). It is very cold at that time, but in spite of that a man who abides by the religious principles does not hesitate to take his bath. Similarly, a woman does not hesitate to cook in the kitchen in the months of May and June, the hottest part of the summer season. One has to execute his duty in spite of climatic inconveniences. Similarly, to fight is the religious principle of the ksatriyas, and although one has to fight with some friend or relative, one should not deviate from his prescribed duty. One has to follow the prescribed rules and regulations of religious principles in order to rise up to the platform of knowledge because by knowledge and devotion only can one liberate himself from the clutches of maya (illusion).

The two different names of address given to Arjuna are also significant. To address him as Kaunteya signifies his great blood relations from his mother's side; and to address him as Bharata signifies his greatness from his father's side. From both sides he is supposed to have a great heritage. A great heritage brings responsibility in the matter of proper discharge of duties; therefore, he cannot avoid fighting.

TEXT 15

yam hi na vyathayanty ete

purusam purusarsabha

sama-duhkha-sukham dhiram

so 'mrtatvaya kalpate

SYNONYMS

yam—one whom; hi—certainly; na—never; vyathayanti—are distressing; ete—all these; purusam—to a person; purusa-rsabha—O best among men; sama—unaltered; duhkha—distressed; sukham—happiness; dhiram—patient; sah—he; amrtatvaya—for liberation; kalpate—is considered eligible.

TRANSLATION

O best among men [Arjuna], the person who is not disturbed by happiness and distress and is steady in both is certainly eligible for liberation.

PURPORT

Anyone who is steady in his determination for the advanced stage of spiritual realization and can equally tolerate the onslaughts of distress and happiness is certainly a person eligible for liberation. In the varnasrama institution, the fourth stage of life, namely the renounced order (sannyasa), is a painstaking situation. But one who is serious about making his life perfect surely adopts the sannyasa order of life in spite of all difficulties. The difficulties usually arise from having to sever family relationships, to give up the connection of wife and children. But if anyone is able to tolerate such difficulties, surely his path to spiritual realization is complete. Similarly, in Arjuna's discharge of duties as a ksatriya, he is advised to persevere, even if it is difficult to fight with his family members or similarly beloved persons. Lord Caitanya took sannyasa at the age of twenty-four, and His dependents, young wife as well as old mother, had no one else to look after them. Yet for a higher cause He took sannyasa and was steady in the discharge of higher duties. That is the way of achieving liberation from material bondage.

TEXT 16

nasato vidyate bhavo

nabhavo vidyate satah

ubhayor api drsto 'ntas

tv anayos tattva-darsibhih

SYNONYMS

na—never; asatah—of the nonexistent; vidyate—there is; bhavah—endurance;
na—never; abhavah—changing quality; vidyate—there is; satah—of the eternal;
ubhayoh—of the two; api—verily; drstah—observed; antah—conclusion; tu—but;
anayoh—of them; tattva—truth; darsibhih—by the seers.

TRANSLATION

Those who are seers of the truth have concluded that of the nonexistent there is no endurance, and of the existent there is no cessation. This seers have concluded by studying the nature of both.

PURPORT

There is no endurance of the changing body. That the body is changing every moment by the actions and reactions of the different cells is admitted by modern medical science; and thus growth and old age are taking place in the body. But the spirit soul exists permanently, remaining the same despite all changes of the body and the mind. That is the difference between matter and spirit. By nature, the body is ever changing, and the soul is eternal. This conclusion is established by all classes of seers of the truth, both impersonalist and personalist. In the Visnu Purana (2.12.38) it is stated that Visnu and His abodes all have self-illuminated spiritual existence (jyotimsi visnur bhuvanani visnuh). The words existent and nonexistent refer only to spirit and matter. That is the version of all seers of truth.

This is the beginning of the instruction by the Lord to the living entities who are bewildered by the influence of ignorance. Removal of ignorance involves the reestablishment of the eternal relationship between the worshiper and the worshipable and the consequent understanding of the difference between the part and parcel living entities and the Supreme Personality of Godhead. One can understand the nature of the Supreme by thorough study of oneself, the difference between oneself and the Supreme being understood as the relationship between the part and the whole. In the Vedanta-sutras, as well as in the Srimad-Bhagavatam, the Supreme has been accepted as the origin of all emanations. Such emanations are experienced by superior and inferior natural sequences. The living entities belong to the superior nature, as it will be revealed in the Seventh Chapter. Although there is no difference between the energy and the energetic, the energetic is accepted as the Supreme, and energy or nature is accepted as the subordinate. The living entities, therefore, are always subordinate to the Supreme Lord, as in the case of the master and the servant, or the teacher and the taught. Such clear knowledge is impossible to understand under the spell of ignorance, and to drive away such ignorance the Lord teaches the Bhagavad-gita for the enlightenment of all living entities for all time.

TEXT 17

avinasi tu tad viddhi

yena sarvam idam tatam

vinasam avyayasyasya

na kascit kartum arhati

SYNONYMS

avinasi—imperishable; tu—but; tat—that; viddhi—know it; yena—by whom; sarvam—all of the body; idam—this; tatam—pervaded; vinasam—destruction; avyayasya—of the imperishable; asya—of it; na kascit—no one; kartum—to do; arhati—is able.

TRANSLATION

Know that which pervades the entire body is indestructible. No one is able to destroy the imperishable soul.

PURPORT

This verse more clearly explains the real nature of the soul, which is spread all over the body. Anyone can understand what is spread all over the body: it is consciousness. Everyone is conscious of the pains and pleasures of the body in part or as a whole. This spreading of consciousness is limited within one's own body. The pains and pleasures of one body are unknown to another. Therefore, each and every body is the embodiment of an individual soul, and the symptom of the soul's presence is perceived as individual consciousness. This soul is described as one ten–thousandth part of the upper portion of the hair point in size. The Svetasvatara Upanisad (5.9) confirms this:

balagra–sata–bhagasya

satadha kalpitasya ca

bhago jivah vijneyah

sa canantyaya kalpate

"When the upper point of a hair is divided into one hundred parts and again each of such parts is further divided into one hundred parts, each such part is the measurement of the dimension of the spirit soul." Similarly the same version is stated:

kesagra–sata–bhagasya

satamsah sadrsatmakah

jivah suksma–svarupo 'yam

sankhyatito hi cit–kanah

"There are innumerable particles of spiritual atoms, which are measured as one ten–thousandth of the upper portion of the hair."

Therefore, the individual particle of spirit soul is a spiritual atom smaller than the material atoms, and such atoms are innumerable. This very small spiritual spark is the basic principle of the material body, and the influence of such a spiritual spark is spread all over the body as the influence of the active principle of some medicine spreads throughout the body. This current of the spirit soul is felt all over the body as consciousness, and that is the proof of the presence of the soul. Any layman can understand that the material body minus consciousness is a dead body, and this consciousness cannot be revived in the body by any means of material administration.

Therefore, consciousness is not due to any amount of material combination, but to the spirit soul. In the Mundaka Upanisad (3.1.9) the measurement of the atomic spirit soul is further explained:

eso 'nur atma cetasa veditavyo

yasmin pranah pancadha samvivesa

pranais cittam sarvam otam prajanam

yasmin visuddhe vibhavaty esa atma

"The soul is atomic in size and can be perceived by perfect intelligence. This atomic soul is floating in the five kinds of air [prana, apana, vyana, samana and udana], is situated within the heart, and spreads its influence all over the body of the embodied living entities. When the soul is purified from the contamination of the five kinds of material air, its spiritual influence is exhibited."

The hatha–yoga system is meant for controlling the five kinds of air encircling the pure soul by different kinds of sitting postures—not for any material profit, but for liberation of the minute soul from the entanglement of the material atmosphere.

So the constitution of the atomic soul is admitted in all Vedic literatures, and it is also actually felt in the practical experience of any sane man. Only the insane man can think of this atomic soul as all–pervading visnu–tattva.

The influence of the atomic soul can be spread all over a particular body. According to the Mundaka Upanisad, this atomic soul is situated in the heart of every living entity, and because the measurement of the atomic soul is beyond the power of appreciation of the material scientists, some of them assert foolishly that there is no soul. The individual atomic soul is definitely there in the heart along with the Supersoul, and thus all the energies of bodily movement are emanating from this part of the body. The corpuscles which carry the oxygen from the lungs gather energy from the soul. When the soul passes away from this position, activity of the blood, generating fusion, ceases. Medical science accepts the importance of the red corpuscles, but it cannot ascertain that the source of the energy is the soul. Medical science, however, does admit that the heart is the seat of all energies of the body.

Such atomic particles of the spirit whole are compared to the sunshine molecules. In the sunshine there are innumerable radiant molecules. Similarly, the fragmental parts of the Supreme Lord are atomic sparks of the rays of the Supreme Lord, called by the name prabha, or superior energy. Neither Vedic knowledge nor modern science denies the existence of the spirit soul in the body, and the science of the soul is explicitly described in the Bhagavad-gita by the Personality of Godhead Himself.

TEXT 18

antavanta ime deha

nityasyuktah saririnah

anasino 'prameyasya

tasmad yudhyasva bharata

SYNONYMS

anta-vantah—perishable; ime—all these; dehah—material bodies; nityasya—eternal in existence; uktah—it is so said; saririnah—the embodied soul; anasinah—never to be destroyed; aprameyasya—immeasurable; tasmad—therefore; yudhyasva—fight; bharata—O descendant of Bharata.

TRANSLATION

Only the material body of the indestructible, immeasurable and eternal living entity is subject to destruction; therefore, fight, O descendant of Bharata.

PURPORT

The material body is perishable by nature. It may perish immediately, or it may do so after a hundred years. It is a question of time only. There is no chance of maintaining it indefinitely. But the spirit soul is so minute that it cannot even be seen by an enemy, to say nothing of being killed. As mentioned in the previous verse, it is so small that no one can have any idea how to measure its dimension. So from both viewpoints there is no cause of lamentation because the living entity can neither be killed as he is, nor can the material body, which cannot be saved for any length of time, be permanently protected. The minute particle of the whole spirit acquires this material body according to his work, and therefore observance of religious principles should be utilized. In the Vedānta-sūtras the living entity is qualified as light because he is part and parcel of the supreme light. As sunlight maintains the entire universe, so the light of the soul maintains this material body. As soon as the spirit soul is out of this material body, the body begins to decompose; therefore it is the spirit soul which maintains this body. The body itself is unimportant. Arjuna was advised to fight and sacrifice the material body for the cause of religion.

TEXT 19

ya enam veti hantaram

yaś cañam manyate hatam

ubhau tau na vijanito

na yam hanti na hanyate

SYNONYMS

yah—anyone; enam—this; veti—knows; hantaram—the killer; yah—anyone;
ca—also; enam—this; manyate—thinks; hatam—killed; ubhau—both of them;
tau—they; na—never; vijanitah—in knowledge; na—never; ayam—this; hanti—kills;

na—nor; hanyate—be killed.

TRANSLATION

He who thinks that the living entity is the slayer or that he is slain, does not understand. One who is in knowledge knows that the self slays not nor is slain.

PURPORT

When an embodied living entity is hurt by fatal weapons, it is to be known that the living entity within the body is not killed. The spirit soul is so small that it is impossible to kill him by any material weapon, as is evident from the previous verses. Nor is the living entity killable, because of his spiritual constitution. What is killed, or is supposed to be killed, is the body only. This, however, does not at all encourage killing of the body. The Vedic injunction is ma himsyat sarva bhutani: never commit violence to anyone. Nor does understanding that the living entity is not killed encourage animal slaughter. Killing the body of anyone without authority is abominable and is punishable by the law of the state as well as by the law of the Lord. Arjuna, however, is being engaged in killing for the principle of religion, and not whimsically.

TEXT 20

na jayate mriyate va kadacin

nayam bhutva bhavita va na bhuyah

ajō nityah sasvato 'yam purano

na hanyate hanyamane sarire

SYNONYMS

na—never; jayate—takes birth; mriyate—never dies; va—either; kadacit—at any time (past, present or future); na—never; ayam—this; bhutva—came into being; bhavita—will come to be; va—or; na—not; bhuyah—or has coming to be; ajah—unborn; nityah—eternal; sasvatah—permanent; ayam—this; puranah—the oldest; na—never; hanyate—is killed; hanyamane—being killed; sarire—by the body.

TRANSLATION

For the soul there is never birth nor death. Nor, having once been, does He ever cease to be. He is unborn, eternal, ever-existing, undying and primeval. He is not slain when the body is slain.

PURPORT

Qualitatively, the small atomic fragmental part of the Supreme Spirit is one with the Supreme. He undergoes no changes like the body. Sometimes the soul is called the steady, or kutastha. The body is subject to six kinds of transformations. It takes its birth from the womb of the mother's body, remains for some time, grows, produces some effects, gradually dwindles, and at last vanishes into oblivion. The soul, however, does not go through such changes. The soul is not born, but, because he takes on a material body, the body takes its birth. The soul does not take birth there, and the soul does not die. Anything which has birth also has death. And because the soul has no birth, he therefore has no past, present or future. He is eternal, ever-existing, and primeval—that is, there is no trace in history of his coming into being. Under the impression of the body, we seek the history of birth, etc., of the soul. The soul does not at any time become old, as the body does. The so-called old man, therefore, feels himself to be in the same spirit as in his childhood or youth. The changes of the body do not affect the soul. The soul does not deteriorate like a tree, nor anything material. The soul has no by-product either. The by-products of the body, namely children, are also different individual souls; and, owing to the body, they appear as children of a particular man. The body develops because of the soul's presence, but the soul has neither offshoots nor change. Therefore, the soul is free from the six changes of the body.

In the Katha Upanisad (1.2.18) also we find a similar passage which reads:

na jayate mriyate va vipascin

nayam kutascin na babhuva kascit

ajo nityah sasvato 'yam purano

na hanyate hanyamane sarire

The meaning and purport of this verse is the same as in the Bhagavad-gita, but here in this verse there is one special word, vipascit, which means learned or with knowledge.

The soul is full of knowledge, or full always with consciousness. Therefore, consciousness is the symptom of the soul. Even if one does not find the soul within the heart, where he is situated, one can still understand the presence of the soul simply by the presence of consciousness. Sometimes we do not find the sun in the sky owing to clouds, or for some other reason, but the light of the sun is always there, and we are convinced that it is therefore daytime. As soon as there is a little light in the sky early in the morning, we can understand that the sun is in the sky. Similarly, since there is some consciousness in all bodies—whether man or animal—we can understand the presence of the soul. This consciousness of the soul is, however, different from the consciousness of the Supreme because the supreme consciousness is all-knowledge—past, present and future. The consciousness of the individual soul is prone to be forgetful. When he is forgetful of his real nature, he obtains education and enlightenment from the superior lessons of Kṛṣṇa. But Kṛṣṇa is not like the forgetful soul. If so, Kṛṣṇa's teachings of Bhagavad-gita would be useless.

There are two kinds of souls—namely the minute particle soul (anu-atma) and the Supersoul (vibhu-atma). This is also confirmed in the Katha Upanisad (1.2.20) in this way:

anor aniyam mahato mahiyan

atmasya jantor nihito guhayam

tam akratuh pasyati vita—soko

dhatuh prasadan mahimanam atmanah

"Both the Supersoul [Paramatma] and the atomic soul [jivatma] are situated on the same tree of the body within the same heart of the living being, and only one who has become free from all material desires as well as lamentations can, by the grace of the Supreme, understand the glories of the soul." Krsna is the fountainhead of the Supersoul also, as it will be disclosed in the following chapters, and Arjuna is the atomic soul, forgetful of his real nature; therefore he requires to be enlightened by Krsna, or by His bona fide representative (the spiritual master).

TEXT 21

vedavinasinam nityam

ya enam ajam avyayam

katham sa purusah partha

kam ghatayati hanti kam

SYNONYMS

veda—in knowledge; avinasinam—indestructible; nityam—always; yah—one who; enam—this (soul); ajam—unborn; avyayam—immutable; katham—how; sah—he; purusah—person; partha—O Partha (Arjuna); kam—whom; ghatayati—hurts; hanti—kills; kam—whom.

TRANSLATION

O Partha, how can a person who knows that the soul is indestructible, unborn, eternal and immutable, kill anyone or cause anyone to kill?

PURPORT

Everything has its proper utility, and a man who is situated in complete knowledge knows how and where to apply a thing for its proper utility. Similarly, violence also has its utility, and how to apply violence rests with the person in knowledge. Although the justice of the peace awards capital punishment to a person condemned for murder, the justice of the peace cannot be blamed because he orders violence to another person according to the codes of justice. In Manu-samhita, the lawbook for mankind, it is supported that a murderer should be condemned to death so that in his next life he will not have to suffer for the great sin he has committed. Therefore, the king's punishment of hanging a murderer is actually beneficial. Similarly, when Krsna orders fighting, it must be concluded that violence is for supreme justice, and, as such, Arjuna should follow the instruction, knowing well that such violence, committed in the act of fighting for Krsna, is not violence at all because, at any rate, the man, or rather the soul, cannot be killed; so for the administration of justice, so-called violence is permitted. A surgical operation is not meant to kill the patient, but to cure him. Therefore the fighting to be executed by Arjuna at the instruction of Krsna is with full knowledge, so there is no possibility of sinful reaction.

TEXT 22

vasamsi jirnani yatha vihaya

navani grhnati naro 'parani

tatha sarirani vihaya jirnany

anyani samyati navani dehi

SYNONYMS

vasamsi—garments; jirnani—old and worn out; yatha—as it is; vihaya—giving up; navani—new garments; grhnati—does accept; narah—a man; aparani—other; tatha—in the same way; sarirani—bodies; vihaya—giving up; jirnani—old and useless; anyani—different; samyati—verily accepts; navani—new sets; dehi—the embodied.

TRANSLATION

As a person puts on new garments, giving up old ones, similarly, the soul accepts new material bodies, giving up the old and useless ones.

PURPORT

Change of body by the atomic individual soul is an accepted fact. Even some of the modern scientists who do not believe in the existence of the soul, but at the same time cannot explain the source of energy from the heart, have to accept continuous changes of body which appear from childhood to boyhood and from boyhood to youth and again from youth to old age. From old age, the change is transferred to another body. This has already been explained in a previous verse.

Transference of the atomic individual soul to another body is made possible by the grace of the Supersoul. The Supersoul fulfills the desire of the atomic soul as one friend fulfills the desire of another. The Vedas, like the Mundaka Upanisad, as well as the Svetasvatara Upanisad, compare the soul and the Supersoul to two friendly birds sitting on the same tree. One of the birds (the individual atomic soul) is eating the fruit of the tree, and the other bird (Kṛṣṇa) is simply watching His friend. Of these two birds—although they are the same in quality—one is captivated by the fruits of the material tree, while the other is simply witnessing the activities of His friend. Kṛṣṇa is the witnessing bird, and Arjuna is the eating bird. Although they are friends, one is still the master and the other is the servant. Forgetfulness of this relationship by the atomic soul is the cause of one's changing his position from one tree to another or from one body to another. The jiva soul is struggling very hard on the tree of the material body, but as soon as he agrees to accept the other bird as the supreme spiritual master—as Arjuna agreed to do by voluntary surrender unto Kṛṣṇa for instruction—the subordinate bird immediately becomes free from all lamentations. Both the Mundaka Upaniṣad (3.1.2) and Svetasvatara Upaniṣad (4.7) confirm this:

samane vṛkṣe puruṣo nimagno

'nisaya socati muhyamanah

justam yada paśyaty anyam iṣam

aśya mahimanam iti vita-sokah

"Although the two birds are in the same tree, the eating bird is fully engrossed with anxiety and moroseness as the enjoyer of the fruits of the tree. But if in some way or other he turns his face to his friend who is the Lord and knows His glories—at once the suffering bird becomes free from all anxieties." Arjuna has now turned his face towards his eternal friend, Kṛṣṇa, and is understanding the Bhagavad-gītā from Him. And thus, hearing from Kṛṣṇa, he can understand the supreme glories of the Lord and be free from lamentation.

Arjuna is advised herewith by the Lord not to lament for the bodily change of his old grandfather and his teacher. He should rather be happy to kill their bodies in the righteous fight so that they may be cleansed at once of all reactions from various bodily activities. One who lays down his life on the sacrificial altar, or in the proper battlefield, is at once cleansed of bodily reactions and promoted to a higher status of life. So there was no cause for Arjuna's lamentation.

TEXT 23

nainam chindanti sastrāṇi

nainam dahati pavakah

na cainam kledayanty apo

na sosayati marutah

SYNONYMS

na—never; enam—this soul; chindanti—can cut to pieces; sastrani—all weapons;
na—never; enam—unto this soul; dahati—burns; pavakah—fire; na—never; ca—also;
enam—unto this soul; kledayanti—moistens; apah—water; na—never; sosayati—dries;
marutah—wind.

TRANSLATION

The soul can never be cut to pieces by any weapon, nor burned by fire, nor moistened by water, nor withered by the wind.

PURPORT

All kinds of weapons, swords, flames, rains, tornadoes, etc.—are unable to kill the spirit soul. It appears that there were many kinds of weapons made of earth, water, air, ether, etc., in addition to the modern weapons of fire. Even the nuclear weapons of the modern age are classified as fire weapons, but formerly there were other weapons made of all different kinds of material elements. Firearms were counteracted by water weapons, which are now unknown to modern science. Nor do modern scientists have knowledge of tornado weapons. Nonetheless, the soul can never be cut into pieces, nor annihilated by any number of weapons, regardless of scientific devices.

Nor was it ever possible to cut the individual souls from the original Soul. The Mayavadi, however, cannot describe how the individual soul evolved from ignorance and consequently became covered by illusory energy. Because they are atomic individual souls (sanatana) eternally, they are prone to be covered by the illusory energy, and thus they become separated from the association of the Supreme Lord, just as the sparks of the fire, although one in quality with the fire, are prone to be extinguished when out of the fire. In the Varaha Purana, the living entities are described as separated parts and parcels of the Supreme. They are eternally so, according to the Bhagavad-gita also. So, even after being liberated from illusion, the living entity remains a separate identity, as is evident from the teachings of the Lord to Arjuna. Arjuna became liberated by the knowledge received from Kṛṣṇa, but he never became one with Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 24

acchedyo 'yam adahyo 'yam

akledyo 'sosya eva ca

nityah sarva-gatah sthanur

acalo 'yam sanatanah

SYNONYMS

acchedyah—unbreakable; ayam—this soul; adahyah—cannot be burned; ayam—this soul; akledyah—insoluble; asosyah—cannot be dried; eva—certainly; ca—and; nityah—everlasting; sarva-gatah—all-pervading; sthanuh—unchangeable; acalah—immovable; ayam—this soul; sanatanah—eternally the same.

TRANSLATION

This individual soul is unbreakable and insoluble, and can be neither burned nor dried. He is everlasting, all-pervading, unchangeable, immovable and eternally the same.

PURPORT

All these qualifications of the atomic soul definitely prove that the individual soul is eternally the atomic particle of the spirit whole, and he remains the same atom eternally, without change. The theory of monism is very difficult to apply in this case, because the individual soul is never expected to become one homogeneously. After liberation from material contamination, the atomic soul may prefer to remain as a spiritual spark in the effulgent rays of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, but the intelligent souls enter into the spiritual planets to associate with the Personality of Godhead.

The word sarva-gata ("all-pervading") is significant because there is no doubt that living entities are all over God's creation. They live on the land, in the water, in the air, within the earth and even within fire. The belief that they are sterilized in fire is not acceptable, because it is clearly stated here that the soul cannot be burned by fire. Therefore, there is no doubt that there are living entities also in the sun planet with suitable bodies to live there. If the sun globe is uninhabited, then the word sarva-gata—"living everywhere"—becomes meaningless.

TEXT 25

avyakto 'yam acintyo 'yam

avikaryo 'yam ucyate

tasmad evam viditvainam

nanusocitum arhasi

SYNONYMS

avyaktah—invisible; ayam—this soul; acintyah—inconceivable; ayam—this soul; avikaryah—unchangeable; ayam—this soul; ucyate—is said; tasmad—therefore; evam—like this; viditva—knowing it well; enam—this soul; na—do not; anusocitum—may lament over; arhasi—you deserve.

TRANSLATION

It is said that the soul is invisible, inconceivable, immutable, and unchangeable. Knowing this, you should not grieve for the body.

PURPORT

As described previously, the magnitude of the soul is so small for our material calculation that he cannot be seen even by the most powerful microscope; therefore, he is invisible. As far as the soul's existence is concerned, no one can establish his existence experimentally beyond the proof of sruti, or Vedic wisdom. We have to accept this truth, because there is no other source of understanding the existence of the soul, although it is a fact by perception. There are many things we have to accept solely on grounds of superior authority. No one can deny the existence of his father, based upon the authority of his mother. There is no source of understanding the identity of the father except by the authority of the mother. Similarly, there is no source of understanding the soul except by studying the Vedas. In other words, the soul is inconceivable by human experimental knowledge. The soul is consciousness and conscious—that also is the statement of the Vedas, and we have to accept that. Unlike the bodily changes, there is no change in the soul. As eternally unchangeable, the soul remains atomic in comparison to the infinite Supreme Soul. The Supreme Soul is infinite, and the atomic soul is infinitesimal. Therefore, the infinitesimal soul, being unchangeable, can never become equal to the infinite soul, or the Supreme Personality of Godhead. This concept is repeated in the Vedas in different ways just to confirm the stability of the conception of the soul. Repetition of something is necessary in order that we understand the matter thoroughly, without error.

TEXT 26

atha cainam nitya-jatam

nityam va manyase mrtam

tathapi tvam maha-baho

nainam socitum arhasi

SYNONYMS

atha—if, however; ca—also; enam—this soul; nitya-jatam—always born; nityam—forever; va—either; manyase—so think; mrtam—dead; tatha api—still; tvam—you; maha-baho—O mighty-armed one; na—never; enam—about the soul; socitum—to lament; arhasi—deserve.

TRANSLATION

If, however, you think that the soul is perpetually born and always dies still, you still have no reason to lament, O mighty-armed.

PURPORT

There is always a class of philosophers, almost akin to the Buddhists, who do not believe in the separate existence of the soul beyond the body. When Lord Kṛṣṇa spoke the Bhagavad-gītā, it appears that such philosophers existed, and they were known as the lokayatikas and vaibhasikas. These philosophers maintained that life symptoms, or soul, takes place at a certain mature condition of material combination. The modern material scientist and materialist philosophers also think similarly. According to them, the body is a combination of physical elements, and at a certain stage the life symptoms develop by interaction of the physical body and chemical elements. The science of anthropology is based on this philosophy. Currently, many pseudo religions—now becoming fashionable in America—are also adhering to this philosophy, as well as to the nihilistic nondevotional Buddhist sects.

Even if Arjuna did not believe in the existence of the soul—as in the vaibhasika philosophy—there would still have been no cause for lamentation. No one laments the loss of a certain bulk of chemicals and stops discharging his prescribed duty. On the other hand, in modern science and scientific warfare, so many tons of chemicals are wasted for achieving victory over the enemy. According to the vaibhasika philosophy, the so-called soul or atma vanishes along with the deterioration of the body. So, in any case, whether Arjuna accepted the Vedic conclusion that there is an atomic soul, or whether he did not believe in the existence of the soul, he had no reason to lament. According to this theory, since there are so many living entities generating out of matter every moment, and so many of them are being vanquished at every moment, there is no need to grieve for such an incidence. However, since he was not risking rebirth of the soul, Arjuna had no reason to be afraid of being affected with sinful reactions due to his killing his grandfather and teacher. But at the same time, Kṛṣṇa sarcastically addressed Arjuna as maha-bahu, mighty-armed, because He, at least, did not accept the theory of the vaibhasikas, which leaves aside the Vedic wisdom. As a ksatriya, Arjuna belonged to the Vedic culture, and it behooved him to continue to follow its principles.

TEXT 27

jatasya hi dhruvo mrtyur

dhruvam janma mrtasya ca

tasmad apariharye 'rthe

na tvam socitum arhasi

SYNONYMS

jatasya—one who has taken his birth; hi—certainly; dhruvah—a fact; mrtyuh—death; dhruvam—it is also a fact; janma—birth; mrtasya—of the dead; ca—also; tasmad—therefore; apariharye—for that which is unavoidable; arthe—in the matter of; na—do not; tvam—you; socitum—to lament; arhasi—deserve.

TRANSLATION

For one who has taken his birth, death is certain; and for one who is dead, birth is certain. Therefore, in the unavoidable discharge of your duty, you should not lament.

PURPORT

One has to take birth according to one's activities of life. And, after finishing one term of activities, one has to die to take birth for the next. In this way the cycle of birth and death is revolving, one after the other without liberation. This cycle of birth and death does not, however, support unnecessary murder, slaughter and war. But at the same time, violence and war are inevitable factors in human society for keeping law and order.

The Battle of Kuruksetra, being the will of the Supreme, was an inevitable event, and to fight for the right cause is the duty of a ksatriya. Why should he be afraid of or aggrieved at the death of his relatives since he was discharging his proper duty? He did not deserve to break the law, thereby becoming subjected to the reactions of sinful acts, of which he was so afraid. By avoiding the discharge of his proper duty, he would not be able to stop the death of his relatives, and he would be degraded due to his selection of the wrong path of action.

TEXT 28

avyaktadini bhutani

vyakta—madhyani bharata

avyakta—nidhanany eva

tatra ka paridevana

SYNONYMS

avyakta—adini—in the beginning unmanifested; bhutani—all that are created; vyakta—manifested; madhyani—in the middle; bharata—O descendant of Bharata; avyakta—nonmanifested; nidhanani—all that are vanquished; eva—it is all like that; tatra—therefore; ka—what; paridevana—lamentation.

TRANSLATION

All created beings are unmanifest in their beginnings, manifest in their interim state, and unmanifest again when they are annihilated. So what need is there for lamentation?

PURPORT

Accepting that there are two classes of philosophers, one believing in the existence of the soul and the other not believing in the existence of the soul, there is no cause for lamentation in either case. Nonbelievers in the existence of the soul are called atheists by followers of Vedic wisdom. Yet even if, for argument's sake, we accept the atheistic theory, there is still no cause for lamentation. Apart from the separate existence of the soul, the material elements remain unmanifested before creation. From this subtle state of unmanifestation comes manifestation, just as from ether, air is generated; from air, fire is generated; from fire, water is generated; and from water, earth becomes manifested. From the earth, many varieties of manifestations take place. Take, for example, a big skyscraper manifested from the earth. When it is dismantled, the manifestation becomes again unmanifested and remains as atoms in the ultimate stage. The law of conservation of energy remains, but in course of time things are manifested and unmanifested—that is the difference. Then what cause is there for lamentation either in the stage of manifestation or in unmanifestation? Somehow or other, even in the unmanifested stage, things are not lost. Both at the beginning and at the end, all elements remain unmanifested, and only in the middle are they manifested, and this does not make any real material difference.

And if we accept the Vedic conclusion as stated in the Bhagavad-gita (antavanta ime dehaḥ) that these material bodies are perishable in due course of time (nityasyoktaḥ saririnah) but that the soul is eternal, then we must remember always that the body is like a dress; therefore why lament the changing of a dress? The material body has no factual existence in relation to the eternal soul. It is something like a dream. In a dream we may think of flying in the sky, or sitting on a chariot as a king, but when we wake up we can see that we are neither in the sky nor seated on the chariot. The Vedic wisdom encourages self-realization on the basis of the nonexistence of the material body. Therefore, in either case, whether one believes in the existence of the soul, or one does not believe in the existence of the soul, there is no cause for lamentation for loss of the body.

TEXT 29

ascarya—vat pasyati kascid enam

ascarya—vad vadati tathaiva canyah

ascarya—vac cainam anyah srnoti

srutvapy enam veda na caiva kascit

SYNONYMS

ascarya—vat—amazing; pasyati—see; kascit—some; enam—this soul;
ascarya—vat—amazing; vadati—speak; tatha—there; eva—certainly; ca—also;
anyah—another; ascarya—vat—similarly amazing; ca—also; enam—this soul;
anyah—others; srnoti—hear; srutva—having heard; api—even; enam—this soul;
veda—do know; na—never; ca—and; eva—certainly; kascit—anyone.

TRANSLATION

Some look at the soul as amazing, some describe him as amazing, and some hear of him as amazing, while others, even after hearing about him, cannot understand him at all.

PURPORT

Since Gitopanisad is largely based on the principles of the Upanisads, it is not surprising to also find this passage in the Katha Upanisad (1.2.7):

sravanayapi bahubhir yo na labhyah

srnvanto 'pi bahavo yam na vidyuh

ascaryo vakta kusalo 'sya labdha

ascaryo 'sya jnata kusalanusistah

The fact that the atomic soul is within the body of a gigantic animal, in the body of a gigantic banyan tree, and also in the microbic germs, millions and billions of which occupy only an inch of space, is certainly very amazing. Men with a poor fund of knowledge and men who are not austere cannot understand the wonders of the individual atomic spark of spirit, even though it is explained by the greatest authority of knowledge, who imparted lessons even to Brahma, the first living being in the universe. Owing to a gross material conception of things, most men in this age cannot imagine how such a small particle can become both so great and so small. So men look at the soul proper as wonderful either by constitution or by description. Illusioned by the material energy, people are so engrossed in subject matter for sense gratification that they have very little time to understand the question of self–understanding, even though it is a fact that without this self–understanding all activities result in ultimate defeat in the struggle for existence. Perhaps one has no idea that one must think of the soul, and thus make a solution of the material miseries.

Some people who are inclined to hear about the soul may be attending lectures, in good association, but sometimes, owing to ignorance, they are misguided by acceptance of the Supersoul and the atomic soul as one without distinction of magnitude. It is very difficult to find a man who perfectly understands the position of the soul, the Supersoul, the atomic soul, their respective functions, relationships and all other major and minor details. And it is still more difficult to find a man who has actually derived full benefit from knowledge of the soul, and who is able to describe the position of the soul in different aspects. But if, somehow or other, one is able to understand the subject matter of the soul, then one's life is successful. The easiest process for understanding the subject matter of self, however, is to accept the statements of the Bhagavad-gita spoken by the greatest authority, Lord Kṛṣṇa, without being deviated by other theories. But it also requires a great deal of penance and sacrifice, either in this life or in the previous ones, before one is able to accept Kṛṣṇa as the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Kṛṣṇa can, however, be known as such by the causeless mercy of the pure devotee and by no other way.

TEXT 30

dehi nityam avadhyo 'yam

dehe sarvasya bharata

tasmat sarvani bhutani

na tvam socitum arhasi

SYNONYMS

dehi—the owner of the material body; nityam—eternally; avadhyah—cannot be killed; ayam—this soul; dehe—in the body; sarvasya—of everyone; bharata—O descendant of Bharata; tasmat—therefore; sarvani—all; bhutani—living entities (that are born); na—never; tvam—yourself; socitum—to lament; arhasi—deserve.

TRANSLATION

O descendant of Bharata, he who dwells in the body is eternal and can never be slain. Therefore you need not grieve for any creature.

PURPORT

The Lord now concludes the chapter of instruction on the immutable spirit soul. In describing the immortal soul in various ways, Lord Kṛṣṇa establishes that the soul is immortal and the body is temporary. Therefore Arjuna as a ksatriya should not abandon his duty out of fear that his grandfather and teacher—Bhīṣma and Drōṇa—will die in the battle. On the authority of Sri Kṛṣṇa, one has to believe that there is a soul different from the material body, not that there is no such thing as soul, or that living symptoms develop at a certain stage of material maturity resulting from the interaction of chemicals. Though the soul is immortal, violence is not encouraged, but at the time of war it is not discouraged when there is actual need for it. That need must be justified in terms of the sanction of the Lord, and not capriciously.

TEXT 31

sva-dharmam api caveksya

na vikampitum arhasi

dharmyat dhi yuddhat chreya 'nyat

ksatriyasya na vidyate

SYNONYMS

sva-dharmam—one's own religious principles; api—also; ca—indeed;
aveksya—considering; na—never; vikampitum—to hesitate; arhasi—you deserve;
dharmyat—from religious principles; hi—indeed; yuddhat—than fighting;
sreyah—better engagements; anyat—anything else; ksatriyasya—of the ksatriya;
na—does not; vidyate—exist.

TRANSLATION

Considering your specific duty as a ksatriya, you should know that there is no better engagement for you than fighting on religious principles; and so there is no need for hesitation.

PURPORT

Out of the four orders of social administration, the second order, for the matter of good administration, is called ksatriya. Ksat means hurt. One who gives protection from harm is called ksatriya (trayate—to give protection). The ksatriyas are trained for killing in the forest. A ksatriya would go into the forest and challenge a tiger face to face and fight with the tiger with his sword. When the tiger was killed, it would be offered the royal order of cremation. This system is being followed even up to the present day by the ksatriya kings of the Jaipur state. The ksatriyas are specially trained for challenging and killing because religious violence is sometimes a necessary factor. Therefore, ksatriyas are never meant for accepting directly the order of sannyasa or renunciation. Nonviolence in politics may be a diplomacy, but it is never a factor or principle. In the religious law books it is stated:

ahavesu mitho 'nyonyam

jighamsanto mahi-ksitah

yuddhamanah param saktya

svargam yanty aparan-mukhah

yajnesu pasavo brahman

hanyante satatam dvijaih

samskrtah kila mantrais ca

te 'pi svargam avapnuvan

"In the battlefield, a king or ksatriya, while fighting another king envious of him, is eligible for achieving heavenly planets after death, as the brahmanas also attain the heavenly planets by sacrificing animals in the sacrificial fire." Therefore, killing on the battlefield on religious principles and the killing of animals in the sacrificial fire are not at all considered to be acts of violence, because everyone is benefited by the religious principles involved. The animal sacrificed gets a human life immediately without undergoing the gradual evolutionary process from one form to another, and the ksatriyas killed in the battlefield also attain the heavenly planets as do the brahmanas who attain them by offering sacrifice.

There are two kinds of sva–dharma, specific duties. As long as one is not liberated, one has to perform the duties of his particular body in accordance with religious principles in order to achieve liberation. When one is liberated, one's sva–dharma—specific duty—becomes spiritual and is not in the material bodily concept. In the bodily conception of life there are specific duties for the brahmanas and ksatriyas respectively, and such duties are unavoidable. Sva–dharma is ordained by the Lord, and this will be clarified in the Fourth Chapter. On the bodily plane sva–dharma is called varnasrama–dharma, or man's steppingstone for spiritual understanding. Human civilization begins from the stage of varnasrama–dharma, or specific duties in terms of the specific modes of nature of the body obtained. Discharging one's specific duty in any field of action in accordance with varnasrama–dharma serves to elevate one to a higher status of life.

TEXT 32

yadrcchaya copapannam

svarga–dvaram apavrtam

sukhinah ksatriyah partha

labhante yuddham idrsam

SYNONYMS

yadrcchaya—by its own accord; ca—also; upapannam—arrived at; svarga—heavenly planet; dvaram—door; apavrtam—wide open; sukhinah—very happy; ksatriyah—the members of the royal order; partha—O son of Prtha; labhante—do achieve; yuddham—war; idrsam—like this.

TRANSLATION

O Partha, happy are the ksatriyas to whom such fighting opportunities come unsought, opening for them the doors of the heavenly planets.

PURPORT

As supreme teacher of the world, Lord Kṛṣṇa condemns the attitude of Arjuna who said, "I do not find any good in this fighting. It will cause perpetual habitation in hell." Such statements by Arjuna were due to ignorance only. He wanted to become nonviolent in the discharge of his specific duty. For a ksatriya to be in the battlefield and to become nonviolent is the philosophy of fools. In the Parasara-smṛti, or religious codes made by Parasara, the great sage and father of Vyāsadeva, it is stated:

ksatriyo hi praja raksan

sastra-panih pradandayan

nirjitya para-sainyadi

ksitim dharmena palayet

"The ksatriya's duty is to protect the citizens from all kinds of difficulties, and for that reason he has to apply violence in suitable cases for law and order. Therefore he has to conquer the soldiers of inimical kings, and thus, with religious principles, he should rule over the world."

Considering all aspects, Arjuna had no reason to refrain from fighting. If he should conquer his enemies, he would enjoy the kingdom; and if he should die in the battle, he would be elevated to the heavenly planets whose doors were wide open to him. Fighting would be for his benefit in either case.

TEXT 33

atha cet tvam imam dharmyam

sangramam na karisyasi

tatah sva-dharmam kirtim ca

hitva papam avapsyasi

SYNONYMS

atha—therefore; cet—if; tvam—you; imam—this; dharmyam—religious duty; sangramam—fighting; na—do not; karisyasi—perform; tatah—then; sva-dharmam—your religious duty; kirtim—reputation; ca—also; hitva—losing; papam—sinful reaction; avapsyasi—do gain.

TRANSLATION

If, however, you do not fight this religious war, then you will certainly incur sins for neglecting your duties and thus lose your reputation as a fighter.

PURPORT

Arjuna was a famous fighter, and he attained fame by fighting many great demigods, including even Lord Siva. After fighting and defeating Lord Siva in the dress of a hunter, Arjuna pleased the lord and received as a reward a weapon called pasupata–astra. Everyone knew that he was a great warrior. Even Dronacarya gave him benedictions and awarded him the special weapon by which he could kill even his teacher. So he was credited with so many military certificates from many authorities, including his adopted father Indra, the heavenly king. But if he abandoned the battle, he would not only neglect his specific duty as a ksatriya, but he would lose all fame and good name and thus prepare his royal road to hell. In other words, he would go to hell, not by fighting, but by withdrawing from battle.

TEXT 34

akirtim capi bhutani

kathayisyanti te 'vyayam

sambhavitasya cakirtir

maranad atiricyate

SYNONYMS

akirtim—infamy; ca—also; api—over and above; bhutani—all people; kathayisyanti—will speak; te—of you; avyayam—forever; sambhavitasya—for a respectable man; ca—also; akirtih—ill fame; maranat—than death; atiricyate—becomes more than.

TRANSLATION

People will always speak of your infamy, and for one who has been honored, dishonor is worse than death.

PURPORT

Both as a friend and philosopher to Arjuna, Lord Kṛṣṇa now gives His final judgment regarding Arjuna's refusal to fight. The Lord says, "Arjuna, if you leave the battlefield, people will call you a coward even before your actual fight. And if you think that people may call you bad names but that you will save your life by fleeing the battlefield, then My advice is that you'd better die in the battle. For a respectable man like you, ill fame is worse than death. So, you should not flee for fear of your life; better die in the battle. That will save you from the ill fame of misusing My friendship and losing your prestige in society."

So, the final judgment of the Lord was for Arjuna to die in the battle and not withdraw.

TEXT 35

bhayad ranad uparatam

mamsyante tvam maha-rathah

yesam ca tvam bahu-mato

bhutva yasyasi laghavam

SYNONYMS

bhayat—out of fear; ranat—from the battlefield; uparatam—ceased; mamsyante—will consider; tvam—unto you; maha-rathah—the great generals; yesam—of those who; ca—also; tvam—you; bahu-matah—in great estimation; bhutva—will become; yasyasi—will go; laghavam—decreased in value.

TRANSLATION

The great generals who have highly esteemed your name and fame will think that you have left the battlefield out of fear only, and thus they will consider you a coward.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa continued to give His verdict to Arjuna: "Do not think that the great generals like Duryodhana, Karna, and other contemporaries will think that you have left the battlefield out of compassion for your brothers and grandfather. They will think that you have left out of fear for your life. And thus their high estimation of your personality will go to hell."

TEXT 36

avacya-vadams ca bahun

vadisianti tavahitah

nindantas tava samarthyam

tato duhkhataṛam nu kim

SYNONYMS

avacya—unkind; vadan—fabricated words; ca—also; bahun—many; vadisyanti—will say; tava—your; ahitah—enemies; nindantah—while vilifying; tava—your; samarthyam—ability; tatah—thereafter; dukkha-taram—more painful; nu—of course; kim—what is there.

TRANSLATION

Your enemies will describe you in many unkind words and scorn your ability. What could be more painful for you?

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa was astonished in the beginning at Arjuna's uncalled-for plea for compassion, and He described his compassion as befitting the non-Aryans. Now in so many words, He has proved His statements against Arjuna's so-called compassion.

TEXT 37

hato va prapsyasi svargam

jitva va bhoksyase mahim

tasmad uttistha kaunteya

yuddhaya kṛta-niscayah

SYNONYMS

hatah—being killed; va—either; prapsyasi—you will gain; svargam—the heavenly kingdom; jitva—by conquering; va—or; bhoksyase—you enjoy; mahim—the world; tasmāt—therefore; uttistha—get up; kaunteya—O son of Kunti; yuddhaya—to fight; kṛta—determined; niscayah—uncertainty.

TRANSLATION

O son of Kunti, either you will be killed on the battlefield and attain the heavenly planets, or you will conquer and enjoy the earthly kingdom. Therefore get up and fight with determination.

PURPORT

Even though there was no certainty of victory for Arjuna's side, he still had to fight; for, even being killed there, he could be elevated into the heavenly planets.

TEXT 38

sukha-duhkhe same kṛtvā

labhalabhau jayajayau

tato yuddhaya yujyasva

naivam papam avapsyasi

SYNONYMS

sukha—happiness; duhkhe—in distress; same—in equanimity; krtva—doing so; labha—alabhau—both in loss and profit; jaya—ajayau—both in defeat and victory; tatah—thereafter; yuddhaya—for the sake of fighting; yujyasva—do fight; na—never; evam—in this way; papam—sinful reaction; avapsyasi—you will gain.

TRANSLATION

Do thou fight for the sake of fighting, without considering happiness or distress, loss or gain, victory or defeat—and, by so doing, you shall never incur sin.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa now directly says that Arjuna should fight for the sake of fighting because He desires the battle. There is no consideration of happiness or distress, profit or gain, victory or defeat in the activities of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That everything should be performed for the sake of Kṛṣṇa is transcendental consciousness; so there is no reaction to material activities. He who acts for his own sense gratification, either in goodness or in passion, is subject to the reaction, good or bad. But he who has completely surrendered himself in the activities of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is no longer obliged to anyone, nor is he a debtor to anyone, as one is in the ordinary course of activities. It is said:

devarsi—bhutapta—nrnam pitṛnam

na kinkaro nayam rñi ca rajan

sarvatmana yah saranam saranyam

gato mukundam parihrtya kartam

"Anyone who has completely surrendered unto Krsna, Mukunda, giving up all other duties, is no longer a debtor, nor is he obliged to anyone—not the demigods, nor the sages, nor the people in general, nor kinsmen, nor humanity, nor forefathers." (Bhag. 11.5.41) That is the indirect hint given by Krsna to Arjuna in this verse, and the matter will be more clearly explained in the following verses.

TEXT 39

esa te 'bhihita sankhye

buddhir yoge tv imam srnu

buddhya yukto yaya partha

karma-bandham prahasyasi

SYNONYMS

esa—all these; te—unto you; abhihita—described; sankhye—by analytical study; buddhih—intelligence; yoge—work without fruitive result; tu—but; imam—this; srnu—just hear; buddhya—by intelligence; yuktah—dovetailed; yaya—by which; partha—O son of Prtha; karma-bandham—bondage of reaction; prahasyasi—you can be released from.

TRANSLATION

Thus far I have declared to you the analytical knowledge of sankhya philosophy. Now listen to the knowledge of yoga whereby one works without fruitive result. O son of Prtha, when you act by such intelligence, you can free yourself from the bondage of works.

PURPORT

According to the Nirukti, or the Vedic dictionary, sankhya means that which describes phenomena in detail, and sankhya refers to that philosophy which describes the real nature of the soul. And yoga involves controlling the senses. Arjuna's proposal not to fight was based on sense gratification. Forgetting his prime duty, he wanted to cease fighting because he thought by not killing his relatives and kinsmen he would be happier than by enjoying the kingdom by conquering his cousins and brothers, the sons of Dhrtarastra. In both ways, the basic principles were for sense gratification. Happiness derived from conquering them and happiness derived by seeing kinsmen alive are both on the basis of personal sense gratification, for there is a sacrifice of wisdom and duty. Krsna, therefore, wanted to explain to Arjuna that by killing the body of his grandfather he would not be killing the soul proper, and He explained that all individual persons, including the Lord Himself, are eternal individuals; they were individuals in the past, they are individuals in the present, and they will continue to remain individuals in the future, because all of us are individual souls eternally, and we simply change our bodily dress in different manners. But, actually, we keep our individuality even after liberation from the bondage of material dress. An analytical study of the soul and the body has been very graphically explained by Lord Krsna. And this descriptive knowledge of the soul and the body from different angles of vision has been described here as Sankhya, in terms of the Nirukti dictionary. This Sankhya has nothing to do with the Sankhya philosophy of the atheist Kapila. Long before the imposter Kapila's Sankhya, the Sankhya philosophy was expounded in the Srimad-Bhagavatam by the true Lord Kapila, the incarnation of Lord Krsna, who explained it to His mother, Devahuti. It is clearly explained by Him that the purusa, or the Supreme Lord, is active and that He creates by looking over the prakrti. This is accepted in the Vedas and in the Gita. The description in the Vedas indicates that the Lord glanced over the prakrti, or nature, and impregnated it with atomic individual souls. All these individuals are working in the material world for sense gratification, and under the spell of material energy they are thinking of being enjoyers. This mentality is dragged to the last point of liberation when the living entity wants to become one with the Lord. This is the last snare of maya or sense gratificatory illusion, and it is only after many, many births of such sense gratificatory activities that a great soul surrenders unto Vasudeva, Lord Krsna, thereby fulfilling the search after the ultimate truth.

Arjuna has already accepted Kṛṣṇa as his spiritual master by surrendering himself unto Him: sisyas te 'ham sadhi mam tvam prapannam. Consequently, Kṛṣṇa will now tell him about the working process in buddhi-yoga, or karma-yoga, or in other words, the practice of devotional service only for the sense gratification of the Lord. This buddhi-yoga is clearly explained in Chapter Ten, verse ten, as being direct communion with the Lord, who is sitting as Paramatma in everyone's heart. But such communion does not take place without devotional service. One who is therefore situated in devotional or transcendental loving service to the Lord, or, in other words, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, attains to this stage of buddhi-yoga by the special grace of the Lord. The Lord says, therefore, that only to those who are always engaged in devotional service out of transcendental love does He award the pure knowledge of devotion in love. In that way the devotee can reach Him easily in the ever-blissful kingdom of God.

Thus the buddhi-yoga mentioned in this verse is the devotional service of the Lord, and the word Sankhya mentioned herein has nothing to do with the atheistic sankhya-yoga enunciated by the imposter Kapila. One should not, therefore, misunderstand that the sankhya-yoga mentioned herein has any connection with the atheistic Sankhya. Nor did that philosophy have any influence during that time; nor would Lord Kṛṣṇa care to mention such godless philosophical speculations. Real Sankhya philosophy is described by Lord Kapila in the Srimad-Bhagavatam, but even that Sankhya has nothing to do with the current topics. Here, Sankhya means analytical description of the body and the soul. Lord Kṛṣṇa made an analytical description of the soul just to bring Arjuna to the point of buddhi-yoga, or bhakti-yoga. Therefore, Lord Kṛṣṇa's Sankhya and Lord Kapila's Sankhya, as described in the Bhagavatam, are one and the same. They are all bhakti-yoga. He said, therefore, that only the less intelligent class of men make a distinction between sankhya-yoga and bhakti-yoga.

Of course, atheistic sankhya-yoga has nothing to do with bhakti-yoga, yet the unintelligent claim that the atheistic sankhya-yoga is referred to in the Bhagavad-gita.

One should therefore understand that buddhi-yoga means to work in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, in the full bliss and knowledge of devotional service. One who works for the satisfaction of the Lord only, however difficult such work may be, is working under the principles of buddhi-yoga and finds himself always in transcendental bliss. By such transcendental engagement, one achieves all transcendental qualities automatically, by the grace of the Lord, and thus his liberation is complete in itself, without his making extraneous endeavors to acquire knowledge. There is much difference between work in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and work for fruitive results, especially in the matter of sense gratification for achieving results in terms of family or material happiness. Buddhi-yoga is therefore the transcendental quality of the work that we perform.

TEXT 40

nehabhikrama—nasō 'sti

pratyavayo na vidyate

sv—alpam apy asya dharmasya

trayate mahato bhayat

SYNONYMS

na—there is not; iha—in this world; abhikrama—endeavoring; nasah—loss; asti—there is; pratyavayah—diminution; na—never; vidyate—there is; su—alpam—a little; api—although; asya—of this; dharmasya—of this occupation; trayate—releases; mahatah—of very great; bhayat—danger.

TRANSLATION

In this endeavor there is no loss or diminution, and a little advancement on this path can protect one from the most dangerous type of fear.

PURPORT

Activity in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, or acting for the benefit of Kṛṣṇa without expectation of sense gratification, is the highest transcendental quality of work. Even a small beginning of such activity finds no impediment, nor can that small beginning be lost at any stage. Any work begun on the material plane has to be completed, otherwise the whole attempt becomes a failure. But any work begun in Kṛṣṇa consciousness has a permanent effect, even though not finished. The performer of such work is therefore not at a loss even if his work in Krsna consciousness is incomplete. One percent done in Krsna consciousness bears permanent results, so that the next beginning is from the point of two percent; whereas, in material activity, without a hundred percent success, there is no profit. Ajamila performed his duty in some percentage of Krsna consciousness, but the result he enjoyed at the end was a hundred percent, by the grace of the Lord. There is a nice verse in this connection in Srimad-Bhagavatam (1.5.17):

tyaktva sva-dharmam caranambujam harer

bhajann apakvo 'tha patet tato yadi

yatra kva vabhadram abhud amusya kim

ko vartha apto 'bhajatam sva-dharmatah

"If someone gives up self-gratificatory pursuits and works in Krsna consciousness and then falls down on account of not completing his work, what loss is there on his part? And, what can one gain if one performs his material activities perfectly?" Or, as the Christians say, "What profiteth a man if he gain the whole world yet suffers the loss of his eternal soul?"

Material activities and their results end with the body. But work in Krsna consciousness carries a person again to Krsna consciousness, even after the loss of the body. At least one is sure to have a chance in the next life of being born again as a human being, either in the family of a great cultured brahmana or in a rich aristocratic family that will give one a further chance for elevation. That is the unique quality of work done in Krsna consciousness.

TEXT 41

vyavasayatmika buddhir

ekeha kuru-nandana

bahu—sakha hy anantas ca

buddhayo 'vyavasayinam

SYNONYMS

vyavasaya—atmika—resolute Kṛṣṇa consciousness; buddhih—intelligence; eka—only one; iha—in this world; kuru—nandana—O beloved child of the Kurus; bahu—sakhah—various branches; hi—indeed; anantah—unlimited; ca—also; buddhayah—intelligence; avyavasayinam—of those who are not in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TRANSLATION

Those who are on this path are resolute in purpose, and their aim is one. O beloved child of the Kurus, the intelligence of those who are irresolute is many-branched.

PURPORT

A strong faith in Kṛṣṇa consciousness that one shall be elevated to the highest perfection of life is called vyavasayatmika intelligence. The Caitanya-caritamṛta (Madhya 22.62) states:

'sraddha'—sabde—visvasa kahe sudrdha niscaya

kṛṣṇe bhakti kaile sarva-karma kṛta haya

Faith means unflinching trust in something sublime. When one is engaged in the duties of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he need not act in relationship to the material world with obligations to family traditions, humanity, or nationality. Fruitive activities are the engagements of one's reactions from past good or bad deeds. When one is awake in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he need no longer endeavor for good results in his activities. When one is situated in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all activities are on the absolute plane, for they are no longer subject to dualities like good and bad. The highest perfection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is renunciation of the material conception of life. This state is automatically achieved by progressive Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The resolute purpose of a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is based on knowledge, Vasudevah sarvam iti sa mahatma su-durlabhah, by which one comes to know perfectly that Vasudeva, or Kṛṣṇa is the root of all manifested causes. As water on the root of a tree is automatically distributed to the leaves and branches, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness one can render the highest service to everyone—namely self, family, society, country, humanity, etc. If Kṛṣṇa is satisfied by one's actions, then everyone will be satisfied.

Service in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is, however, best practiced under the able guidance of a spiritual master who is a bona fide representative of Kṛṣṇa, who knows the nature of the student and who can guide him to act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. As such, to be well-versed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness one has to act firmly and obey the representative of Kṛṣṇa, and one should accept the instruction of the bona fide spiritual master as one's mission in life. Śrīla Viṣvanātha Cakravartī Thākura instructs us, in his famous prayers for the spiritual master as follows:

yasya prasadaḥ bhagavat-prasado

yasya prasadan na gatiḥ kuto 'pi dhyāyan stuvāms tasya yasaḥ tri-sandhyam

vande guroḥ śrī-caranaravindam

"By satisfaction of the spiritual master, the Supreme Personality of Godhead becomes satisfied. And by not satisfying the spiritual master, there is no chance of being promoted to the plane of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. I should, therefore, meditate and pray for his mercy three times a day, and offer my respectful obeisances unto him, my spiritual master."

The whole process, however, depends on perfect knowledge of the soul beyond the conception of the body—not theoretically but practically, when there is no longer a chance for sense gratification manifested in fruitive activities. One who is not firmly fixed in mind is diverted by various types of fruitive acts.

TEXTS 42–43

yam imam puspitam vacam

pravadanty avipascitah

veda–vada–ratah partha

nanyad astiti vadinah

kamatmanah svarga–para

janma–karma–phala–pradam

kriya–visesa–bahulam

bhogaisvarya–gatim prati

SYNONYMS

yam imam—all these; puspitam—flowery; vacam—words; pravadanti—say; avipascitah—men with a poor fund of knowledge; veda–vada–ratah—supposed followers of the Vedas; partha—O son of Prtha; na—never; anyat—anything else; asti—there is; iti—thus; vadinah—advocates; kama–atmanah—desirous of sense gratification; svarga–para—aiming to achieve heavenly planets; janma–karma–phala–pradam—resulting in fruitive actions, good birth, etc.; kriya–visesa—pompous ceremonies; bahulam—various; bhoga—sense enjoyment; aisvarya—opulence; gatim—progress; prati—towards.

TRANSLATION

Men of small knowledge are very much attached to the flowery words of the Vedas, which recommend various fruitive activities for elevation to heavenly planets, resultant good birth, power, and so forth. Being desirous of sense gratification and opulent life, they say that there is nothing more than this.

PURPORT

People in general are not very intelligent, and due to their ignorance they are most attached to the fruitive activities recommended in the karma-kanda portions of the Vedas. They do not want anything more than sense gratificatory proposals for enjoying life in heaven, where wine and women are available and material opulence is very common. In the Vedas many sacrifices are recommended for elevation to the heavenly planets, especially the jyotistoma sacrifices. In fact, it is stated that anyone desiring elevation to heavenly planets must perform these sacrifices, and men with a poor fund of knowledge think that this is the whole purpose of Vedic wisdom. It is very difficult for such inexperienced persons to be situated in the determined action of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. As fools are attached to the flowers of poisonous trees without knowing the results of such attractions, similarly unenlightened men are attracted by such heavenly opulence and the sense enjoyment thereof.

In the karma-kanda section of the Vedas it is said that those who perform the four monthly penances become eligible to drink the somarasa beverages to become immortal and happy forever. Even on this earth some are very eager to have somarasa to become strong and fit to enjoy sense gratifications. Such persons have no faith in liberation from material bondage, and they are very much attached to the pompous ceremonies of Vedic sacrifices. They are generally sensual, and they do not want anything other than the heavenly pleasures of life. It is understood that there are gardens called Nandana-kanana in which there is good opportunity for association with angelic, beautiful women and having a profuse supply of somarasa wine. Such bodily happiness is certainly sensual; therefore there are those who are purely attached to material, temporary happiness, as lords of the material world.

TEXT 44

bhogaisvarya–prasaktanam

tayapahrta–cetasam

vyavasaya–atmika buddhih

samadhau na vidhiyate

SYNONYMS

bhoga—material enjoyment; aisvarya—opulence; prasaktanam—those who are so attached; taya—by such things; apahrta–cetasam—bewildered in mind; vyavasaya–atmika—fixed determination; buddhih—devotional service of the Lord; samadhau—in the controlled mind; na—never; vidhiyate—does take place.

TRANSLATION

In the minds of those who are too attached to sense enjoyment and material opulence, and who are bewildered by such things, the resolute determination of devotional service to the Supreme Lord does not take place.

PURPORT

Samadhi means "fixed mind." The Vedic dictionary, the Nirukti, says, samyag adhiyate 'sminn atma–tattva–yathatmyam: "When the mind is fixed for understanding the self, it is called samadhi." Samadhi is never possible for persons interested in material sense enjoyment, nor for those who are bewildered by such temporary things. They are more or less condemned by the process of material energy.

TEXT 45

traī-guṇya-visaya veda

nīstrai-guṇyo bhavarjuna

nīrdvandvo nitya-sattva-stho

nīryoga-kṣema atmavan

SYNONYMS

traī-guṇya—pertaining to the three modes of material nature; visayah—on the subject matter; vedah—Vedic literatures; nīstrai-guṇyah—in a pure state of spiritual existence; bhava—be; arjuna—O Arjuna; nīrdvandvah—free from the pains of opposites; nitya-sattva-sthah—ever remaining in sattva (goodness); nīryoga-kṣemah—free from (the thought of) acquisition and preservation; atma-van—established in the self.

TRANSLATION

The Vedas mainly deal with the subject of the three modes of material nature. Rise above these modes, O Arjuna. Be transcendental to all of them. Be free from all dualities and from all anxieties for gain and safety, and be established in the self.

PURPORT

All material activities involve actions and reactions in the three modes of material nature. They are meant for fruitive results, which cause bondage in the material world. The Vedas deal mostly with fruitive activities to gradually elevate the general public from the field of sense gratification to a position on the transcendental plane. Arjuna, as a student and friend of Lord Kṛṣṇa, is advised to raise himself to the transcendental position of Vedānta philosophy where, in the beginning, there is brahma-jijñāsa, or questions on the supreme transcendence. All the living entities who are in the material world are struggling very hard for existence. For them the Lord, after creation of the material world, gave the Vedic wisdom advising how to live and get rid of the material entanglement. When the activities for sense gratification, namely the karma-kāṇḍa chapter, are finished, then the chance for spiritual realization is offered in the form of the Upaniṣads, which are part of different Vedas, as the Bhagavad-gītā is a part of the fifth Veda, namely the Mahābhārata. The Upaniṣads mark the beginning of transcendental life.

As long as the material body exists, there are actions and reactions in the material modes. One has to learn tolerance in the face of dualities such as happiness and distress, or cold and warmth, and by tolerating such dualities become free from anxieties regarding gain and loss. This transcendental position is achieved in full Kṛṣṇa consciousness when one is fully dependent on the good will of Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 46

yavan artha udapane

sarvataḥ samplutodake

tavan sarvesu vedesu

brahmanasya vijanataḥ

SYNONYMS

yavan—all that; arthah—is meant; uda-pane—in a well of water; sarvataḥ—in all respects; sampluta-udake—in a great reservoir of water; tavan—similarly; sarvesu—in all; vedesu—Vedic literatures; brahmanasya—of the man who knows the Supreme Brahman; vijanatah—of one who is in complete knowledge.

TRANSLATION

All purposes that are served by the small pond can at once be served by the great reservoirs of water. Similarly, all the purposes of the Vedas can be served to one who knows the purpose behind them.

PURPORT

The rituals and sacrifices mentioned in the karma-kanda division of the Vedic literature are to encourage gradual development of self-realization. And the purpose of self-realization is clearly stated in the Fifteenth Chapter of the Bhagavad-gita (15.15): the purpose of studying the Vedas is to know Lord Kṛṣṇa, the primeval cause of everything. So, self-realization means understanding Kṛṣṇa and one's eternal relationship with Him. The relationship of the living entities with Kṛṣṇa is also mentioned in the Fifteenth Chapter of Bhagavad-gita (15.7). The living entities are parts and parcels of Kṛṣṇa; therefore, revival of Kṛṣṇa consciousness by the individual living entity is the highest perfectional stage of Vedic knowledge. This is confirmed in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (3.33.7) as follows:

aho bata sva-paco 'to gariyan

yaj-jihvagre vartate nama tubhyam

tepus tapas te juhuvuh sasnur arya

brahmanucur nama grnanti ye te

"O my Lord, a person who is chanting Your holy name, although born of a low family like that of a candala [dog-eater] is situated on the highest platform of self-realization.

Such a person must have performed all kinds of penances and sacrifices according to Vedic rituals and studied the Vedic literatures many, many times after taking his bath in all the holy places of pilgrimage. Such a person is considered to be the best of the Aryan family."

So one must be intelligent enough to understand the purpose of the Vedas, without being attached to the rituals only, and must not desire to be elevated to the heavenly kingdoms for a better quality of sense gratification. It is not possible for the common man in this age to follow all the rules and regulations of Vedic rituals and the injunctions of the Vedanta and the Upanisads. It requires much time, energy, knowledge and resources to execute the purposes of the Vedas. This is hardly possible in this age. The best purpose of Vedic culture is served, however, by chanting the holy name of the Lord, as recommended by Lord Caitanya, the deliverer of all fallen souls. When Lord Caitanya was asked by a great Vedic scholar, Prakasananda Sarasvati, why He, the Lord, was chanting the holy name of the Lord like a sentimentalist instead of studying Vedanta philosophy, the Lord replied that His spiritual master found Him to be a great fool and thus asked Him to chant the holy name of Lord Kṛṣṇa. He did so, and became ecstatic like a madman. In this Age of Kali, most of the population is foolish and not adequately educated to understand Vedanta philosophy; the best purpose of Vedanta philosophy is served by inoffensively chanting the holy name of the Lord. Vedanta is the last word in Vedic wisdom, and the author and knower of the Vedanta philosophy is Lord Kṛṣṇa; and the highest Vedantist is the great soul who takes pleasure in chanting the holy name of the Lord. That is the ultimate purpose of all Vedic mysticism.

TEXT 47

karmany evadhikaras te

ma phalesu kadacana

ma karma-phala-hetur bhur

ma te sango 'stv akarmani

SYNONYMS

karmani—prescribed duties; eva—certainly; adhikarah—right; te—of you; ma—never; phalesu—in the fruits; kadacana—at any time; ma—never; karma-phala—in the result of the work; hetuh—cause; bhuh—become; ma—never; te—of you; sangah—attachment; astu—be there; akarmani—in not doing.

TRANSLATION

You have a right to perform your prescribed duty, but you are not entitled to the fruits of action. Never consider yourself to be the cause of the results of your activities, and never be attached to not doing your duty.

PURPORT

There are three considerations here: prescribed duties, capricious work, and inaction. Prescribed duties refer to activities performed while one is in the modes of material nature. Capricious work means actions without the sanction of authority, and inaction means not performing one's prescribed duties. The Lord advised that Arjuna not be inactive, but that he perform his prescribed duty without being attached to the result. One who is attached to the result of his work is also the cause of the action. Thus he is the enjoyer or sufferer of the result of such actions.

As far as prescribed duties are concerned, they can be fitted into three subdivisions, namely routine work, emergency work and desired activities. Routine work, in terms of the scriptural injunctions, is done without desire for results. As one has to do it, obligatory work is action in the mode of goodness. Work with results becomes the cause of bondage; therefore such work is not auspicious. Everyone has his proprietary right in regard to prescribed duties, but should act without attachment to the result; such disinterested obligatory duties doubtlessly lead one to the path of liberation.

Arjuna was therefore advised by the Lord to fight as a matter of duty without attachment to the result. His nonparticipation in the battle is another side of attachment. Such attachment never leads one to the path of salvation. Any attachment, positive or negative, is cause for bondage. Inaction is sinful. Therefore, fighting as a matter of duty was the only auspicious path of salvation for Arjuna.

TEXT 48

yoga—sthah kuru karmani

sangam tyaktva dhananjaya

siddhy—asiddhyoh samo bhutva

samatvam yoga ucyate

SYNONYMS

yoga—sthah—steadfast in yoga; kuru—perform; karmani—your duties; sangam—attachment; tyaktva—having abandoned; dhananjaya—O Dhananjaya; siddhi—asiddhyoh—success and failure; samah—the same; bhutva—having become; samatvam—evenness of mind; yogah—yoga; ucyate—is called.

TRANSLATION

Be steadfast in yoga, O Arjuna. Perform your duty and abandon all attachment to success or failure. Such evenness of mind is called yoga.

PURPORT

Kṛṣṇa tells Arjuna that he should act in yoga. And what is that yoga? Yoga means to concentrate the mind upon the Supreme by controlling the ever-disturbing senses. And who is the Supreme? The Supreme is the Lord. And because He Himself is telling Arjuna to fight, Arjuna has nothing to do with the results of the fight. Gain or victory are Kṛṣṇa's concern; Arjuna is simply advised to act according to the dictation of Kṛṣṇa. The following of Kṛṣṇa's dictation is real yoga, and this is practiced in the process called Kṛṣṇa consciousness. By Kṛṣṇa consciousness only can one give up the sense of proprietorship. One has to become the servant of Kṛṣṇa, or the servant of the servant of Kṛṣṇa. That is the right way to discharge duty in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, which alone can help one to act in yoga.

Arjuna is a ksatriya, and as such he is participating in the varnasrama–dharma institution. It is said in the Viṣṇu Purāṇa that in the varnasrama–dharma, the whole aim is to satisfy Viṣṇu. No one should satisfy himself, as is the rule in the material world, but one should satisfy Kṛṣṇa. So, unless one satisfies Kṛṣṇa, one cannot correctly observe the principles of varnasrama–dharma. Indirectly, Arjuna was advised to act as Kṛṣṇa told him.

TEXT 49

durena hy avaram karma

buddhi–yogad dhananjaya

buddhau saranam anviccha

krpanah phala–hetavah

SYNONYMS

durena—by discarding it at a long distance; hi—certainly; avaram—abominable; karma—activities; buddhi–yogat—on the strength of Kṛṣṇa consciousness; dhananjaya—O conqueror of wealth; buddhau—in such consciousness; saranam—full surrender; anviccha—desire; krpanah—the misers; phala–hetavah—those desiring fruitive action.

TRANSLATION

O Dhananjaya, rid yourself of all fruitive activities by devotional service, and surrender fully to that consciousness. Those who want to enjoy the fruits of their work are misers.

PURPORT

One who has actually come to understand one's constitutional position as an eternal servitor of the Lord gives up all engagements save working in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. As already explained, buddhi–yoga means transcendental loving service to the Lord. Such devotional service is the right course of action for the living entity. Only misers desire to enjoy the fruit of their own work just to be further entangled in material bondage. Except for work in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all activities are abominable because they continually bind the worker to the cycle of birth and death. One should therefore never desire to be the cause of work. Everything should be done in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Misers do not know how to utilize the assets of riches which they acquire by good fortune or by hard labor. One should spend all energies working in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and that will make one's life successful. Like the misers, unfortunate persons do not employ their human energy in the service of the Lord.

TEXT 50

buddhi–yukto jahatiha

ubhe sukrta–duskrte

tasmad yogaya yujyasva

yogah karmasu kausalam

SYNONYMS

buddhi—yuktah—one who is engaged in devotional service; jahati—can get rid of; iha—in this life; ubhe—in both; sukṛta—duṣkṛte—in good and bad results; tasmāt—therefore; yogaya—for the sake of devotional service; yujyasva—be so engaged; yogah—Kṛṣṇa consciousness; karmasu—in all activities; kausalam—art.

TRANSLATION

A man engaged in devotional service rids himself of both good and bad actions even in this life. Therefore strive for yoga, O Arjuna, which is the art of all work.

PURPORT

Since time immemorial each living entity has accumulated the various reactions of his good and bad work. As such, he is continuously ignorant of his real constitutional position. One's ignorance can be removed by the instruction of the Bhagavad-gītā which teaches one to surrender unto Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa in all respects and become liberated from the chained victimization of action and reaction, birth after birth. Arjuna is therefore advised to act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the purifying process of resultant action.

TEXT 51

karma—jam buddhi—yukta hi

phalam tyaktva manisinah

janma—bandha—vinirmuktah

padam gacchanty anamayam

SYNONYMS

karma-jam—because of fruitive activities; buddhi-yuktah—being done in devotional service; hi—certainly; phalam—results; tyaktva—giving up; manisinah—devotees who are great sages; janma-bandha—the bondage of birth and death; vinirmuktah—liberated soul; padam—position; gacchanti—reached; anamayam—without miseries.

TRANSLATION

The wise, engaged in devotional service, take refuge in the Lord, and free themselves from the cycle of birth and death by renouncing the fruits of action in the material world. In this way they can attain that state beyond all miseries.

PURPORT

The liberated living entities seek that place where there are no material miseries. The Bhagavatam (10.14.58) says:

samasrita ye pada-pallava-plavam

mahat-padam punya-yaso murareh

bhavambudhir vatsa-padam param padam

padam padam yad vipadam na tesam

"For one who has accepted the boat of the lotus feet of the Lord, who is the shelter of the cosmic manifestation and is famous as Mukunda or the giver of mukti, the ocean of the material world is like the water contained in a calf's hoofprint. param padam, or the place where there are no material miseries, or Vaikuntha, is his goal, not the place where there is danger in every step of life."

Owing to ignorance, one does not know that this material world is a miserable place where there are dangers at every step. Out of ignorance only, less intelligent persons try to adjust to the situation by fruitive activities, thinking that the resultant actions will make them happy. They do not know that no kind of material body anywhere within the universe can give life without miseries. The miseries of life, namely birth, death, old age and diseases, are present everywhere within the material world. But one who understands his real constitutional position as the eternal servitor of the Lord, and thus knows the position of the Personality of Godhead, engages himself in the transcendental loving service of the Lord. Consequently he becomes qualified to enter into the Vaikuntha planets, where there is neither material, miserable life nor the influence of time and death. To know one's constitutional position means to know also the sublime position of the Lord. One who wrongly thinks that the living entity's position and the Lord's position are on the same level is to be understood to be in darkness and therefore unable to engage himself in the devotional service of the Lord. He becomes a lord himself and thus paves the way for the repetition of birth and death. The one who, understanding that his position is to serve, transfers himself to the service of the Lord, at once becomes eligible for Vaikunthaloka. Service for the cause of the Lord is called karma-yoga or buddhi-yoga, or in plain words, devotional service to the Lord.

TEXT 52

yada te moha-kalilam

buddhir vyatitarisyati

tada gantasi nirvedam

srotavyasya srutasya ca

SYNONYMS

yada—when; te—your; moha—illusory; kalilam—dense forest;
buddhih—transcendental service with intelligence; vyatitarisyati—surpasses; tada—at that time; ganta asi—you shall go; nirvedam—callousness; srotavyasya—all that is to be heard; srutasya—all that is already heard; ca—also.

TRANSLATION

When your intelligence has passed out of the dense forest of delusion, you shall become indifferent to all that has been heard and all that is to be heard.

PURPORT

There are many good examples in the lives of the great devotees of the Lord of those who became indifferent to the rituals of the Vedas simply by devotional service to the Lord.
When a person factually understands Kṛṣṇa and his relationship with Kṛṣṇa, he naturally becomes completely indifferent to the rituals of fruitive activities, even though an experienced brahmana. Śrī Madhavendra Puri, a great devotee and ācārya in the line of the devotees, says:

sandhya—vandana bhadram astu bhavato bhoh snana tubhyam namo

bho devah pitaras ca tarpana—vidhau naham ksamah ksamyatam

yatra kvapi nisadya yadava—kulottamasya kamsa—dvisah

smaram smaram agham harami tad alam manye kim anyena me

"O Lord, in my prayers three times a day, all glory to you. Bathing, I offer my obeisances unto you. O demigods! O forefathers! Please excuse me for my inability to offer you my respects. Now wherever I sit, I can remember the great descendant of the Yadu dynasty [Kṛṣṇa], the enemy of Kamsa, and thereby I can free myself from all sinful bondage. I think this is sufficient for me."

The Vedic rites and rituals are imperative for neophytes: comprehending all kinds of prayer three times a day, taking a bath early in the morning, offering respects to the forefathers, etc. But, when one is fully in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and is engaged in His transcendental loving service, one becomes indifferent to all these regulative principles because he has already attained perfection. If one can reach the platform of understanding by service to the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, he has no longer to execute different types of penances and sacrifices as recommended in revealed scriptures. And, similarly, if one has not understood that the purpose of the Vedas is to reach Kṛṣṇa and simply engages in the rituals, etc., then he is uselessly wasting time in such engagements. Persons in Kṛṣṇa consciousness transcend the limit of śabda-brahma, or the range of the Vedas and Upaniṣads.

TEXT 53

śruti—vipratipanna te

yada sthasyati niscala

samadhav acala buddhiḥ

tada yogam avapsyasi

SYNONYMS

śruti—Vedic revelation; vipratipanna—without being influenced by the fruitive results of the Vedas; te—your; yada—when; sthasyati—remains; niscala—unmoved; samadhau—in transcendental consciousness, or Kṛṣṇa consciousness; acala—unflinching; buddhiḥ—intelligence; tada—at that time; yogam—self-realization; avapsyasi—you will achieve.

TRANSLATION

When your mind is no longer disturbed by the flowery language of the Vedas, and when it remains fixed in the trance of self-realization, then you will have attained the divine consciousness.

PURPORT

To say that one is in samadhi is to say that one has fully realized Krsna consciousness; that is, one in full samadhi has realized Brahman, Paramatma and Bhagavan. The highest perfection of self-realization is to understand that one is eternally the servitor of Krsna and that one's only business is to discharge one's duties in Krsna consciousness. A Krsna conscious person, or unflinching devotee of the Lord, should not be disturbed by the flowery language of the Vedas nor be engaged in fruitive activities for promotion to the heavenly kingdom. In Krsna consciousness, one comes directly into communion with Krsna, and thus all directions from Krsna may be understood in that transcendental state. One is sure to achieve results by such activities and attain conclusive knowledge. One has only to carry out the orders of Krsna or His representative, the spiritual master.

TEXT 54

arjuna uvaca

sthita-prajnasya ka bhasa

samadhi-sthasya kesava

sthita-dhik kim prabhaseta

kim asita vrajeta kim

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; sthita—prajnasya—of one who is situated in fixed Krsna consciousness; ka—what; bhasa—language; samadhi—sthasya—of one situated in trance; kesava—O Krsna; sthita—dhih—one fixed in Krsna consciousness; kim—what; prabhaseta—speak; kim—how; asita—does remain; vrajeta—walks; kim—how.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O Krsna, what are the symptoms of one whose consciousness is thus merged in transcendence? How does he speak, and what is his language? How does he sit, and how does he walk?

PURPORT

As there are symptoms for each and every man, in terms of his particular situation, similarly one who is Krsna conscious has his particular nature—talking, walking, thinking, feeling, etc. As a rich man has his symptoms by which he is known as a rich man, as a diseased man has his symptoms, by which he is known as diseased, or as a learned man has his symptoms, so a man in transcendental consciousness of Krsna has specific symptoms in various dealings. One can know his specific symptoms from the Bhagavad-gita. Most important is how the man in Krsna consciousness speaks, for speech is the most important quality of any man. It is said that a fool is undiscovered as long as he does not speak, and certainly a well-dressed fool cannot be identified unless he speaks, but as soon as he speaks, he reveals himself at once. The immediate symptom of a Krsna conscious man is that he speaks only of Krsna and of matters relating to Him. Other symptoms then automatically follow, as stated below.

TEXT 55

sri-bhagavan uvaca

prajahati yada kaman

sarvan partha mano—gatan

atmany evatmana tustah

sthita—prajnas tadocyate

SYNONYMS

sri—bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; prajahati—gives up; yada—when; kaman—desires for sense gratification; sarvan—of all varieties; partha—O son of Prtha; manah—gatan—of mental concoction; atmani—in the pure state of the soul; eva—certainly; atmana—by the purified mind; tustah—satisfied; sthita—prajnah—transcendentally situated; tada—at that time; ucyate—is said.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: O Partha, when a man gives up all varieties of sense desire which arise from mental concoction, and when his mind finds satisfaction in the self alone, then he is said to be in pure transcendental consciousness.

PURPORT

The Bhagavatam affirms that any person who is fully in Krsna consciousness, or devotional service of the Lord, has all the good qualities of the great sages, whereas a person who is not so transcendently situated has no good qualifications, because he is sure to be taking refuge in his own mental concoctions. Consequently, it is rightly said herein that one has to give up all kinds of sense desire manufactured by mental concoction. Artificially, such sense desires cannot be stopped. But if one is engaged in Krsna consciousness, then, automatically, sense desires subside without extraneous efforts. Therefore, one has to engage himself in Kṛṣṇa consciousness without hesitation, for this devotional service will instantly help one onto the platform of transcendental consciousness. The highly developed soul always remains satisfied in himself by realizing himself as the eternal servitor of the Supreme Lord. Such a transcendently situated person has no sense desires resulting from petty materialism; rather, he remains always happy in his natural position of eternally serving the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 56

duhkhesv anudvigna–manah

sukhesu vigata–sprhah

vita–raga–bhaya–krodhah

sthita–dhīr munir ucyate

SYNONYMS

duhkhesu— in the threefold miseries; anudvigna–manah— without being agitated in mind; sukhesu— in happiness; vigata–sprhah— without being too interested; vita— free from; raga— attachment; bhaya— fear; krodhah— anger; sthita–dhīh— one who is steady; munir— a sage; ucyate— is called.

TRANSLATION

One who is not disturbed in spite of the threefold miseries, who is not elated when there is happiness, and who is free from attachment, fear and anger, is called a sage of steady mind.

PURPORT

The word muni means one who can agitate his mind in various ways for mental speculation without coming to a factual conclusion. It is said that every muni has a different angle of vision, and unless a muni differs from other munis, he cannot be called a muni in the strict sense of the term. Nasav rsir yasya matam na bhinnam (Mahabharata, Vana-parva 313.117). But a sthita-dhir muni, as mentioned herein by the Lord, is different from an ordinary muni. The sthita-dhir muni is always in Krsna consciousness, for he has exhausted all his business of creative speculation. He has surpassed the stage of mental speculations and has come to the conclusion that Lord Sri Krsna, or Vasudeva, is everything (vasudevah sarvam iti sa mahatma su-durlabhah). He is called a muni fixed in mind. Such a fully Krsna conscious person is not at all disturbed by the onslaughts of the threefold miseries, for he accepts all miseries as the mercy of the Lord, thinking himself only worthy of more trouble due to his past misdeeds; and he sees that his miseries, by the grace of the Lord, are minimized to the lowest. Similarly, when he is happy he gives credit to the Lord, thinking himself unworthy of the happiness; he realizes that it is due only to the Lord's grace that he is in such a comfortable condition and able to render better service to the Lord. And, for the service of the Lord, he is always daring and active and is not influenced by attachment or aversion. Attachment means accepting things for one's own sense gratification, and detachment is the absence of such sensual attachment. But one fixed in Krsna consciousness has neither attachment nor detachment because his life is dedicated in the service of the Lord. Consequently he is not at all angry even when his attempts are unsuccessful. A Krsna conscious person is always steady in his determination.

TEXT 57

yah sarvatranabhisnehas

tat tat prapya subhasubham

nabhinandati na dvesti

tasya prajna pratisthita

SYNONYMS

yah—one who; sarvatra—everywhere; anabhisnehah—without affection; tat—that; tat—that; prapya—achieving; subha—good; asubham—evil; na—never; abhinandati—praise; na—never; dvesti—envies; tasya—his; prajna—perfect knowledge; pratisthita—fixed.

TRANSLATION

He who is without attachment, who does not rejoice when he obtains good, nor lament when he obtains evil, is firmly fixed in perfect knowledge.

PURPORT

There is always some upheaval in the material world which may be good or evil. One who is not agitated by such material upheavals, who is unaffected by good and evil, is to be understood to be fixed in Krsna consciousness. As long as one is in the material world there is always the possibility of good and evil because this world is full of duality. But one who is fixed in Krsna consciousness is not affected by good and evil, because he is simply concerned with Krsna, who is all-good absolute. Such consciousness in Krsna situates one in a perfect transcendental position called, technically, samadhi.

TEXT 58

yada samharate cayam

kurmo 'nganiva sarvasah

indriyanindriyarthebhyas

tasya prajna pratisthita

SYNONYMS

yada—when; samharate—winds up; ca—also; ayam—all these; kurmah—tortoise; angani—limbs; iva—like; sarvasah—altogether; indriyani—senses; indriya-arthebhyah—from the sense objects; tasya—his; prajna—consciousness; pratisthita—fixed up.

TRANSLATION

One who is able to withdraw his senses from sense objects, as the tortoise draws its limbs within the shell, is to be understood as truly situated in knowledge.

PURPORT

The test of a yogi, devotee, or self-realized soul is that he is able to control the senses according to his plan. Most people, however, are servants of the senses and are thus directed by the dictation of the senses. That is the answer to the question as to how the yogi is situated. The senses are compared to venomous serpents. They want to act very loosely and without restriction. The yogi, or the devotee, must be very strong to control the serpents—like a snake charmer. He never allows them to act independently. There are many injunctions in the revealed scriptures; some of them are do-not's, and some of them are do's. Unless one is able to follow the do's and the do-not's, restricting oneself from sense enjoyment, it is not possible to be firmly fixed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The best example, set herein, is the tortoise. The tortoise can at any moment wind up his senses and exhibit them again at any time for particular purposes. Similarly, the senses of the Kṛṣṇa conscious persons are used only for some particular purpose in the service of the Lord and are withdrawn otherwise. Keeping the senses always in the service of the Lord is the example set by the analogy of the tortoise, who keeps the senses within.

TEXT 59

visaya vinivartante

niraharasya dehinah

rasa-varjam raso 'py asya

param drstva nivartate

SYNONYMS

visayah—objects for sense enjoyment; vinivartante—are practiced to be refrained from; niraharasya—by negative restrictions; dehinah—for the embodied; rasa-varjam—giving up the taste; rasah—sense of enjoyment; api—although there is; asya—his; param—far superior things; drstva—by experiencing; nivartate—ceases from.

TRANSLATION

The embodied soul may be restricted from sense enjoyment, though the taste for sense objects remains. But, ceasing such engagements by experiencing a higher taste, he is fixed in consciousness.

PURPORT

Unless one is transcendently situated, it is not possible to cease from sense enjoyment. The process of restriction from sense enjoyment by rules and regulations is something like restricting a diseased person from certain types of eatables. The patient, however, neither likes such restrictions nor loses his taste for eatables. Similarly, sense restriction by some spiritual process like astanga–yoga, in the matter of yama, niyama, asana, pranayama, pratyahara, dharana, dhyana, etc., is recommended for less intelligent persons who have no better knowledge. But one who has tasted the beauty of the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa, in the course of his advancement in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no longer has a taste for dead material things. Therefore, restrictions are there for the less intelligent neophytes in the spiritual advancement of life, but such restrictions are only good if one actually has a taste for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. When one is actually Kṛṣṇa conscious, he automatically loses his taste for pale things.

TEXT 60

yatato hy api kaunteya

purusasya vipascitah

indriyani pramathini

haranti prasabham manah

SYNONYMS

yatatāḥ—while endeavoring; hi—certainly; api—in spite of; kaunteya—O son of Kuntī; puruṣasya—of the man; vipascitāḥ—full of discriminating knowledge; indriyani—the senses; pramathini—stimulated; haranti—throws forcefully; prasabham—by force; manah—the mind.

TRANSLATION

The senses are so strong and impetuous, O Arjuna, that they forcibly carry away the mind even of a man of discrimination who is endeavoring to control them.

PURPORT

There are many learned sages, philosophers and transcendentalists who try to conquer the senses, but in spite of their endeavors, even the greatest of them sometimes fall victim to material sense enjoyment due to the agitated mind. Even Visvamitra, a great sage and perfect yogi, was misled by Menaka into sex enjoyment, although the yogi was endeavoring for sense control with severe types of penance and yoga practice. And, of course, there are so many similar instances in the history of the world. Therefore, it is very difficult to control the mind and senses without being fully Krsna conscious. Without engaging the mind in Krsna, one cannot cease such material engagements. A practical example is given by Sri Yamunacarya, a great saint and devotee, who says:

yad-avadhi mama cetah krsna-padaravinde

nava-nava-rasa-dhamany udyatam rantum asit

tad-avadhi bata nari-sangame smaryamane

bhavati mukha-vikarah susthu nisthivanam ca

"Since my mind has been engaged in the service of the lotus feet of Lord Krsna, and I have been enjoying an ever new transcendental humor, whenever I think of sex life with a woman, my face at once turns from it, and I spit at the thought."

Krsna consciousness is such a transcendently nice thing that automatically material enjoyment becomes distasteful. It is as if a hungry man had satisfied his hunger by a sufficient quantity of nutritious eatables. Maharaja Ambarisa also conquered a great yogi, Durvasa Muni, simply because his mind was engaged in Krsna consciousness (sa vai manah krsna-padaravindayor vacamsi vaikuntha-gunanuvarnane).

TEXT 61

tani sarvani samyamyā

yukta asita mat-parah

vase hi yasyendriyani

tasya prajna pratisthita

SYNONYMS

tani—those senses; sarvani—all; samyamyā—keeping under control; yukta—being engaged; asita—being so situated; mat-parah—in relationship with Me; vase—in full subjugation; hi—certainly; yasya—one whose; indriyani—senses; tasya—his; prajna—consciousness; pratisthita—fixed.

TRANSLATION

One who restrains his senses and fixes his consciousness upon Me, is known as a man of steady intelligence.

PURPORT

That the highest conception of yoga perfection is Kṛṣṇa consciousness is clearly explained in this verse. And, unless one is Kṛṣṇa conscious, it is not at all possible to control the senses. As cited above, the great sage Durvāsa Muni picked a quarrel with Mahārāja Ambarīṣa, and Durvāsa Muni unnecessarily became angry out of pride and therefore could not check his senses. On the other hand, the king, although not as powerful a yogi as the sage, but a devotee of the Lord, silently tolerated all the sage's injustices and thereby emerged victorious. The king was able to control his senses because of the following qualifications, as mentioned in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (9.4.18–20):

sa vai manah krsna–padaravindayor

vacamsi vaikuntha–gunanuvarnane

karau harer mandira–marjanadisu

srutim cakaracyuta–sat–kathodaye

mukunda–lingalaya–darsane drsau

tad–bhrtya–gatra–sparse 'nga–sangamam

ghranam ca tat–pada–saroja–saurabhe

srimat–tulasya rasanam tad–arpite

padau hareh ksetra–padanusarpane

siro hrsikesa–padabhivandane

kamam ca dasye na tu kama–kamyaya

yathottama–sloka–janasraya ratih

"King Ambarisa fixed his mind on the lotus feet of Lord Krsna, engaged his words in describing the abode of the Lord, his hands in cleansing the temple of the Lord, his ears in hearing the pastimes of the Lord, his eyes in seeing the form of the Lord, his body in touching the body of the devotee, his nostrils in smelling the flavor of the flowers offered to the lotus feet of the Lord, his tongue in tasting the tulasi leaves offered to Him, his legs in traveling to the holy place where His temple is situated, his head in offering obeisances unto the Lord, and his desires in fulfilling the desires of the Lord... and all these qualifications made him fit to become a mat–para devotee of the Lord."

The word mat–para is most significant in this connection. How one can become mat–para is described in the life of Maharaja Ambarisa. Srila Baladeva Vidyabhusana, a great scholar and acarya in the line of the mat–para, remarks: mad–bhakti–prabhavena sarvendriya–vijaya–purvika svatma–drstih sulabheti bhavah. "The senses can be completely controlled only by the strength of devotional service to Kṛṣṇa." Also, the example of fire is sometimes given: "As the small flames within burn everything within the room, similarly Lord Viṣṇu, situated in the heart of the yogi, burns up all kinds of impurities." The Yoga–sutra also prescribes meditation on Viṣṇu, and not meditation on the void. The so–called yogis who meditate on something which is not the Viṣṇu form simply waste their time in a vain search after some phantasmagoria. We have to be Kṛṣṇa conscious—devoted to the Personality of Godhead. This is the aim of the real yoga.

TEXT 62

dhyayato visayan pumsah

sangas tesupajayate

sangat sanjayate kamah

kamat krodho 'bhijayate

SYNONYMS

dhyayatah—while contemplating; visayan—sense objects; pumsah—of the person; sangah—attachment; tesu—in the sense objects; upajayate—develops; sangat—attachment; sanjayate—develops; kamah—desire; kamat—from desire; krodhah—anger; abhijayate—becomes manifest.

TRANSLATION

While contemplating the objects of the senses, a person develops attachment for them, and from such attachment lust develops, and from lust anger arises.

PURPORT

One who is not Kṛṣṇa conscious is subjected to material desires while contemplating the objects of the senses. The senses require real engagements, and if they are not engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Lord, they will certainly seek engagement in the service of materialism. In the material world everyone, including Lord Śiva and Lord Brahma—to say nothing of other demigods in the heavenly planets—is subjected to the influence of sense objects, and the only method to get out of this puzzle of material existence is to become Kṛṣṇa conscious. Lord Śiva was deep in meditation, but when Parvatī agitated him for sense pleasure, he agreed to the proposal, and as a result Kārtikeya was born. When Haridāsa Thākura was a young devotee of the Lord, he was similarly allured by the incarnation of Māyā-devī, but Haridāsa easily passed the test because of his unalloyed devotion to Lord Kṛṣṇa. As illustrated in the above-mentioned verse of Śrī Yāmunaācārya, a sincere devotee of the Lord shuns all material sense enjoyment due to his higher taste for spiritual enjoyment in the association of the Lord. That is the secret of success. One who is not, therefore, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, however powerful he may be in controlling the senses by artificial repression, is sure ultimately to fail, for the slightest thought of sense pleasure will agitate him to gratify his desires.

TEXT 63

krodhad bhavati sammohah

sammohat smṛti-vibhramah

smṛti-bhramasā buddhi-nāso

buddhi-nasat pranasyati

SYNONYMS

krodhat—from anger; bhavati—takes place; sammohah—perfect illusion; sammohat—from illusion; smṛti—of memory; vibhramah—bewilderment; smṛti-bhramasat—after bewilderment of memory; buddhi-nasah—loss of intelligence; buddhi-nasat—and from loss of intelligence; pranasati—falls down.

TRANSLATION

From anger, delusion arises, and from delusion bewilderment of memory. When the memory is bewildered, intelligence is lost, and when intelligence is lost, one falls down again into the material pool.

PURPORT

By development of Kṛṣṇa consciousness one can know that everything has its use in the service of the Lord. Those who are without knowledge of Kṛṣṇa consciousness artificially try to avoid material objects, and as a result, although they desire liberation from material bondage, they do not attain to the perfect stage of renunciation. On the other hand, a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness knows how to use everything in the service of the Lord; therefore he does not become a victim of material consciousness. For example, for an impersonalist, the Lord, or the Absolute, being impersonal, cannot eat. Whereas an impersonalist tries to avoid good eatables, a devotee knows that Kṛṣṇa is the supreme enjoyer and that He eats all that is offered to Him in devotion. So, after offering good eatables to the Lord, the devotee takes the remnants, called prasadam. Thus everything becomes spiritualized and there is no danger of a downfall. The devotee takes prasadam in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, whereas the nondevotee rejects it as material. The impersonalist, therefore, cannot enjoy life due to his artificial renunciation; and for this reason, a slight agitation of the mind pulls him down again into the pool of material existence. It is said that such a soul, even though rising up to the point of liberation, falls down again due to his not having support in devotional service.

TEXT 64

raga—dvesa—vimuktais tu

visayan indriyais caran

atma—vasyair vidheyatma

prasadam adhigacchati

SYNONYMS

raga—attachment; dvesa—detachment; vimuktaih—by one who has been free from such things; tu—but; visayan—sense objects; indriyaih—by the senses; caran—acting; atma—vasyaih—one who has control over; vidheya-atma—one who follows regulated freedom; prasadam—the mercy of the Lord; adhigacchati—attains.

TRANSLATION

One who can control his senses by practicing the regulative principles of freedom can obtain the complete mercy of the Lord and thus become free from all attachment and aversion.

PURPORT

It is already explained that one may externally control the senses by some artificial process, but unless the senses are engaged in the transcendental service of the Lord, there is every chance of a fall. Although the person in full Kṛṣṇa consciousness may apparently be on the sensual plane, because of his being Kṛṣṇa conscious, he has no attachment to sensual activities. The Kṛṣṇa conscious person is concerned only with the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, and nothing else. Therefore he is transcendental to all attachment. If Kṛṣṇa wants, the devotee can do anything which is ordinarily undesirable; and if Kṛṣṇa does not want, he shall not do that which he would have ordinarily done for his own satisfaction. Therefore to act or not to act is within his control because he acts only under the direction of Kṛṣṇa. This consciousness is the causeless mercy of the Lord, which the devotee can achieve in spite of his being attached to the sensual platform.

TEXT 65

prasade sarva-duḥkhanam

hanir asyopajayate

prasanna-cetaso hy asu

buddhiḥ paryavatisthate

SYNONYMS

prasade—on achievement of the causeless mercy of the Lord; sarva—of all;
duḥkhanam—material miseries; hanir—destruction; asya—his; upajayate—takes place;
prasanna-cetasah—of the happy-minded; hi—certainly; asu—very soon;
buddhiḥ—intelligence; pari—sufficiently; avatisthate—established.

TRANSLATION

For one who is so situated in the Divine consciousness, the threefold miseries of material existence exist no longer; in such a happy state, one's intelligence soon becomes steady.

TEXT 66

nasti buddhir ayuktasya

na cayuktasya bhavana

na cabhavayatah santir

asantasya kutah sukham

SYNONYMS

na asti—there cannot be; buddhih—transcendental intelligence; ayuktasya—of one who is not connected (with Kṛṣṇa consciousness); na—neither; ca—and; ayuktasya—of one devoid of Kṛṣṇa consciousness; bhavana—mind fixed in happiness; na—neither; ca—and; abhavayatah—one who is not fixed; santih—peace; asantasya—of the unpeaceful; kutah—where is; sukham—happiness.

TRANSLATION

One who is not in transcendental consciousness can have neither a controlled mind nor steady intelligence, without which there is no possibility of peace. And how can there be any happiness without peace?

PURPORT

Unless one is in Kṛṣṇa consciousness there is no possibility of peace. So it is confirmed in the Fifth Chapter (5.29) that when one understands that Kṛṣṇa is the only enjoyer of all the good results of sacrifice and penance, and that He is the proprietor of all universal manifestations, that He is the real friend of all living entities, then only can one have real peace. Therefore, if one is not in Krsna consciousness, there cannot be a final goal for the mind. Disturbance is due to want of an ultimate goal, and when one is certain that Krsna is the enjoyer, proprietor and friend of everyone and everything, then one can, with a steady mind, bring about peace. Therefore, one who is engaged without a relationship with Krsna is certainly always in distress and is without peace, however much he may make a show of peace and spiritual advancement in life. Krsna consciousness is a self-manifested peaceful condition which can be achieved only in relationship with Krsna.

TEXT 67

indriyanam hi caratam

yan mano 'nuvidhiyate

tad asya harati prajnam

vayur navam ivambhasi

SYNONYMS

indriyanam—of the senses; hi—certainly; caratam—while herding over; yat—that; manah—mind; anuvidhiyate—becomes constantly engaged; tat—that; asya—his; harati—takes away; prajnam—intelligence; vayuh—wind; navam—a boat; iva—like; ambhasi—on the water.

TRANSLATION

As a boat on the water is swept away by a strong wind, even one of the senses on which the mind focuses can carry away a man's intelligence.

PURPORT

Unless all of the senses are engaged in the service of the Lord, even one of them engaged in sense gratification can deviate the devotee from the path of transcendental advancement. As mentioned in the life of Maharaja Ambarisa, all of the senses must be engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, for that is the correct technique for controlling the mind.

TEXT 68

tasmad yasya maha-baho

nighritani sarvasah

indriyanindriyarthebhyas

tasya prajna pratisthita

SYNONYMS

tasmat—therefore; yasya—of one's; maha-baho—O mighty-armed one; nighritani—so curbed down; sarvasah—all around; indriyani—the senses; indriya-arthebhyah—for the sake of sense objects; tasya—his; prajna—intelligence; pratisthita—fixed.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O mighty-armed, one whose senses are restrained from their objects is certainly of steady intelligence.

PURPORT

As enemies are curbed by superior force, similarly the senses, can be curbed not by any human endeavor, but only by keeping them engaged in the service of the Lord. One who has understood this—that only by Kṛṣṇa consciousness is one really established in intelligence and that one should practice this art under the guidance of a bona fide spiritual master—is called sādhaka, or a suitable candidate for liberation.

TEXT 69

ya nisa sarva-bhutanam

tasyam jagarti samyami

yasyam jagrati bhutani

sa nisa pasyato muneh

SYNONYMS

ya—what; nisa—is night; sarva—all; bhutanam—of living entities; tasyam—in that; jagarti—wakeful; samyami—the self-controlled; yasyam—in which; jagrati—awake; bhutani—all beings; sa—that is; nisa—night; pasyatah—for the introspective; muneh—sage.

TRANSLATION

What is night for all beings is the time of awakening for the self-controlled; and the time of awakening for all beings is night for the introspective sage.

PURPORT

There are two classes of intelligent men. The one is intelligent in material activities for sense gratification, and the other is introspective and awake to the cultivation of self-realization. Activities of the introspective sage, or thoughtful man, are night for persons materially absorbed. Materialistic persons remain asleep in such a night due to their ignorance of self-realization. The introspective sage remains alert in the "night" of the materialistic men. The sage feels transcendental pleasure in the gradual advancement of spiritual culture, whereas the man in materialistic activities, being asleep to self-realization, dreams of varieties of sense pleasure, feeling sometimes happy and sometimes distressed in his sleeping condition. The introspective man is always indifferent to materialistic happiness and distress. He goes on with his self-realization activities undisturbed by material reactions.

TEXT 70

apuryamanam acala-pratistham

samudram apah pravisanti yadvat

tadvat kama yam pravisanti sarve

sa santim apnoti na kama-kami

SYNONYMS

apuryamanam—always filled; acala-pratistham—steadily situated; samudram—the ocean; apah—water; pravisanti—enter; yadvat—as; tadvat—so; kamah—desires;

yam—unto one; pravisanti—enter; sarve—all; sah—that person; santim—peace; apnoti—achieves; na—not; kama—kami—one who desires to fulfill desires.

TRANSLATION

A person who is not disturbed by the incessant flow of desires—that enter like rivers into the ocean which is ever being filled but is always still—can alone achieve peace, and not the man who strives to satisfy such desires.

PURPORT

Although the vast ocean is always filled with water, it is always, especially during the rainy season, being filled with much more water. But the ocean remains the same—steady; it is not agitated, nor does it cross beyond the limit of its brink. That is also true of a person fixed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. As long as one has the material body, the demands of the body for sense gratification will continue. The devotee, however, is not in need of anything because the Lord fulfills all his material necessities. Therefore he is like the ocean—always full in himself. Desires may come to him like the waters of the rivers that flow into the ocean, but he is steady in his activities, and he is not even slightly disturbed by desires for sense gratification. That is the proof of a Kṛṣṇa conscious man—one who has lost all inclinations for material sense gratification, although the desires are present. Because he remains satisfied in the transcendental loving service of the Lord, he can remain steady, like the ocean, and therefore enjoy full peace. Others, however, who fulfill desires even up to the limit of liberation, what to speak of material success, never attain peace. The fruitive workers, the salvationists, and also the yogis who are after mystic powers, are all unhappy because of unfulfilled desires. But the person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is happy in the service of the Lord, and he has no desires to be fulfilled. In fact, he does not even desire liberation from the so-called material bondage. The devotees of Kṛṣṇa have no material desires, and therefore they are in perfect peace.

TEXT 71

vihaya kaman yah sarvan

pumams carati nihsprhah

nirmamo nirahankarah

sa santim adhigacchati

SYNONYMS

vihaya—after giving up; kaman—all material desires for sense gratification; yah—the person; sarvan—all; puman—a person; carati—lives; nihsprhah—desireless; nirmamah—without a sense of proprietorship; nirahankarah—without false ego; sah—all; santim—perfect peace; adhigacchati—attains.

TRANSLATION

A person who has given up all desires for sense gratification, who lives free from desires, who has given up all sense of proprietorship and is devoid of false ego—he alone can attain real peace.

PURPORT

To become desireless means not to desire anything for sense gratification. In other words, desire for becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious is actually desirelessness. To understand one's actual position as the eternal servitor of Kṛṣṇa, without falsely claiming this material body to be oneself and without falsely claiming proprietorship over anything in the world, is the perfect stage of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. One who is situated in this perfect stage knows that because Kṛṣṇa is the proprietor of everything, therefore everything must be used for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Arjuna did not want to fight for his own sense satisfaction, but when he became fully Kṛṣṇa conscious he fought because Kṛṣṇa wanted him to fight. For himself there was no desire to fight, but for Krsna the same Arjuna fought to his best ability. Desire for the satisfaction of Krsna is really desirelessness; it is not an artificial attempt to abolish desires. The living entity cannot be desireless or senseless, but he does have to change the quality of the desires. A materially desireless person certainly knows that everything belongs to Krsna (isavasyam idam sarvam), and therefore he does not falsely claim proprietorship over anything. This transcendental knowledge is based on self-realization—namely, knowing perfectly well that every living entity is the eternal part and parcel of Krsna in spiritual identity, and therefore the eternal position of the living entity is never on the level of Krsna or greater than Him. This understanding of Krsna consciousness is the basic principle of real peace.

TEXT 72

esa brahmi sthitih partha

nainam prapya vimuhyati

sthitvasyam anta-kale 'pi

brahma-nirvanam rcchati

SYNONYMS

esa—this; brahmi—spiritual; sthitih—situation; partha—O son of Prtha; na—never; enam—this; prapya—achieving; vimuhyati—bewilders; sthitva—being so situated; asyam—being so; anta-kale—at the end of life; api—also; brahma-nirvanam—spiritual (kingdom of God); rcchati—attains.

TRANSLATION

That is the way of the spiritual and godly life, after attaining which a man is not bewildered. Being so situated even at the hour of death, one can enter into the kingdom of God.

PURPORT

One can attain Kṛṣṇa consciousness or divine life at once, within a second—or one may not attain such a state of life even after millions of births. It is only a matter of understanding and accepting the fact. Khatvanga Maharaja attained this state of life just a few minutes before his death, by surrendering unto Kṛṣṇa. Nirvana means ending the process of materialistic life. According to Buddhist philosophy, there is only void after the completion of this material life, but Bhagavad-gīta teaches differently. Actual life begins after the completion of this material life. For the gross materialist it is sufficient to know that one has to end this materialistic way of life, but for persons who are spiritually advanced, there is another life after this materialistic life. Before ending this life, if one fortunately becomes Kṛṣṇa conscious, he at once attains the stage of brahma-nirvana. There is no difference between the kingdom of God and the devotional service of the Lord. Since both of them are on the absolute plane, to be engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Lord is to have attained the spiritual kingdom. In the material world there are activities of sense gratification, whereas in the spiritual world there are activities of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Attainment of Kṛṣṇa consciousness even during this life is immediate attainment of Brahman, and one who is situated in Kṛṣṇa consciousness has certainly already entered into the kingdom of God.

Brahman is just the opposite of matter. Therefore brahmi sthiti means "not on the platform of material activities." Devotional service of the Lord is accepted in the Bhagavad-gīta as the liberated stage (sa gunan samatityaitan brahma-bhuyaya kalpate). Therefore, brahmi sthiti is liberation from material bondage.

Srila Bhaktivinoda Thakura has summarized this Second Chapter of the Bhagavad-gīta as being the contents for the whole text. In the Bhagavad-gīta, the subject matters are karma-yoga, jñāna-yoga, and bhakti-yoga. In the Second Chapter karma-yoga and jñāna-yoga have been clearly discussed, and a glimpse of bhakti-yoga has also been given, as the contents for the complete text.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the Second Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad-gīta in the matter of its Contents.

Chapter 3

Karma-yoga

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca

jyayasi cet karmanas te

mata buddhir janardana

tat kim karmani ghore mam

niyojayasi kesava

SYNONYMS

arjunah—Arjuna; uvaca—said; jyayasi—speaking very highly; cet—although; karmanah—than fruitive action; te—Your; mata—opinion; buddhih—intelligence; janardana—O Krsna; tat—therefore; kim—why; karmani—in action; ghore—ghastly; mam—me; niyojayasi—engaging me; kesava—O Krsna.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O Janardana, O Kesava, why do You urge me to engage in this ghastly warfare, if You think that intelligence is better than fruitive work?

PURPORT

The Supreme Personality of Godhead Sri Kṛṣṇa has very elaborately described the constitution of the soul in the previous chapter, with a view to deliver His intimate friend Arjuna from the ocean of material grief. And the path of realization has been recommended: buddhi-yoga, or Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Sometimes Kṛṣṇa consciousness is misunderstood to be inertia, and one with such a misunderstanding often withdraws to a secluded place to become fully Kṛṣṇa conscious by chanting the holy name of Lord Kṛṣṇa. But without being trained in the philosophy of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is not advisable to chant the holy name of Kṛṣṇa in a secluded place, where one may acquire only cheap adoration from the innocent public. Arjuna also thought of Kṛṣṇa consciousness or buddhi-yoga, or intelligence in spiritual advancement of knowledge, as something like retirement from active life and the practice of penance and austerity at a secluded place. In other words, he wanted to skillfully avoid the fighting by using Kṛṣṇa consciousness as an excuse. But as a sincere student, he placed the matter before his master and questioned Kṛṣṇa as to his best course of action. In answer, Lord Kṛṣṇa elaborately explained karma-yoga, or work in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, in this Third Chapter.

TEXT 2

vyamisreneva vakyena

buddhim mohayasiva me

tad ekam vada niscitya

yena sreya 'ham apnuyam

SYNONYMS

vyamisrena—by equivocal; iva—as; vakyena—words; buddhim—intelligence; mohayasi—bewildering; iva—as; me—my; tat—therefore; ekam—only one; vada—please tell; niscitya—ascertaining; yena—by which; sreyah—real benefit; aham—I; apnuyam—may have it.

TRANSLATION

My intelligence is bewildered by Your equivocal instructions. Therefore, please tell me decisively what is most beneficial for me.

PURPORT

In the previous chapter, as a prelude to the Bhagavad-gita, many different paths were explained, such as sankhya-yoga, buddhi-yoga, control of the senses by intelligence, work without fruitive desire, and the position of the neophyte. This was all presented unsystematically. A more organized outline of the path would be necessary for action and understanding. Arjuna, therefore, wanted to clear up these apparently confusing matters so that any common man could accept them without misinterpretation. Although Krsna had no intention of confusing Arjuna by any jugglery of words, Arjuna could not follow the process of Krsna consciousness—either by inertia or active service. In other words, by his questions he is clearing the path of Krsna consciousness for all students who seriously want to understand the mystery of the Bhagavad-gita.

TEXT 3

sri-bhagavan uvaca

loke 'smin dvi-vidha nistha

pura prokta mayanagha

jnana-yogena sankhyanam

karma-yogena yoginam

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; loka—in the world; asmin—this; dvi-vidha—two kinds of; nistha—faith; pura—formerly; prokta—were said; maya—by Me; anagha—O sinless one; jnana-yogena—by the linking process of knowledge; sankhyanam—of the empiric philosophers; karma-yogena—by the linking process of devotion; yoginam—of the devotees.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Personality of Godhead said: O sinless Arjuna, I have already explained that there are two classes of men who try to realize the self. Some are inclined to understand Him by empirical, philosophical speculation, and others are inclined to know Him by devotional work.

PURPORT

In the Second Chapter, verse 39, the Lord explained two kinds of procedures—namely sankhya-yoga and karma-yoga, or buddhi-yoga. In this verse, the Lord explains the same more clearly. Sankhya-yoga, or the analytical study of the nature of spirit and matter, is the subject matter for persons who are inclined to speculate and understand things by experimental knowledge and philosophy. The other class of men work in Krsna consciousness, as it is explained in the 61st verse of the Second Chapter. The Lord has explained, also in the 39th verse, that by working by the principles of buddhi-yoga, or Krsna consciousness, one can be relieved from the bonds of action; and, furthermore, there is no flaw in the process. The same principle is more clearly explained in the 61st verse—that this buddhi-yoga is to depend entirely on the Supreme (or more specifically, on Kṛṣṇa), and in this way all the senses can be brought under control very easily. Therefore, both the yogas are interdependent, as religion and philosophy. Religion without philosophy is sentiment, or sometimes fanaticism, while philosophy without religion is mental speculation. The ultimate goal is Kṛṣṇa, because the philosophers who are also sincerely searching after the Absolute Truth come in the end to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. This is also stated in the Bhagavad-gītā. The whole process is to understand the real position of the self in relation to the Superself. The indirect process is philosophical speculation, by which, gradually, one may come to the point of Kṛṣṇa consciousness; and the other process is directly connecting with everything in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Of these two, the path of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is better because it does not depend on purifying the senses by a philosophical process. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is itself the purifying process, and by the direct method of devotional service it is simultaneously easy and sublime.

TEXT 4

na karmanam anārambhaṇaḥ

naiskarmyam puruṣo 'śnute

na ca saṁnyasanād eva

siddhim samādhigacchati

SYNONYMS

na—without; karmanam—of the prescribed duties; anārambhaṇaḥ—nonperformance; naiskarmyam—freedom from reaction; puruṣaḥ—man; aśnute—achieve; na—nor; ca—also; saṁnyasanāt—by renunciation; eva—simply; siddhim—success; samādhigacchati—attain.

TRANSLATION

Not by merely abstaining from work can one achieve freedom from reaction, nor by renunciation alone can one attain perfection.

PURPORT

The renounced order of life can be accepted upon being purified by the discharge of the prescribed form of duties which are laid down just to purify the hearts of materialistic men. Without purification, one cannot attain success by abruptly adopting the fourth order of life (sannyasa). According to the empirical philosophers, simply by adopting sannyasa, or retiring from fruitive activities, one at once becomes as good as Narayana. But Lord Kṛṣṇa does not approve this principle. Without purification of heart, sannyasa is simply a disturbance to the social order. On the other hand, if someone takes to the transcendental service of the Lord, even without discharging his prescribed duties, whatever he may be able to advance in the cause is accepted by the Lord (buddhi-yoga). Sv-alpam apy asya dharmasya trayate mahato bhayat. Even a slight performance of such a principle enables one to overcome great difficulties.

TEXT 5

na hi kascit ksanam api

jatu tisthaty akarma-kṛt

karyate hy avasah karma

sarvāḥ prakṛti-jair guṇaiḥ

SYNONYMS

na—nor; hi—certainly; kascit—anyone; ksanam—even a moment; api—also; jatu—even; tisthati—stands; akarma—krt—without doing something; karyate—forced to work; hi—certainly; avasah—helplessly; karma—work; sarvah—everything; prakrti—jaih—out of the modes of material nature; gunaih—by the qualities.

TRANSLATION

All men are forced to act helplessly according to the impulses born of the modes of material nature; therefore no one can refrain from doing something, not even for a moment.

PURPORT

It is not a question of embodied life, but it is the nature of the soul to be always active. Without the presence of the spirit soul, the material body cannot move. The body is only a dead vehicle to be worked by the spirit soul, which is always active and cannot stop even for a moment. As such, the spirit soul has to be engaged in the good work of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, otherwise it will be engaged in occupations dictated by illusory energy. In contact with material energy, the spirit soul acquires material modes, and to purify the soul from such affinities it is necessary to engage in the prescribed duties enjoined in the sastras. But if the soul is engaged in his natural function of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, whatever he is able to do is good for him. The Srimad-Bhagavatam (1.5.17) affirms this:

tyaktva sva-dharmam caranambujam harer

bhajann apakvo 'tha patet tato yadi

yatra kva vabhadram abhud amusya kim

ko vartha apto 'bhajatam sva-dharmatah

"If someone takes to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, even though he may not follow the prescribed duties in the sastras nor execute the devotional service properly, and even though he may fall down from the standard, there is no loss or evil for him. But if he carries out all the injunctions for purification in the sastras, what does it avail him if he is not Kṛṣṇa conscious?" So the purificatory process is necessary for reaching this point of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Therefore, sannyasa, or any purificatory process, is to help reach the ultimate goal of becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious, without which everything is considered a failure.

TEXT 6

karmendriyani samyamya

ya aste manasa smaran

indriyarthan vimudhatma

mithyacaraḥ sa ucyate

SYNONYMS

karma—indriyani—the five working sense organs; samyamya—controlling; yah—anyone who; aste—remains; manasa—by mind; smaran—thinking; indriya—arthan—sense objects; vimudha—foolish; atma—soul; mithya—acaraḥ—pretender; sah—he; ucyate—is called.

TRANSLATION

One who restrains the senses and organs of action, but whose mind dwells on sense objects, certainly deludes himself and is called a pretender.

PURPORT

There are many pretenders who refuse to work in Kṛṣṇa consciousness but make a show of meditation, while actually dwelling within the mind upon sense enjoyment. Such pretenders may also speak on dry philosophy in order to bluff sophisticated followers, but according to this verse these are the greatest cheaters. For sense enjoyment one can act in any capacity of the social order, but if one follows the rules and regulations of his particular status, he can make gradual progress in purifying his existence. But he who makes a show of being a yogi, while actually searching for the objects of sense gratification, must be called the greatest cheater, even though he sometimes speaks of philosophy. His knowledge has no value because the effects of such a sinful man's knowledge are taken away by the illusory energy of the Lord. Such a pretender's mind is always impure, and therefore his show of yogic meditation has no value whatsoever.

TEXT 7

yas tv indriyani manasa

niyamyaṁrabhate 'rjuna

karmendriyaiḥ karma-yogam

asaktah sa viśisyate

SYNONYMS

yah—one who; tu—but; indriyani—senses; manasa—by the mind; niyamya—regulating; arabhate—begins; arjuna—O Arjuna; karma-indriyaiḥ—by the active sense organs; karma-yogam—devotion; asaktah—without attachment; sah—he; viśisyate—by far the better.

TRANSLATION

On the other hand, he who controls the senses by the mind and engages his active organs in works of devotion, without attachment, is by far superior.

PURPORT

Instead of becoming a pseudo-transcendentalist for the sake of wanton living and sense enjoyment, it is far better to remain in one's own business and execute the purpose of life, which is to get free from material bondage and enter into the kingdom of God. The prime svārtha-gati, or goal of self-interest, is to reach Visnu. The whole institution of varṇa and āśrama is designed to help us reach this goal of life. A householder can also reach this destination by regulated service in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. For self-realization, one can live a controlled life, as prescribed in the śāstras, and continue carrying out his business without attachment, and in that way make progress. Such a sincere person who follows this method is far better situated than the false pretender who adopts show-bottle spiritualism to cheat the innocent public. A sincere sweeper in the street is far better than the charlatan meditator who meditates only for the sake of making a living.

TEXT 8

niyatam kuru karma tvam

karma jyayo hy akarmanah

sarira-yatrapi ca te

na prasiddhyed akarmanah

SYNONYMS

niyatam—prescribed; kuru—do; karma—duties; tvam—you; karma—work;
jyayah—better; hi—than; akarmanah—without work; sarira—bodily;
yatra—maintenance; api—even; ca—also; te—your; na—never; prasiddhyet—effected;
akarmanah—without work.

TRANSLATION

Perform your prescribed duty, for action is better than inaction. A man cannot even maintain his physical body without work.

PURPORT

There are many pseudo-meditators who misrepresent themselves as belonging to high parentage, and great professional men who falsely pose that they have sacrificed everything for the sake of advancement in spiritual life. Lord Kṛṣṇa did not want Arjuna to become a pretender, but that he perform his prescribed duties as set forth for ksatriyas. Arjuna was a householder and a military general, and therefore it was better for him to remain as such and perform his religious duties as prescribed for the householder ksatriya. Such activities gradually cleanse the heart of a mundane man and free him from material contamination. So-called renunciation for the purpose of maintenance is never approved by the Lord, nor by any religious scripture. After all, one has to maintain one's body and soul together by some work. Work should not be given up capriciously, without purification of materialistic propensities. Anyone who is in the material world is certainly possessed of the impure propensity for lording it over material nature, or, in other words, for sense gratification. Such polluted propensities have to be cleared. Without doing so, through prescribed duties, one should never attempt to become a so-called transcendentalist, renouncing work and living at the cost of others.

TEXT 9

yajnarthat karmano 'nyatra

loko 'yam karma-bandhanah

tad-artham karma kaunteya

mukta-sangah samacara

SYNONYMS

yajna—arthat—only for the sake of Yajna, or Visnu; karmanah—work done; anyatra—otherwise; lokah—this world; ayam—this; karma-bandhanah—bondage by work; tat—Him; artham—for the sake; karma—work; kaunteya—O son of Kunti; mukta-sangah—liberated from association; samacara—do perfectly.

TRANSLATION

Work done as a sacrifice for Visnu has to be performed, otherwise work binds one to this material world. Therefore, O son of Kunti, perform your prescribed duties for His satisfaction, and in that way you will always remain unattached and free from bondage.

PURPORT

Since one has to work even for the simple maintenance of the body, the prescribed duties for a particular social position and quality are so made that that purpose can be fulfilled. Yajna means Lord Visnu, or sacrificial performances. All sacrificial performances also are meant for the satisfaction of Lord Visnu. The Vedas enjoin: yajno vai visnuh. In other words, the same purpose is served whether one performs prescribed yajnas or directly serves Lord Visnu. Krsna consciousness is therefore performance of yajna as it is prescribed in this verse. The varnasrama institution also aims at this for satisfying Lord Visnu. Varnasramacaravata purusena parah puman. visnur aradhyate (Visnu Purana 3.8.8). Therefore one has to work for the satisfaction of Visnu. Any other work done in this material world will be a cause of bondage, for both good and evil work have their reactions, and any reaction binds the performer. Therefore, one has to work in Krsna consciousness to satisfy Krsna (or Visnu); and while performing such activities one is in a liberated stage. This is the great art of doing work, and in the beginning this process requires very expert guidance. One should therefore act very diligently, under the expert guidance of a devotee of Lord Krsna, or under the direct instruction of Lord Krsna Himself (under whom Arjuna had the opportunity to work). Nothing should be performed for sense gratification, but everything should be done for the satisfaction of Krsna. This practice will not only save one from the reaction of work, but will also gradually elevate one to transcendental loving service of the Lord, which alone can raise one to the kingdom of God.

TEXT 10

saha—yajnah prajah srstva

purovaca prajapatih

anena prasavisyadhvam

esa vo 'stv ista—kama—dhuk

SYNONYMS

saha—along with; yajnah—sacrifices; prajah—generations; srstva—creating; pura—anciently; uvaca—said; praja—patih—the Lord of creatures; anena—by this; prasavisyadhvam—be more and more prosperous; esah—certainly; vah—your; astu—let it be; ista—all desirable; kama—dhuk—bestower.

TRANSLATION

In the beginning of creation, the Lord of all creatures sent forth generations of men and demigods, along with sacrifices for Visnu, and blessed them by saying, "Be thou happy by this yajna [sacrifice] because its performance will bestow upon you all desirable things."

PURPORT

The material creation by the Lord of creatures (Visnu) is a chance offered to the conditioned souls to come back home—back to Godhead. All living entities within the material creation are conditioned by material nature because of their forgetfulness of their relationship to Krsna, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. The Vedic principles are to help us understand this eternal relation, as it is stated in the Bhagavad-gita: vedais ca sarvair aham eva vedyah. The Lord says that the purpose of the Vedas is to understand Him. In the Vedic hymns it is said: patim visvasyatmesvaram. Therefore, the Lord of the living entities is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Visnu. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam also (2.4.20) Srila Sukadeva Gosvami describes the Lord as pati in so many ways:

sriyah patir yajna-patih praja-patir

dhiyam patir loka-patir dhara-patih

patir gatis candhaka-vrsni-satvatam

prasidatam me bhagavan satam patih

The praja-pati is Lord Visnu, and He is the Lord of all living creatures, all worlds, and all beauties, and the protector of everyone. The Lord created this material world for the conditioned souls to learn how to perform yajnas (sacrifices) for the satisfaction of Visnu, so that while in the material world they can live very comfortably without anxiety and after finishing the present material body, they can enter into the kingdom of God. That is the whole program for the conditioned soul. By performance of yajna, the conditioned souls gradually become Krsna conscious and become godly in all respects. In the Age of Kali, the sankirtana-yajna (the chanting of the names of God) is recommended by the Vedic scriptures, and this transcendental system was introduced by Lord Caitanya for the deliverance of all men in this age. Sankirtana–yajna and Krsna consciousness go well together. Lord Krsna in His devotional form (as Lord Caitanya) is mentioned in the Srimad–Bhagavatam (11.5.32) as follows, with special reference to the sankirtana–yajna:

krsna–varnam tvisakrsnam

sangopangastra–parsadam

yajnaih sankirtana–prayair

yajanti hi su–medhasah

"In this Age of Kali, people who are endowed with sufficient intelligence will worship the Lord, who is accompanied by His associates, by performance of sankirtana–yajna." Other yajnas prescribed in the Vedic literatures are not easy to perform in this Age of Kali, but the sankirtana–yajna is easy and sublime for all purposes.

TEXT 11

devan bhavayatanena

te deva bhavayantu vah

parasparam bhavayantah

sreyah param avapsyatha

SYNONYMS

devan—demigods; bhavayata—having pleased; anena—by this sacrifice; te—those; devah—the demigods; bhavayantu—will please; vah—you; parasparam—mutual; bhavayantah—pleasing one another; sreyah—benediction; param—the supreme; avapsyatha—do you achieve.

TRANSLATION

The demigods, being pleased by sacrifices, will also please you; thus nourishing one another, there will reign general prosperity for all.

PURPORT

The demigods are empowered administrators of material affairs. The supply of air, light, water and all other benedictions for maintaining the body and soul of every living entity are entrusted to the demigods, who are innumerable assistants in different parts of the body of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Their pleasures and displeasures are dependent on the performance of yajnas by the human being. Some of the yajnas are meant to satisfy particular demigods; but even in so doing, Lord Visnu is worshiped in all yajnas as the chief beneficiary. It is stated also in the Bhagavad-gita that Krsna Himself is the beneficiary of all kinds of yajnas: bhoktaram yajna-tapasam. Therefore, ultimate satisfaction of the yajna-pati is the chief purpose of all yajnas. When these yajnas are perfectly performed, naturally the demigods in charge of the different departments of supply are pleased, and there is no scarcity in the supply of natural products.

Performance of yajnas has many side benefits, ultimately leading to liberation from the material bondage. By performance of yajnas, all activities become purified, as it is stated in the Vedas:

ahara-suddhau sattva-suddhih sattva-suddhau

dhruva smrtih smrti-lambhe sarvagrathinam vipramoksah

As it will be explained in the following verses, by performance of yajna one's eatables become sanctified, and by eating sanctified foodstuffs one's very existence becomes purified; by the purification of existence, finer tissues in memory become sanctified, and when memory is sanctified, one can think of the path of liberation, and all these combined together lead to Krsna consciousness, the great necessity of present-day society.

TEXT 12

istan bhogan hi vo deva

dasyante yajna-bhavitah

tair dattan apradayaibhyo

yo bhunkte stena eva sah

SYNONYMS

istan—desired; bhogan—necessities of life; hi—certainly; vah—unto you; devah—the demigods; dasyante—award; yajna-bhavitah—being satisfied by the performance of sacrifices; tair—by them; dattan—things given; apradaya—without offering; ebhyah—to the demigods; yah—he who; bhunkte—enjoys; stena—thief; eva—certainly; sah—is he.

TRANSLATION

In charge of the various necessities of life, the demigods, being satisfied by the performance of yajna [sacrifice], supply all necessities to man. But he who enjoys these gifts without offering them to the demigods in return is certainly a thief.

PURPORT

The demigods are authorized supplying agents on behalf of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Visnu. Therefore, they must be satisfied by the performance of prescribed yajnas. In the Vedas, there are different kinds of yajnas prescribed for different kinds of demigods, but all are ultimately offered to the Supreme Personality of Godhead. For one who cannot understand what the Personality of Godhead is, sacrifice to the demigods is recommended. According to the different material qualities of the persons concerned, different types of yajnas are recommended in the Vedas. Worship of different demigods is also on the same basis—namely, according to different qualities. For example, the meat-eaters are recommended to worship the goddess Kali, the ghastly form of material nature, and before the goddess the sacrifice of animals is recommended. But for those who are in the mode of goodness, the transcendental worship of Visnu is recommended. But ultimately, all yajnas are meant for gradual promotion to the transcendental position. For ordinary men, at least five yajnas, known as panca-maha-yajna, are necessary.

One should know, however, that all the necessities of life that the human society requires are supplied by the demigod agents of the Lord. No one can manufacture anything. Take, for example, all the eatables of human society. These eatables include grains, fruits, vegetables, milk, sugar, etc., for persons in the mode of goodness, and also eatables for the non-vegetarians, like meats, etc., none of which can be manufactured by men. Then again, take for example heat, light, water, air, etc., which are also necessities of life—none of them can be manufactured by the human society. Without the Supreme Lord, there can be no profuse sunlight, moonlight, rainfall, breeze, etc., without which no one can live. Obviously, our life is dependent on supplies from the Lord. Even for our manufacturing enterprises, we require so many raw materials like metal, sulphur, mercury, manganese, and so many essentials—all of which are supplied by the agents of the Lord, with the purpose that we should make proper use of them to keep ourselves fit and healthy for the purpose of self-realization, leading to the ultimate goal of life, namely, liberation from the material struggle for existence. This aim of life is attained by performance of yajnas. If we forget the purpose of human life and simply take supplies from the agents of the Lord for sense gratification and become more and more entangled in material existence, which is not the purpose of creation, certainly we become thieves, and therefore we are punished by the laws of material nature. A society of thieves can never be happy because they have no aim in life. The gross materialist thieves have no ultimate goal of life. They are simply directed to sense gratification; nor do they have knowledge of how to perform yajnas. Lord Caitanya, however, inaugurated the easiest performance of yajna, namely the sankirtana-yajna, which can be performed by anyone in the world who accepts the principles of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 13

yajna—sistasinah santo

mucyante sarva—kilbisaih

bhunjate te tv agham papa

ye pacanty atma—karanat

SYNONYMS

yajna—sista—food taken after performance of yajna; asinah—eaters; santah—the devotees; mucyante—get relief from; sarva—all kinds of; kilbisaih—from sins; bhunjate—enjoy; te—they; tu—but; agham—grievous sins; papah—sinners; ye—those; pacanti—prepare food; atma—karanat—for sense enjoyment.

TRANSLATION

The devotees of the Lord are released from all kinds of sins because they eat food which is offered first for sacrifice. Others, who prepare food for personal sense enjoyment, verily eat only sin.

PURPORT

The devotees of the Supreme Lord, or the persons who are in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, are called santas, and they are always in love with the Lord as it is described in the Brahma-samhita (5.38): premanjana-cchurita-bhakti-vilocanena santah sadaiva hrdayesu vilokayanti. The santas, being always in a compact of love with the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Govinda (the giver of all pleasures), or Mukunda (the giver of liberation), or Krsna (the all-attractive person), cannot accept anything without first offering it to the Supreme Person. Therefore, such devotees always perform yajnas in different modes of devotional service, such as sravanam, kirtanam, smaranam, arcanam, etc., and these performances of yajnas keep them always aloof from all kinds of contamination of sinful association in the material world. Others, who prepare food for self or sense gratification, are not only thieves, but are also the eaters of all kinds of sins. How can a person be happy if he is both a thief and sinful? It is not possible. Therefore, in order for people to become happy in all respects, they must be taught to perform the easy process of sankirtana-yajna, in full Krsna consciousness. Otherwise, there can be no peace or happiness in the world.

TEXT 14

annad bhavanti bhutani

parjanyaad anna-sambhavah

yajnad bhavati parjanyo

yajnah karma-samudbhavah

SYNONYMS

annat—from grains; bhavanti—grow; bhutani—the material bodies; parjanyaat—from rains; anna—of food grains; sambhavah—are made possible; yajnat—from the performance of sacrifice; bhavati—becomes possible; parjanyaah—rains; yajnah—performance of yajna; karma—prescribed duties; samudbhavah—born of.

TRANSLATION

All living bodies subsist on food grains, which are produced from rains. Rains are produced by performance of yajna [sacrifice], and yajna is born of prescribed duties.

PURPORT

Srila Baladeva Vidyabhusana, a great commentator on the Bhagavad-gita, writes as follows: ye indradya-angatayavasthitam yajnam sarvesvaram visnum abhyarcya tac-chesam asnanti tena tad deha-yatram sampadayanti, te santah sarvesvarasya yajna-purusasya bhaktah sarva-kilbisair anadi-kala-vivrddhair atmanubhava-prati bandhakair nikhilaih papair vimucyante. The Supreme Lord, who is known as the yajna-purusa, or the personal beneficiary of all sacrifices, is the master of all demigods, who serve Him as the different limbs of the body serve the whole. Demigods like Indra, Candra, Varuna, etc., are appointed officers who manage material affairs, and the Vedas direct sacrifices to satisfy these demigods so that they may be pleased to supply air, light and water sufficiently to produce food grains. When Lord Krsna is worshiped, the demigods, who are different limbs of the Lord, are also automatically worshiped; therefore there is no separate need to worship the demigods. For this reason, the devotees of the Lord, who are in Krsna consciousness, offer food to Krsna and then eat—a process which nourishes the body spiritually. By such action not only are past sinful reactions in the body vanquished, but the body becomes immunized to all contamination of material nature. When there is an epidemic disease, an antiseptic vaccine protects a person from the attack of such an epidemic. Similarly, food offered to Lord Visnu and then taken by us makes us sufficiently resistant to material affection, and one who is accustomed to this practice is called a devotee of the Lord. Therefore, a person in Krsna consciousness, who eats only food offered to Krsna, can counteract all reactions of past material infections, which are impediments to the progress of self-realization. On the other hand, one who does not do so continues to increase the volume of sinful action, and this prepares the next body to resemble hogs and dogs, to suffer the resultant reactions of all sins. The material world is full of contaminations, and one who is immunized by accepting prasadam of the Lord (food offered to Visnu) is saved from the attack, whereas one who does not do so becomes subjected to contamination.

Food grains or vegetables are factually eatables. The human being eats different kinds of food grains, vegetables, fruits, etc., and the animals eat the refuse of the food grains and vegetables, grass, plants, etc. Human beings who are accustomed to eating meat and flesh must also depend on the production of vegetation in order to eat the animals. Therefore, ultimately, we have to depend on the production of the field and not on the production of big factories. The field production is due to sufficient rain from the sky, and such rains are controlled by demigods like Indra, sun, moon, etc., and they are all servants of the Lord. The Lord can be satisfied by sacrifices; therefore, one who cannot perform them will find himself in scarcity—that is the law of nature. Yajna, specifically the sankirtana–yajna prescribed for this age, must therefore be performed to save us at least from scarcity of food supply.

TEXT 15

karma brahmodbhavam viddhi

brahmaksara–samudbhavam

tasmat sarva–gatam brahma

nityam yajne pratisthitam

SYNONYMS

karma—work; brahma—Vedas; udbhavam—produced from; viddhi—one should know; brahma—the Vedas; aksara—the Supreme Brahman (Personality of Godhead); samudbhavam—directly manifested; tasmat—therefore; sarva–gatam—all–pervading; brahma—transcendence; nityam—eternally; yajne—in sacrifice; pratisthitam—situated.

TRANSLATION

Regulated activities are prescribed in the Vedas, and the Vedas are directly manifested from the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Consequently the all–pervading Transcendence is eternally situated in acts of sacrifice.

PURPORT

Yajnārtha-karma, or the necessity of work for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa only, is more expressly stated in this verse. If we have to work for the satisfaction of the yajna-purusa, Viṣṇu, then we must find out the direction of work in Brahman, or the transcendental Vedas. The Vedas are therefore codes of working directions. Anything performed without the direction of the Vedas is called vikarma, or unauthorized or sinful work. Therefore, one should always take direction from the Vedas to be saved from the reaction of work. As one has to work in ordinary life by the direction of the state, similarly, one has to work under the direction of the supreme state of the Lord. Such directions in the Vedas are directly manifested from the breathing of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. It is said: asya mahato bhutasya nisvasitam etad yad rg-vedo yajur-vedah samavedo 'tharvangirasah. "The four Vedas—namely the Rg Veda, Yajur Veda, Sama Veda and Atharva Veda—are all emanations from the breathing of the great Personality of Godhead." (Bṛhad-āraṇyaka Upaniṣad 4.5.11) The Lord, being omnipotent, can speak by breathing air, as it is confirmed in the Brahma-saṁhita, for the Lord has the omnipotence to perform through each of His senses the actions of all other senses. In other words, the Lord can speak through His breathing, and He can impregnate by His eyes. In fact, it is said that He glanced over material nature and thus fathered all living entities. After creating or impregnating the conditioned souls in the womb of material nature, He gave His directions in the Vedic wisdom as to how such conditioned souls can return home, back to Godhead. We should always remember that the conditioned souls in material nature are all eager for material enjoyment. But the Vedic directions are so made that one can satisfy one's perverted desires, then return to Godhead, having finished his so-called enjoyment. It is a chance for the conditioned souls to attain liberation; therefore the conditioned souls must try to follow the process of yajna by becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious. Even those who cannot follow the Vedic injunctions may adopt the principles of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and that will take the place of performance of Vedic yajnas, or karmas.

TEXT 16

evam pravartitam cakram

nanuvartayatiha yah

aghayur indriyaramo

mogham partha sa jivati

SYNONYMS

evam—thus prescribed; pravartitam—established by the Vedas; cakram—cycle; na—does not; anuvartayati—adopt; iha—in this life; yah—one who; agha-ayuh—life full of sins; indriya-aramah—satisfied in sense gratification; mogham—useless; partha—O son of Prtha (Arjuna); sah—one who does so; jivati—lives.

TRANSLATION

My dear Arjuna, a man who does not follow this prescribed Vedic system of sacrifice certainly leads a life full of sin, for a person delighting only in the senses lives in vain.

PURPORT

The mammonist philosophy of work very hard and enjoy sense gratification is condemned herein by the Lord. Therefore, for those who want to enjoy this material world, the above-mentioned cycle of performing yajnas is absolutely necessary. One who does not follow such regulations is living a very risky life, being condemned more and more. By nature's law, this human form of life is specifically meant for self-realization, in either of the three ways—namely karma-yoga, jnana-yoga or bhakti-yoga. There is no necessity of rigidly following the performances of the prescribed yajnas for the transcendentalists who are above vice and virtue; but those who are engaged in sense gratification require purification by the above-mentioned cycle of yajna performances. There are different kinds of activities. Those who are not Krsna conscious are certainly engaged in sensory consciousness; therefore they need to execute pious work. The yajna system is planned in such a way that sensory conscious persons may satisfy their desires without becoming entangled in the reactions of sense-gratificatory work. The prosperity of the world depends not on our own efforts but on the background arrangement of the Supreme Lord, directly carried out by the demigods. Therefore, the yajnas are directly aimed at the particular demigod mentioned in the Vedas. Indirectly, it is the practice of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, because when one masters the performance of yajnas, one is sure to become Kṛṣṇa conscious. But if by performing yajnas one does not become Kṛṣṇa conscious, such principles are counted as only moral codes. One should not, therefore, limit his progress only to the point of moral codes, but should transcend them, to attain Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 17

yaś tv atma-ratir eva syad

atma-trptas ca manavaḥ

atmany eva ca santuṣṭaḥ

taśya karyam na vidyate

SYNONYMS

yaḥ—one who; tu—but; atma-ratih—takes pleasure; eva—certainly; syat—remains; atma-trptah—self-illuminated; ca—and; manavaḥ—a man; atmani—in himself; eva—only; ca—and; santuṣṭah—perfectly satiated; taśya—his; karyam—duty; na—does not; vidyate—exist.

TRANSLATION

One who is, however, taking pleasure in the self, who is illuminated in the self, who rejoices in and is satisfied with the self only, fully satiated—for him there is no duty.

PURPORT

A person who is fully Kṛṣṇa conscious, and is fully satisfied by his acts in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no longer has any duty to perform. Due to his being Kṛṣṇa conscious, all impiety within is instantly cleansed, an effect of many, many thousands of yajña performances. By such clearing of consciousness, one becomes fully confident of his eternal position in relationship with the Supreme. His duty thus becomes self-illuminated by the grace of the Lord, and therefore he no longer has any obligations to the Vedic injunctions. Such a Kṛṣṇa conscious person is no longer interested in material activities and no longer takes pleasure in material arrangements like wine, women and similar infatuations.

TEXT 18

naiva tasya kṛtenartha

nakṛteneha kascana

na casya sarva-bhutesu

kascid artha-vyapasrayah

SYNONYMS

na—never; eva—certainly; tasya—his; kṛtena—by discharge of duty; arthah—purpose; na—nor; akṛtena—without discharge of duty; iha—in this world; kascana—whatever; na—never; ca—and; asya—of him; sarva-bhutesu—in all living beings; kascit—any; artha—purpose; vyapasrayah—taking shelter of.

TRANSLATION

A self-realized man has no purpose to fulfill in the discharge of his prescribed duties, nor has he any reason not to perform such work. Nor has he any need to depend on any other living being.

PURPORT

A self-realized man is no longer obliged to perform any prescribed duty, save and except activities in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is not inactivity either, as will be explained in the following verses. A Kṛṣṇa conscious man does not take shelter of any person—man or demigod. Whatever he does in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is sufficient in the discharge of his obligation.

TEXT 19

tasmad asaktah satatam

karyam karma samacara

asakto hy acaran karma

param apnoti purusah

SYNONYMS

tasmad—therefore; asaktah—without attachment; satatam—constantly; karyam—as duty; karma—work; samacara—perform; asaktah—nonattached; hi—certainly; acaran—performing; karma—work; param—the Supreme; apnoti—achieves; purusah—a man.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, without being attached to the fruits of activities, one should act as a matter of duty; for by working without attachment one attains the Supreme.

PURPORT

The Supreme is the Personality of Godhead for the devotees, and liberation for the impersonalist. A person, therefore, acting for Krsna, or in Krsna consciousness, under proper guidance and without attachment to the result of the work, is certainly making progress toward the supreme goal of life. Arjuna is told that he should fight in the Battle of Kuruksetra for the interest of Krsna because Krsna wanted him to fight. To be a good man or a nonviolent man is a personal attachment, but to act on behalf of the Supreme is to act without attachment for the result. That is perfect action of the highest degree, recommended by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Sri Krsna.

Vedic rituals, like prescribed sacrifices, are performed for purification of impious activities that were performed in the field of sense gratification. But action in Krsna consciousness is transcendental to the reactions of good or evil work. A Krsna conscious person has no attachment for the result but acts on behalf of Krsna alone. He engages in all kinds of activities, but is completely nonattached.

TEXT 20

karmanaiva hi samsiddhim

asthita janakadayah

loka-sangraham evapi

sampasyan kartum arhasi

SYNONYMS

karmana—by work; eva—even; hi—certainly; samsiddhim—perfection;
asthitah—situated; janaka—adayah—Janaka and other kings;
loka—sangraham—educating the people in general; eva—also; api—for the sake of;
sampasyan—by considering; kartum—to act; arhasi—deserve.

TRANSLATION

Kings such as Janaka and others attained the perfectional stage by performance of prescribed duties. Therefore, just for the sake of educating the people in general, you should perform your work.

PURPORT

Kings like Janaka and others were all self-realized souls; consequently they had no obligation to perform the prescribed duties in the Vedas. Nonetheless they performed all prescribed activities just to set examples for the people in general. Janaka was the father of Sita and father-in-law of Lord Sri Rama. Being a great devotee of the Lord, he was transcendently situated, but because he was the king of Mithila (a subdivision of Bihar province in India), he had to teach his subjects how to fight righteously in battle. He and his subjects fought to teach people in general that violence is also necessary in a situation where good arguments fail. Before the Battle of Kuruksetra, every effort was made to avoid the war, even by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, but the other party was determined to fight. So for such a right cause, there is a necessity for fighting. Although one who is situated in Kṛṣṇa consciousness may not have any interest in the world, he still works to teach the public how to live and how to act. Experienced persons in Kṛṣṇa consciousness can act in such a way that others will follow, and this is explained in the following verse.

TEXT 21

yad yad acarati sresthas

tat tad evetaro janah

sa yat pramanam kurute

lokas tad anuvartate

SYNONYMS

yat—whatever; yat—and whichever; acarati—does he act; sresthah—a respectable leader; tat—that; tat—and that alone; eva—certainly; itarah—common; janah—person; sah—he; yat—whichever; pramanam—evidence; kurute—does perform; lokah—all the world; tat—that; anuvartate—follow in the footsteps.

TRANSLATION

Whatever action is performed by a great man, common men follow in his footsteps. And whatever standards he sets by exemplary acts, all the world pursues.

PURPORT

People in general always require a leader who can teach the public by practical behavior. A leader cannot teach the public to stop smoking if he himself smokes. Lord Caitanya said that a teacher should behave properly even before he begins teaching. One who teaches in that way is called acarya, or the ideal teacher. Therefore, a teacher must follow the principles of sastra (scripture) to reach the common man. The teacher cannot manufacture rules against the principles of revealed scriptures. The revealed scriptures, like Manu–samhita and similar others, are considered the standard books to be followed by human society. Thus the leader's teaching should be based on the principles of such standard rules as they are practiced by the great teachers. The Srimad–Bhagavatam also affirms that one should follow in the footsteps of great devotees, and that is the way of progress on the path of spiritual realization. The king or the executive head of a state, the father and the school teacher are all considered to be natural leaders of the innocent people in general. All such natural leaders have a great responsibility to their dependents; therefore they must be conversant with standard books of moral and spiritual codes.

TEXT 22

na me parthasti kartavyam

trisu lokesu kincana

nanavaptam avaptavyam

varta eva ca karmani

SYNONYMS

na—no; me—Mine; partha—O son of Prtha; asti—there is; kartavyam—any prescribed duty; trisu—in the three; lokesu—planetary systems; kincana—anything; na—no; anavaptam—in want; avaptavyam—to be gained; varte—engaged; eva—certainly; ca—also; karmani—in one's prescribed duty.

TRANSLATION

O son of Prtha, there is no work prescribed for Me within all the three planetary systems. Nor am I in want of anything, nor have I need to obtain anything—and yet I am engaged in work.

PURPORT

The Supreme Personality of Godhead is described in the Vedic literatures as follows:

tam isvaranam paramam mahesvaram

tam devatanam paramam ca daivatam

patim patinam paramam parastad

vidama devam bhuvanesam idyam

na tasya karyam karanam ca vidyate

na tat-samas cabhyadhikas ca drsyate

parasya saktir vividhaiva sruyate

svabhaviki jnana-bala-kriya ca

"The Supreme Lord is the controller of all other controllers, and He is the greatest of all the diverse planetary leaders. Everyone is under His control. All entities are delegated with particular power only by the Supreme Lord; they are not supreme themselves. He is also worshipable by all demigods and is the supreme director of all directors. Therefore, He is transcendental to all kinds of material leaders and controllers and is worshipable by all. There is no one greater than Him, and He is the supreme cause of all causes.

"He does not possess bodily form like that of an ordinary living entity. There is no difference between His body and His soul. He is absolute. All His senses are transcendental. Any one of His senses can perform the action of any other sense. Therefore no one is greater than Him or equal to Him. His potencies are multifarious, and thus His deeds are automatically performed as a natural sequence." (Svetasvatara Upanisad 6.7–8)

Since everything is in full opulence in the Personality of Godhead and is existing in full truth, there is no duty for the Supreme Personality of Godhead to perform. One who must receive the results of work has some designated duty, but one who has nothing to achieve within the three planetary systems certainly has no duty. And yet Lord Kṛṣṇa is engaged on the Battlefield of Kurukṣetra as the leader of the ksatriyas because the ksatriyas are duty-bound to give protection to the distressed. Although He is above all the regulations of the revealed scriptures, He does not do anything that violates the revealed scriptures.

TEXT 23

yadi hy aham na varteyam

jatu karmany atandritah

mama vartmanuvartante

manusyah partha sarvasah

SYNONYMS

yadi—if; hi—certainly; aham—I; na—do not; varteyam—thus engage; jatu—ever; karmani—in the performance of prescribed duties; atandritah—with great care; mama—My; vartma—path; anuvartante—would follow; manusyah—all men; partha—O son of Prtha; sarvasah—in all respects.

TRANSLATION

For if I did not engage in work, O Partha, certainly all men would follow My path.

PURPORT

In order to keep the balance of social tranquillity for progress in spiritual life, there are traditional family usages meant for every civilized man. Although such rules and regulations are for the conditioned souls and not Lord Kṛṣṇa, because He descended to establish the principles of religion, He followed the prescribed rules. Otherwise, common men would follow in His footsteps, because He is the greatest authority. From the Srimad-Bhagavatam it is understood that Lord Kṛṣṇa was performing all the religious duties at home and out of home, as required of a householder.

TEXT 24

utsideyur ime loka

na kuryam karma ced aham

sankarasya ca karta syam

upahanyam imah prajah

SYNONYMS

utsideyuh—put into ruin; ime—all these; lokah—worlds; na—do not; kuryam—perform; karma—prescribed duties; cet—if; aham—I; sankarasya—of unwanted population; ca—and; karta—creator; syam—shall be; upahanyam—destroy; imah—all these; prajah—living entities.

TRANSLATION

If I should cease to work, then all these worlds would be put to ruination. I would also be the cause of creating unwanted population, and I would thereby destroy the peace of all sentient beings.

PURPORT

Varna–sankara is unwanted population which disturbs the peace of the general society. In order to check this social disturbance, there are prescribed rules and regulations by which the population can automatically become peaceful and organized for spiritual progress in life. When Lord Kṛṣṇa descends, naturally He deals with such rules and regulations in order to maintain the prestige and necessity of such important performances. The Lord is the father of all living entities, and if the living entities are misguided, indirectly the responsibility goes to the Lord. Therefore, whenever there is general disregard of regulative principles, the Lord Himself descends and corrects the society. We should, however, note carefully that although we have to follow in the footsteps of the Lord, we still have to remember that we cannot imitate Him. Following and imitating are not on the same level. We cannot imitate the Lord by lifting Govardhana Hill, as the Lord did in His childhood. It is impossible for any human being. We have to follow His instructions, but we may not imitate Him at any time. The Srimad–Bhagavatam (10.33.30–31) affirms:

naitat samacareḥ jatu

manasapi hy anisvarah

vinasyaty acaran maudhyad

yatha 'rudro 'bdhi–jam visam

isvaranam vacah satyam

tathaivacaritam kvacit

tesam yat sva–vaco–yuktam

"One should simply follow the instructions of the Lord and His empowered servants. Their instructions are all good for us, and any intelligent person will perform them as instructed. However, one should guard against trying to imitate their actions. One should not try to drink the ocean of poison in imitation of Lord Siva."

We should always consider the position of the isvaras, or those who can actually control the movements of the sun and moon, as superior. Without such power, one cannot imitate the isvaras, who are superpowerful. Lord Siva drank poison to the extent of swallowing an ocean, but if any common man tries to drink even a fragment of such poison, he will be killed. There are many pseudo-devotees of Lord Siva who want to indulge in smoking ganja (marijuana) and similar intoxicating drugs, forgetting that by so imitating the acts of Lord Siva they are calling death very near. Similarly, there are some pseudo-devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa who prefer to imitate the Lord in His rasa-līla, or dance of love, forgetting their inability to lift Govardhana Hill. It is best, therefore, that one not try to imitate the powerful, but simply follow their instructions; nor should one try to occupy their posts without qualification. There are so many "incarnations" of God without the power of the Supreme Godhead.

TEXT 25

saktah karmany avidvamsa

yatha kurvanti bharata

kuryad vidvams tathasaktas

cikirsur loka-sangrahaṁ

SYNONYMS

saktah—being attached; karmani—prescribed duties; avidvamsah—the ignorant; yatha—as much as; kurvanti—do it; bharata—O descendant of Bharata; kuryat—must do; vidvan—the learned; tatha—thus; asaktah—without attachment; cikirsuh—desiring to; loka-sangraha—leading the people in general.

TRANSLATION

As the ignorant perform their duties with attachment to results, similarly the learned may also act, but without attachment, for the sake of leading the people on the right path.

PURPORT

A person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and a person not in Kṛṣṇa consciousness are differentiated by different desires. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person does not do anything which is not conducive to development of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. He may even act exactly like the ignorant person, who is too much attached to material activities, but one is engaged in such activities for the satisfaction of his sense gratification, whereas the other is engaged for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Therefore, the Kṛṣṇa conscious person is required to show the people how to act and how to engage the results of action for the purpose of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 26

na buddhi-bhedam janayed

ajñānam karma-saṅginam

joṣayet sarva-karmani

vidvan yuktaḥ samācāraṇ

SYNONYMS

na—do not; buddhi-bhedam—disrupt the intelligence; janayet—do; ajnanam—of the foolish; karma-sanginam—attached to fruitive work; josayet—dovetailed; sarva—all; karmani—work; vidvan—learned; yukta—all engaged; samacaran—practicing.

TRANSLATION

Let not the wise disrupt the minds of the ignorant who are attached to fruitive action, they should not be encouraged to refrain from work, but to engage in work in the spirit of devotion.

PURPORT

Vedais ca sarvair aham eva vedyah: That is the end of all Vedic rituals. All rituals, all performances of sacrifices, and everything that is put into the Vedas, including all direction for material activities, are meant for understanding Kṛṣṇa, who is the ultimate goal of life. But because the conditioned souls do not know anything beyond sense gratification, they study the Vedas to that end. Through sense regulations, however, one is gradually elevated to Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Therefore a realized soul in Kṛṣṇa consciousness should not disturb others in their activities or understanding, but he should act by showing how the results of all work can be dedicated to the service of Kṛṣṇa. The learned Kṛṣṇa conscious person may act in such a way that the ignorant person working for sense gratification may learn how to act and how to behave. Although the ignorant man is not to be disturbed in his activities, still, a slightly developed Kṛṣṇa conscious person may directly be engaged in the service of the Lord without waiting for other Vedic formulas. For this fortunate man there is no need to follow the Vedic rituals, because in direct Kṛṣṇa consciousness one can have all the results simply by following the prescribed duties of a particular person.

TEXT 27

prakrteh kriyamanani

gunaih karmani sarvasah

ahankara-vimudhatma

kartaham iti manyate

SYNONYMS

prakrteh—of material nature; kriyamanani—all being done; gunaih—by the modes; karmani—activities; sarvasah—all kinds of; ahankara-vimudha—bewildered by false ego; atma—the spirit soul; karta—doer; aham—I; iti—thus; manyate—thinks.

TRANSLATION

The bewildered spirit soul, under the influence of the three modes of material nature, thinks himself to be the doer of activities, which are in actuality carried out by nature.

PURPORT

Two persons, one in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and the other in material consciousness, working on the same level, may appear to be working on the same platform, but there is a wide gulf of difference in their respective positions. The person in material consciousness is convinced by false ego that he is the doer of everything. He does not know that the mechanism of the body is produced by material nature, which works under the supervision of the Supreme Lord. The materialistic person has no knowledge that ultimately he is under the control of Kṛṣṇa. The person in false ego takes all credit for doing everything independently, and that is the symptom of his nescience. He does not know that this gross and subtle body is the creation of material nature, under the order of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and as such his bodily and mental activities should be engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa, in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The ignorant man forgets that the Supreme Personality of Godhead is known as Hṛṣīkeśa, or the master of the senses of the material body, for due to his long misuse of the senses in sense gratification, he is factually bewildered by the false ego, which makes him forget his eternal relationship with Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 28

tattva—vit tu maha—baho

guna—karma—vibhagayoh

guna gunesu vartanta

iti matva na sajjate

SYNONYMS

tattva—vit—the knower of the Absolute Truth; tu—but; maha—baho—O mighty—armed one; guna—karma—works under material influence; vibhagayoh—differences; gunah—senses; gunesu—in sense gratification; vartante—being engaged; iti—thus; matva—thinking; na—never; sajjate—becomes attached.

TRANSLATION

One who is in knowledge of the Absolute Truth, O mighty—armed, does not engage himself in the senses and sense gratification, knowing well the differences between work in devotion and work for fruitive results.

PURPORT

The knower of the Absolute Truth is convinced of his awkward position in material association. He knows that he is part and parcel of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, and that his position should not be in the material creation. He knows his real identity as part and parcel of the Supreme, who is eternal bliss and knowledge, and he realizes that somehow or other he is entrapped in the material conception of life. In his pure state of existence he is meant to dovetail his activities in devotional service to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa. He therefore engages himself in the activities of Kṛṣṇa consciousness and becomes naturally unattached to the activities of the material senses, which are all circumstantial and temporary. He knows that his material condition of life is under the supreme control of the Lord; consequently he is not disturbed by all kinds of material reactions, which he considers to be the mercy of the Lord. According to Srimad-Bhagavatam, one who knows the Absolute Truth in three different features—namely Brahman, Paramatma, and the Supreme Personality of Godhead—is called tattva-vit, for he knows also his own factual position in relationship with the Supreme.

TEXT 29

prakṛter guṇa-sammudhah

sajjante guṇa-karmasu

tan akṛtsna-vido mandan

kṛtsna-vin na vicalayet

SYNONYMS

prakrteh—impelled by the material modes; guna—sammudhah—befooled by material identification; sajjante—become engaged; guna—karmasu—in material activities; tan—all those; akrtsna—vidah—persons with a poor fund of knowledge; mandan—lazy to understand self-realization; krtsna—vit—one who is in factual knowledge; na—may not; vicalayet—try to agitate.

TRANSLATION

Bewildered by the modes of material nature, the ignorant fully engage themselves in material activities and become attached. But the wise should not unsettle them, although these duties are inferior due to the performers' lack of knowledge.

PURPORT

Persons who are unknowledgeable falsely identify with gross material consciousness and are full of material designations. This body is a gift of the material nature, and one who is too much attached to the bodily consciousness is called mandan, or a lazy person without understanding of spirit soul. Ignorant men think of the body as the self; bodily connections with others are accepted as kinsmanship, the land in which the body is obtained is the object of worship; and the formalities of religious rituals are considered ends in themselves. Social work, nationalism, and altruism are some of the activities for such materially designated persons. Under the spell of such designations, they are always busy in the material field; for them spiritual realization is a myth and so they are not interested. Such bewildered persons may even be engaged in such primary moral principles of life as nonviolence and similar materially benevolent work. Those who are, however, enlightened in spiritual life, should not try to agitate such materially engrossed persons. Better to prosecute one's own spiritual activities silently.

Men who are ignorant cannot appreciate activities in Krsna consciousness, and therefore Lord Krsna advises us not to disturb them and simply waste valuable time. But the devotees of the Lord are more kind than the Lord because they understand the purpose of the Lord. Consequently they undertake all kinds of risks, even to the point of approaching ignorant men to try to engage them in the acts of Krsna consciousness, which are absolutely necessary for the human being.

TEXT 30

mayi sarvani karmani

sannyasyadhyatma—cetasa

nirasir nirmamo bhutva

yudhyasva vigata—jvarah

SYNONYMS

mayi—unto Me; sarvani—all sorts of; karmani—activities; sannyasya—giving up completely; adhyatma—with full knowledge of the self; cetasa—consciousness; nirasih—without desire for profit; nirmamah—without ownership; bhutva—so being; yudhyasva—fight; vigata—jvarah—without being lethargic.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O Arjuna, surrendering all your works unto Me, with mind intent on Me, and without desire for gain and free from egoism and lethargy, fight.

PURPORT

This verse clearly indicates the purpose of the Bhagavad-gita. The Lord instructs that one has to become fully Krsna conscious to discharge duties, as if in military discipline. Such an injunction may make things a little difficult; nevertheless duties must be carried out, with dependence on Kṛṣṇa, because that is the constitutional position of the living entity. The living entity cannot be happy independent of the cooperation of the Supreme Lord because the eternal constitutional position of the living entity is to become subordinate to the desires of the Lord. Arjuna was, therefore, ordered by Śrī Kṛṣṇa to fight as if the Lord were his military commander. One has to sacrifice everything for the good will of the Supreme Lord, and at the same time discharge prescribed duties without claiming proprietorship. Arjuna did not have to consider the order of the Lord; he had only to execute His order. The Supreme Lord is the soul of all souls; therefore, one who depends solely and wholly on the Supreme Soul without personal consideration, or in other words, one who is fully Kṛṣṇa conscious, is called adhyatma-cetasa. Nirasiḥ means that one has to act on the order of the master. Nor should one ever expect fruitive results. The cashier may count millions of dollars for his employer, but he does not claim a cent for himself. Similarly, one has to realize that nothing in the world belongs to any individual person, but that everything belongs to the Supreme Lord. That is the real purport of mayi, or "unto Me." And when one acts in such Kṛṣṇa consciousness, certainly he does not claim proprietorship over anything. This consciousness is called nirmama, or "nothing is mine." And, if there is any reluctance to execute such a stern order which is without consideration of so-called kinsmen in the bodily relationship, that reluctance should be thrown off; in this way one may become vigata-jvara or without feverish mentality or lethargy. Everyone, according to his quality and position, has a particular type of work to discharge, and all such duties may be discharged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, as described above. That will lead one to the path of liberation.

TEXT 31

ye me matam idam nityam

anutisthanti manavah

sraddhavanto 'nasuyanto

mucyante te 'pi karmabhih

SYNONYMS

ye—those; me—My; matam—injunctions; idam—this; nityam—eternal function; anutisthanti—execute regularly; manavah—humankind; sraddha—vanta—with faith and devotion; anasuyantah—without envy; mucyante—become free; te—all of them; api—even; karmabhih—from the bondage of the law of fruitive action.

TRANSLATION

One who execute his duties according to My injunctions and who follows this teaching faithfully, without envy, becomes free from the bondage of fruitive actions.

PURPORT

The injunction of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, is the essence of all Vedic wisdom, and therefore is eternally true without exception. As the Vedas are eternal, so this truth of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is also eternal. One should have firm faith in this injunction, without envying the Lord. There are many philosophers who write comments on the Bhagavad-gītā but have no faith in Kṛṣṇa. They will never be liberated from the bondage of fruitive action. But an ordinary man with firm faith in the eternal injunctions of the Lord, even though unable to execute such orders, becomes liberated from the bondage of the law of karma. In the beginning of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one may not fully discharge the injunctions of the Lord, but because one is not resentful of this principle and works sincerely without consideration of defeat and hopelessness, he will surely be promoted to the stage of pure Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 32

ye tv etad abhyasuyanto

nanutisthanti me matam

sarva-jnana-vimudhams tan

viddhi nastan acetasaḥ

SYNONYMS

ye—those; tu—however; etat—this; abhyasuyantaḥ—out of envy; na—do not; anutisthanti—regularly perform; me—My; matam—injunction; sarva-jñāna—all sorts of knowledge; vimudhaḥ—perfectly befooled; taṁ—they are; viddhi—know it well; nastan—all ruined; acetasaḥ—without Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TRANSLATION

But those who, out of envy disregard these teachings and do not practice them regularly, are to be considered bereft of all knowledge, befooled, and doomed to ignorance and bondage.

PURPORT

The flaw of not being Kṛṣṇa conscious is clearly stated herein. As there is punishment for disobedience to the order of the supreme executive head, so there is certainly punishment for the disobedience of the order of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. A disobedient person, however great he may be, is ignorant of his own self, of the Supreme Brahman, and Paramatma and the Personality of Godhead, due to a vacant heart. Therefore there is no hope of perfection of life for him.

TEXT 33

sadṛśam cestate svasyaḥ

prakrter jnanavan api

prakrtim yanti bhutani

nigrahah kim karisyati

SYNONYMS

sadrsam—accordingly; cestate—tries; svasyah—in one's own nature; prakrteh—modes; jnana—van—learned; api—although; prakrtim—nature; yanti—undergo; bhutani—all living entities; nigrahah—suppression; kim—what; karisyati—can do.

TRANSLATION

Even a man of knowledge acts according to his own nature, for everyone follows his nature. What can repression accomplish?

PURPORT

Unless one is situated on the transcendental platform of Kṛṣṇa consciousness he cannot get free from the influence of the modes of material nature, as it is confirmed by the Lord in the Seventh Chapter (7.14). Therefore, even for the most highly educated person on the mundane plane, it is impossible to get out of the entanglement of māyā simply by theoretical knowledge, or by separating the soul from the body. There are many so-called spiritualists who outwardly pose to be advanced in the science, but inwardly or privately are completely under the particular modes of nature which they are unable to surpass. Academically, one may be very learned, but because of his long association with material nature, he is in bondage. Kṛṣṇa consciousness helps one to get out of the material entanglement, even though one may be engaged in his prescribed duties. Therefore, without being fully in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, no one should suddenly give up his prescribed duties and become a so-called yogi or transcendentalist artificially. It is better to be situated in one's position and try to attain Kṛṣṇa consciousness under superior training. Thus one may be freed from the clutches of maya.

TEXT 34

indriyasyendriyasyarthe

raga—dvesau vyavasthitau

tayor na vasam agacchet

tau hy asya paripanthinau

SYNONYMS

indriyasya—of the senses; indriyasya arthe—in the sense objects; raga—attachment; dvesau—also detachment; vyavasthitau—put under regulations; tayoh—of them; na—never; vasam—control; agacchet—one should come; tau—those; hi—certainly; asya—his; paripanthinau—stumbling blocks.

TRANSLATION

Attraction and repulsion for sense objects are felt by embodied beings, but one should not fall under the control of senses and sense objects because they are stumbling blocks on the path of self-realization.

PURPORT

Those who are in Kṛṣṇa consciousness are naturally reluctant to engage in material sense gratification. But those who are not in such consciousness should follow the rules and regulations of the revealed scriptures. Unrestricted sense enjoyment is the cause of material encagement, but one who follows the rules and regulations of the revealed scriptures does not become entangled by the sense objects. For example, sex enjoyment is a necessity for the conditioned soul, and sex enjoyment is allowed under the license of marriage ties. For example, according to scriptural injunctions, one is forbidden to engage in sex relationships with any women other than one's wife. All other women are to be considered as one's mother. But, in spite of such injunctions, a man is still inclined to have sex relationships with other women. These propensities are to be curbed; otherwise they will be stumbling blocks on the path of self-realization. As long as the material body is there, the necessities of the material body are allowed, but under rules and regulations. And yet, we should not rely upon the control of such allowances. One has to follow these rules and regulations, unattached to them, because practice of sense gratification under regulations may also lead one to go astray—as much as there is always the chance of an accident, even on the royal roads. Although they may be very carefully maintained, no one can guarantee that there will be no danger even on the safest road. The sense enjoyment spirit has been current a very long, long time, owing to material association. Therefore, in spite of regulated sense enjoyment, there is every chance of falling down; therefore any attachment for regulated sense enjoyment must also be avoided by all means. But action in the loving service of Kṛṣṇa detaches one from all kinds of sensory activities. Therefore, no one should try to be detached from Kṛṣṇa consciousness at any stage of life. The whole purpose of detachment from all kinds of sense attachment is ultimately to become situated on the platform of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 35

sreyan sva-dharmo vigunah

para-dharmat sv-anusthitat

sva-dharme nidhanam sreyah

para-dharmo bhayavahah

SYNONYMS

sreyan—far better; sva-dharmah—one's prescribed duties; vigunah—even faulty; para-dharmat—from duties mentioned for others; su-anusthitat—than perfectly done; sva-dharme—in one's prescribed duties; nidhanam—destruction; sreyah—better; para-dharmah—duties prescribed for others; bhaya-avahah—dangerous.

TRANSLATION

It is far better to discharge one's prescribed duties, even though they may be faultily, than another's duties. Destruction in the course of performing one's own duty is better than engaging in another's duties, for to follow another's path is dangerous.

PURPORT

One should therefore discharge his prescribed duties in full Kṛṣṇa consciousness rather than those prescribed for others. Prescribed duties complement one's psychophysical condition, under the spell of the modes of material nature. Spiritual duties are as ordered by the spiritual master, for the transcendental service of Kṛṣṇa. But both materially or spiritually, one should stick to his prescribed duties even up to death, rather than imitate another's prescribed duties. Duties on the spiritual platform and duties on the material platform may be different, but the principle of following the authorized direction is always good for the performer. When one is under the spell of the modes of material nature, one should follow the prescribed rules for particular situations and should not imitate others. For example, a brahmana, who is in the mode of goodness, is nonviolent, whereas a ksatriya, who is in the mode of passion, is allowed to be violent. As such, for a ksatriya it is better to be vanquished following the rules of violence than to imitate a brahmana who follows the principles of nonviolence. Everyone has to cleanse his heart by a gradual process, not abruptly. However, when one transcends the modes of material nature and is fully situated in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he can perform anything and everything under the direction of the bona fide spiritual master. In that complete stage of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the ksatriya may act as a brahmana, or a brahmana may act as a ksatriya. In the transcendental stage, the distinctions of the material world do not apply. For example, Viśvāmitra was originally a ksatriya, but later on he acted as a brahmana, whereas Paraśurama was a brahmana, but later on he acted as a ksatriya. Being transcendentally situated, they could do so; but as long as one is on the material platform, he must perform his duties according to the modes of material nature. At the same time, he must have a full sense of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 36

arjuna uvaca

atha kena prayukto 'yam

papam carati purusah

anicchann api varsneya

balad iva niyojitah

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; atha—hereafter; kena—by what; prayuktah—impelled; ayam—one; papam—sins; carati—acts; purusah—a man; anicchan—without desiring; api—although; varsneya—O descendant of Vṛṣṇi; balat—by force; iva—as if; niyojitah—engaged.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O descendant of Vṛṣṇi, by what is one impelled to sinful acts, even unwillingly, as if engaged by force?

PURPORT

A living entity, as part and parcel of the Supreme, is originally spiritual, pure, and free from all material contaminations. Therefore, by nature he is not subjected to the sins of the material world. But when he is in contact with the material nature, he acts in many sinful ways without hesitation, and sometimes even against his will. As such, Arjuna's question to Kṛṣṇa is very sanguine, as to the perverted nature of the living entities. Although the living entity sometimes does not want to act in sin, he is still forced to act. Sinful actions are not, however, impelled by the Supersoul within, but are due to another cause, as the Lord explains in the next verse.

TEXT 37

sri-bhagavan uvaca

kama esa krodha esa

rajo-guna-samudbhavah

mahasano maha-papma

viddhy enam iha vairinam

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Personality of Godhead said; kamah—lust; esah—all these; krodhah—wrath; esah—all these; rajah-guna—the mode of passion; samudbhavah—born of; maha-asanah—all-devouring; maha-papma—greatly sinful; viddhi—know; enam—this; iha—in the material world; vairinam—greatest enemy.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: It is lust only, Arjuna, which is born of contact with the material mode of passion and later transformed into wrath, and which is the all-devouring, sinful enemy of this world.

PURPORT

When a living entity comes in contact with the material creation, his eternal love for Krsna is transformed into lust, in association with the mode of passion. Or, in other words, the sense of love of God becomes transformed into lust, as milk in contact with sour tamarind is transformed into yogurt. Then again, when lust is unsatisfied, it turns into wrath; wrath is transformed into illusion, and illusion continues the material existence. Therefore, lust is the greatest enemy of the living entity, and it is lust only which induces the pure living entity to remain entangled in the material world. Wrath is the manifestation of the mode of ignorance; these modes exhibit themselves as wrath and other corollaries. If, therefore, the mode of passion, instead of being degraded into the mode of ignorance, is elevated to the mode of goodness by the prescribed method of living and acting, then one can be saved from the degradation of wrath by spiritual attachment.

The Supreme Personality of Godhead expanded Himself into many for His ever-increasing spiritual bliss, and the living entities are parts and parcels of this spiritual bliss. They also have partial independence, but by misuse of their independence, when the service attitude is transformed into the propensity for sense enjoyment, they come under the sway of lust. This material creation is created by the Lord to give a facility to the conditioned souls to fulfill these lustful propensities, and when they are completely baffled by prolonged lustful activities, the living entities begin to inquire about their real position.

This inquiry is the beginning of the Vedanta-sutras, wherein it is said, athato brahma-jijnasa: one should inquire into the Supreme. And the Supreme is defined in the Srimad-Bhagavatam as janmady asya yato 'nvayad itaratas ca, or, "The origin of everything is the Supreme Brahman." Therefore, the origin of lust is also in the Supreme. If, therefore, lust is transformed into love for the Supreme, or transformed into Krsna consciousness—or, in other words, desiring everything for Krsna—then both lust and wrath can be spiritualized. Hanuman, the greatest servitor of Lord Rama, engaged his wrath upon his enemies for the satisfaction of the Lord. Therefore, lust and wrath, when they are employed in Krsna consciousness, become our friends instead of our enemies.

TEXT 38

dhumenavriyate vahnir

yathadarso malena ca

yatholbenavrto garbhas

tatha tenedam avrtam

SYNONYMS

dhumena—by smoke; avriyate—covered; vahnih—fire; yatha—just as;
adarsah—mirror; malena—by dust; ca—also; yatha—just as; ulbena—by the womb;
avrtah—is covered; garbhah—embryo; tatha—so; tena—by that lust; idam—this;
avrtam—is covered.

TRANSLATION

As fire is covered by smoke, as a mirror is covered by dust, or as the embryo is covered by the womb, similarly, the living entity is covered by different degrees of this lust.

PURPORT

There are three degrees of covering of the living entity by which his pure consciousness is obscured. This covering is but lust under different manifestations like smoke in the fire, dust on the mirror, and the womb about the embryo. When lust is compared to smoke, it is understood that the fire of the living spark can be a little perceived. In other words when the living entity exhibits his Krsna consciousness slightly, he may be likened to the fire covered by smoke. Although fire is necessary where there is smoke, there is no overt manifestation of fire in the early stage. This stage is like the beginning of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The dust on the mirror refers to a cleansing process of the mirror of the mind by so many spiritual methods. The best process is to chant the holy names of the Lord. The embryo covered by the womb is an analogy illustrating a helpless position, for the child in the womb is so helpless that he cannot even move. This stage of living condition can be compared to that of the trees. The trees are also living entities, but they have been put in such a condition of life by such a great exhibition of lust that they are almost void of all consciousness. The covered mirror is compared to the birds and beasts, and the smoke covered fire is compared to the human being. In the form of a human being, the living entity may revive a little Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and, if he makes further development, the fire of spiritual life can be kindled in the human form of life. By careful handling of the smoke in the fire, the fire can be made to blaze. Therefore the human form of life is a chance for the living entity to escape the entanglement of material existence. In the human form of life, one can conquer the enemy, lust, by cultivation of Kṛṣṇa consciousness under able guidance.

TEXT 39

avrtam jnanam etena

jnanino nitya-vairina

kama-rupena kaunteya

duspurenanalena ca

SYNONYMS

avrtam—covered; jnanam—pure consciousness; etena—by this; jnaninah—of the knower; nitya-vairina—eternal enemy; kama-rupena—in the form of lust; kaunteya—O son of Kuntī; duspurena—never to be satisfied; analena—by the fire; ca—also.

TRANSLATION

Thus, a man's pure consciousness is covered by his eternal enemy in the form of lust, which is never satisfied and which burns like fire.

PURPORT

It is said in the Manu-smṛti that lust cannot be satisfied by any amount of sense enjoyment, just as fire is never extinguished by a constant supply of fuel. In the material world, the center of all activities is sex, and thus this material world is called maithunya-āgara, or the shackles of sex life. In the ordinary prison house, criminals are kept within bars; similarly, the criminals who are disobedient to the laws of the Lord are shackled by sex life. Advancement of material civilization on the basis of sense gratification means increasing the duration of the material existence of a living entity. Therefore, this lust is the symbol of ignorance by which the living entity is kept within the material world. While one enjoys sense gratification, it may be that there is some feeling of happiness, but actually that so-called feeling of happiness is the ultimate enemy of the sense enjoyer.

TEXT 40

indriyani mano buddhir

asyadhisthanam ucyate

etair vimohayaty esa

jnanam avṛtya dehinam

SYNONYMS

indriyani—the senses; manah—the mind; buddhih—the intelligence; asya—of the lust;
adhithanam—sitting place; ucyate—called; etaih—by all these;
vimohayati—bewilders; esah—of this; jnanam—knowledge; avrtya—covering;
dehinam—the embodied.

TRANSLATION

The senses, the mind and the intelligence are the sitting places of this lust, which veils the real knowledge of the living entity and bewilders him.

PURPORT

The enemy has captured different strategic positions in the body of the conditioned soul, and therefore Lord Kṛṣṇa is giving hints of those places, so that one who wants to conquer the enemy may know where he can be found. Mind is the center of all the activities of the senses, and thus the mind is the reservoir of all ideas of sense gratification; and, as a result, the mind and the senses become the repositories of lust. Next, the intelligence department becomes the capital of such lustful propensities. Intelligence is the immediate next-door neighbor of the spirit soul. Lusty intelligence influences the spirit soul to acquire the false ego and identify itself with matter, and thus with the mind and the senses. The spirit soul becomes addicted to enjoying the material senses and mistakes this as true happiness. This false identification of the spirit soul is very nicely explained in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (10.84.13):

yasyatma–buddhih kunape tri–dhatuke

sva–dhih kalatradisu bhauma ijya–dhih

yat–tirtha–buddhih salile na karhicij

janesv abhijnesu sa eva go–kharah

"A human being who identifies this body made of three elements with his self, who considers the by-products of the body to be his kinsmen, who considers the land of birth as worshipable, and who goes to the place of pilgrimage simply to take a bath rather than meet men of transcendental knowledge there, is to be considered as an ass or a cow.

TEXT 41

tasmat tvam indriyany adau

niyamya bharatarsabha

papmanam prajahi hy enam

jnana-vijnana-nasanam

SYNONYMS

tasmat—therefore; tvam—you; indriyani—senses; adau—in the beginning; niyamya—by regulating; bharata-rsabha—O chief amongst the descendants of Bharata; papmanam—the great symbol of sin; prajahi—curb; hi—certainly; enam—this; jnana—knowledge; vijnana—scientific knowledge of the pure soul; nasanam—the destroyer.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, O Arjuna, best of the Bharatas, in the very beginning curb this great symbol of sin [lust] by regulating the senses, and slay this destroyer of knowledge and self-realization.

PURPORT

The Lord advised Arjuna to regulate the senses from the very beginning so that he could curb the greatest sinful enemy, lust, which destroys the urge for self-realization and specifically knowledge of the self. Jnana refers to knowledge of self as distinguished from non-self, or, in other words, knowledge that the spirit soul is not the body. Vijnana refers to specific knowledge of the spirit soul and knowledge of one's constitutional position and his relationship to the Supreme Soul. It is explained thus in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (2.9.31):

jnanam parama-guhyam me

yad vijnana-samanvitam

sa-rahasyam tad-angam ca

grhana gaditam maya

"The knowledge of the self and the Supreme Self is very confidential and mysterious, being veiled by maya, but such knowledge and specific realization can be understood if it is explained by the Lord Himself." Bhagavad-gita gives us that knowledge, specifically knowledge of the self. The living entities are parts and parcels of the Lord, and therefore they are simply meant to serve the Lord. This consciousness is called Krsna consciousness. So, from the very beginning of life one has to learn this Krsna consciousness, and thereby one may become fully Krsna conscious and act accordingly.

Lust is only the perverted reflection of love of God which is natural for every living entity. But if one is educated in Krsna consciousness from the very beginning, that natural love of God cannot deteriorate into lust. When love of God deteriorates into lust, it is very difficult to return to the normal condition. Nonetheless, Krsna consciousness is so powerful that even a late beginner can become a lover of God by following the regulative principles of devotional service. So, from any stage of life, or from the time of understanding its urgency, one can begin regulating the senses in Krsna consciousness, devotional service of the Lord, and turn the lust into love of Godhead—the highest perfectional stage of human life.

TEXT 42

indriyani parany ahur

indriyebhyah param manah

manasas tu para buddhir

yo buddheh paratas tu sah

SYNONYMS

indriyani—senses; parani—superior; ahuh—is said; indriyebhyah—more than the senses; param—superior; manah—the mind; manasah—more than the mind; tu—also; para—superior; buddhih—intelligence; yah—one who; buddheh—more than the intelligence; paratah—superior; tu—but; sah—he.

TRANSLATION

The working senses are superior to dull matter; mind is higher than the senses; intelligence is still higher than the mind; and he [the soul] is even higher than the intelligence.

PURPORT

The senses are different outlets for the activities of lust. Lust is reserved within the body, but it is given vent through the senses. Therefore, the senses are superior to the body as a whole. These outlets are not in use when there is superior consciousness, or Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In Kṛṣṇa consciousness the soul makes direct connection with the Supreme Personality of Godhead; therefore the bodily functions, as described here, ultimately end in the Supreme Soul. Bodily action means the functions of the senses, and stopping the senses means stopping all bodily actions. But since the mind is active, then, even though the body may be silent and at rest, the mind will act—as it does during dreaming. But, above the mind there is the determination of the intelligence, and above the intelligence is the soul proper. If, therefore, the soul is directly engaged with the Supreme, naturally all other subordinates, namely, the intelligence, mind and the senses, will be automatically engaged. In the Katha Upaniṣad there is a passage, in which it is said that the objects of sense gratification are superior to the senses, and mind is superior to the sense objects. If, therefore, the mind is directly engaged in the service of the Lord constantly, then there is no chance of the senses becoming engaged in other ways. This mental attitude has already been explained. If the mind is engaged in the transcendental service of the Lord, there is no chance of its being engaged in the lower propensities. In the Katha Upaniṣad the soul has been described as mahān, the great. Therefore the soul is above all—namely, the sense objects, the senses, the mind and the intelligence. Therefore, directly understanding the constitutional position of the soul is the solution of the whole problem.

With intelligence one has to seek out the constitutional position of the soul and then engage the mind always in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That solves the whole problem. A neophyte spiritualist is generally advised to keep aloof from the objects of the senses. One has to strengthen the mind by use of intelligence. If by intelligence one engages one's mind in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, by complete surrender unto the Supreme Personality of Godhead, then, automatically, the mind becomes stronger, and even though the senses are very strong, like serpents, they will be no more effective than serpents with broken fangs. But even though the soul is the master of intelligence and mind, and the senses also, still, unless it is strengthened by association with Kṛṣṇa in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, there is every chance of falling down due to the agitated mind.

TEXT 43

evam buddheḥ param buddhva

samstabhyatmanam atmana

jahi satrum mahā-baho

kama—rupam durasadam

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; buddheh—of intelligence; param—superior; buddhva—so knowing; samstabhya—by steadying; atmanam—of the mind; atmana—by deliberate intelligence; jahi—conquer; satrum—the enemy; maha-baho—O mighty-armed one; kama-rupam—the form of lust; durasadam—formidable.

TRANSLATION

Thus knowing oneself to be transcendental to material senses, mind and intelligence, one should control the lower self by the higher self and thus—by spiritual strength—conquer this insatiable enemy known as lust.

PURPORT

This Third Chapter of the Bhagavad-gita is conclusively directive to Kṛṣṇa consciousness by knowing oneself as the eternal servitor of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, without considering impersonal voidness as the ultimate end. In the material existence of life, one is certainly influenced by propensities for lust and desire for dominating the resources of material nature. Desire for overlordship and sense gratification are the greatest enemies of the conditioned soul; but by the strength of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one can control the material senses, the mind and the intelligence. One may not give up work and prescribed duties all of a sudden; but by gradually developing Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one can be situated in a transcendental position without being influenced by the material senses and the mind—by steady intelligence directed toward one's pure identity. This is the sum total of this chapter. In the immature stage of material existence, philosophical speculations and artificial attempts to control the senses by the so-called practice of yogic postures can never help a man toward spiritual life. He must be trained in Kṛṣṇa consciousness by higher intelligence.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the Third Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad-gita in the matter of Karma-yoga, or the Discharge of One's Prescribed Duty in Krsna Consciousness.

Chapter 4

Transcendental Knowledge

TEXT 1

sri-bhagavan uvaca

imam vivasvate yogam

proktavan aham avyayam

vivasvan manave praha

manur iksvakave 'bravit

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; imam—this; vivasvate—unto the sun-god; yogam—the science of one's relationship to the Supreme; proktavan—instructed; aham—I; avyayam—imperishable; vivasvan—Vivasvan (the sun-god's name); manave—unto the father of mankind (of the name Vaivasvata); praha—told; manuh—the father of mankind; iksvakave—unto King Ikshvaku; abravit—said.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: I instructed this imperishable science of yoga to the sun—god, Vivasvan, and Vivasvan instructed it to Manu, the father of mankind, and Manu in turn instructed it to Ikṣvaku.

PURPORT

Herein we find the history of the Bhagavad-gita traced from a remote time when it was delivered to the royal order, the Kings of all planets. This science is especially meant for the protection of the inhabitants, and therefore the royal order should understand it in order to be able to rule the citizens and protect them from the material bondage to lust. Human life is meant for cultivation of spiritual knowledge, in eternal relationship with the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and the executive heads of all states and all planets are obliged to impart this lesson to the citizens by education, culture and devotion. In other words, the executive heads of all states are intended to spread the science of Kṛṣṇa consciousness so that the people may take advantage of this great science and pursue a successful path, utilizing the opportunity of the human form of life.

In this millennium, the sun—god is known as Vivasvan, the king of the sun, which is the origin of all planets within the solar system. In the Brahma-saṁhita (5.52) it is stated:

yac-cakṣur esa savita sakala-grahanam

raja samasta-sura-murtir asesa-tejah

yasyajñaya bhramati sambhṛta-kala-cakro

govindam adi-purusam tam aham bhajami

"Let me worship," Lord Brahma said, "the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Govinda [Kṛṣṇa], who is the original person and under whose order the sun, which is the king of all planets, is assuming immense power and heat. The sun represents the eye of the Lord and traverses its orbit in obedience to His order."

The sun is the king of the planets, and the sun—god (at present of the name Vivasvan) rules the sun planet, which is controlling all other planets by supplying heat and light. He is rotating under the order of Krsna, and Lord Krsna originally made Vivasvan His first disciple to understand the science of Bhagavad-gita. The Gita is not, therefore, a speculative treatise for the insignificant mundane scholar but is a standard book of knowledge coming down from time immemorial.

In the Mahabharata (Santi-parva 348.51–52) we can trace out the history of the Gita as follows:

treta-yugadau ca tato

vivasvan manave dadau

manus ca loka-bhrty-artham

sutayeksvakave dadau

iksvakuna ca kathito

vyapya lokan avasthitah

"In the beginning of the Treta-yuga [millennium] this science of the relationship with the Supreme was delivered by Vivasvan to Manu. Manu, being the father of mankind, gave it to his son Maharaja Ikshvaku, the king of this earth planet and forefather of the Raghu dynasty in which Lord Ramacandra appeared." Therefore, Bhagavad-gita existed in the human society from the time of Maharaja Ikshvaku.

At the present moment we have just passed through five thousand years of the Kali-yuga, which lasts 432,000 years. Before this there was the Dvapara-yuga (800,000 years), and before that there was Treta-yuga (1,200,000 years). Thus, some 2,005,000 years ago, Manu spoke the Bhagavad-gita to his disciple and son Maharaja Ikshvaku, the king of this planet earth. The age of the current Manu is calculated to last some 305,300,000 years, of which 120,400,000 have passed. Accepting that before the birth of Manu the Gita was spoken by the Lord to His disciple the sun-god Vivasvan, a rough estimate is that the Gita was spoken at least 120,400,000 years ago; and in human society it has been extant for two million years. It was respoken by the Lord again to Arjuna about five thousand years ago. That is the rough estimate of the history of the Gita, according to the Gita itself and according to the version of the speaker, Lord Sri Krsna. It was spoken to the sun-god

Vivasvan because he is also a ksatriya and is the father of all ksatriyas who are descendants of the sun-god, or the surya-vamsa ksatriyas. Because Bhagavad-gita is as good as the Vedas, being spoken by the Supreme Personality of Godhead, this knowledge is apauruseya, superhuman. Since the Vedic instructions are accepted as they are, without human interpretation, the Gita must therefore be accepted without mundane interpretation. The mundane wranglers may speculate on the Gita in their own ways, but that is not Bhagavad-gita as it is. Therefore, Bhagavad-gita has to be accepted as it is, from the disciplic succession, and it is described herein that the Lord spoke to the sun-god, the sun-god spoke to his son Manu, and Manu spoke to his son Ikshvaku.

TEXT 2

evam parampara-praptam

imam rajarsayo viduh

sa kaleneha mahata

yogo nastah parantapa

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; parampara—disciplic succession; praptam—received; imam—this science; raja-rsayah—the saintly kings; viduh—understood; sah—that knowledge; kalena—in the course of time; iha—in this world; mahata—by great; yogah—the science of one's relationship with the Supreme; nastah—scattered; parantapa—O Arjuna, subduer of the enemies.

TRANSLATION

This supreme science was thus received through the chain of disciplic succession, and the saintly kings understood it in that way. But in course of time the succession was broken, and therefore the science as it is appears to be lost.

PURPORT

It is clearly stated that the Gita was especially meant for the saintly kings because they were to execute its purpose in ruling over the citizens. Certainly Bhagavad-gita was never meant for the demonic persons, who would dissipate its value for no one's benefit and would devise all types of interpretations according to personal whims. As soon as the original purpose was scattered by the motives of the unscrupulous commentators, there arose the need to reestablish the disciplic succession. Five thousand years ago it was detected by the Lord Himself that the disciplic succession was broken, and therefore He declared that the purpose of the Gita appeared to be lost. In the same way, at the present moment also there are so many editions of the Gita (especially in English), but almost all of them are not according to authorized disciplic succession. There are innumerable interpretations rendered by different mundane scholars, but almost all of them do not accept the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, although they make a good business on the words of Śrī Kṛṣṇa. This spirit is demonic, because demons do not believe in God but simply enjoy the property of the Supreme. Since there is a great need of an edition of the Gita in English, as it is received by the parampara (disciplic succession) system, an attempt is made herewith to fulfill this great want. Bhagavad-gita—accepted as it is—is a great boon to humanity; but if it is accepted as a treatise of philosophical speculations, it is simply a waste of time.

TEXT 3

sa evayam maya te 'dya

yogah proktah puratanah

bhakto 'si me sakha ceti

rahasyam hy etad uttamam

SYNONYMS

sah—the same ancient; eva—certainly; ayam—this; maya—by Me; te—unto you; adya—today; yogah—the science of yoga; proktah—spoken; puratanah—very old; bhaktah—devotee; asi—you are; me—My; sakha—friend; ca—also; iti—therefore; rahasyam—mystery; hi—certainly; etat—this; uttamam—transcendental.

TRANSLATION

That very ancient science of the relationship with the Supreme is today told by Me to you because you are My devotee as well as My friend; therefore you can understand the transcendental mystery of this science.

PURPORT

There are two classes of men, namely the devotee and the demon. The Lord selected Arjuna as the recipient of this great science owing to his being a devotee of the Lord, but for the demon it is not possible to understand this great mysterious science. There are a number of editions of this great book of knowledge, and some of them have commentaries by the devotees and some of them have commentaries by the demons. Commentation by the devotees is real, whereas that of the demon is useless. Arjuna accepts Sri Kṛṣṇa as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and any commentary on the Gita following in the footsteps of Arjuna is real devotional service to the cause of this great science. The demonic, however, concoct something about Kṛṣṇa and mislead the public and the general readers from the path of Kṛṣṇa's instructions. One should try to follow the disciplic succession from Arjuna, and thus be benefited.

TEXT 4

arjuna uvaca

aparam bhavato janma

param janma vivasvatah

katham etad vijaniyam

tvam adau proktavan iti

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; aparam—junior; bhavatah—Your; janma—birth; param—superior; janma—birth; vivasvatah—of the sun-god; katham—how; etad—this; vijaniyam—shall I understand; tvam—You; adau—in the beginning; proktavan—instructed; iti—thus.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: The sun-god Vivasvan is senior by birth to You. How am I to understand that in the beginning You instructed this science to him?

PURPORT

Arjuna is an accepted devotee of the Lord, so how could he not believe Krsna's words? The fact is that Arjuna is not inquiring for himself but for those who do not believe in the Supreme Personality of Godhead or for the demons who do not like the idea that Krsna should be accepted as the Supreme Personality of Godhead; for them only Arjuna inquires on this point, as if he were himself not aware of the Personality of Godhead, or Krsna. As it will be evident from the Tenth Chapter, Arjuna knew perfectly well that Krsna is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the fountainhead of everything and the last word in transcendence. Of course, Krsna also appeared as the son of Devaki on this earth. How Krsna remained the same Supreme Personality of Godhead, the eternal original person, is very difficult for an ordinary man to understand. Therefore, to clarify this point, Arjuna put this question before Krsna so that He Himself could speak authoritatively. That Krsna is the supreme authority is accepted by the whole world, not only at present, but from time immemorial, and the demons alone reject Him. Anyway, since Krsna is the authority accepted by all, Arjuna put this question before Him in order that Krsna would describe Himself without being depicted by the demons who always try to distort Him in a way understandable to the demons and their followers. It is necessary that everyone, for his own interest, know the science of Krsna. Therefore, when Krsna Himself speaks about Himself, it is auspicious for all the worlds. To the demons, such explanations by Krsna Himself may appear to be strange because the demons always study Krsna from their own standpoint, but those who are devotees heartily welcome the statements of Krsna when they are spoken by Krsna Himself. The devotees will always worship such authoritative statements of Krsna because they are always eager to know more and more about Him. The atheists, who consider Krsna an ordinary man, may in this way come to know that Krsna is superhuman, that He is sac-cid-ananda-vigraha—the eternal form of bliss and knowledge—that He is transcendental, and that He is above the domination of the modes of material nature and above the influence of time and space. A devotee of Krsna, like Arjuna, is undoubtedly above any misunderstanding of the transcendental position of Krsna. Arjuna's putting this question before the Lord is simply an attempt by the devotee to defy the atheistic attitude of persons who consider Krsna to be an ordinary human being, subject to the modes of material nature.

TEXT 5

sri-bhagavan uvaca

bahuni me vyatitani

janmani tava carjuna

tany aham veda sarvani

na tvam vettha parantapa

SYNONYMS

sri—bhagavan uvaca—the Personality of Godhead said; bahuni—many; me—of Mine; vyatitani—have passed; janmani—births; tava—of yours; ca—and also; arjuna—O Arjuna; tani—all those; aham—I; veda—do know; sarvani—all; na—not; tvam—yourself; vettha—know; parantapa—O subduer of the enemy.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: Many, many births both you and I have passed. I can remember all of them, but you cannot, O subduer of the enemy!

PURPORT

In the Brahma-samhita (5.33) we have information of many, many incarnations of the Lord. It is stated there:

advaitam acyutam anadim ananta-rupam
adyam purana-purusam nava-yauvanam ca vedesu durlabham adurlabham atma-bhaktau
govindam adi-purusam tam aham bhajami

"I worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Govinda [Krsna], who is the original person—absolute, infallible, without beginning. Although expanded into unlimited forms, still the same original, the oldest, and the person always appearing as a fresh youth. Such eternal, blissful, all-knowing forms of the Lord are usually understood by the best Vedic scholars, but they are always manifest to pure, unalloyed devotees."

It is also stated in Brahma-samhita (5.39):

ramadi-murtisu kala-niyamena tisthan

nanavataram akarod bhuvanesu kintu

krsnah svayam samabhavat paramah puman yo

govindam adi-purusam tam aham bhajami

"I worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Govinda [Krsna], who is always situated in various incarnations such as Rama, Nrsimha and many subincarnations as well, but who is the original Personality of Godhead known as Krsna, and who incarnates personally also."

In the Vedas also it is said that the Lord, although one without a second, manifests Himself in innumerable forms. He is like the vaidurya stone, which changes color yet still remains one. All those multiforms are understood by the pure, unalloyed devotees, but not by a simple study of the Vedas (vedesu durlabham adurlabham atma-bhaktau). Devotees like Arjuna are constant companions of the Lord, and whenever the Lord incarnates, the associate devotees also incarnate in order to serve the Lord in different capacities. Arjuna is one of these devotees, and in this verse it is understood that some millions of years ago when Lord Krsna spoke the Bhagavad-gita to the sun-god Vivasvan, Arjuna, in a different capacity, was also present. But the difference between the Lord and Arjuna is that the Lord remembered the incident whereas Arjuna could not remember. That is the difference between the part-and-parcel living entity and the Supreme Lord. Although Arjuna is addressed herein as the mighty hero who could subdue the enemies, he is unable to recall what had happened in his various past births. Therefore, a living entity, however great he may be in the material estimation, can never equal the Supreme Lord. Anyone who is a constant companion of the Lord is certainly a liberated person, but he cannot be equal to the Lord. The Lord is described in the Brahma-samhita as infallible (acyuta), which means that He never forgets Himself, even though He is in material contact. Therefore, the Lord and the living entity can never be equal in all respects, even if the living entity is as liberated as Arjuna. Although Arjuna is a devotee of the Lord, he sometimes forgets the nature of the Lord, but by the divine grace a devotee can at once understand the infallible condition of the Lord, whereas a nondevotee or a demon cannot understand this transcendental nature. Consequently these descriptions in the Gita cannot be understood by demonic brains. Krsna remembered acts which were performed by Him millions of years before, but Arjuna could not, despite the fact that both Krsna and Arjuna are eternal in nature. We may also note herein that a living entity forgets everything due to his change of body, but the Lord remembers because He does not change His sac-cid-ananda body. He is advaita, which means there is no distinction between His body and Himself. Everything in relation to Him is spirit—whereas the conditioned soul is different from his material body. And, because the Lord's body and self are identical, His position is always different from the ordinary living entity, even when He descends to the material platform. The demons cannot adjust themselves to this transcendental nature of the Lord, which the Lord Himself explains in the following verse.

TEXT 6

ajo 'pi sann avyayatma

bhutanam isvaro 'pi san

prakrtim svam adhisthaya

sambhavamy atma-mayaya

SYNONYMS

ajah—unborn; api—although; san—being so; avyaya—without deterioration; atma—body; bhutanam—all those who are born; isvarah—the Supreme Lord; api—although; san—being so; prakrtim—transcendental form; svam—of Myself; adhisthaya—being so situated; sambhavami—I do incarnate; atma-mayaya—by My internal energy.

TRANSLATION

Although I am unborn and My transcendental body never deteriorates, and although I am the Lord of all sentient beings, I still appear in every millennium in My original transcendental form.

PURPORT

The Lord has spoken about the peculiarity of His birth: although He may appear like an ordinary person, He remembers everything of His many, many past "births," whereas a common man cannot remember what he has done even a few hours before. If someone is asked what he did exactly at the same time one day earlier, it would be very difficult for a common man to answer immediately. He would surely have to dredge his memory to recall what he was doing exactly at the same time one day before. And yet, men often dare claim to be God, or Kṛṣṇa. One should not be misled by such meaningless claims. Then again, the Lord explains His prakṛti, or His form. Prakṛti means nature, as well as svarūpa, or one's own form. The Lord says that He appears in His own body. He does not change His body, as the common living entity changes from one body to another. The conditioned soul may have one kind of body in the present birth, but he has a different body in the next birth. In the material world, the living entity has no fixed body but transmigrates from one body to another. The Lord, however, does not do so. Whenever He appears, He does so in the same original body, by His internal potency. In other words, Kṛṣṇa appears in this material world in His original eternal form, with two hands, holding a flute. He appears exactly in His eternal body, uncontaminated by this material world. Although He appears in the same transcendental body and is Lord of the universe, it still appears that He takes His birth like an ordinary living entity. Despite the fact Lord Kṛṣṇa grows from childhood to boyhood and from boyhood to youth, astonishingly enough He never ages beyond youth. At the time of the Battle of Kurukṣetra, He had many grandchildren at home; or, in other words, He had sufficiently aged by material calculations. Still He looked just like a young man twenty or twenty-five years old. We never see a picture of Kṛṣṇa in old age because He never grows old like us, although He is the oldest person in the whole creation—past, present, and future. Neither His body nor His intelligence ever deteriorates or changes. Therefore, it is clear that in spite of His being in the material world, He is the same unborn, eternal form of bliss and knowledge, changeless in His transcendental body and intelligence. Factually, His appearance and disappearance is like the sun's rising, moving before us, and then disappearing from our eyesight. When the sun is out of sight, we think that the sun is set, and when the sun is before our eyes, we think that the sun is on the horizon. Actually, the sun is always in its fixed position, but owing to our defective, insufficient senses, we calculate the appearance and disappearance of the sun in the sky. And, because His appearance and disappearance are completely different from that of any ordinary, common living entity, it is evident that He is eternal, blissful knowledge by His internal potency—and He is never contaminated by material nature. The Vedas also confirm that the Supreme Personality of Godhead is unborn, yet He still appears to take His birth in multi-manifestations. The Vedic supplementary literatures also confirm that even though the Lord appears to be taking His birth, He is still without change of body. In the Bhagavatam, He appears before His mother as Narayana, with four hands and the decorations of the six kinds of full opulences. His appearance in His original eternal form is His causeless mercy, according to the Visva-kosa dictionary. The Lord is conscious of all of His previous appearances and disappearances, but a common living entity forgets everything about his past body as soon as he gets another body. He is the Lord of all living entities because He performs wonderful and superhuman activities while He is on this earth. Therefore, the Lord is always the same Absolute Truth and is without differentiation between His form and self, or between His quality and body. A question may now be raised as to why the Lord appears and disappears in this world. This is explained in the next verse.

TEXT 7

yada yada hi dharmasya

glanir bhavati bharata

abhyutthanam adharmasya

tadatmanam srjamy aham

SYNONYMS

yada—whenever; yada—wherever; hi—certainly; dharmasya—of religion; glanir—discrepancies; bhavati—manifested, becomes; bharata—O descendant of Bharata; abhyutthanam—predominance; adharmasya—of irreligion; tada—at that time; atmanam—self; srjami—manifest; aham—I.

TRANSLATION

Whenever and wherever there is a decline in religious practice, O descendant of Bharata, and a predominant rise of irreligion—at that time I descend Myself.

PURPORT

The word srjami is significant herein. Srjami cannot be used in the sense of creation, because, according to the previous verse, there is no creation of the Lord's form or body, since all of the forms are eternally existent. Therefore, srjami means that the Lord manifests Himself as He is. Although the Lord appears on schedule, namely at the end of the Dvapara-yuga of the twenty-eighth millennium of the seventh Manu in one day of Brahma, still He has no obligation to adhere to such rules and regulations, because He is completely free to act in many ways at His will. He therefore appears by His own will whenever there is a predominance of irreligiosity and a disappearance of true religion. Principles of religion are laid down in the Vedas, and any discrepancy in the matter of properly executing the rules of the Vedas makes one irreligious. In the Bhagavatam it is stated that such principles are the laws of the Lord. Only the Lord can manufacture a system of religion. The Vedas are also accepted as originally spoken by the Lord Himself to Brahma, from within his heart. Therefore, the principles of dharma, or religion, are the direct orders of the Supreme Personality of Godhead (dharmam tu saksad bhagavat-pranitam). These principles are clearly indicated throughout the Bhagavad-gita. The purpose of the Vedas is to establish such principles under the order of the Supreme Lord, and the Lord directly orders, at the end of the Gita, that the highest principle of religion is to surrender unto Him only, and nothing more. The Vedic principles push one towards complete surrender unto Him; and, whenever such principles are disturbed by the demoniac, the Lord appears. From the Bhagavatam we understand that Lord Buddha is the incarnation of Kṛṣṇa who appeared when materialism was rampant and materialists were using the pretext of the authority of the Vedas. Although there are certain restrictive rules and regulations regarding animal sacrifice for particular purposes in the Vedas, people of demonic tendency still took to animal sacrifice without reference to the Vedic principles. Lord Buddha appeared to stop this nonsense and to establish the Vedic principles of nonviolence. Therefore each and every avatara, or incarnation of the Lord, has a particular mission, and they are all described in the revealed scriptures. No one should be accepted as an avatara unless he is referred to by scriptures. It is not a fact that the Lord appears only on Indian soil. He can advent Himself anywhere and everywhere, and whenever He desires to appear. In each and every incarnation, He speaks as much about religion as can be understood by the particular people under their particular circumstances. But the mission is the same—to lead people to God consciousness and obedience to the principles of religion. Sometimes He descends personally, and sometimes He sends His bona fide representative in the form of His son, or servant, or Himself in some disguised form.

The principles of Bhagavad-gita were spoken to Arjuna, and, for that matter, to other highly elevated persons, because he was highly advanced compared to ordinary persons in other parts of the world. Two plus two equals four is a mathematical principle that is true both in the beginner's arithmetic class and in the advanced class as well. Still, there are higher and lower mathematics. In all incarnations of the Lord, therefore, the same principles are taught, but they appear to be higher and lower in varied circumstances. The higher principles of religion begin with the acceptance of the four orders and the four statuses of social life, as will be explained later. The whole purpose of the mission of incarnations is to arouse Kṛṣṇa consciousness everywhere. Such consciousness is manifest and nonmanifest only under different circumstances.

TEXT 8

paritrāṇaya sādhuṇam

vināśaya ca dūṣṛtaṁ

dharma-samsthāpanārthaya

sambhavamī yuge yuge

SYNONYMS

paritrāṇaya—for the deliverance; sādhuṇam—of the devotees; vināśaya—for the annihilation; ca—also; dūṣṛtaṁ—of the miscreants; dharma—principles of religion; samsthāpana—arthaya—to reestablish; sambhavamī—I do appear; yuge—millennium; yuge—after millennium.

TRANSLATION

In order to deliver the pious and to annihilate the miscreants, as well as to reestablish the principles of religion, I advent Myself, millennium after millennium.

PURPORT

According to Bhagavad-gita, a sadhu (holy man) is a man in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. A person may appear to be irreligious, but if he has the qualifications of Kṛṣṇa consciousness wholly and fully, he is to be understood to be a sadhu. And duskṛtam applies to one who doesn't care for Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Such miscreants, or duskṛtam, are described as foolish and the lowest of mankind, even though they may be decorated with mundane education; whereas another person, who is one hundred percent engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is accepted as a sadhu, even though such a person may be neither learned nor well cultured. As far as the atheistic are concerned, it is not necessary for the Supreme Lord to appear as He is to destroy them, as He did with the demons Ravana and Kamsa. The Lord has many agents who are quite competent to vanquish demons. But the Lord especially descends to appease His unalloyed devotees, who are always harassed by the demoniac. The demon harasses the devotee, even though the latter may happen to be his kin. Although Prahlada Maharaja was the son of Hiranyakasipu, he was nonetheless persecuted by his father; although Devaki, the mother of Kṛṣṇa, was the sister of Kamsa, she and her husband Vasudeva were persecuted only because Kṛṣṇa was to be born of them. So Lord Kṛṣṇa appeared primarily to deliver Devaki, rather than kill Kamsa, but both were performed simultaneously. Therefore it is said here that to deliver the devotee and vanquish the demon miscreants, the Lord appears in different incarnations.

In the Caitanya-caritamṛta of Kṛṣṇadāsa Kavirāja, the following verses (Madhya 20.263–264) summarize these principles of incarnation:

srsti—hetu yei murti prapance avatare

sei isvara—murti 'avatara' nama dhare

mayatita paravyome sabara avasthana

visve avatari' dhare 'avatara' nama

"The avatara, or incarnation of Godhead, descends from the kingdom of God for material manifestation. And the particular form of the Personality of Godhead who so descends is called an incarnation, or avatara. Such incarnations are situated in the spiritual world, the kingdom of God. When they descend to the material creation, they assume the name avatara."

There are various kinds of avatars, such as purusavatars, gunavatars, lilavatars, sakti-avesa avatars, manvantara-avatars and yugavatars—all appearing on schedule all over the universe. But Lord Kṛṣṇa is the primeval Lord, the fountainhead of all avatars. Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa descends for the specific purpose of mitigating the anxieties of the pure devotees, who are very anxious to see Him in His original Vṛndavana pastimes. Therefore, the prime purpose of the Kṛṣṇa avatara is to satisfy His unalloyed devotees.

The Lord says that He incarnates Himself in every millennium. This indicates that He incarnates also in the Age of Kali. As stated in the Srimad-Bhagavatam, the incarnation in the Age of Kali is Lord Caitanya Mahāprabhu, who spread the worship of Kṛṣṇa by the sankīrtana movement (congregational chanting of the holy names) and spread Kṛṣṇa consciousness throughout India. He predicted that this culture of sankīrtana would be broadcast all over the world, from town to town and village to village. Lord Caitanya as the incarnation of Kṛṣṇa, the Personality of Godhead, is described secretly but not directly in the confidential parts of the revealed scriptures, such as the Upanisads, Mahābhārata, Bhagavatam, etc. The devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa are much attracted by the sankīrtana movement of Lord Caitanya. This avatara of the Lord does not kill the miscreants, but delivers them by His causeless mercy.

TEXT 9

janma karma ca me divyam

evam yo vetti tattvatah

tyaktva deham punar janma

naiti mam eti so 'rjuna

SYNONYMS

janma—birth; karma—work; ca—also; me—of Mine; divyam—transcendental; evam—like this; yah—anyone who; vetti—knows; tattvatah—in reality; tyaktva—leaving aside; deham—this body; punah—again; janma—birth; na—never; eti—does attain; mam—unto Me; eti—does attain; sah—he; arjuna—O Arjuna.

TRANSLATION

One who knows the transcendental nature of My appearance and activities does not, upon leaving the body, take his birth again in this material world, but attains My eternal abode, O Arjuna.

PURPORT

The Lord's descent from His transcendental abode is already explained in the 6th verse. One who can understand the truth of the appearance of the Personality of Godhead is already liberated from material bondage, and therefore he returns to the kingdom of God immediately after quitting this present material body. Such liberation of the living entity from material bondage is not at all easy. The impersonalists and the yogis attain liberation only after much trouble and many, many births. Even then, the liberation they achieve—merging into the impersonal brahmajyoti of the Lord—is only partial, and there is the risk of returning again to this material world. But the devotee, simply by understanding the transcendental nature of the body and activities of the Lord, attains the abode of the Lord after ending this body and does not run the risk of returning again to this material world. In the Brahma-samhita (5.33) it is stated that the Lord has many, many forms and incarnations: advaitam acyutam anadim ananta-rupam. Although there are many transcendental forms of the Lord, they are still one and the same Supreme Personality of Godhead. One has to understand this fact with conviction, although it is incomprehensible to mundane scholars and empiric philosophers. As stated in the Vedas (Purusa-bodhini Upanisad):

eko devo nitya–lilanurakto

bhakta–vyapi hr̥dy antar–atma

"The one Supreme Personality of Godhead is eternally engaged in many, many transcendental forms in relationships with His unalloyed devotees." This Vedic version is confirmed in this verse of the Gita personally by the Lord. He who accepts this truth on the strength of the authority of the Vedas and of the Supreme Personality of Godhead and who does not waste time in philosophical speculations attains the highest perfectional stage of liberation. Simply by accepting this truth on faith, one can, without a doubt, attain liberation. The Vedic version, tat tvam asi, is actually applied in this case. Anyone who understands Lord Kṛṣṇa to be the Supreme, or who says unto the Lord "You are the same Supreme Brahman, the Personality of Godhead," is certainly liberated instantly, and consequently his entrance into the transcendental association of the Lord is guaranteed. In other words, such a faithful devotee of the Lord attains perfection, and this is confirmed by the following Vedic assertion:(Svetasvatara Upanisad 3.8)

tam eva viditvati mṛtyum eti

nanyah pantha vidyate 'yanaya

One can attain the perfect stage of liberation from birth and death simply by knowing the Lord, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. There is no alternative because anyone who does not understand Lord Kṛṣṇa as the Supreme Personality of Godhead is surely in the mode of ignorance. Consequently he will not attain salvation simply, so to speak, by licking the outer surface of the bottle of honey, or by interpreting the Bhagavad–gita according to mundane scholarship. Such empiric philosophers may assume very important roles in the material world, but they are not necessarily eligible for liberation. Such puffed–up mundane scholars have to wait for the causeless mercy of the devotee of the Lord. One should therefore cultivate Kṛṣṇa consciousness with faith and knowledge, and in this way attain perfection.

TEXT 10

vita—raga—bhaya—krodha

man—maya mam upasritah

bahavo jnana—tapasa

puta mad—bhavam agatah

SYNONYMS

vita—freed from; raga—attachment; bhaya—fear; krodhah—anger; mat—maya—fully in Me; mam—unto Me; upasritah—being fully situated; bahavah—many; jnana—knowledge; tapasa—by penance; putah—being purified; mat—bhavam—transcendental love for Me; agatah—attained.

TRANSLATION

Being freed from attachment, fear and anger, being fully absorbed in Me and taking refuge in Me, many, many persons in the past became purified by knowledge of Me—and thus they all attained transcendental love for Me.

PURPORT

As described above, it is very difficult for a person who is too materially affected to understand the personal nature of the Supreme Absolute Truth. Generally, people who are attached to the bodily conception of life are so absorbed in materialism that it is almost impossible for them to understand that there is a transcendental body which is imperishable, full of knowledge and eternally blissful. In the materialistic concept, the body is perishable, full of ignorance and completely miserable. Therefore, people in general keep this same bodily idea in mind when they are informed of the personal form of the Lord. For such materialistic men, the form of the gigantic material manifestation is supreme. Consequently they consider the Supreme to be impersonal. And because they are too materially absorbed, the conception of retaining the personality after liberation from matter frightens them. When they are informed that spiritual life is also individual and personal, they become afraid of becoming persons again, and so they naturally prefer a kind of merging into the impersonal void. Generally, they compare the living entities to the bubbles of the ocean, which merge into the ocean. That is the highest perfection of spiritual existence attainable without individual personality. This is a kind of fearful stage of life, devoid of perfect knowledge of spiritual existence. Furthermore there are many persons who cannot understand spiritual existence at all. Being embarrassed by so many theories and by contradictions of various types of philosophical speculation, they become disgusted or angry and foolishly conclude that there is no supreme cause and that everything is ultimately void. Such people are in a diseased condition of life. Some people are too materially attached and therefore do not give attention to spiritual life, some of them want to merge into the supreme spiritual cause, and some of them disbelieve in everything, being angry at all sorts of spiritual speculation out of hopelessness. This last class of men take to the shelter of some kind of intoxication, and their affective hallucinations are sometimes accepted as spiritual vision. One has to get rid of all three stages of attachment to the material world, negligence of spiritual life, fear of a spiritual personal identity, and the conception of void that underlies the frustration of life. To get free from these three stages of the material concept of life, one has to take complete shelter of the Lord, guided by the bona fide spiritual master, and follow the disciplines and regulative principles of devotional life. The last stage of the devotional life is called bhava, or transcendental love of Godhead.

According to Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu (1.4.15–16), the science of devotional service:

adau sraddha tatah sadhu—

sango 'tha bhajana—kriya

tato 'narta—nivrttih syat

tato nistha rucis tatah

athasaktis tato bhavas

tatah premabhyudancati

sadhakanam ayam premnah

pradurbhave bhavet kramah

"In the beginning one must have a preliminary desire for self-realization. This will bring one to the stage of trying to associate with persons who are spiritually elevated. In the next stage one becomes initiated by an elevated spiritual master, and under his instruction the neophyte devotee begins the process of devotional service. By execution of devotional service under the guidance of the spiritual master, one becomes free from all material attachment, attains steadiness in self-realization, and acquires a taste for hearing about the Absolute Personality of Godhead, Sri Kṛṣṇa. This taste leads one further forward to attachment for Kṛṣṇa consciousness, which is matured in bhava, or the preliminary stage of transcendental love of God. Real love for God is called prema, the highest perfectional stage of life." In the prema stage there is constant engagement in the transcendental loving service of the Lord. So, by the slow process of devotional service, under the guidance of the bona fide spiritual master, one can attain the highest stage, being freed from all material attachment, from the fearfulness of one's individual spiritual personality, and from the frustrations resulting from void philosophy. Then one can ultimately attain to the abode of the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 11

ye yatha mam prapadyante

tams tathaiva bhajamy aham

mama vartmanuvartante

manusyah partha sarvasah

SYNONYMS

ye—all of them; yatha—as; mam—unto Me; prapadyante—surrender; tan—unto them; tatha—so; eva—certainly; bhajami—do I reward; aham—I; mama—My; vartma—path; anuvartante—do follow; manusyah—all men; partha—O son of Prtha; sarvasah—in all respects.

TRANSLATION

All of them—as they surrender unto Me—I reward accordingly. Everyone follows My path in all respects, O son of Prtha.

PURPORT

Everyone is searching for Kṛṣṇa in the different aspects of His manifestations. Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is partially realized in His impersonal brahmajyoti effulgence and as the all-pervading Supersoul dwelling within everything, including the particles of atoms. But Kṛṣṇa is only fully realized by His pure devotees. Consequently, Kṛṣṇa is the object of everyone's realization, and thus anyone and everyone is satisfied according to one's desire to have Him. In the transcendental world also, Kṛṣṇa reciprocates with His pure devotees in the transcendental attitude, just as the devotee wants Him. One devotee may want Kṛṣṇa as supreme master, another as his personal friend, another as his son, and still another as his lover. Kṛṣṇa rewards all the devotees equally, according to their different intensities of love for Him. In the material world, the same reciprocations of feelings are there, and they are equally exchanged by the Lord with the different types of worshipers. The pure devotees both here and in the transcendental abode associate with Him in person and are able to render personal service to the Lord and thus derive transcendental bliss in His loving service. As for those who are impersonalists and who want to commit spiritual suicide by annihilating the individual existence of the living entity, Kṛṣṇa helps also by absorbing them into His effulgence. Such impersonalists do not agree to accept the eternal, blissful Personality of Godhead; consequently they cannot relish the bliss of transcendental personal service to the Lord, having extinguished their individuality. Some of them, who are not situated even in the impersonal existence, return to this material field to exhibit their dormant desires for activities. They are not admitted into the spiritual planets, but they are again given a chance to act on the material planets. For those who are fruitive workers, the Lord awards the desired results of their prescribed duties, as the yajñesvara; and those who are yogis seeking mystic powers are awarded such powers. In other words, everyone is dependent for success upon His mercy alone, and all kinds of spiritual processes are but different degrees of success on the same path. Unless, therefore, one comes to the highest perfection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, all attempts remain imperfect, as is stated in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (2.3.10):

akamah sarva-kamo va

moksa-kama udara-dhih

tivrena bhakti-yogena

yajeta puruṣam param

"Whether one is without desire [the condition of the devotees], or is desirous of all fruitive results, or is after liberation, one should with all efforts try to worship the Supreme Personality of Godhead for complete perfection, culminating in Kṛṣṇa consciousness."

TEXT 12

kanksantah karmanam siddhim

yajanta iha devatah

ksipram hi manuse loke

siddhir bhavati karma-ja

SYNONYMS

kanksantah—desiring; karmanam—of fruitive activities; siddhim—perfection; yajante—worship by sacrifices; iha—in the material world; devatah—the demigods; ksipram—very quickly; hi—certainly; manuse—in human society; loke—within this world; siddhih bhavati—becomes successful; karma-ja—the fruitive worker.

TRANSLATION

Men in this world desire success in fruitive activities, and therefore they worship the demigods. Quickly, of course, men get results from fruitive work in this world.

PURPORT

There is a great misconception about the gods or demigods of this material world, and men of less intelligence, although passing as great scholars, take these demigods to be various forms of the Supreme Lord. Actually, the demigods are not different forms of God, but they are God's different parts and parcels. God is one, and the parts and parcels are many. The Vedas say, nityo nityanam: God is one. Isvarah paramah krsnah. The Supreme God is one—Krsna—and the demigods are delegated with powers to manage this material world. These demigods are all living entities (nityanam) with different grades of material power. They cannot be equal to the Supreme God—Narayana, Visnu, or Krsna. Anyone who thinks that God and the demigods are on the same level is called an atheist, or pasandi. Even the great demigods like Brahma and Siva cannot be compared to the Supreme Lord. In fact, the Lord is worshiped by demigods such as Brahma and Siva (siva-virinci-nutam). Yet curiously enough there are many human leaders who are worshiped by foolish men under the misunderstanding of anthropomorphism or zoomorphism. Iha devatah denotes a powerful man or demigod of this material world. But Narayana, Visnu, or Krsna, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, does not belong to this world. He is above, or transcendental to, material creation. Even Sripada Sankaracarya, the leader of the impersonalists, maintains that Narayana, or Krsna, is beyond this material creation. However, foolish people (hrta-jnana) worship the demigods because they want immediate results. They get the results, but do not know that results so obtained are temporary and are meant for less intelligent persons. The intelligent person is in Krsna consciousness, and he has no need to worship the paltry demigods for some immediate, temporary benefit. The demigods of this material world, as well as their worshipers, will vanish with the annihilation of this material world. The boons of the demigods are material and temporary. Both the material worlds and their inhabitants, including the demigods, and their worshipers, are bubbles in the cosmic ocean. In this world, however, human society is mad after temporary things such as the material opulence of possessing land, family and enjoyable paraphernalia. To achieve such temporary things, they worship the demigods or powerful men in human society. If a man gets some ministership in the government by worshiping a political leader, he considers that he has achieved a great boon. All of them are therefore kowtowing to the so-called leaders or "big guns" in order to achieve temporary boons, and they indeed achieve such things. Such foolish men are not interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness for the permanent solution to the hardships of material existence. They are all after sense enjoyment, and to get a little facility for sense enjoyment they are attracted to worship empowered living entities known as demigods. This verse indicates that people are rarely interested in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. They are mostly interested in material enjoyment, and therefore they worship some powerful living entity.

TEXT 13

catur-varṇyam maya sṛṣṭam

guṇa-karma-vibhagaśaḥ

tasya kartāram api māṁ

viddhy akartāram avyayam

SYNONYMS

catur-varṇyam—the four divisions of human society; maya—by Me; sṛṣṭam—created; guṇa—quality; karma—work; vibhagaśaḥ—in terms of division; tasya—of that; kartāram—the father; api—although; māṁ—Me; viddhi—you may know; akartāram—as the non-doer; avyayam—being unchangeable.

TRANSLATION

According to the three modes of material nature and the work ascribed to them, the four divisions of human society were created by Me. And, although I am the creator of this system, you should know that I am yet the non-doer, being unchangeable.

PURPORT

The Lord is the creator of everything. Everything is born of Him, everything is sustained by Him, and everything, after annihilation, rests in Him. He is therefore the creator of the four divisions of the social order, beginning with the intelligent class of men, technically called brahmanas due to their being situated in the mode of goodness. Next is the administrative class, technically called the ksatriyas due to their being situated in the mode of passion. The mercantile men, called the vaisyas, are situated in the mixed modes of passion and ignorance, and the sudras, or laborer class, are situated in the ignorant mode of material nature. In spite of His creating the four divisions of human society, Lord Krsna does not belong to any of these divisions, because He is not one of the conditioned souls, a section of whom form human society. Human society is similar to any other animal society, but to elevate men from the animal status, the above-mentioned divisions are created by the Lord for the systematic development of Krsna consciousness. The tendency of a particular man toward work is determined by the modes of material nature which he has acquired. Such symptoms of life, according to different modes of material nature, are described in the Eighteenth Chapter of this book. A person in Krsna consciousness, however, is above even the brahmanas, because a brahmana by quality is supposed to know about Brahman, the Supreme Absolute Truth. Most of them approach the impersonal Brahman manifestation of Lord Krsna, but only a man who transcends the limited knowledge of a brahmana and reaches the knowledge of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Sri Krsna, becomes a person in Krsna consciousness—or, in other words, a Vaisnava. Krsna consciousness includes knowledge of all different plenary expansions of Krsna, namely Rama, Nrsimha, Varaha, etc. However, as Krsna is transcendental to this system of the four divisions of human society, a person in Krsna consciousness is also transcendental to all divisions of human society, whether we consider the divisions of community, nation or species.

TEXT 14

na mam karmani limpanti

na me karma-phale sprha

iti mam yo 'bhijanati

karmabhir na sa badhyate

SYNONYMS

na—never; mam—unto Me; karmani—all kinds of work; limpanti—do affect; na—nor; me—My; karma-phale—in fruitive action; sprha—aspiration; iti—thus; mam—unto Me; yah—one who; abhijanati—does know; karmabhih—by the reaction of such work; na—never does; sah—he; badhyate—becomes entangled.

TRANSLATION

There is no work that affects Me; nor do I aspire for the fruits of action. One who understands this truth about Me also does not become entangled in the fruitive reactions of work.

PURPORT

As there are constitutional laws in the material world stating that the king can do no wrong, or that the king is not subject to the state laws, similarly the Lord, although He is the creator of this material world, is not affected by the activities of the material world. He creates and remains aloof from the creation, whereas the living entities are entangled in the fruitive results of material activities because of their propensity for lording it over material resources. The proprietor of an establishment is not responsible for the right and wrong activities of the workers, but the workers are themselves responsible. The living entities are engaged in their respective activities of sense gratification, and these activities are not ordained by the Lord. For advancement of sense gratification, the living entities are engaged in the work of this world, and they aspire to heavenly happiness after death. The Lord, being full in Himself, has no attraction for so-called heavenly happiness. The heavenly demigods are only His engaged servants. The proprietor never desires the low-grade happiness such as the workers may desire. He is aloof from the material actions and reactions. For example, the rains are not responsible for different types of vegetation that appear on the earth, although without such rains there is no possibility of vegetative growth. Vedic smṛti confirms this fact as follows:

nimitta–matram evasau

srjyanam sarga–karmani

pradhana–karani–bhuta

yato vai srjya–saktayah

"In the material creations, the Lord is only the supreme cause. The immediate cause is material nature by which the cosmic manifestation is visible." The created beings are of many varieties, such as the demigods, human beings and lower animals, and all of them are subject to the reactions of their past good or bad activities. The Lord only gives them the proper facilities for such activities and the regulations of the modes of nature, but He is never responsible for their past and present activities. In the Vedānta–sūtra (2.1.34) it is confirmed, vaiśamya–nairghrnye na sapekṣatvat: the Lord is never partial to any living entity. The living entity is responsible for his own acts. The Lord only gives him facilities, through the agency of material nature, the external energy. Anyone who is fully conversant with all the intricacies of this law of karma, or fruitive activities, does not become affected by the results of his activities. In other words, the person who understands this transcendental nature of the Lord is an experienced man in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and thus he is never subjected to the laws of karma. One who does not know the transcendental nature of the Lord and who thinks that the activities of the Lord are aimed at fruitive results, as are the activities of the ordinary living entities, certainly becomes entangled himself in fruitive reaction. One who knows the Supreme Truth is a liberated soul fixed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 15

evam jnatva krtam karma

purvair api mumuksubhih

kuru karmaiva tasmāt tvam

purvaih purvataram krtam

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; jnatva—knowing well; krtam—performed; karma—work; purvaih—by past authorities; api—although; mumuksubhih—who attained liberation; kuru—just perform; karma—prescribed duty; eva—certainly; tasmāt—therefore; tvam—you; purvaih—by the predecessors; purva-taram—ancient predecessors; krtam—as performed.

TRANSLATION

All the liberated souls in ancient times acted with this understanding and so attained liberation. Therefore, as the ancients, you should perform your duty in this divine consciousness.

PURPORT

There are two classes of men. Some of them are full of polluted material things within their hearts, and some of them are materially free. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is equally beneficial for both of these persons. Those who are full of dirty things can take to the line of Kṛṣṇa consciousness for a gradual cleansing process, following the regulative principles of devotional service. Those who are already cleansed of the impurities may continue to act in the same Kṛṣṇa consciousness so that others may follow their exemplary activities and thereby be benefited. Foolish persons or neophytes in Kṛṣṇa consciousness often want to retire from activities without having knowledge of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Arjuna's desire to retire from activities on the battlefield was not approved by the Lord. One need only know how to act. To retire from the activities of Kṛṣṇa consciousness and to sit aloof making a show of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is less important than actually engaging in the field of activities for the sake of Kṛṣṇa. Arjuna is here advised to act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, following in the footsteps of the Lord's previous disciples, such as the sun-god Vivasvan, as mentioned hereinbefore. The Supreme Lord knows all His past activities, as well as those of persons who acted in Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the past. Therefore He recommends the acts of the sun-god, who learned this art from the Lord some millions of years before. All such students of Lord Kṛṣṇa are mentioned here as past liberated persons, engaged in the discharge of duties allotted by Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 16

kim karma kim akarmeti

kavayo 'py atra mohitah

tat te karma pravakṣyami

yaj jnatva mokṣyase 'subhat

SYNONYMS

kim—what is; karma—action; kim—what is; akarma—inaction; iti—thus;
kavayah—the intelligent; api—also; atra—in this matter; mohitah—bewildered;
tat—that; te—unto you; karma—work; pravakṣyami—I shall explain; yat—which;
jnatva—knowing; mokṣyase—be liberated; asubhat—from ill fortune.

TRANSLATION

Even the intelligent are bewildered in determining what is action and what is inaction. Now I shall explain to you what action is knowing which you shall be liberated from all sins.

PURPORT

Action in Kṛṣṇa consciousness has to be executed in accord with the examples of previous bona fide devotees. This is recommended in the 15th verse. Why such action should not be independent will be explained in the text to follow.

To act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one has to follow the leadership of authorized persons who are in a line of disciplic succession as explained in the beginning of this chapter. The system of Kṛṣṇa consciousness was first narrated to the sun-god, the sun-god explained it to his son Manu, Manu explained it to his son Ikṣvaku, and the system is current on this earth from that very remote time. Therefore, one has to follow in the footsteps of previous authorities in the line of disciplic succession. Otherwise even the most intelligent men will be bewildered regarding the standard actions of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. For this reason, the Lord decided to instruct Arjuna in Kṛṣṇa consciousness directly. Because of the direct instruction of the Lord to Arjuna, anyone who follows in the footsteps of Arjuna is certainly not bewildered.

It is said that one cannot ascertain the ways of religion simply by imperfect experimental knowledge. Actually the principles of religion can only be laid down by the Lord Himself. Dharmam tu saksad bhagavat-pranitam (Bhag. 6.3.19). No one can manufacture a religious principle by imperfect speculation. One must follow in the footsteps of great authorities like Brahma, Siva, Narada, Manu, the Kumaras, Kapila, Prahlada, Bhisma, Sukadeva Gosvami, Yamaraja, Janaka, Bali Maharaja, etc. By mental speculation one cannot ascertain what is religion or self-realization. Therefore, out of causeless mercy to His devotees, the Lord explains directly to Arjuna what action is and what inaction is. Only action performed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness can deliver a person from the entanglement of material existence.

TEXT 17

karmano hy api boddhavyam

boddhavyam ca vikarmanah

akarmanas ca boddhavyam

gahana karmano gatih

SYNONYMS

karmanah—working order; hi—certainly; api—also; boddhavyam—should be understood; boddhavyam—to be understood; ca—also; vikarmanah—forbidden work; akarmanah—inaction; ca—also; boddhavyam—should be understood; gahana—very difficult; karmanah—working order; gatih—to enter in to.

TRANSLATION

The intricacies of action are very hard to understand. Therefore one should know properly what action is, what forbidden action is, and what inaction is.

PURPORT

If one is serious about liberation from material bondage, one has to understand the distinctions between action, inaction and unauthorized actions. One has to apply oneself to such an analysis of action, reaction and perverted actions because it is a very difficult subject matter. To understand Kṛṣṇa consciousness and action according to the modes, one has to learn one's relationship with the Supreme; i.e., one who has learned perfectly knows that every living entity is the eternal servitor of the Lord and that consequently one has to act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The entire Bhagavad-gītā is directed toward this conclusion. Any other conclusions, against this consciousness and its attendant reactions, are vikarmas, or prohibited actions. To understand all this one has to associate with authorities in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and learn the secret from them; this is as good as learning from the Lord directly. Otherwise, even the most intelligent person will be bewildered.

TEXT 18

karmany akarma yah pasyed

akarmani ca karma yah

sa buddhiman manusyesu

sa yuktah kṛtsna-karma-kṛt

SYNONYMS

karmani—in action; akarma—inaction; yah—one who; pasyet—observes;
akarmani—in inaction; ca—also; karma—fruitive action; yah—one who; sah—he;
buddhi-man—is intelligent; manusyesu—in human society; sah—he; yuktah—in the transcendental position; kṛtsna-karma-kṛt—although engaged in all activities.

TRANSLATION

One who sees inaction in action, and action in inaction, is intelligent among men, and he is in the transcendental position, although engaged in all sorts of activities.

PURPORT

A person acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is naturally free from the bonds of karma. His activities are all performed for Kṛṣṇa; therefore he does not enjoy or suffer any of the effects of work. Consequently he is intelligent in human society, even though he is engaged in all sorts of activities for Kṛṣṇa. Akarma means without reaction to work. The impersonalist ceases fruitive activities out of fear, so that the resultant action may not be a stumbling block on the path of self-realization, but the personalist knows rightly his position as the eternal servitor of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Therefore he engages himself in the activities of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Because everything is done for Kṛṣṇa, he enjoys only transcendental happiness in the discharge of this service. Those who are engaged in this process are known to be without desire for personal sense gratification. The sense of eternal servitorship to Kṛṣṇa makes one immune to all sorts of reactionary elements of work.

TEXT 19

yasya sarve samarambhah

kama-sankalpa-varjitah

jnanagni-dagdha-karmanam

tam ahuh panditam budhah

SYNONYMS

yasya—one whose; sarve—all sorts of; samarambhah—in all attempts; kama—desire for sense gratification; sankalpa—determination; varjitah—are devoid of; jnana—of perfect knowledge; agni—fire; dagdha—being burnt by; karmanam—the performer; tam—him; ahuh—declare; panditam—learned; budhah—of those who know.

TRANSLATION

One is understood to be in full knowledge whose every act is devoid of desire for sense gratification. He is said by sages to be a worker for whose fruitive action is burned up by the fire of perfect knowledge.

PURPORT

Only a person in full knowledge can understand the activities of a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Because the person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is devoid of all kinds of sense-gratificatory propensities, it is to be understood that he has burned up the reactions of his work by perfect knowledge of his constitutional position as the eternal servitor of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. He is actually learned who has attained to such perfection of knowledge. Development of this knowledge of the eternal servitorship to the Lord is compared to fire. Such a fire, once kindled, can burn up all kinds of reactions to work.

TEXT 20

tyaktva karma-phalasangam

nitya-trpto nirasrayaḥ

karmany abhipravṛtto 'pi

naiva kincit karoti saḥ

SYNONYMS

tyaktva—having given up; karma-phala-asangam—attachment for fruitive results; nitya—always; trptah—being satisfied; nirasrayaḥ—without any shelter; karmani—in activity; abhipravṛttah—being fully engaged; api—in spite of; na—does not; eva—certainly; kincit—anything; karoti—do; saḥ—he.

TRANSLATION

Abandoning all attachment to the results of his activities, ever satisfied and independent, he performs no fruitive action, although engaged in all kinds of undertakings.

PURPORT

This freedom from the bondage of actions is possible only in Kṛṣṇa consciousness when one is doing everything for Kṛṣṇa. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person acts out of pure love for the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and therefore he has no attraction for the results of the action. He is not even attached to his personal maintenance, for everything is left to Kṛṣṇa. Nor is he anxious to secure things, nor to protect things already in his possession. He does his duty to his best ability and leaves everything to Kṛṣṇa. Such an unattached person is always free from the resultant reactions of good and bad; it is as though he were not doing anything. This is the sign of akarma, or actions without fruitive reactions. Any other action, therefore, devoid of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is binding upon the worker, and that is the real aspect of vikarma, as explained hereinbefore.

TEXT 21

nirasir yata—cittatma

tyakta—sarva—parigrahaḥ

sariram kevalam karma

kurvan naṇoti kilbisam

SYNONYMS

nirasih—without desire for the result; yata—controlled; citta—atma—mind and intelligence; tyakta—giving up; sarva—all; parigraha—sense of proprietorship over all possessions; sariram—in keeping body and soul together; kevalam—only; karma—work; kurvan—doing so; na—never; apnoti—does acquire; kilbisam—sinful reactions.

TRANSLATION

Such a man of understanding acts with mind and intelligence perfectly controlled, gives up all sense of proprietorship over his possessions and acts only for the bare necessities of life. Thus working, he is not affected by sinful reactions.

PURPORT

A Kṛṣṇa conscious person does not expect good or bad results in his activities. His mind and intelligence are fully controlled. He knows that because he is part and parcel of the Supreme and therefore the part played by him, as a part and parcel of the whole, is not by his choice but is chosen for him by the Supreme and is done only through His agency. When the hand moves, it does not move out of its own accord, but by the endeavor of the whole body. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person is always dovetailed with the supreme desire, for he has no desire for personal sense gratification. He moves exactly like a part of a machine. As a machine part requires oiling and cleaning for maintenance, similarly, a Kṛṣṇa conscious man maintains himself by his work just to remain fit for action in the transcendental loving service of the Lord. He is therefore immune to all the reactions of his endeavors. Like an animal, he has no proprietorship even over his own body. A cruel proprietor of an animal sometimes kills the animal in his possession, yet the animal does not protest. Nor does it have any real independence. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person, fully engaged in self-realization, has very little time to falsely possess any material object. For maintaining body and soul, he does not require unfair means of accumulating money. He does not, therefore, become contaminated by such material sins. He is free from all reactions to his actions.

TEXT 22

yadrccha-labha-santusto

dvandvatito vimatsarah

samah siddhav asiddhau ca

krtvapi na nibadhyate

SYNONYMS

yadrccha—out of its own accord; labha—gain; santustah—satisfied; dvandva—duality; atitah—surpassed; vimatsarah—free from envy; samah—steady; siddhau—in success; asiddhau—failure; ca—also; krtva—doing; api—although; na—never; nibadhyate—is affected.

TRANSLATION

He who is satisfied with gain which comes of its own accord, who is free from duality and does not envy, who is steady both in success and failure, is never entangled, although performing actions.

PURPORT

A Kṛṣṇa conscious person does not make much endeavor even to maintain his body. He is satisfied with gains which are obtained of their own accord. He neither begs nor borrows, but he labors honestly as far as is in his power, and is satisfied with whatever is obtained by his own honest labor. He is therefore independent in his livelihood. He does not allow anyone's service to hamper his own service in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. However, for the service of the Lord he can participate in any kind of action without being disturbed by the duality of the material world. The duality of the material world is felt in terms of heat and cold, or misery and happiness. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person is above duality because he does not hesitate to act in any way for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa. Therefore he is steady both in success and in failure. These signs are visible when one is fully in transcendental knowledge.

TEXT 23

gata—sangasya muktasya

jñānavasthita—cetasah

yajñayacarataḥ karma

samagram praviliyate

SYNONYMS

gata—sangasya—unattached to the modes of material nature; muktasya—of the liberated; jñāna—avasthita—situated in transcendence; cetasah—of such wisdom; yajñaya—for the sake of Yajña (Kṛṣṇa); acarataḥ—so active; karma—work; samagram—in total; praviliyate—merges entirely.

TRANSLATION

The work of a man who is unattached to the modes of material nature and who is fully situated in transcendental knowledge merges entirely into transcendence.

PURPORT

Becoming fully Kṛṣṇa conscious, one is freed from all dualities and thus is free from the contaminations of the material modes. He can become liberated because he knows his constitutional position in relationship with Kṛṣṇa; and thus his mind cannot be drawn from Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Consequently, whatever he does, he does for Kṛṣṇa who is the primeval Viṣṇu. Therefore, all his works are technically sacrifices because sacrifice involves satisfying the Supreme Person, Kṛṣṇa. The resultant reactions to all such work certainly merge into transcendence, and one does not suffer material effects.

TEXT 24

brahmarpanam brahma havir

brahmagnau brahmana hutam

brahmaiva tena gantavyam

brahma—karma—samadhina

SYNONYMS

brahma—spiritual in nature; arpanam—contribution; brahma—the Supreme; havir—butter; brahma—spiritual; agnau—in the fire of consummation; brahmana—by the spirit soul; hutam—offered; brahma—spiritual kingdom; eva—certainly; tena—by him; gantavyam—to be reached; brahma—spiritual; karma—activities; samadhina—by complete absorption.

TRANSLATION

A person who is fully absorbed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is sure to attain the spiritual kingdom because of his full contribution to spiritual activities, in which the consummation is absolute and that which is offered is of the same spiritual nature.

PURPORT

How activities in Kṛṣṇa consciousness can lead one ultimately to the spiritual goal is described here. There are various activities in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and all of them will be described in the following verses. But, for the present, just the principle of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is described. A conditioned soul, entangled in material contamination, is sure to act in the material atmosphere, and yet he has to get out of such an environment. The process by which the conditioned soul can get out of the material atmosphere is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. For example, a patient who is suffering from a disorder of the bowels due to overindulgence in milk products is cured by another milk product, namely curds. The materially absorbed conditioned soul can be cured by Kṛṣṇa consciousness as set forth here in the Gita. This process is generally known as yajna, or activities (sacrifices) simply meant for the satisfaction of Viṣṇu, or Kṛṣṇa. The more the activities of the material world are performed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, or for Viṣṇu only, the more the atmosphere becomes spiritualized by complete absorption. Brahman means spiritual. The Lord is spiritual, and the rays of His transcendental body are called brahmajyoti, His spiritual effulgence. Everything that exists is situated in that brahmajyoti, but when the jyoti is covered by illusion (maya) or sense gratification, it is called material. This material veil can be removed at once by Kṛṣṇa consciousness; thus the offering for the sake of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the consuming agent of such an offering or contribution, the process of consumption, the contributor, and the result are—all combined together—Brahman, or the Absolute Truth. The Absolute Truth covered by maya is called matter. Matter dovetailed for the cause of the Absolute Truth regains its spiritual quality. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the process of converting the illusory consciousness into Brahman, or the Supreme. When the mind is fully absorbed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is said to be in samadhi, or trance. Anything done in such transcendental consciousness is called yajna, or sacrifice for the Absolute. In that condition of spiritual consciousness, the contributor, the contribution, the consumption, the performer or leader of the performance, and the result or ultimate gain—everything—becomes one in the Absolute, the Supreme Brahman. That is the method of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 25

daivam evapare yajnam

yoginah paryupasate

brahmagnav apare yajnam

yajnenaivopajuhvati

SYNONYMS

daivam—in worshiping the demigods; eva—like this; apare—some; yajnam—sacrifices; yoginah—the mystics; paryupasate—worship perfectly; brahma—the Absolute Truth; agnau—in the fire of; apare—others; yajnam—sacrifice; yajnena—by sacrifice; eva—thus; upajuhvati—worship.

TRANSLATION

Some yogis perfectly worship the demigods by offering different sacrifices to them, and some of them offer sacrifices in the fire of the Supreme Brahman.

PURPORT

As described above, a person engaged in discharging duties in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is also called a perfect yogi or a first-class mystic. But there are others also, who perform similar sacrifices in the worship of demigods, and still others who sacrifice to the Supreme Brahman, or the impersonal feature of the Supreme Lord. So there are different kinds of sacrifices in terms of different categories. Such different categories of sacrifice by different types of performers only superficially demark varieties of sacrifice. Factual sacrifice means to satisfy the Supreme Lord, Viṣṇu, who is also known as Yajna. All the different varieties of sacrifice can be placed within two primary divisions: namely, sacrifice of worldly possessions and sacrifice in pursuit of transcendental knowledge. Those who are in Kṛṣṇa consciousness sacrifice all material possessions for the satisfaction of the Supreme Lord, while others, who want some temporary material happiness, sacrifice their material possessions to satisfy demigods such as Indra, the sun-god, etc. And others, who are impersonalists, sacrifice their identity by merging into the existence of impersonal Brahman. The demigods are powerful living entities appointed by the Supreme Lord for the maintenance and supervision of all material functions like the heating, watering and lighting of the universe. Those who are interested in material benefits worship the demigods by various sacrifices according to the Vedic rituals. They are called bahv-isvara-vadi, or believers in many gods. But others, who worship the impersonal feature of the Absolute Truth and regard the forms of the demigods as temporary, sacrifice their individual selves in the supreme fire and thus end their individual existences by merging into the existence of the Supreme. Such impersonalists spend their time in philosophical speculation to understand the transcendental nature of the Supreme. In other words, the fruitive workers sacrifice their material possessions for material enjoyment, whereas the impersonalist sacrifices his material designations with a view to merging into the existence of the Supreme. For the impersonalist, the fire altar of sacrifice is the Supreme Brahman, and the offering is the self being consumed by the fire of Brahman. The Kṛṣṇa conscious person, like Arjuna, however, sacrifices everything for the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, and thus all his material possessions as well as his own self—everything—is sacrificed for Kṛṣṇa. Thus, he is the first-class yogi; but he does not lose his individual existence.

TEXT 26

srotradinindriyany anye

samyamagnisu juhvati

sabdadin visayan anyā

indriyagnisu juhvati

SYNONYMS

srotra—adini—hearing process; indriyani—senses; anye—others; samyama—of restraint; agnisu—in the fire; juhvati—offers; sabda—adin—sound vibration, etc.; visayan—objects of sense gratification; anye—others; indriya—of sense organs; agnisu—in the fire; juhvati—sacrifice.

TRANSLATION

Some sacrifice the hearing process and the senses in the fire of the controlled mind, and others sacrifice the objects of the senses, such as sound, in the fire of the sacrifice.

PURPORT

The four divisions of human life, namely the brahmacari, the grhastha, the vanaprastha, and the sannyasi, are all meant to become perfect yogis or transcendentalists. Since human life is not meant for our enjoying sense gratification like the animals, the four orders of human life are so arranged that one may become perfect in spiritual life. The brahmacaris, or students under the care of a bona fide spiritual master, control the mind by abstaining from sense gratification. They are referred to in this verse as sacrificing the hearing process and the senses in the fire of the controlled mind. A brahmacari hears only words concerning Kṛṣṇa consciousness; hearing is the basic principle for understanding, and therefore the pure brahmacari engages fully in harer namanukirtanam—chanting and hearing the glories of the Lord. He restrains himself from the vibrations of material sounds, and his hearing is engaged in the transcendental sound vibration of Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa. Similarly, the householders, who have some license for sense gratification, perform such acts with great restraint. Sex life, intoxication and meat eating are general tendencies of human society, but a regulated householder does not indulge in unrestricted sex life and other sense gratification. Marriage on principles of religious life is therefore current in all civilized human society because that is the way for restricted sex life. This restricted, unattached sex life is also a kind of yajna because the restricted householder sacrifices his general tendency toward sense gratification for higher transcendental life.

TEXT 27

sarvanindriya–karmani

prana–karmani capare

atma–samyama–yogagnau

juhvati jnana–dipite

SYNONYMS

sarvani—all; indriya—senses; karmani—functions; prana–karmani—functions of the life breath; ca—also; apare—others; atma–samyama—controlling the mind; yoga—linking process; agnau—in the fire of; juhvati—offers; jnana–dipite—because of the urge for self–realization.

TRANSLATION

Those who are interested in self–realization, in terms of mind and sense control, offer the functions of all the senses, as well as the vital force [breath], as oblations into the fire of the controlled mind.

PURPORT

The yoga system conceived by Patanjali is referred to herein. In the Yoga–sutra of Patanjali, the soul is called pratyag–atma and parag–atma. As long as the soul is attached to sense enjoyment, it is called parag–atma. The soul is subjected to the functions of ten kinds of air at work within the body, and this is perceived through the breathing system. The Patanjali system of yoga instructs one on how to control the functions of the body's air in a technical manner so that ultimately all the functions of the air within become favorable for purifying the soul of material attachment. According to this yoga system, pratyag-atma is the ultimate goal. This pratyag-atma is a withdrawal from activities in matter. The senses interact with the sense objects, like the ear for hearing, eyes for seeing, nose for smelling, tongue for tasting, hand for touching, and all of them are thus engaged in activities outside the self. They are called the functions of the prana-vayu. The apana-vayu goes downwards, vyana-vayu acts to shrink and expand, samana-vayu adjusts equilibrium, udana-vayu goes upwards—and when one is enlightened, one engages all these in searching for self-realization.

TEXT 28

dravya-yajnas tapo-yajna

yoga-yajnas tathapare

svadhyaya-jnana-yajnas ca

yatayah samsita-vratah

SYNONYMS

dravya-yajnah—sacrificing one's possessions; tapah-yajnah—sacrifice in austerities; yoga-yajnah—sacrifice in eightfold mysticism; tatha—thus; apare—others; svadhyaya—sacrifice in the study of the Vedas; jnana-yajnah—sacrifice in advancement of transcendental knowledge; ca—also; yatayah—enlightened; samsita—taken to strict; vratah—vows.

TRANSLATION

There are others who, enlightened by sacrificing their material possessions in severe austerities, take strict vows and practice the yoga of eightfold mysticism, and others study the Vedas for the advancement of transcendental knowledge.

PURPORT

These sacrifices may be fitted into various divisions. There are persons who are sacrificing their possessions in the form of various kinds of charities. In India, the rich mercantile community or princely orders open various kinds of charitable institutions like dharma-sala, anna-ksetra, atithi-sala, anathalaya, vidya-pitha, etc. In other countries, too, there are many hospitals, old age homes and similar charitable foundations meant for distributing food, education and medical treatment free to the poor. All these charitable activities are called dravyamaya-yajna. There are others who, for higher elevation in life or for promotion to higher planets within the universe, voluntarily accept many kinds of austerities such as candrayana and caturmasya. These processes entail severe vows for conducting life under certain rigid rules. For example, under the caturmasya vow the candidate does not shave for four months during the year (July to October), he does not eat certain foods, does not eat twice in a day and does not leave home. Such sacrifice of the comforts of life is called tapomaya-yajna. There are still others who engage themselves in different kinds of mystic yogas like the Patanjali system (for merging into the existence of the Absolute), or hatha-yoga or astanga-yoga (for particular perfections). And some travel to all the sanctified places of pilgrimage. All these practices are called yoga-yajna, sacrifice for a certain type of perfection in the material world. There are others who engage themselves in the studies of different Vedic literatures, specifically the Upanisads and Vedanta-sutras, or the Sankhya philosophy. All of these are called svadhyaya-yajna, or engagement in the sacrifice of studies. All these yogis are faithfully engaged in different types of sacrifice and are seeking a higher status of life. Krsna consciousness, is, however, different from these because it is the direct service of the Supreme Lord. Krsna consciousness cannot be attained by any one of the above-mentioned types of sacrifices but can be attained only by the mercy of the Lord and His bona fide devotee. Therefore, Krsna consciousness is transcendental.

TEXT 29

apane juhvati pranam

prane 'panam tathapare

pranapana—gati ruddhva

pranayama—parayanah

apare niyataharah

pranan pranesu juhvati

SYNONYMS

apane—air which acts downward; juhvati—offers; pranam—air which acts outward; prane—in the air going outward; apanam—air going downward; tatha—as also; apare—others; prana—air going outward; apana—air going downward; gati—movement; ruddhva—checking; prana-ayama—trance induced by stopping all breathing; parayanah—so inclined; apare—others; niyata—controlled; aharah—eating; pranan—outgoing air; pranesu—in the outgoing air; juhvati—sacrifices.

TRANSLATION

And there are even others who are inclined to the process of breath restraint to remain in trance, and they practice stopping the movement of the outgoing breath into the incoming, and incoming breath into the outgoing, and thus at last remain in trance, stopping all breathing. Some of them, curtailing the eating process, offer the outgoing breath into itself, as a sacrifice.

PURPORT

This system of yoga for controlling the breathing process is called pranayama, and in the beginning it is practiced in the hatha-yoga system through different sitting postures. All of these processes are recommended for controlling the senses and for advancement in spiritual realization. This practice involves controlling the air within the body to enable simultaneous passage in opposite directions. The apana air goes downward, and the prana air goes up. The pranayama–yogi practices breathing the opposite way until the currents are neutralized into puraka, equilibrium. Similarly, when the exhaled breathing is offered to the inhaled breathing, it is called recaka. When both air currents are completely stopped, it is called kumbhaka–yoga. By practice of kumbhaka–yoga, the yogis increase the duration of life by many, many years. A Krsna conscious person, however, being always situated in the transcendental loving service of the Lord, automatically becomes the controller of the senses. His senses, being always engaged in the service of Krsna, have no chance of becoming otherwise engaged. So at the end of life, he is naturally transferred to the transcendental plane of Lord Krsna; consequently he makes no attempt to increase his longevity. He is at once raised to the platform of liberation. A Krsna conscious person begins from the transcendental stage, and he is constantly in that consciousness. Therefore, there is no falling down, and ultimately he enters into the abode of the Lord without delay. The practice of reduced eating is automatically done when one eats only krsna–prasadam, or food which is offered first to the Lord. Reducing the eating process is very helpful in the matter of sense control. And without sense control there is no possibility of getting out of material entanglement.

TEXT 30

sarve 'py ete yajna–vido

yajna–ksapita–kalmasah

yajna–sistamrta–bhujo

yanti brahma sanatanam

SYNONYMS

sarve—all; api—although apparently different; ete—all these; yajna–vidah—conversant with the purpose of performing; yajna—sacrifices; ksapita—being cleansed as the result of such performances; kalmasah—sinful reactions; yajna–sista—as a result of such performances of yajna; amrta–bhujah—those who have tasted such nectar; yanti—do approach; brahma—the supreme; sanatanam—eternal atmosphere.

TRANSLATION

All these performers who know the meaning of sacrifice become cleansed of sinful reaction, and, having tasted the nectar of the results of such sacrifice, they go to the supreme eternal atmosphere.

PURPORT

From the foregoing explanation of different types of sacrifice (namely sacrifice of one's possessions, study of the Vedas or philosophical doctrines, and performance of the yoga system), it is found that the common aim of all is to control the senses. Sense gratification is the root cause of material existence; therefore, unless and until one is situated on a platform apart from sense gratification, there is no chance of being elevated to the eternal platform of full knowledge, full bliss and full life. This platform is in the eternal atmosphere, or Brahman atmosphere. All the above-mentioned sacrifices help one to become cleansed of the sinful reactions of material existence. By this advancement in life, one not only becomes happy and opulent in this life, but also, at the end, he enters into the eternal kingdom of God, either merging into the impersonal Brahman or associating with the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 31

nayam loko 'sty ayajñasya

kuto 'nyah kuru-sattama

SYNONYMS

na—never; ayam—this; lokah—planet; asti—there is; ayajnasya—of the foolish; kutah—where is; anyah—the other; kuru-sat-tama—O best amongst the Kurus.

TRANSLATION

O best of the Kuru dynasty, without sacrifice one can never live happily on this planet or in this life: what then of the next?

PURPORT

Whatever form of material existence one is in, one is invariably ignorant of his real situation. In other words, existence in the material world is due to the multiple reactions to our sinful lives. Ignorance is the cause of sinful life, and sinful life is the cause of one's dragging on in material existence. The human form of life is the only loophole by which one may get out of this entanglement. The Vedas, therefore, give us a chance for escape by pointing out the paths of religion, economic comfort, regulated sense gratification and, at last, the means to get out of the miserable condition entirely. The path of religion, or the different kinds of sacrifice recommended above, automatically solves our economic problems. By performance of yajna we can have enough food, enough milk, etc.—even if there is a so-called increase of population. When the body is fully supplied, naturally the next stage is to satisfy the senses. The Vedas prescribe, therefore, sacred marriage for regulated sense gratification. Thereby one is gradually elevated to the platform of release from material bondage, and the highest perfection of liberation is to associate with the Supreme Lord. Perfection is achieved by performance of yajna (sacrifice), as described above. Now, if a person is not inclined to perform yajna according to the Vedas, how can he expect a happy life? There are different grades of material comforts in different heavenly planets, and in all cases there is immense happiness for persons engaged in different kinds of yajna. But the highest kind of happiness that a man can achieve is to be promoted to the spiritual planets by practice of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. A life of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is therefore the solution to all the problems of material existence.

TEXT 32

evam bahu—vidha yajna

vitata brahmano mukhe

karma—jan viddhi tan sarvan

evam jnatva vimoksyase

SYNONYMS

evam—thus; bahu—vidhah—various kinds of; yajnah—sacrifices; vitatah—widespread; brahmanah—of the Vedas; mukhe—in the face of; karma—jan—born of work; viddhi—you should know; tan—then; sarvan—all; evam—thus; jnatva—knowing; vimoksyase—be liberated.

TRANSLATION

All these different types of sacrifice are approved by the Vedas, and all of them are born of different types of work. Knowing them as such, you will become liberated.

PURPORT

Different types of sacrifice, as discussed above, are mentioned in the Vedas to suit the different types of worker. Because men are so deeply absorbed in the bodily concept, these sacrifices are so arranged that one can work either with the body, the mind, or the intelligence. But all of them are recommended for ultimately bringing about liberation from the body. This is confirmed by the Lord herewith from His own mouth.

TEXT 33

sreyan dravya–mayad yajnaj

jnana–yajnah parantapa

sarvam karmakhilam partha

jnane parisamapyate

SYNONYMS

sreyan—greater; dravya–mayat—than the sacrifice of material possessions; yajnat—knowledge; jnana–yajnah—sacrifice in knowledge; parantapa—O chastiser of the enemy; sarvam—all; karma—activities; akhilam—in totality; partha—O son of Prtha; jnane—in knowledge; parisamapyate—ends in.

TRANSLATION

O chastiser of the enemy, the sacrifice of knowledge is greater than the sacrifice of material possessions. O son of Prtha, after all, the sacrifice of work culminates in transcendental knowledge.

PURPORT

The purpose of all sacrifices is to arrive at the status of complete knowledge, then to gain release from material miseries, and, ultimately, to engage in loving transcendental service to the Supreme Lord (Kṛṣṇa consciousness). Nonetheless, there is a mystery about all these different activities of sacrifice, and one should know this mystery. Sacrifices sometimes take different forms according to the particular faith of the performer. When one's faith reaches the stage of transcendental knowledge, the performer of sacrifices should be considered more advanced than those who simply sacrifice material possessions without such knowledge, for without attainment of knowledge, sacrifices remain on the material platform and bestow no spiritual benefit. Real knowledge culminates in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the highest stage of transcendental knowledge. Without the elevation of knowledge, sacrifices are simply material activities. When, however, they are elevated to the level of transcendental knowledge, all such activities enter onto the spiritual platform. Depending on differences in consciousness, sacrificial activities are sometimes called karma-kāṇḍa, fruitive activities, and sometimes jñāna-kāṇḍa, knowledge in the pursuit of truth. It is better when the end is knowledge.

TEXT 34

tad viddhi pranipatena

pariprasnena sevaya

upadeksyanti te jñanam

jñāninas tattva-darsinah

SYNONYMS

tat—that knowledge of different sacrifices; viddhi—try to understand; pranipatena—by approaching a spiritual master; pariprasnena—by submissive inquiries; sevaya—by the rendering of service; upadeksyanti—initiate; te—unto you; jñanam—knowledge; jñāninah—the self-realized; tattva—truth; darsinah—the seers.

TRANSLATION

Just try to learn the truth by approaching a spiritual master. Inquire from him submissively and render service unto him. The self-realized soul can impart knowledge unto you because he has seen the truth.

PURPORT

The path of spiritual realization is undoubtedly difficult. The Lord therefore advises us to approach a bona fide spiritual master in the line of disciplic succession from the Lord Himself. No one can be a bona fide spiritual master without following this principle of disciplic succession. The Lord is the original spiritual master, and a person in the disciplic succession can convey the message of the Lord as it is to his disciple. No one can be spiritually realized by manufacturing his own process, as is the fashion of the foolish pretenders. The Bhagavatam (6.3.19) says, dharmam tu saksad bhagavat-pranitam—the path of religion is directly enunciated by the Lord. Therefore, mental speculation or dry arguments cannot help one progress in spiritual life. One has to approach a bona fide spiritual master to receive the knowledge. Such a spiritual master should be accepted in full surrender, and one should serve the spiritual master like a menial servant, without false prestige. Satisfaction of the self-realized spiritual master is the secret of advancement in spiritual life. Inquiries and submission constitute the proper combination for spiritual understanding. Unless there is submission and service, inquiries from the learned spiritual master will not be effective. One must be able to pass the test of the spiritual master, and when he sees the genuine desire of the disciple, he automatically blesses the disciple with genuine spiritual understanding. In this verse, both blind following and absurd inquiries are condemned. One should not only hear submissively from the spiritual master, but one must also get a clear understanding from him, in submission and service and inquiries. A bona fide spiritual master is by nature very kind toward the disciple. Therefore when the student is submissive and is always ready to render service, the reciprocation of knowledge and inquiries becomes perfect.

TEXT 35

yaj jnatva na punar moham

evam yasyasi pandava

yena bhutany asesani

draksyasy atmany atho mayi

SYNONYMS

yat—which; jnatva—knowing; na—never; punah—again; moham—illusion; evam—like this; yasyasi—you shall go; pandava—O son of Pandu; yena—by which; bhutani—all living entities; asesani—totally; draksyasi—you will see; atmani—in the Supreme Soul; atho—or in other words; mayi—in Me.

TRANSLATION

And when you have thus learned the truth, you will know that all living beings are but part of Me—and that they are in Me, and are Mine.

PURPORT

The result of receiving knowledge from a self-realized soul, or one who knows things as they are, is learning that all living beings are parts and parcels of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Sri Kṛṣṇa. The sense of a separated existence from Kṛṣṇa is called maya (ma—not, ya—this). Some think that we have nothing to do with Kṛṣṇa, that Kṛṣṇa is only a great historical personality and that the Absolute is the impersonal Brahman. Factually, as it is stated in the Bhagavad-gītā, this impersonal Brahman is the personal effulgence of Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa, as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is the cause of everything. In the Brahma-saṁhita it is clearly stated that Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the cause of all causes. Even the millions of incarnations are only His different expansions. Similarly, the living entities are also expansions of Kṛṣṇa. The Mayavadi philosophers wrongly think that Kṛṣṇa loses His own separate existence in His many expansions. This thought is material in nature. We have experience in the material world that a thing, when fragmentally distributed, loses its own original identity.

But the Mayavadi philosophers fail to understand that absolute means that one plus one is equal to one, and that one minus one is also equal to one. This is the case in the absolute world.

For want of sufficient knowledge in the absolute science, we are now covered with illusion, and therefore we think that we are separate from Kṛṣṇa. Although we are separated parts of Kṛṣṇa, we are nevertheless not different from Him. The bodily difference of the living entities is maya, or not actual fact. We are all meant to satisfy Kṛṣṇa. By maya alone Arjuna thought that the temporary bodily relationship with his kinsmen was more important than his eternal spiritual relationship with Kṛṣṇa. The whole teaching of the Gita is targeted toward this end: that a living being, as His eternal servitor, cannot be separated from Kṛṣṇa, and his sense of being an identity apart from Kṛṣṇa is called maya. The living entities, as separate parts and parcels of the Supreme, have a purpose to fulfill. Having forgotten that purpose, since time immemorial, they are situated in different bodies, as men, animals, demigods, etc. Such bodily differences arise from forgetfulness of the transcendental service of the Lord. But when one is engaged in transcendental service through Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one becomes at once liberated from this illusion. One can acquire such pure knowledge only from the bona fide spiritual master and thereby avoid the delusion that the living entity is equal to Kṛṣṇa. Perfect knowledge is that the Supreme Soul, Kṛṣṇa, is the supreme shelter for all living entities, and giving up such shelter, the living entities are deluded by the material energy, imagining themselves to have a separate identity. Thus, under different standards of material identity, they become forgetful of Kṛṣṇa. When, however, such deluded living entities become situated in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, it is to be understood that they are on the path of liberation, as confirmed in the Bhagavatam (2.10.6): muktir hitvanyatha-rupam svarupena vyavasthitiḥ. Liberation means to be situated in one's constitutional position as the eternal servitor of Kṛṣṇa (Kṛṣṇa consciousness).

TEXT 36

api ced asi papebhyah

sarvebhyah papa-kṛt-tamah

sarvam jñāna-plavenaiva

vrjinam santarisyasi

SYNONYMS

api—even; cet—if; asi—you are; papebhyah—of sinners; sarvebhyah—of all;
papa-krt-tamah—the greatest sinner; sarvam—all such sinful actions;
jnana-plavena—by the boat of transcendental knowledge; eva—certainly; vrjinam—the ocean of miseries; santarisyasi—you will cross completely.

TRANSLATION

Even if you are considered to be the most sinful of all sinners, when you are situated in the boat of transcendental knowledge, you will be able to cross over the ocean of miseries.

PURPORT

Proper understanding of one's constitutional position in relationship to Krsna is so nice that it can at once lift one from the struggle for existence which goes on in the ocean of nescience. This material world is sometimes regarded as an ocean of nescience and sometimes as a blazing forest. In the ocean, however expert a swimmer one may be, the struggle for existence is very severe. If someone comes forward and lifts the struggling swimmer from the ocean, he is the greatest savior. Perfect knowledge, received from the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is the path of liberation. The boat of Krsna consciousness is very simple, but at the same time the most sublime.

TEXT 37

yathaidhamsi samiddho 'gnir

bhasma-sat kurute 'rjuna

jnanagnih sarva-karmani

bhasma-sat kurute tatha

SYNONYMS

yatha—just as; edhamsi—firewood; samiddhah—blazing; agnih—fire;
bhasma-sat—turns into ashes; kurute—so does; arjuna—O Arjuna; jnana-agnih—the fire of knowledge; sarva-karmani—all reactions to material activities; bhasma-sat—to ashes; kurute—it so does; tatha—similarly.

TRANSLATION

As a blazing fire turns firewood to ashes, O Arjuna, so does the fire of knowledge burn to ashes all reactions to material activities.

PURPORT

Perfect knowledge of self and Superself and of their relationship is compared herein to fire. This fire not only burns up all reactions to impious activities, but also all reactions to pious activities, turning them to ashes. There are many stages of reaction: reaction in the making, reaction fructifying, reaction already achieved, and reaction a priori. But knowledge of the constitutional position of the living entity burns everything to ashes.
When one is in complete knowledge, all reactions, both a priori and a posteriori, are consumed. In the Vedas (Brhad-aranyaka Upanisad 4.4.22) it is stated, ubhe uhaivaisa ete taraty amrtah sadhv-asadhuni: "One overcomes both the pious and impious reactions of work."

TEXT 38

na hi jnanena sadrsam

pavitram iha vidyate

tat svayam yoga—samsiddhah

kalenatmani vindati

SYNONYMS

na—never; hi—certainly; jnanena—with knowledge; sadrsam—in comparison; pavitram—sanctified; iha—in this world; vidyate—exists; tat—that; svayam—himself; yoga—in devotion; samsiddhah—matured; kalena—in course of time; atmani—in himself; vindati—enjoys.

TRANSLATION

In this world, there is nothing so sublime and pure as transcendental knowledge. Such knowledge is the mature fruit of all mysticism. And one who has achieved this enjoys the self with himself in due course of time.

PURPORT

When we speak of transcendental knowledge, we do so in terms of spiritual understanding. As such, there is nothing so sublime and pure as transcendental knowledge. Ignorance is the cause of our bondage, and knowledge is the cause of our liberation. This knowledge is the mature fruit of devotional service, and when one is situated in transcendental knowledge, he need not search for peace elsewhere, for he enjoys peace within himself. In other words, this knowledge and peace culminate in Krsna consciousness. That is the last word in the Bhagavad-gita.

TEXT 39

sraddhaval labhate jnanam

tat-parah samyatendriyah

jnanam labdhva param santim

acirenadhigacchati

SYNONYMS

sraddha—van—a faithful man; labhate—achieves; jnanam—knowledge; tat-parah—very much attached to it; samyata—controlled; indriyah—senses; jnanam—knowledge; labdhva—having achieved; param—transcendental; santim—peace; acirena—very soon; adhigacchati—attains.

TRANSLATION

A faithful man who is absorbed in transcendental knowledge and who subdues his senses quickly attains the supreme spiritual peace.

PURPORT

Such knowledge in Kṛṣṇa consciousness can be achieved by a faithful person who believes firmly in Kṛṣṇa. One is called a faithful man who thinks that, simply by acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he can attain the highest perfection. This faith is attained by the discharge of devotional service, and by chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare, which cleanses one's heart of all material dirt. Over and above this, one should control the senses. A person who is faithful to Kṛṣṇa and who controls the senses can easily attain perfection in the knowledge of Kṛṣṇa consciousness without delay.

TEXT 40

ajnas caśraddadhanas ca

samsayatma vinasyati

nayam loko 'sti na paro

na sukham samsayatmanah

SYNONYMS

ajnah—fools who have no knowledge in standard scriptures; ca—and;
śraddadhanah—without faith in revealed scriptures; ca—also; samsaya—doubts;
atma—a person; vinasyati—falls back; na—never; ayam—this; lokah—world;
asti—there is; na—neither; parah—next life; na—not; sukham—happiness;
samsaya—doubtful; atmanah—of the person.

TRANSLATION

But ignorant and faithless persons who doubt the revealed scriptures do not attain God consciousness. For the doubting soul there is happiness neither in this world nor in the next.

PURPORT

Out of many standard and authoritative revealed scriptures, the Bhagavad-gita is the best. Persons who are almost like animals have no faith in, or knowledge of the standard revealed scriptures; and some, even though they have knowledge of, or can cite passages from, the revealed scriptures, have actually no faith in these words. And even though others may have faith in scriptures like Bhagavad-gita, they do not believe in or worship the Personality of Godhead, Sri Kṛṣṇa. Such persons cannot have any standing in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. They fall down. Out of all the above-mentioned persons, those who have no faith and are always doubtful make no progress at all. Men without faith in God and His revealed word find no good in this world, nor in the next. For them there is no happiness whatsoever. One should therefore follow the principles of revealed scriptures with faith and thereby be raised to the platform of knowledge. Only this knowledge will help one become promoted to the transcendental platform of spiritual understanding. In other words, doubtful persons have no status whatsoever in spiritual emancipation. One should therefore follow in the footsteps of great ācāryas who are in the disciplic succession and thereby attain success.

TEXT 41

yoga-sannyasta-karmanam

jñāna-sanchinna-samsayam

atmavantam na karmani

nibadhnanti dhananjaya

SYNONYMS

yoga—devotional service in karma-yoga; sannyasta—renounced; karmanam—of the performers; jnana—knowledge; sanchinna—cut by the advancement of knowledge; samsayam—doubts; atma-vantam—situated in the self; na—never; karmani—work; nibadhnanti—do bind up; dhananjaya—O conqueror of riches.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, one who has renounced the fruits of his action, whose doubts are destroyed by transcendental knowledge, and who is situated firmly in the self, is not bound by works, O conqueror of riches.

PURPORT

One who follows the instruction of the Gita, as it is imparted by the Lord, the Personality of Godhead Himself, becomes free from all doubts by the grace of transcendental knowledge. He, as a part and parcel of the Lord, in full Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is already established in self-knowledge. As such, he is undoubtedly above bondage to action.

TEXT 42

tasmad ajnana-sambhutam

hṛt-stham jñānasinatmanah

chittvainaṁ samsayam yogam

atisthottistha bharata

SYNONYMS

tasmat—therefore; ajnana—sambhutam—outcome of ignorance; hrt—stham—situated in the heart; jnana—knowledge; asina—by the weapon of; atmanah—of the self; chittva—cutting off; enam—this; samsayam—doubt; yogam—in yoga; atistha—be situated; uttistha—stand up to fight; bharata—O descendant of Bharata.

TRANSLATION

Therefore the doubts which have arisen in your heart out of ignorance should be slashed by the weapon of knowledge. Armed with yoga, O Bharata, stand and fight.

PURPORT

The yoga system instructed in this chapter is called sanatana-yoga, or eternal activities performed by the living entity. This yoga has two divisions of sacrificial actions: one is called sacrifice of one's material possessions, and the other is called knowledge of self, which is pure spiritual activity. If sacrifice of one's material possessions is not dovetailed for spiritual realization, then such sacrifice becomes material. But one who performs such sacrifices with a spiritual objective, or in devotional service, makes a perfect sacrifice. When we come to spiritual activities, we find that these are also divided into two: namely, understanding of one's own self (or one's constitutional position), and the truth regarding the Supreme Personality of Godhead. One who follows the path of the Gita as it is can very easily understand these two important divisions of spiritual knowledge. For him there is no difficulty in obtaining perfect knowledge of the self as part and parcel of the Lord. And such understanding is beneficial for such a person who easily understands the transcendental activities of the Lord. In the beginning of this chapter, the transcendental activities of the Lord were discussed by the Supreme Lord Himself. One who does not understand the instructions of the Gita is faithless, and is to be considered to be misusing the fragmental independence awarded to him by the Lord. In spite of such instructions, one who does not understand the real nature of the Lord as the eternal, blissful, all-knowing Personality of Godhead, is certainly fool number one. Ignorance can be removed by gradual acceptance of the principles of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is awakened by different types of sacrifices to the demigods, sacrifice to Brahman, sacrifice in celibacy, in household life, in controlling the senses, in practicing mystic yoga, in penance, in forgoing material possessions, in studying the Vedas, and in partaking of the social institution called varnasrama–dharma. All of these are known as sacrifice, and all of them are based on regulated action. But within all these activities, the important factor is self–realization. One who seeks that objective is the real student of Bhagavad–gita, but one who doubts the authority of Kṛṣṇa falls back. One is therefore advised to study Bhagavad–gita, or any other scripture, under a bona fide spiritual master, with service and surrender. A bona fide spiritual master is in the disciplic succession from time eternal, and he does not deviate at all from the instructions of the Supreme Lord as they were imparted millions of years ago to the sun–god, from whom the instructions of Bhagavad–gita have come down to the earthly kingdom. One should, therefore, follow the path of Bhagavad–gita as it is expressed in the Gita itself and beware of self–interested people after personal aggrandizement who deviate others from the actual path. The Lord is definitely the supreme person, and His activities are transcendental. One who understands this is a liberated person from the very beginning of his study of the Gita.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the Fourth Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad–gita in the matter of Transcendental Knowledge.

Chapter 5

Karma-yoga—Action in Kṛṣṇa Consciousness

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca

sannyasam karmanam kṛṣṇa

punar yogam ca samsasi

yac chreya etayor ekam

tan me bruhi su-niscitam

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; sannyasam—renunciation; karmanam—of all activities; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; punah—again; yogam—devotional service; ca—also; samsasi—You are praising; yat—which; sreyah—is beneficial; etayoh—of these two; ekam—one; tat—that; me—unto me; bruhi—please tell; su-niscitam—definitely.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O Kṛṣṇa, first of all You ask me to renounce work, and then again You recommend work with devotion. Now will You kindly tell me definitely which of the two is more beneficial?

PURPORT

In this Fifth Chapter of the Bhagavad-gita, the Lord says that work in devotional service is better than dry mental speculation. Devotional service is easier than the latter because, being transcendental in nature, it frees one from reaction. In the Second Chapter, preliminary knowledge of the soul and its entanglement in the material body were explained. How to get out of this material encagement by buddhi-yoga, or devotional service, was also explained therein. In the Third Chapter, it was explained that a person who is situated on the platform of knowledge no longer has any duties to perform. And, in the Fourth Chapter, the Lord told Arjuna that all kinds of sacrificial work culminate in knowledge. However, at the end of the Fourth Chapter, the Lord advised Arjuna to wake up and fight, being situated in perfect knowledge. Therefore, by simultaneously stressing the importance of both work in devotion and inaction in knowledge, Kṛṣṇa has perplexed Arjuna and confused his determination. Arjuna understands that renunciation in knowledge involves cessation of all kinds of work performed as sense activities. But if one performs work in devotional service, then how is work stopped? In other words, he thinks that sannyasa, or renunciation in knowledge, should be altogether free from all kinds of activity because work and renunciation appear to him to be incompatible. He appears not to have understood that work in full knowledge is nonreactive and is therefore the same as inaction. He inquires, therefore, whether he should cease work altogether, or work with full knowledge.

TEXT 2

sri-bhagavan uvaca

sannyasah karma-yogas ca

nihsreyasa-karav ubhau

tayos tu karma-sannyasat

karma-yogo visisyate

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Personality of Godhead said; sannyasah—renunciation of work; karma-yogah—work in devotion; ca—also; nihsreyasa-karau—all leading to the path of liberation; ubhau—both; tayoh—of the two; tu—but; karma-sannyasat—in comparison to the renunciation of fruitive work; karma-yogah—work in devotion; visisyate—is better.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: The renunciation of work and work in devotion are both good for liberation. But, of the two, work in devotional service is better than renunciation of works.

PURPORT

Fruitive activities (seeking sense gratification) are cause for material bondage. As long as one is engaged in activities aimed at improving the standard of bodily comfort, one is sure to transmigrate to different types of bodies, thereby continuing material bondage perpetually. Srimad-Bhagavatam (5.5.4–6) confirms this as follows:

nunam pramattah kurute vikarma

yad indriya-pritaya aprnoti

na sadhu manye yata atmano 'yam

asann api klesa-da asa dehah

parabhavas tavad abodha—jato yavan na jijnasata atma—tattvam yavat kriyas tavad idam mano vai karmatmakam yena sarira—bandhah

evam manah karma—vasam prayunkte avidyayatmany upadhiyamane
prতির na yavan mayi vasudeve
na mucyate deha—yogena tavat

"People are mad after sense gratification, and they do not know that this present body, which is full of miseries, is a result of one's fruitive activities in the past. Although this body is temporary, it is always giving one trouble in many ways. Therefore, to act for sense gratification is not good. One is considered to be a failure in life as long as he makes no inquiry about his real identity. As long as he does not know his real identity, he has to work for fruitive results for sense gratification, and as long as one is engrossed in the consciousness of sense gratification one has to transmigrate from one body to another. Although the mind may be engrossed in fruitive activities and influenced by ignorance, one must develop a love for devotional service to Vasudeva. Only then can one have the opportunity to get out of the bondage of material existence."

Therefore, jnana (or knowledge that one is not this material body but spirit soul) is not sufficient for liberation. One has to act in the status of spirit soul, otherwise there is no escape from material bondage. Action in Krsna consciousness is not, however, action on the fruitive platform. Activities performed in full knowledge strengthen one's advancement in real knowledge. Without Krsna consciousness, mere renunciation of fruitive activities does not actually purify the heart of a conditioned soul. As long as the heart is not purified, one has to work on the fruitive platform. But action in Krsna consciousness automatically helps one escape the result of fruitive action so that one need not descend to the material platform. Therefore, action in Krsna consciousness is always superior to renunciation, which always entails a risk of falling. Renunciation without

Krsna consciousness is incomplete, as is confirmed by Srila Rupa Gosvami in his Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu (1.2.258):

prapancikataya buddhya

hari-sambandhi-vastunah

mumuksubhih parityago

vairagyam phalgu kathyate

"Renunciation by persons eager to achieve liberation of things which are related to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, though they are material, is called incomplete renunciation." Renunciation is complete when it is in the knowledge that everything in existence belongs to the Lord and that no one should claim proprietorship over anything. One should understand that, factually, nothing belongs to anyone. Then where is the question of renunciation? One who knows that everything is Krsna's property is always situated in renunciation. Since everything belongs to Krsna, everything should be employed in the service of Krsna. This perfect form of action in Krsna consciousness is far better than any amount of artificial renunciation by a sannyasi of the Mayavadi school.

TEXT 3

jneyah sa nitya-sannyasi

yo na dvesti na kanksati

nirdvandvo hi maha-baho

sukham bandhat pramucyate

SYNONYMS

jneyah—should be known; sah—he; nitya—always; sannyasi—renouncer; yah—who; na—never; dvesti—abhors; na—nor; kanksati—desires; nirdvandvah—free from all dualities; hi—certainly; maha-baho—O mighty-armed one; sukham—happily; bandhat—from bondage; pramucyate—is completely liberated.

TRANSLATION

One who neither hates nor desires the fruits of his activities is known to be always renounced. Such a person, free from all dualities, easily overcomes material bondage and is completely liberated, O mighty-armed Arjuna.

PURPORT

One who is fully in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is always a renouncer because he feels neither hatred nor desire for the results of his actions. Such a renouncer, dedicated to the transcendental loving service of the Lord, is fully qualified in knowledge because he knows his constitutional position in his relationship with Kṛṣṇa. He knows fully well that Kṛṣṇa is the whole and that he is part and parcel of Kṛṣṇa. Such knowledge is perfect because it is qualitatively and quantitatively correct. The concept of oneness with Kṛṣṇa is incorrect because the part cannot be equal to the whole. Knowledge that one is one in quality yet different in quantity is correct transcendental knowledge leading one to become full in himself, having nothing to aspire to or lament over. There is no duality in his mind because whatever he does, he does for Kṛṣṇa. Being thus freed from the platform of dualities, he is liberated—even in this material world.

TEXT 4

sankhya-yogau prthag balah

pravadanti na panditah

ekam apy asthitah samyag

ubhayor vindate phalam

SYNONYMS

sankhya—analytical study of the material world; yogau—work in devotional service; prthak—different; balah—the less intelligent; pravadanti—say; na—never; panditah—the learned; ekam—in one; api—even; asthitah—being situated; samyak—complete; ubhayoh—of both; vindate—enjoys; phalam—the result.

TRANSLATION

Only the ignorant speak of devotional service [karma-yoga] as being different from the analytical study of the material world [Sankhya]. Those who are actually learned say that he who applies himself well to one of these paths achieves the results of both.

PURPORT

The aim of the analytical study of the material world is to find the soul of existence. The soul of the material world is Visnu, or the Supersoul. Devotional service to the Lord entails service to the Supersoul. One process is to find the root of the tree, and the other is to water the root. The real student of Sankhya philosophy finds the root of the material world, Visnu, and then, in perfect knowledge, engages himself in the service of the Lord. Therefore, in essence, there is no difference between the two because the aim of both is Visnu. Those who do not know the ultimate end say that the purposes of Sankhya and karma-yoga are not the same, but one who is learned knows the unifying aim in these different processes.

TEXT 5

yat sankhyaih prapyate sthanam

tad yogair api gamyate

ekam sankhyam ca yogam ca

yah pasyati sa pasyati

SYNONYMS

yat—what; sankhyaih—by means of Sankhya philosophy; prapyate—is achieved; sthanam—place; tat—that; yogaih—by devotional service; api—also; gamyate—one can attain; ekam—one; sankhyam—analytical study; ca—and; yogam—action in devotion; ca—and; yah—one who; pasyati—sees; sa—he; pasyati—actually sees.

TRANSLATION

One who knows that the position reached by means of analytical study can also be attained by devotional service, and who therefore sees analytical study and devotional service to be on the same level, sees things as they are.

PURPORT

The real purpose of philosophical research is to find the ultimate goal of life. Since the ultimate goal of life is self-realization, there is no difference between the conclusions reached by the two processes. By Sankhya philosophical research one comes to the conclusion that a living entity is not a part and parcel of the material world but of the supreme spirit whole. Consequently, the spirit soul has nothing to do with the material world; his actions must be in some relation with the Supreme. When he acts in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he is actually in his constitutional position. In the first process, Sankhya, one has to become detached from matter, and in the devotional yoga process one has to attach himself to the work of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Factually, both processes are the same, although superficially one process appears to involve detachment and the other process appears to involve attachment. Detachment from matter and attachment to Kṛṣṇa are one and the same. One who can see this sees things as they are.

TEXT 6

sannyasas tu maha-baho
duhkham aptum ayogatah
yoga-yukto munir brahma
na cirenadhigacchati

SYNONYMS

sannyasah—the renounced order of life; tu—but; maha-baho—O mighty-armed one; duhkham—distress; aptum—afflicts one with; ayogatah—without devotional service; yoga-yuktah—one engaged in devotional service; munih—a thinker; brahma—the Supreme; na cirena—without delay; adhigacchati—attains.

TRANSLATION

Merely renouncing all activities yet not engaging in the devotional service of the Lord cannot make one happy. But a thoughtful person engaged in devotional service can achieve the Supreme without delay.

PURPORT

There are two classes of sannyasis, or persons in the renounced order of life. The Mayavadi sannyasis are engaged in the study of Sankhya philosophy, whereas the Vaisnava sannyasis are engaged in the study of Bhagavatam philosophy, which affords the proper commentary on the Vedanta-sutras. The Mayavadi sannyasis also study the Vedanta-sutras, but use their own commentary, called Sariraka-bhasya, written by Sankaracarya. The students of the Bhagavata school are engaged in the devotional service of the Lord, according to pancaratric regulations, and therefore the Vaisnava sannyasis have multiple engagements in the transcendental service of the Lord. The Vaisnava sannyasis have nothing to do with material activities, and yet they perform various activities in their devotional service to the Lord. But the Mayavadi sannyasis, engaged in the studies of Sankhya and Vedanta and speculation, cannot relish the transcendental service of the Lord. Because their studies become very tedious, they sometimes become tired of Brahman speculation, and thus they take shelter of the Bhagavatam without proper understanding. Consequently their study of the Srimad-Bhagavatam becomes troublesome. Dry speculations and impersonal interpretations by artificial means are all useless for the Mayavadi sannyasis. The Vaisnava sannyasis, who are engaged in devotional service, are happy in the discharge of their transcendental duties, and they have the guarantee of ultimate entrance into the kingdom of God. The Mayavadi sannyasis sometimes fall down from the path of self-realization and again enter into material activities of a philanthropic and altruistic nature, which are nothing but material engagements. Therefore, the conclusion is that those who are engaged in Kṛṣṇa conscious activities are better situated than the sannyasis engaged in simple speculation about what is Brahman and what is not Brahman, although they too come to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, after many births.

TEXT 7

yoga-yukto visuddhatma

vijitatma jitendriyah

sarva-bhutatma-bhutatma

kurvann api na lipyate

SYNONYMS

yoga-yuktah—engaged in devotional service; visuddha-atma—a purified soul; vijita-atma—self-controlled; jita-indriyah—having conquered the senses; sarva-bhuta—to all living entities; atma-bhuta-atma—compassionate; kurvan api—although engaged in work; na—never; lipyate—is entangled.

TRANSLATION

One who works in devotion, who is a pure soul, and who controls his mind and senses is dear to everyone, and everyone is dear to him. Though always working, such a man is never entangled.

PURPORT

One who is on the path of liberation by Kṛṣṇa consciousness is very dear to every living being, and every living being is dear to him. This is due to his Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Such a person cannot think of any living being as separate from Kṛṣṇa, just as the leaves and branches of a tree are not separate from the tree. He knows very well that by pouring water on the root of the tree, the water will be distributed to all the leaves and branches, or by supplying food to the stomach, the energy is automatically distributed throughout the body. Because one who works in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is servant to all, he is very dear to everyone. And because everyone is satisfied by his work, he is pure in consciousness. Because he is pure in consciousness, his mind is completely controlled. And because his mind is controlled, his senses are also controlled. Because his mind is always fixed on Krsna, there is no chance of his being deviated from Krsna. Nor is there a chance that he will engage his senses in matters other than the service of the Lord. He does not like to hear anything except topics relating to Krsna; he does not like to eat anything which is not offered to Krsna; and he does not wish to go anywhere if Krsna is not involved. Therefore, his senses are controlled. A man of controlled senses cannot be offensive to anyone. One may ask, "Why then was Arjuna offensive (in battle) to others? Wasn't he in Krsna consciousness?" Arjuna was only superficially offensive because (as has already been explained in the Second Chapter) all the assembled persons on the battlefield would continue to live individually, as the soul cannot be slain. So, spiritually, no one was killed on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra. Only their dresses were changed by the order of Krsna, who was personally present. Therefore Arjuna, while fighting on the Battlefield of Kuruksetra, was not really fighting at all; he was simply carrying out the orders of Krsna in full Krsna consciousness. Such a person is never entangled in the reactions of work.

TEXTS 8–9

naiva kincit karomiti

yukto manyeta tattva–vit

pasyan srnvan sprsan jighrann

asnan gacchan svapan svasan

pralapan visrjan grhnann

unmisan nimisann api

indriyanindriyarthesu

vartanta iti dharayan

SYNONYMS

na—never; eva—certainly; kincit—anything; karomi—I do; iti—thus;
yuktah—engaged in the divine consciousness; manyeta—thinks; tattva-vit—one who knows the truth; pasyan—seeing; srnvan—hearing; sprsan—touching;
jighran—smelling; asnan—eating; gacchan—going; svapan—dreaming;
svasan—breathing; pralapan—talking; visrjan—giving up; grhnan—accepting;
unmisan—opening; nimisan—closing; api—in spite of; indriyani—the senses;
indriya-arthesu—in sense gratification; vartante—let them be so engaged; iti—thus;
dharayan—considering.

TRANSLATION

A person in the divine consciousness, although engaged in seeing, hearing, touching, smelling, eating, moving about, sleeping and breathing, always knows within himself that he actually does nothing at all. Because while speaking, evacuating, receiving, opening or closing his eyes, he always knows that only the material senses are engaged with their objects and that he is aloof from them.

PURPORT

A person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is pure in his existence, and consequently he has nothing to do with any work which depends upon five immediate and remote causes, the doer, the work, the situation, the endeavor and fortune. This is because he is engaged in the loving transcendental service of Kṛṣṇa. Although he appears to be acting with his body and senses, he is always conscious of his actual position, which is spiritual engagement. In material consciousness, the senses are engaged in sense gratification, but in Kṛṣṇa consciousness the senses are engaged in the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa's senses. Therefore, the Kṛṣṇa conscious person is always free, even though he appears to be engaged in things of the senses. Activities such as seeing, hearing, speaking, evacuating, etc., are actions of the senses meant for work. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person is never affected by the actions of the senses. He cannot perform any act except in the service of the Lord because he knows that he is the eternal servitor of the Lord.

TEXT 10

brahmany adhaya karmani

sangam tyaktva karoti yah

lipyate na sa papena

padma-patram ivambhasa

SYNONYMS

brahmani—the Supreme Personality of Godhead; adhaya—resigning unto; karmani—all works; sangam—attachment; tyaktva—giving up; karoti—performs; yah—who; lipyate—is affected; na—never; sah—he; papena—by sin; padma-patram—lotus leaf; iva—like; ambhasa—in the water.

TRANSLATION

One who performs his duty without attachment, surrendering the results unto the Supreme God, is not affected by sinful action, as the lotus leaf is untouched by water.

PURPORT

Here brahmani means in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The material world is a sum total manifestation of the three modes of material nature, technically called the pradhana. The Vedic hymns sarvam hy etad brahma (Mandukya Upanisad 2), tasmad etad brahma nama-rupam annam ca jayate (Mundaka Upanisad 1.2.10), and, in the Bhagavad-gita (14.3), mama yonir mahad brahma, indicate that everything in the material world is the manifestation of Brahman; and, although the effects are differently manifested, they are nondifferent from the cause. In the Isopanisad it is said that everything is related to the Supreme Brahman, or Krsna, and thus everything belongs to Him only. One who knows perfectly well that everything belongs to Krsna, that He is the proprietor of everything and that, therefore, everything is engaged in the service of the Lord, naturally has nothing to do with the results of his activities, whether virtuous or sinful. Even one's material body, being a gift of the Lord for carrying out a particular type of action, can be engaged in Krsna consciousness. It is beyond contamination by sinful reactions, exactly as the lotus leaf, though remaining in the water, is not wet. The Lord also says in the Gita (3.30), mayi sarvani karmani sannyasya: "Resign all works unto Me [Krsna]." The conclusion is that a person without Krsna consciousness acts according to the concept of the material body and senses, but a person in Krsna consciousness acts according to the knowledge that the body is the property of Krsna and should therefore be engaged in the service of Krsna.

TEXT 11

kayena manasa buddhya

kevalair indriyair api

yoginah karma kurvanti

sangam tyaktvatma-suddhaye

SYNONYMS

kayena—with the body; manasa—with the mind; buddhya—with the intelligence; kevalaih—purified; indriyaih—with the senses; api—even with; yoginah—Krsna conscious persons; karma—actions; kurvanti—they act; sangam—attachment; tyaktva—giving up; atma—self; suddhaye—for the purpose of purification.

TRANSLATION

The yogis, abandoning attachment, act with body, mind, intelligence, and even with the senses, only for the purpose of purification.

PURPORT

By acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness for the satisfaction of the senses of Kṛṣṇa, any action, whether of the body, mind, intelligence or even the senses, is purified of material contamination. There are no material reactions resulting from the activities of a Kṛṣṇa conscious person. Therefore, purified activities, which are generally called sad-ācara, can be easily performed by acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Śrī Rūpa Gosvāmī in his Bhakti-rasamṛta-sindhu (1.2.187) describes this as follows:

iha yasya harer dasye

karmana manasa gira

nikhilasv apy avasthasu

jivan-muktah sa ucyate

"A person acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness (or, in other words, in the service of Kṛṣṇa) with his body, mind, intelligence and words is a liberated person even within the material world, although he may be engaged in many so-called material activities." He has no false ego, nor does he believe that he is this material body, nor that he possesses the body. He knows that he is not this body and that this body does not belong to him. He himself belongs to Kṛṣṇa, and the body too belongs to Kṛṣṇa. When he applies everything produced of the body, mind, intelligence, words, life, wealth, etc.—whatever he may have within his possession—to Kṛṣṇa's service, he is at once dovetailed with Kṛṣṇa. He is one with Kṛṣṇa and is devoid of the false ego that leads one to believe that he is the body, etc. This is the perfect stage of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 12

yuktah karma—phalam tyaktva

santim apnoti naisthikim

ayuktah kama—karena

phale sakto nibadhyate

SYNONYMS

yuktah—one who is engaged in devotional service; karma—phalam—the results of all activities; tyaktva—giving up; santim—perfect peace; apnoti—achieves; naisthikim—unflinching; ayuktah—one who is not in Kṛṣṇa consciousness; kama—karena—for enjoying the result of work; phale—in the result; saktah—attached; nibadhyate—becomes entangled.

TRANSLATION

The steadily devoted soul attains unadulterated peace because he offers the result of all activities to Me; whereas a person who is not in union with the Divine, who is greedy for the fruits of his labor, becomes entangled.

PURPORT

The difference between a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness and a person in bodily consciousness is that the former is attached to Kṛṣṇa whereas the latter is attached to the results of his activities. The person who is attached to Kṛṣṇa and works for Him only is certainly a liberated person, and he is not anxious for fruitive rewards. In the Bhagavatam, the cause of anxiety over the result of an activity is explained as being one's functioning in the conception of duality, that is, without knowledge of the Absolute Truth. Krsna is the Supreme Absolute Truth, the Personality of Godhead. In Krsna consciousness, there is no duality. All that exists is a product of Krsna's energy, and Krsna is all good. Therefore, activities in Krsna consciousness are on the absolute plane; they are transcendental and have no material effect. One is, therefore, filled with peace in Krsna consciousness. One who is, however, entangled in profit calculation for sense gratification cannot have that peace. This is the secret of Krsna consciousness—realization that there is no existence besides Krsna is the platform of peace and fearlessness.

TEXT 13

sarva—karmani manasa

sannyasyaste sukham vasi

nava—dvare pure dehi

naiva kurvan na karayan

SYNONYMS

sarva—all; karmani—activities; manasa—by the mind; sannyasya—giving up; aste—remains; sukham—in happiness; vasi—one who is controlled; nava—dvare—in the place where there are nine gates; pure—in the city; dehi—the embodied soul; na—never; eva—certainly; kurvan—doing anything; na—not; karayan—causing to be done.

TRANSLATION

When the embodied living being controls his nature and mentally renounces all actions, he resides happily in the city of nine gates [the material body], neither working nor causing work to be done.

PURPORT

The embodied soul lives in the city of nine gates. The activities of the body, or the figurative city of body, are conducted automatically by the particular modes of nature. The soul, although subjecting himself to the conditions of the body, can be beyond those conditions, if he so desires. Owing only to forgetfulness of his superior nature, he identifies with the material body, and therefore suffers. By Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he can revive his real position and thus come out of his embodiment. Therefore, when one takes to Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one at once becomes completely aloof from bodily activities. In such a controlled life, in which his deliberations are changed, he lives happily within the city of nine gates. The nine gates are described as follows:

nava—dvare pure dehi

hamso lelayate bahih

vasi sarvasya lokasya

sthavarasya carasya ca

"The Supreme Personality of Godhead, who is living within the body of a living entity, is the controller of all living entities all over the universe. The body consists of nine gates [two eyes, two nostrils, two ears, one mouth, the anus and the genitals]. The living entity in his conditioned stage identifies himself with the body, but when he identifies himself with the Lord within himself, he becomes just as free as the Lord, even while in the body." (Svetasvatara Upanisad 3.18)

Therefore, a Kṛṣṇa conscious person is free from both the outer and inner activities of the material body.

TEXT 14

na kartrtvam na karmani

lokasya srjati prabhuh

na karma-phala-samyogam

svabhavas tu pravartate

SYNONYMS

na—never; kartrtvam—proprietorship; na—nor; karmani—activities; lokasya—of the people; srjati—creates; prabhuh—the master of the city of the body; na—nor; karma-phala—with the results of activities; samyogam—connection; svabhava—the modes of material nature; tu—but; pravartate—act.

TRANSLATION

The embodied spirit, master of the city of his body, does not create activities, nor does he induce people to act, nor does he create the fruits of action. All this is enacted by the modes of material nature.

PURPORT

The living entity, as will be explained in the Seventh Chapter, is one of the energies or natures of the Supreme Lord but is distinct from matter, which is another nature—called inferior—of the Lord. Somehow the superior nature, the living entity, has been in contact with material nature since time immemorial. The temporary body or material dwelling place which he obtains is the cause of varieties of activities and their resultant reactions. Living in such a conditional atmosphere, one suffers the results of the activities of the body by identifying himself (in ignorance) with the body. It is ignorance acquired from time immemorial that is the cause of bodily suffering and distress. As soon as the living entity becomes aloof from the activities of the body, he becomes free from the reactions as well. As long as he is in the city of body, he appears to be the master of it, but actually he is neither its proprietor nor controller of its actions and reactions. He is simply in the midst of the material ocean, struggling for existence. The waves of the ocean are tossing him, and he has no control over them. His best solution is to get out of the water by transcendental Kṛṣṇa consciousness. That alone will save him from all turmoil.

TEXT 15

nadatte kasyacit papam

na caiva sukṛtam vibhuh

ajnanenavṛtam jnanam

tena muhyanti jantavah

SYNONYMS

na—never; adatte—accepts; kasyacit—anyone's; papam—sin; na—nor; ca—also; eva—certainly; su-kṛtam—pious activities; vibhuh—the Supreme Lord; ajnanena—by ignorance; avṛtam—covered; jnanam—knowledge; tena—by that; muhyanti—are bewildered; jantavah—the living entities.

TRANSLATION

Nor does the Supreme Lord assume anyone's sinful or pious activities. Embodied beings, however, are bewildered because of the ignorance which covers their real knowledge.

PURPORT

The Sanskrit word vibhu means the Supreme Lord who is full of unlimited knowledge, riches, strength, fame, beauty and renunciation. He is always satisfied in Himself, undisturbed by sinful or pious activities. He does not create a particular situation for any living entity, but the living entity, bewildered by ignorance, desires to be put into certain conditions of life, and thereby his chain of action and reaction begins. A living entity is, by superior nature, full of knowledge. Nevertheless, he is prone to be influenced by ignorance due to his limited power. The Lord is omnipotent, but the living entity is not. The Lord is vibhu, or omniscient, but the living entity is anu, or atomic. Because he is a living soul, he has the capacity to desire by his free will. Such desire is fulfilled only by the omnipotent Lord. And so, when the living entity is bewildered in his desires, the Lord allows him to fulfill those desires, but the Lord is never responsible for the actions and reactions of the particular situation which may be desired. Being in a bewildered condition, therefore, the embodied soul identifies himself with the circumstantial material body and becomes subjected to the temporary misery and happiness of life. The Lord is the constant companion of the living entity as Paramatma, or the Supersoul, and therefore He can understand the desires of the individual soul, as one can smell the flavor of a flower by being near it. Desire is a subtle form of conditioning for the living entity. The Lord fulfills his desire as he deserves: Man proposes and God disposes. The individual is not, therefore, omnipotent in fulfilling his desires. The Lord, however, can fulfill all desires, and the Lord, being neutral to everyone, does not interfere with the desires of the minute independent living entities. However, when one desires Kṛṣṇa, the Lord takes special care and encourages one to desire in such a way that one can attain to Him and be eternally happy. The Vedic hymns therefore declare:

esa u hy eva sadhu karma karayati tam yam ebhya lokebhya unninisate.

esa u evasadhu karma karayati yam adho ninisate

"The Lord engages the living entity in pious activities so that he may be elevated. The Lord engages him in impious activities so that he may go to hell." (Kausitaki Upanisad 3.8)

ajno jantur aniso 'yam

atmanah sukha–duhkhayoh

isvara–prerito gacchet

svargam vasv abhram eva ca

"The living entity is completely dependent in his distress and happiness. By the will of the Supreme he can go to heaven or hell, as a cloud is driven by the air."

Therefore the embodied soul, by his immemorial desire to avoid Kṛṣṇa consciousness, causes his own bewilderment. Consequently, although he is constitutionally eternal, blissful and cognizant, due to the littleness of his existence he forgets his constitutional position of service to the Lord and is thus entrapped by nescience. And, under the spell of ignorance, the living entity claims that the Lord is responsible for his conditional existence. The Vedānta–sūtras (2.1.34) also confirm this. Vaisamya–nairghrnye na sapekṣatvat tatha hi darsayati: "The Lord neither hates nor likes anyone, though He appears to."

TEXT 16

jñānena tu tad ajñānam

yeṣāṁ naśitam ātmanah

teṣāṁ āditya–vaj jñānam

prakāśayati tat param

SYNONYMS

jnanena—by knowledge; tu—but; tat—that; ajnanam—nescience; yesam—whose; nasitam—is destroyed; atmanah—of the living entity; tesam—their; aditya—vat—like the rising sun; jnanam—knowledge; prakasayati—discloses; tat param—Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TRANSLATION

When, however, one is enlightened with the knowledge by which nescience is destroyed, then his knowledge reveals everything, as the sun lights up everything in the daytime.

PURPORT

Those who have forgotten Kṛṣṇa must certainly be bewildered, but those who are in Kṛṣṇa consciousness are not bewildered at all. It is stated in the Bhagavad-gītā, sarvam jñāna-plavena, jñānāgniḥ sarva-karmani and na hi jñānena sadṛśam. Knowledge is always highly esteemed. And what is that knowledge? Perfect knowledge is achieved when one surrenders unto Kṛṣṇa, as is said in the Seventh Chapter, 19th verse: bahunam janmanam ante jñānavan mam prapadyate. After passing through many, many births, when one perfect in knowledge surrenders unto Kṛṣṇa, or when one attains Kṛṣṇa consciousness, then everything is revealed to him, as everything is revealed by the sun in the daytime. The living entity is bewildered in so many ways. For instance, when he unceremoniously thinks himself God, he actually falls into the last snare of nescience. If a living entity is God, then how can he become bewildered by nescience? Does God become bewildered by nescience? If so, then nescience, or Satan, is greater than God. Real knowledge can be obtained from a person who is in perfect Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Therefore, one has to seek out such a bona fide spiritual master and, under him, learn what Kṛṣṇa consciousness is, for Kṛṣṇa consciousness will certainly drive away all nescience, as the sun drives away darkness. Even though a person may be in full knowledge that he is not this body but is transcendental to the body, he still may not be able to discriminate between the soul and the Supersoul. However, he can know everything well if he cares to take shelter of the perfect, bona fide Kṛṣṇa conscious spiritual master. One can know God and one's relationship with God only when one actually meets a representative of God. A representative of God never claims that he is God, although he is paid all the respect ordinarily paid to God because he has knowledge of God. One has to learn the distinction between God and the living entity. Lord Śrī Krsna therefore stated in the Second Chapter (2.12) that every living being is individual and that the Lord also is individual. They were all individuals in the past, they are individuals at present, and they will continue to be individuals in the future, even after liberation. At night we see everything as one in the darkness, but in day, when the sun is up, we see everything in its real identity. Identity with individuality in spiritual life is real knowledge.

TEXT 17

tad–buddhayas tad–atmanas

tan–nisthas tat–parayanah

gacchanty apunar–avrttim

jnana–nirdhuta–kalmasah

SYNONYMS

tat–buddhayah—one whose intelligence is always in the Supreme; tat–atmanah—one whose mind is always in the Supreme; tat–nisthah—whose mind is only meant for the Supreme; tat–parayanah—who has completely taken shelter of Him; gacchanti—go; apunah–avrttim—liberation; jnana—knowledge; nirdhuta—cleanses; kalmasah—misgivings.

TRANSLATION

When one's intelligence, mind, faith and refuge are all fixed in the Supreme, then one becomes fully cleansed of misgivings through complete knowledge and thus proceeds straight on the path of liberation.

PURPORT

The Supreme Transcendental Truth is Lord Kṛṣṇa. The whole Bhagavad-gītā centers around the declaration that Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. That is the version of all Vedic literature. Para-tattva means the Supreme Reality, who is understood by the knowers of the Supreme as Brahman, Paramatma and Bhagavan. Bhagavan, or the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is the last word in the Absolute. There is nothing more than that. The Lord says, mattah parataram nanyat kincid asti dhananjaya. Impersonal Brahman is also supported by Kṛṣṇa: brahmano hi pratisthaham. Therefore in all ways Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Reality. One whose mind, intelligence, faith and refuge are always in Kṛṣṇa, or, in other words, one who is fully in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is undoubtedly washed clean of all misgivings and is in perfect knowledge in everything concerning transcendence. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person can thoroughly understand that there is duality (simultaneous identity and individuality) in Kṛṣṇa, and, equipped with such transcendental knowledge, one can make steady progress on the path of liberation.

TEXT 18

vidya-vinaya-sampanne

brahmane gavi hastini

sunī caiva sva-pake ca

panditah sama-darsinah

SYNONYMS

vidya—education; vinaya—gentleness; sampanne—fully equipped; brahmane—in the brahmana; gavi—in the cow; hastini—in the elephant; sunī—in the dog; ca—and; eva—certainly; sva-pake—in the dog-eater (the outcaste); ca—respectively;

panditah—those who are so wise; sama—darsinah—do see with equal vision.

TRANSLATION

The humble sage, by virtue of true knowledge, sees with equal vision a learned and gentle brahmana, a cow, an elephant, a dog and a dog-eater [outcaste].

PURPORT

A Krsna conscious person does not make any distinction between species or castes. The brahmana and the outcaste may be different from the social point of view, or a dog, a cow, and an elephant may be different from the point of view of species, but these differences of body are meaningless from the viewpoint of a learned transcendentalist. This is due to their relationship to the Supreme, for the Supreme Lord, by His plenary portion as Paramatma, is present in everyone's heart. Such an understanding of the Supreme is real knowledge. As far as the bodies are concerned in different castes or different species of life, the Lord is equally kind to everyone because He treats every living being as a friend yet maintains Himself as Paramatma regardless of the circumstances of the living entities. The Lord as Paramatma is present in both the outcaste and in the brahmana, although the body of a brahmana and that of an outcaste are not the same. The bodies are material productions of different modes of material nature, but the soul and the Supersoul within the body are of the same spiritual quality. The similarity in the quality of the soul and the Supersoul, however, does not make them equal in quantity, for the individual soul is present only in that particular body whereas the Paramatma is present in each and every body. A Krsna conscious person has full knowledge of this, and therefore he is truly learned and has equal vision. The similar characteristics of the soul and the Supersoul are that they are both conscious, eternal and blissful. But the difference is that the individual soul is conscious within the limited jurisdiction of the body whereas the Supersoul is conscious of all bodies. The Supersoul is present in all bodies without distinction.

TEXT 19

ihaiva tair jitah sargo

yesam samye sthitam manah

nirdosam hi samam brahma

tasmad brahmani te sthitah

SYNONYMS

iha—in this life; eva—certainly; tair—by them; jitah—conquered; sargah—birth and death; yesam—of those; samye—in equanimity; sthitam—so situated; manah—mind; nirdosam—flawless; hi—certainly; samam—in equanimity; brahma—the Supreme; tasmad—therefore; brahmani—in the Supreme; te—they; sthitah—are situated.

TRANSLATION

Those whose minds are established in sameness and equanimity have already conquered the conditions of birth and death. They are flawless like Brahman, and thus they are already situated in Brahman.

PURPORT

Equanimity of mind, as mentioned above, is the sign of self-realization. Those who have actually attained to such a stage should be considered to have conquered material conditions, specifically birth and death. As long as one identifies with this body, he is considered a conditioned soul, but as soon as he is elevated to the stage of equanimity through realization of self, he is liberated from conditional life. In other words, he is no longer subject to take birth in the material world but can enter into the spiritual sky after his death. The Lord is flawless because He is without attraction or hatred. Similarly, when a living entity is without attraction or hatred, he also becomes flawless and eligible to enter into the spiritual sky. Such persons are to be considered already liberated, and their symptoms are described below.

TEXT 20

na prahr̥syet priyam prapya

nodvijet prapya capriyam

sthira–buddhir asammudho

brahma–vid brahmani sthitah

SYNONYMS

na—never; prahr̥syet—rejoice; priyam—pleasant; prapya—achieving; na—does not; udvijet—agitated; prapya—obtaining; ca—also; apriyam—unpleasant; sthira–buddhih—self–intelligent; asammudhah—unbewildered; brahma–vit—one who knows the Supreme perfectly; brahmani—in the transcendence; sthitah—situated.

TRANSLATION

A person who neither rejoices upon achieving something pleasant nor laments upon obtaining something unpleasant, who is self–intelligent, unbewildered, and who knows the science of God, is to be understood as already situated in transcendence.

PURPORT

The symptoms of the self–realized person are given herein. The first symptom is that he is not illusioned by the false identification of the body with his true self. He knows perfectly well that he is not this body, but is the fragmental portion of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. He is therefore not joyful in achieving something, nor does he lament in losing anything which is related to his body. This steadiness of mind is called sthira–buddhi, or self–intelligence. He is therefore never bewildered by mistaking the gross body for the soul, nor does he accept the body as permanent and disregard the existence of the soul. This knowledge elevates him to the station of knowing the complete science of the Absolute Truth, namely Brahman, Paramatma and Bhagavan. He thus knows his constitutional position perfectly well, without falsely trying to become one with the Supreme in all respects. This is called Brahman realization, or self–realization. Such steady consciousness is called Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 21

bahya–sparsesv asaktatma

vindaty atmani yat sukham

sa brahma–yoga–yuktatma

sukham aksayam asnute

SYNONYMS

bahya–sparsesu—in external sense pleasure; asakta–atma—one who is not so attached; vindati—enjoys; atmani—in the self; yat—that which; sukham—happiness; sah—that; brahma–yoga—concentrated in Brahman; yukta–atma—self–connected; sukham—happiness; aksayam—unlimited; asnute—enjoys.

TRANSLATION

Such a liberated person is not attracted to material sense pleasure or external objects but is always in trance, enjoying the pleasure within. In this way the self-realized person enjoys unlimited happiness, for he concentrates on the Supreme.

PURPORT

Sri Yamunacarya, a great devotee in Krsna consciousness, said:

yad-avadhi mama cetah krsna-padaravinde

nava-nava-rasa-dhamany udyatam rantum asit

tad-avadhi bata nari-sangame smaryamane

bhavati mukha-vikarah susthu nisthivanam ca

"Since I have been engaged in the transcendental loving service of Krsna, realizing ever-new pleasure in Him, whenever I think of sex pleasure, I spit at the thought, and my lips curl with distaste." A person in brahma-yoga, or Krsna consciousness, is so absorbed in the loving service of the Lord that he loses his taste for material sense pleasure altogether. The highest pleasure in terms of matter is sex pleasure. The whole world is moving under its spell, and a materialist cannot work at all without this motivation. But a person engaged in Krsna consciousness can work with greater vigor without sex pleasure, which he avoids. That is the test in spiritual realization. Spiritual realization and sex pleasure go ill together. A Krsna conscious person is not attracted to any kind of sense pleasure due to his being a liberated soul.

TEXT 22

ye hi samsparsa—ja bhoga

duhkha—yonaya eva te

ady—antavantah kaunteya

na tesu ramate budhah

SYNONYMS

ye—those; hi—certainly; samsparsa—jah—by contact with the material senses; bhogah—enjoyments; duhkha—distress; yonayah—sources of; eva—certainly; te—they are; adi—beginning; anta—end; vantah—subject to; kaunteya—O son of Kunti; na—never; tesu—in those; ramate—takes delight; budhah—the intelligent person.

TRANSLATION

An intelligent person does not take part in the sources of misery, which are due to contact with the material senses. O son of Kunti, such pleasures have a beginning and an end, and so the wise man does not delight in them.

PURPORT

Material sense pleasures are due to the contact of the material senses, which are all temporary because the body itself is temporary. A liberated soul is not interested in anything which is temporary. Knowing well the joys of transcendental pleasures, how can a liberated soul agree to enjoy false pleasure? In the Padma Purana it is said:

ramante yogino 'nante

satyanande cid-atmani

iti rama-padenasau

param brahmabhidhiyate

"The mystics derive unlimited transcendental pleasures from the Absolute Truth, and therefore the Supreme Absolute Truth, the Personality of Godhead, is also known as Rama."

In the Srimad-Bhagavatam also (5.5.1) it is said:

nayam deho deha-bhajam nr-loke

kastan kaman arhate vid-bhujam ye tapo divyam putraka yena sattvam

suddhyed yasmad brahma-saukhyam tv anantam

"My dear sons, there is no reason to labor very hard for sense pleasure while in this human form of life; such pleasures are available to the stool-eaters [hogs]. Rather, you should undergo penances in this life by which your existence will be purified, and, as a result, you will be able to enjoy unlimited transcendental bliss."

Therefore, those who are true yogis or learned transcendentalists are not attracted by sense pleasures, which are the causes of continuous material existence. The more one is addicted to material pleasures, the more he is entrapped by material miseries.

TEXT 23

saknotihaiva yah sodhum

prak sarira—vimoksanat

kama—krodhodbhavam vegam

sa yuktah sa sukhi narah

SYNONYMS

saknoti—able to do; iha eva—in the present body; yah—one who; sodhum—to tolerate; prak—before; sarira—body; vimoksanat—give up; kama—desire; krodha—anger; udbhavam—generated from; vegam—urge; sah—he; yuktah—in trance; sah—he; sukhi—happy; narah—human being.

TRANSLATION

Before giving up this present body, if one is able to tolerate the urges of the material senses and check the force of desire and anger, he is a yogi and is happy in this world.

PURPORT

If one wants to make steady progress on the path of self-realization, he must try to control the forces of the material senses. There are the forces of talk, forces of anger, forces of mind, forces of the stomach, forces of the genitals, and forces of the tongue. One who is able to control the forces of all these different senses, and the mind, is called gosvami, or svami. Such gosvamis live strictly controlled lives, and forgo altogether the forces of the senses. Material desires, when unsatiated, generate anger, and thus the mind, eyes and chest become agitated. Therefore, one must practice to control them before one gives up this material body. One who can do this is understood to be self-realized and is thus happy in the state of self-realization. It is the duty of the transcendentalist to try strenuously to control desire and anger.

TEXT 24

yo 'ntah-sukho 'ntar-aramas

tathantar-jyotir eva yah

sa yogi brahma-nirvanam

brahma-bhuto 'dhigacchati

SYNONYMS

yah—one who; antah-sukhah—happy from within; antah-aramah—active within; tatha—as well as; antah-jyotih—aiming within; eva—certainly; yah—anyone; sah—he; yogi—mystic; brahma-nirvanam—liberated in the Supreme; brahma-bhuta—self-realized; adhigacchati—attains.

TRANSLATION

One whose happiness is within, who is active within, who rejoices within and is illumined within, is actually the perfect mystic. He is liberated in the Supreme, and ultimately he attains the Supreme.

PURPORT

Unless one is able to relish happiness from within, how can one retire from the external engagements meant for deriving superficial happiness? A liberated person enjoys happiness by factual experience. He can, therefore, sit silently at any place and enjoy the activities of life from within. Such a liberated person no longer desires external material happiness. This state is called brahma–bhuta, attaining which one is assured of going back to Godhead, back to home.

TEXT 25

labhante brahma–nirvanam

rsayah ksina–kalmasah

chinna–dvaidha yatatmanah

sarva–bhuta–hite ratah

SYNONYMS

labhante—achieve; brahma–nirvanam—liberation in the Supreme; rsayah—those who are active within; ksina–kalmasah—who are devoid of all sins; chinna—torn off; dvaidhah—duality; yata–atmanah—engaged in self–realization; sarva–bhuta—in all living entities; hite—in welfare work; ratah—engaged.

TRANSLATION

One who is beyond duality and doubt, whose mind is engaged within, who is always busy working for the welfare of all sentient beings, and who is free from all sins, achieves liberation in the Supreme.

PURPORT

Only a person who is fully in Kṛṣṇa consciousness can be said to be engaged in welfare work for all living entities. When a person is actually in the knowledge that Kṛṣṇa is the fountainhead of everything, then when he acts in that spirit he acts for everyone. The sufferings of humanity are due to forgetfulness of Kṛṣṇa as the supreme enjoyer, the supreme proprietor, and the supreme friend. Therefore, to act to revive this consciousness within the entire human society is the highest welfare work. One cannot be engaged in first-class welfare work without being liberated in the Supreme. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person has no doubt about the supremacy of Kṛṣṇa. He has no doubt because he is completely freed from all sins. This is the state of divine love.

A person engaged only in ministering to the physical welfare of human society cannot factually help anyone. Temporary relief of the external body and the mind is not satisfactory. The real cause of one's difficulties in the hard struggle for life may be found in one's forgetfulness of his relationship with the Supreme Lord. When a man is fully conscious of his relationship with Kṛṣṇa, he is actually a liberated soul, although he may be in the material tabernacle.

TEXT 26

kama-krodha-vimuktanam

yatinam yata-cetasam

abhito brahma-nirvanam

vartate viditatmanam

SYNONYMS

kama—desires; krodha—anger; vimuktanam—of those who are so liberated; yatinam—of the saintly persons; yata-cetasam—of persons who have full control over the mind; abhitah—assured in the near future; brahma-nirvanam—liberation in the Supreme; vartate—is there; vidita-atmanam—of those who are self-realized.

TRANSLATION

Those who are free from anger and all material desires, who are self-realized, self-disciplined and constantly endeavoring for perfection, are assured of liberation in the Supreme in the very near future.

PURPORT

Of the saintly persons who are constantly engaged in striving toward salvation, one who is in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the best of all. The Bhagavatam (4.22.39) confirms this fact as follows:

yat-pada-pankaja-palasa-vilasa-bhaktya

karmasayam grathitam udgrathayanti santah

tadvan na rikta-matayo yatayo 'pi ruddha-

sroto-ganas tam aranam bhaja vasudevam

"Just try to worship, in devotional service, Vasudeva, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Even great sages are not able to control the forces of the senses as effectively as those who are engaged in transcendental bliss by serving the lotus feet of the Lord, uprooting the deep grown desire for fruitive activities."

In the conditioned soul the desire to enjoy the fruitive results of work is so deep-rooted that it is very difficult even for the great sages to control such desires, despite great endeavors. A devotee of the Lord, constantly engaged in devotional service in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, perfect in self-realization, very quickly attains liberation in the Supreme. Owing to his complete knowledge in self-realization, he always remains in trance. To cite an analogous example of this:

darsana—dhyana—samsparsair

matsya—kurma—vihangamah

svany apatyani pusnanti

tathaham api padma—ja

"By vision, by meditation and by touch only do the fish, the tortoise and the birds maintain their offspring. Similarly do I also, O Padmaja!"

The fish brings up its offspring simply by looking at them. The tortoise brings up its offspring simply by meditation. The eggs of the tortoise are laid on land, and the tortoise meditates on the eggs while in the water. Similarly, a devotee in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, although far away from the Lord's abode, can elevate himself to that abode simply by thinking of Him constantly—by engagement in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. He does not feel the pangs of material miseries; this state of life is called brahma—nirvana, or the absence of material miseries due to being constantly immersed in the Supreme.

TEXTS 27–28

sparsan kṛtvā bahir bahyaṁ

cakṣus caivantare bhruvoh

pranapanau samau kṛtvā

nasabhyantara—carinau

yatendriya—mano—buddhir

munir mokṣa—parayanah

vigateccha—bhaya—krodho

yah sada mukta eva sah

SYNONYMS

sparsan—external sense objects, such as sound, etc.; krtva—keeping; bahih—external; bahyan—unnecessary; caksuh—eyes; ca—also; eva—certainly; antare—within; bhruvoh—of the eyebrows; prana—apanau—up—and down—moving air; samau—in suspension; krtva—doing so; nasa—abhyantara—within the nostrils; carinau—blowing; yata—controlled; indriya—senses; manah—mind; buddhih—intelligence; munih—the transcendentalist; moksa—liberation; parayanah—being so destined; vigata—discarded; iccha—wishes; bhaya—fear; krodhah—anger; yah—one who; sada—always; mukta—liberated; eva—certainly; sah—he is.

TRANSLATION

Shutting out all external sense objects, keeping the eyes and vision concentrated between the two eyebrows, suspending the inward and outward breaths within the nostrils—thus controlling the mind, senses and intelligence, the transcendentalist becomes free from desire, fear and anger. One who is always in this state is certainly liberated.

PURPORT

Being engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one can immediately understand one's spiritual identity, and then one can understand the Supreme Lord by means of devotional service. When he is well situated in devotional service, one comes to the transcendental position, qualified to feel the presence of the Lord in the sphere of one's activity. This particular position is called liberation in the Supreme.

After explaining the above principles of liberation in the Supreme, the Lord gives instruction to Arjuna as to how one can come to that position by the practice of the mysticism or yoga, known as astanga–yoga, which is divisible into an eightfold procedure called yama, niyama, asana, pranayama, pratyahara, dharana, dhyana, and samadhi. In the Sixth Chapter the subject of yoga is explicitly detailed, and at the end of the Fifth it is only preliminarily explained. One has to drive out the sense objects such as sound, touch, form, taste and smell by the pratyahara (breathing) process in yoga, and then keep the vision of the eyes between the two eyebrows and concentrate on the tip of the nose with half closed lids. There is no benefit in closing the eyes altogether, because then there is every chance of falling asleep. Nor is there benefit in opening the eyes completely, because then there is the hazard of being attracted by sense objects. The breathing movement is restrained within the nostrils by neutralizing the up– and down–moving air within the body. By practice of such yoga one is able to gain control over the senses, refrain from outward sense objects, and thus prepare oneself for liberation in the Supreme.

This yoga process helps one become free from all kinds of fear and anger and thus feel the presence of the Supersoul in the transcendental situation. In other words, Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the easiest process of executing yoga principles. This will be thoroughly explained in the next chapter. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person, however, being always engaged in devotional service, does not risk losing his senses to some other engagement. This is a better way of controlling the senses than by the astanga–yoga.

TEXT 29

bhoktaram yajna–tapasam

sarva–loka–maheśvaram

suhṛdam sarva–bhūtaṇām

jñatva mām santim rcchati

SYNONYMS

bhoktaram—beneficiary; yajna—sacrifices; tapasam—of penances and austerities; sarva-loka—all planets and the demigods thereof; maha-isvaram—the Supreme Lord; su-hrdam—benefactor; sarva—all; bhutanam—of the living entities; jnatva—thus knowing; mam—Me (Lord Kṛṣṇa); santim—relief from material pangs; rcchati—achieves.

TRANSLATION

The sages, knowing Me as the ultimate purpose of all sacrifices and austerities, the Supreme Lord of all planets and demigods and the benefactor and well-wisher of all living entities, attain peace from the pangs of material miseries.

PURPORT

The conditioned souls within the clutches of illusory energy are all anxious to attain peace in the material world. But they do not know the formula for peace, which is explained in this part of the Bhagavad-gītā. The greatest peace formula is simply this: Lord Kṛṣṇa is the beneficiary in all human activities. Men should offer everything to the transcendental service of the Lord because He is the proprietor of all planets and the demigods thereon. No one is greater than He. He is greater than the greatest of the demigods, Lord Śiva and Lord Brahmā. In the Vedas (Svetasvatara Upaniṣad 6.7) the Supreme Lord is described as tam isvaranam paramam mahesvaram. Under the spell of illusion, living entities are trying to be lords of all they survey, but actually they are dominated by the material energy of the Lord. The Lord is the master of material nature, and the conditioned souls are under the stringent rules of material nature. Unless one understands these bare facts, it is not possible to achieve peace in the world either individually or collectively. This is the sense of Kṛṣṇa consciousness: Lord Kṛṣṇa is the supreme predominator, and all living entities, including the great demigods, are His subordinates. One can attain perfect peace only in complete Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

This Fifth Chapter is a practical explanation of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, generally known as karma-yoga. The question of mental speculation as to how karma-yoga can give liberation is answered herewith. To work in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is to work with the complete knowledge of the Lord as the predominator. Such work is not different from transcendental knowledge. Direct Kṛṣṇa consciousness is bhakti-yoga, and jñāna-yoga is a path leading to bhakti–yoga. Krsna consciousness means to work in full knowledge of one's relationship with the Supreme Absolute, and the perfection of this consciousness is full knowledge of Krsna, or the Supreme Personality of Godhead. A pure soul is the eternal servant of God as His fragmental part and parcel. He comes into contact with maya (illusion) due to the desire to lord it over maya, and that is the cause of his many sufferings. As long as he is in contact with matter, he has to execute work in terms of material necessities. Krsna consciousness, however, brings one into spiritual life even while one is within the jurisdiction of matter, for it is an arousing of spiritual existence by practice in the material world. The more one is advanced, the more he is freed from the clutches of matter. The Lord is not partial toward anyone. Everything depends on one's practical performance of duties in an effort to control the senses and conquer the influence of desire and anger. And, attaining Krsna consciousness by controlling the above–mentioned passions, one remains factually in the transcendental stage, or brahma–nirvana. The eightfold yoga mysticism is automatically practiced in Krsna consciousness because the ultimate purpose is served. There is a gradual process of elevation in the practice of yama, niyama, asana, pratyahara, dhyana, dharana, pranayama, and samadhi. But these only preface perfection by devotional service, which alone can award peace to the human being. It is the highest perfection of life.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the Fifth Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad–gita in the matter of Karma–yoga, or Action in Krsna Consciousness.

Chapter 6

Sankhya–yoga

TEXT 1

sri–bhagavan uvaca

anasritah karma–phalam

karyam karma karoti yah

sa sannyasi ca yogi ca

na niragnir na cakriyah

SYNONYMS

sri–bhagavan uvaca—the Lord said; anasritah—without shelter; karma–phalam—the result of work; karyam—obligatory; karma—work; karoti—performs; yah—one who; sah—he; sannyasi—in the renounced order; ca—also; yogi—mystic; ca—also; na—not; nih—without; agnih—fire; na—nor; ca—also; akriyah—without duty.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: One who is unattached to the fruits of his work and who works as he is obligated is in the renounced order of life, and he is the true mystic: not he who lights no fire and performs no work.

PURPORT

In this chapter the Lord explains that the process of the eightfold yoga system is a means to control the mind and the senses. However, this is very difficult for people in general to perform, especially in the Age of Kali. Although the eightfold yoga system is recommended in this chapter, the Lord emphasizes that the process of karma-yoga, or acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, is better. Everyone acts in this world to maintain his family and their paraphernalia, but no one is working without some self-interest, some personal gratification, be it concentrated or extended. The criterion of perfection is to act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and not with a view to enjoying the fruits of work. To act in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the duty of every living entity because all are constitutionally parts and parcels of the Supreme. The parts of the body work for the satisfaction of the whole body. The limbs of the body do not act for self-satisfaction but for the satisfaction of the complete whole. Similarly, the living entity who acts for satisfaction of the supreme whole and not for personal satisfaction is the perfect sannyasi, the perfect yogi.

The sannyasis sometimes artificially think that they have become liberated from all material duties, and therefore they cease to perform agnihotra yajnas (fire sacrifices), but actually they are self-interested because their goal is becoming one with the impersonal Brahman. Such a desire is greater than any material desire, but it is not without self-interest. Similarly, the mystic yogi who practices the yoga system with half-open eyes, ceasing all material activities, desires some satisfaction for his personal self. But a person acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness works for the satisfaction of the whole, without self-interest. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person has no desire for self-satisfaction. His criterion of success is the satisfaction of Kṛṣṇa, and thus he is the perfect sannyasi, or perfect yogi. Lord Caitanya, the highest perfectional symbol of renunciation, prays in this way:

na dhanam na janam na sundarim

kavitam va jagad-isa kamaye

mama janmani janmanisvare

bhavatad bhaktir ahaituki tvayi

"O Almighty Lord, I have no desire to accumulate wealth, nor to enjoy beautiful women. Nor do I want any number of followers. What I want only is the causeless mercy of Your devotional service in my life, birth after birth."

TEXT 2

yam sannyasam iti prahur

yogam tam viddhi pandava

na hy asannyasta—sankalpo

yogi bhavati kascana

SYNONYMS

yam—what; sannyasam—renunciation; iti—thus; prahuh—they say; yogam—linking with the Supreme; tam—that; viddhi—you must know; pandava—O son of Pandu; na—never; hi—certainly; asannyasta—without giving up; sankalpah—self-satisfaction; yogi—a mystic transcendentalist; bhavati—becomes; kascana—anyone.

TRANSLATION

What is called renunciation is the same as yoga, or linking oneself with the Supreme, for no one can become a yogi unless he renounces the desire for sense gratification.

PURPORT

Real sannyasa—yoga or bhakti means that one should know his constitutional position as the living entity, and act accordingly. The living entity has no separate independent identity. He is the marginal energy of the Supreme. When he is entrapped by material energy, he is conditioned, and when he is Kṛṣṇa conscious, or aware of the spiritual energy, then he is in his real and natural state of life. Therefore, when one is in complete knowledge, one ceases all material sense gratification, or renounces all kinds of sense gratificatory activities. This is practiced by the yogis who restrain the senses from material attachment. But a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness has no opportunity to engage his senses in anything which is not for the purpose of Kṛṣṇa. Therefore, a Kṛṣṇa conscious person is simultaneously a sannyasi and a yogi. The purpose of knowledge and of restraining the senses, as prescribed in the jñāna and yoga processes, is automatically served in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. If one is unable to give up the activities of his selfish nature, then jñāna and yoga are of no avail. The real aim is for a living entity to give up all selfish satisfaction and to be prepared to satisfy the Supreme. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person has no desire for any kind of self-enjoyment. He is always engaged for the enjoyment of the Supreme. One who has no information of the Supreme must therefore be engaged in self-satisfaction, because no one can stand on the platform of inactivity. All purposes are perfectly served by the practice of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 3

aruruksor muner yogam

karma karanam ucyate

yogarudhasya tasyaiva

samah karanam ucyate

SYNONYMS

aruruksor—of one who has just begun yoga; muneh—of the sage; yogam—the eightfold yoga system; karma—work; karanam—the cause; ucyate—is said to be;

yoga—eightfold yoga; arudhasya—of one who has attained; tasya—his; eva—certainly; samah—cessation of all material activities; karanam—the cause; ucyate—is said to be.

TRANSLATION

For one who is a neophyte in the eightfold yoga system, work is said to be the means; and for one who has already attained to yoga, cessation of all material activities is said to be the means.

PURPORT

The process of linking oneself with the Supreme is called yoga, which may be compared to a ladder for attaining the topmost spiritual realization. This ladder begins from the lowest material condition of the living entity and rises up to perfect self-realization in pure spiritual life. According to various elevations, different parts of the ladder are known by different names. But all in all, the complete ladder is called yoga and may be divided into three parts, namely jnana-yoga, dhyana-yoga and bhakti-yoga. The beginning of the ladder is called the yogaruruksu stage, and the highest rung is called yogarudha.

Concerning the eightfold yoga system, attempts in the beginning to enter into meditation through regulative principles of life and practice of different sitting postures (which are more or less bodily exercises) are considered fruitive material activities. All such activities lead to achieving perfect mental equilibrium to control the senses. When one is accomplished in the practice of meditation, he ceases all disturbing mental activities.

A Kṛṣṇa conscious person is, however, situated from the beginning on the platform of meditation because he always thinks of Kṛṣṇa. And, being constantly engaged in the service of Kṛṣṇa, he is considered to have ceased all material activities.

TEXT 4

yada hi nendriyarthesu

na karmasv anusajjate

sarva-sankalpa-sannyasi

yogarudhas tadocyate

SYNONYMS

yada—when; hi—certainly; na—not; indriya-arthesu—in sense gratification; na—never; karmasu—in fruitive activities; anusajjate—does necessarily engage; sarva-sankalpa—all material desires; sannyasi—renouncer; yoga-arudhah—elevated in yoga; tada—at that time; ucyate—is said to be.

TRANSLATION

A person is said to be have attained to yoga when, having renounced all material desires, he neither acts for sense gratification nor engages in fruitive activities.

PURPORT

When a person is fully engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Lord, he is pleased in himself, and thus he is no longer engaged in sense gratification or in fruitive activities. Otherwise, one must be engaged in sense gratification, since one cannot live without engagement. Without Krsna consciousness, one must be always seeking self-centered or extended selfish activities. But a Krsna conscious person can do everything for the satisfaction of Krsna and thereby be perfectly detached from sense gratification. One who has no such realization must mechanically try to escape material desires before being elevated to the top rung of the yoga ladder.

TEXT 5

uddhared atmanatmanam

natmanam avasadayet

atmaiva hy atmano bandhur

atmaiva ripur atmanah

SYNONYMS

uddharet—one must deliver; atmana—by the mind; atmanam—the conditioned soul; na—never; atmanam—the conditioned soul; avasadayet—put into degradation; atma—mind; eva—certainly; hi—indeed; atmanah—of the conditioned soul; bandhuh—friend; atma—mind; eva—certainly; ripuh—enemy; atmanah—of the conditioned soul.

TRANSLATION

A man must elevate himself by his own mind, not degrade himself. The mind is the friend of the conditioned soul, and his enemy as well.

PURPORT

The word atma denotes body, mind and soul—depending upon different circumstances. In the yoga system, the mind and the conditioned soul are especially important. Since the mind is the central point of yoga practice, atma refers here to the mind. The purpose of the yoga system is to control the mind and to draw it away from attachment to sense objects. It is stressed herein that the mind must be so trained that it can deliver the conditioned soul from the mire of nescience. In material existence one is subjected to the influence of the mind and the senses. In fact, the pure soul is entangled in the material world because of the mind's ego which desires to lord it over material nature. Therefore, the mind should be trained so that it will not be attracted by the glitter of material nature, and in this way the conditioned soul may be saved. One should not degrade oneself by attraction to sense objects. The more one is attracted by sense objects, the more one becomes entangled in material existence. The best way to disentangle oneself is to always engage the mind in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The word hi is used for emphasizing this point, i.e., that one must do this. It is also said:

mana eva manusyanam

karanam bandha—moksayoh

bandhaya visayasango

muktyai nirvisayam manah

"For man, mind is the cause of bondage and mind is the cause of liberation. Mind absorbed in sense objects is the cause of bondage, and mind detached from the sense objects is the cause of liberation." (Amṛta—bindu Upaniṣad 2) Therefore, the mind which is always engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the cause of supreme liberation.

TEXT 6

bandhur atmatmanas tasya

yenatmaivatmana jitah

anatmanas tu satrutve

vartetatmaiva satru—vat

SYNONYMS

bandhuh—friend; atma—mind; atmanah—of the living entity; tasya—of him; yena—by whom; atma—mind; eva—certainly; atmana—by the living entity; jitah—conquered; anatmanah—of one who has failed to control the mind; tu—but; satrutve—because of enmity; varteta—remains; atma eva—the very mind; satru-vat—as an enemy.

TRANSLATION

For him who has conquered the mind, the mind is the best of friends; but for one who has failed to do so, his very mind will be the greatest enemy.

PURPORT

The purpose of practicing eightfold yoga is to control the mind in order to make it a friend in discharging the human mission. Unless the mind is controlled, the practice of yoga (for show) is simply a waste of time. One who cannot control his mind lives always with the greatest enemy, and thus his life and its mission are spoiled. The constitutional position of the living entity is to carry out the order of the superior. As long as one's mind remains an unconquered enemy, one has to serve the dictations of lust, anger, avarice, illusion, etc. But when the mind is conquered, one voluntarily agrees to abide by the dictation of the Personality of Godhead, who is situated within the heart of everyone as Paramatma. Real yoga practice entails meeting the Paramatma within the heart and then following His dictation. For one who takes to Kṛṣṇa consciousness directly, perfect surrender to the dictation of the Lord follows automatically.

TEXT 7

jitatmanah prasantasya

paramatma samahitah

sitosna—sukha—duhkhesu

tatha manapamanayoh

SYNONYMS

jita—atmanah—of one who has conquered his mind; prasantasya—of who has attained tranquillity by such control over the mind; parama—atma—the Supersoul; samahitah—approached completely; sita—cold; usna—heat; sukha—in happiness; duhkhesu—in distress; tatha—also; mana—honor; apamanayoh—and dishonor.

TRANSLATION

For one who has conquered the mind, the Supersoul is already reached, for he has attained tranquillity. To such a man happiness and distress, heat and cold, honor and dishonor are all the same.

PURPORT

Actually, every living entity is intended to abide by the dictation of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, who is seated in everyone's heart as Paramatma. When the mind is misled by the external illusory energy, one becomes entangled in material activities. Therefore, as soon as one's mind is controlled through one of the yoga systems, one is to be considered as having already reached the destination. One has to abide by superior dictation. When one's mind is fixed on the superior nature, he has no other alternative but to follow the dictation of the Supreme. The mind must admit some superior dictation and follow it. The effect of controlling the mind is that one automatically follows the dictation of the Paramatma or Supersoul. Because this transcendental position is at once achieved by one who is in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the devotee of the Lord is unaffected by the dualities of material existence, namely distress and happiness, cold and heat, etc. This state is practical samadhi, or absorption in the Supreme.

TEXT 8

jnana–vijnana–trptatma

kuta–stho vijitendriyah

yukta ity ucyate yogi

sama–lostrasma–kancanah

SYNONYMS

jnana—acquired knowledge; vijnana—realized knowledge; trpta—satisfied; atma—living entity; kuta–sthah—spiritually situated; vijita–indriyah—sensually controlled; yuktah—competent for self–realization; iti—thus; ucyate—is said; yogi—the mystic; sama—equipoised; lostra—pebbles; asma—stone; kancanah—gold.

TRANSLATION

A person is said to be established in self–realization and is called a yogi [or mystic] when he is fully satisfied by virtue of acquired knowledge and realization. Such a person is situated in transcendence and is self–controlled. He sees everything—whether it be pebbles, stones or gold—as the same.

PURPORT

Book knowledge without realization of the Supreme Truth is useless. This is stated as follows:

atah sri-krsna-namadi

na bhaved grahyam indriyaih

sevonmukhe hi jihvadau

svayam eva sphuraty adah

"No one can understand the transcendental nature of the name, form, quality and pastimes of Sri Krsna through his materially contaminated senses. Only when one becomes spiritually saturated by transcendental service to the Lord are the transcendental name, form, quality and pastimes of the Lord revealed to him." (Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu 1.2.234)

This Bhagavad-gita is the science of Krsna consciousness. No one can become Krsna conscious simply by mundane scholarship. One must be fortunate enough to associate with a person who is in pure consciousness. A Krsna conscious person has realized knowledge, by the grace of Krsna, because he is satisfied with pure devotional service. By realized knowledge, one becomes perfect. By transcendental knowledge one can remain steady in his convictions, but by mere academic knowledge one can be easily deluded and confused by apparent contradictions. It is the realized soul who is actually self-controlled because he is surrendered to Krsna. He is transcendental because he has nothing to do with mundane scholarship. For him mundane scholarship and mental speculation, which may be as good as gold to others, are of no greater value than pebbles or stones.

TEXT 9

suhrn-mitravy-udasina-

madhyastha-dvesya-bandhusu

sadhusv api ca papesu

sama-buddhir visisyate

SYNONYMS

su-hrt---by nature a well-wisher; mitra---benefactor with affection; ari---enemy; udasina---neutral between belligerents; madhya-stha---mediator between the belligerents; dvesya---envious; bandhusu---among relatives or well-wishers; sadhusu---unto the pious; api---as well as; ca---and; papesu---unto the sinners; sama-buddhih---having equal intelligence; visisyate---is far advanced.

TRANSLATION

A person is said to be still further advanced when he regards all---the honest well-wisher, friends and enemies, the envious, the pious, the sinner and those who are indifferent and impartial---with an equal mind.

TEXT 10

yogi yunjita satatam

atmanam rahasi sthitah

ekaki yata-cittatma

nirasir aparigraha

SYNONYMS

yogi—a transcendentalist; yunjita—must concentrate in Kṛṣṇa consciousness; satatam—constantly; atmanam—himself (by the body, mind and self); rahasi—in a secluded place; sthitah—being so situated; ekaki—alone; yata-citta-atma—always careful in mind; nirasih—without being attracted by anything else; aparigrahaḥ—free from the feeling of possessiveness.

TRANSLATION

A transcendentalist should always try to concentrate his mind on the Supreme Self; he should live alone in a secluded place and should always carefully control his mind. He should be free from desires and feelings of possessiveness.

PURPORT

Kṛṣṇa is realized in different degrees as Brahman, Paramatma and the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Kṛṣṇa consciousness means, concisely, to be always engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Lord. But those who are attached to the impersonal Brahman or the localized Supersoul are also partially Kṛṣṇa conscious, because impersonal Brahman is the spiritual ray of Kṛṣṇa and Supersoul is the all-pervading partial expansion of Kṛṣṇa. Thus the impersonalist and the meditator are also indirectly Kṛṣṇa conscious. A directly Kṛṣṇa conscious person is the topmost transcendentalist because such a devotee knows what is meant by Brahman or Paramatma. His knowledge of the Absolute Truth is perfect, whereas the impersonalist and the meditative yogi are imperfectly Kṛṣṇa conscious.

Nevertheless, all of these are instructed herewith to be constantly engaged in their particular pursuits so that they may come to the highest perfection sooner or later. The first business of a transcendentalist is to keep the mind always on Kṛṣṇa. One should always think of Kṛṣṇa and not forget Him even for a moment. Concentration of the mind on the Supreme is called samadhi, or trance. In order to concentrate the mind, one should always remain in seclusion and avoid disturbance by external objects. He should be very careful to accept favorable and reject unfavorable conditions that affect his realization. And, in perfect determination, he should not hanker after unnecessary material things that entangle him by feelings of possessiveness.

All these perfections and precautions are perfectly executed when one is directly in Krsna consciousness, because direct Krsna consciousness means self-abnegation, wherein there is very little chance for material possessiveness. Srila Rupa Gosvami characterizes Krsna consciousness in this way:

anasaktasya visayan

yatharham upayunjatah

nirbandhah krsna-sambandhe

yuktam vairagyam ucyate

prapancikataya buddhya

hari-sambandhi-vastunah

mumuksubhih parityago

vairagyam phalgu kathyate

"When one is not attached to anything, but at the same time accepts everything in relation to Krsna, one is rightly situated above possessiveness. On the other hand, one who rejects everything without knowledge of its relationship to Krsna is not as complete in his renunciation." (Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu 2.255-256)

A Krsna conscious person well knows that everything belongs to Krsna, and thus he is always free from feelings of personal possession. As such, he has no hankering for anything on his own personal account. He knows how to accept things in favor of Krsna consciousness and how to reject things unfavorable to Krsna consciousness. He is always aloof from material things because he is always transcendental, and he is always alone, having nothing to do with persons not in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Therefore a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the perfect yogi.

TEXTS 11–12

sucau dese pratisthapyā

sthīram āśanam ātmanah

naty-ucchritam nati-nīcam

cailājina-kusottaram

tatraikāgram manah kṛtvā

yata-cittendriya-kriyāh

upaviśyasane yunjyāt

yogam ātma-viśuddhaye

SYNONYMS

sucau—in a sanctified; dese—in the land; pratisthapyā—placing; sthīram—firm; āśanam—seat; ātmanah—self-dependent; na—not; ati—too; ucchritam—high; na—nor; ati—too; nīcam—low; caila-ājina—soft cloth and deerskin; kusottaram—kusa grass; tatra—thereupon; eka-āgram—one attention; manah—mind; kṛtvā—doing so; yata-citta—controlling the mind; indriya—senses; kriyāh—activities; upaviśya—sitting on; āsane—on the seat; yunjyāt—execute; yogam—yoga practice; ātma—heart; viśuddhaye—for clarifying.

TRANSLATION

To practice yoga, one should go to a secluded place and should lay kusa grass on the ground and then cover it with a deerskin and a soft cloth. The seat should neither be too high nor too low and should be situated in a sacred place. The yogi should then sit on it very firmly and should practice yoga by controlling the mind and the senses, purifying the heart and fixing the mind on one point.

PURPORT

"Sacred place" refers to places of pilgrimage. In India the yogis, the transcendentalists or the devotees all leave home and reside in sacred places such as Prayaga, Mathura, Vrndavana, Hrsikesa and Hardwar and in solitude practice yoga where the sacred rivers like the Yamuna and the Ganges flow. But often this is not possible, especially for Westerners. The so-called yoga societies in big cities may be successful in earning material benefit, but they are not at all suitable for the actual practice of yoga. One who is not self-controlled and whose mind is not undisturbed cannot practice meditation. Therefore, in the Brhan-naradiya Purana it is said that in the Kali-yuga (the present yuga, or age) when people in general are short-lived, slow in spiritual realization and always disturbed by various anxieties, the best means of spiritual realization is chanting the holy name of the Lord.

harer nama harer nama

harer namaiva kevalam

kalau nasty eva nasty eva

nasty eva gatih anyatha

"In this age of quarrel and hypocrisy the only means of deliverance is chanting the holy name of the Lord. There is no other way. There is no other way. There is no other way."

TEXTS 13–14

samam kaya–siro–grivam

dharayann acalam sthirah

sampreksya nasikagram svam

disas canavalokayan

prasantatma vigata–bhir

brahmacari–vrate sthitah

manah samyamya mac–citto

yukta asita mat–parah

SYNONYMS

samam—straight; kaya–sirah—body and head; grivam—neck; dharayan—holding; acalam—unmoved; sthirah—still; sampreksya—looking; nasika—nose; agram—tip; svam—own; disah—all sides; ca—also; anavalokayan—not seeing; prasanta—unagitated; atma—mind; vigata–bhir—devoid of fear; brahmacari–vrate—in the vow of celibacy; sthitah—situated; manah—mind; samyamya—completely subduing; mat—upon Me (Kṛṣṇa); cittah—concentrated; yuktah—the actual yogi; asita—being so; mat—unto Me; parah—the ultimate goal.

TRANSLATION

One should hold one's body, neck and head erect in a straight line and stare steadily at the tip of the nose. Thus, with an unagitated, subdued mind, devoid of fear, completely free from sex life, one should meditate upon Me within the heart and make Me the ultimate goal of life.

PURPORT

The goal of life is to know Kṛṣṇa, who is situated within the heart of every living being as Paramatma, the four-handed Viṣṇu form. The yoga process is practiced in order to discover and see this localized form of Viṣṇu, and not for any other purpose. The localized viṣṇu-murti is the plenary representation of Kṛṣṇa dwelling within one's heart. One who has no program to realize this viṣṇu-murti is uselessly engaged in mock-yoga practice and is certainly wasting his time. Kṛṣṇa is the ultimate goal of life, and the viṣṇu-murti situated in one's heart is the object of yoga practice. To realize this viṣṇu-murti within the heart, one has to observe complete abstinence from sex life; therefore one has to leave home and live alone in a secluded place, remaining seated as mentioned above. One cannot enjoy sex life daily at home or elsewhere and attend a so-called yoga class and thus become a yogi. One has to practice controlling the mind and avoiding all kinds of sense gratification, of which sex life is the chief. In the rules of celibacy written by the great sage Yajñavalkya it is said:

karmana manasa vaca

sarvavasthasu sarvada

sarvatra maithuna-tyago

brahmacaryam pracaksate

"The vow of brahmacarya is meant to help one completely abstain from sex indulgence in work, words and mind—at all times, under all circumstances, and in all places." No one can perform correct yoga practice through sex indulgence. Brahmacarya is taught, therefore, from childhood when one has no knowledge of sex life. Children at the age of five are sent to the guru-kula, or the place of the spiritual master, and the master trains the young boys in the strict discipline of becoming brahmacaris. Without such practice, no one can make advancement in any yoga, whether it be dhyana, jnana or bhakti. One who, however, follows the rules and regulations of married life, having a sexual relationship only with his wife (and that also under regulation), is also called brahmacari. Such a restrained householder brahmacari may be accepted in the bhakti school, but the jnana and dhyana schools do not even admit householder brahmacaris. They require complete abstinence without compromise. In the bhakti school, a householder brahmacari is allowed controlled sex life because the cult of bhakti–yoga is so powerful that one automatically loses sexual attraction, being engaged in the superior service of the Lord. In the Bhagavad–gita (2.59) it is said:

visaya vinivartante

niraharasya dehinah

rasa–varjam raso 'py asya

param drstva nivartate

Whereas others are forced to restrain themselves from sense gratification, a devotee of the Lord automatically refrains because of superior taste. Other than the devotee, no one has any information of that superior taste.

Vigata–bhiih. One cannot be fearless unless one is fully in Krsna consciousness. A conditioned soul is fearful due to his perverted memory, his forgetfulness of his eternal relationship with Krsna. The Bhagavatam (11.2.37) says, bhayam dvitiyabhinivesatah syad isad apetasya viparyayo 'smrtih. Krsna consciousness is the only basis for fearlessness. Therefore, perfect practice is possible for a person who is Krsna conscious. And since the ultimate goal of yoga practice is to see the Lord within, a Krsna conscious person is already the best of all yogis. The principles of the yoga system mentioned herein are different from those of the popular so–called yoga societies.

TEXT 15

yunjann evam sadatmanam

yogi niyata–manasah

santim nirvana–paramam

mat–samstham adhigacchati

SYNONYMS

yunjan—practicing like this; evam—as mentioned above; sada—constantly; atmanam—body, mind and soul; yogi—the mystic transcendentalist; niyata–manasah—regulated mind; santim—peace; nirvana–paramam—cessation of material existence; mat–samstham—in the spiritual sky (the kingdom of God); adhigacchati—does attain.

TRANSLATION

Thus practicing control of the body, mind and activities, the mystic transcendentalist attains to the kingdom of God [or the abode of Kṛṣṇa] by cessation of material existence.

PURPORT

The ultimate goal in practicing yoga is now clearly explained. Yoga practice is not meant for attaining any kind of material facility; it is to enable the cessation of all material existence. One who seeks an improvement in health or aspires after material perfection is no yogi according to Bhagavad-gītā. Nor does cessation of material existence entail one's entering into "the void," which is only a myth. There is no void anywhere within the creation of the Lord. Rather, the cessation of material existence enables one to enter into the spiritual sky, the abode of the Lord. The abode of the Lord is also clearly described in the Bhagavad-gītā as that place where there is no need of sun, moon or electricity. All the planets in the spiritual kingdom are self-illuminated like the sun in the material sky. The kingdom of God is everywhere, but the spiritual sky and the planets thereof are called param dhama, or superior abodes.

A consummate yogi, who is perfect in understanding Lord Kṛṣṇa, as is clearly stated herein (mat-cittah, mat-parah, mat-sthanam) by the Lord Himself, can attain real peace and can ultimately reach His supreme abode, the Kṛṣṇaloka, known as Goloka Vṛndavana. In the Brahma-saṁhita (5.37) it is clearly stated, (goloka eva nivasaty akhila-tma-bhutaḥ) that the Lord, although residing always in His abode called Goloka, is the all-pervading Brahman and the localized Paramatma as well by dint of His superior spiritual energies. No one can reach the spiritual sky (Vaikuntha) or enter into the Lord's eternal abode (Goloka Vṛndavana) without the proper understanding of Kṛṣṇa and His plenary expansion Viṣṇu. Therefore a person working in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the perfect yogi, because his mind is always absorbed in Kṛṣṇa's activities (sa vai manah kṛṣṇa-pada-ravindayoḥ). In the Vedas also (Svetasvatara Upaniṣad 3.8) we learn, tam eva viditvati mṛtyum eti: "One can overcome the path of birth and death only by understanding the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa." In other words, perfection of the yoga system is the attainment of freedom from material existence and not some magical jugglery or gymnastic feats to fool innocent people.

TEXT 16

naty-asnatas 'tu yogo 'sti

na caikāntam anasataḥ

na cati-svapna-silasya

jagrato naiva carjuna

SYNONYMS

na—never; ati—too much; asataḥ—of one who eats so; tu—but; yogah—linking with the Supreme; asti—there is; na—nor; ca—also; ekāntam—very low; anasataḥ—abstaining from eating; na—nor; ca—also; ati—too much; svapna-silasya—of one who sleeps too much; jagrataḥ—or one who keeps night watch too much; na—not; eva—ever; ca—and; arjuna—O Arjuna.

TRANSLATION

There is no possibility of one's becoming a yogi, O Arjuna, if one eats too much, or eats too little, sleeps too much or does not sleep enough.

PURPORT

Regulation of diet and sleep is recommended herein for the yogis. Too much eating means eating more than is required to keep the body and soul together. There is no need for men to eat animals, because there is an ample supply of grains, vegetables, fruits and milk. Such simple foodstuff is considered to be in the mode of goodness according to the Bhagavad-gita. Animal food is for those in the mode of ignorance. Therefore, those who indulge in animal food, drinking, smoking and eating food which is not first offered to Kṛṣṇa will suffer sinful reactions because of eating only polluted things. Bhunjate te tv agham papa ye pacanty atma-karanat. Anyone who eats for sense pleasure, or cooks for himself, not offering his food to Kṛṣṇa, eats only sin. One who eats sin and eats more than is allotted to him cannot execute perfect yoga. It is best that one eat only the remnants of foodstuff offered to Kṛṣṇa. A person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness does not eat anything which is not first offered to Kṛṣṇa. Therefore, only the Kṛṣṇa conscious person can attain perfection in yoga practice. Nor can one who artificially abstains from eating, manufacturing his own personal process of fasting, practice yoga. The Kṛṣṇa conscious person observes fasting as it is recommended in the scriptures. He does not fast or eat more than is required, and he is thus competent to perform yoga practice. One who eats more than required will dream very much while sleeping, and he must consequently sleep more than is required. One should not sleep more than six hours daily. One who sleeps more than six hours out of twenty-four is certainly influenced by the mode of ignorance. A person in the mode of ignorance is lazy and prone to sleep a great deal. Such a person cannot perform yoga.

TEXT 17

yuktahara–viharasya

yukta–cestasya karmasu

yukta–svapnavabodhasya

yogo bhavati duhkha–ha

SYNONYMS

yukta—regulated; ahara—eating; viharasya—recreation; yukta—regulated; cestasya—of one who works for maintenance; karmasu—in discharging duties; yukta—regulated; svapna–avabodhasya—regulated sleep and wakefulness; yogah—practice of yoga; bhavati—becomes; duhkha–ha—diminishing pains.

TRANSLATION

He who is temperate in his habits of eating, sleeping, working and recreation can mitigate all material pains by practicing the yoga system.

PURPORT

Extravagance in the matter of eating, sleeping, defending and mating—which are demands of the body—can block advancement in the practice of yoga. As far as eating is concerned, it can be regulated only when one is practiced to take and accept prasadam, sanctified food. Lord Kṛṣṇa is offered, according to the Bhagavad-gītā (9.26), vegetables, flowers, fruits, grains, milk, etc. In this way, a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness becomes automatically trained not to accept food not meant for human consumption, or which not in the category of goodness. As far as sleeping is concerned, a Kṛṣṇa conscious person is always alert in the discharge of his duties in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, and therefore any unnecessary time spent sleeping is considered a great loss. Avyarthā–kalatvam: a Kṛṣṇa conscious person cannot bear to pass a minute of his life without being engaged in the service of the Lord. Therefore, his sleeping is kept to a minimum. His ideal in this respect is Srila Rupa Gosvami, who was always engaged in the service of Krsna and who could not sleep more than two hours a day, and sometimes not even that. Thakura Haridasa would not even accept prasadam nor even sleep for a moment without finishing his daily routine of chanting with his beads three hundred thousand names. As far as work is concerned, a Krsna conscious person does not do anything which is not connected with Krsna's interest, and thus his work is always regulated and is untainted by sense gratification. Since there is no question of sense gratification, there is no material leisure for a person in Krsna consciousness. And because he is regulated in all his work, speech, sleep, wakefulness and all other bodily activities, there is no material misery for him.

TEXT 18

yada viniyatam cittam

atmany evavatisthate

nisprhah sarva-kamebhyo

yukta ity ucyate tada

SYNONYMS

yada—when; viniyatam—particularly disciplined; cittam—the mind and its activities; atmani—in the transcendence; eva—certainly; avatisthate—becomes situated; nisprhah—devoid of desire; sarva—all kinds of; kamebhyah—material desires; yukta—well situated in yoga; iti—thus; ucyate—is said to be; tada—at that time.

TRANSLATION

When the yogi, by practice of yoga, disciplines his mental activities and becomes situated in transcendence—devoid of all material desires—he is said to have attained yoga.

PURPORT

The activities of the yogi are distinguished from those of an ordinary person by his characteristic cessation from all kinds of material desires—of which sex is the chief. A perfect yogi is so well disciplined in the activities of the mind that he can no longer be disturbed by any kind of material desire. This perfectional stage can automatically be attained by persons in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, as stated in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (9.4.18–20):

sa vai manah kṛṣṇa-padaravindayor

vacamsi vaikuntha-guṇānuvāṇane

karau harer mandira-marjanadisu

śrutiṁ cakāracyuta-sat-kathodaye

mukunda-lingalaya-darsane dr̥ṣṭau

tad-bhṛtya-gaṭra-sparśe 'nga-saṅgamam

ghraṇam ca tat-pada-saroja-saurabhe

śrīmat-tulasya rasanam tad-arpite

padau hareḥ kṣetra-padaṇuṣarpane

śiro hr̥ṣīkeśa-padaḥbhivandane

kāmam ca dasye na tu kama-kāmyayā

"King Ambarisa first of all engaged his mind on the lotus feet of Lord Kṛṣṇa; then, one after another, he engaged his words in describing the transcendental qualities of the Lord, his hands in mopping the temple of the Lord, his ears in hearing of the activities of the Lord, his eyes in seeing the transcendental forms of the Lord, his body in touching the bodies of the devotees, his sense of smell in smelling the scents of the lotus flower offered to the Lord, his tongue in tasting the tulasi leaf offered at the lotus feet of the Lord, his legs in going to places of pilgrimage and the temple of the Lord, his head in offering obeisances unto the Lord and his desires in executing the mission of the Lord. All these transcendental activities are quite befitting a pure devotee."

This transcendental stage may be inexpressible subjectively by the followers of the impersonalist path, but it becomes very easy and practical for a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, as is apparent in the above description of the engagements of Maharaja Ambarisa. Unless the mind is fixed on the lotus feet of the Lord by constant remembrance, such transcendental engagements are not practical. In the devotional service of the Lord, therefore, these prescribed activities are called arcana, or engaging all the senses in the service of the Lord. The senses and the mind require engagements. Simple abnegation is not practical. Therefore, for people in general—especially those who are not in the renounced order of life—transcendental engagement of the senses and the mind as described above is the perfect process for transcendental achievement, which is called yukta in the Bhagavad-gīta.

TEXT 19

yatha dipo nivata—stho

nengate sopama smṛta

yogino yata—cittasya

yunjato yogam atmanah

SYNONYMS

yatha—as; dipah—a lamp; nivata—sthah—in a place without wind; na—does not; ingate—waver; sa upama—compared to that; smrta—likened; yoginah—of the yogi; yata—cittasya—whose mind is controlled; yunjatah—constantly engaged in; yogam—meditation; atmanah—on transcendence.

TRANSLATION

As a lamp in a windless place does not waver, so the transcendentalist, whose mind is controlled, remains always steady in his meditation on the transcendent self.

PURPORT

A truly Kṛṣṇa conscious person, always absorbed in transcendence, in constant undisturbed meditation on his worshipable Lord, is as steady as a lamp in a windless place.

TEXTS 20–23

yatroparamate cittam

niruddham yoga-sevaya

yatra caivatmanatmanam

pasyann atmani tusyati

sukham atyantikam yat tad

buddhi—grahyam atindriyam

vetti yatra na caivayam

sthitah calati tattvatah

yam labdhva caparam labham

manyate nadhikam tatah

yasmin sthito na duhkkena

gurunapi vicalyate

tam vidyad duhkha—samyoga—

viyogam yoga—samjnitam

SYNONYMS

yatra—in that state of affairs; uparamate—when one feels transcendental happiness; cittam—mental activities; niruddham—restrained from matter; yoga—sevaya—by performance of yoga; yatra—in that; ca—also; eva—certainly; atmana—by the pure mind; atmanam—the self; pasyan—realizing the position; atmani—in the self; tussyati—becomes satisfied; sukham—happiness; atyantikam—supreme; yat—in which; tat—that; buddhi—intelligence; grahyam—accessible; atindriyam—transcendental; vetti—knows; yatra—wherein; na—never; ca—also; eva—certainly; ayam—in this; sthitah—situated; calati—moves; tattvatah—from the truth; yam—that which; labdhva—by attainment; ca—also; aparam—any other; labham—gain; manyate—does not mind; na—never; adhikam—more than that; tatah—from that; yasmin—in which; sthitah—being situated; na—never; duhkkena—by miseries; guruna api—even though very difficult; vicalyate—becomes shaken; tam—that; vidyat—you must know; duhkha—samyoga—miseries of material contact; viyogam—extermination; yoga—samjnitam—trance in yoga.

TRANSLATION

The stage of perfection is called trance, or samadhi, when one's mind is completely restrained from material mental activities by practice of yoga. This is characterized by one's ability to see the self by the pure mind and to relish and rejoice in the self. In that joyous state, one is situated in boundless transcendental happiness and enjoys himself through transcendental senses. Established thus, one never departs from the truth and upon gaining this he thinks there is no greater gain. Being situated in such a position, one is never shaken, even in the midst of greatest difficulty. This indeed is actual freedom from all miseries arising from material contact.

PURPORT

By practice of yoga one becomes gradually detached from material concepts. This is the primary characteristic of the yoga principle. And after this, one becomes situated in trance, or samadhi, which means that the yogi realizes the Supersoul through transcendental mind and intelligence, without any of the misgivings of identifying the self with the Superself. Yoga practice is more or less based on the principles of the Patanjali system. Some unauthorized commentators try to identify the individual soul with the Supersoul, and the monists think this to be liberation, but they do not understand the real purpose of the Patanjali system of yoga. There is an acceptance of transcendental pleasure in the Patanjali system, but the monists do not accept this transcendental pleasure, out of fear of jeopardizing the theory of oneness. The duality of knowledge and knower is not accepted by the nondualist, but in this verse transcendental pleasure—realized through transcendental senses—is accepted. And this is corroborated by Patanjali Muni, the famous exponent of the yoga system. The great sage declares in his Yoga-sutras (3.34): purusartha-sunyanam gunanam pratiprasavah kaivalyam svarupa-pratistha va citi-saktir iti.

This citi-sakti, or internal potency, is transcendental. Purusartha means material religiosity, economic development, sense gratification and, at the end, the attempt to become one with the Supreme. This "oneness with the Supreme" is called kaivalyam by the monist. But according to Patanjali, this kaivalyam is an internal, or transcendental, potency by which the living entity becomes aware of his constitutional position. In the words of Lord Caitanya, this state of affairs is called ceto-darpana-marjanam, or clearance of the impure mirror of the mind. This "clearance" is actually liberation, or bhava-maha-davagni-nirvapanam. The theory of nirvana—also preliminary—corresponds with this principle. In the Bhagavatam (2.10.6) this is called svarupena vyavasthitiḥ. The Bhagavad-gita also confirms this situation in this verse.

After nirvana, or material cessation, there is the manifestation of spiritual activities, or devotional service to the Lord, known as Kṛṣṇa consciousness. In the words of the Bhagavatam, svarupena vyavasthitiḥ: this is the "real life of the living entity." Maya, or illusion, is the condition of spiritual life contaminated by material infection. Liberation from this material infection does not mean destruction of the original eternal position of the living entity. Patañjali also accepts this by his words kaivalyam svarupa-pratistha va citi-saktir iti. This citi-sakti, or transcendental pleasure, is real life. This is confirmed in the Vedānta-sūtra (1.1.12) as ānanda-mayo 'bhyasat. This natural transcendental pleasure is the ultimate goal of yoga and is easily achieved by execution of devotional service, or bhakti-yoga. Bhakti-yoga will be vividly described in the Seventh Chapter of Bhagavad-gita.

In the yoga system, as described in this chapter, there are two kinds of samādhi, called samprajñata-samādhi and asamprajñata-samādhi. When one becomes situated in the transcendental position by various philosophical researches, it is called samprajñata-samādhi. In the asamprajñata-samādhi there is no longer any connection with mundane pleasure, for one is then transcendental to all sorts of happiness derived from the senses. When the yogi is once situated in that transcendental position, he is never shaken from it. Unless the yogi is able to reach this position, he is unsuccessful. Today's so-called yoga practice, which involves various sense pleasures, is contradictory. A yogi indulging in sex and intoxication is a mockery. Even those yogis who are attracted by the siddhis (perfections) in the process of yoga are not perfectly situated. If the yogis are attracted by the by-products of yoga, then they cannot attain the stage of perfection, as is stated in this verse. Persons, therefore, indulging in the make-show practice of gymnastic feats or siddhis should know that the aim of yoga is lost in that way.

The best practice of yoga in this age is Kṛṣṇa consciousness, which is not baffling. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person is so happy in his occupation that he does not aspire after any other happiness. There are many impediments especially in this age of hypocrisy, to practicing hatha-yoga, dhyāna-yoga and jñāna-yoga, but there is no such problem in executing karma-yoga or bhakti-yoga.

As long as the material body exists, one has to meet the demands of the body, namely eating, sleeping, defending and mating. But a person who is in pure bhakti-yoga or in Kṛṣṇa consciousness does not arouse the senses while meeting the demands of the body. Rather, he accepts the bare necessities of life, making the best use of a bad bargain, and enjoys transcendental happiness in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. He is callous toward incidental occurrences—such as accidents, disease, scarcity and even the death of a most dear relative—but he is always alert to execute his duties in Kṛṣṇa consciousness or bhakti-yoga. Accidents never deviate him from his duty. As stated in the Bhagavad-gītā (2.14), agamapayino 'nityas tams titikṣasva bhārata. He endures all such incidental occurrences because he knows that they come and go and do not affect his duties. In this way he achieves the highest perfection in yoga practice.

TEXT 24

sa niscayena yoktavyo

yogo 'nirvinna-cetasa

sankalpa-prabhavan kamaṁ

tyaktva sarvaṁ aśeṣataḥ

manasaivendriya-graṁaṁ

vinīyamya samantataḥ

SYNONYMS

sah—that yoga system; niscayena—with firm determination; yoktavyah—must be practiced; yogah—in such practice; anirvinna-cetasa—without deviation; sankalpa—material desires; prabhavan—born of; kama—sense gratification; tyaktva—giving up; sarva—all; aśeṣataḥ—completely; manasa—by the mind; eva—certainly; indriya-graṁaṁ—the full set of senses; vinīyamya—regulating; samantataḥ—from all sides.

TRANSLATION

One should engage oneself in the practice of yoga with undeviating determination and faith. One should abandon, without exception, all material desires born of false ego and thus control all the senses on all sides by the mind.

PURPORT

The yoga practitioner should be determined and should patiently prosecute the practice without deviation. One should be sure of success at the end and pursue this course with great perseverance, not becoming discouraged if there is any delay in the attainment of success. Success is sure for the rigid practitioner. Regarding bhakti-yoga, Rupa Gosvami says:

utsahan niscayad dhairyat

tat-tat-karma-pravartanat

sanga-tyagat sato vrtteh

sadbhir bhaktih prasidhyati

"The process of bhakti-yoga can be executed successfully with full-hearted enthusiasm, perseverance, and determination by following the prescribed duties in the association of devotees and by engaging completely in activities of goodness." (Upadesamrta 3)

As for determination, one should follow the example of the sparrow who lost her eggs in the waves of the ocean. A sparrow laid her eggs on the shore of the ocean, but the big ocean carried away the eggs on its waves. The sparrow became very upset and asked the ocean to return her eggs. The ocean did not even consider her appeal. So the sparrow decided to dry up the ocean. She began to pick out the water in her small beak, and everyone laughed at her for her impossible determination. The news of her activity spread, and at last Garuda, the gigantic bird carrier of Lord Visnu, heard it. He became compassionate toward his small sister bird, and so he came to see the sparrow. Garuda was very pleased by the determination of the small sparrow, and he promised to help. Thus Garuda at once asked the ocean to return her eggs lest he himself take up the work of the sparrow. The ocean was frightened at this, and returned the eggs. Thus the sparrow became happy by the grace of Garuda.

Similarly, the practice of yoga, especially bhakti–yoga in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, may appear to be a very difficult job. But if anyone follows the principles with great determination, the Lord will surely help, for God helps those who help themselves.

TEXT 25

sanaih sanair uparamed

buddhya dhṛti–grhitaya

atma–samstham manah kṛtva

na kincid api cintayet

SYNONYMS

sanaih—gradually; sanaih—step by step; uparamet—hesitated; buddhya—by intelligence; dhṛti–grhitaya—carrying the conviction; atma–samstham—placed in transcendence; manah—mind; kṛtva—doing so; na—not; kincit—anything else; api—even; cintayet—be thinking of.

TRANSLATION

Gradually, step by step, with full conviction, one should become situated in trance by means of intelligence, and thus the mind should be fixed on the self alone and should think of nothing else.

PURPORT

By proper conviction and intelligence one should gradually cease sense activities. This is called pratyahara. The mind, being controlled by conviction, meditation, and cessation of the senses, should be situated in trance, or samadhi. At that time there is no longer any danger of becoming engaged in the material conception of life. In other words, although one is involved with matter as long as the material body exists, one should not think about sense gratification. One should think of no pleasure aside from the pleasure of the Supreme Self. This state is easily attained by directly practicing Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 26

yato yato niscalati

manas cancelam asthiram

tatas tato niyamyaitad

atmany eva vasam nayet

SYNONYMS

yatah—whatever; yatah—wherever; niscalati—verily agitated; manah—the mind; cancelam—flickering; asthiram—unsteady; tatah—from there; tatah—and thereafter; niyamyā—regulating; etat—this; atmani—in the self; eva—certainly; vasam—control; nayet—must bring in.

TRANSLATION

From whatever and wherever the mind wanders due to its flickering and unsteady nature, one must certainly withdraw it and bring it back under the control of the self.

PURPORT

The nature of the mind is flickering and unsteady. But a self-realized yogi has to control the mind; the mind should not control him. One who controls the mind (and therefore the senses as well) is called gosvami, or svami, and one who is controlled by the mind is called go-dasa, or the servant of the senses. A gosvami knows the standard of sense happiness. In transcendental sense happiness, the senses are engaged in the service of Hrsikesa, or the supreme owner of the senses—Krsna. Serving Krsna with purified senses is called Krsna consciousness. That is the way of bringing the senses under full control. What is more, that is the highest perfection of yoga practice.

TEXT 27

prasanta—manasam hy enam

yoginam sukham uttamam

upaiti santa—rajasam

brahma—bhutam akalmasam

SYNONYMS

prasanta—mind fixed on the lotus feet of Krsna; manasam—of one whose mind is so fixed; hi—certainly; enam—this; yoginam—the yogi; sukham—happiness; uttamam—the highest; upaiti—attains; santa—rajasam—pacified passion; brahma—bhutam—liberation by identification with the Absolute; akalmasam—freed from all past sinful reaction.

TRANSLATION

The yogi whose mind is fixed on Me verily attains the highest happiness. By virtue of his identity with Brahman, he is liberated; his mind is peaceful, his passions are quieted, and he is freed from sin.

PURPORT

Brahma-bhuta is the state of being free from material contamination and situated in the transcendental service of the Lord. Mad-bhaktim labhate param (Bg. 18.54). One cannot remain in the quality of Brahman, the Absolute, until one's mind is fixed on the lotus feet of the Lord. Sa vai manah krsna-padaravindayoh. To be always engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Lord, or to remain in Krsna consciousness, is to be factually liberated from the mode of passion and all material contamination.

TEXT 28

yunjann evam sadatmanam

yogi vigata-kalmasah

sukhena brahma-samsparsam

atyantam sukham asnute

SYNONYMS

yunjan—thus being engaged in yoga practice; evam—thus; sada—always; atmanam—self; yogi—one who is in touch with the Supreme Self; vigata—is freed from; kalmasah—all material contamination; sukhena—in transcendental happiness; brahma-samsparsam—being in constant touch with the Supreme; atyantam—highest; sukham—happiness; asnute—attains.

TRANSLATION

Steady in the self, being freed from all material contamination, the yogi achieves the highest perfectional stage of happiness in touch with the supreme consciousness.

PURPORT

Self-realization means knowing one's constitutional position in relationship to the Supreme. The individual soul is part and parcel of the Supreme, and his position is to render transcendental service to the Lord. This transcendental contact with the Supreme is called brahma-samsparsa.

TEXT 29

sarva-bhuta-stham atmanam

sarva-bhutani catmani

iksate yoga-yuktatma

sarvatra sama-darsanah

SYNONYMS

sarva—bhuta—stham—situated in all beings; atmanam—the Supersoul; sarva—all; bhutani—entities; ca—also; atmani—in the self; iksate—does see; yoga-yukta-atma—one who is dovetailed in Kṛṣṇa consciousness; sarvatra—everywhere; sama-darsanah—seeing equally.

TRANSLATION

A true yogi observes Me in all beings, and also sees every being in Me. Indeed, the self-realized man sees Me everywhere.

PURPORT

A Kṛṣṇa conscious yogi is the perfect seer because he sees Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme, situated in everyone's heart as Supersoul (Paramatma). Isvarah sarva-bhutanam hrd-dese 'rjuna tisthati. The Lord in His Paramatma feature is situated within both the heart of the dog and that of a brahmana. The perfect yogi knows that the Lord is eternally transcendental and is not materially affected by His presence in either a dog or a brahmana. That is the supreme neutrality of the Lord. The individual soul is also situated in the individual heart, but he is not present in all hearts. That is the distinction between the individual soul and the Supersoul. One who is not factually in the practice of yoga cannot see so clearly. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person can see Kṛṣṇa in the heart of both the believer and the nonbeliever. In the smṛti this is confirmed as follows: atatvac ca matrtvac ca atma hi paramo harih. The Lord, being the source of all beings, is like the mother and the maintainer. As the mother is neutral to all different kinds of children, the supreme father (or mother) is also. Consequently the Supersoul is always in every living being.

Outwardly, also, every living being is situated in the energy of the Lord. As will be explained in the Seventh Chapter, the Lord has, primarily, two energies—the spiritual (or superior) and the material (or inferior). The living entity, although part of the superior energy, is conditioned by the inferior energy; the living entity is always in the Lord's energy. Every living entity is situated in Him in one way or another.

The yogi sees equally because he sees that all living entities, although in different situations according to the results of fruitive work, in all circumstances remain the servants of God. While in the material energy, the living entity serves the material senses; and while in spiritual energy, he serves the Supreme Lord directly. In either case the living entity is the servant of God. This vision of equality is perfect in a person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 30

yo mam pasyati sarvatra

sarvam ca mayi pasyati

tasyaḥ na pranasyami

sa ca me na pranasyati

SYNONYMS

yah—whichever; mam—Me; pasyati—sees; sarvatra—everywhere; sarvam—everything; ca—and; mayi—in Me; pasyati—he sees; tasya—his; aham—I; na—not; pranasyami—am lost; sa—he; ca—also; me—to Me; na—nor; pranasyati—is lost.

TRANSLATION

For one who sees Me everywhere and sees everything in Me, I am never lost, nor is he ever lost to Me.

PURPORT

A person in Kṛṣṇa consciousness certainly sees Lord Kṛṣṇa everywhere, and he sees everything in Kṛṣṇa. Such a person may appear to see all separate manifestations of the material nature, but in each and every instance he is conscious of Kṛṣṇa, knowing that everything is the manifestation of Kṛṣṇa's energy. Nothing can exist without Kṛṣṇa, and Kṛṣṇa is the Lord of everything—this is the basic principle of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the development of love of Kṛṣṇa—a position transcendental even to material liberation. It is the stage beyond self-realization at which the devotee becomes one with Kṛṣṇa in the sense that Kṛṣṇa becomes everything for the devotee and the devotee becomes full in loving Kṛṣṇa. An intimate relationship between the Lord and the devotee then exists. In that stage, the living entity attains his immortality. Nor is the Personality of Godhead ever out of the sight of the devotee. To merge in Kṛṣṇa is spiritual annihilation. A devotee takes no such risk. It is stated in the Brahma-saṁhita (5.38):

premanjana-cchurita-bhakti-vilocanena

santah sadaiva hrdayesu vilokayanti

yam syamasundaram acintya-guna-svarupam

govindam adi-purusam tam aham bhajami

"I worship the primeval Lord, Govinda, who is always seen by the devotee whose eyes are anointed with the pulp of love. He is seen in His eternal form of Syamasundara situated within the heart of the devotee."

At this stage, Lord Kṛṣṇa never disappears from the sight of the devotee, nor does the devotee ever lose sight of the Lord. In the case of a yogi who sees the Lord as Paramatma within the heart, the same applies. Such a yogi turns into a pure devotee and cannot bear to live for a moment without seeing the Lord within himself.

TEXT 31

sarva—bhuta—sthitam yo mam

bhajaty ekatvam asthitah

sarvatha vartamano 'pi

sa yogi mayi vartate

SYNONYMS

sarva—bhuta—sthitam—situated in everyone's heart; yah—he who; mam—unto Me; bhajati—serves in devotional service; ekatvam—oneness; asthitah—thus situated; sarvatha—in all respects; varta—manah—being situated; api—in spite of; sah—he; yogi—transcendentalist; mayi—unto Me; vartate—remains.

TRANSLATION

The yogi who knows that I and the Supersoul within all creatures are one worships Me and remains always in Me in all circumstances.

PURPORT

A yogi who is practicing meditation on the Supersoul sees within himself the plenary portion of Kṛṣṇa as Viṣṇu—with four hands, holding conchshell, wheel, club and lotus flower. The yogi should know that Viṣṇu is not different from Kṛṣṇa. Kṛṣṇa in this form of Supersoul is situated in everyone's heart. Furthermore, there is no difference between the innumerable Supersouls present in the innumerable hearts of living entities. Nor is there a difference between a Kṛṣṇa conscious person always engaged in the transcendental loving service of Kṛṣṇa and a perfect yogi engaged in meditation on the Supersoul. The yogi in Kṛṣṇa consciousness—even though he may be engaged in various activities while in material existence—remains always situated in Kṛṣṇa. This is confirmed in the Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu (1.2.187) of Srila Rupa Gosvami: nikhilasv apy avasthasu jivan-muktah sa ucyate. A devotee of the Lord, always acting in Krsna consciousness, is automatically liberated. In the Narada-pancaratra this is confirmed in this way:

dik-kalady-anavacchinne

krsne ceto vidhaya ca

tan-mayo bhavati ksipram

jivo brahmani yojayet

"By concentrating one's attention on the transcendental form of Krsna, who is all-pervading and beyond time and space, one becomes absorbed in thinking of Krsna and then attains the happy state of transcendental association with Him."

Krsna consciousness is the highest stage of trance in yoga practice. This very understanding that Krsna is present as Paramatma in everyone's heart makes the yogi faultless. The Vedas (Gopala-tapani Upanisad 1.21) confirm this inconceivable potency of the Lord as follows: eko 'pi san bahudha yo 'vabhati. "Although the Lord is one, He is present in innumerable hearts as many." Similarly, in the smrti-sastra it is said:

eka eva paro visnuh

sarva-vyapi na samsayah

aisvaryad rupam ekam ca

surya-vat bahudheyate

"Visnu is one, and yet He is certainly all-pervading. By His inconceivable potency, in spite of His one form, He is present everywhere, as the sun appears in many places at once."

TEXT 32

atmaupamyena sarvatra

samam pasyati yo 'rjuna

sukham va yadi va duhkham

sa yogi paramo matah

SYNONYMS

atma—self; aupamyena—by comparison; sarvatra—everywhere; samam—equally; pasyati—sees; yah—he who; arjuna—O Arjuna; sukham—happiness; va—or; yadi—if; va—or; duhkham—distress; sah—such; yogi—transcendentalist; paramah—perfect; matah—considered.

TRANSLATION

He is a perfect yogi who, by comparison to his own self, sees the true equality of all beings, both in their happiness and distress, O Arjuna!

PURPORT

One who is Kṛṣṇa conscious is a perfect yogi; he is aware of everyone's happiness and distress by dint of his own personal experience. The cause of the distress of a living entity is forgetfulness of his relationship with God. And the cause of happiness is knowing Krsna to be the supreme enjoyer of all the activities of the human being. Krsna is the proprietor of all lands and planets, and the sincerest friend of all living entities. The perfect yogi knows that the living being who is conditioned by the modes of material nature is subjected to the threefold material miseries due to forgetfulness of his relationship with Krsna. Because one in Krsna consciousness is happy, he tries to distribute the knowledge of Krsna everywhere. Since the perfect yogi tries to broadcast the importance of becoming Krsna conscious, he is the best philanthropist in the world, and he is the dearest servitor of the Lord. Na ca tasman manusyesu kascin me priya—kṛttamah (Bg. 18.69). In other words, a devotee of the Lord always looks to the welfare of all living entities, and in this way he is factually the friend of everyone. He is the best yogi because he does not desire perfection in yoga for his personal benefit, but tries for others also. He does not envy his fellow living entities. Here is a contrast between a pure devotee of the Lord and a yogi interested only in his personal elevation. The yogi who has withdrawn to a secluded place in order to meditate perfectly may not be as perfect as a devotee who is trying his best to turn every man toward Krsna consciousness.

TEXT 33

arjuna uvaca

yo 'yam yogas tvaya proktah

samyena madhusudana

etasyaham na pasyami

cancalatvat sthitim sthiram

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; yah—the system; ayam—this; yogah—mysticism; tvaya—by You; proktah—described; samyena—generally; madhu—sudana—O killer of the demon Madhu; etasya—of this; aham—I; na—do not; pasyami—see; cancalatvat—due to being restless; sthitim—situation; sthiram—stable.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: O Madhusudana, the system of yoga which You have summarized appears impractical and unendurable to me, for the mind is restless and unsteady.

PURPORT

The system of mysticism described by Lord Kṛṣṇa to Arjuna beginning with the words sucau dese and ending with yogi paramah is here being rejected by Arjuna out of a feeling of inability. It is not possible for an ordinary man to leave home and go to a secluded place in the mountains or jungles to practice yoga in this Age of Kali. The present age is characterized by a bitter struggle for a life of short duration. People are not serious about self-realization even by simple, practical means, and what to speak of this difficult yoga system, which regulates the mode of living, the manner of sitting, selection of place, and detachment of the mind from material engagements. As a practical man, Arjuna thought it was impossible to follow this system of yoga, even though he was favorably endowed in many ways. He belonged to the royal family and was highly elevated in terms of numerous qualities; he was a great warrior, he had great longevity, and, above all, he was the most intimate friend of Lord Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Five thousand years ago, Arjuna had much better facilities than we do now, yet he refused to accept this system of yoga. In fact, we do not find any record in history of his practicing it at any time. Therefore this system must be considered generally impossible in this Age of Kali. Of course it may be possible for some very few, rare men, but for the people in general it is an impossible proposal. If this were so five thousand years ago, then what of the present day? Those who are imitating this yoga system in different so-called schools and societies, although complacent, are certainly wasting their time. They are completely in ignorance of the desired goal.

TEXT 34

cancalam hi manah kṛṣṇa

pramathi balavad drdham

tasyaham nigraham manye

vayor iva su-duskaram

SYNONYMS

cancalam—flickering; hi—certainly; manah—mind; krsna—O Krsna; pramathi—agitating; bala-vat—strong; drdham—obstinate; tasya—its; aham—I; nigraham—subduing; manye—think; vayoh—of the wind; iva—like; su-duskaram—difficult.

TRANSLATION

For the mind is restless, turbulent, obstinate and very strong, O Krsna and to subdue it, I think, is more difficult than controlling the wind.

PURPORT

The mind is so strong and obstinate that it sometimes overcomes the intelligence, although mind is supposed to be subservient to the intelligence. For a man in the practical world who has to fight so many opposing elements, it is certainly very difficult to control the mind. Artificially, one may establish a mental equilibrium toward both friend and enemy, but ultimately no worldly man can do so, for this is more difficult than controlling the raging wind. In the Vedic literature (Katha Upanisad 1.3.3–4) it is said:

atmanam rathinam viddhi

sariram ratham eva ca

buddhim tu sarathim viddhi

manah pragraham eva ca

indriyani hayan ahur

visayams tesu gocaran

atmendriya–mano–yuktam

bhoktety ahur manisinah

"The individual is the passenger in the car of the material body, and intelligence is the driver. Mind is the driving instrument, and the senses are the horses. The self is thus the enjoyer or sufferer in the association of the mind and senses. So it is understood by great thinkers." Intelligence is supposed to direct the mind, but the mind is so strong and obstinate that it often overcomes even one's own intelligence. Such a strong mind is supposed to be controlled by the practice of yoga, but such practice is never practical for a worldly person like Arjuna. And what can we say of modern man? The simile used here is appropriate: one cannot capture the blowing wind. And it is even more difficult to capture the turbulent mind. The easiest way to control the mind, as suggested by Lord Caitanya, is chanting "Hare Krsna," the great mantra for deliverance, in all humility. The method prescribed is sa vai manah krsna–padaravindayoh: one must engage one's mind fully in Krsna. Only then will there remain no other engagements to agitate the mind.

TEXT 35

sri–bhagavan uvaca

asamsayam maha–baho

mano durnigraham calam

abhyasena tu kaunteya

vairagyena ca grhyate

SYNONYMS

sri—bhagavan uvaca—the Personality of Godhead said; asamsayam—undoubtedly; maha—baho—O mighty—armed one; manah—mind; durnigraham—difficult to curb; calam—flickering; abhyasena—by practice; tu—but; kaunteya—O son of Kunti; vairagyena—by detachment; ca—also; grhyate—can be so controlled.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: O mighty—armed son of Kunti, it is undoubtedly very difficult to curb the restless mind, but it is possible by constant practice and by detachment.

PURPORT

The difficulty of controlling the obstinate mind, as expressed by Arjuna, is accepted by the Personality of Godhead. But at the same time He suggests that by practice and detachment it is possible. What is that practice? In the present age no one can observe the strict rules and regulations of placing oneself in a sacred place, focusing the mind on the Supersoul, restraining the senses and mind, observing celibacy, remaining alone, etc. By the practice of Krsna consciousness, however, one engages in nine types of devotional service to the Lord. The first and foremost of such devotional engagements is hearing about Krsna. This is a very powerful transcendental method for purging the mind of all misgivings. The more one hears about Krsna, the more one becomes enlightened and detached from everything that draws the mind away from Krsna. By detaching the mind from activities not devoted to the Lord, one can very easily learn vairagya. Vairagya means detachment from matter and engagement of the mind in spirit. Impersonal spiritual detachment is more difficult than attaching the mind to the activities of Krsna. This is practical because by hearing about Kṛṣṇa one becomes automatically attached to the Supreme Spirit. This attachment is called pārasanubhava, spiritual satisfaction. It is just like the feeling of satisfaction a hungry man has for every morsel of food he eats. Similarly, by discharge of devotional service one feels transcendental satisfaction as the mind becomes detached from material objectives. It is something like curing a disease by expert treatment and appropriate diet. Hearing of the transcendental activities of Lord Kṛṣṇa is therefore expert treatment for the mad mind, and eating the foodstuff offered to Kṛṣṇa is the appropriate diet for the suffering patient. This treatment is the process of Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 36

asamyatatmana yogo

dusprapa iti me matih

vasyatmana tu yatata

sakyo 'vaptum upayatah

SYNONYMS

asamyata—unbridled; atmana—by the mind; yogah—self-realization;
dusprapah—difficult to obtain; iti—thus; me—My; matih—opinion; vasya—controlled;
atmana—by the mind; tu—but; yatata—while endeavoring; sakyah—practical;
avaptum—to achieve; upayatah—appropriate means.

TRANSLATION

For one whose mind is unbridled, self-realization is difficult work. But he whose mind is controlled and who strives by right means is assured of success. That is My opinion.

PURPORT

The Supreme Personality of Godhead declares that one who does not accept the proper treatment to detach the mind from material engagement can hardly achieve success in self-realization. Trying to practice yoga while engaging the mind in material enjoyment is like trying to ignite a fire while pouring water on it. Similarly, yoga practice without mental control is a waste of time. Such a show of yoga practice may be materially lucrative, but it is useless as far as spiritual realization is concerned. Therefore, the mind must be controlled by engaging it constantly in the transcendental loving service of the Lord. Unless one is engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, he cannot steadily control the mind. A Kṛṣṇa conscious person easily achieves the result of yoga practice without separate endeavor, but a yoga practitioner cannot achieve success without becoming Kṛṣṇa conscious.

TEXT 37

arjuna uvaca

ayatih sraddhayopeto

yogac calita-manasah

aprapya yoga-samsiddhim

kam gatim kṛṣṇa gacchati

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; ayatih—unsuccessful transcendentalist; sraddhaya—with faith; upetah—engaged; yogat—from the mystic link; calita—deviated; manasah—of one who has such a mind; aprapya—failing; yoga-samsiddhim—highest perfection in mysticism; kam—which; gati—destination; kṛṣṇa—O Kṛṣṇa; gacchati—achieves.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna said: What is the destination of the man of faith who does not persevere, who in the beginning takes to the process of self-realization but who later desists due to worldly-mindedness and thus does not attain perfection in mysticism?

PURPORT

The path of self-realization or mysticism is described in the Bhagavad-gītā. The basic principle of self-realization is knowledge that the living entity is not this material body but that he is different from it and that his happiness is in eternal life, bliss and knowledge. These are transcendental, beyond both body and mind. Self-realization is sought by the path of knowledge, the practice of the eightfold system or by bhakti-yoga. In each of these processes one has to realize the constitutional position of the living entity, his relationship with God, and the activities whereby he can reestablish the lost link and achieve the highest perfectional stage of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Following any of the above-mentioned three methods, one is sure to reach the supreme goal sooner or later. This was asserted by the Lord in the Second Chapter: even a little endeavor on the transcendental path offers a great hope for deliverance. Out of these three methods, the path of bhakti-yoga is especially suitable for this age because it is the most direct method of God realization. To be doubly assured, Arjuna is asking Lord Kṛṣṇa to confirm His former statement. One may sincerely accept the path of self-realization, but the process of cultivation of knowledge and the practice of the eightfold yoga system are generally very difficult for this age. Therefore, despite constant endeavor one may fail for many reasons. First of all, one may not be following the process. To pursue the transcendental path is more or less to declare war on the illusory energy. Consequently, whenever a person tries to escape the clutches of the illusory energy, she tries to defeat the practitioner by various allurements. A conditioned soul is already allured by the modes of material energy, and there is every chance of being allured again, even while performing transcendental disciplines. This is called yogacālita-manasah: deviation from the transcendental path. Arjuna is inquisitive to know the results of deviation from the path of self-realization.

TEXT 38

kaccin nobhaya–vibhrastas

chinnabhram iva nasyati

apratistho maha–baho

vimudho brahmanah pathi

SYNONYMS

kaccit—whether; na—not; ubhaya—both; vibhrastah—deviated from; chinna—fallen; abhram—cloud; iva—like; nasyati—perishes; apratisthah—without any position; maha–baho—O mighty–armed Kṛṣṇa; vimudhah—bewildered; brahmanah—of transcendence; pathi—on the path.

TRANSLATION

O mighty–armed Kṛṣṇa, does not such a man, being deviated from the path of transcendence, perish like a riven cloud, with no position in any sphere?

PURPORT

There are two ways to progress. Those who are materialists have no interest in transcendence; therefore they are more interested in material advancement by economic development, or in promotion to the higher planets by appropriate work. When one takes to the path of transcendence, one has to cease all material activities and sacrifice all forms of so-called material happiness. If the aspiring transcendentalist fails, then he apparently loses both ways; in other words, he can enjoy neither material happiness nor spiritual success. He has no position; he is like a riven cloud. A cloud in the sky sometimes deviates from a small cloud and joins a big one. But if it cannot join a big one, then it is blown away by the wind and becomes a nonentity in the vast sky. The brahmanah pathi is the path of transcendental realization through knowing oneself to be spiritual in essence, part and parcel of the Supreme Lord, who is manifested as Brahman, Paramatma and Bhagavan. Lord Sri Krsna is the fullest manifestation of the Supreme Absolute Truth, and therefore one who is surrendered to the Supreme Person is a successful transcendentalist. To reach this goal of life through Brahman and Paramatma realization takes many, many births (bahunam janmanam ante). Therefore the supermost path of transcendental realization is bhakti-yoga, or Krsna consciousness, the direct method.

TEXT 39

etan me samsayam krsna

chettum arhasy asesatah

tvad—anyah samsayasyasya

chetta na hy upapadyate

SYNONYMS

etat—this is; me—my; samsayam—doubt; krsna—O Krsna; chettum—to dispel; arhasi—requested to do; asesatah—completely; tvat—than You; anyah—without; samsayasya—of the doubt; asya—of this; chetta—remover; na—never; hi—certainly; upapadyate—to be found.

TRANSLATION

This is my doubt, O Kṛṣṇa, and I ask You to dispel it completely. But for Yourself, no one is to be found who can destroy this doubt.

PURPORT

Kṛṣṇa is the perfect knower of past, present and future. In the beginning of the Bhagavad-gītā, the Lord said that all living entities existed individually in the past, they exist now in the present, and they continue to retain individual identity in the future, even after liberation from the material entanglement. So He has already cleared up the question of the future of the individual living entity. Now, Arjuna wants to know of the future of the unsuccessful transcendentalist. No one is equal to or above Kṛṣṇa, and certainly the so-called great sages and philosophers who are at the mercy of material nature cannot equal Him. Therefore the verdict of Kṛṣṇa is the final and complete answer to all doubts, because He knows past, present and future perfectly—but no one knows Him. Kṛṣṇa and Kṛṣṇa conscious devotees alone can know what is what.

TEXT 40

sri-bhagavan uvaca

partha naiveha namutra

vinasas tasya vidyate

na hi kalyana-kṛt kascid

durgatim tata gacchati

SYNONYMS

sri—bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said; partha—O son of Prtha; na eva—never is it so; iha—in this material world; na—never; amutra—in the next life; vinasah—destruction; tasya—his; vidyate—exists; na—never; hi—certainly; kalyana—krt—one who is engaged in auspicious activities; kascit—anyone; durgatim—degradation; tata—thereafter; gacchati—goes.

TRANSLATION

The Blessed Lord said: Son of Prtha, a transcendentalist engaged in auspicious activities does not meet with destruction either in this world or in the spiritual world; one who does good, My friend, is never overcome by evil.

PURPORT

In the Srimad-Bhagavatam (1.5.17) Sri Narada Muni instructs Vyasadeva as follows:

tyaktva sva—dharmam caranambujam harer

bhajann apakvo 'tha patet tato yadi

yatra kva vabhadram abhud amusya kim

ko vartha apto 'bhajatam sva—dharmatah

"If someone gives up all material prospects and takes complete shelter of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, there is no loss or degradation in any way. On the other hand a nondevotee may fully engage in his occupational duties and yet not gain anything." For material prospects, there are many activities both scriptural and customary. A transcendentalist is supposed to give up all material activities for the sake of spiritual advancement in life, Krsna consciousness. One may argue that by Krsna consciousness one may attain the highest perfection if it is completed, but if one does not attain such a perfectional stage, then he loses both materially and spiritually. It is enjoined in the scriptures that one has to suffer the reaction of not executing prescribed duties; therefore one who fails to discharge transcendental activities properly becomes subjected to these reactions. The Bhagavatam assures the unsuccessful transcendentalist that there need be no worries. Even though he may be subjected to the reaction of not perfectly executing prescribed duties, he is still not a loser, because auspicious Kṛṣṇa consciousness is never forgotten, and one so engaged will continue to be so even if he is lowborn in the next life. On the other hand, one who simply follows strictly the prescribed duties need not necessarily attain auspicious results if he is lacking in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

The purport may be understood as follows: humanity may be divided into two sections, namely, the regulated and the nonregulated. Those who are engaged simply in bestial sense gratifications without knowledge of their next life or spiritual salvation belong to the nonregulated section. And those who follow the principles of prescribed duties in the scriptures are classified amongst the regulated section. The nonregulated section, both civilized and noncivilized, educated and noneducated, strong and weak, are full of animal propensities. Their activities are never auspicious, because while enjoying the animal propensities of eating, sleeping, defending and mating, they perpetually remain in material existence, which is always miserable. On the other hand, those who are regulated by scriptural injunctions and thus gradually rise to Kṛṣṇa consciousness certainly progress in life.

Those who are then following the path of auspiciousness can be divided into three sections, namely 1) the followers of scriptural rules and regulations who are enjoying material prosperity, 2) those who are trying to find out ultimate liberation from material existence, and 3) those who are devotees in Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Those who are following the rules and regulations of the scriptures for material happiness may be further divided into two classes: those who are fruitive workers and those who desire no fruit for sense gratification. Those who are after fruitive results for sense gratification may be elevated to a higher standard of life—even to the higher planets; but still, because they are not free from material existence, they are not following the truly auspicious path. The only auspicious activities are those which lead one to liberation. Any activity which is not aimed at ultimate self-realization or liberation from the material bodily concept of life is not at all auspicious. Activity in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the only auspicious activity, and anyone who voluntarily accepts all bodily discomforts for the sake of making progress on the path of Kṛṣṇa consciousness can be called a perfect transcendentalist under severe austerity. And because the eightfold yoga system is directed toward the ultimate realization of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, such practice is also auspicious, and no one who is trying his best in this matter need fear degradation.

TEXT 41

prapya punya-krtam lokan

usitva sasvatih samah

sucinam srimatam gehe

yoga-bhrasto 'bhijayate

SYNONYMS

prapya—after achieving; punya-krtam—of those who performed pious activities; lokan—planets; usitva—after dwelling; sasvatih—many; samah—years; sucinam—of the pious; sri-matam—of the prosperous; gehe—in the house of; yoga-bhrastah—one who is fallen from the path of self-realization; abhijayate—takes his birth.

TRANSLATION

The unsuccessful yogi, after many, many years of enjoyment on the planets of the pious living entities, is born into a family of righteous people, or into a family of rich aristocracy.

PURPORT

The unsuccessful yogis are divided into two classes: one is fallen after very little progress, and one is fallen after long practice of yoga. The yogi who falls after a short period of practice goes to the higher planets where pious living entities are allowed to enter. After prolonged life there, he is sent back again to this planet, to take birth in the family of a righteous brahmana vaisnava or of aristocratic merchants.

The real purpose of yoga practice is to achieve the highest perfection of Kṛṣṇa consciousness. But those who do not persevere to such an extent and fail due to material allurements are allowed, by the grace of the Lord, to make full utilization of their material propensities. And after that, they are given opportunities to live prosperous lives in righteous or aristocratic families. Those who are born in such families may take advantage of the facilities and try to elevate themselves to full Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 42

atha va yoginam eva

kule bhavati dhimatam

etat dhi durlabhataram

loke janma yad idrsam

SYNONYMS

atha va—or; yoginam—of learned transcendentalists; eva—certainly; kule—in the family of; bhavati—takes birth; dhi-matam—of those who are endowed with great wisdom; etat—this; hi—certainly; durlabha-taram—very rare; loke—in this world; janma—birth; yat—that which; idrsam—like this.

TRANSLATION

Or he takes his birth in a family of transcendentalists who are surely great in wisdom. Verily, such a birth is rare in this world.

PURPORT

Birth in a family of yogis or transcendentalists—those with great wisdom—is praised herein because the child born in such a family receives a spiritual impetus from the very beginning of his life. It is especially the case in the acarya or gosvami families. Such families are very learned and devoted by tradition and training, and thus they become spiritual masters. In India there are many such acarya families, but they have now degenerated due to insufficient education and training. By the grace of the Lord, there are still families that foster transcendentalists generation after generation. It is certainly very fortunate to take birth in such families. Fortunately, both our spiritual master, Om Visnupada Sri Srimad Bhaktisiddhanta Sarasvati Gosvami Maharaja, and our humble self, had the opportunity to take birth in such families, by the grace of the Lord, and both of us were trained in the devotional service of the Lord from the very beginning of our lives. Later on we met by the order of the transcendental system.

TEXT 43

tatra tam buddhi-samyogam

labhate paurva-dehikam

yatate ca tato bhuyah

samsiddhau kuru-nandana

SYNONYMS

tatra—thereupon; tam—that; buddhi-samyogam—revival of such consciousness; labhate—regains; paurva—previous; dehikam—bodily consciousness; yatate—he endeavors; ca—also; tatah—thereafter; bhuyah—again; samsiddhau—for perfection; kuru-nandana—O son of Kuru.

TRANSLATION

On taking such a birth, he again revives the divine consciousness of his previous life, and he tries to make further progress in order to achieve complete success, O son of Kuru.

PURPORT

King Bharata, who took his third birth in the family of a good brahmana, is an example of good birth for the revival of previous transcendental consciousness. King Bharata was the emperor of the world, and since his time this planet is known among the demigods as Bharata—varsa. Formerly it was known as Ilavrta—varsa. The emperor, at an early age, retired for spiritual perfection but failed to achieve success. In his next life he took birth in the family of a good brahmana and was known as Jada Bharata because he always remained secluded and did not talk to anyone. And later on, he was discovered as the greatest transcendentalist by King Rahugana. From his life it is understood that transcendental endeavors, or the practice of yoga, never go in vain. By the grace of the Lord the transcendentalist gets repeated opportunities for complete perfection in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 44

purvabhyasena tenaiva

hriyate hy avaso 'pi sah

jijñasur api yogasya

sabda—brahmativartate

SYNONYMS

purva—previous; abhyasena—practice; tena—by the influence of that; eva—certainly; hriyate—is attracted; hi—surely; avasah—helpless; api—also; sah—he; jijnasuh—willing to know; api—so; yogasya—of yoga; sabda—brahma—ritualistic principles of scripture; ativartate—transcends.

TRANSLATION

By virtue of the divine consciousness of his previous life, he automatically becomes attracted to the yogic principles—even without seeking them. Such an inquisitive transcendentalist, striving for yoga, stands always above the ritualistic principles of the scriptures.

PURPORT

Advanced yogis are not very much attracted to the rituals of the scriptures, but they automatically become attracted to the yoga principles, which can elevate them to complete Kṛṣṇa consciousness, the highest yoga perfection. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam (3.33.7), such disregard of Vedic rituals by the advanced transcendentalists is explained as follows:

aho bata sva-paco 'to gariyan

yaj-jihvagre vartate nama tubhyam

tepus tapas te juhuvuh sasnur arya

brahmanucur nama grnanti ye te

"O my Lord! Persons who chant the holy names of Your Lordship are far, far advanced in spiritual life, even if born in families of dog-eaters. Such chanters have undoubtedly performed all kinds of austerities and sacrifices, bathed in all sacred places, and finished all scriptural studies."

The famous example of this was presented by Lord Caitanya, who accepted Thakura Haridasa as one of His most important disciples. Although Thakura Haridasa happened to take his birth in a Muslim family, he was elevated to the post of namacarya by Lord Caitanya due to his rigidly attended principle of chanting three hundred thousand holy names of the Lord daily: Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare. And because he chanted the holy name of the Lord constantly, it is understood that in his previous life he must have passed through all the ritualistic methods of the Vedas, known as sabda-brahma. Unless, therefore, one is purified, one cannot take to the principle of Kṛṣṇa consciousness or become engaged in chanting the holy name of the Lord, Hare Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 45

prayatnad yatamanas tu

yogi samsuddha-kilbisah

aneka-janma-samsiddhas

tato yati param gatim

SYNONYMS

prayatnat—by rigid practice; yatamanah—one who endeavors; tu—but; yogi—such a transcendentalist; samsuddha—washed off; kilbisah—all kinds of sins; aneka—many, many; janma—births; samsiddhah—so achieved perfection; tatah—thereafter; yati—attains; param—highest; gatim—destination.

TRANSLATION

But when the yogi engages himself with sincere endeavor in making further progress, being washed of all contaminations, then ultimately, after many, many births of practice, he attains the supreme goal.

PURPORT

A person born in a particularly righteous, aristocratic or sacred family becomes conscious of his favorable condition for executing yoga practice. With determination, therefore, he begins the unfinished task, and thus he completely cleanses himself of all material contaminations. When he is finally free from all contaminations, he attains the supreme perfection—Kṛṣṇa consciousness. Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the perfect stage of being freed of all contaminations. This is confirmed in the Bhagavad-gītā (7.28):

yesam tv anta-gatam papam

jananam punya-karmanam

te dvandva-moha-nirmukta

bhajante mam drdha-vratah

"After many, many births of executing pious activities, when one is completely freed from all contaminations, and from all illusory dualities, one then becomes engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Lord."

TEXT 46

tapasvibhyo 'dhiko yogi

jnanibhyo 'pi mato 'dhikah

karmibhyas cadhiko yogi

tasmad yogi bhavarjuna

SYNONYMS

tapasvibhyah—than the ascetic; adhikah—greater; yogi—the yogi; jnanibhyah—than the wise; api—also; matah—considered; adhikah—greater than; karmibhyah—than the fruitive worker; ca—also; adhikah—greater than; yogi—the yogi; tasmad—therefore; yogi—a transcendentalist; bhava—just become; arjuna—O Arjuna.

TRANSLATION

A yogi is greater than the ascetic, greater than the empiricist and greater than the fruitive worker. Therefore, O Arjuna, in all circumstances, be a yogi.

PURPORT

When we speak of yoga we refer to linking up our consciousness with the Supreme Absolute Truth. Such a process is named differently by various practitioners in terms of the particular method adopted. When the linking up process is predominantly in fruitive activities it is called karma-yoga, when it is predominantly empirical it is called jnana-yoga, and when it is predominantly in a devotional relationship with the Supreme Lord it is called bhakti-yoga. Bhakti-yoga or Kṛṣṇa consciousness is the ultimate perfection of all yogas, as will be explained in the next verse. The Lord has confirmed herein the superiority of yoga, but He has not mentioned that it is better than bhakti-yoga. Bhakti-yoga is full spiritual knowledge, and as such nothing can excel it.

Asceticism without self-knowledge is imperfect. Empiric knowledge without surrender to the Supreme Lord is also imperfect. And fruitive work without Kṛṣṇa consciousness is a waste of time. Therefore, the most highly praised form of yoga performance mentioned here is bhakti-yoga, and this is still more clearly explained in the next verse.

TEXT 47

yoginam api sarvesam

mad-gatenantar-atmana

sraddhavan bhajate yo mam

sa me yuktatamo matah

SYNONYMS

yoginam—of all yogis; api—also; sarvesam—all types of; mat-gatena—abiding in Me; antah-atmana—always thinking of Me within; sraddha-van—in full faith; bhajate—renders transcendental loving service; yah—one who; mam—Me (the Supreme Lord); sah—he; me—Mine; yukta-tamah—the greatest yogi; matah—is considered.

TRANSLATION

And of all yogis, he who always abides in Me with great faith, worshiping Me in transcendental loving service, is most intimately united with Me in yoga and is the highest of all.

PURPORT

The word bhajate is significant here. Bhajate has its root in the verb bhaj, which is used when there is need of service. The English word "worship" cannot be used in the same sense as bhaj. Worship means to adore, or to show respect and honor to the worthy one. But service with love and faith is especially meant for the Supreme Personality of Godhead. One can avoid worshipping a respectable man or a demigod and may be called discourteous, but one cannot avoid serving the Supreme Lord without being thoroughly condemned. Every living entity is part and parcel of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and thus every living entity is intended to serve the Supreme Lord by his own constitution. Failing to do this, he falls down. The Bhagavatam (11.5.3) confirms this as follows:

ya esam purusam saksad

atma-prabhavam isvaram

na bhajanty avajananti

sthanad bhrastah patanty adhah

"Anyone who does not render service and neglects his duty unto the primeval Lord, who is the source of all living entities, will certainly fall down from his constitutional position."

In this verse also the word bhajanti is used. Therefore, bhajanti is applicable to the Supreme Lord only, whereas the word "worship" can be applied to demigods or to any other common living entity. The word avajananti, used in this verse of Srimad-Bhagavatam, is also found in the Bhagavad-gita. Avajananti mam mudhah: "Only the fools and rascals deride the Supreme Personality of Godhead Lord Krsna." Such fools take it upon themselves to write commentaries on the Bhagavad-gita without an attitude of service to the Lord. Consequently they cannot properly distinguish between the word bhajanti and the word "worship."

The culmination of all kinds of yoga practices lies in bhakti yoga. All other yogas are but means to come to the point of bhakti in bhakti-yoga. Yoga actually means bhakti-yoga; all other yogas are progressions toward the destination of bhakti-yoga. From the beginning of karma-yoga to the end of bhakti-yoga is a long way to self-realization. Karma-yoga, without fruitive results, is the beginning of this path. When karma-yoga increases in knowledge and renunciation, the stage is called jnana-yoga. When jnana-yoga increases in meditation on the Supersoul by different physical processes, and the mind is on Him, it is called astanga-yoga. And, when one surpasses the astanga-yoga he comes to the point of the Supreme Personality of Godhead Kṛṣṇa, it is called bhakti yoga, the culmination. Factually, bhakti-yoga is the ultimate goal, but to analyze bhakti-yoga minutely one has to understand these other yogas. The yogi who is progressive is therefore on the true path of eternal good fortune. One who sticks to a particular point and does not make further progress is called by that particular name: karma-yogi, jnana-yogi or dhyana-yogi, raja-yogi, hatha-yogi, etc. If one is fortunate enough to come to the point of bhakti-yoga, it is to be understood that he has surpassed all other yogas. Therefore, to become Kṛṣṇa conscious is the highest stage of yoga, just as, when we speak of Himalayan, we refer to the world's highest mountains, of which the highest peak, Mount Everest, is considered to be the culmination.

It is by great fortune that one comes to Kṛṣṇa consciousness on the path of bhakti-yoga to become well situated according to the Vedic direction. The ideal yogi concentrates his attention on Kṛṣṇa, who is called Syamasundara, who is as beautifully colored as a cloud, whose lotus-like face is as effulgent as the sun, whose dress is brilliant with jewels and whose body is flower-garlanded. Illuminating all sides is His gorgeous luster, which is called the brahmajyoti. He incarnates in different forms such as Rama, Nṛsimha, Varaha and Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and He descends like a human being, as the son of mother Yasoda, and He is known as Kṛṣṇa, Govinda and Vasudeva. He is the perfect child, husband, friend and master, and He is full with all opulences and transcendental qualities. If one remains fully conscious of these features of the Lord, he is called the highest yogi.

This stage of highest perfection in yoga can be attained only by bhakti-yoga, as is confirmed in all Vedic literature:

yasya deve para bhaktir

yatha deve tatha gurau

tasyaite kathita hy arthah

prakasante mahatmanah

"Only unto those great souls who have implicit faith in both the Lord and the spiritual master are all the imports of Vedic knowledge automatically revealed." (Svetasvatara Upanisad 6.23)

Bhaktir asya bhajanam tad ihamutropadhi–nairasyenamusmin manah–kalpanam, etad eva naiskarmyam. "Bhakti means devotional service to the Lord which is free from desire for material profit, either in this life or in the next. Devoid of such inclinations, one should fully absorb the mind in the Supreme. That is the purpose of naiskarmya."
(Gopala–tapani Upanisad 1.15)

These are some of the means for performance of bhakti, or Krsna consciousness, the highest perfectional stage of the yoga system.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the Sixth Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad–gita in the matter of Sankhya–yoga Brahma–vidya.

Chapter 7

Knowledge of the Absolute

TEXT 1

sri-bhagavan uvaca

mayy asakta-manah partha

yogam yunjan mad-asrayah

asamsayam samagram mam

yatha jnasyasi tac chrnu

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Lord said; mayi—unto Me; asakta-manah—mind attached; partha—O son of Prtha; yogam—self-realization; yunjan—so practicing; mat-asrayah—in consciousness of Me (Krsna consciousness); asamsayam—without doubt; samagram—completely; mam—unto Me; yatha—as much as; jnasyasi—you can know; tat—that; srnu—try to hear.

TRANSLATION

Now hear, O son of Prtha [Arjuna], how by practicing yoga in full consciousness of Me, with mind attached to Me, you can know Me in full, free from doubt.

PURPORT

In this Seventh Chapter of Bhagavad-gita, the nature of Krsna consciousness is fully described. Krsna is full in all opulences, and how He manifests such opulences is described herein. Also, four kinds of fortunate people who become attached to Krsna and four kinds of unfortunate people who never take to Krsna are described in this chapter.

In the first six chapters of Bhagavad-gita, the living entity has been described as nonmaterial spirit soul which is capable of elevating himself to self-realization by different types of yogas. At the end of the Sixth Chapter, it has been clearly stated that the steady concentration of the mind upon Krsna, or in other words Krsna consciousness, is the highest form of all yoga. By concentrating one's mind upon Krsna, one is able to know the Absolute Truth completely, but not otherwise. Impersonal brahmajyoti or localized Paramatma realization is not perfect knowledge of the Absolute Truth because it is partial. Full and scientific knowledge is Krsna, and everything is revealed to the person in Krsna consciousness. In complete Krsna consciousness one knows that Krsna is ultimate knowledge beyond any doubts. Different types of yoga are only steppingstones on the path of Krsna consciousness. One who takes directly to Krsna consciousness automatically knows about brahmajyoti and Paramatma in full. By practice of Krsna consciousness yoga, one can know everything in full—namely the Absolute Truth, the living entities, the material nature, and their manifestations with paraphernalia.

One should therefore begin yoga practice as directed in the last verse of the Sixth Chapter. Concentration of the mind upon Krsna the Supreme is made possible by prescribed devotional service in nine different forms, of which sravanam is the first and most important. The Lord therefore says to Arjuna, tac chrnu, or "Hear from Me." No one can be a greater authority than Krsna, and therefore by hearing from Him one receives the greatest opportunity for progress in Krsna consciousness. One has therefore to learn from Krsna directly or from a pure devotee of Krsna—and not from a nondevotee upstart, puffed up with academic education.

In the Srimad-Bhagavatam this process of understanding Krsna, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the Absolute Truth, is described in the Second Chapter of the First Canto as follows:

srnvatam sva—kathah krsnah

punya—sravana—kirtanah

hrdy antah—stho hy abhadrani

vidhunoti suhrt satam

nasta—prayesu abhadresu

nityam bhagavata—sevaya

bhagavaty uttama—sloke

bhaktir bhavati naisthiki

tada rajas—tamo—bhavah

kama—lobhadays ca ye

ceta etair anaviddham

sthitam sattve prasidati

evam prasanna—manaso

bhagavad—bhakti—yogatah

bhagavat—tattva—vijñanam

mukta—sangasya jayate

bhidyate hrdaya—granthi

chidyante sarva—samsayah

ksiyante casya karmani

drsta evatmanisvare

"To hear about Krsna from Vedic literatures, or to hear from Him directly through the Bhagavad-gita, is itself righteous activity. And for one who hears about Krsna, Lord Krsna who is dwelling in everyone's heart, acts as a best-wishing friend and purifies the devotee who constantly engages in hearing of Him. In this way, a devotee naturally develops his dormant transcendental knowledge. As he hears more about Krsna from the Bhagavatam and from the devotees, he becomes fixed in the devotional service of the Lord. By development of devotional service one becomes freed from the modes of passion and ignorance, and thus material lusts and avarice are diminished. When these impurities are wiped away, the candidate remains steady in his position of pure goodness, becomes enlivened by devotional service and understands the science of God perfectly. Thus bhakti-yoga severs the hard knot of material affection and enables one to come at once to the stage of asamsayam-samagram, understanding of the Supreme Absolute Truth Personality of Godhead." (Bhag. 1.2.17-21)

Therefore only by hearing from Krsna or from His devotee in Krsna consciousness can one understand the science of Krsna.

TEXT 2

jnanam te 'ham sa-vijnanam

idam vaksyamy asesatah

yaj jnatva neha bhuyo 'nyaj

jnatavyam avasisyate

SYNONYMS

jnanam—phenomenal knowledge; te—unto you; aham—I; sa—with;
vijnanam—noumenal knowledge; idam—this; vaksyami—shall explain; asesatah—in full; yat—which; jnatva—knowing; na—not; iha—in this world; bhuyah—further;
anyat—anything more; jnatavyam—knowable; avasisyate—remains to be known.

TRANSLATION

I shall now declare unto you in full this knowledge both phenomenal and noumenal, by knowing which there shall remain nothing further to be known.

PURPORT

Complete knowledge includes knowledge of the phenomenal world and the spirit behind it. The source of both of them is transcendental knowledge. The Lord wants to explain the above-mentioned system of knowledge because Arjuna is Kṛṣṇa's confidential devotee and friend. In the beginning of the Fourth Chapter this explanation was given by the Lord, and it is again confirmed here: complete knowledge can be achieved only by the devotee of the Lord directly from the Lord in disciplic succession. Therefore one should be intelligent enough to know the source of all knowledge, who is the cause of all causes and the only object for meditation in all types of yoga practice. When the cause of all causes becomes known, then everything knowable becomes known, and nothing remains unknown. The Vedas (Mundaka Upanisad 1.3) say, kasmin bhagavo vijñate sarvam idam vijñatam bhavati.

TEXT 3

manusyanam sahasresu

kascid yatati siddhaye

yatatam api siddhanam

kascin mam vetti tattvatah

SYNONYMS

manusyanam—of men; sahasresu—out of many thousands; kascit—someone; yatati—endeavors; siddhaye—for perfection; yatatam—of those so endeavoring; api—indeed; siddhanam—of those who have achieved perfection; kascit—someone; mam—Me; vetti—does know; tattvatah—in fact.

TRANSLATION

Out of many thousands among men, one may endeavor for perfection, and of those who have achieved perfection, hardly one knows Me in truth.

PURPORT

There are various grades of men, and out of many thousands one may be sufficiently interested in transcendental realization to try to know what is the self, what is the body, and what is the Absolute Truth. Generally mankind is simply engaged in the animal propensities, namely eating, sleeping, defending and mating, and hardly anyone is interested in transcendental knowledge. The first six chapters of the Gita are meant for those who are interested in transcendental knowledge, in understanding the self, the Superself and the process of realization by jnana-yoga, dhyana-yoga and discrimination of the self from matter. However, Krsna can only be known by persons who are in Krsna consciousness. Other transcendentalists may achieve impersonal Brahman realization, for this is easier than understanding Krsna. Krsna is the Supreme Person, but at the same time He is beyond the knowledge of Brahman and Paramatma. The yogis and jnanis are confused in their attempts to understand Krsna, although the greatest of the impersonalists, Sripada Sankaracarya, has admitted in his Gita commentary that Krsna is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. But his followers do not accept Krsna as such, for it is very difficult to know Krsna, even though one has transcendental realization of impersonal Brahman.

Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the cause of all causes, the primeval Lord Govinda. Isvarah paramah kṛṣṇah sac-cid-ananda-vigrahaḥ. anadir adir govindah sarva-kāraṇa-kāraṇam. It is very difficult for the nondevotees to know Him. Although nondevotees declare that the path of bhakti or devotional service is very easy, they cannot practice it. If the path of bhakti is so easy, as the nondevotee class of men proclaim, then why do they take up the difficult path? Actually the path of bhakti is not easy. The so-called path of bhakti practiced by unauthorized persons without knowledge of bhakti may be easy, but when it is practiced factually according to the rules and regulations, the speculative scholars and philosophers fall away from the path. Śrīla Rūpa Gosvāmī writes in his Bhakti-rasamṛta-sindhu (1.2.101):

sruti-smṛti-puranadi-

pañcarātra-vidhim vina

aikāntiki harer bhaktir

utpatayaiva kalpate

"Devotional service of the Lord that ignores the authorized Vedic literatures like the Upaniṣads, Purāṇas, Nārada-pañcarātra, etc., is simply an unnecessary disturbance in society."

It is not possible for the Brahman-realized impersonalist or the Paramātmā-realized yogi to understand Kṛṣṇa the Supreme Personality of Godhead as the son of mother Yāsodā or the charioteer of Arjuna. Even the great demigods are sometimes confused about Kṛṣṇa (muhyanti yat surayaḥ). Mam tu veda na kascana: "No one knows Me as I am," the Lord says. And if one does know Him, then sa mahatma su-durlabhah. "Such a great soul is very rare." Therefore unless one practices devotional service to the Lord, he cannot know Kṛṣṇa as He is (tattvataḥ), even though one is a great scholar or philosopher. Only the pure devotees can know something of the inconceivable transcendental qualities in Kṛṣṇa, in the cause of all causes, in His omnipotence and opulence, and in His wealth, fame, strength, beauty, knowledge and renunciation, because Kṛṣṇa is benevolently inclined to His devotees. He is the last word in Brahman realization, and the devotees alone can realize Him as He is. Therefore it is said:

atah sri—krsna—namadi
na bhaved grahyam indriyaih
sevonmukhe hi jihvadau
svayam eva sphuraty adah

"No one can understand Krsna as He is by the blunt material senses. But He reveals Himself to the devotees, being pleased with them for their transcendental loving service unto Him." (Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu 1.2.234)

TEXT 4

bhumir apo 'nalo vayuh
kham mano buddhir eva ca
ahankara itiyam me
bhinna prakrtir astadha

SYNONYMS

bhumih—earth; apah—water; analah—fire; vayuh—air; kham—ether; manah—mind;
buddhih—intelligence; eva—certainly; ca—and; ahankarah—false ego; iti—thus;
iyam—all these; me—My; bhinna—separated; prakrtih—energies; astadha—total eight

.

TRANSLATION

Earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence and false ego—all together these eight constitute My separated material energies.

PURPORT

The science of God analyzes the constitutional position of God and His diverse energies. Material nature is called prakṛti, or the energy of the Lord in His different puruṣa incarnations (expansions) as described in the Satvata-tantra:

visnos tu trini rūpaṇi

puruṣakhyāny atho viduḥ

ekam tu mahatāḥ sraṣṭr

dvitīyam tv aṇḍa-saṁsthitaṁ

trītiyaṁ sarva-bhūta-sthaṁ

taṇi jñatva vimucyate

"For material creation, Lord Kṛṣṇa's plenary expansion assumes three Viṣṇu. The first one, Mahā-Viṣṇu, creates the total material energy, known as mahat-tattva. The second, Garbhodakāśayi Viṣṇu, enters into all the universes to create diversities in each of them. The third, Kṣīrodakāśayi Viṣṇu, is diffused as the all-pervading Supersoul in all the universes and is known as Paramātmā, who is present even within the atoms. Anyone who knows these three Viṣṇu can be liberated from material entanglement."

This material world is a temporary manifestation of one of the energies of the Lord. All the activities of the material world are directed by these three Viṣṇu expansions of Lord Kṛṣṇa. These puruṣas are called incarnations. Generally one who does not know the science of God (Kṛṣṇa) assumes that this material world is for the enjoyment of the living entities and that the living entities are the causes (puruṣas), controllers and enjoyers of the material energy. According to Bhagavad-gita this atheistic conclusion is false. In the verse under discussion it is stated that Krsna is the original cause of the material manifestation. Srimad-Bhagavatam also confirms this. The ingredients of the material manifestation are separated energies of the Lord. Even the brahmajyoti, which is the ultimate goal of the impersonalists, is a spiritual energy manifested in the spiritual sky. There are no spiritual diversities in the brahmajyoti as there are in the Vaikunthalokas, and the impersonalist accepts this brahmajyoti as the ultimate eternal goal. The Paramatma manifestation is also a temporary all-pervasive aspect of the Ksirodakasayi Visnu. The Paramatma manifestation is not eternal in the spiritual world. Therefore the factual Absolute Truth is the Supreme Personality of Godhead Krsna. He is the complete energetic person, and He possesses different separated and internal energies.

In the material energy, the principal manifestations are eight, as above mentioned. Out of these, the first five manifestations, namely earth, water, fire, air and sky, are called the five gigantic creations or the gross creations, within which the five sense objects are included. They are the manifestations of physical sound, touch, form, taste and smell. Material science comprises these ten items and nothing more. But the other three items, namely mind, intelligence and false ego, are neglected by the materialists. Philosophers who deal with mental activities are also not perfect in knowledge because they do not know the ultimate source, Krsna. The false ego—"I am," and "It is mine," which constitute the basic principle of material existence—includes ten sense organs for material activities. Intelligence refers to the total material creation, called the mahat-tattva. Therefore from the eight separated energies of the Lord are manifest the twenty-four elements of the material world, which are the subject matter of Sankhya atheistic philosophy; they are originally offshoots from Krsna's energies and are separated from Him, but atheistic Sankhya philosophers with a poor fund of knowledge do not know Krsna as the cause of all causes. The subject matter for discussion in the Sankhya philosophy is only the manifestation of the external energy of Krsna, as it is described in the Bhagavad-gita.

TEXT 5

apareyam itas tv anyam

prakrtim viddhi me param

jiva-bhutam maha-baho

yayedam dharyate jagat

SYNONYMS

apara—inferior; iyam—this; itah—besides this; tu—but; anyam—another;
prakrtim—energy; viddhi—just try to understand; me—My; param—superior;
jiva-bhutam—the living entities; maha-baho—O mighty-armed one; yaya—by whom;
idam—this; dharyate—being utilized or exploited; jagat—the material world.

TRANSLATION

Besides this inferior nature, O mighty-armed Arjuna, there is a superior energy of Mine, which comprises all the living entities who are struggling with material nature and are sustaining the universe.

PURPORT

Here it is clearly mentioned that living entities belong to the superior nature (or energy) of the Supreme Lord. The inferior energy is matter manifested in different elements, namely earth, water, fire, air, ether, mind, intelligence and false ego. Both forms of material nature, namely gross (earth, etc.) and subtle (mind, etc.), are products of the inferior energy. The living entities, who are exploiting these inferior energies for different purposes, are the superior energy of the Supreme Lord, and it is due to this energy that the entire material world functions. The cosmic manifestation has no power to act unless it is moved by the superior energy, the living entity. Energies are always controlled by the energetic, and therefore living entities are always controlled by the Lord—they have no independent existence. They are never equally powerful, as unintelligent men think. The distinction between the living entities and the Lord is described in Srimad-Bhagavatam (10.87.30) as follows:

aparimita dhruvas tanu-bhrto yadi sarva-gatas

tarhi na sasyateti niyamo dhruva netaratha

ajani ca yan–mayam tad avimucya niyantr bhavet

samam anujanatam yad amatam mata–dustataya

"O Supreme Eternal! If the embodied living entities were eternal and all–pervading like You, then they would not be under Your control. But if the living entities are accepted as minute energies of Your Lordship, then they are at once subject to Your supreme control. Therefore real liberation entails surrender by the living entities to Your control, and that surrender will make them happy. In that constitutional position only can they be controllers. Therefore, men with limited knowledge who advocate the monistic theory that God and the living entities are equal in all respects are actually misleading themselves and others."

The Supreme Lord Krsna is the only controller, and all living entities are controlled by Him. These living entities are His superior energy because the quality of their existence is one and the same with the Supreme, but they are never equal to the Lord in quantity of power. While exploiting the gross and subtle inferior energy (matter), the superior energy (the living entity) forgets his real spiritual mind and intelligence. This forgetfulness is due to the influence of matter upon the living entity. But when the living entity becomes free from the influence of the illusory material energy, he attains the stage called mukti, or liberation. The false ego, under the influence of material illusion, thinks, "I am matter, and material acquisitions are mine." His actual position is realized when he is liberated from all material ideas, including the conception of his becoming one in all respects with God. Therefore one may conclude that the Gita confirms the living entity to be only one of the multi–energies of Krsna; and when this energy is freed from material contamination, it becomes fully Krsna conscious, or liberated.

TEXT 6

etad–yonini bhutani

sarvanity upadharaya

aham krtsnasya jagatah

prabhavah pralayas tatha

SYNONYMS

etat—these two natures; yonini—source of birth; bhutani—everything created; sarvani—all; iti—thus; upadharaya—know; aham—I; krtsnasya—all-inclusive; jagatah—of the world; prabhavah—source of manifestation; pralayah—annihilation; tatha—as well as.

TRANSLATION

Of all that is material and all that is spiritual in this world, know for certain that I am both its origin and dissolution.

PURPORT

Everything that exists is a product of matter and spirit. Spirit is the basic field of creation, and matter is created by spirit. Spirit is not created at a certain stage of material development. Rather, this material world is manifested only on the basis of spiritual energy. This material body is developed because spirit is present within matter; a child grows gradually to boyhood and then to manhood because of that superior energy, spirit soul, being present. Similarly, the entire cosmic manifestation of the gigantic universe is developed because of the presence of the Supersoul, Visnu. Therefore spirit and matter, which combine together to manifest this gigantic universal form, are originally two energies of the Lord, and consequently the Lord is the original cause of everything. A fragmental part and parcel of the Lord, namely, the living entity, may by manipulation of material energy construct a skyscraper, a factory, or city, but he cannot create matter out of nothing, and he certainly cannot construct a planet or a universe. The cause of the universe is the Supersoul, Krsna, the Supreme creator of all individual souls and the original cause of all causes, as the Katha Upanisad (2.2.13) confirms. (Nityo nityanam cetanas cetananam.)

TEXT 7

mattah parataram nanyat

kincid asti dhananjaya

mayi sarvam idam protam

sutre mani-gana iva

SYNONYMS

mattah—beyond Myself; para-taram—superior; na—not; anyat kincit—anything else; asti—there is; dhananjaya—O conqueror of wealth; mayi—in Me; sarvam—all that be; idam—which we see; protam—strung; sutre—on a thread; mani-gana—pearls; iva—likened.

TRANSLATION

O conqueror of wealth [Arjuna], there is no truth superior to Me. Everything rests upon Me, as pearls are strung on a thread.

PURPORT

There is a common controversy over whether the Supreme Absolute Truth is personal or impersonal. As far as Bhagavad-gita is concerned, the Absolute Truth is the Personality of Godhead Sri Kṛṣṇa, and this is confirmed in every step. In this verse, in particular, it is stressed that the Absolute Truth is a person. That the Personality of Godhead is the Supreme Absolute Truth is also the affirmation of the Brahma-samhita: isvarah paramah krsnah sac-cid-ananda-vigraha; that is, the Supreme Absolute Truth Personality of Godhead is Lord Kṛṣṇa, who is the primeval Lord, the reservoir of all pleasure, Govinda, and the eternal form of complete bliss and knowledge. These authorities leave no doubt that the Absolute Truth is the Supreme Person, the cause of all causes. The impersonalist, however, argues on the strength of the Vedic version given in the Svetasvatara Upanisad (3.10): tato yad uttarataram tad arupam anamayam. ya etad vidur amṛtas te bhavanti athetare duḥkham evāpiyanti. "In the material world Brahma, the primeval living entity within the universe, is understood to be the supreme amongst the demigods, human beings and lower animals. But beyond Brahma there is the Transcendence who has no material form and is free from all material contaminations. Anyone who can know Him also becomes transcendental, but those who do not know Him suffer the miseries of the material world."

The impersonalist puts more stress on the word arupam. But this arupam is not impersonal. It indicates the transcendental form of eternity, bliss and knowledge as described in the Brahma-samhita quoted above. Other verses in the Svetasvatara Upanisad (3.8–9) substantiate this as follows:

vedāham etam puruṣam mahantam

āditya-varṇam tamasah parastat

tam eva viditvati mṛtyum eti

nānyah pantha vidyate 'yanaya

yasmat param naparam asti kincid

yasman naniyo no jyayo 'sti kincit

vrkṣa iva stabdho divi tiṣṭhaty ekaḥ

tenedam purnam puruṣena sarvaṁ

"I know that Supreme Personality of Godhead who is transcendental to all material conceptions of darkness. Only he who knows Him can transcend the bonds of birth and death. There is no way for liberation other than this knowledge of that Supreme Person.

"There is no truth superior to that Supreme Person because He is the supermost. He is smaller than the smallest, and He is greater than the greatest. He is situated as a silent tree, and He illumines the transcendental sky, and as a tree spreads its roots, He spreads His extensive energies."

From these verses one concludes that the Supreme Absolute Truth is the Supreme Personality of Godhead who is all-pervading by His multi-energies, both material and spiritual.

TEXT 8

raso 'ham apsu kaunteya

prabhasmi sasi-suryayoh

pranavah sarva-vedesu

sabdah khe paurusam nrsu

SYNONYMS

rasah--taste; aham--I; apsu--in water; kaunteya--O son of Kunti; prabha asmi--I am the light; sasi-suryayoh--in the sun and the moon; pranavah--the letters a-u-m; sarva--in all; vedesu--in the Vedas; sabdah--sound vibration; khe--in the ether; paurusam--ability; nrsu--in man.

TRANSLATION

O son of Kunti [Arjuna], I am the taste of water, the light of the sun and the moon, the syllable om in the Vedic mantras; I am the sound in ether and ability in man.

PURPORT

This verse explains how the Lord is all-pervasive by His diverse material and spiritual energies. The Supreme Lord can be preliminarily perceived by His different energies, and in this way He is realized impersonally. As the demigod in the sun is a person and is perceived by his all-pervading energy, the sunshine, similarly the Lord, although in His eternal abode, is perceived by His all-pervading, diffusive energies. The taste of water is the active principle of water. No one likes to drink sea water because the pure taste of water is mixed with salt. Attraction for water depends on the purity of the taste, and this pure taste is one of the energies of the Lord. The impersonalist perceives the presence of the Lord in water by its taste, and the personalist also glorifies the Lord for His kindly supplying water to quench man's thirst. That is the way of perceiving the Supreme. Practically speaking, there is no conflict between personalism and impersonalism. One who knows God knows that the impersonal conception and personal conception are simultaneously present in everything and that there is no contradiction. Therefore Lord Caitanya established His sublime doctrine: acintya bheda-and-abheda-tattva—simultaneously one and different.

The light of the sun and the moon is also originally emanating from the brahmajyoti, which is the impersonal effulgence of the Lord. Similarly pranava or the omkara transcendental sound in the beginning of every Vedic hymn to address the Supreme Lord also emanates from Him. Because the impersonalists are very much afraid of addressing the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa by His innumerable names, they prefer to vibrate the transcendental sound omkara. But they do not realize that omkara is the sound representation of Kṛṣṇa. The jurisdiction of Kṛṣṇa consciousness extends everywhere, and one who knows Kṛṣṇa consciousness is blessed. Those who do not know Kṛṣṇa are in illusion, and so knowledge of Kṛṣṇa is liberation, and ignorance of Him is bondage.

TEXT 9

punyo gandhah prthivyam ca

tejas casmi vibhavasau

jivanam sarva—bhutesu

tapas casmi tapasvisu

SYNONYMS

punyah—original; gandhah—fragrance; prthivya—in the earth; ca—also; tejah—temperature; ca—also; asmi—I am; vibhavasau—in the fire; jivanam—life; sarva—all; bhutesu—living entities; tapah—penance; ca—also; asmi—I am; tapasvisu—in those who practice penance.

TRANSLATION

I am the original fragrance of the earth, and I am the heat in fire. I am the life of all that lives, and I am the penances of all ascetics.

PURPORT

Punya means that which is not decomposed; punya is original. Everything in the material world has a certain flavor or fragrance, as the flavor and fragrance in a flower, or in the earth, in water, in fire, in air, etc. The uncontaminated flavor, the original flavor, which permeates everything, is Kṛṣṇa. Similarly, everything has a particular original taste, and this taste can be changed by the mixture of chemicals. So everything original has some smell, some fragrance, and some taste. Vibhava means fire. Without fire we cannot run factories, we cannot cook, etc., and that fire is Kṛṣṇa. The heat in the fire is Kṛṣṇa. According to Vedic medicine, indigestion is due to a low temperature in the belly. So even for digestion fire is needed. In Kṛṣṇa consciousness we become aware that earth, water, fire, air and every active principle, all chemicals and all material elements are due to Kṛṣṇa. The duration of man's life is also due to Kṛṣṇa. Therefore by the grace of Kṛṣṇa, man can prolong his life or diminish it. So Kṛṣṇa consciousness is active in every sphere.

TEXT 10

bijam mam sarva-bhutanam

viddhi partha sanatanam

buddhir buddhimatam asmi

tejas tejasvinam aham

SYNONYMS

bijam—the seed; mam—unto Me; sarva-bhutanam—of all living entities; viddhi—try to understand; partha—O son of Prtha; sanatanam—original, eternal; buddhih—intelligence; buddhi-matam—of the intelligent; asmi—I am; tejah—prowess; tejasvinam—of the powerful; aham—I am.

TRANSLATION

O son of Prtha, know that I am the original seed of all existences, the intelligence of the intelligent, and the prowess of all powerful men.

PURPORT

Bijam means seed; Krsna is the seed of everything. In contact with material nature, the seed fructifies into various living entities, movable and inert. Birds, beasts, men and many other living creatures are moving living entities; trees and plants, however, are inert—they cannot move, but only stand. Every entity is contained within the scope of 8,400,000 species of life; some of them are moving and some of them are inert. In all cases, however, the seed of their life is Krsna. As stated in Vedic literature, Brahman, or the Supreme Absolute Truth, is that from which everything is emanating. Krsna is Parabrahman, the Supreme Spirit. Brahman is impersonal and Parabrahman is personal. Impersonal Brahman is situated in the personal aspect—that is stated in Bhagavad-gita. Therefore, originally, Krsna is the source of everything. He is the root. As the root of a tree maintains the whole tree, Krsna, being the original root of all things, maintains everything in this material manifestation. This is also confirmed in the Vedic literature. Yato va imani bhutani jayante. "The Supreme Absolute Truth is that from which everything is born." He is the prime eternal among all eternals. He is the supreme living entity of all living entities, and He alone is maintaining all life. Krsna also says that He is the root of all intelligence. Unless a person is intelligent he cannot understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Krsna.

TEXT 11

balam balavatam caham

kama-raga-vivarjitam

dharmaviruddho bhutesu

kamo 'smi bharatarsabha

SYNONYMS

balam—strength; bala-vatam—of the strong; ca—and; aham—I am; kama—passion; raga—attachment; vivarjitam—devoid of; dharma-aviruddhah—not against the religious principles; bhutesu—in all beings; kamah—sex life; asmi—I am; bharata-rsabha—O lord of the Bharatas.

TRANSLATION

I am the strength of the strong, devoid of passion and desire. I am sex life which is not contrary to religious principles, O lord of the Bharatas [Arjuna].

PURPORT

The strong man's strength should be applied to protect the weak, not for personal aggression. Similarly, sex life, according to religious principles (dharma), should be for the propagation of children, not otherwise. The responsibility of parents is then to make their offspring Kṛṣṇa conscious.

TEXT 12

ye caiva sattvika bhava

rajasas tamasas ca ye

matta eveti tan viddhi

na tv aham tesu te mayi

SYNONYMS

ye—all those; ca—and; eva—certainly; sattvikah—in goodness; bhavah—states of being; rajasah—mode of passion; tamasah—mode of ignorance; ca—also; ye—although; mattah—from Me; eva—certainly; iti—thus; tan—those; viddhi—try to know; na—not; tu—but; aham—I; tesu—in those; te—they; mayi—unto Me.

TRANSLATION

All states of being—be they of goodness, passion or ignorance—are manifested by My energy. I am, in one sense, everything—but I am independent. I am not under the modes of this material nature.

PURPORT

All material activities in the world are being conducted under the three modes of material nature. Although these material modes of nature are emanations from the Supreme Lord, Krsna, He is not subject to them. For instance, under the state laws one may be punished, but the king, the lawmaker, is not subject to that law. Similarly, all the modes of material nature—goodness, passion and ignorance—are emanations from the Supreme Lord Krsna, but Krsna is not subject to material nature. Therefore He is nirguna, which means that these gunas, or modes, although issuing from Him, do not affect Him. That is one of the special characteristics of Bhagavan, or the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 13

tribhir guna-mayair bhavair

ebhih sarvam idam jagat

mohitam nabhijanati

mam ebhyah param avyayam

SYNONYMS

tribhih—three; guna-mayaih—by the three gunas; bhavaih—state of being; ebhih—all these; sarvam—the whole world; idam—in this world; jagat—universe; mohitam—deluded; na abhijanati—do not know; mam—Me; ebhyah—above these; param—the Supreme; avyayam—inexhaustible.

TRANSLATION

Deluded by the three modes [goodness, passion and ignorance], the whole world does not know Me, who am above the modes and inexhaustible.

PURPORT

The whole world is enchanted by three modes of material nature. Those who are bewildered by these three modes cannot understand that transcendental to this material nature is the Supreme Lord, Kṛṣṇa. In this material world everyone is under the influence of these three gunas and is thus bewildered.

By nature living entities have particular types of body and particular types of psychic and biological activities accordingly. There are four classes of men functioning in the three modes of nature. Those who are purely in the mode of goodness are called brahmanas. Those who are purely in the mode of passion are called ksatriyas. Those who are in the modes of both passion and ignorance are called vaiśyas. Those who are completely in ignorance are called sudras. And those who are less than that are animals or animal life. However, these designations are not permanent. I may either be a brahmana, ksatriya, vaiśya or whatever—in any case, this life is temporary. But although life is temporary and we do not know what we are going to be in the next life, still, by the spell of this illusory energy, we consider ourselves in the light of this bodily conception of life, and we thus think that we are American, Indian, Russian or brahmana, Hindu, Muslim, etc. And if we become entangled with the modes of material nature, then we forget the Supreme Personality of Godhead who is behind all these modes. So Lord Kṛṣṇa says that men, deluded by these three modes of nature, do not understand that behind the background is the Supreme Godhead.

There are many different kinds of living entities—human beings, demigods, animals, etc.—and each and every one of them is under the influence of material nature, and all of them have forgotten the transcendent Personality of Godhead. Those who are in the modes of passion and ignorance, and even those who are in the mode of goodness, cannot go beyond the impersonal Brahman conception of the Absolute Truth. They are bewildered before the Supreme Lord in His personal feature, which possesses all beauty, opulence, knowledge, strength, fame and renunciation. When even those who are in goodness cannot understand, what hope is there for those in passion and ignorance? Kṛṣṇa consciousness is transcendental to all these three modes of material nature, and those who are truly established in Kṛṣṇa consciousness are actually liberated.

TEXT 14

daivi hy esa guna-mayi

mama maya duratyaya

mam eva ye prapadyante

mayam etam taranti te

SYNONYMS

daivi—transcendental; hi—certainly; esa—this; guna-mayi—consisting of the three modes of material nature; mama—My; maya—energy; duratyaya—very difficult to overcome; mam—unto Me; eva—certainly; ye—those; prapadyante—surrender; mayam etam—this illusory energy; taranti—overcome; te—they.

TRANSLATION

This divine energy of Mine, consisting of the three modes of material nature, is difficult to overcome. But those who have surrendered unto Me can easily cross beyond it.

PURPORT

The Supreme Personality of Godhead has innumerable energies, and all these energies are divine. Although the living entities are part of His energies and are therefore divine, due to contact with material energy, their original superior power is covered. Being thus covered by material energy, one cannot possibly overcome its influence. As previously stated, both the material and spiritual natures, being emanations from the Supreme Personality of Godhead, are eternal. The living entities belong to the eternal superior nature of the Lord, but due to contamination by the inferior nature, matter, their illusion is also eternal. The conditioned soul is therefore called nitya-baddha, or eternally conditioned. No one can trace out the history of his becoming conditioned at a certain date in material history. Consequently, his release from the clutches of material nature is very difficult, even though that material nature is an inferior energy, because material energy is ultimately conducted by the supreme will, which the living entity cannot overcome. Inferior material nature is defined herein as divine nature due to its divine connection and movement by the divine will. Being conducted by divine will, material nature, although inferior, acts so wonderfully in the construction and destruction of the cosmic manifestation. The Vedas confirm this as follows: mayam tu prakrtim vidyan mayinam tu mahesvaram. "Although maya [illusion] is false or temporary, the background of maya is the supreme magician, the Personality of Godhead, who is Mahesvara, the supreme controller." (Svetasvatara Upanisad 4.10)

Another meaning of guna is rope; it is to be understood that the conditioned soul is tightly tied by the ropes of illusion. A man bound by the hands and feet cannot free himself—he must be helped by a person who is unbound. Because the bound cannot help the bound, the rescuer must be liberated. Therefore, only Lord Kṛṣṇa, or His bona fide representative the spiritual master, can release the conditioned soul. Without such superior help, one cannot be freed from the bondage of material nature. Devotional service, or Kṛṣṇa consciousness, can help one gain such release. Kṛṣṇa, being the Lord of illusory energy, can order this insurmountable energy to release the conditioned soul. He orders this release out of His causeless mercy on the surrendered soul and out of His paternal affection for the living entity, who is originally a beloved son of the Lord. Therefore surrender unto the lotus feet of the Lord is the only means to get free from the clutches of the stringent material nature.

The words mam eva are also significant. Mam means unto Kṛṣṇa (Viṣṇu) only, and not Brahma or Śiva. Although Brahma and Śiva are greatly elevated and are almost on the level of Viṣṇu, it is not possible for such incarnations of rajo–guṇa (passion) and tamō–guṇa (ignorance) to release the conditioned soul from the clutches of maya. In other words, both Brahma and Śiva are also under the influence of maya. Only Viṣṇu is the master of maya; therefore He alone can give release to the conditioned soul. The Vedas (Śvetasvatara Upaniṣad 3.8) confirm this in the phrase tam eva viditva. or "Freedom is possible only by understanding Kṛṣṇa." Even Lord Śiva affirms that liberation can be achieved only by the mercy of Viṣṇu. Lord Śiva says, mukti–pradāta sarveṣāṃ viṣṇur eva na saṁśayaḥ: "There is no doubt that Viṣṇu is the deliverer of liberation for everyone."

TEXT 15

na mam duṣkṛtino mudhah

prapadyante nara-dhamah

mayāyapahrta-jñāna

aśuraṁ bhavaṁ aśritah

SYNONYMS

na--not; mam--unto Me; duṣkṛtinaḥ--miscreants; mudhah--foolish;
prapadyante--surrender; nara-adhamah--lowest among mankind; mayaya--by the illusory energy; apahrta--stolen by illusion; jñānaḥ--knowledge; aśuraṁ--demonic;
bhavaṁ--nature; aśritah--accepting.

TRANSLATION

Those miscreants who are grossly foolish, lowest among mankind, whose knowledge is stolen by illusion, and who partake of the atheistic nature of demons, do not surrender unto Me.

PURPORT

It is said in Bhagavad-gita that simply by surrendering oneself unto the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality Kṛṣṇa, one can surmount the stringent laws of material nature. At this point a question arises: How is it that educated philosophers, scientists, businessmen, administrators and all the leaders of ordinary men do not surrender to the lotus feet of Śrī Kṛṣṇa, the all-powerful Personality of Godhead? Mukti, or liberation from the laws of material nature, is sought by the leaders of mankind in different ways and with great plans and perseverance for a great many years and births. But if that liberation is possible by simply surrendering unto the lotus feet of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, then why don't these intelligent and hard-working leaders adopt this simple method?

The Gita answers this question very frankly. Those really learned leaders of society like Brahma, Siva, Kapila, the Kumaras, Manu, Vyasa, Devala, Asita, Janaka, Prahlada, Bali, and later on Madhvacarya, Ramanujacarya, Śrī Caitanya and many others—who are faithful philosophers, politicians, educators, scientists, etc.—surrender to the lotus feet of the Supreme Person, the all-powerful authority. Those who are not actually philosophers, scientists, educators, administrators, etc., but who pose themselves as such for material gain, do not accept the plan or path of the Supreme Lord. They have no idea of God; they simply manufacture their own worldly plans and consequently complicate the problems of material existence in their vain attempts to solve them. Because material energy (nature) is so powerful, it can resist the unauthorized plans of the atheists and baffle the knowledge of "planning commissions."

The atheistic plan-makers are described herein by the word duskṛtinaḥ, or "miscreants." Kṛtina means one who has performed meritorious work. The atheist planmaker is sometimes very intelligent and meritorious also, because any gigantic plan, good or bad, must take intelligence to execute. But because the atheist's brain is improperly utilized in opposing the plan of the Supreme Lord, the atheistic planmaker is called duskṛtina, which indicates that his intelligence and efforts are misdirected.

In the Gita it is clearly mentioned that material energy works fully under the direction of the Supreme Lord. It has no independent authority. It works as the shadow moves, in accordance with the movements of the object. But still material energy is very powerful, and the atheist, due to his godless temperament, cannot know how it works; nor can he know the plan of the Supreme Lord. Under illusion and the modes of passion and ignorance, all his plans are baffled, as in the case of Hiranyakasipu and Ravana, whose plans were smashed to dust although they were both materially learned as scientists, philosophers, administrators and educators. These duskrtinas, or miscreants, are of four different patterns, as outlined below.

(1) The mudhas are those who are grossly foolish, like hard-working beasts of burden. They want to enjoy the fruits of their labor by themselves, and so do not want to part with them for the Supreme. The typical example of the beast of burden is the ass. This humble beast is made to work very hard by his master. The ass does not really know for whom he works so hard day and night. He remains satisfied by filling his stomach with a bundle of grass, sleeping for a while under fear of being beaten by his master, and satisfying his sex appetite at the risk of being repeatedly kicked by the opposite party. The ass sings poetry and philosophy sometimes, but this braying only disturbs others. This is the position of the foolish fruitive worker who does not know for whom he should work. He does not know that karma (action) is meant for yajna (sacrifice).

Most often, those who work very hard day and night to clear the burden of self-created duties say that they have no time to hear of the immortality of the living being. To such mudhas, material gains, which are destructible, are life's all in all—despite the fact that the mudhas enjoy only a very small fraction of the fruit of labor. Sometimes they spend sleepless days and nights for fruitive gain, and although they may have ulcers or indigestion, they are satisfied with practically no food; they are simply absorbed in working hard day and night for the benefit of illusory masters. Ignorant of their real master, the foolish workers waste their valuable time serving mammon. Unfortunately, they never surrender to the supreme master of all masters, nor do they take time to hear of Him from the proper sources. The swine who eat the stool do not care to accept sweetmeats made of sugar and ghee. Similarly, the foolish worker will untiringly continue to hear of the sense-enjoyable tidings of the flickering mundane force that moves the material world.

(2) Another class of duskrti, or miscreant, is called the naradhama, or the lowest of mankind. Nara means human being, and adhama means the lowest. Out of the 8,400,000 different species of living beings, there are 400,000 human species. Out of these there are numerous lower forms of human life that are mostly uncivilized. The civilized human beings are those who have regulative principles of social, political and religious life. Those who are socially and politically developed, but who have no religious principles, must be considered naradhamas. Nor is religion without God religion, because the purpose of following religious principles is to know the Supreme Truth and man's relation with Him. In the Gita the Personality of Godhead clearly states that there is no authority above Him and that He is the Supreme Truth. The civilized form of human life is meant for man's reviving the lost consciousness of his eternal relation with the Supreme Truth, the Personality of Godhead Sri Krsna, who is all-powerful. Whoever loses this chance is classified as a naradhama. We get information from revealed scriptures that when the baby is in the mother's womb (an extremely uncomfortable situation) he prays to God for deliverance and promises to worship Him alone as soon as he gets out. To pray to God when he is in difficulty is a natural instinct in every living being because he is eternally related with God. But after his deliverance, the child forgets the difficulties of birth and forgets his deliverer also, being influenced by maya, the illusory energy.

It is the duty of the guardians of children to revive the divine consciousness dormant in them. The ten processes of reformatory ceremonies, as enjoined in the Manu-smṛti, which is the guide to religious principles, are meant for reviving God consciousness in the system of varnashrama. However, no process is strictly followed now in any part of the world, and therefore 99.9 percent of the population is naradhama.

When the whole population becomes naradhama, naturally all their so-called education is made null and void by the all-powerful energy of physical nature. According to the standard of the Gita, a learned man is he who sees on equal terms the learned brahmana, the dog, the cow, the elephant and the dog-eater. That is the vision of a true devotee. Sri Nityananda Prabhu, who is the incarnation of Godhead as divine master, delivered the typical naradhamas, the brothers Jagai and Madhai, and showed how the mercy of a real devotee is bestowed upon the lowest of mankind. So the naradhama who is condemned by the Personality of Godhead can again revive his spiritual consciousness only by the mercy of a devotee.

Sri Caitanya Mahaprabhu, in propagating the bhagavata-dharma or activities of the devotees, has recommended that people submissively hear the message of the Personality of Godhead. The essence of this message is Bhagavad-gita. The lowest amongst human beings can be delivered by this submissive hearing process only, but unfortunately they even deny giving an aural reception to these messages, and what to speak of surrendering to the will of the Supreme Lord? Naradhamas, or the lowest of mankind, will fully neglect the prime duty of the human being.

(3) The next class of duskṛti is called mayayapahrta-jñānah, or those persons whose erudite knowledge has been nullified by the influence of illusory material energy. They are mostly very learned fellows—great philosophers, poets, literati, scientists, etc.—but the illusory energy misguides them, and therefore they disobey the Supreme Lord.

There are a great number of mayayapahrta-jñānah at the present moment, even amongst the scholars of the Gita. In the Gita, in plain and simple language, it is stated that Sri Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. There is none equal to or greater than Him. He is mentioned as the father of Brahma, the original father of all human beings. In fact, Sri Kṛṣṇa is said to be not only the father of Brahma but also the father of all species of life. He is the root of the impersonal Brahman and Paramatma; the Supersoul in every entity is His plenary portion. He is the fountainhead of everything and everyone is advised to surrender unto His lotus feet. Despite all these clear statements, the mayayapahrta–jnanah deride the personality of the Supreme Lord and consider Him merely another human being. They do not know that the blessed form of human life is designed after the eternal and transcendental feature of the Supreme Lord.

All the unauthorized interpretations of the Gita by the class of mayayapahrta–jnanah, outside the purview of the parampara system, are so many stumbling blocks on the path of spiritual understanding. The deluded interpreters do not surrender unto the lotus feet of Sri Krsna, nor do they teach others to follow this principle.

(4) The last class of duskṛti is called asuram bhavam asritah, or those of demonic principles. This class is openly atheistic. Some of them argue that the Supreme Lord can never descend upon this material world, but they are unable to give any tangible reasons as to why not. There are others who make Him subordinate to the impersonal feature, although the opposite is declared in the Gita. Envious of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the atheist will present a number of illicit incarnations manufactured in the factory of his brain. Such persons whose very principle of life is to decry the Personality of Godhead cannot surrender unto the lotus feet of Sri Krsna.

Sri Yamunacarya Albandarū of South India said, "O my Lord! You are unknowable to persons involved with atheistic principles, despite Your uncommon qualities, features, and activities and despite Your personality being confirmed by all the revealed scriptures in the quality of goodness, and despite Your being acknowledged by the famous authorities renowned for their depth of knowledge in the transcendental science and situated in the godly qualities."

Therefore, (1) grossly foolish persons, (2) the lowest of mankind, (3) the deluded speculators, and (4) the professed atheists, as above mentioned, never surrender unto the lotus feet of the Personality of Godhead in spite of all scriptural and authoritative advice.

TEXT 16

catur–vidha bhajante mam

janah sukr̥tino 'rjuna

arto jijnasur artharthi

jnani ca bharatarsabha

SYNONYMS

catuh—vidhah—four kinds of; bhajante—render services; mam—unto Me; janah—persons; su—krtinah—those who are pious; arjuna—O Arjuna; artah—the distressed; jijnasuh—the inquisitive; artha—arthi—one who desires material gain; jnani—one who knows things as they are; ca—also; bharata—rsabha—O great one amongst the descendants of Bharata.

TRANSLATION

O best among the Bharatas [Arjuna], four kinds of pious men render devotional service unto Me—the distressed, the desirer of wealth, the inquisitive, and he who is searching for knowledge of the Absolute.

PURPORT

Unlike the miscreants, these are adherents of the regulative principles of the scriptures, and they are called sukrтинah, or those who obey the rules and regulations of scriptures, the moral and social laws, and are, more or less, devoted to the Supreme Lord. Out of these there are four classes of men—those who are sometimes distressed, those who are in need of money, those who are sometimes inquisitive, and those who are sometimes searching after knowledge of the Absolute Truth. These persons come to the Supreme Lord for devotional service under different conditions. These are not pure devotees because they have some aspiration to fulfill in exchange for devotional service. Pure devotional service is without aspiration and without desire for material profit. The Bhakti-rasamrta-sindhu (1.1.11) defines pure devotion thus:

anyabhilasita-sunyam

jnana–karmady–anavrtam

anukulyena krsnanu–

silanam bhaktir uttama

"One should render transcendental loving service to the Supreme Lord Krsna favorably and without desire for material profit or gain through fruitive activities or philosophical speculation. That is called pure devotional service."

When these four kinds of persons come to the Supreme Lord for devotional service and are completely purified by the association of a pure devotee, they also become pure devotees. As far as the miscreants are concerned, for them devotional service is very difficult because their lives are selfish, irregular and without spiritual goals. But even some of them, by chance, when they come in contact with a pure devotee, also become pure devotees.

Those who are always busy with fruitive activities come to the Lord in material distress and at that time associate with pure devotees and become, in their distress, devotees of the Lord. Those who are simply frustrated also come sometimes to associate with the pure devotees and become inquisitive to know about God. Similarly, when the dry philosophers are frustrated in every field of knowledge, they sometimes want to learn of God, and they come to the Supreme Lord to render devotional service and thus transcend knowledge of the impersonal Brahman and the localized Paramatma and come to the personal conception of Godhead by the grace of the Supreme Lord or His pure devotee. On the whole, when the distressed, the inquisitive, the seekers of knowledge, and those who are in need of money are free from all material desires, and when they fully understand that material remuneration has nothing to do with spiritual improvement, they become pure devotees. As long as such a purified stage is not attained, devotees in transcendental service to the Lord are tainted with fruitive activities, and they search after mundane knowledge, etc. So one has to transcend all this before one can come to the stage of pure devotional service.

TEXT 17

tesam jnani nitya–yukta

eka—bhaktir visisyate

priyo hi jnanino 'tyartham

aham sa ca mama priyah

SYNONYMS

tesam—out of them; jnani—one in full knowledge; nitya-yuktah—always engaged; eka—only one; bhaktih—in devotional service; visisyate—especially; priyah—very dear; hi—certainly; jnaninah—person in knowledge; atyartham—highly; aham—I am; sah—he; ca—also; mama—Mine; priyah—dear.

TRANSLATION

Of these, the wise one who is in full knowledge in union with Me through pure devotional service is the best. For I am very dear to him, and he is dear to Me.

PURPORT

Free from all contaminations of material desires, the distressed, the inquisitive, the penniless, and the seeker after supreme knowledge can all become pure devotees. But out of them, he who is in knowledge of the Absolute Truth and free from all material desires becomes a really pure devotee of the Lord. And of the four orders, the devotee who is in full knowledge and is at the same time engaged in devotional service is, the Lord says, the best. By searching after knowledge one realizes that his self is different from his material body, and when further advanced he comes to the knowledge of impersonal Brahman and Paramatma. When one is fully purified, he realizes that his constitutional position is to be the eternal servant of God. So by association with pure devotees, the inquisitive, the distressed, the seeker after material amelioration and the man in knowledge all become themselves pure. But in the preparatory stage, the man who is in full knowledge of the Supreme Lord and is at the same time executing devotional service is very dear to the Lord. He who is situated in pure knowledge of the transcendence of the Supreme Personality of God is so protected in devotional service that material contamination cannot touch him.

TEXT 18

udarah sarva evaite

jnani tv atmaiva me matam

asthitah sa hi yuktatma

mam evanuttamam gatim

SYNONYMS

udarah—magnanimous; sarve—all; eva—certainly; ete—these; jnani—one who is in knowledge; tu—but; atma eva—just like Myself; me—My; matam—opinion; asthitah—situated; sah—he; hi—certainly; yukta-atma—engaged in devotional service; mam—unto Me; eva—certainly; anuttamam—the highest goal; gatim—destination.

TRANSLATION

All these devotees are undoubtedly magnanimous souls, but he who is situated in knowledge of Me I consider verily to dwell in Me. Being engaged in My transcendental service, he attains Me.

PURPORT

It is not that other devotees who are less complete in knowledge are not dear to the Lord. The Lord says that all are magnanimous because anyone who comes to the Lord for any purpose is called a mahatma or great soul. The devotees who want some benefit out of devotional service are accepted by the Lord because there is an exchange of affection. Out of affection they ask the Lord for some material benefit, and when they get it they become so satisfied that they also advance in devotional service. But the devotee in full knowledge is considered to be very dear to the Lord because his only purpose is to serve the Supreme Lord with love and devotion. Such a devotee cannot live a second without contacting or serving the Supreme Lord. Similarly, the Supreme Lord is very fond of His devotee and cannot be separated from him.

In the Srimad-Bhagavatam (9.4.68), the Lord says:

sadhavo hrdayam mahyam

sadhunam hrdayam tv aham

mad-anyat te na jananti

naham tebhyo manag api

"The devotees are always in My heart, and I am always in the hearts of the devotees. The devotee does not know anything beyond Me, and I also cannot forget the devotee. There is a very intimate relationship between Me and the pure devotees. Pure devotees in full knowledge are never out of spiritual touch, and therefore they are very much dear to Me."

TEXT 19

bahunam janmanam ante

jnanavan mam prapadyate

vasudevah sarvam iti

SYNONYMS

bahunam—many; janmanam—births; ante—after; jnana-van—he possessing knowledge; mam—unto Me; prapadyate—surrenders; vasudevah—cause of all causes; sarvam—all; iti—thus; sah—such; maha-atma—great soul; su-durlabhah—very rare.

TRANSLATION

After many births and deaths, he who is actually in knowledge surrenders unto Me, knowing Me to be the cause of all causes and all that is. Such a great soul is very rare.

PURPORT

The living entity, while executing devotional service or transcendental rituals after many, many births, may actually become situated in transcendental pure knowledge that the Supreme Personality of Godhead is the ultimate goal of spiritual realization. In the beginning of spiritual realization, while one is trying to give up one's attachment to materialism, there is some leaning towards impersonalism, but when one is further advanced he can understand that there are activities in the spiritual life and that these activities constitute devotional service. Realizing this, he becomes attached to the Supreme Personality of Godhead and surrenders to Him. At such a time one can understand that Lord Sri Kṛṣṇa's mercy is everything, that He is the cause of all causes and that this material manifestation is not independent from Him. He realizes the material world to be a perverted reflection of spiritual variegatedness and realizes that in everything there is a relationship with the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa. Thus he thinks of everything in relation to Vasudeva, or Sri Kṛṣṇa. Such a universal vision of Vasudeva precipitates one's full surrender to the Supreme Lord Sri Kṛṣṇa as the highest goal. Such surrendered great souls are very rare.

This verse is very nicely explained in the Third Chapter (verses 14 and 15) of the Svetasvatara Upanisad: "In this body there are powers of speaking, of seeing, of hearing, of mental activities, etc. But these are not important if not related to the Supreme Lord and because Vasudeva is all-pervading and everything is Vasudeva, the devotee surrenders in full knowledge (cf. Bhagavad-gita 7.17 and 11.40).

TEXT 20

kamais tais tair hrta-jnanah

prapadyante 'nya-devatah

tam tam niyamam asthaya

prakrtya niyatah svaya

SYNONYMS

kamaih—by desires; taih—by those; taih—by those; hrta—distorted;
jnanah—knowledge; prapadyante—surrender; anya—other; devatah—demigods;
tam—that; tam—that; niyamam—rules; asthaya—following; prakrtya—by nature;
niyatah—controlled; svaya—by their own.

TRANSLATION

Those whose minds are distorted by material desires surrender unto demigods and follow the particular rules and regulations of worship according to their own natures.

PURPORT

Those who are freed from all material contaminations surrender unto the Supreme Lord and engage in His devotional service. As long as the material contamination is not completely washed off, they are by nature nondevotees. But even those who have material desires and who resort to the Supreme Lord are not so much attracted by external nature; because of approaching the right goal, they soon become free from all material lust. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam it is recommended that whether one is free from all material desires, or is full of material desires, or desires liberation from material contamination, or is a pure devotee and has no desire for material sense gratification, he should in all cases surrender to Vasudeva and worship Him.

It is said in the Bhagavatam that less intelligent people who have lost their spiritual sense take shelter of demigods for immediate fulfillment of material desires. Generally, such people do not go to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, because they are in particular modes of nature (ignorance and passion) and therefore worship various demigods. Following the rules and regulations of worship, they are satisfied. The worshipers of demigods are motivated by small desires and do not know how to reach the supreme goal, but a devotee of the Supreme Lord is not misguided. Because in Vedic literature there are recommendations for worshiping different gods for different purposes (e.g., a diseased man is recommended to worship the sun), those who are not devotees of the Lord think that for certain purposes demigods are better than the Supreme Lord. But a pure devotee knows that the Supreme Lord Kṛṣṇa is the master of all. In the Caitanya-caritāmṛta (Adi 5.142) it is said, ekale isvara kṛṣṇa, ara saba bhrtya: only the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, is master, and all others are servants. Therefore a pure devotee never goes to demigods for satisfaction of his material needs. He depends on the Supreme Lord. And the pure devotee is satisfied with whatever He gives.

TEXT 21

yo yo yam yam tanum bhaktah

sraddhayarcitum icchati

tasya tasyacalam sraddham

tam eva vidadhamy aham

SYNONYMS

yah--that; yah--that; yam--which; yam--which; tanum--form of the demigods; bhaktah--devotee; sraddhaya--with faith; arcitum--to worship; icchati--desires; tasya--of that; tasya--of that; acalam--steady; sraddham--faith; tam--him; eva--surely; vidadhami--give; aham--I.

TRANSLATION

I am in everyone's heart as the Supersoul. As soon as one desires to worship the demigods, I make his faith steady so that he can devote himself to some particular deity.

PURPORT

God has given independence to everyone; therefore, if a person desires to have material enjoyment and wants very sincerely to have such facilities from the material demigods, the Supreme Lord, as Supersoul in everyone's heart, understands and gives facilities to such persons. As the supreme father of all living entities, He does not interfere with their independence, but gives all facilities so that they can fulfill their material desires. Some may ask why the all-powerful God gives facilities to the living entities for enjoying this material world and so lets them fall into the trap of the illusory energy. The answer is that if the Supreme Lord as Supersoul does not give such facilities, then there is no meaning to independence. Therefore He gives everyone full independence--whatever one likes--but His ultimate instruction we find in the Bhagavad-gita: man should give up all other engagements and fully surrender unto Him. That will make man happy.

Both the living entity and the demigods are subordinate to the will of the Supreme Personality of Godhead; therefore the living entity cannot worship the demigod by his own desire, nor can the demigod bestow any benediction without the supreme will. As it is said, not a blade of grass moves without the will of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Generally, persons who are distressed in the material world go to the demigods, as they are advised in the Vedic literature. A person wanting some particular thing may worship such and such a demigod. For example, a diseased person is recommended to worship the sun—god; a person wanting education may worship the goddess of learning, Sarasvati; and a person wanting a beautiful wife may worship the goddess Uma, the wife of Lord Siva. In this way there are recommendations in the sastras (Vedic scriptures) for different modes of worship of different demigods. And because a particular living entity wants to enjoy a particular material facility, the Lord inspires him with a strong desire to achieve that benediction from that particular demigod, and so he successfully receives the benediction. The particular mode of the devotional attitude of the living entity toward a particular type of demigod is also arranged by the Supreme Lord. The demigods cannot infuse the living entities with such an affinity, but because He is the Supreme Lord or the Supersoul who is present in the hearts of all living entities, Kṛṣṇa gives impetus to man to worship certain demigods. The demigods are actually different parts of the universal body of the Supreme Lord; therefore they have no independence. In the Vedic literature it is stated: "The Supreme Personality of Godhead as Supersoul is also present within the heart of the demigod; therefore He arranges through the demigod to fulfill the desire of the living entity. But both the demigod and the living entity are dependent on the supreme will. They are not independent."

TEXT 22

sa taya sraddhaya yuktas

tasyaradhanam ihate

labhate ca tatah kaman

mayaiva vihitan hi tan

SYNONYMS

sah—he; taya—with that; sraddhaya—with faith; yuktah—endowed; tasya—his; aradhanam—worship; ihate—seeks; labhate—obtains; ca—and; tatah—from which; kaman—desires; maya—by Me; eva—alone; vihitan—regulated; hi—for; tan—those.

TRANSLATION

Endowed with such a faith, he seeks favors of a particular demigod and obtains his desires. But in actuality these benefits are bestowed by Me alone.

PURPORT

The demigods cannot award benedictions to the devotees without the permission of the Supreme Lord. The living entity may forget that everything is the property of the Supreme Lord, but the demigods do not forget. So the worship of demigods and achievement of desired results are due not to the demigods but to the Supreme Personality of Godhead, by arrangement. The less intelligent living entity does not know this, and therefore he foolishly goes to the demigods for some benefit. But the pure devotee, when in need of something, prays only to the Supreme Lord. Asking for material benefit, however, is not a sign of a pure devotee. A living entity goes to the demigods usually because he is mad to fulfill his lust. This happens when something undue is desired by the living entity and the Lord Himself does not fulfill the desire. In the Caitanya-caritamṛta it is said that one who worships the Supreme Lord and at the same time desires material enjoyment is contradictory in his desires. Devotional service of the Supreme Lord and the worship of a demigod cannot be on the same platform because worship of a demigod is material and devotional service to the Supreme Lord is completely spiritual.

For the living entity who desires to return to Godhead, material desires are impediments. A pure devotee of the Lord is therefore not awarded the material benefits desired by less intelligent living entities who prefer to worship demigods of the material world rather than engage in devotional service of the Supreme Lord.

TEXT 23

antavat tu phalam tesam

tad bhavaty alpa-medhasam

devan deva—yajo yanti

mad—bhakta yanti mam api

SYNONYMS

anta—vat tu—limited and temporary; phalam—fruits; tesam—their; tat—that; bhavati—becomes; alpa—medhasam—of those of small intelligence; devan—demigods' planets; deva—yajah—worshippers of demigods; yanti—achieve; mat—My; bhaktah—devotees; yanti—attain; mam—to Me; api—surely.

TRANSLATION

Men of small intelligence worship the demigods, and their fruits are limited and temporary. Those who worship the demigods go to the planets of the demigods, but My devotees ultimately reach My supreme planet.

PURPORT

Some commentators on the Gita say that one who worships a demigod can reach the Supreme Lord, but here it is clearly stated that the worshipers of demigods go to the different planetary systems where various demigods are situated, just as a worshiper of the sun achieves the sun or a worshiper of the demigod of the moon achieves the moon. Similarly, if anyone wants to worship a demigod like Indra, he can attain that particular god's planet. It is not that everyone, regardless of whatever demigod is worshiped, will reach the Supreme Personality of Godhead. That is denied here, for it is clearly stated that the worshipers of the demigods go to different planets in the material world, but the devotee of the Supreme Lord goes directly to the supreme planet of the Personality of Godhead.

Here the point may be raised that if the demigods are different parts of the body of the Supreme Lord, then the same end should be achieved by worshiping them. However, worshipers of the demigods are less intelligent because they don't know to what part of the body food must be supplied. Some of them are so foolish that they claim that there are many parts and many ways to supply food. This isn't very sanguine. Can anyone supply food to the body through the ears or eyes? They do not know that these demigods are different parts of the universal body of the Supreme Lord, and in their ignorance they believe that each and every demigod is a separate God and a competitor of the Supreme Lord.

Not only are demigods parts of the Supreme Lord, but ordinary living entities are also. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam it is stated that the brahmanas are the head of the Supreme Lord, the ksatriyas are the arms, etc., and that all serve different functions. Regardless of the situation, if one knows that both the demigods and himself are part and parcel of the Supreme Lord, his knowledge is perfect. But if he does not understand this, he achieves different planets where the demigods reside. This is not the same destination the devotee reaches.

The results achieved by the demigods' benedictions are perishable because within this material world the planets, the demigods and their worshipers are all perishable. Therefore it is clearly stated in this verse that all results achieved by worshiping demigods are perishable, and therefore such worship is performed by the less intelligent living entity. Because the pure devotee engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness in devotional service of the Supreme Lord achieves eternal blissful existence that is full of knowledge, his achievements and those of the common worshiper of the demigods are different. The Supreme Lord is unlimited; His favor is unlimited; His mercy is unlimited. Therefore the mercy of the Supreme Lord upon His pure devotees is unlimited.

TEXT 24

avyaktam vyaktim apannam

manyante mam abuddhayah

param bhavam ajananto

mamavyayam anuttamam

SYNONYMS

avyaktam—nonmanifested; vyaktim—personality; apannam—achieved; manyante—think; mam—unto Me; abuddhayah—less intelligent persons; param—supreme; bhavam—state of being; ajanantah—without knowing; mama—My; avyayam—imperishable; anuttamam—the finest.

TRANSLATION

Unintelligent men, who know Me not, think that I have assumed this form and personality. Due to their small knowledge, they do not know My higher nature, which is changeless and supreme.

PURPORT

Those who are worshipers of demigods have been described as less intelligent persons, and here the impersonalists are similarly described. Lord Kṛṣṇa in His personal form is here speaking before Arjuna, and still, due to ignorance, impersonalists argue that the Supreme Lord ultimately has no form. Yamunācārya, a great devotee of the Lord in the disciplic succession from Rāmānujācārya, has written two very appropriate verses in this connection. He says,

"My dear Lord, devotees like Vyāsadeva and Nārada know You to be the Personality of Godhead. By understanding different Vedic literatures, one can come to know Your characteristics, Your form and Your activities, and one can thus understand that You are the Supreme Personality of Godhead. But those who are in the modes of passion and ignorance, the demons, the nondevotees, cannot understand You. They are unable to understand You. However expert such nondevotees may be in discussing Vedānta and the Upanisads and other Vedic literatures, it is not possible for them to understand the Personality of Godhead." (Stotra-ratna 12)

In the Brahma-saṁhita it is stated that the Personality of Godhead cannot be understood simply by study of the Vedānta literature. Only by the mercy of the Supreme Lord can the Personality of the Supreme be known. Therefore in this verse it is clearly stated that not only are the worshipers of the demigods less intelligent, but those nondevotees who are engaged in Vedanta and speculation on Vedic literature without any tinge of true Kṛṣṇa consciousness are also less intelligent, and for them it is not possible to understand God's personal nature. Persons who are under the impression that the Absolute Truth is impersonal are described as abuddhayah, which means one who does not know the ultimate feature of the Absolute Truth. In the Srimad-Bhagavatam it is stated that supreme realization begins from the impersonal Brahman and then rises to the localized Supersoul—but the ultimate word in the Absolute Truth is the Personality of Godhead. Modern impersonalists are still less intelligent, for they do not even follow their great predecessor, Sankaracarya, who has specifically stated that Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Impersonalists, therefore, not knowing the Supreme Truth, think Kṛṣṇa to be only the son of Devaki and Vasudeva, or a prince, or a powerful living entity. This is also condemned in the Bhagavad-gita (9.11). Avajananti mam mudha manusim tanum asritam: "Only the fools regard Me as an ordinary person."

The fact is that no one can understand Kṛṣṇa without rendering devotional service and without developing Kṛṣṇa consciousness. The Gita confirms this.

One cannot understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Kṛṣṇa, or His form, quality or name simply by mental speculation or by discussing Vedic literature. One must understand Him by devotional service. When one is fully engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness, beginning by chanting the maha-mantra—Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare—then only can one understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Nondevotee impersonalists think that Kṛṣṇa has a body made of this material nature and that all His activities, His form and everything, are maya. These impersonalists are known as Mayavadis. They do not know the ultimate truth.

The twentieth verse clearly states, kamais tais tair hrta-jnanah prapadyante 'nya-devatah. "Those who are blinded by lusty desires surrender unto the different demigods." It is accepted that besides the Supreme Personality of Godhead, there are demigods who have their different planets, and the Lord also has a planet. As stated in the twenty-third verse, devan deva-yajo yanti mad-bhakta yanti mam api: the worshipers of the demigods go to the different planets of the demigods, and those who are devotees of Lord Kṛṣṇa go to the Kṛṣṇaloka planet. Although this is clearly stated, the foolish impersonalists still maintain that the Lord is formless and that these forms are impositions. From the study of the Gita does it appear that the demigods and their abodes are impersonal? Clearly, neither the demigods nor Kṛṣṇa, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, are impersonal. They are all persons; Lord Kṛṣṇa is the Supreme Personality of Godhead, and He has His own planet, and the demigods have theirs.

Therefore the monistic contention that ultimate truth is formless and that form is imposed does not hold true. It is clearly stated here that it is not imposed. From the Gita we can clearly understand that the forms of the demigods and the form of the Supreme Lord are simultaneously existing and that Lord Kṛṣṇa is sac-cid-ananda, eternal blissful knowledge. The Vedas also confirm that the Supreme Absolute Truth is ananda-mayo, or by nature full of blissful pleasure, and that He is abhyasat, by nature the reservoir of unlimited auspicious qualities. And in the Gita the Lord says that although He is aja (unborn), He still appears. These are the facts that we should understand from the Bhagavad-gita. We cannot understand how the Supreme Personality of Godhead can be impersonal; the imposition theory of the impersonalist monist is false as far as the statements of the Gita are concerned. It is clear herein that the Supreme Absolute Truth, Lord Kṛṣṇa, has both form and personality.

TEXT 25

naḥam prakasaḥ sarvasya

yoga-maya-samavṛtaḥ

mudho 'yaṁ nabhijaṇati

lokaḥ mama ajam avyayaṁ

SYNONYMS

na--nor; aham--I; prakasaḥ--manifest; sarvasya--to everyone; yoga-maya--internal potency; samavṛtaḥ--covered; mudhaḥ--foolish; ayam--this; na--not; abhijaṇati--can understand; lokaḥ--such less intelligent persons; mama--Me; ajam--unborn; avyayaṁ--inexhaustible.

TRANSLATION

I am never manifest to the foolish and unintelligent. For them I am covered by My eternal creative potency [yoga–maya]; and so the deluded world knows Me not, who am unborn and infallible.

PURPORT

It may be argued that since Kṛṣṇa was present on this earth and was visible to everyone, then why isn't He manifest to everyone now? But actually He was not manifest to everyone. When Kṛṣṇa was present there were only a few people who could understand Him to be the Supreme Personality of Godhead. In the assembly of Kurus, when Sisupala spoke against Kṛṣṇa being elected president of the assembly, Bhīṣma supported Him and proclaimed Him to be the Supreme God. Similarly, the Pāṇḍavas and a few others knew that He was the Supreme, but not everyone. He was not revealed to the nondevotees and the common man. Therefore in the Gita Kṛṣṇa says that but for His pure devotees, all men consider Him to be like themselves. He was manifest only to His devotees as the reservoir of all pleasure. But to others, to unintelligent nondevotees, He was covered by His internal potency.

In the prayers of Kuntī in the Srimad–Bhagavatam (1.8.19) it is said that the Lord is covered by the curtain of yoga–maya and thus ordinary people cannot understand Him. This yoga–maya curtain is also confirmed in the Isopanisad (mantra 15), in which the devotee prays:

"O my Lord, You are the maintainer of the entire universe, and devotional service to You is the highest religious principle. Therefore, I pray that You will also maintain me. Your transcendental form is covered by the yoga–maya. The brahmajyoti is the covering of the internal potency. May You kindly remove this glowing effulgence that impedes my seeing Your sac–cid–ānanda–vighraha, Your eternal form of bliss and knowledge."

This yoga–maya curtain is also mentioned in the Fifteenth Chapter of the Gita. The Supreme Personality of Godhead in His transcendental form of bliss and knowledge is covered by the internal potency of the brahmajyoti, and the less intelligent impersonalists cannot see the Supreme on this account. Also in the Srimad–Bhagavatam (10.14.7) there is this prayer by Brahmā: "O Supreme Personality of Godhead, O Supersoul, O master of all mystery, who can calculate Your potency and pastimes in this world? You are always expanding Your internal potency, and therefore no one can understand You. Learned scientists and learned scholars can examine the atomic constitution of the material world or even the planets, but still they are unable to calculate Your energy and potency, although You are present before them." The Supreme Personality of Godhead, Lord Krsna, is not only unborn but also avyaya, inexhaustible. His eternal form is bliss and knowledge, and His energies are all inexhaustible.

TEXT 26

vedaham samatitani

vartamanani carjuna

bhavisyani ca bhutani

mam tu veda na kascana

SYNONYMS

veda—know; aham—I; sama—equally; a titani—past; vartamanani—present; ca—and; arjuna—O Arjuna; bhavisyani—future; ca—also; bhutani—living entities; mam—Me; tu—but; veda—knows; na—not; kascana—anyone.

TRANSLATION

O Arjuna, as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, I know everything that has happened in the past, all that is happening in the present, and all things that are yet to come. I also know all living entities; but Me no one knows.

PURPORT

Here the question of personality and impersonality is clearly stated. If Kṛṣṇa, the form of the Supreme Personality of Godhead, is considered by the impersonalists to be māyā, to be material, then He would, like the living entity, change His body and forget everything in His past life. Anyone with a material body cannot remember his past life, nor can he foretell his future life, nor can he predict the outcome of his present life; therefore he cannot know what is happening in past, present and future. Unless one is liberated from material contamination, he cannot know past, present and future.

Unlike the ordinary human being, Lord Kṛṣṇa clearly says that He completely knows what happened in the past, what is happening in the present, and what will happen in the future. In the Fourth Chapter we have seen that Lord Kṛṣṇa remembers instructing Vivasvan, the sun-god, millions of years ago. Kṛṣṇa knows every living entity because He is situated in every living being's heart as the Supreme Soul. But despite His presence in every living entity as Supersoul and His presence beyond the material sky, as the Supreme Personality of Godhead, the less intelligent cannot realize Him as the Supreme Person. Certainly the transcendental body of Śrī Kṛṣṇa is not perishable. He is just like the sun, and māyā is like the cloud. In the material world we can see that there is the sun and that there are clouds and different stars and planets. The clouds may cover all these in the sky temporarily, but this covering is only apparent to our limited vision. The sun, moon and stars are not actually covered. Similarly, māyā cannot cover the Supreme Lord. By His internal potency He is not manifest to the less intelligent class of men. As it is stated in the third verse of this chapter, out of millions and millions of men, some try to become perfect in this human form of life, and out of thousands and thousands of such perfected men, hardly one can understand what Lord Kṛṣṇa is. Even if one is perfected by realization of impersonal Brahman or localized Paramātmā, he cannot possibly understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead, Śrī Kṛṣṇa, without being in Kṛṣṇa consciousness.

TEXT 27

iccha-dvesa-samutthena

dvandva-mohena bharata

sarva-bhutani sammoham

sarge yanti parantapa

SYNONYMS

iccha—desire; dvesa—hate; samutthena—born; dvandva—duality;
mohena—overcome; bharata—O scion of Bharata; sarva—all; bhutani—living entities;
sammoham—into delusion; sarge—in creation; yanti—go; parantapa—O conqueror of enemies.

TRANSLATION

O scion of Bharata [Arjuna], O conqueror of the foe, all living entities are born into delusion, overcome by the dualities of desire and hate.

PURPORT

The real constitutional position of the living entity is that of subordination to the Supreme Lord, who is pure knowledge. When one is deluded into separation from this pure knowledge, he becomes controlled by illusory energy and cannot understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead. The illusory energy is manifested in the duality of desire and hate. Due to desire and hate, the ignorant person wants to become one with the Supreme Lord and envies Kṛṣṇa as the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Pure devotees, who are not so deluded or contaminated by desire and hate, can understand that Lord Śrī Kṛṣṇa appears by His internal potencies, but those who are deluded by duality and nescience think that the Supreme Personality of Godhead is created by material energies. This is their misfortune. Such deluded persons, symptomatically, dwell in dualities of dishonor and honor, misery and happiness, woman and man, good and bad, pleasure and pain, etc., thinking, "This is my wife; this is my house; I am the master of this house; I am the husband of this wife." These are the dualities of delusion. Those who are so deluded by dualities are completely foolish and therefore cannot understand the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

TEXT 28

yesam tv anta-gatam papam

jananam punya-karmanam

te dvandva-moha-nirmukta

bhajante mam drdha-vratah

SYNONYMS

yesam—whose; tu—but; anta-gatam—completely eradicated; papam—sin;
jananam—of the persons; punya—pious; karmanam—previous activities; te—they;
dvandva—duality; moha—delusion; nirmukta—free from; bhajante—worship;
mam—Me; drdha-vratah—with determination.

TRANSLATION

Persons who have acted piously in previous lives and in this life, whose sinful actions are completely eradicated and who are freed from the duality of delusion, engage themselves in My service with determination.

PURPORT

Those eligible for elevation to the transcendental position are mentioned in this verse. For those who are sinful, atheistic, foolish and deceitful, it is very difficult to transcend the duality of desire and hate. Only those who have passed their lives in practicing the regulative principles of religion, who have acted piously and who have conquered sinful reactions can accept devotional service and gradually rise to the pure knowledge of the Supreme Personality of Godhead. Then, gradually, they can meditate in trance on the Supreme Personality of Godhead. That is the process of being situated on the spiritual platform. This elevation is possible in Kṛṣṇa consciousness in the association of pure devotees who can deliver one from delusion.

It is stated in the Srimad-Bhagavatam (5.5.2) that if one actually wants to be liberated he must render service to the devotees (mahat-sevam dvaram ahur vimukteh); but one who associates with materialistic people is on the path leading to the darkest region of existence (tamo-dvaram yositam sangi-sangam). All the devotees of the Lord traverse this earth just to recover the conditioned souls from their delusion. The impersonalists do not know that forgetting their constitutional position as subordinate to the Supreme Lord is the greatest violation of God's law. Unless one is reinstated in his own constitutional position, it is not possible to understand the Supreme Personality or to be fully engaged in His transcendental loving service with determination.

TEXT 29

jara-marana-moksaya
mam asritya yatanti ye
te brahma tad viduh kṛtsnam
adhyatmam karma cakhilam

SYNONYMS

jara—old age; marana—death; moksaya—for the purpose of liberation; mam—unto Me; asritya—taking shelter of; yatanti—endeavor; ye—all those; te—such persons; brahma—Brahman; tat—actually that; viduh—they know; kṛtsnam—everything; adhyatmam—transcendental; karma—fruitive activities; ca—and; akhila—entirely.

TRANSLATION

Intelligent persons who are endeavoring for liberation from old age and death take refuge in Me in devotional service. They are actually Brahman because they entirely know everything about transcendental and fruitive activities.

PURPORT

Birth, death, old age and diseases affect this material body, but not the spiritual body. There is no birth, death, old age and disease for the spiritual body, so one who attains a spiritual body, becomes one of the associates of the Supreme Personality of Godhead and engages in eternal devotional service, is really liberated. Aham brahmasmi: I am spirit. It is said that one should understand that he is Brahman—spirit soul. This Brahman conception of life is also in devotional service, as described in this verse. The pure devotees are transcendently situated on the Brahman platform, and they know everything about transcendental and material activities.

Four kinds of impure devotees who engage themselves in the transcendental service of the Lord achieve their respective goals, and by the grace of the Supreme Lord, when they are fully Kṛṣṇa conscious, they actually enjoy spiritual association with the Supreme Lord. But those who are worshipers of demigods never reach the Supreme Lord in His supreme planet. Even the less intelligent Brahman—realized persons cannot reach the supreme planet of Kṛṣṇa known as Goloka Vṛndāvana. Only persons who perform activities in Kṛṣṇa consciousness (mām asṛitya) are actually entitled to be called Brahman, because they are actually endeavoring to reach the Kṛṣṇa planet. Such persons have no misgivings about Kṛṣṇa, and thus they are factually Brahman.

Those who are engaged in worshiping the form or arca of the Lord, or who are engaged in meditation on the Lord simply for liberation from material bondage, also know, by the grace of the Lord, the purports of Brahman, adhibhūta, etc., as explained by the Lord in the next chapter.

TEXT 30

sadhibhuta dhidaivam mām

sadhiyajnam ca ye viduh

prayana-kale 'pi ca mam

te vidur yukta-cetasah

SYNONYMS

sa-adhibhuta—the governing principle of the material manifestation; adhidaivam—underlying all the demigods; mam—Me; sa-adhiyajnam—sustaining all sacrifices; ca—and; ye—those; viduh—know; prayana—of death; kale—at the time; api—even; ca—and; mam—Me; te—they; viduh—know; yukta-cetasah—with steadfast minds.

TRANSLATION

Those who know Me as the Supreme Lord, as the governing principle of the material manifestation, who know Me as the one underlying all the demigods and as the one sustaining all sacrifices, can, with steadfast mind, understand and know Me, even at the time of death.

PURPORT

Persons acting in Kṛṣṇa consciousness are never entirely deviated from the path of understanding the Supreme Personality of Godhead. In the transcendental association of Kṛṣṇa consciousness, one can understand how the Supreme Lord is the governing principle of the material manifestation and even of the demigods. Gradually, by such transcendental association, one becomes convinced of the Supreme Personality of Godhead Himself, and at the time of death such a Kṛṣṇa conscious person can never forget Kṛṣṇa. Naturally he is thus promoted to the planet of the Supreme Lord, Goloka Vṛndavana.

This Seventh Chapter particularly explains how one can become a fully Krsna conscious person. The beginning of Krsna consciousness is association of persons who are in Krsna consciousness. Such association is spiritual and puts one directly in touch with the Supreme Lord, and, by His grace, one can understand Krsna to be the Supreme God. At the same time one can really understand the constitutional position of the living entity and how the living entity forgets Krsna and becomes entangled in material activities. By gradual development of Krsna consciousness in good association, the living entity can understand that due to forgetfulness of Krsna he has become conditioned by the laws of material nature. He can also understand that this human form of life is an opportunity to regain Krsna consciousness and that it should be fully utilized to attain the causeless mercy of the Supreme Lord.

Many subjects have been discussed in this chapter: the man in distress, the inquisitive man, the man in want of material necessities, knowledge of Brahman, knowledge of Paramatma, liberation from birth, death and diseases, and worship of the Supreme Lord. However, he who is actually elevated in Krsna consciousness does not care for the different processes. He simply directly engages himself in activities of Krsna consciousness and thereby factually attains his constitutional position as an eternal servitor of Lord Krsna. In such a situation he takes pleasure in hearing and glorifying the Supreme Lord in pure devotional service. He is convinced that by doing so, all his objectives will be fulfilled. This determined faith is called drdha-vrata, and that is the beginning of bhakti-yoga or transcendental loving service. That is the verdict of all scriptures. This Seventh Chapter of the Gita is the substance of that conviction.

Thus end the Bhaktivedanta Purports to the Seventh Chapter of the Srimad Bhagavad-gita in the matter of Knowledge of the Absolute.

Chapter 8

Attaining the Supreme

TEXT 1

arjuna uvaca

kim tad brahma kim adhyatmam

kim karma purusottama

adhibhutam ca kim proktam

adhidaivam kim ucyate

SYNONYMS

arjunah uvaca—Arjuna said; kim—what; tat—that; brahma—Brahman; kim—what; adhyatmam—the self; kim—what; karma—fruitive activities; purusa—uttama—O Supreme Person; adhibhutam—the material manifestation; ca—and; kim—what; proktam—is called; adhidaivam—the demigods; kim—what; ucyate—is called.

TRANSLATION

Arjuna inquired: O my Lord, O Supreme Person, what is Brahman? What is the self? What are fruitive activities? What is this material manifestation? And what are the demigods? Please explain this to me.

PURPORT

In this chapter Lord Kṛṣṇa answers these different questions from Arjuna beginning with, "What is Brahman?" The Lord also explains karma, fruitive activities, devotional service and yoga principles, and devotional service in its pure form. The Srimad-Bhagavatam explains that the Supreme Absolute Truth is known as Brahman, Paramatma, and Bhagavan. In addition, the living entity, individual soul, is also called Brahman. Arjuna also inquires about atma, which refers to body, soul and mind. According to the Vedic dictionary, atma refers to the mind, soul, body and senses also.

Arjuna has addressed the Supreme Lord as Purusottama, Supreme Person, which means that he was putting these questions not simply to a friend but to the Supreme Person, knowing Him to be the supreme authority able to give definitive answers.

TEXT 2

adhiyajñah katham ko 'tra

dehe 'smin madhusudana

prayana-kale ca katham

jñeyo 'si niyatatmabhih

SYNONYMS

adhiyajñah—the Lord of sacrifice; katham—how; kah—who; atra—here; dehe—in the body; asmin—in this; madhusudana—O Madhusudana; prayana-kale—at the time of death; ca—and; katham—how; jñeyah—be known; asi—You can;

niyata—atmabhih—by the self-controlled.

TRANSLATION

How does this Lord of sacrifice live in the body, and in which part does He live, O Madhusudana? And how can those engaged in devotional service know You at the time of death?

PURPORT

"Lord of sacrifice" may refer to either Indra or Visnu. Visnu is the chief of the primal demigods, including Brahma and Siva, and Indra is the chief of the administrative demigods. Both Indra and Visnu are worshiped by yajna performances. But here Arjuna asks who is actually the Lord of yajna (sacrifice) and how is the Lord residing within the body of the living entity.

Arjuna addresses the Lord as Madhusudana because Krsna once killed a demon named Madhu. Actually these questions, which are of the nature of doubts, should not have arisen in the mind of Arjuna because Arjuna is a Krsna conscious devotee. Therefore these doubts are like demons. Since Krsna is so expert in killing demons, Arjuna here addresses Him as Madhusudana so that Krsna might kill the demonic doubts that arise in Arjuna's mind.

Now the word prayana—kale in this verse is very significant because whatever we do in life will be tested at the time of death. Arjuna fears that at the time of death, those who are in Krsna consciousness will forget the Supreme Lord because at such a time body functions are disrupted and the mind may be in a panic-stricken state. Therefore Maharaja Kulasekhara, a great devotee, prays, "My dear Lord, may I die immediately now that I am healthy so that the swan of my mind may enter into the stem of Thy lotus feet." This metaphor is used because the swan often takes pleasure in entering the stem of the lotus flower—similarly, the mind of the pure devotee is drawn to the lotus feet of the Lord. Maharaja Kulasekhara fears that at the moment of death his throat will be so choked up that he will not be able to chant the holy names, so it is better to "die immediately." Arjuna questions how one's mind can remain fixed on Krsna's lotus feet at such times.

TEXT 3

sri-bhagavan uvaca

aksaram brahma paramam

svabhavo 'dhyatmam ucyate

bhuta-bhavodbhava-karo

visargah karma-samjnitah

SYNONYMS

sri-bhagavan uvaca—the Supreme Personality of Godhead said;
aksaram—indestructible; brahma—Brahman; paramam—transcendental;
svabhava—eternal nature; adhyatmam—the self; ucyate—is called;
bhuta-bhava-udbhava-karah—action producing the material bodies of the living entities; visargah—creation; karma—fruitive activities; samjnitah—is called.

TRANSLATION

The Supreme Lord said: The indestructible, transcendental living entity is called Brahman and his eternal nature is called the self. Action pertaining to the development of these material bodies is called karma, or fruitive activities.

PURPORT

Brahman is indestructible and eternally existing, and its constitution is not changed at any time. Beyond Brahman there is Parabrahman. Brahman refers to the living entity, and Parabrahman refers to the Supreme Personality of Godhead. The constitutional position of the living entity is different from the position he takes in the material world. In material consciousness, his nature is to try to be the lord of matter, but in spiritual (Kṛṣṇa) consciousness, his position is to serve the Supreme. When the living entity is in material consciousness, he has to take on various bodies in the material world. That is called karma, or varied creation by the force of material consciousness.

In Vedic literature the living entity is called jivatma and Brahman, but he is never called Parabrahman. The living entity (jivatma) takes different positions—sometimes he merges into the dark material nature and identifies himself with matter, and sometimes he identifies himself with the superior spiritual nature. Therefore he is called the Supreme Lord's marginal energy. According to his identification with material or spiritual nature, he receives a material or spiritual body. In material nature he may take a body from any of the 8,400,000 species of life, but in spiritual nature he has only one body. In material nature he is sometimes manifested as a man, demigod, animal, beast, bird, etc., according to his karma. To attain material heavenly planets and enjoy their facilities, he sometimes performs sacrifices (yajña), but when his merit is exhausted, he returns to earth again in the form of a man.

In the process of sacrifice, the living entity makes specific sacrifices to attain specific heavenly planets and consequently reaches them. When the merit of sacrifice is exhausted, then the living entity descends to earth in the form of rain, then takes on the form of grains, and the grains are eaten by man and transformed into semen, which impregnates a woman, and thus the living entity once again attains the human form to perform sacrifice and so repeat the same cycle. In this way, the living entity perpetually comes and goes on the material path. The Kṛṣṇa conscious person, however, avoids such sacrifices. He takes directly to Kṛṣṇa consciousness and thereby prepares himself to return to Godhead.

Impersonalist commentators on the Gita unreasonably assume that Brahman takes the form of jiva in the material world, and to substantiate this they refer to Chapter Fifteen, verse 7, of the Gita. But this verse also speaks of the living entity as "an eternal fragment of Myself." The fragment of God, the living entity, may fall down into the material world, but the Supreme Lord (Acyuta) never falls down. Therefore this assumption that the Supreme Brahman assumes the form of jiva is not acceptable. It is important to remember that in Vedic literature Brahman (the living entity) is distinguished from Parabrahman (the Supreme Lord).

TEXT 4

adhibhutam ksaro bhavah

purusas cadhidaivatam

adhiyajno 'ham evatra

dehe deha-bhrtam vara

SYNONYMS

adhibhutam—the physical manifestation; ksarah—constantly changing; bhavah—nature; purusah—the universal form; ca—and; adhidaivatam—including all demigods like the sun and moon; adhiyajnah—the Supersoul; aham—I (Krsna); eva—certainly; atra—in this; dehe—body; deha-bhrtam—of the embodied; vara—the Supreme.

TRANSLATION

Physical nature is known to be endlessly mutable. The universe is the cosmic form of the Supreme Lord, and I am that Lord represented as the Supersoul, dwelling in the heart of every embodied being.

PURPORT

The physical nature is constantly changing. Material bodies generally pass through six stages: they are born, they grow, they remain for some duration, they produce some by-products, they dwindle, and then they vanish. This physical nature is called adhibhuta. Because it is created at a certain point and will be annihilated at a certain point, the conception of the universal form of the Supreme Lord that includes all demigods and their different planets is called adhidaivata. The individual soul (jiva) accompanies the body. The Supersoul, a plenary representation of Lord Kṛṣṇa, is called the Paramatma or adhiyajña and is situated in the heart. The word eva is particularly important in the context of this verse because by this word the Lord stresses that the Paramatma is not different from Him. The Supersoul, the Supreme Personality of Godhead, seated beside the individual soul, is the witness of the individual soul's activities and is the source of consciousness. The Supersoul gives the jīva an opportunity to act freely, and He witnesses his activities. The functions of all these different manifestations of the Supreme Lord automatically become clarified for the pure Kṛṣṇa conscious devotee engaged in transcendental service of the Lord. The gigantic universal form of the Lord called adhidaivata is contemplated by the neophyte who cannot approach the Supreme Lord in His manifestation as Supersoul. The neophyte is advised to contemplate the universal form whose legs are considered the lower planets and whose eyes are considered the sun and moon, and whose head is considered the upper planetary system.

TEXT 5

anta—kale ca mam eva

smaran muktva kalevaram

yah prayati sa mad—bhavam

yati nasty atra samsayah

SYNONYMS

anta—kale—at the end of life; ca—also; mam—unto Me; eva—certainly;
smaran—remembering; muktva—quitting; kalevaram—the body; yah—he who;
prayati—goes; sah—he; mat—bhavam—My nature; yati—achieves; na—not;
asti—there is; atra—here; samsayah—doubt.

TRANSLATION

And whoever, at the time of death, quits his body, remembering Me alone, at once attains My nature. Of this there is no doubt.

PURPORT

In this verse the importance of Kṛṣṇa consciousness is stressed. Anyone who quits his body in Kṛṣṇa consciousness is at once transferred to the transcendental abode of the Supreme Lord. The word smaran ("remembering") is important. Remembrance of Kṛṣṇa is not possible for the impure soul who has not practiced Kṛṣṇa consciousness in devotional service. To remember Kṛṣṇa one should chant the maha–mantra, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare, incessantly, following in the footsteps of Lord Caitanya, being more tolerant than a tree, humbler than the grass and offering all respect to others without requiring respect in return. In such a way one will be able to depart from the body successfully remembering Kṛṣṇa and so attain the supreme goal.

TEXT 6

yam yam vapi smaran bhavam

tyajaty ante kalevaram

tam tam evaiti kaunteya

sada tad–bhava–bhavitah

SYNONYMS

yam yam—whatever; va—either; api—also; smaran—remembering; bhavam—nature; tyajati—give up; ante—at the end; kalevaram—this body; tam tam—similar; eva—certainly; eti—gets; kaunteya—O son of Kunti; sada—always; tat—that; bhava—state of being; bhavitah—remembering.

TRANSLATION

Whatever state of being one remembers when he quits his body, that state he will attain without fail.

PURPORT

The process of changing one's nature at the critical moment of death is here explained. How can one die in the proper state of mind? Maharaja Bharata thought of a deer at the time of death and so was transferred to that form of life. However, as a deer, Maharaja Bharata could remember his past activities. Of course the cumulative effect of the thoughts and actions of one's life influences one's thoughts at the moment of death; therefore the actions of this life determine one's future state of being. If one is transcendently absorbed in Kṛṣṇa's service, then his next body will be transcendental (spiritual), not physical. Therefore the chanting of Hare Kṛṣṇa is the best process for successfully changing one's state of being to transcendental life.

TEXT 7

tasmat sarvesu kalesu

mam anusmara yudhya ca

mayy arpita—mano—buddhir

mam evaisyasy asamsayah

SYNONYMS

tasmat—therefore; sarvesu—always; kalesu—time; mam—unto Me; anusmara—go on remembering; yudhya—fight; ca—also; mayi—unto Me; arpita—surrender; manah—mind; buddhih—intellect; mam—unto Me; eva—surely; esyasi—will attain; asamsayah—beyond a doubt.

TRANSLATION

Therefore, Arjuna, you should always think of Me in the form of Krsna and at the same time carry out your prescribed duty of fighting. With your activities dedicated to Me and your mind and intelligence fixed on Me, you will attain Me without doubt.

PURPORT

This instruction to Arjuna is very important for all men engaged in material activities. The Lord does not say that one should give up his prescribed duties or engagements. One can continue them and at the same time think of Krsna by chanting Hare Krsna. This will free one from material contamination and engage the mind and intelligence in Krsna. By chanting Krsna's names, one will be transferred to the supreme planet, Krsnaloka, without a doubt.

TEXT 8

abhyasa-yoga-yuktena

cetasa nanya-gamina

paramam purusam divyam

yati parthanucintayan

SYNONYMS

abhyasa—practice; yoga-yuktena—being engaged in meditation; cetasa—by the mind and intelligence; na anya-gamina—without their being deviated; paramam—the Supreme; purusam—Personality of Godhead; divyam—transcendental; yati—achieves; partha—O son of Prtha; anucintayan—constantly thinking of.

TRANSLATION

He who meditates on the Supreme Personality of Godhead, his mind constantly engaged in remembering Me, undeviated from the path, he, O Partha [Arjuna], is sure to reach Me.

PURPORT

In this verse Lord Kṛṣṇa stresses the importance of remembering Him. One's memory of Kṛṣṇa is revived by chanting the maha-mantra, Hare Kṛṣṇa. By this practice of chanting and hearing the sound vibration of the Supreme Lord, one's ear, tongue and mind are engaged. This mystic meditation is very easy to practice, and it helps one attain the Supreme Lord. Purusam means enjoyer. Although living entities belong to the marginal energy of the Supreme Lord, they are in material contamination. They think themselves enjoyers, but they are not the supreme enjoyer. Here it is clearly stated that the supreme enjoyer is the Supreme Personality of Godhead in His different manifestations and plenary expansions as Narayana, Vasudeva, etc.

The devotees can constantly think of the object of worship, the Supreme Lord, in any of His features—Narayana, Kṛṣṇa, Rama, etc., by chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa. This practice will purify him, and at the end of his life, due to his constant chanting, he will be transferred to the kingdom of God. Yoga practice is meditation on the Supersoul within; similarly, by chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa one fixes his mind always on the Supreme Lord. The mind is fickle, and therefore it is necessary to engage the mind by force to think of Kṛṣṇa. One example often given is that of the caterpillar that thinks of becoming a butterfly and so is transformed into a butterfly in the same life. Similarly, if we constantly think of Kṛṣṇa, it is certain that at the end of our lives we shall have the same bodily constitution as Kṛṣṇa.

TEXT 9

kavim puranam anusasitaram

anor aniyamsam anusmared yah

sarvasya dhataram acintya-rupam

aditya-varnam tamasah parastat

SYNONYMS

kavim—one who knows everything; puranam—the oldest; anusasitaram—the controller; anoh—of the atom; aniyamsam—smaller than; anusmaret—always thinking; yah—one who; sarvasya—of everything; dhataram—the maintainer; acintya—inconceivable; rupam—form; aditya-varnam—illuminated like the sun; tamasah—of the darkness; parastat—transcendental.

TRANSLATION

One should meditate upon the Supreme Person as the one who knows everything, as He who is the oldest, who is the controller, who is smaller than the smallest, who is the maintainer of everything, who is beyond all material conception, who is inconceivable, and who is always a person. He is luminous like the sun and, being transcendental, is beyond this material nature.

PURPORT

The process of thinking of the Supreme is mentioned in this verse. The foremost point is that He is not impersonal or void. One cannot meditate on something impersonal or void. That is very difficult. The process of thinking of Kṛṣṇa, however, is very easy and is factually stated herein. First of all, He is puruṣa, spiritual, Rama and Kṛṣṇa, and is described herein as kavim; that is, He knows past, present and future and therefore knows everything. He is the oldest personality because He is the origin of everything; everything is born out of Him. He is also the supreme controller of the universe, maintainer and instructor of humanity. He is smaller than the smallest. The living entity is one ten-thousandth part of the tip of a hair, but the Lord is so inconceivably small that He enters into the heart of this particle. Therefore He is called smaller than the smallest. As the Supreme, He can enter into the atom and into the heart of the smallest and control him as the Supersoul. Although so small, He is still all-pervading and is maintaining everything. By Him all these planetary systems are sustained. We often wonder how these big planets are floating in the air. It is stated here that the Supreme Lord, by His inconceivable energy, is sustaining all these big planets and systems of galaxies. The word acintya (inconceivable) is very significant in this connection. God's energy is beyond our conception, beyond our thinking jurisdiction, and is therefore called inconceivable (acintya). Who can argue this point? He pervades this material world and yet is beyond it. We cannot even comprehend this material world, which is insignificant compared to the spiritual world—so how can we comprehend what is beyond? Acintya means that which is beyond this material world, that which our argument, logic and philosophical speculation cannot touch, that which is inconceivable. Therefore intelligent persons, avoiding useless argument and speculation, should accept what is stated in scriptures like the Vedas, Gita and Srimad-Bhagavatam and follow the principles they set down. This will lead one to understanding.

TEXT 10

prayana-kale manasacalena

bhakti-yukto yoga-balena caiva

bhruvor madhye pranam avesya samyak

sa tam param purusam upaiti divyam

SYNONYMS

prayana—kale—at the time of death; manasa—by the mind; acalena—without being deviated; bhaktya—in full devotion; yukta—engaged; yoga—balena—by the power of mystic yoga; ca—also; eva—certainly; bhruvoh—between the two eyebrows; madhye—in; pranam—the life air; avesya—establishing; samyak—completely; sah—he; tam—that; param—transcendental; purusam—Personality of Godhead; upaiti—achieves; divyam—in the spiritual kingdom.

TRANSLATION

One who, at the time of death, fixes his life air between the eyebrows and in full devotion engages himself in remembering the Supreme Lord, will certainly attain to the Supreme Personality of Godhead.

PURPORT

In this verse it is clearly stated that at the time of death the mind must be fixed in devotion on the Supreme Godhead. For those practiced in yoga, it is recommended that they raise the life force between the eyebrows, but for a pure devotee who does not practice such yoga, the mind should always be engaged in Kṛṣṇa consciousness so that at death he can remember the Supreme by His grace. This is explained in verse fourteen.

The particular use of the word yoga—balena is significant in this verse because without practice of yoga one cannot come to this transcendental state of being at the time of death. One cannot suddenly remember the Supreme Lord at death unless he is practiced in some yoga system, especially the system of bhakti-yoga. Since one's mind at death is very disturbed, one should practice transcendence through yoga during one's life.

TEXT 11

yad aksaram veda—vido vadanti

visanti yad yatayo vita—ragah

yad icchanto brahmacaryam caranti

tat te padam sangraheṇa pravaksye

SYNONYMS

yat—that which; aksaram—inexhaustible; veda—vidah—a person conversant with the Vedas; vadanti—say; visanti—enters; yat—in which; yatayah—great sages; vita—ragah—in the renounced order of life; yat—that which; icchantah—desiring; brahmacaryam—celibacy; caranti—practices; tat—that; te—unto you; padam—situation; sangraheṇa—in summary; pravaksye—I shall explain.

TRANSLATION

Persons learned in the Vedas, who utter omkara and who are great sages in the renounced order, enter into Brahman. Desiring such perfection, one practices celibacy. I shall now explain to you this process by which one may attain salvation.

PURPORT

Lord Kṛṣṇa explains that Brahman, although one without a second, has different manifestations and features. For the impersonalists, the syllable om is identical with Brahman. Kṛṣṇa here explains the impersonal Brahman, in which the renounced order of sages enter.

In the Vedic system of knowledge, students, from the very beginning, are taught to vibrate om and learn of the ultimate impersonal Brahman by living with the spiritual master in complete celibacy. In this way they realize two of Brahman's features. This practice is very essential for the student's advancement in spiritual life, but at the moment such brahmachari (unmarried celibate) life is not at all possible. The social construction of the world has changed so much that there is no possibility of one's practicing celibacy from the beginning of student life. Throughout the world there are many institutions for different departments of knowledge, but there is no recognized institution where students can be educated in the brahmachari principles. Unless one practices celibacy, advancement in spiritual life is very difficult. Therefore Lord Caitanya has announced, according to the scriptural injunctions for this Age of Kali, that no process of realizing the Supreme is possible except the chanting of the holy name of Lord Kṛṣṇa: Hare Kṛṣṇa, Hare Kṛṣṇa, Kṛṣṇa Kṛṣṇa, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare.

TEXT 12

sarva—dvarani samyamya

mano hr̥di nirudhya ca

murdhny adhayatmanah pranam

asthito yoga—dharanam

SYNONYMS

sarva—dvarani—all the doors of the body; samyamya—controlling; manah—mind; hr̥di—in the heart; nirudhya—confined; ca—also; murdhni—on the head; adhaya—fixed; atmanah—soul; pranam—the life air; asthitah—situated; yoga—dharanam—the yogic situation.

TRANSLATION

The yogic situation is that of detachment from all sensual engagements. Closing all the doors of the senses and fixing the mind on the heart and the life air at the top of the head, one establishes himself in yoga.

PURPORT

To practice yoga, as suggested here, one first has to close the door of all sense enjoyment. This practice is called pratyahara, or withdrawing the senses from the sense objects. The sense organs for acquiring knowledge, such as the eyes, ears, nose, tongue and touch, should be fully controlled and should not be allowed to engage in self-gratification. In this way the mind focuses on the Supersoul in the heart and the life force is raised to the top of the head. In the Sixth Chapter this process is described in detail. But as mentioned before, this practice is not practical in this age. The best process is Kṛṣṇa consciousness. If one is always able to fix his mind on Kṛṣṇa in devotional service, it is very easy for him to remain in an undisturbed transcendental trance, or in samadhi.

TEXT 13

om ity ekaksaram brahma

vyaharan mam anusmaran

yah prayati tyajan deham

sa yati paramam gatim

SYNONYMS

om—the combination of letters om (omkara); iti—thus; eka—aksaram—supreme, indestructible; brahma—absolute; vyaharan—vibrating; mam—Me (Krsna); anusmaran—remembering; yah—anyone; prayati—leaves; tyajan—quitting; deham—this body; sah—he; yati—achieves; paramam—supreme; gatim—destination.

TRANSLATION

After being situated in this yoga practice and vibrating the sacred syllable om, the supreme combination of letters, if one thinks of the Supreme Personality of Godhead and quits his body, he will certainly reach the spiritual planets.

PURPORT

It is clearly stated here that om, Brahman, and Lord Krsna are not different. The impersonal sound of Krsna is om, but the sound Hare Krsna contains om. It is clearly recommended in this age that if one quits his body at the end of this life chanting the maha-mantra, Hare Krsna, he will reach the spiritual planets. Similarly, those who are devotees of Krsna enter the Krsna planet or Goloka Vrndavana, whereas the impersonalists remain in the brahmajyoti. The personalists also enter many innumerable planets in the spiritual sky known as Vaikunthas.

TEXT 14

ananya-cetaḥ satatam

yo mam smarati nityaśaḥ

tasyaḥam sulabhaḥ partha

nitya-yuktasya yoginah

SYNONYMS

ananya-cetah—without deviation; satatam—always; yah—anyone; mam—Me (Kṛṣṇa); smarati—remembers; nityasah—regularly; tasya—to him; aham—I am; su-labhah—very easy to achieve; partha—O son of Prthā; nitya—regularly; yuktasya—engaged; yoginah—of the devotee.

TRANSLATION

For one who remembers Me without deviation, I am easy to obtain, O son of Prthā, because of his constant engagement in devotional service.

PURPORT

In this verse the bhakti-yoga of the unalloyed devotees of the Supreme Godhead is described. The proceeding verses mention four different kinds of devotees—the distressed, the inquisitive, those who seek material gain, and the speculative philosophers. Different processes of liberation from material entanglement have also been described: karma-yoga, jñāna-yoga, and hatha-yoga. But here bhakti-yoga, without any mixture of these, is mentioned. In bhakti-yoga the devotees desire nothing but Kṛṣṇa. The pure bhakti devotee does not desire promotion to heavenly planets, nor does he seek salvation or liberation from material entanglement. A pure devotee does not desire anything. In the Caitanya-caritamṛta the pure devotee is called niskama, which means he has no desire for self-interest. Perfect peace belongs to him alone, not to those who strive for personal gain. The pure devotee only wants to please the Supreme Lord, and so the Lord says that for anyone who is unflinchingly devoted to Him, He is easy to attain. The devotee can render service to any of the transcendental forms of the Supreme Lord, and he meets with none of the problems that plague the practitioners of other yogas. Bhakti-yoga is very simple and pure and easy to perform. One can begin simply by chanting Hare Kṛṣṇa.

Krsna is very merciful to those who engage in His service, and He helps in various ways that devotee who has fully surrendered to Him so that he can understand Him as He is. The Lord gives such a devotee sufficient intelligence so that ultimately the devotee can attain Him in His spiritual kingdom.

The special qualification of the pure devotee is that he is always thinking of Krsna without considering the time or place. There should be no impediments. He should be able to carry out his service anywhere and at any time. Some say that the devotee should remain in holy places like Vrndavana or some holy town where the Lord lived, but a pure devotee can live anywhere and create the atmosphere of Vrndavana by his devotional service. It was Sri Advaita who told Lord Caitanya, "Wherever You are, O Lord—there is Vrndavana."

A pure devotee constantly remembers Krsna and meditates upon Him. These are qualifications of the pure devotee for whom the Lord is most easily attainable. Bhakti-yoga is the system that the Gita recommends above all others. Generally, the bhakti-yogis are engaged in five different ways: 1) santa-bhakta, engaged in devotional service in neutrality; 2) dasya-bhakta, engaged in devotional service as servant; 3) sakhya-bhakta, engaged as friend; 4) vatsalya-bhakta, engaged as parent; and 5) madhurya-bhakta, engaged as conjugal lover of the Supreme Lord. In any of these ways, the pure devotee is always constantly engaged in the transcendental loving service of the Supreme Lord and cannot forget the Supreme Lord, and so for him the Lord is easily attained. A pure devotee cannot forget the Supreme Lord for a moment, and similarly, the Supreme Lord cannot forget His pure devotee for a moment. This is the great blessing of the Krsna conscious process of chanting the maha-mantra—Hare Krsna, Hare Krsna, Krsna Krsna, Hare Hare/ Hare Rama, Hare Rama, Rama Rama, Hare Hare.

TEXT 15

mam upetya punar janma

duhkhalayam asasvatam

napnuvanti mahatmanah

samsiddhim paramam gatah

SYNONYMS

mam—unto Me; upetya—achieving; punah—again; janma—birth; duhkha-alayam—a place of miseries; asasvatam—temporary; na—never; apnuvanti—attain; maha-atmanah—the great souls; samsiddhim—perfection; paramam—ultimate; gatah—achieved.

TRANSLATION

